LBJ Urges Farm Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson urged Congress today to make permanent the backbone of his farm-aid program—authority to pay farmers billions of dollars annually for idling land not needed for crops. He predicted sharp declines in crop prices if the program isn't extended.

The program, highly controversial in Congress and among farm groups, is likely to become a major farm issue in this year's presidential election campaign.

Development of better federal programs in job training for the rural unemployed and underemployed. Johnson said the farmer's share in the country's prosperity. "His income lags. It is less than two-thirds the per capita income of the city dweller," he said.

Cooperation among city and rural folk to build a "shining and peaceful" America. In the face of Communist offensives in Vietnam, the President said that in this country there must be "no retreat from responsibility."

Johnson Visiting In Dallas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson visited Dallas today for the first time since the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and driving to the Memorial Auditorium where he spoke, passed within sight of the Texas Schoolbook Depository where Kennedy died.

Johnson flew to Dallas without advance announcement to the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association convention. In his speech, he emphasized two themes: Cooperation among city and rural folk to build a "shining and peaceful" America.

Communist Tanks Reported Only 50 Miles from Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — Communist tanks were reported Monday night only 50 miles northwest of Saigon in their deepest penetration of South Vietnam.

South Vietnamese military headquarters said a force of 60 tanks, irregulars and their U.S. Special Forces advisers came on a column of three tanks and a half-tracked armored personnel carrier near the Cambodian border.

The U.S. Command identified the vehicles only as "armored vehicles of an unspecified type" accompanied by an estimated battalion—about 400 men—of enemy troops.

The appearance of Communist armored forces in the area and so far south raised the possibility of a menacing new enemy buildup along the Cambodian border. Previously the presence of enemy tanks had been confirmed only in the northwestern part of the country, near the U.S. Marine combat base at Khe Sanh.

The U.S. Command said the allied forces blew up one of the vehicles with antitank rockets and the explosion killed 30 enemy soldiers.

Some South Vietnamese sources said there were reports the tanks were Russian T-54s, a World War II weapon.

The U.S. Command said that after nearly two hours of fighting, the vehicles that were still mobile and the remainder of the enemy force broke contact and fled to the west, presumably to Cambodia.

Coventry Finance Board Again Tables Plans for a Central Office

The Board of Finance has once again tabled plans for the central office building, causing another delay in getting the question before a town meeting. The tabling motion passed by a 52 vote, with John Allen and Richard Coughlin against and Peter Van Dine, Nelson Beards, Malcolm Erb, Arthur Blodgett and James Ryan in favor.

There was no discussion, and when asked the reason for the tabling action, Chairman Van Dine said, "You'd have to check on the other meeting," referring to the meeting last year when the question was first tabled. Van Dine said at that time there was "no real necessity" to put up such a building. The vote at that time was the same as that at last night's meeting.

The whole central office question has become something of a merry-go-round since the Board of Finance early last year appropriated $200 for preliminary plans for the project at the request of the Board of Education.

When building committee chairman William Miller returned to the finance board with the preliminary scheme, it was tabled. Board of Finance approval is needed before such a project can be undertaken, though the town board should decide the question. But the majority of the finance board apparently didn't agree, and though Coughlin said he didn't see "any real necessity" for the building, committee in a house to be, then throw it in their faces."

Estimated $40,000 cost since that first tabling action, the board has tabled the question again. Mayor John Rotzner, who said the question could be taken to a town meeting at the direct request of the selectmen, bypassing Board of Finance approval, but under this condition, the method of financing the project would have to be by bonding alone.

The selectmen decided to give the Board of Finance another opportunity to act on the question, since bonding the entire project is not part of the original proposal suggested by the school board.

The Board of Education has available to it special funds.

Moss Against U.S. Curbing News on War

The Board of Finance last night approved a request from First Selectman Michael Pese, who is also town foreman, for an additional $1900 in the snow removal account. Pese explained that the extra funds are needed because of many, many snowfalls. The Board of Finance last night approved the request, and the Board of Finance early last year appropriated $200 for preliminary plans for the project at the request of the Board of Education.

School Board Wary Over Role in CREC

While not wishing to withdraw from membership in the Capitol Region Education Council (CREC), the Manchester School Board last night reached a consensus that it cannot financially support the council during the 1968-69 school year.

The effect of the informal agreement was that the board would not vote on the merger until after the school year begins. The board also agreed to study the merger more fully during the year.

John Allison, who appeared before the board last night, said that the merger would be a catalyst and help coordinate development of cooperative educational programs.

Foreign Policy Group Decides Future Topics

Some of the great decisions facing our nation and the world will be studied and discussed by the Foreign Policy Group.

The nationwide Great Decisions program of the Foreign Policy Association is in its 14th year, and is sponsored in Manchester this year by the YWCA.

Under the merger proposal, each CREC member town would be assessed for costs of administration on the basis of the number of pupils in the school system.

Bolton Ooops! Net Grand List Really $13.3 Million

Chalk it down to spring, the good that appeared in the Bolton column yesterday.

The net taxable Grand List for the year 1967 should read $13,326,294, before corrections. The figure given yesterday, $11,306,300, was for real estate only.

This week's topic "Brazil, Key to Latin America's Future" will be discussed tomorrow at the home of Mrs. Mark Kravitz, 22 Wylie St.

Hebron Safe Cracking Joins List Of Growing Weekend Breaks

A safe cracking at Manchester, breaking and entering at Hebron, and a bank check book were stolen, over the weekend after burglar entered through a rear window and cut a large hole in a wire fence to get away with the truck.

The truck was found abandoned at nearby yesterday morning. Police officers were called to the scene and a search was made.

Additional entries were made at Hartford Road Enterprises, 278 Hartford Rd., Morarty Chevrolet, 270 Hartford Rd., the Furnish Super Mart at Hartford Rd. and Pine St., and several homes at 218 Lakewood Rd. and 200 Mountain Rd.

Police Forces Across U.S. Seen Favoring 'Get Tough'

Los Angeles Times — acceptance of violence and death in the resolution of problems.

The SRC report, prepared by staffers Paul Walters and William Boggs, has an on-the-scene study and interviews with numerous witnesses, suggested the violent student demonstrations at Orangeburg could have been quelled through the use of tear gas or a stronger chemical irritant such as MACE.

After an Atlanta policeman killed a Negro with a blast of 00 buckshot last year during the emergency in the state capital, a national tendency toward "get tough" police and a response to Negro unrest with massive police and military force.

12th Circuit Court Cases

MANCHESTER SESSION
Edward W. White, 17, of 20 Mountain Rd., Rockville, charged with taking a motor vehicle without the owner's permission.

On a charge of operating a motor vehicle while his license was under suspension, second offense, he pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 15 days in jail.

Frank J. Roblin, 17, of Wapping, charged with larceny of less than $25, was continued to March 14 and was referred to the family relations division to determine eligibility for juvenile court.

Birth Rate Record Low Last Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. birth rate dropped to a record low last year, possibly because of the growing cost of rearing and educating children.

The National Center for Health Statistics reported that 17.9 live births per 1,000 population in 1967. The previous low of 18.4 per 1,000 was recorded in the depression years of 1933 and 1936 and again in 1966.

Robert C. Cook, president of the Population Reference Bureau, predicted still another decline for 1968, but he discounted the development of new contraceptive methods as the major factor.

Signals Over!

It is something of a shock, after years of reading about the terrible problem of Japan as a nation, that the Japanese population may now be too dense for its territory, and years of living with the aftermath of Japan's efforts to compensate its war conditions by organizing itself an empire, to come across the news that Japan is now disturbed because its birth rate is falling.

Japan's 100,000,000 population has, for the past decade, been increasing only at the rate of one per cent or less a year, as compared with annual growth rates of two or three per cent in other Asian countries.

One conditioned to all the previous discussion of the problems of Japan might make the mistake of welcoming such news, as if it were evidence that Japan has somehow managed to solve the problem. Experts on the world population explosion say we must continue life on earth possible and desirable.

Not so. The news of falling birth rates in Japan is apparently bad news for Japan, one which is of serious concern to the national leadership. It seems that, if the birth rate continues low, Japan will begin to suffer a labor shortage in all those industries which are trying to build up in order to win a broad and better way in the world for its over-population. What was supposed to be good news for the Japanese, it seems, which is par for our world in our time.

That's Plea And Our Answer

The only visible activity in the interest of peace in Vietnam, undertaken by somebody the world has reason to trust, is that of United Nations Secretary-General U Thant.

Last week he completed a tour of world capitals with a visit to President Johnson and Secretary Rusk at Washington. The Secretary-General's statement to the press in which he summarized his own conclusions after his round-the-world discussions.

The impact of his statement was less than it should have been, considering that what has been trying to do does represent the only visible chance of ending the war in Vietnam by negotiation. But the man representing the only visible hope the world has at the moment did not have much impact with his statement Saturday, for he was becoming himself had no clearly seasonal developments or changes in position to report.

On the plus side, he had proof that North Vietnam is at least interested in keeping the idea of negotiations alive, and has been making slight positive adjustments in its conditions for talks, as if trying to get Washington to make the most striking development on the negative side is the Secretary-General's new emphasis on the role of American spokesmen, he said, "that both the United States and the Soviet Union are firmly determined to prevent the defeat of the enemy by force, and that the trend continues, the conclusion is inescapable that there will be continued intensification and escalation of the conflict."

In this remark, Secretary General Thant was apparently reflecting the mood he found in Moscow, which has, during the past year, shown some apparent willingness to try to broker peace between the United States and North Vietnam toward a more open and freer relationship with the North Vietnamese war effort.

The fact that there seems little doubt about the validity of this, the biggest negative point in the Thant report, leads to some urgency of consideration of what he still had to say about the possibilities for negotiation.

"Everywhere," he said, "I found a genuine desire to bring this tragic conflict to an end. The increased intensity of the hostilities during the past few weeks should not lead to the conclusion that the door is closed for negotiations."

"In my view, the indispensable first step of ending all bombing and other acts of war against the Democratic Republic of Vietnam should be taken and could be taken without too great a military risk. If such a step were to be taken, I am more than ever convinced that meaningful talks will take place much earlier than is generally supposed, even perhaps within a matter of a few days."

Later on, at the conclusion of his statement, Secretary General Thant said the great emotional, human, and rational case for a reach toward peace even under conditions which might require giving on somebody's good faith.

"The world," he said, "is anguished and sickened by the continued intensity and savagery of the war. It is heartrending to witness the agony of the innocent civilians who cannot possibly know what it is all about. Also the military casualties steadily mount. The signs of the war is matches only by its futility. There can be no victory, no defeat, only more suffering, more death and more destruction. The very survival of Vietnam is at stake. It is time to call a halt."

In all this, Secretary General Thant still points primarily to the United States - saying it is known that the bombing of North Vietnam which both he and North Vietnam have consistently said would lead to talks. But the kind of risk the present leadership of this country is prepared to take is the risk which lies in the opposite direction - that of the maximum escalation of bombing of North Vietnam which is now in progress, or more of the same

The things Democratic National and State Chairman John Bailey sometimes has to go through because of the routine routine of his position are being against him, as in any valid field to his actual influence and awareness in his chosen profession.

Three days after Senator McCarty had invaded Bailey's own state of Connecticut, and challenged, with his Westport office, the regular organization gathering Bailey had going on the same night in Hartford, there was a special special Congressional election down in Brooklyn. It was a race between two Democrats, one of whom supported President Johnson, the other of whom was supported by Senator McCarty, with Vietnam still in the air.

The candidate supporting President Johnson actually supported him on that night. Even he called for a pause in the bombing, for instance, in his campaign. In the Brooklyn voting result, the organization candidate lost. In Senatorial elections, the insurgent candidate supported by Senator McCarty, "O'Day," won.

The result of the election, which the candidate who we refer to as the "insurgent" candidate had made in his position. The result, Bailey proclaimed, was to "clear the air" of the political scene of the "insurgent" candidate.

While Chairman Bailey really knew and thought, we would insist, was that President Johnson could not survive very long in the position of this character. If there could be this kind of a split in the Democratic ranks, it would mean that the power of a district where the Republican party was so insignificant as to be almost invisible, only 4,900 votes, what national precedent in the country would be set? It would mean that the slightest chance of carrying? How many election districts are there in the country where there

Inside Report
 By Rowland Evans Jr.
 Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON - Heightened fighting and U.S. casualties in Vietnam have put President Johnson in an aggressive martial mood, privately vowing his muffled determination to gain his objectives there no matter what force of arms is required.

To the alarm of some intimates inside the Administration, the President never before has been so indignant about the absolute rightness of his policies. In long Johnsonesque monologues these days, he is praising the soldiers and denouncing the war correspondents, emphasizing the shoring up and de-emphasizing pacification, downgrading McNamara, and exhorting Westland to enter the village by way of tunnels and over the top.

As one Presidential adviser told us: "The President is talking today more and more like his commander-in-chief, less and less like a civilian President."

The future will determine whether this new Presidential mood heralds still steeper escalation of the war or is simply a way of letting off steam during a time of national anguish. One Congressional leader who confers regularly with Mr. Johnson says this way, whatever the President may say, he has done nothing to escalate the war. He has done nothing to escalate the war. He has done nothing to escalate the war.

Nevertheless, the current White House mood evoked by the President hints at major new war measures. For example, in referring to specific escalation steps advocated by Westmoreland, Mr. Johnson says he may give the General "more than he has asked" in the way of authority to prosecute the war.

His interest in non-military aspects of the war simultaneously has declined. Before the January offensive by the Vietcong and the Communist legions of North Vietnam, Mr. Johnson used to discuss at great length claims of progress in the pacification program, sending troops from the pacification chief in Saigon, Ambassador Robert Kennan. No more of that today.

Instead, Mr. Johnson's statistics, poured out in profusion, are the battle statistics of men killed and wounded, correct down to the last digit.

Moreover, the President reveals in his personal contacts with the men in uniform, and in his conversations with troops he has met, that he is not at all satisfied with the way the war is being conducted. He is not at all satisfied with the way the war is being conducted. He is not at all satisfied with the way the war is being conducted.

Some time within the next few weeks you may hear the harsh honking of the Canada geese as they fly in V formation, headed for their summer homes in Canada. The Canada geese are not only flying south, but they are also flying back in Connecticut, the first suggestion that several local Democratic organizations might be avoiding primary struggle by voluntarily agreeing to send a few token McCarthy delegates to the Democratic State Convention.

There is, fortunately, no routine requirement which compels Bailey to pronounce that such developments, too, represent a "clear mandate for the policies of President Johnson."

Even as the high-level events in Vietnam and the low-keyed conduct of the Senator himself, McCarthy is obviously, in Connecticut as in Brooklyn, making more progress than any other politician or political observer would have credited him with at the moment. In Senatorial elections, the insurgent candidate supported by Senator McCarty, "O'Day," won.

The result of the election, which the candidate who we refer to as the "insurgent" candidate had made in his position. The result, Bailey proclaimed, was to "clear the air" of the political scene of the "insurgent" candidate.

F. Clifton White Seen Aiding GOP Group
 By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
 Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The ostensible reason F. Clifton White showed up at last week's Republican National Committee meeting here was to lend California Gov. Ronald Reagan's help to other GOP governors seeking larger roles in their party's platform deliberations.

White, one of the masterminds of the conservative 1964 campaign for the GOP presidential nomination, has recently gone to work for the California GOP national convention delegation, which Reagan will head as a favorite son.

Republican officials from Maryland, Missouri, and Wisconsin said that White's visit to their state was to help Gov. Raymond P. Shafer in his bid to win the party's nomination.

White, who has been in California for several months, is being sent to help Gov. Raymond P. Shafer in his bid to win the party's nomination.

Vernon Opening of Bids Set Tonight On Planned 39-Room School

The construction of the long anticipated 39-room elementary school on Center Rd. will take a step forward tonight when the town administration opens bids for the building.

The school has been in the planning stages for well over a year. Many people felt a smaller neighborhood elementary school would be better suited to the town's needs.

The school will contain 39 classrooms, three of which are kindergarten rooms. It is expected to house around 1,100 students, reaching its capacity within a year after opening.

School officials stressed the need for the school to be open beginning September 1968.

If an acceptable bid is received tonight, construction of the school should begin in March, according to Public Building Committee Chairman John Goffier.

A unique aspect of the school design for this area is its three stories. This is expected to provide additional classrooms at a relatively low comparable cost. The school will be erected with an elevator, in accordance with state statutes. It is the first school over one story to be constructed in Vernon since the 1920s.

The construction of the school will be conducted under the supervision of the Board of Public Buildings, Committee.

Manch officials are hopeful the bids will come within the amount authorized at the bond issue. High bids on the Thomas Moore High School planned in Rockville by the Norwich District School Board for the scrapping of plans for the school.

Viet Escalation May Spur Support for Tax Increase

Los Angeles Times - Washington Post News Service - WASHINGTON - A major new escalation of the war in Vietnam, involving a substantial commitment of troops, may breathe new life into flagging support for the administration's demand for higher tax rates.

Washington is full of rumors of a new multi-billion dollar war spending program, and a few presidential candidates are expected to support it.

Federal Reserve Chairman William McCh. Martin has publicly suggested that the degree of new escalation might compare to the sharp upturn that took place after 1965.

If so, it would of course alter prospects for tax action. As of the moment, even some of the strongest supporters of a two percent surtax - including Richard Nixon - have been having second thoughts about the need or the wisdom of the idea.

They say, quite frankly that the Council of Economic Advisors has not made a solid economic case for the tax increase. It would be helpful to see the details of how the tax increase would be financed.

But looking at the domestic economic picture at the moment, the CIA's projections imply a softer economic half year, just at the time that the proposed tax increase would begin to take effect.

Robert Solow, former staff economist on the Kennedy Economic Council and a professor of economics at M.I.T., wrote an estimated the costs of the Vietnam War, and all through 1968 London Times.

"In this election year," he wrote, "the tax increase is a trap for the economy. It is a trap for the economy. It is a trap for the economy."

Around the turn of the year, Walter Heller, who has assumed that it has had to promise

In Peace Corps

Timothy Donahue, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Donahue, 102 Arundel Rd., is serving with the Peace Corps at Koror, Palau, in the Western Caroline Islands of Micronesia.

He trained in the District of Columbia in the Peace Corps for two months before being assigned to Palau as a teacher in English and History.

Donahue has recently assumed the project of starting a library for the school, and he is in need of first and second grade reading books.

Those having books to donate may contact Mrs. Joseph Donahue or Mrs. Matthew Morarty Jr., 26 Bruce Dr.

His sister was not hospitalized. Ryehing will await his March court appearance in jail, in lieu of $2,000 bond.

School Board Delays Decision on Busing

The Board of Education last night voted to postpone decision on whether to remain in Project Concern until after the town advisory vote April 30.

Continuation of the project, under which Hartford children are being bused to suburban schools in Manchester and several other area towns, has been approved by the Hartford Board of Education.

Last night's discussion and tabling action was prompted by the local board's receipt of a formal request for a continuation, contained in a letter from Modell Bair, Hartford's superintendent of schools, dated Feb. 5.

Though the vote to table carried without opposition, Dr. Walter Schmidt obtained, after the meeting, the explanation his objection by saying he felt the board—as a body of duly elected officials—should have the sole responsibility to decide on the project and that he was opposed to "government by referendum."

The Board of Directors voted on Feb. 6 to place the informational question, "Should Manchester continue to participate in Project Concern?" on the voting machines together with several other referenda items April 30.

Before last night's vote, School Superintendent William Curtis said, in answer to a question from the board, that the administration is making a

Ryehing Case Slate March 5

The case of Thomas A. Ryehing, 24, of Coventry was continued until March 5 today at Rockville Circuit Court 12 and the charge of injury to a child was added to the present two counts of cruelty to persons.

Ryehing was arrested Feb. 18 after allegedly disciplining 18-month-old John Jackson and his three-year-old sister, the 18-year-old daughter of Kathleen A. Jackson, 12 Mountain St., Vernon.

An spokesman at Hartford Hospital said today that the Jackson boy is still in critical condition and that he has not improved since admission to the hospital on the night of Feb.

The four-star general briefed sources said, apparently to avoid aggravating American tensions over the situation growing out of the seizure of the Pueblo and its crew.

The only reported incident, between the U.S. destroyer Rowan and a Soviet merchant ship, the Kaplan Volkov, on Jan. 31. The U.S. claimed the Rowan had the right of way.

The unreported incidents were near-misses, sources said. By this, they meant that Soviet ships, mostly destroyers and intelligence gathering craft, steamed into the midst of U.S. naval formations or sailed dangerously close to American ships.

Both countries have asserted down their naval forces in the waters off Korea recently. At one point, the Soviets had some 14 warships, including two cruisers, operating in the same general area where the U.S. fleet had been built up.

This Soviet naval presence has now been reduced to about five or six destroyers and a few intelligence vessels. The rest reportedly have moved back toward Vladivostok, the main Soviet naval base in the Far East.

The U.S. Navy has meanwhile withdrawn the nuclear-powered carrier Enterprise from Korean waters and sent it into action in the Gulf of Tonkin against North Vietnam. This was the Enterprise's original mission before it was diverted to the sea of Japan shortly after the Pueblo was captured.

Two big U.S. aircraft carriers, the Ranger and the Coral Sea, together with their supporting destroyers and supply vessels, remain in waters near Korea. The dual problem of Korea and Vietnam is straining the Navy's carrier resources in the Far East.

There normally would be three carriers off North Viet-

Retirement is more than a dinner and a solid gold watch. It's pension plans, insurance policies, annuities, social security, equity in your home, savings accounts, stocks and bonds. And most important, it takes a lot of careful planning and management.

We see many people at Hartford National who recognize the need for advanced planning in this area. People who know they must plan for tomorrow while they are busy enjoying today. That's one of the many reasons they consult a banker at Hartford National. He knows how to help.

The gist of the panel's findings was discussed at a recent meeting attended by several state adjutant generals. One of those present said 800 million was given as "a round figure" for the cost of substantially increasing the percentage of Negroes in the Guard.

Several states have expressed interest in a program similar to a pilot recruiting project underway in New Jersey, another Guard official said, "but we have replied to each one that we would like to hold a decision in abeyance for a few weeks until we know exactly where we are going."

"I'm sure there will be a national program of some sort," the Pentagon slashed red tape last August and granted a 50 percent cost reduction on equipment over the next 10 years.

At a national Guard Bureau spokesman, asked about the cost estimate, replied "I haven't seen it, but it's probably around $50 million."
