Second Strike

BOSTON (AP) — Police said a young man sought for theft of a laptop made two serious errors Monday when he tried first to outrun, then to outpunch Patrolman Donald L. Murray.

For Murray, who finished 22nd in a field of nearly 800 in the B. A. A. Marathon last week had no trouble keeping pace with the fugitives.

And when he caught up with the man, he caught up with Murray, who was charged with larceny of the coat.

four-hour sessions both Tuesday, June 18, and Wednesday, June 19, with teachers assigned to this school remaining on the job through Wednesday afternoon.

It is necessary for Bennett to go the extra day, the administration explained, because his buildings were shut down one day in January due to a breakdown in the heating system.

No days were lost this year because of snow; however, the school holiday was declared April 9, the day of Dr. Martin Luther King's funeral.

Four days beyond the legal 180-day minimum that the schools are required to be in session had been placed into the local calendar.

All schools other than Bennett junior high will have their last classes on Tuesday, June 18, with four-hour sessions. Teachers will remain Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday morning for closing duties.

Fendell Speaks In England at Summer Parley

Health fired Powell from the Conservative shadow Cabinet, calling the speech "racist" and liable to exacerbate racial tensions. Powell, a leader of the opposition party's right wing, had called for a ban on further colored immigration and non-whites in Britain to return to their native lands.

London Piers Struck Again

LONDON (AP) — Hundreds of London dock workers struck again today to demand restriction on the immigration of colored workers to Britain.

The walkouts were in support of Conservative politician Enoch Powell, who was purged from the government for opposing the labor government's proposed new anti-discrimination law with an inflammatory speech.

Thirteen ships were left idle when about 50 longshoremen refused to go to work at one group of docks. Another 180 walked off the docks at Deptford in a 24-hour strike.

In London's Smithfield Market workers put more than 3,000 signatures on a petition supporting Powell, and 600 men said they would march to the House of Commons to present it.

More than 1,000 longshoremen marched to the docks at Deptford to express support for Powell when the house began debate on the bill. But the protesters from the workers gave Prime Minister Harold Wilson cold feet, the government's bill to ban racial discrimination in jobs and housing appears certain to become law this summer.

Commons approved the bill in principle Tuesday night, voting 212-209, and sent it to committee for additional study before it is presented to the House.

Twenty-five Conservatives abstained rather than follow the party line and voted against the bill. It was another setback for the party's leader, Edward Heath.

Powell listened from a back bench seat in Commons Tuesday night as Conservative leaders rebuked him in their speeches. He was seen to be in tears.

Along with criticism of Powell, his party's spokesman said the speech was "racist" and liable to exacerbate racial tensions. Powell, a leader of the opposition party's right wing, had called for a ban on further colored immigration and non-whites in Britain to return to their native lands.

U.S. Spokesman Implies F111s Are Not Grounded

SAIGON (AP) — No F111s flew against North Vietnam Tuesday, but a U.S. military spokesman in Saigon implied tonight that the $6-million, swing-wing fighter-bomber has not been grounded again after its third crash in a month.

"There has been no change in the status of the F111," said the spokesman after a day of rumors and inquiries. He would elaborate.

In Washington, the Pentagon refused to comment and said any information would have to come from Saigon.

There was no indication whether any F111s were used in the raids on North Vietnam today. Normally reports on the days air operations would be given until Thursday.

The third F111 lost on Vietnam duty disappeared Monday night, and North Vietnam claimed today its forces had shot down the plane over Quang Binh, the province just south of the demilitarized zone. It said nothing about the two crewmen.

The U.S. Command said the plane was believed to have crashed in Thailand, but it gave no further information about the plane or the fate of the crew.

The North Vietnamese also claimed to have shot down the F111s which were lost March 28 and March 30. U.S. officers believe the first plane crashed in remote area of Thailand or Laos, and the wreckage of the second was found in Cambodia. Its crash was attributed to a capsule of sealing material, mistakenly left by mechanics, that became lodged in the flight controls. The two crew members bailed out and were rescued.

Six F111s arrived at 7a Khil air base in Thailand March 17 and went into combat March 28. They were grounded for 11 days after the crash on March 30 and have flown combat missions on about 17 days in all. Two additional F111s were brought in to replace the first two losses.

Other Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps planes were out in force Tuesday to continue bombing highways, barges, gun positions and other targets in the section of North Vietnam left open to air raids by President Johnson.

Eighty-two-year-old Mrs. Lillie Hall yesterday stood in the rain and looked at what was left of her home after a vicious tornado struck. Mrs. Hall was standing in a room of the house—where two walls are gone—when the storm hit. The other half of the house is under rubble at center of the picture. Four were known dead, upward of 100 injured, between 75 and 100 houses destroyed.

Bank Films Show Robber In Windsor WINDSOR (AP) — Photographs released by Windsor police show a man being searched by detectives in their search for the robber.

The two security cameras began clicking shortly after the robber entered the Windsor shopping center branch of the United Bank and Trust Co. at 1:47 p.m. Tuesday.

He ordered two tellers to fill a bag with money while holding two customers and the branch manager at gunpoint, the police said. He reportedly fled in a car which he had parked behind the building.

The police reported that the robber went first to a male teller, placed a bag on the counter and ordered him to fill it.

"That's not enough," the teller quoted as saying. After the teller got more money from another counter station, he told

He said U.S. bombing of North Vietnam "has not been reported to be more intensive than before, although the area of bombing is more limited."

"There are signs," he added, "that fighting in the South will increase in intensity."

Accord Reached At Trinity

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — About 200 Trinity College students left the college administration building they had held for 30 hours following agreement today with the administration on increased scholarship aid for Negro students at the school.

The agreement was reached between Trinity President Albert C. Jacobs, a committee representing the trustees and spokesmen for the demonstrators.

The administration offered in the agreement to match the $10,000 contribution which the student body approved unanimously April 7, three days after the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Jacobs announced after the three-hour meeting that the combined fund would provide tuition assistance to at least 15 "disadvantaged" students.

A spokesman for the demonstrators hailed the announcement as full concession to the students' demands.

The students had called for addition of a $10,000 Negro scholarship fund over four or five years to the current $75,000 annual fund for needy Negro students.

II Killed, Scores Injured

Tornadoes Hit Three States Tornadoes struck small communities in Kentucky and Ohio Tuesday, dealing out death and destruction. Twisters hit two towns in Michigan, causing property damage but no fatalities.

The death count stood at 11 with 200 houses injured and hundreds homeless. There were five victims in the Wheelwright, Ky., area, four in Falmouth, Ky., and two near Cincinnati.

Property damage was great at Frontiers, Mich., but only one injury was reported.

"We were going through a taste of death right there," reported Henry Dance, 71, a Falmouth resident who was at home with his wife.

"It sounded like a clap of thunder," he said, "and then the roof began to fall. Holding on to each other, we fell down by the altar and part of the floor fell on us. The Lord saved us, that's all."

A residential area of about six square blocks bore the brunt of the storm in Falmouth, a community of 2,000 in northern Kentucky. The business section of town was largely spared.

The east some 125 miles, Wheelwright reeled under the vicious eye of another twister. The count of injured stood at 75 while rescue workers still crawled over the wreckage of the wrecked vehicles for other victims.

"There's no estimate yet on the number of houses destroyed," said Deputy Sheriff Jesse Foster. "Wreckage is scattered all over, it's really a mess."

The tornado cut a swath through several subdivisions, leveling or damaging houses and business places in its path.

Wheelerburg is an unincorporated community eight miles east of Portsmouth, Ohio.

Gov. James A. Rhodes ordered 100 National Guard troops to the area and then flew in himself to inspect the damage.

Leroy Collier, a real estate agent who witnessed the twister at work, said he saw it coming and ducked into his car and got down on the floor. "When I looked out the car windows, I saw about 30 houses that nearly were leveled."

In Cincinnati, tornadoes hit and tipped again at Ripley in western Clermont County, and then tipped again at Ripley in western Clermont County, and then tipped again at Ripley in western Clermont County.

Debate on the so-called non-proliferation treaty is expected to begin in the assembly's main political committee Friday after work of the session is organized and Mauritius, a former British territory in the Indian Ocean, has been admitted to U.N. membership.

Also on the agenda for the session is the Middle East situation and South Africa's refusal to transfer the administration of South-West Africa to the United Nations.

Soviet and American sources discounted speculation that opponents of the U.S.-Soviet draft treaty on nonproliferation might be able to sidetrack action until the fall session of the assembly. It was agreed that this idea had substantial backing, but neither the U.S. nor the Soviet Union appeared to be firm against any major amendments to the draft treaty they worked out privately.

The outlook was that the draft treaty would be approved by the assembly after a long delay, that by the end of May it would be submitted to governments for ratification.

While Freeman's support propped the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain have agreed that if the treaty is adopted they will give guarantees to non-nu-

Book Review

THE AWAKENED EYE. By Rose Parmenter. Wesleyan University Press, $5.50. It is a common-sense fact that very few of us are observant. Many of the images we see in our everyday life don't register at all, and only when something is called to our particular attention do we manage to grasp what our minds want our eyes are reporting.

Parmenter's book is a lay observer's report on how he improved his own ability to see and enjoy the visual world, and how you can do the same. Using homely examples from his and his friends' experiences, he discusses sharpened vision, heightened vision and what he calls transfigured vision; single and double levels of perception; and the personal and cultural factors that tend to dull our receptivity.

The author has made only a limited attempt to examine the psychological bases of some of his personal discoveries, and few of them seem rather obvious. However, his noncritical approach can be considered a virtue as well as a fault. The book reads like a chatty, friendly letter to a friend, and Parmenter's enthusiasm for greater visual enjoyment is conveyed contagiously.

HUNTER'S GREEN. By Phyllis A. Whitney. Doubleday, $4.00. Whitney fans will find this novel a highly concentrated form of the author's best love story—plus danger—but all ends-well sort of fiction. Things happen around an old mansion on an estate called Athmore, not far from London, and the scene has a touch of the gothic novel.

The tale is told by its heroine, Eve, now 22. Three years ago she had entered into an impetuous marriage with Justin North, a bit of a blue blood who is having trouble keeping the estate going. Two years ago she had run away. The trouble? Parity, the incompatibility between nonentity and blue blood; but mostly the fact she had learned of Justin's earlier affair with his neighbor Alicia, and being jealous, had flirted unwisely with Justin's younger brother Marc.

THE SEARCH FOR THE GIRL WITH THE BLUE EYES. By Jess Stearn. Doubleday. Stearn's report on his efforts to find supporting evidence for a case of reincarnation offers tantalizing prospects. Usually when an individual under hypnosis describes acts and scenes of a supposed earlier life, the span of time is so great that there is no way to seek verification.

But 17-year-old Joanne Maciver of Orilla, Ont., told of living as Susan Guler only a century ago, only a few miles from her modern home. Bringing in a professional hypnotist, Stearn recorded a great mass of detail from Susan's life. Then he tried to check out the story. Unfortunately, birth, marriage and death records, census reports and other written materials for rural 19th century Canada were either nonexistent, incomplete or inaccurate, and Stearn's investigations, present some interesting reading.

HATTI'S SECOND MARRIAGE. By Philip Roth. The front and back anchor men are respectively, Philip Roth and R. V. Cassill. Both are as adept at writing novels as they are short stories. Roth's offering here is a 28,000-word item that can be considered as either a long short story or a short novel. Cassill's is a tightly wrought story of conventional length. Both items are excellent.

The Roth piece is a sad, happy rambling through the memories of a man whose hang-up happens to be his family. The theme is one that has been worked over thoroughly by fiction writers lately, but the Roth account is vivid and fresh enough to capture the reader. The narration is in the form of Hebron Two-Acre Zoning Rejected As Petitioners Reconsider A public hearing on a proposed increase to two-acre zoning in the southwest area of Hebron was attended by some 20 persons last night. Because those who were against the two-acre zoning represented the most land, the zoning commission at its meeting following the hearing voted not to make the proposed change. The proposal was brought before the public as a result of the commission voted that the petition signed by 30 residents of the southwest area which was filed with the commission in February. This petition requested the upgrading of basic requirements on building sites and square foot living area. This petition represented some 1,200 acres of the 2,000 acres involved in the change.

A second petition was filed last night by some of the signers of the original petition. This petition, containing 11 signatures, requested the removal of their names from the original petition. These signers represented 84 acres being approximately 500 acres being represented in the original petition.

Discussion followed on whether the amount of land which person owned was the important factor, and the commission pointed out that in the zoning and zoning decisions had to be based on the number of acres involved. Comment for and against the proposed acreage change was limited, with Sol Ellenberg, one of the original signers, stating that he felt the first petition was of no value. The intent of the first petition was to let further consideration of granting permission to a builder to erect homes on one-acre lots in that area.

At the February meeting, it was pointed out that the building preliminary was filed under the one-acre zoning regulation so he was not affected by the two-acre proposal. Motel Apartments, Inc., Attorney Harry Gaucher appeared at the zoning and planning meeting last night representing the commission voted to

24 APRIL 24

Dodd Has Leading Role In Arms-Control Rift

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas J. Dodd has a leading role today in an arms-control dispute in the Senate. The Connecticut Democrat is the leading voice of the minority in the Senate, which is debating action on a broad anti-nuclear bill.

The Connecticut Democrat is deadlocked with Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., over what the committee intended in an April 1967 vote approving the bill, according to Chairman James O. Eastland, D. Miss.

Eastland said Tuesday that the two senators had failed to come to terms, that their dispute would be placed in the committee's lap today.

Besides the arms control section, the bill includes President Johnson's proposal for federal grants to improve state and local police forces.

Dodd contends the bill, as approved by the committee on April 4, includes a firearms control section prohibiting interstate mail order sales of handguns and their sale to non-residents of a state.

Hruska, sponsor of a measure to regulate rather than prohibit mail order sales of handguns, challenges Dodd's interpretation of what the committee approved.

The two senators met in the office of majority leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and announced they had reached no agreement.

The firearms control section changes Dodd's interpretation of the April 4 committee meeting and was not put in writing until the meeting was announced as 9-7.

Girl Genius, 15, Accepted As College Math Teacher

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Edith Stern, who entered college at the age of 15, has been accepted as a math instructor at Michigan State University. She is now the youngest graduate of the university.

The Brooklyn-born coed's IQ has been tested at anywhere from 154 to 201 depending on the test used, Dr. John Hocking, director of graduate admissions at MSU, who approved the admission of this young scholar, said.

"Six or seven other very fine students," said her father, Aaron Stern, "are the best attempts to measure it."

Edith graduated from Florida Atlantic University in 1954 and celebrates her 16th birthday a few days later and then heads for East Lansing in September.

According to the university, Edith will deliver two-hour algebra lectures twice a week, act as consultant to students and grade tests in addition to taking three graduate courses.

"I hope I'll be able to finish up my Ph.D. in two years," she said.

"This is a gigantic step she is taking," her father said. "Michigan State has one other genius who has attracted just as much attention as she has and he will undoubtedly be a new challenge to her."

"It will be interesting," Edith said when she learned that one of her classmates will be Michigan State's first female Ph.D. in mathematics.

all financial and material aid to the Viet Cong police was cut off. Aid also has been cut off from the police field force company in Bien Hoa Province, and is about to be withdrawn from a field force company in Kien Hoa Province.

Loan in his letter said the Vietnamese people and their government are grateful for American support and "ready to accept any constructive criticism or reports about suspicious acts by our personnel."

"Our office," he continued, "is determined not to tolerate any transgressions and is ready to apply strong disciplinary measures."

However, before punishing any personnel, we must double-check and substantiate any allegations so as to maintain strong discipline and avoid any future complaint."

U.S. aid to the 78,000-man national police force and 38,000-man police field force is budgeted at $184 million, plus $377,000 for training Vietnamese police in the United States. The CIA also supports some police activities, the amount of this is secret.

Newspapers under Loan's control have conducted virulent anti-American editorial campaigns in the past. However, advisers and CIA agents who work with the 38-year-old general consider him a highly capable police director.

MIT Creates System with 'Perception'

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A system with sufficient artificial intelligence to recognize blocks and assemble them without step-by-step instructions developed at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

A computer, television camera and mechanical arm are combined to make the system work. The system was developed as part of a research program to give machines greater flexibility through the ability to see their work, and create machines with more various visual abilities and manual dexterity.

Directing the work are Prof. Marvin Minsky of the Department of Electrical Engineering and visiting Prof. Seymour Papert of the Department on Mathematics.

"We do not like to predict how far artificial intelligence can be carried using just the current roll of W. Brewster, who placed him under $10,000 bond.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Samuel J. Heyman said the arrest was made in connection with thefts from mail pouches at Kennedy International Airport on Long Island.

Joseph Asparro of Huntington, N.Y., was arraigned Tuesday before U.S. Commissioner Charles W. Brewster, who placed him under $10,000 bond.

Vernon Pared During Review of Rockville Fire Budget

The Board of Representatives met last night, in the first of a series of meetings, to review the proposed budget in preparation for the annual town meeting.

Reviewing the budget for the District 1 (Rockville) Fire Department, Mayor John Grant said, "This is the toughest budget I had to cut."

The mayor explained that the recent survey of the fire companies, made by insurance underwriters, pointed up the need for more equipment in the department.

A request for $20,000 for an emergency rescue truck was deleted from the budget by the mayor. Present at the meeting was Chief Donald Magda, who explained that several of his requests were an attempt to implement some of his suggestions made by the underwriter's survey.

Stop one in the implementing the survey was a request for money to provide for yearly physicals for all of the firemen.

Magda also recommended stepping up the training program for the men, another suggestion made in the report. He said the new men need the training and the veterans need refreshing.

More Hose Needed
Also as a direct result of the survey, a budget item for more fire hose was included. Magda said some of the hose being used is about 30 years old. The report suggested that hose not be used for over 10 years.

The fire chief also suggested more hydrants are needed, especially on Rt. 62 and also recommended to the board that developers of property install fire alarm boxes. The latter recommendation will be passed along to the Planning Commission.

The salary item had been cut from the requested $17,184 to $15,038 recommended by the mayor. This cut was in keeping with those made in all salary items, other than unionized employees.

Magda said he did not feel he was asking too much for his men. The current salary is $200 a year. He asked for an increase of $60.

Also attending last night's meeting was George Blythe, head of the ambulance unit who was defending his request for $2,500 for a new ambulance. The item was deleted by the mayor and the board agreed it should not be included at this time.

Mr. Tedford is a graduate of Manchester High School and Upper Iowa University. He will graduate from the University of Connecticut School of Law in June.

The wedding is planned for July 20 in Storrs.

Psychedelia Goes to Sea On Arty Ship

NEW YORK (AP) — The pervasive influence of psychedelia has made itself felt on the waterfront and the result is a pop art ocean liner.

The American Export Intermountain Lines passenger ship Independence sailed into New York harbor Tuesday and raised a few eyebrows with her psychedelic paint job.

Her tradition-shattering appearance featured a 500-foot exterior mural resembling an enormous orange, yellow and raspberry sundust radiating from a pair of feminine eyes.

The 23,700-ton liner, which served her first 17 years as a conservatively painted, cruise ship, was refitted inside and out at a cost of $3 million to become a European-pan hotel ship.

Edith learned to read at two, played chess at four, dropped algebra lectures twice a week, acted as consultant to students and grade tests in addition to taking three graduate courses.

"I hope I'll be able to finish up my Ph.D. in two years," she said.

"This is a gigantic step she is taking," her father said. "Michigan State has one other genius who has attracted just as much attention as she has and he will undoubtedly be a new challenge to her."

April Rainfall Below Average

Today's rainfall was a welcome sight to firemen, water department employees, gardeners and farmers, for it broke a mini-drought for the month of April.

Manchester, for the first 23 days of the month, experienced only 32 inch of rainfall. The average for the month of April is 3.84 inches.

Larlene Witkoske, town water superintendent, said today that, despite the low precipitation to date, Manchester is in fairly good shape, as far as the water supply is concerned. The town's four reservoirs were at full capacity on April 1.

EARLY SCHOOLS IN MANCHESTER

It was not until the year 1781 that any building which could be classified as a school existed within the area which is now the Town of Manchester.

As early as the year 1718, however, that part of Hartford which is now the Town of Manchester was divided into two school districts, the North District and the South District. The Hooksett River formed the dividing line between them, with the town line of Glassbury as the southern boundary of the South District. Both districts extended as far to the east as the "Iola" then in existence, a distance of about twelve miles.

The first school within the limits of the present Town of Manchester had its origin in a Town Meeting held in 1745, at which time it was voted "that money be raised for the purpose of building a school house in the French and Indian War section of the present town, settled, as population moved eastward from the Connecticut River at a society meeting held in November of 1781, it was voted to build a school house to accommodate the children of the town."

Old Keeney St. School

Each of these early schools was probably generally similar in size and design to the one at Hop Brook, and each planking and shaping wooden planks.

Before the actual erection of a school building, school was held for about six years in a room rented for that purpose. This room appeared to have been in the home of John Gilbert, which stood where the former Buncce Mill is now located. It was built by John Gilbert and his wife, Mary, in 1781. It was a simple, one-story building, built of wood, and was used for the purpose of a school house.

The school on Keeney St. was erected soon after the one at Hop Brook. It stood on the west side of Keeney St. opposite the site of the later building which was in use until the present Keeney St. School was opened. Information seems to be lacking about buildings in the other three districts, but the districts themselves were well established by the time the Five Mile School was designated as Orford School in 1772, and all of them had probably built schools before the year 1800.

fatigue and strength rather than from fatigue and despair.

But to take Secretary Clifford's assessment of the situation as realistic would be something else again.

It is doubtful that for the South Vietnamese to set up the 100,000 more men into their own armed forces, coupled with our program to equip all the South Vietnamese fighting men with improved weapons, such as the M16 rifle, is going to create a situation in which the South Vietnamese army is going to show any vastly increased capacity to take care of itself and its country.

On the same day Secretary Clifford was delivering his strangely unassuming reassurances a group of hard-bitten newspapermen were giving opinions on much the same subject. They found the South Vietnamese army and government still a long way from being able to take care of themselves and their country. Some of them suspected the worst battles of the war might lie just ahead. One thought that if there could be such a thing as a free election in South Vietnam now, a candidate who took a neutralist, or peace platform, would be the winner.

Only one Clifford statement seems, on balance, to have complete soundness. This is his statement that Hanoi, whatever its intentions, has now been denied all chance of a military victory in South Vietnam. But the continuance in force of that denial still depends absolutely on the continued presence of the American forces which have established it.

That is the hard heart of the dilemma we face in Vietnam. The negotiation for which Secretary Clifford is trying to establish the plausible atmosphere must, when it comes to good enough to guarantee that the South Vietnamese government and army do not really have to be quite as good as Secretary Clifford was pretending they have become, in his speech in New York Monday.

American Women are Wonderful. It is something in the air, in the soil, in the food, in the New World that makes American women what they are. It is some secret of the American way of life, that elevates the Montana grandmas we see on television who look trim and immaculate after 15 children and 50 grandchildren, have a dozen hobbies like painting, quilting and crocheting, who belong to a dozen church and home-making and patriotic clubs? Whatever it is, it is there, and it is enviable, and it is common to all American women from 13 to 90, right through the United States from coast to coast, from Florida down south to New England up north, taking in the desert of Arizona with its few instant towns, from the mid-western plains, home of Bible-reading farmers.

American women are good letter writers. They are full of practical suggestions for housekeeping shortcuts, and excellent rich recipes, and poetry pours out of them. American matrons write postcards for housekeeping shortcuts, and excellent rich recipes, and poetry pours out of them. American matrons write postcards for housekeeping shortcuts, and excellent rich recipes, and poetry pours out of them.

It is a service, then, to have such present day parallels in the nation which did allow its own very weak and imperfect democracy to be destroyed 40 years ago by the transfer of power from the ballot box to the street corner.

But the truth is that when we ask questions about Germany, we are in reality shadow-boxing with the real question on our minds these days. That is the question of what might be likely to happen to American democracy—presumably many times stronger than the ill-fated Weimar Republic of 40 years ago—if we here continue to see the action shifting from the voting booth to the streets. What if it begins to seem, here, that the way to power is the way to ruin, not through the civilized but sometimes unsatisfactory instrumentalities of politics but through the surge of violence into the streets where the "voting" is done with burning, looting, clubbing, pushing, marching, demonstrating? What if in America, there gradually appear street fighting opponents who sharpen their talents and their strategies to the point where they can make it impossible for the law to interfere effectively with their private feuding?

We still seem, at the moment, very far from any such fate. The streets are still sufficient, when they can be deployed in time. Only in the extreme inner recesses of left and right are there the maddest cadres of those who may be actually planning to be able to take over the streets some day.

But this reassurance may be nothing better than a reassurance as to our particular stage of danger. Let it continue to appear that problems are not being solved through the normal processes of democracy, let the voting booth seem to grow more ineffectual as an instrument for the people, let the fancy grow that the streets are the only place really to settle things, and we will be accepting for ourselves the climate which, sooner or later, must be fiercely generative of more violence than we can handle.

The real question is not, then, whether there is a resemblance between the Germany of today and that of 40 years ago, but whether there is any kind of likeness between present day America and pre-Hitler Germany. The answer is no, not yet, not yet by any means. But merely to ask the question gives a terrible taste of what it might be like. If we don't manage to keep blood and significance in our established political arteries.

Clifford's Strategic Optimism. In so far as Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford's analysis of the military situation in Vietnam offers a suitable propaganda or atmospheric background for Johnson administration efforts toward a de-escalating of the military effort there, it is a welcome analysis. If he, and the President, and all of us, want to pretend that things are likely to be the way he says they are, such an arbitrary pretense may serve some diplomatic purpose, but it is a question of whether we are negotiating from con-

Inside Report

By Rowland Evans Jr. Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON—A hidden, deeply significant political by-product of the open housing fight was the first effective left-center Republican revolt against Rep. Gerald Ford of Michigan since he became his party's floor leader in January, 1965.

Had that revolt not succeeded, the civil rights bill and its housing provision would not be law today. It picked up 77 badly-needed House Republican votes in the key vote April 10 against 100 who stuck with Ford's leadership.

Apart from civil rights, the revolt was a landmark in the murky Republican politics of the House. It was led not by a body of outcast liberal Republicans, as in the past, but by a group of moderate Republicans, including the powerful Rep. Melvin Laird of Wisconsin—except for Goodell, their support was overwhelming in revolt against the Ford leadership, but by Ford's own kind of pragmatic conservatives. The ringleaders were two erstwhile Ford lieutenants: Reps. Charles Goodell, 4, of New York (himself a member of the party's regular House leadership) and Albert Quie, 4, of Minnesota.

Their open deflection broke the pattern of the past decade. The House Republicans have been the Arabs of Capitol Hill, depositing leaders from time to time in lightning coups but maintaining a facade of unity. Under these ground rules, it has been acceptable to plot against the current leadership by night but the most heinous crime to vote against it by day.

A handful of Republican Congressmen who balked at this voting discipline (mostly, but not exclusively, liberals) formed the Wednesday Group. But most ambitious young members, like Al Quie and Charley Goodell, played the game. While maintaining voting records in the party regularly, they helped engineer the coup that gave Ford the leadership.

However, Ford's brand of leadership, while sufficiently partisan and aggressive to force all any coup, had quietly grown less satisfying to Congressmen desiring a new national Republican image—including Quie and Goodell. Over the past year, they have been producing their own alternatives to Democratic proposals—ideas that became labeled collectively in the House Republican caucus as the "Quie-Goodell" approach.

That approach collided head-on with Ford last December on the poverty bill when the Quie-Goodell poverty package was scrapped in favor of a bare bones approach. But the point of revolt was not reached until this year when Ford decided against accepting the Senate-passed open housing scheme.

Ford was backed by the entire leadership, including the powerful Rep. Melvin Laird of Wisconsin—except for Goodell. "I Am Concerned"

To the Editor, Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.'s death and the President's investigation, I am concerned about the need for active participation on the part of our people in the struggle to unite our divided society. The pledge of allegiance which all children recite in school contains the phrase "one nation under God"; one nation of American citizens—black or white, native born or naturalized—living together harmoniously, sharing our country's abundant gifts, and building toward a peaceful future.

The word democracy means of the people or of the citizens. I would like to believe I am living under a system of government in which this word still has meaning.

On April 30 the eyes of the state and the nation will be on Manchester, Conn. The people of my home town will have the opportunity to vote for Project Concern. I am confident that on May 1 that I will be able to state proudly that I have shared my good fortune with 42 children from Hartford. I can't imagine Manchester people turning away 42 children who have already successfully completed two years in our schools with no cost to the taxpayer.

Had that revolt not succeeded, the civil rights bill and its housing provision would not be law today. It picked up 77 badly-needed House Republican votes in the key vote April 10 against 100 who stuck with Ford's leadership.

"Your Last Chance"

To the Editor, As a Manchester resident, taxpayer, and member of two elementary school children I shall vote no on the Project Concern question because:

1. With our schools running at near capacity now, it is not affording giving up any classroom space to outside pupils.

2. It is unfair to our children and the teachers to add extra outsiders thereby increasing the pupil-teacher ratio.

3. In 11 rooms where Project Concern pupils are placed this year, there are from 28 to 30 pupils—in clear violation of the existing contract terms.

4. Everyone of the 22 seats now occupied by Hartford pupils must be reserved for projected enrollment increases of Manchester youngsters this fall.

5. Hartford has done everything but set in good faith, as they sat, and stall, and stall the building of new schools.

6. Project Concern is the opening wedge in the creation of a Metropolitan Hartford School District.

7. Once Manchester is looked into such a school system, the stage will be set to bus many of our children into Hartford.

8. I appeal to all voters who were denied their voting rights on the busting in 1966, to turn out and vote to correct this wrong.

Don't be hoodwinked or fooled by the various local "go-good" groups who want to say I am concerned about America and the best way I know of continuing our fight for our children is to vote yes for Project Concern on Tuesday, April 30.

"A Town To Live In"

To the Editor, I want to say it now... before Project Concern goes on the machines for an advisory referendum. Manchester has been a lovely town to live in. It has the best of both worlds: a nice place to be from—it's good to be here. I have loved the quietness and the beauty of the town. I have loved the over twenty years. I have enjoyed those who have always treated me as a neighbor.

In the light of the enormous changes around the world and in our nation, the upheavals in our own society and the changes in our lives, it is time to re-evaluate our town. It is time to ask ourselves: "What is the future of our town? What is the future of our children? What is the future of our community?"

When they began persuading their colleagues, they could count only 17 House Republicans for quick passage of open housing, as desired by the Democratic leadership. Slowly, they increased the number to 37, then to 42. It slipped to 40 during the riots following the King assassination but soared to the final 47, marking a successful anti-leadship effort without precedent. The Republicans had been saved from the ignominy of defeating a civil rights bill.

Much credit goes to two leaders—William McCulloch of Ohio, the party's respected civil rights spokesman, and John Anderson of Illinois, who opened the bottleneck of the House Rules Committee. But the villain pilloried by the near-dethroned in Republican caucus gossip is neither McCulloch nor Anderson but Goodell.

With this backdrop, Quie and Goodell quietly put together a team of Republican Congressmen to fight the leadership. Rep. Bradford Morse of Maine, should deviate from the party line and collaborate with the Democratic leadership.

Indeed, Goodell's rise up the House leadership ladder may now have been arrested. But his revolt splintered the shell vote voting record less than 60 per cent.

The others were Carl McGreggor of Minnesota, Howard Robinson of New York, Paul Findley of Illinois, and young freshmen—William Steiger, 29, of Wisconsin, and Edward Blister, 37, of Pennsylvania.

McCarthy Scores Easy Primary Win

28,000 President Johnson 19,971 and ex-Gov. George C. Wallace 10,315.
McCarthy will get around 800,000, or about 40 percent of the Democratic turnout estimated at near 900,000.

On the Republican side, 1,891 precincts counted, Nixon led 104,668, Rockefeller 20,275, Gov. Ronald Reagan of California 4,502, Wallace 3,101, Johnson 1,173 and Gov. Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania 792.

The presidential vote is not binding on party convention delegates.

There was only one major statewide contest, for the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination. Incumbent Joseph J. Clark turned back John Dent, a western Pennsylvania congressman who said he entered the race in support of Johnson politics in Vietnam, which Clark opposes.

Rep. Richard S. Schweiker was unopposed for the GOP senatorial nomination.

Dent was a winner, however, in his nomination bid for a seventh House term. State law permits candidates to seek more than one office in a primary election.

Voters approved five constitutional amendments making the first major change in the state's 94-year-old basic law.

McCarthy, who spent the night in New York, declined immediate comment on his Pennsylvania victory.

But his supporters here called the results "absolutely phenomenal" and predicted he would win the presidential election.

Four years ago in Pennsylvania's presidential primary, with all the votes written in, President Johnson got 200,605 of the total of 233,225 cast by Democrats. Former Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania led the Republicans with 235,222 while Nixon got 44,396 and Rockefeller 38,669.

Chamber Opposed to Change in Electing School Board

The Manchester Chamber of Commerce board of directors has voted opposition to the proposed charter change dealing with the method of electing members of the Board of Education.

The Chamber's position is that continuity on the board would be jeopardized, this would place a great deal of power in the hands of the administration and, therefore, the Board of Education would not be able to properly fulfill its function.

The Chamber noted that "Manchester has a fine educational system and, for the most part, the educational system has been free of politics."

The Chamber, in explaining its position, stated that it would tend to destroy continuity on the school board, and would make the board far more politically responsive.

Contract Signed For Sewers in Longview Area

A contract which will expand the sewer system in the Longview section of town was signed by town officials Monday.

The major portion of the homes in Ellington are serviced by septic tanks. Those in the Longview section will be hooked into the Rockville filtration plant. Drainage in that area has been a serious problem.

Residents in the area are being asked to consider where the lateral will be placed leading to their property and to advise inspector Jarvis Clapp. Applications for hooking into the line may be obtained by building inspector Lester Seifert.

Tolland Hearing on Town Budget Planned for Next Tuesday

The public hearing on the proposed budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 will be held next Tuesday. The hearing will be the first budget hearing to be held in town since the formation of a Board of Finance last year.

The budget will be presented by the board and discussed on all phases of the budget will be open to the public. Explanations on the budget items will be given by town officials.

The hearing partially replaces the annual town meeting, which will now be limited to acceptance, rejection or reduction of the budget as presented to the meeting.

Actual changes to the budget will result from the sentiments expressed during the public hearing.

Board of Finance chairman Howard Wolfanger has stated he will make the proposed budget public prior to the hearing and will have copies available at the door the night of the hearing.

The finance board has been working on the various budget requests in private work sessions.

Budgets Made Public
Two boards made their budgets public prior to submitting them to the Board of Finance. The Board of Education budget of $1,426,273 represents a 35 per cent increase over last year. It includes an estimate of teachers' salaries, since negotiations with the TEA have not been completed.

A 15 per cent increase occurs in a year where the local schools will experience an enrollment increase of at least 30 per cent, including the addition of kindergarten and 10th grade classes to the present school system.

This year's 1,605 student enrollment will jump to over 2,100 in September according to last year's school enumeration report, including only children living in town as of October 1967.

The Planning and Zoning Commission budget (included in the Board of Selectmen budget) totals $3,240 compared to $4,000 last year.

494,000 in Surplus
The Grand List presently stands at $26,262,000 including a $1,422,000 increase over last year. A mill will be worth about $22.85 per $1,000 of assessed valuation, based on 65 per cent of the 1960 market value, according to the assessor's formula used by the town.

The Board of Education will return a surplus of $25,000 to the town, and the Planning and Incredible! They're all Grade "A", you know, and labeled so. Bet you don't know another brand that is.

Grade "A" that's the best. You can't buy better.

You're still not sure? Tell you what this week, buy a can of A&P Whole Small Green Beans. Picked at a precise tender age, they are simply delicious.

You think this is just advertising talk? Try them. You'll get your money back if you don't think they're the best you ever tasted.

Is this a good reason for shopping A&P? It's one of many.

P. S. If you're not a string bean lover, pick any A&P Brand Canned Vegetable. As we said, they're all Grade "A", all absolutely, unconditionally guaranteed.

Stamps In the News

By SYD KRONISH AP Newsfeatures

An unusual tribute as well as philatelic issuance comes in the form of a sheet of four stamps produced by the Federal Republic of Germany.

Dr. Adenauer appears on the 50 pfennig blue, Churchill on the 10 pf brown, De Gasperi of Italy on the 20 pf green and Schuman of France on the 20 pf red.

Inscribed on the sheet in German are the words "The First Anniversary of the Death of Chancellor Dr. Konrad Adenauer, April 18, 1968."

Dr. Adenauer, affectionately called "Der Alte" (The Old Man) was the first chancellor of the new Germany and largely responsible for its postwar reconstruction.

The sheet of West German stamps will be available at your local stamp dealer.

Maybe it was color TV, or perhaps the greater use of color by newspapers and magazines. Nevertheless, pressure is now being brought to have U.S. postage stamps reproduced in full color by newspapers and other publications.

To prove his point he exhibited a publication that reproduced John F. Kennedy stamps issued by 56 nations—55 in color and, ironically, the only one not in color by the United States.

Barbados commemorated the 20th anniversary of the Economic Commission for Latin America by issuing a special 15 cent stamp featuring the United Nations Building in Santiago, Chile.

The car was built in this country and shipped to Kuwait for the sheik's approval. The list price was $40,000.

He sent the car back because platforms on the outside of the auto were not wide enough for his bodyguards to stand on.

The car sat in a garage in this country five years while attorneys tried to decide what should be done with it.

TPC Rejects Apartments, Lack Sewer

A plan to build a 26-unit apartment complex on Jefferson St. submitted by Archambault Builders of Wethersfield, was disapproved unanimously by members of the Town Planning Commission Monday night.

Victor Swanson, president of the Eighth Utilities District, earlier told Town Planner Joseph Tansky and Town Engineer William O'Neill that 10 years ago plans to run sewer lines up Jefferson St. were abandoned due to prohibitive costs.

School Board Asks Teachers To Cite Work of Minorities

Two policies concerning minority groups were adopted by the Board of Education Monday night. The policies will be incorporated in the board's rules and policies and in the teachers' handbook.

The first statement reads: "Emphasis should be made by teachers of the role of minority groups and the contributions they have made and are making in our culture."

The second reads: "Learning materials should be carefully screened by the curriculum committee to be sure that they do not reflect biases that are involved and unfair to these minority groups."

Mr. Marie Herbst, another board member, said that the library books are the ones being closer scrutiny. He also said if nothing is being done on the first point then it should be made policy. "If we are not doing this, we are not giving our children a realistic approach," he said.

Arthur Callahan made a motion that the board not adopt the board in the absence of the board at the present time. Edith Casati, questioned, "His motion was defeated."
