B52s Pound Foe Near Cambodia

SAYON (AP) — American B-52 bombers rained almost four million pounds of bombs Friday and today on enemy positions, mostly in the Cambodian frontier area where the enemy has tried three times in three days to overrun border watching posts.

Altogether intelligence officers said they were pummeled by the enemy's maneuvers in this area. One estimate is that the enemy command does not now have forces in position for a major thrust at its ultimate goal, Saigon, and is harrying border outposts to draw out American and South Vietnamese forces.

Huey Newton Jailed Eldridge Cleaver's Parole Revoked

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Huey Newton, 26, the group's founder, was whisked away in a heavily guarded station wagon after being sentenced to 2 1/2 years on a conviction of voluntary manslaughter in the gun-fight death a year ago of Oakland policeman John Frey.

The increased B52 raids in the North Vietnam Province appeared aimed at forcing such a strategy. However, U.S. troops reported killing 22 enemy troops, while seven Americans were killed and nine wounded in a fight near the Duc Lap Special Forces camp in the central highlands.

Education officials said some university faculties and high schools would hire substitute teachers on a day-to-day basis.

College Selection Guide

Want a Small or Large School?

By ELLA MARIE NEA Publications Division & Staff of

For years I had seen photos of the Grand Canyon, but not till the day I myself stood on the rim did its true scale register on my consciousness.

By the same token, it's a good idea to take your own measure against whatever small and large colleges are within your immediate area. Walk around their grounds and through their buildings, try to try them on for size. Regardless of whether the setting is urban or rural, the architecture classical or modern, the students active or lethargic, a small college has a different "feel" than a large one.

If a small-scale college seems to fit, you might not want to lose yourself in the mass of humanity at a large, more important university.

If you respond to the dynamic, people-in-motion atmosphere of a big school, you could find a little one stimulating.

A realistic appraisal of your own personality, of how you relate to others, will help determine whether or not you fit in to be the close contact with fellow students and faculty inherent in the small-college environment, the utmost in diversity of faculty critics, activities, and people at a "megacity," or something in between.

Division 2: Good, Men Or Women

Are you going to opt for a coed college, or one for just men or women? The coed colleges must be chosen something right, because the others are rapidly joining their ranks. This year has seen Sarah Lawrence (women) and Wesleyan University (men), among others, going coed.

Yale and Vassar were segregated.

Sheinwold on Bridge

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

It's helpful to recognize certain combinations of cards and to see at a glance what you can and what you cannot do with them. If you can't accomplish enough by your own efforts, let the opponents help you.

Opening lead — queen of spades.

South was the first trick with the king of spades and recognized the club situation at a glance. If he led the clubs himself, he was likely to lose two club tricks. But if the opponent broke the clubs, South had a fine chance to limit the club loss to one trick.

South therefore set out to make the opponents help him. He drew two clubs of trumps with the ace and king, and then abandoned trumps to cash the ace of spades.

South resumed the trumps by leading to dummy's ten. This put him in position to ruff dummy's last two spades. This play both trumps have been circumvented by some means.

Most town officials have been conscientious in following the intent of the law and continued with those who resent public observation and who fear the publicity that could result from any inaccuracy. Clarifying the right to know law will force all town officials to be more responsive to the people they are supposed to represent.

Ahern said that the law should be amended so that "private meetings" would be strictly limited to matters of a personal nature — which will be spelled out in the bill.

He also recommended that "the agencies on the filing of minutes of every board should be clearly spelled out," noting the varying interpretations in different towns.

"An amendment should be made so that a copy of all the minutes of all town boards, agencies, and commissions would be kept on file in the town clerk's office for perusal by any interested citizen any time during the clerk's office hours," the candidate said. "A citizen should not have to make an appointment with a member of a board to read a public record."

He added that "appropriate positive measures" should be included in the amendment "to force compliance by reluctant officials."

Heralding Homes

Old Tavern Makes Unorthodox House

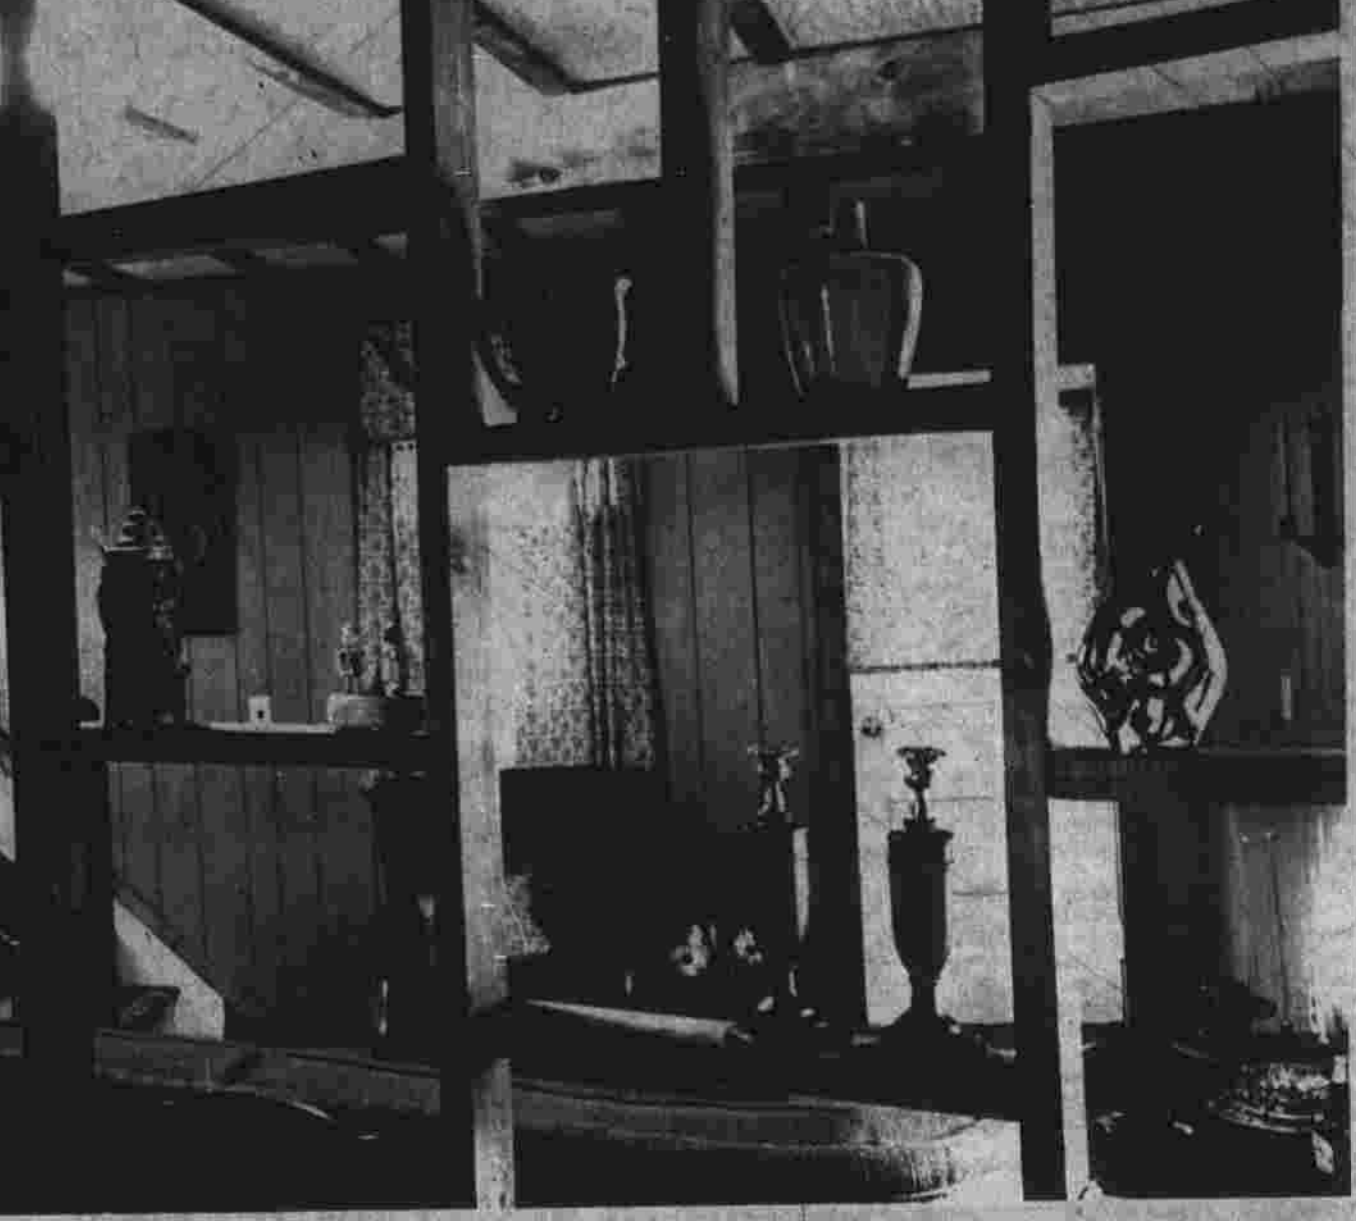

The highwayman came riding, riding; the highwayman came riding up to the old tavern door. And whether "Bea, the highwayman's daughter, the black-eyed highwayman's daughter" whom Alfred Noyes immortalized in his famous poem, may have dwelt in such a tavern as appears here will never be known. But Mrs. Hacheve, who is an art teacher in the Rockville High School, has made use of her talents and with her original creativity has turned the one-time ugly duckling into a beautiful swan. As Mr. Pelogon says, "I had no idea it could be made so attractive until I saw what Mrs. Hacheve had done to it."

The front door opens directly into the living room. Mrs. Hacheve has established red and green color accents in her room with green curtains and her green coat accents in her room. A large framed artwork of a woman's face adorns the wall. A "hobbyhorse" is a feature on the low table beneath the artwork.

A built-in dish cabinet is antiqued in green with stained glass panels. The narrow kitchen area, barely large enough for two, is furnished with a charming small round table and chairs also antiqued in green with stained trim. "We picked up the whole set for only two dollars," Mrs. Hacheve admits. The one treasure is a music cabinet made by her grandfather which is also in the kitchen and painted green. A son's desk, dark, chair has become a bright red wooden rocker.

In the corner of the stair landing near the top is an antique armchair painted red and contains a Philodendron.

A stained wood open-space divider adorned with some of Mrs. Hacheve's original creations creates living-room and kitchen from a wedge-shaped area. As Mrs. Hacheve descends the stairs, she pauses in front of her red rooster painting on wood.

Present owner, Roger Pelogon, who added wall painting, stained ceiling, beams and a room divider which changed an unorthodox wedge-shaped area into a living-room and a kitchen. Since the Hacheve moved in last summer, Mrs. Hacheve, who is an art teacher in the Rockville High School, has made use of her talents and with her original creativity has turned the one-time ugly duckling into a beautiful swan. As Mr. Pelogon says, "I had no idea it could be made so attractive until I saw what Mrs. Hacheve had done to it."

UN Vote on Bombing Halt Would Benefit Hanoi

By WILLIAM L. REYAN

A UN Special Correspondent said today that a vote on a proposal to bring the problem of the Vietnam war before the United Nations would be implicit in Hanoi's own inspiration for such a move. Hanoi, the correspondent said, is in a court of rejection.

"The Vietnam problem is no concern of the United Nations and the United Nations has no right to interfere in any way on the Vietnam question," said the North Vietnamese Foreign Ministry.

That did not give up, the United States welcomed his proposal, although stipulating that in any talks, the government of South Vietnam would have to be involved and the interests of all peoples of the United States would have to be taken into account.

By May, the secretary-general at concluded that "neither side has fully and unconditionally accepted" his proposals and that they had to be regarded as no longer under consideration.

In September last year, the United States sought a U.N. role in the conflict, and Hanoi responded with anger.

"Trying to get the United Nations to interfere in Vietnam is a showpiece plot of the U.S. imperialism in their aggression against Vietnam," protested the official Hanoi Communist newspaper Nhan Dan. "The Vietnamese people have many times clearly stated that the United Nations has no right whatsoever to interfere in Vietnam."

The secretary-general now suggests that the current session of the General Assembly take up a resolution calling for a bombing halt, though his spokesman clearly stated that the United Nations has no right whatsoever to interfere in Vietnam.

Some of the hostility of Hanoi to the United Nations probably springs from a belief that any U.N. role in Vietnam, would tend to be too broad at recognition of the South Vietnamese government.

WELCOME BACK TO SCHOOL
TUCON, Arts (AP) - "The first day of school is usually a confusing one for students and teachers. But Flowing Wells School District in Tucson was a model of student cooperation and teacher efficiency on its first day."

The only problems were mechanical.

Ahern gave an update at one school shut down the air conditioning in 90-degree heat. Then the telephone quit.

A sewer backed up into another school's cafeteria.

At a new school in the district, principal George Hman was walking down a hallway when a worker met him. It was returned to a second grade classroom.

Four On A Pin The difference — not necessarily favorable — between the Middle Ages and ourselves is this: That the ploughmen and ecclesiastics of the Middle Ages dealt patiently and inconspicuously as to how many angels could dance on the head of a pin, while the scientists of today pronounce without hesitation that precisely four trichogrammas can "crouch on the head of a pin."

Trichogramma are easier to define and to recognize than angina. They are very small, very tiny wasps, and their growing role in American agriculture is that of going out and scourging the ranks of crop-raiding moths.

These wasps like to lay their eggs inside moth eggs. Biting moth eggs which contain such parasitic wasp eggs has become an industry. A square-inch of moth eggs will take out into the field some 2,000 trichogrammas within whom they get themselves born will be able to handle the insect purification of an acre of land.

If one is to enforce a classification of moths upon insects, then, the four-on-a-pin trichogramma are good angels, not doing good work among the sinners of the fields by slaying them dead. The development of such genetic weapons has a growing importance in a world which is being forced to become more and more careful about the way mass chemicals in its war against its pests. The use of biological natural agents against injurious pests leaves no potentially dangerous residues on the land or in the air; apparently the victims develop no gradual immunity to the biological attack, as they have repeatedly developed various degrees of immunity to some of the chemicals used against them.

Such pleasant thoughts about the four-on-a-pin aspect of the matter fall only when we happen to remember that trichogramma means wasp, a four-letter word which has never been used in a friendly or useful sense or connotation.

Trichogramma are easier to define and to recognize than angina. They are very small, very tiny wasps, and their growing role in American agriculture is that of going out and scourging the ranks of crop-raiding moths.

WE REGRET TO INFORM YOU, BECAUSE OF THEFTS AND VANDALISM IN OUR CHURCH, ST. PETER'S WILL HAVE TO CLOSE AND LOCK HER DOORS AT HOURS OTHER THAN WHEN SERVICES ARE BEING HELD.

WE STRONGLY URGE YOU TO VISIT THE BLESSED SACRAMENT, AND HOPE THAT YOU WILL DO SO BY ENTERING AND LEAVING THE CHURCH THROUGH THE RECTORY.

NOTICE

Capitol Hill Church Closed St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church, top, two blocks from the Capitol in Washington, D.C., at right in photo, is locking its doors except during church services because of thefts and vandalism. A sign on the door, lower photo, explains. About six years ago in the church, located at Second and C Streets, S.E., a congressional aide was stabbed numerous times as she prayed on an afternoon visit to the church. (AP Photos)

Four On A Pin The difference — not necessarily favorable — between the Middle Ages and ourselves is this: That the ploughmen and ecclesiastics of the Middle Ages dealt patiently and inconspicuously as to how many angels could dance on the head of a pin, while the scientists of today pronounce without hesitation that precisely four trichogrammas can "crouch on the head of a pin."

Stock Market Closes Week With Rise

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market closed the week with a labored advance. Taking off from Thursday's mixed finish, the market showed some weakness and then gradually edged into higher ground. It would have had a row of nine straight advances had Thursday's performance not marred the picture.

Traders who had looked for a consolidation phase after the long run-up found themselves at odds with the traders. Favorable factors during the week had been a cut in the prime rate by Chase Manhattan Bank and the implementation of easing credit. The Chase move was followed by others, and a report of a sharp surge in mid-September auto sales added bullish lustre.

Major steel makers trimmed their projections for the 1968 shipments, but investors appeared to choose the glimmer this in favor of a view that full 1968 production would still surpass last year's.

New factory orders were reported for last month. General Motors and Ford announced price increases for their 1968 models, well below those announced earlier by Chrysler. The industry seemed to be staying within limits acceptable to Washington, and the week ended Chrysler rolled back its hood to similar levels.

Traders had the day of again Wednesday when the exchanges were closed for the half-against-paper week. Accumulated demand from the off day, plus that built by the absence of many Wall Streeters to observe the Jewish holy days at the start of the week, spilled over Thursday to give the market its fifth highest volume on record.

Contributing a strong undercurrent of strength throughout the week was the fact that this coming Monday would be the last chance for the big funds and institutional investors to rearrange portfolios before making their quarterly report.

Of 1,000 issues traded during the week, 561 advanced and 617 fell. New yearly highs were reached by 244 issues while 15 fell to new lows. Turnover for the four-day trading session was $9,976,754 shares, compared with $9,311,120 the previous week. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks advanced 12.28 to 828.82. It had reached 808.26 Tuesday, the highest since it closed at 943.06 Sept. 25 a year ago.

For Catholic Dissenters Crackdown on Priests May Become Test Case

By GEORGE W. CONNELL
 PHILADELPHIA (AP) - A proposed crackdown on priests who dissent against the American bishops' opposition to the Vietnam war could become a test case for American Catholics dissenting against the Vatican's stance on the issue. The proposed crackdown would require dissenting priests to register with the local bishop and to submit to a review process. The proposed crackdown would also require dissenting priests to submit to a review process. The proposed crackdown would also require dissenting priests to submit to a review process. The Bible Speaks

By Eugene Brazner
 By this I accept the Bible as a divine revelation through men to men. By observation I have seen the wisdom in many of the commands and prohibitions which seemed unreasonable on the surface ultimately proved to be in man's best interests. Princess and Princess Visit Space Center
SPACIE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — Princess Rainier and Princess Grace of Monaco spent an hour at the Manned Spacecraft Center Friday.

Dorothy Malone Going to Texas
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Dorothy Malone lost a bid for higher child support payments Friday but received court permission to take her daughters, Mimi, 8, and Diane, 6, to live in Dallas, Tex., her hometown.

Superior Court Judge Marvin A. Freeman denied Miss Malone's request for $600 rather than $300 monthly from her ex-husband, actor Jacques Bergerac, and gave him the right to see the girls more often.

Miss Malone, 43, former star of the "Peyton Place" television series, says she plans to retire from acting because of ill health. A blood clot lodged in a lung three years ago, nearly killing her, she said she felt her health would be better in Dallas.

Bergerac has been seeing the children on Wednesday afternoons. He now can visit them on alternate weekends and one month each summer.

Miss Malone and Bergerac, married in 1959, were divorced in 1964.

Six in Family At Same University
GRAND FORKS, N.D. (AP) — The Steckler family of Grand Forks has agreed that the University of North Dakota is its school.

With the enrollment in its fall of five students, 17, the family has six members at the campus here. Others are Steve, 19, a sophomore; Mary Jo and Mike, 20-year-old twins in their third year; Pete, a 21-year-old senior; and Mrs. Mary Steckler, their mother, who is working toward a postgraduate degree in education.

Jim Steckler, 23, youngest of the family, says he will enroll at the university when he's old enough.

Mrs. Steckler, whose husband died in 1967, says all of the youngsters have at least one scholarship to ease school costs.

White House Usher Retires After 50 Years
WASHINGTON (AP) — A man named Johnson, who entered the White House 22 years before the President named Johnson, has retired from government service.

President Johnson praised Thomas J. Johnson, 68, who retired Friday as usher at the Executive Mansion. He started working there under President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

After 20 years I'll take a rest for a while and then I'll think about the future," said Johnson, who recalled shepherding leaders such as Winston Churchill, Madame Chiang Kai-shek and Russia's G. M. Molotov into the White House.

"I don't need any work right now," he said.

Most of Humphrey's speech was an attack on his Republican opponent, Richard M. Nixon.

Accusing Nixon of "running a shadow campaign," the Democrat said the Republicans are failing to speak clearly on major issues and again challenged him to a series of televised debates.

The candidate asserted that the Democrats would win the November election "if we keep our cool."

At the end of his talk, George W. Ball made a surprise appearance, having just flown in from the East. Ball, recently resigned as chief U.S. ambassador to the United Nations to become Humphrey's words, "my chief foreign policy adviser."

Negro Youths Attack Buses In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Groups of young Negroes disrupted a Near North Side neighborhood for several hours Friday night in a series of rock-throwing incidents.

Firemen said they rescued from a city bus about 30 white passengers who were being manhandled by one band of Negroes.

A fireman was struck in the head with a bottle, and some other injuries were reported, none believed serious.

Two teen-agers were arrested. One was turned over to the juvenile authorities and was not immediately charged. The other, a youth of 17, was charged with battery and resisting arrest.

Police said minor incidents began about dusk. Later, young Negroes watched from high-rise housing projects for approaching city buses, ran out and threw rocks at the buses then scurried back into the buildings before they could be apprehended.

About two hours after the disturbances began, a Negro bus driver, Eric Manier, 22, said his vehicle was stopped by 30 to 50 young Negroes who threatened him and ordered him off the bus.

Manier said the youths began beating and pushing the 30 white passengers. Firemen from a nearby station rescued the passengers within minutes.

Earlier, another Negro bus driver said he was driven from his disabled vehicle by young Negroes who vandalized the bus. Both drivers said money was taken from them.

After the bus incidents, bands of young Negroes roamed through the neighborhood, throwing rocks at squad cars, police said.

Officers blocked off the neighborhood and brought the area under control at about 11 p.m. Police said residents of the area attributed the disturbance to youth dissatisfaction over the lack of recreational facilities in the area.

Bill Seen Bar in South To School Desegregation

(Continued from Page One) the meantime—for at least a year—they fear the provision could devastate HEW's increasingly successful program to end most segregated school systems in the South by the fall of 1969.

HEW has been closing in rapidly on such systems in the past year by rejecting freedom-of-choice plans which haven't resulted in full desegregation.

Freedom-of-choice allows parents to choose any school they want their youngsters to attend. Most such approaches have produced only token integration, HEW officials say.

The Supreme Court decision May 27 gave support to HEW's position. It held that if freedom-of-choice "fails to undo segregation, other means must be used to achieve this end."

Well-Wishers Bid Farewell to Tamskys

Town Planner Joseph Tamsky, right, surrounded by his family, accepts going-away gift from Town Manager Robert Weiss, presented on behalf of the 60 well-wishers who attended a testimonial dinner last night at the Manchester Country Club. Yesterday was Tamsky's last day as Manchester town planner, after 4 1/2 years in the job. He has taken a similar post in Norway. In back, next to Weiss, is Tamsky's daughter, Stella. Next to Tamsky is his wife, Miriam. In center is Benjamin and at right, Ezra. A third Tamsky son, Adam, is away at college. The box contains a Polaroid camera. Tamsky received one other gift, this one from Town Counsel John Shea. It is a plastic raincoat, to settle a playful claim once filed by Tamsky. It was for a used raincoat, ruined one day when Tamsky fell into the Hockanum River. The raincoat had been left on a hanger outside the Hearing Room and had been unclaimed for several months. Tamsky wore it on an inspection tour of the river.

A two-thirds majority of senators voting will be required to put closure into effect.

An Associated Press poll earlier this week showed opponents had 33 votes—one more than enough—to keep the filibuster going. Dirksen's switch would raise that to 36.

ABA approval of federal judgeships, usually through its committee, has become increasingly important in recent years with presidents and the Senate generally respecting its opinion.

A spokesman for the ABA said "I can't recall" any instance where the committee had reconsidered endorsement of a nominee for a federal judgeship.

The ABA spokesman said he could recall only one case in recent years of a nomination being pushed despite ABA opposition.

That was the 1965 nomination of Boston Municipal Judge Francis X. Morrissey to the federal district bench. It was withdrawn before reaching a vote.

There appeared to be little likelihood the ABA would or

The Air Force pilot parachuted to safety after his F100 Supercobra was shot down Friday along the central coast.

The two planes brought to 309 the number of American aircraft reported shot down by enemy fire in South Vietnam. In addition, 873 helicopters have been reported downed in the South.

Headquarters reported that Navy pilots in strikes over North Vietnam Friday went back after a missile site north-west of Vinh and one Navy pilot put an air-to-ground missile right on the location—the second missile site blasted in two days.

Several missiles have been fired at American pilots in the area recently.

Air Force, Navy and Marine pilots flew 118 missions over the North Friday and reported destroying or damaging 42 riverboats and 17 trucks.

Vote Set Tuesday On Fortas Issue

Michigan Republican Robert P. Griffin also said he expects the switch to prompt other defections.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Dirksen's switch "sure as hell will" make a difference in the fight to break a filibuster on a motion to call up Fortas' nomination for consideration.

Mansfield filed a petition Friday, on the third day of the filibuster, to invoke the Senate's debate-limiting closure rule.

Filing of the petition, signed by 18 Democrats and 8 Republicans, automatically scheduled a vote for 1 p.m. Tuesday, one hour after the Senate is to meet.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., directing the floor fight for confirmation, said he was "dismayed but perhaps not surprised" by Dirksen's action.

Hart said he knew of nothing to indicate that the nomination would be withdrawn before Tuesday's vote. Hart, perhaps significantly, did not speculate on what could happen after Tuesday.

A two-thirds majority of senators voting will be required to put closure into effect.

"Worst of all," he added, "there will be further impairment of public confidence in the Supreme Court."

McClellan, in an arm waving, shouting speech, said that Fortas should immediately ask the President to withdraw his name.

Among things that would have to be gone into, McClellan said, are films, pictures, magazines and books "so indecent and so degrading" that the Senate would have to go into secret session to consider them.

He said these materials have in effect been legalized by Supreme Court decisions in which Fortas joined and which McClellan blamed for "opening the floodgates to pornography."

Hansen said the nomination not only should be withdrawn but Fortas, a Supreme Court Justice since 1965, should immediately resign. He said Fortas' services for the President since going on the bench disqualified him.

Police Log

Judge Gets Briefs In Limerick Case

Judge Henry Naruk, in Hartford County Court of Common Pleas yesterday, took under advisement a plea of abatement, filed on behalf of the directors of the 8th Utilities District.

The plea is to dismiss a suit brought by former 8th District fire chief Francis Limerick, who is seeking court permission to retain his District fire marshal post.

The plea of abatement was filed by Atty. Seymour Robenberg, law partner of Atty. John D. LaBelle, counsel for the District.

A brief, asking denial of the plea, was filed by Atty. Leo Flaherty of Rockville, Limerick's counsel.

Judge Naruk gave no indication when he would make a decision on yesterday's written arguments.

Limerick, in papers filed Aug. 6, claims that he was dismissed from the position of fire marshal and that, as provided in Section 29-47 of the State General Statutes, he was not given a reason in writing for the alleged dismissal, nor a chance to argue his case at a public hearing.

The 8th District directors contend that he was not dismissed. They claim that his term as fire marshal expired July 15. On that date, by a 4 to 3 vote, they elected new Fire Chief Granville Lingard the new fire marshal.

Limerick was told by District president Clinton O'Brien that he had not been dismissed, that his term had ended, that the board had voted under its right to make an appointment, and that, consequently, no letter would be issued.

Limerick, on April 7, had resigned his fire chief post, effective May 1. He cited "personal reasons," and declined to elaborate.

He said that he would play on as a volunteer fireman and that he would like to retain the fire marshal job.

During a recess in the July 15 meeting, preceding the 4 to 3 vote, Atty. LaBelle had been contacted by phone for a ruling. He ruled that the board was free to appoint whomsoever it wanted, on the basis that Limerick's term had expired that day.

Following Limerick's May 7 resignation as fire chief, the board had appointed Lingard to the post.

O'Brien cast the tie-breaking vote when Lingard was elected fire marshal. He said that, in his opinion, the office of fire chief and fire marshal should be combined, as they had been traditionally. He warned of possible friction, if the posts were filled by two men.

The State Fire Marshal's office is following a "hands off" policy on certifying an 8th District fire marshal, pending the position of the court action.

Police Pursue Stolen Truck In Wild, Area-Wide Chase

A wild chase during which shots were fired early this morning by Manchester Police, involving the alleged theft of a truck from the construction site at the North End project, resulted in injury to the driver and two officers after police pursued him through Manchester, Vernon, Bolton, back to Manchester, and into Glastonbury. Charged in the incident is Thomas J. Boyle, 21, of 24 Woodbridge St.

Sgt. Tambling of the Manchester Police saw the truck being taken from the site on N. Main St. at 4:45 a.m. and began chasing it east on Woodbridge St. The truck ran him off the road on Woodbridge St. and his vehicle was smashed on one side.

Another cruiser was called and came up behind the vehicle in Vernon on Taylor St. where another cruiser was already in pursuit. Neither police car could get in front of the truck as the driver was trying to force them off the road. The chase, not in excess of 60 m.p.h., went into Vernon, Bolton, back to Manchester in the direction of Highland Park section, down Spring St. and on to E. Main St. toward Glastonbury.

It went into Glastonbury by way of Keeney St. and on to Hebron Ave. heading east. Near Glastonbury it got on to a dead end road. The truck then turned around and started back. It then turned on to Rt. 2, and at that point apparently ran out of gas and rolled to a stop.

Police were immediately at the door of the vehicle and the operator came out kicking and swinging. Boyle put up a very hard fight, police say, and they had to use force to bring him into custody.

Officers Herriage and Taylor of the Manchester police, a State Police officer, an officer from Glastonbury and Sgt. Thurston of Manchester were all at the scene and helped to subdue the driver of the truck.

Officer Taylor injured his hand in the struggle to subdue Boyle, and Officer Herriage injured his right forearm. Boyle was also injured at this time and taken to Manchester Memorial Hospital. He is reported in fair condition with multiple lacerations and a cerebral concussion.

During the chase several gunshots were fired in an attempt to halt the truck.

The vehicle was a 1960 platform truck owned by Miller Bros. Inc. of Bolton.

'Laugh-In' Censors: TV's Most Unnerving Job

By WAYNE WANGA The Los Angeles Times HOLLYWOOD — They have the most unnerving jobs in network television...

of last season which returned to the tube Monday night as proof positive that witty, topical comment can thrive in a medium heretofore content to glide glossily by.

First there was Richard Nixon arriving in beautiful downtown Burbank one day to say, 'Sock it to Me!' Cummings and Traviesas, assisted by the NBC legal men, had to maneuver their way around the equal time ruling.

time be given a similar eight seconds on the air. NBC agreed. So far so good. Then came the ceremonies for the unveiling of actress Barbara Eden's navel, a prospect that unraveled more than a few executive nerves.

George Schlatter, 'Laugh-In's' executive producer submitted a new unveiling ceremony. Traviesas and Cummings were satisfied and told Schlatter they would try to get the scene in the show provided it was not to become a running gag.

They lost, even though the entire executive staff had been told about the scene and no one objected at the time. The word came down via Robert Kasmitre, NBC executive vice president in charge of program practices in New York, NBC's high court of censorship.

'What do you mean, they say?' Schlatter fired back. 'Who's they?' This place is like joining the army. You never know who they are.

'We've got it pretty well narrowed down,' he said later. 'We figure the only person who could be shocked by seeing a navel must be someone who doesn't read newspapers, magazines, take showers or watch deodorant commercials on television.'

What is unique in this confrontation is that it involved the 'Laugh-In' producers on one side and the NBC management on the other, with the two network censors lobbying for the producers. And for allowing their censors—traditional company men at best—the latitude to fight, NBC, right or wrong in their final decision, must be congratulated. They're trying.

As soon as a script is written, and after it has passed what Schlatter describes as 'our own self-censoring readings,' it is submitted to Cummings and Traviesas. They read it almost immediately and quickly get together for a conference.

Next the discussion with Schlatter and Friendly. Both men usually wait until after the run-though of the show and the subsequent revised script before asking for changes. They have learned that Schlatter often permits the insertion of questionable material so that he can get his unorthodox cast in high gear. Much of it has been re-

Can a Boy Find Happiness as a Girl Model?

By ALEENE MACBENN The Los Angeles Times HOLLYWOOD — If you happen to catch actor Peter Kastner singing 'I Enjoy Being a Girl,' don't panic. Kastner has every right to use that tune at the moment for he is the bright, hip, eager, personable young man chosen by Screen Gems to star in the title role of the new ABC comedy series, 'The Ugliest Girl in Town.'

What's a male doing as the star of a show with a title like that? Well, what happens as the series gets under way is that

Kastner is a kookie young Hollywood talent agent who finds that the only way he can follow his fiancée to England is to disguise himself as a female model.

Then once the masquerade has begun, he can't get out of it. So as the episodes unfold, Kastner is seen both as talent agent Timothy and as the sensation of the modeling world, Timmy.

Kastner points out that 'I'm definitely a guy and in general I only masquerade as a girl under duress. And Timothy makes a terrible girl. The five o'clock shadow is always showing through and there's always the fear of being discovered. I'm never a girl long enough so that I feel I know what you girls go through. Except for eye makeup, and I hate that!'

All of these zany goings-on are set against the background of contemporary London, where the series is being filmed. The company films both in a studio and outdoors on location and Peter recalled shooting one scene when he spent the morning being dunked in and out of the Thames. 'And my, that's a chilly little river,' he shuddered.

Dunking to the contrary, he's pleased and excited about starring in his first TV series. When he was hired for the show he viewed it as a great opportunity 'to establish myself as a young leading man and as a type cast as far as Hollywood was concerned in virginal roles, such as the part I played in 'You're a Big Boy Now.'

He's devoted to his acting career and wants to 'make it' as a big television star. But he isn't forgetting that there's more to the world than performing. 'The TV business is very exciting because it's a combination of so many elements, but it can be very devastating to one individual. If I know what's good for me I'll go back to school (he's majoring in Russian at UCLA) in January when we go on hiatus just to get engulfed in a totally different area.'

He may not make it because by January the demands on Peter Kastner, the actor, will be numerous, particularly if the series is a hit. But at least he's thinking in the right direction and trying not to allow himself to get heady over the swell smell of success.
