Bolton Busing Vote First in Country

By CLEMENCELLA YOUNG

Bolton's referendum on busing tomorrow will be the first in the nation, according to a State Department of Education official.

Bolton will also be leading the way for towns involved in Project Concern in the Hartford area. Manchester's vote, not earlier than Bolton's, will not take place until April 30.

The vote is not binding, however, and will only indicate to the Board of Education what the feelings of the voters are.

Bolton has not yet participated in the program. The school board unanimously on Jan. 29 indicated its desire to participate in a "Project Concern type program" with the Hartford Board of Education on a space-availability, one-year trial basis.

Question of Space

No contract has been signed, or offered.

Determination of the space available cannot be made until June, and enrollment figures now seem to indicate a possibility of room only at the second grade level, for from three to six students. (See a statement by Board of Education chairman Harold Smith on this page.)

A petition signed by 20 voters placed the busing program on a Project Concern program on the call to the town meeting March 18.

A petition signed by over 200 voters removed the item from town meeting vote and placed it on the voting machine along with three items already on the building. A separate petition was circulated for the school items.

The item, which voters will be asked to consider tomorrow reads: "To use at the town meeting to consider and act upon a proposal that the Town enter into a contract to accept out-of-town students into the Bolton School system under the Project Concern type program."

Less Heard Works Done By Symphony

By JOHN GUERBER

Two solemn butlins, together with a third who frequently isn't represented too frequently here, comprised the program last night of the Hartford Symphony Orchestra. They were Gabriel Faure, Frederic Delius, and Richard Strauss respectively. Arthur Winograd conducted.

The whole program went very well indeed. In fact, the orchestra this season has generally sounded better than at any time under Mr. Winograd's baton. In the opening Faure number, Blake Stern was tenor soloist and proved to be a singer of taste and discernment. Moreover, his diction was exemplary.

Comprised of six short sections, everything sounded distinctly in the style of this rarely heard French composer. I had never heard this before, but work, which is rarely performed. Apparently even the Bolton Symphony has neglected it since a 1918 performance. Faure was eclipsed by his more famous contemporary Debussy, but certainly this particular work suffers from unwarranted neglect.

"Song of the Hills" by Delius came next. It features the Hartford Symphony Chorus. This work is likewise seldom heard, and to me, at least, does not seem as deserving of more frequent performances as does the "Fairest in Mood," it is similar to Debussy's "Sirenes," and that mood was presented consistently and convincingly throughout the performance.

The wondrous choral part was very well sung by the Chorus, which has not always demonstrated the excellent comprehension it showed last night. Mr. Stern also had a brief solo in this work as well as the preceding number.

Finally came "Also Sprach Zarathustra" by Richard Strauss, which received a generally excellent performance. I cannot understand, however, why an electronic organ was employed when the Busnell has a pipe organ of no mean proportions already available.

The very opening bass tone of the electronic substitute was far too loud for the extremely quiet opening, while only a little later at the end of the mighty crescendo representing the sunrise, the instrument was smothered under the remainder of the scoring.

Four ugly looking sound chambers disgraced rather than graced the stage as accompaniments of the electronic device. These might be dispensed in permanent installation, but last night no attempt had been made to reduce their extremely loud outlines.

Aside from this, the work was well played, and it is extremely difficult. It is not in a class with the composer's "Don Juan," "Die Quislete" or "Till Eulenspiegel," and quite falls to be philosophical or to delineate the Superman, which was its avowed purpose. Still, it remains a work worth hearing on occasion. Mr. Winograd did as well with it as could be expected; the work itself is slowly coming apart at the seams.

School Board Head's Statement

School board chairman Harold Smith has issued the following statement on the busing program:

(1) The busing program is being implemented on a space-availability basis, with the Board of Education being sole judge of the available space. (Presently indicated on Grades 1 and 2.)

(2) Full tuition be paid by the parents of the out-of-town students who are bused to the Bolton School system.

(3) Full transportation costs be paid by the Hartford School system.

(4) Grades 3 and 4 are definitely out of the question, as these grades both have 80 students, requiring three classrooms per grade at 25, 25 and 25 pupils per class.

(5) No other grades in the Bolton School system are under consideration in the Project Concern type program.

(6) There will be no cost to the Town of Bolton for the school or renovation of the existing elementary school. Participation would be on a space-availability basis only, at the existing elementary school on North Road.

(7) Reverse busing shall not be considered under any circumstances.

(8) A favorable vote on the willingness of the town to support participation in our school system by a token handful of Project Concern students is an honorable way for the people of Bolton to share in improving the ever increasing racial communication problems of our time. It will express our willingness to share in the hopeful improvement of these problems in a very small way as citizens and as a proud and responsible town in the State of Connecticut and the United States of America.

Bolton Voters Face Three Items On Schools

The three items relating to school building on the voting machines tomorrow read as follows:

1. "To see if the town will approve preliminary plans for new elementary school and authorize the selectmen and town treasurer to lease short-term notes in the amount of $300,000 and authorize the Public Building Commission to examine and accept such plans for architects' fees, final plans and bid documents for the construction of said elementary school on property located between North Rd. and Toomey Ln. Short term notes so authorized are repayable out of proceeds of subsequent bond issues which may be authorized and approved by the town."

2. "To see if the town will authorize and transfer to the Bolton Board of Education $130,000 for the purchase of property between town of Bolton and Olive Toomey as authorized by town meeting March 31, 1967. This authorization and transfer of property is contingent upon the town's approval and authorization of the new elementary school building."

3. "To see if the town will authorize and transfer to the Bolton Board of Education $130,000 for the purchase of property between town of Bolton and Olive Toomey as authorized by town meeting March 31, 1967. This authorization and transfer of property is contingent upon the town's approval and authorization of the new elementary school building."

It's Getting to Be a Habit With Cats on Rubirow Roof

Cats are asked to stay off the roof at the Rubirow Building on Main St.

Franchia was there, to take the animal into custody. He put in a year, and the smplest time in 20 years, firemen had to pull a cat out from the deep well formed by the outer walls of Marlow's and the Thom McAn store.

The walls of the two stores rise two stories, forming a long, narrow opening. The opening is more than 20 feet deep, and is closed at both ends.

How the cats got in there is a mystery.

"I lived there in the Rubirow Building a long time ago," said Town Dog Warden Lee Franchia. "Even then the cats got stuck there. You'd hear the fireman at midnight sometime, going in to get them out."

Tuesday's operation of rescue was standard and only the players were different.

The cat was a large, dark gray one, with glossy, well cared for fur, and wide, greenish yellow eyes. It was in the corner on the Main St. end of the opening.

The firemen were Walter Scadden and Robert Bauer. They hauled a ladder to the roof, lowered it down the opening. Bauer, being the thinner of the two, slid down toward the cat.

The opening between the two walls is only about 18 inches. The cat did not appreciate the favor of being hauled out. It spat, mewled, and tried to claw its rescuer.

Garbage Truck, Car in Crash

A car driven by a Manchester woman collided with a sanitary refuse truck on Kensington St. near Porter St., at 7:20 a.m. yesterday.

Beatrice Brown, 350 Center St., was the driver of the car which was hit by the truck as it pulled out into the driving lane. The truck, according to police, was being driven by Edmund H. Hovey, 25 of Hartford, and was traveling down the left hand side of the road collecting garbage.

The truck driver stated he didn't see the Brown vehicle before the impact. No one was reported injured, although two small children were riding with Mrs. Brown.

MCC Instructor Officer of Fair

George E. Christensen of Ellington, hobby instructor at Manchester Community College, is acting president of the 18th annual Connecticut Science Fair scheduled this week.

More than 500 exhibits by junior and senior students from high schools throughout the state will be on display at the fair Friday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., and Saturday from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m., at the West Hartford Armory. The public is invited. Admission is free.

The annual fair provides a showcase for the scientific talents of Connecticut youth. Exhibitors in physical and biological categories, the exhibits are judged by members of the related professions including medicine, engineering and chemical research.

Christensen joined the MCC Science Department faculty last September.

Bolton's Vote Friday

To the Editor,
A group of Bolton citizens have recently circulated a petition to bring certain questions or even regional plans to referendum. One of these is to develop to the point where mass rebuilding and relocation takes place, it may be too late. Embarking on Project Concern in Bolton now will help us develop the correct attitudes toward these underprivileged people. It will make involvement in mass programs more effective later and put a heart in them.

All whites seem to have some prejudice toward the black man and the black toward the whites as well. Our history program and school system has the widest more justification for the State of Connecticut's backing through legislative statutes. However, in spite of this we must learn to live together. Let us let us vote in favor of embarking on a busing program contract with Hartford for the purpose of providing educational opportunities for disadvantaged non-white Hartford children in Bolton schools.

The Board of Education deserves a vote of confidence from the responsible citizenry of Bolton for having the courage to make up its mind with this opportunity to try to help our neighbors in Hartford.

All reports issued on the results of the first year and half of Project Concern's busing program in other communities, including our good neighbor Manchester, have claimed proof of the benefits both academically and sociologically. Benefits are claimed for both Hartford children and the host town children.

Some arguments are advanced by individuals whose motives are sometimes disguised that busing ghetto children to suburban schools is not in favor of the problem of breaking the poverty cycle. I have never met anyone in favor of Project Concern who claimed it would own children's education the they should acquiesce to their unshared desire to share our abundance. If every Bolton parent follows their child's wishes on how to vote on the busing question in the referendum, the Board of Education will receive a resounding vote of confidence. Sincerely yours,

P. F. Brown Jr.
To the Editor,

"Acceptance And Good Will" To the Editor,
On Friday, March 28, Bolton will hold a referendum, part of which deals with Project Concern.

It seems to me that a favorable vote is in the best interests of this town, its state, and our nation. First, it will help children. Second, it will increase dialogue between persons in the city and persons in the suburbs. Third, and perhaps most important, it will be a symbol of acceptance and good will. Fourth, it will enhance the position of Negro leaders who are interested in orderly social progress and in shedding more light than heat.

Sincerely,
Emerson H. Bosworth

Kapla Bid Low On Road Repairs

F. S. Kapla of Hartford, paving contractor, is the apparent low bidder for the permanent patching of approximately 1,100 square yards of town highway. The repair, a usual spring procedure, are for areas disturbed for water-pipe installations and given temporary repairs.

Kapla's price is $4.50 per square yard for bituminous concrete surface with a gravel base, $45 per square yard for a bituminous concrete surface with a concrete base, and $45 per square yard for a cement concrete surface with a gravel base. Repairs will be made on approximately 1,000 square yards in the first category and approximately 500 square yards in each of the other two categories.

The Balf Co. of Hartford, the only other bidder for the work, quoted prices of $5.25 per square yard for the first type of repair, $47.50 for the second, and $59.50 for the third.

But these bids crumblers were not open to the bids at the Ellinwood Post Office in broad daylight recently.

Vernon $175,000 for School Approved 388-77

A small percentage of the town's eligible voters, overwhelmingly approved additional funds for construction of a special elementary school at a special referendum yesterday.

The total vote for both districts was 388 for and 77 against.

Approval was asked for an additional sum of $175,000. In November, also at a special referendum, the voters approved an appropriation of $1,700,000 for the proposed elementary school but when bids were opened a few weeks ago they all ran higher than this amount.

Out of about 9,800 registered voters, and this does not include all of the owners of property assessed at $1,000 or more who were also eligible to vote in the referendum only 468 voted.

In District One, which is the city area, voting was 99-38 about three per cent of the eligible voters, and in District Two, the former fire district, voting was 298-39.

Of those voting in District One, five voted on the basis of being property owners and in District Two, 23 voted on this basis.

At the first referendum the proposal for the $1,700,000 lost in District One but had enough votes to carry it in District Two.

In yesterday's referendum only by two voting machines were used in each district instead of the usual six. This saved the town some $70. The moderators

In A Better World Than This

The zeal of the supporters of Senator McCarthy, young and old, notwithstanding, this is not a world for political miracles.

The influences which would bedevil the McCarthy campaign and appeal widely already at work close around him, inhabiting the physique and using the voices of some of his own best friends.

No doubt, too, since he himself has often been demonstrably human, they are at work within him, too.

The zealous, well-wishing strategists and speech writers and policy advisers near Senator McCarthy are no longer content to take him for what he is—what happened to be what did so well for him in New Hampshire. They feel they must convert him into a more perfect, more rounded image, in the style of those more experienced politicians who know how to seem all good things to all good men.

So some of the Senator's would-be strategists want him to do something striking about proclaiming his own civil rights stand immediately, in order to make sure the civil rights issue doesn't desert him for somebody else, while others advise him to delay any strong stand on the civil rights issue until he has gone through the Wisconsin primary, which is to include the voting of a few city sections supposed to be not particularly liberal on the issue of race relations.

Others of the Senator's band are reportedly disappointed because he hasn't been developing the issue as they have been developing the issue for him, and because, instead of delivering speeches they have written, he has continued with his almost informal parlaying with his audiences.

In short, right close to Senator McCarthy, in the ranks of his own most zealous original supporters, there are those who echo the judgment of so many national pundits in advance of the New Hampshire primary—the judgment that this man would be campaigning "hard enough" to evoke a response. And even after the "soft sell" showed it had something in New Hampshire, the McCarthy band cannot escape the temptation to go dynamic.

Senator McCarthy, so far, seems to be following the mounting strategy of advice around himself with a sort of wary, fatalistic amusement. His position on issues like civil rights has been clear enough, he tells them. They, he adds, are merely "frustrated campaign managers."

But although the Senator can recognize and enjoy the pressures rising around him, there are inevitable pressures inside himself which he may not recognize quite so readily. The man who began with the entirely laudable idea of giving the people of this country a chance to express themselves on the issue of the war in Vietnam has now begun to talk farm policy. This is no sin and no fault; it was, in fact, inevitable once he began to enjoy some success as a result of his original stance. But it is also a sign of normalcy, of coming down off the high, glorious, misty mountain, of descending to get into the fight on the level where the Kennedys, the Johnsons and the Nixons are so proficient. Yet it may have been precisely because this nation was so utterly sick of McCarthyism that the level that McCarthy developed his own unique charm.

In a better world than this, there will be some way for a McCarthy to develop and remain what he is and pull mankind at least part way up the mountain of its own aspirations. In a better world than this...

The Bathub Next? It has now transpired that the great crusader of our times, having handled automobiles, pipelines, meat, and fish, has discovered there is danger in the nation's oil mines.

The question is, what took him so long? One answer is that he somehow seemed to find a very good moment. It seems that the Bureau of Mines was, the other day, about to send over to Congress a report showing that government regulation of the coal mines already had all the legislation it needed to do a proper and efficient job. At this point, the famous crusader wrote a letter to the Secretary of the Interior, alleging that the Bureau of Mines was endangering the lives of thousands of coal miners because it was playing the game of the coal industry. The letter, written in the crumpled technique, found its way into the hands of the government officials involved. No one would be so foolish as to deny there is danger in the coal mines, or even to deny that some of this danger may possibly be traced to too friendly an understanding between private mines and public supervisors.

Nor will any one deny that the great crusader, soon after he has gained headlines with mines, will have another target already set up and ready for the psychological moment. We can hardly wait to see what he is going to do about the greatest danger of all the dangers in American life—the bathtub.

A Continuing War

JERICHO—However it may look in Washington, Cairo or the U.S. Security Council, when you are touring roads mined by terrorists or crossing bridges that are basoon targets there's a natural tendency to be in favor of fighting back.

And this has been pretty much the situation of any tourist in Israel these past few days who has left the beaten track of Tel Aviv's beaches and Jerusalem's holy places to view the countryside.

As a matter of fact even the hills of Old Jerusalem haven't been entirely safe recently. Just a few days ago a street-attack in Jerusalem resulted in the Mandelbaum Gate exploded with a bomb laid by an infiltrator from the Fatah, the terrorist organization of the Jordanian Kingdom of Jordan. Fortunately no one was killed, but it's the kind of thing that does make an American pilgrim nervous.

The nerves aren't calmed, either, when on another day a bus load of school children touring the southern Negev hits a mine hidden under the road, killing two persons and seriously wounding a score of others—especially as this is in the area, where you plan to do a bit of touring yourself.

So perhaps it's understandable, peaceloving though you be, if you share a bit of the Israeli sense of rebalancing justice as you stand high on the hills west of Jericho watching the Israeli army trucks over the east bank of the Jordan River bring up a few Fatah arm caches and hideaways on the Jordanian side.

The day is lovely, with the Judean desert bathed under a hot sun, and the Jordanian hills are clearly etched against the blue sky. Twenty miles away to the south there's a glimpse of the Dead Sea, and just below you in the valley is the town of Jericho, a spot of green in the brown desert.

Across the Jordan River, which from this height seems but a raw gash in the earth, there are spots of Israeli tanks. The spots move in slow motion across the desert. At the front of the Israeli column are some heavy tanks, some of them with no artillery flashes, no diving planes, but some hours later another column rises in a distant village, heavy and black. By nightfall the dots of sand have moved back toward the Jordanian side, and the Cinemas scene fades out.

Only later does it strike home that this is not a peaceloving, Israeli army, he told us on March 20, a few hours before Israel launched its third massive reprisal raid against Jordan in retaliation for guerrilla raids by Arab terrorists.

Stupid or not, King Hussein at 33 is old beyond his years. General Bar-Lev, the Israeli chief of staff, who must be one of the most unflappable generals currently practicing his trade, is a man who has been exactly what it was supposed to do militarily speaking. The three Fatah attacks had been planned in advance and then had been eliminated before they could be carried out.

Senator McCarthy, so far, seems to be following the mounting strategy of advice around himself with a sort of wary, fatalistic amusement. His position on issues like civil rights has been clear enough, he tells them. They, he adds, are merely "frustrated campaign managers."

But although the Senator can recognize and enjoy the pressures rising around him, there are inevitable pressures inside himself which he may not recognize quite so readily. When it gets to the "Mr. Ribicoff" stage with Democratic National and State Chairmen John Bailey, the surprise invitation is to believe that the leading figures in Connecticut Democratic politics have reached a bitter and lasting pairing of the way.

This impression is reinforced when Bailey, in his comment on the Senator's position with regard to the Presidential race, seems to attack the motives of the individual as well as the actual politics involved, and, in the very sentence in which he subtly called his old friend Abe and his old candidate Ribicoff "unlabeled the nasty thrust of the question of 'who Mr. Ribicoff is neutral against.'"

Against all these surface indications of bitter and dead end feud both personal and political, one has to remember the long political history of the two men, which has included phases in which each has been rough on the other, but nevertheless continued to operate what amounted to a political partnership.

It was, in fact, by attacking Bailey, publicly, that Ribicoff advanced his early reputation for political independence. Bailey, who could not enjoy being called political independence, nevertheless had no hesitancy whatsoever in capitalizing on the reputation for independence Ribicoff was winning in the process of calling Bailey political independence.

The four are among 628 seniors from Connecticut schools who have been selected on the basis of exams and class performance. They will be eligible for scholarships according to need.

Miss Bailey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Bailey of Deepwood Dr., Amston. She has been active in the student council, drama club, and the yearbook staff and served as its editor this year, was a delegate to Laurel Girls State, is a member of the National Honor Society and is vice president of the senior class.

She has also found time to work as a candy stripe assistant at the Newton Hospital sketch class, and on the yearbook, reading and playing tory award last year and won the Scholastic Art Award last year. She plans to go to college and prepare to enter the field of science. Besides school activities, she is active in girl scout, Holton Pilgrim Fellowship and in the church.

Miss Blomel is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Blomel of Burnt Hill Rd., Hebron. She is a member of the National Honor Society and the French Honor Society, and has worked as a typist.

Bennet Pupils Producing Toys By Mass Method

The ninth grade woodworking classes at Bennet Junior High School working under the direction of their instructor, David Nordling, have been producing children's toys which they are donating to several different organizations in Manchester.

Through the use of lumber donated to the project by the Manchester Sand and Gravel, Inc. and paint products donated by Sherwin-Williams Company, the boys have been mass-producing these toys as a part of their study of the principles of mass production.

In this study of mass production, the students are able to realize how industry operates under this method. The students are also able to realize the importance of producing a product more efficiently.

Rybczyk Reports on Status Renewal Completion Seen by End of 1969

Edward J. Rybczyk, executive director of the Manchester Redevelopment Agency, who has been under criticism over progress of North End Renewal, has said that work is 80 per cent completed and that it will be finished by December, 1969.

The schedule contained in a detailed report released by Rybczyk yesterday for distribution to town officials.

Rybczyk has been criticized by some for insisting the project would be done by this coming October and by others for not making it possible to complete it that soon.

He admitted in the report, the 1969 date is more "realistic" and that he has been criticized by some for insisting the project would be done by this coming October and by others for not making it possible to complete it that soon.

South Windsor Town Plans Street Work

The street sweeping program in town is to progress this week includes sweeping, catch basins and culvert cleaning and painting.

Sweeping is being done in the more densely populated residential areas first. Local thorough streets and rural areas will be swept after the subdivisions have been completed.

The schedule for sweeping is as follows: 1. Pine Knob, Spencer Hill Estates, Valley View, Oak Ridge Estates; 2. Birch Hill Estates, Valley View Farms, Wilshire Woods, Bourne St., Sagaw St.; 3. Graham Estate, West Ridge, Graham Park, Lyndale Park, Paradise Lakes, Fairview.

Rodney Brigham of Rotary Will Direct Arts Council

Rodney Brigham, president of the Rockville Rotary Club, was named president of the new Rockville Area Arts Council at a meeting of the incorporators last night here.

The group has organized in connection with the purchase of a portable music shell. The facility was purchased by the County Art Association, and will be operated by the Manchester Community Center.

Other officers elected were: Barbara Cantor, vice president; Robert Veinard, secretary; and John Carter, treasurer.

Pier Strike In New York Nearing End

Many of the veteran longshoremen in other parts of the pier are out of work, and they blame the situation on diversion of shipping from New York to other ports.

The Penagon originally had sought $30 million for the pier. The Navy said the pier would be used for the storage of nuclear warheads.

The Navy said the pier's preliminary report also stated that "no clear-cut decision on an alternative pier" to the pier is possible at this time because of insufficient information.

F111 Plane Missing on Asia Flight

Ships with military cargo have been exempt from the strike.

During Wednesday night's arbitration session, some employees were reported to have argued against yielding to the union's demand that the shipping association drop its court suit seeking $3 million a day damages for the strike.

The estimated 500,000 tons of cargo piled up on docks and in ships ranges from perishable fruit to foreign cars, and includes a wide variety of goods.

Vernon Blood Drive Passes Quota

A bloodmobile held at the First Congregational Church of Vernon Monday exceeded its quota of 75 pints, collecting 80 pints of blood. The visit was sponsored by the Women's Fellowship of the Church.

Those who donated blood were: Richard G. Gifford, George T. Kelley, Wyman H. Griggs, Jr., John B. Oudman, Walter T. Stuart, C. Neff, Thomas N. Cook, William B. Kelley, Leonard DeCarli, Gilbert Peterson, Mrs. Barbara Eveson, Raymond Choinard, Leonard P. Anderson, William L. Robertson and Mrs. Margaret F. Boer.

By Your Neighbor's Kitchen

3 cups rolled oats
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1 cup raisins

Coventry Aerial Photograph Decision To Go Annual Town Meeting

Whether or not the townpeople feel aerial photographs are necessary for the 1970 reassessment, it will now have to be decided at the annual town meeting in May following passage of a resolution at last night's special town meeting.

Some confusion arose as to whether a resolution passed by the Board of Finance Monday night was a withdrawal of the town's request for a new fire truck at a cost of $50,000, or a request for a new fire truck at a cost of $20,000.

Earl Yost Tough Assignment For Grady Hatton

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Sitting comfortably on the bench at the far end of the visiting team's dugout at Al Lang Field, feet propped up on the corner seats, Grady Hatton looks like a man who is enjoying the time of day before sending his team out for batting practice was Grady Hatton. Here's a man with an extremely tough assignment—trying to lead the Houston Astros into the National League first division in their seventh season of competition.

But also during the season, Hatton feels the pitchers are far ahead of the hitters.

"If you have any doubts take a look at the ball players being sent down to the minors. Most of them will be pitchers. There are more pitchers around today than ever before, but I believe the day will see this level of skill and hitters will take over again," Hatton said.

Pitchers Dominated

During his absence today, Hatton recalled that when he came up to the Reds, pitchers dominated the National League.

"I don't think the pitchers are in such great abundance today, due to expansion, but each club has at least three good starters in the minor leagues, and every club you just read about has a few more," Hatton said.

Start at Bottom

Building a new club, such as the Astros, it was necessary to start at the bottom. There hasn't been much progress in the Houston fortunes if the fan standings are a true judge. The club has four ninth place finishes and twice ninth place in eighth. Last year it was No. 9 when all the games were played.

Flying Dressed

"Half the ball clubs today are scared to fly. I'd bet that there are at least five to 10 fellows spent in the minor leagues, even the club ship back from eight to his freshman year to ninth last season, just about a manager—Hatten touched up on several interesting subjects, perhaps the most interesting, and informative—fanning be with any manager this spring.

Big Difference

How can an account for the difference in the team's play from home and away?

"This question was presented to Hatten and he answered like this:

"I believe that a good ball player can play anywhere. But I know of the pitcher that we have at the Astrodome. We have a bunch of young players who are recruited like heroes at home. They respond with top performance. But on the road, it's a different story.

Tough Life

"I'd be surprised to find out how many ball players don't like to fly. I'm one of them. I've been flying for nearly 30 years and I'm still scared. I don't know when my luck is out, but I know it's a long, hard one. I'm a lot tougher today for a lot of things than I was when I first got into the game.

Uphold Battle Reputation Williams Out

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — Those rowdy Boston Red Sox who refused to back down from anyone on route to the American League pennant last year, are at it again.

Although struggling along pitchers Tommie John and Don Williams ordered his pitchers to retaliate, saying, "I don't believe in starting fights in spring training. We have enough trouble during the regular season."

The incident with the Yankees recalled in game in New York in the top of the eighth, Boston third baseman Joe Foy was knocked down by a pitch thrown by a Yankee pitcher.

The Red Sox, including Foy, said nothing.

Roy White led off the Yankees eighth, facing Boston veteran Lefty Stange hit White with a pitch.

Registration

Registration for the 1968 league will be Friday night. Slices are as follows: National at Buckley, American at Verplanck. Parents or guardians must accompany boys who must sign up at this time, including last year's players.

'Big E' Signs Pact with NBA's Rockets

SAN DIEGO (AP) — With acquisition of Elvin Hayes of the San Diego Rockets, the National Basketball Association wins an important round in the fight with the new American Basketball Association for talent.

Hayes' "Big E" signed a contract Wednesday with the NBA Rockets. Although terms of the "multi-year" pact weren't announced, it is believed to involve about $400,000 over a four-year period.

The Rockets moved quickly to sign the 6-foot-4 performer, named "College Player-of-the-Year. They won a coin flip Monday with Baltimore for the right to make the NBA's No. 1 draft selection.

'Tired'—Dan Sikes Score Told Story

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — "I'm tired, so tired," Dan Sikes said on the eve of today's Greater Jacksonville Open Golf Tournament.

The hometown hero's actions after his words were heard by shooting the lowest score in the tournament, a 70, after five strokes below regulation for the toughened 7,000-yard course.

Sikes, who won last year's Jacksonville Open with a nine-under-par 29, said he played the best golf of his life when he won the Citrus Open at Orlando two weeks ago. He was 14 under par in that tournament, but figures 10 under will be good enough to take this one.

In addition to his home course, Sikes will be shooting for the Florida Governor's Cup based on the total scores in all four tournaments in the state.

He and England's Tony Jacklin are tied at 87 after play in the Citrus and Florida tournaments. Bob Murphy, former National Amateur champion, and former University Florida golfer, stands 81. Ray Floyd is at 82.

Tom Weiskopf would have been in great shape for the trophy if he had not passed up the Pensacola Tournament last week. He was second in both the Doral and Citrus.

Arnold Palmer, Nicklaus and Gary Player of South Africa, the Big Three of golf—were reunited in competition in this tournament, which will be held at the Citrus and Florida courses.

Most of the other top golfers on the PGA circuit also are attending this one.

About Town

The sophomore class of Howell Cheney Technical School will sponsor a car wash Saturday, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the school. Proceeds will benefit the school's athletic activities.

The monthly meeting of the Fellowship Club of Manchester will be held at the Masonic Temple on Monday at 7:30 at the Masonic Temple. The usual business meeting will be dispensed with in order that members and their wives may take a tour of the newly constructed building in Hartford. Refreshments will be served at the Temple at the conclusion of the tour.

Miss Elizabeth House of Manchester has been elected house president of Beebe Hall, dormitory at Wesley College, Wesley, Mass., where she is a junior. She is the daughter of Judge and Mrs. Charles B. House of 150 Westland Dr.

Miss Margaret Abratta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Abratta of 88 Doane St., recently was inducted into Phi Theta Kappa, national college honor society, at the New York State University College at Cobleskill.

Miss Margaret P. Briggs, senior at Manchester High School, has won a $250 second prize scholarship in the annual statewide writing contest sponsored by the Governor's Commission on Employment of the Handicapped.

Miss Briggs is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walker W. Briggs of 84 Finley St. and a member of the MHS Literary Society.

Miss Briggs is a member of the MHS Extracurricular Activities, including the Round Table Singers, the Folsom Club, Currier Affairs Club, the High School World, and Ardian, the literary magazine.

She was recently named a runner-up in a national contest sponsored by the National Council of Teachers of English.

Her father is a member of the MHS Social Studies faculty, and her mother, Mrs. Virginia Briggs, is a member of the Manchester Interfaith Social Action Committee (MIBAC).

She is a member of the MHS Student Body and is majoring in marketing.

Miss Briggs will attend the conference at the O'DAS School of Business, Northampton, Mass., and attended the O'DAS conference in Boston to provide information to parents and those being developed for the education of multiply handicapped deaf children.

She is a member of the O'DAS, whose members must communicate through lip reading, exists to provide encouragement and guidance to parents and their deaf children.

The conference, which began at 9 a.m., will consist of three parts, each with two speakers who are experts in their field of specialization.

General topics to be covered are education of pre-school children, elementary education, and education of the multiply handicapped.

One of the speakers for the morning session will be Dr. Geraldine Garrison, consultant on Speech and Hearing Services for the Connecticut State Department of Education. She will discuss pre-school programs being established under state auspices.

Another speaker, conducted at the Congress Center in West Hartford, is sponsored by the Manchester Board of Education.

Israeli Planes Hit Gun Nests

Israeli jets, screaming over the Jordan valley, hit gun nests in two weeks, dive-bombed artillery nests today while spreading 65 miles along the Jordan River from Galilee to ancient Jericho on the Dead Sea, an army spokesman said.

Jordan claimed it shot down four French-made Israeli fighter-bombers and destroyed tanks, armored cars and artillery emplacements in four hours of fighting. Three Israeli planes crashed into Israeli territory, the Jordanian dispatch said.

AP correspondent Stanley Bonnet reported from Jordan that authorities said the attack was timed to underscore a new U.S.-Jordan arms agreement that will send 2700 Star-bombers and mortar launchers to King Hussein's air force.

Army communiques broadcast by Amman radio made no mention of hand-to-hand fighting such as that eight days ago when Israeli troops, 15,000 strong by Arab estimate, invaded Jordan to wipe out terrorist staging bases.

There was no immediate report of casualties from either side. A guerrilla mine blast and a Jordanian volunteer's death were reported.

Newspapers throughout the Arab world had claimed for two days that another Israeli attack was in preparation. Amman reported heavy troop movements on Israel's side of the Jordan River since Thursday.

Newsmen in the tense Beisan Valley said the French-made Israeli jets penetrated several miles into Jordan to strike at gun emplacements dug into the slopes of the Gilead Mountains, and raked riverbank machine-gun nests in a four-mile sweep.

Reporting on the attacks, the Jordanian army said: "The enemy is keeping up continuous air activity over the northern area of the Jordan Valley and is shelling our front positions. Our troops are fighting back."

The Israeli, sensitive about the vulnerability of the low-lying farm communities in the fertile valley, said they went to Jordan's air power after the Jordanian army said it had shot down four French-made Israeli fighter-bombers and destroyed tanks, armored cars and artillery emplacements in four hours of fighting.

Gunman Foiled in Robbery, Waited in Town Bank

An unidentified gunman was thwarted in his attempt to make an early morning withdrawal of funds at the W. Middle Temple National Bank and Trust Co. today.

Instead the bandit was forced to settle for $40 in cash and a 1968 Plymouth sedan belonging to bank assistant vice president Raymond N. Lyons, of 192 Penney Dr., East Hartford. He abandoned the car a short distance away.

Lyons told police that he and a female bank employee, whose name has not been released, encountered the bandit when they arrived for work at 8:18 a.m. and opened a safe door. The robber was inside waiting patiently to have someone open the vault for him.

After discovering that the vault was equipped with a time lock which could be opened by no one until the predetermined hour, the robber took Lyons' money and car keys and fled. Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and bank officials declined to let anyone interview the involved bank personnel.

Law enforcement officers said the bandit entered the building sometime during the hours of darkness, through a west window by first lifting an aluminum screen and smashing a small hole in the window pane, just over the latch. The window was not equipped with an alarm system.

Once inside, the robber, who police said was armed with a revolver, ripped two cameras from their wall mountings and tampered with their mechanisms. The cameras were found inside the building, bank officials said the cameras, owned and located above each entrance.

The curfew was lifted at 5 a.m., and traffic began moving normally again. Guardsmen, troopers and police continued to be very much in evidence, as residents stepped gingerly from their homes and began heading for work.

Officials said the curfew, in effect not only in Memphis but in suburban areas as well, was reimposed tonight "if necessary."

Another possible confrontation between marchers and police was expected today with Negro leaders saying they would stage another march in the city on Monday.
