Yale Goes Coed Next September

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Female Yalies will become a common fact in 10 months, according to Yale University President Kingman Brewster Jr. The first women are to be admitted as undergraduates at the 267-year-old institution in September, under a plan agreed upon in a touchy series of negotiations during the past few weeks. "Not less than 500 women will begin classes at the college in the fall, Brewster said.

Brewster made the coeducational plan public Tuesday. An earlier plan, announced last week, was opposed by students. Under the former plan, one of the residential colleges for upperclassmen, Trumbull College, would have been turned over to the approximately 250 freshmen women.

A majority of students indicated in a poll taken by the Yale Daily News, the student newspaper, they disapproved of separating the female students in one or only a few colleges among the 12 undergraduate colleges constituting Yale College. The new plan would place the freshmen women in three of the residential colleges if they wish, Brewster said, "if it can be worked out that sufficient privacy can be afforded." Each of the 12 residential colleges at Yale has separate dining, social and library facilities.

Yale officials estimate that their goal of 1,500 women under the current plan will cost the university about $55 million. The current plan was hammered out in hurried conferences and polls of faculty and students.

The announcement Tuesday also set up a planning committee on coeducation, which Brewster said would be the final authority on development of housing and other plans concerned with undergraduate coeducation. Members of the committee include Henry Chauncey Jr., assistant to the Yale president, and Elgin Wasserman, assistant dean of the graduate school.

Two faculty members, two masters of residential colleges and two members of the student advisory board are to be on the committee, along with two women graduate students, Brewster said.

At New Britain Bank Police Scanning Film For Robbery Clues

NEW BRITAIN, Conn. (AP)—Federal and local investigators were examining film from a security camera today for leads to the man who robbed a bank Tuesday from a local graduate at Yale.

A New Britain detective reported early today, as the search continued, that there were no breaks in the case. The robber with pieces of tape partly concealing his features, first inquired about a loan. Then he told tellers he had a gun in his pocket and demanded money.

Meanwhile the security camera clicked off pictures of the holdup in the newly opened Newton Avenue branch of the New Britain Bank and Trust Co. The three women tellers were taped up but none was hurt, police said.

The robber was described as a tall white man, weighing more than 200 pounds and having red, swollen hands with sores on them. After knocking the tellers' hands and covering their eyes with tape, the man carried off the money in a paper bag. He drove off in a blue Pontiac with out-of-state markers, police said.

The holdup came today after local bankers and police officials met to discuss the accelerating robbery rate in the state. It was the state's 29th bank robbery this year but the first for New Britain in a decade. "We knew we were overdue," Chief Arthur Hayward said late Tuesday. But he added, "There wasn't anything that could have prevented it."

Robbers Bind Couple, Later Phone Police WALLINGFORD, Conn. (AP)—Two armed men robbed Mr. and Mrs. Charles Austin of $200 but kept their promise to call police so the elderly couple need not have to remain tied up in their home.

The bandits got into the house Tuesday night by saying they were representatives of Medicare. Once inside, they tied and gagged Austin, a retired cook, and tied Mrs. Austin, an invalid, to her wheelchair.

Austin was able to free himself and call police. A short time later, an anonymous call came in to the police station, telling of trouble at the Austin residence. Police said the anonymous caller was apparently one of the robbers.

Newtown Youth Found Innocent

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A Newtown, Conn., youth charged with the murder of two St. Louis men was found innocent Monday by reason of mental disease or defect and committed to the Missouri State Hospital at Fulton.

The youth, William H. Ineson, 18, was accused of strangling Norbert H. Lang, 49, on Dec. 27 and Herman K. Williams, 42, on Jan. 3.

The state did not oppose the finding in Ineson's case. A number of letters submitted by psychiatrists described Ineson as mentally and emotionally disturbed. The letters said Ineson had been in a disturbed condition since he was one year old.

The youth had been a patient at several hospitals and institutions. Ineson was committed to the state hospital by Judge William G. Ruder. Ineson was arrested the day following the murder of the 45-year-old Williams.

Williams' body was found about 8 a.m. Jan. 3. Police said Ineson and Williams were seen leaving a tavern together earlier the same day.

Police later charged Ineson in the slaying of the 47-year-old Lang, who had been found dead under similar circumstances one week earlier. Both dead men were naked and had been strangled with a necktie, police said. Ineson is the adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ineson of Newtown. His father is manufacturing manager of the Aero-Cool Division of Hixson Manufacturing Co. of Danbury. The elder Ineson also serves as a member of the Republican Town Committee in Newtown. Mrs. Ineson is a member of the Newtown Board of Education.

Police said that the time of the slaying of Lang and Herman K. Williams, 42, on Jan. 3.

Predicts Pullout Of U.S. Viet Troops NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Barry Zortian, who directed the joint U.S. Public Affairs Office in Saigon for four years, predicted Monday that 50,000 to 100,000 American troops will be pulled out of Vietnam within a year.

Zortian, 48, citing the South Vietnamese army's ability to carry a greater share of the burden, said: "My personal judgment is that we're at a stage where we can pull troops out."

"It seems to me," he said, "that what has happened since March 31 has been that both sides have said, in effect, 'We do want to stop the main-force fighting, and we've been working out an agreement.'"

Zortian is in New Haven on a three-day visit to Yale University as a Postyer Fellow.

Hayward said the officials met Monday to set guidelines for "better communication and updating our methods and procedures."

The Pavna Of Creedmore

It is not necessary to appropriate Governor Rockefeller's words to get a sick feeling over what has now begun to take place down at Creedmore State Mental Hospital in Queens, New York.

Governor Rockefeller denounced the strike by ward attendants and food service employees at the state institution as a "union power play" which made sick people "the pawns."

And New York news is full of stories of how, in preparation for the possibility of this strike, the institution had to send some 3,000 of its patients, many of them inmates for many years, out into a kind of world they were no longer capable of facing.

There were, as the strike spread, more than 3,000 patients still left in the institution, with less than half the staff apparently reporting for work through the picket lines.

In his angry statement, Governor Rockefeller warned that "the sudden removal of the remaining patients from Creedmore, or the substantial interruption of state care at the hospital, could mean death for hundreds of the aged, infirm, and bedridden patients."

The main issue in the strike has to be classified as jurisdictional one, with the fighting to get recognized as bargaining agent in place of another.

But, although issues vary, the ruthlessness of union muscle, as it begins developing itself in areas once considered sacrosanct because of the nature of their functions, seems to grow apace in the strike. The school children are pawns. The mentally ill and the infirm aged are pawns. We can't go much beyond that in our apparent effort to see how harsh and inhuman an age we can become.

Was Saigon Watching Too?

Before our national election, we were all alerted, many times over, to the probability that Hanoi was watching us very closely to see whether it would have anything to gain from the choice we made when we went to the polls.

Actually, Hanoi moved toward a new and more hopeful phase in the Paris negotiations before the election itself was held. Perhaps, however, Hanoi did this because it believed the polls which said, at the time, that Nixon was a shoo-in. But it could be that Hanoi, weighing the campaign statements of both Nixon, the one-time advocate of hawkish policies in the Eisenhower administration, and Humphrey, the one-time fervent supporter of hawk policies from the Johnson administration, decided that there really wasn't much to choose between them, and therefore not much sense in waiting for the outcome before letting the next move in the peace negotiations take place.

What has actually developed, since the election, is the possibility that it was really Saigon which was watching our election with the keener interest and the more sensitive appraisals. A Chicago Daily News correspondent has reported from Saigon that "top Saigon officials are privately boasting that they helped assure the election of President-elect Nixon" by "sabotaging" President Johnson's attempt to get a bombing halt in time to influence the election favorably for Humphrey. And other Saigon sources are quoted as believing that, once Mr. Nixon gets into the White House, the pressure on Saigon to make peace will diminish. All this could explain, of course, the slowness with which Saigon has been moving toward any participation in the Paris negotiations. It may be relying on President-elect Nixon to strengthen the United States negotiating position, turn emphasis back to beating up the war itself, and thus ease Saigon's fears that it may be abandoned, either militarily or politically, and left to face its enemies alone.

Nobody, one can be sure, is going to abandon Saigon. But that Saigon should fear such a possibility is almost inevitable for a capital in such a position of dependence upon an outside great power. Seoul has the same war when peace was being negotiated in Korea.

If it is natural and inevitable that Saigon should feel this way it does, it would be our judgment that for it to depend upon Mr. Nixon to swing back toward hard line escalation "to win the war" would be as much of a mistake in judgment as it was for Seoul to depend upon President Eisenhower, in 1954, to go over and lead American troops north into Communist China. Mr. Nixon may have been a hawk on Vietnam as far back as 1954, but there hasn't been the slightest indication that he has any desire to lead off his new administration with anything remotely approaching new and deeper commitments in Vietnam. In the end, we think, Saigon will find that neither it nor Hanoi had any particular stake in the American election, and both Asian capitals will find that instead of looking to Washington for some change which will make life and peace easier for them, they had better begin looking at each other and at their own necessities and capacities for existing together on their own continent.

Studying Connecticut Woodlands

Among the scientists currently wearing the white hats — the good guys — are the ecologists who make neither bombs nor pollutants. They seek understanding of plants and animals and their environment — the development and relationships of plant and animal communities. In these studies, population pressure on the land they first must know with alacrity.

Investigators at The Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station were early in the field. They had worn out a good many sweat-soaked caps before most people had heard the word ecology. Their line was also environmental science, although they were called foresters, agronomists, and the like.

More than 40 years ago these pioneers in ecology led by Henry W. Hillebrant, now retired, began a scientific study of the effects of plants on each other in a south-central area of Connecticut. The study has updated the study only every 10 years as the changes become apparent. The first 40 years have passed and the ecologists will soon have a detailed record of development of a plant community in the suburban forest through the four decades.

By the end of the first 30 years the number of trees in the sample forest had decreased as the pioneer species and seedlings were crowded out. In forests, as elsewhere, competition is relentless.

The oaks declined in number, but the survivors got bigger and gained what foresters call dominance, going from 37 per cent of the leaf canopy in 1927 to 85 per cent in 1957. Then came the dry years of the early 60's. The oak leaf-devouring insects, their population at a peak, also hit the drought-stricken oaks. There were fewer large oaks in 1967 than in 1957.

While the big oak trees were becoming dominant — the period from 1927 to 1967 or a little later the number of small oaks decreased. A dominant organism does not always create an environment suitable for the young of its own kind. The logrowth of maples and beech increased.

But, although issues vary, the ruthlessness of union muscle, as it begins developing itself in areas once considered sacrosanct because of the nature of their functions, seems to grow apace in the strike. The school children are pawns. The mentally ill and the infirm aged are pawns. We can't go much beyond that in our apparent effort to see how harsh and inhuman an age we can become.

Inside Report

by Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON—One day last week, Washington lobbyist John Graves stopped in at the office of the Democratic chairman of a Midwest state and asked him to support DeLoe L. Houtchens for Democratic National Chairman when Lawrence F. O'Brien resigns, probably within the next couple of weeks.

This visitation is the first clear sign that Houtchens, now in the Missouri State Chairman, and Missouri Gov. Warren Hearnes are trying to collect on an ill-advised promise made by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey last May when Humphrey was bidding for the support of Missouri's delegation to the national convention.

Also wooing Hearnes and Houtchens was Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, working for his brother's nomination. Kennedy was lunched with Hearnes on May 21, one day before the state convention that would pick the convention delegates.

Kennedy was less expansive than Humphrey had been. All that Hearnes got was a pledge that at the end of Hearnes' second term, Bobby Kennedy—if elected President—would make Hearnes an ambassador to an unspecified foreign country.

Hearnes regarded this low bid as an insult and so at Chicago he and Houtchens labored mightily for Humphrey, delivering 66 votes and presiding for him in the hotel rooms.

Then came Humphrey's sudden decision to dump Houtchens for O'Brien, so quick he did not have time to tell Houtchens until after it happened. To soothe the shocked and angry Hearnes and Houtchens, he restated his earlier promise, making it contingent on the day of O'Brien.

Humphrey can't and shouldn't try to deliver on that pledge today. Loyal Missouri Democrats, including Rep. Ryan Curtis, have already publicly attacked Houtchens for his campaign apostasy.

Despite Humphrey's inability to deliver, even if he wanted to reward disloyalty, Houtchens has now started an active campaign for O'Brien's job. His agent's visit to the Midwest State Chairman may turn out to be only the first shot of a roaring battle for control of the Democratic party the next four years.

"May, then, this love with which you join your hands and hearts today never fail, but grow deeper and stronger." (Exhortation before Marriage)

Quotations

He pretends to be a mature adult, but there is nothing he dreads more than having to grow up to responsible manhood. He likes to think of himself as a nonconformist; but all hippies in their own circles are radically conformist in dress, speech, thought, conduct and odor, and any assembly of them on the street reminds one of nothing so much as a flock of sheep. . . . The worst hypocrisy is the pretense of being an apostle of love (but they know nothing of love in its creative, sacrificial and redemptive aspects), though they are not even a step away from the power of the cross, and more not a wreath of roses, but a crown of thorns.
 —The Rev. Robert E. Fitch, professor of Christian ethics at the Pacific School of Religion in San Francisco, discussing hippies.

It's Here and Now Drug Usage Problem Moves Out of Ghetto

Two panelists from state departments and five from Manchester presented their views on the national, state, and local aspects of the narcotic problem last night at Manchester High School.

Heroin, he said, is the choice of 90 per cent of all drug addicts in this state and 90 per cent of those who are arrested for possession of narcotics.

Robert Digan, coordinator of youth services for Manchester, summarized a number of community groups that initiated an advisory training program on drugs for teachers.

There is a danger in generalizing marijuana just as there was with alcohol a generation ago, Raymond Rogers, MHS principal said.

Getting down to cases, Patrolman Ernest McNally of the Manchester Police Dept. said last year the department began receiving complaints and information about illegal drug traffic.

There is considerable town traffic, money is being made, and we need the cooperation of parents," he said.

South Windsor Panel Listed For Discussion On Football

The Board of Education has announced the names of the panelists who will participate in the Community Conference on Education tomorrow night at 8 p.m. in the High School auditorium.

Dr. James P. Donovan, assistant orthopedic surgeon at Hartford Hospital and Newington Children's Hospital, is a graduate of the University of Maine and Harvard Medical School.

Students may take a survey as they did with alcohol. The figure of 50 to 60 percent of Manchester students using drugs is usually cited.

Why didn't he take the state so long to test captured drugs and what is the procedure? McNally: "Our laboratory sends all test results back to the local police."

What is the profit in drug traffic? Camilleri: "Heroin is made from the poppy, grown chiefly in Turkey, and there are about 200,000 growers there."

What percentage of MHS pupils, South Methodist Church, students has used drugs? Rogers: "There are no statistics."

For Man's Plunge into the Sea U.N. Envoys Seek to Define Limits of Continental Shelf

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Slow deep is deep? This is far from a semantic quibble among U.N. diplomats these days. It is a question involving potentially billions of dollars.

Envoys from all around the world generally agreed here that no country could claim the ocean floor, that it is "the common heritage of all mankind," except where it might mean losing money.

The riches in question are the minerals and oil buried in the continental shelf, an underwater plain which borders nearly every continent before the continental slope plunges away into the ocean depths.

It varies tremendously in width and is hard to define. Every country with a seacoast has its own idea.

Nations smelting or already exploiting—undersea, minerals off their coasts want a definition of continental shelf that gives them more area.

Poor and landlocked countries, with no shelf they are able to exploit themselves, want a definition that makes the shelf smaller.

Sometime all the ocean floor will be within reach of man's technology for mining and oil drilling. Right now the eastern seaboard of the United States and to reach minerals are naturally where the ocean is shallow—the continental shelf.

So diplomats in the General Assembly's political committee debated for days how deep is deep—that is, where does the continental shelf leave off and the deep ocean floor begin? The former belongs to the adjacent country, the latter to all mankind.

Prospects for a speedy settlement and definition are not good. The nations of the world haven't even been able to agree on the width of their territorial seas. The United States, for example, claims out only to three miles, but other nations claim as far as 12 miles.

There are some of the methods suggested for delimiting the continental shelf:

1. Arbitrary Depth—Calling everything up to a certain depth the continental shelf. A conference in Geneva in 1958 suggested 200 meters or 656 feet as the limit. Now that techniques for undersea drilling are improving, and thus able to work deep-

Journalism Society Hits LBJ's Handling of Truth

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Johnson administration was characterized by a "reckless handling of the truth," according to a report by Sigma Delta Chi's freedom of information committee.

Johnson "is leaving off with perhaps the worst record for credibility of any president in our history," said the report, which was presented today at the journalism society's national convention.

During the last year, it said, "The President continued to have an obsession for secrecy and did his utmost to maintain a monopolistic control of the news until he was ready to announce it."

"President Johnson's penchant for secrecy," the report said, "his refusal to hold formal news conferences, and his reckless handling of the truth, continued to give serious problems to the White House correspondents."

The report said that Johnson, rather than announcing news conferences in advance so all media could attend, "has relied principally on surprise conferences, called at such sudden notice that only the White House regulars could attend."

The report was critical of news handling procedures at the Pentagon where, it said, "the information programs are not designed to provide information but to protect the secretary of defense and the various services against criticism."

Information relating to the Vietnam war was the biggest problem, the report said, because "critical decisions on the war were made in secrecy and never fully discussed."

The report said that the replacement of Robert S. McNamara as secretary of defense by Clark Clifford did nothing but reinforce the system of "misleading and managing the news."

For these reasons the credibility gap created "between the public and the White House and the Pentagon were two of the most difficult barriers to cover, the report stated.

Also under attack in the document was the U.S. Department of Agriculture, which, the committee said, "repeatedly withheld information concerning

Board Extends Officers' Terms

The Manchester Board of Directors needed less than a minute last night to extend its officers' terms for another year to November 1969.

The action was required because of an act of the 1967 State Legislature.

The act provided for local elections in odd-numbered years in each of the state's 169 towns and cities. Until 1968, Manchester held its local election in October of even-numbered years.

Now it will be in November of odd-numbered years.

The present board, elected in 1966 to sit to November 1968, has a year of grace, to November 1969.

The officers re-elected are: Nathan Agostinelli, chairman and mayor; Harold A. Turkington, acting chairman and deputy mayor; John Garasid, secretary; and William Schaefer, treasurer.

All are Republicans. The board is 6 to 3 Republican.

Laura Loomis Dies, Active Civic Worker

Mrs. Laura Loomis, 77, of 102 Starkweather St., who was active in many Manchester organizations and served for 30 years as secretary of the Permanent Memorial Day Committee, died early this morning at Manchester Memorial Hospital.

On July 6, 1967, she was presented with a certificate by Mayor Nathan Agostinelli on behalf of the citizens of Manchester for her 30 years of dedicated service to this town as secretary of the Permanent Memorial Day Committee.

Mrs. Loomis was born March 23, 1891 in South Windsor, daughter of John and Myra Hayes Gallinat. She came to Manchester in 1913 and married Arthur E. Loomis on June 29, 1918 in the home at 48 N. Elm St. where she lived for many years. He died in 1955.

She was a 1907 graduate of the former South Windsor High School, and attended Willimantic Normal School and Morse Business College, Hartford.

She taught school in Farmington, East Hartford, and Manchester for 10 years. She was also employed for 12 years at the Lancaster-London Indemnity Co., Hartford, before she was retired in 1956.

Mrs. Loomis was a member of Center Congregational Church, where she formerly taught Sunday School, and was a member of the Emma Nettleton Group of the church.

In 1940 she was honored as a 50-year member of Manchester Grange. She served as secretary of the Grange for 17 years, and as secretary of the East Central Pomona Grange for 20 years. She spent much of her years in the Grange in youth work.

Here's How To Install Ceiling Lights

BY VIVIAN BROWN

AP Newsfeatures Writer

Ceiling light fixtures have been inching their way back into fashion for many years.

In the last three decades, many homeowners removed ceiling fixtures and capped the outlets in favor of lamps and wall sconces.

Now one sees massive ceiling lights—crystal, metal, wood, even in small urban apartments. Newer fixtures are designed to spread the light and enhance the decorative scheme, whether used in the kitchen, living room or dining room.

Many people, still stuck with capped outlets and old-fashioned ceiling fixtures, would like a new fixture, but the extent of such a project and the uncertainty of labor costs keep them from updating their ceiling.

Well, why not do it yourself? Installation of new fixtures is neither complicated nor dangerous, advises the American Home Lighting Institute.

They advise getting the proper equipment—pliers, wrench, screwdriver, and electrician's tape. Installation instructions and necessary hardware should come with the fixture. It is worth checking the contents of the package before beginning. If something is missing from the kit, be sure you get it before you begin the project.

Before beginning the job, check local laws. Some towns encourage people to do their own wiring and provide homeowners with information on doing such jobs safely and properly. Other towns insist that only licensed electricians may do the work.

Here are the lighting institute's directions for putting in a new fixture:

First, turn off current to the old fixture. It may even be better to throw the main switch at the fuse box, if you are squeamish about it or can't identify the right one.

Next, remove the canopy covering the fixture mounting and clip the two fixture wires. Remove the fixture from the mounting. Old-style fixtures usually are screwed to a center-threaded stud in the ceiling box. Otherwise, mount the new fixture strap and attach the fixture to the strap with screws or bolts that come with it. You are now ready to make wire connections.

Expose the ends of the wire that protrude from the ceiling and those of the fixture by removing insulation down to bare, clean copper wire.

One ceiling wire may be black, the other white. Match black fixture wire to black ceiling wire and twist bare ends of the two together. Do the same with white wires.

Wrap the splice securely with electrician's tape or use one of the variety of solderless connectors available in electrical supply or hardware stores. If you choose the tape method, place a few drops of solder on the splice before wrapping it. You may need a soldering iron or new type of solder that is applied from a tube and melted in the heat of a match flame.

Push the connected wires as close around the fixture mounting as possible, making certain that wires will not rub against any surface that might wear the insulation and expose the wires.

Finally, cover the mounting with the new canopy, install necessary light bulbs and diffusing bowl or glass, if any. Then replace the main fuse or throw on the main switch.

10 Nations Meet On Money Crisis

(See Page Twenty)

Britain, Canada, France, West Germany, the Netherlands, Italy, Japan, Sweden and the United States. U.S. Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler already was there, taking a roundabout route back to Washington from the NATO meeting in Brussels last week. But the United States so far appeared to be taking only a standby role in the crisis.

Dehl said Keesinger had been in close touch with Premier Maurice Couve de Murville of France over the last few days. He declined to specify the nature of their exchanges.

The situation of the franc touches West Germany closely, since West Germany and France are one another's most important trading partners. The capital that has fled France in recent days has largely been converted into West German marks in the expectation that the marks will be revalued upward.

West Germany has declined to do this, despite considerable pressure. Instead, it is increasing taxes on exports and lowering taxes on imports in an effort to produce a similar effect by more flexible means. The purpose is to cut down West Germany's heavy export surplus.

Dehl estimated the tax changes would bring the West German Government a windfall of a billion marks—$250 million—in new revenue. But he pointed out the deflationary effect may increase unemployment and he said an outcry was expected from businesses that would be hit by the increased export taxes: Coal, shipbuilding, textiles, iron and steel.

The emergency program will remain in force 15 months, Dehl said.

He told the news conference the government planned to reduce from 11 to 7 per cent the added value taxation refunded on all goods leaving this country. This will have the effect of a 4 per cent export tax increase.

Conversely, imports will be relieved of a 4 per cent of turnover tax, a 7 per cent instead of the present 11 per cent. Leader of the parliamentary groups of the ruling coalition—the Christian Democrats—will meet here Thursday to approve the measures in the form of an emergency law.

Keesinger plans to rush the bill through parliament and into effect early next week.

Dehl said the general tone of worldwide reaction has been one of understanding: "The motivation has been clearly understood."

Many financial experts in London considered the present emergency even more serious than the March gold crisis because three of the world's principal trading currencies—the French franc, the pound sterling and the dollar—the strongest currency—were imminent.

Speculators rushed to change francs for marks and the fever soon spread to include both the pound and the dollar. But the franc was hardest hit.

The French Cabinet met in Paris and rumors the official value of the franc would be cut. But when Information Minister Joel Le Theule was asked about the monetary situation after the meeting he replied: "The question wasn't brought up."

President Charles de Gaulle declared last week that devaluation would be "the worst possible absurdity."

In an attempt to check the flight to the mark, the West German government announced that it would not revalue the currency but instead was making tax changes to reduce the large foreign trade surplus responsible for the expectation of revaluation.

In what London's Financial Times called a "backdoor revaluation," the Bonn government said it would reduce the tax on imports and the tax rebate it pays on exports. This should reduce the flow of West German exports and increase imports, resulting in a reduction of the surplus trade balance.

To strengthen confidence in the franc, the French National Assembly approved Premier Maurice Couve de Murville's proposal to reduce 1969 budget expenditures $400 million, which he said would cut the deficit for the year to $1.88 billion. The premier called the cut a "first leg" but gave no indication what spending programs would suffer.

To give the governments a breathing space while the financial community evaluated these measures, the French government closed all financial markets today. West German markets were closed because the day is a national holiday, and the British government ordered the London foreign exchange market closed.

The French government announced that the Paris stock market, gold market and foreign exchange market would remain closed "until further notice." Officials said they would not reopen until next Monday.

West German Economics Minister Karl Schiller called an emergency meeting in Bonn today of the "Group of 10," the finance ministers of Belgium, opened cautiously but business soon picked up. An hour after the opening the Financial Times index of 30 industrial shares rose 1.8 from last night's closing at 483.

Following the French lead, the Bonn government ordered West Germany's foreign exchange markets closed until next Monday.

A spokesman for the British treasury said there was as yet no move to extend the closure order in Britain beyond today.

In Western Europe, only the Zurich and Milan foreign exchanges remained open. Central banks of various nations from Norway to South Africa suspended trading in the French franc, mark and pound and some declined to deal in any foreign currencies.

Dealers in the bullion markets of London and Zurich emphasized that the gold trade was mostly one-sided. Everyone wanted to buy; few were selling.

There was a run in Britain on silver and platinum, also parking places for money in times of stress.

A dispatch from Zurich reported a rush of gold orders from Paris pushed up quoted prices from $40.25 to the ounce to $40.50 and then to $40.87 at midday. But banking sources said little gold actually changed hands.

At London's afternoon fixing, the price of gold eased back 20 cents to $40.65.

Dealers noted that the situation in the present crisis was reversed in comparison with last March.

Then the battle between speculators and government bankers was waged in the bullion markets of the world. The speculators, buying all the gold they could, were waging that the United States would be forced to change the gold price of $35 an ounce it was committed to pay.

That crisis was ended when the countries in the international gold pool, minus France, agreed to split the gold market into free and official sectors. The price in the free market, open to all, was allowed to find its own level. That in the official sector remained pegged at $35 an ounce.

At present, the battle is being fought in the foreign exchange markets and gold is only involved secondarily as a haven from panic.

In Moscow, the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia portrayed the franc crisis as a retribution by the United States and West Germany against France

Legislators Hit Welfare Abuses In Bay State

Legislators in Massachusetts today attacked welfare abuses in a report that said the state was generally overpaying for food stamps and other welfare benefits.

The report, which was prepared by a committee headed by Rep. James M. Conroy, said that the state was overpaying for food stamps by as much as 10 percent.

The report also said that the state was overpaying for other welfare benefits, such as medical care and housing allowances. It called for a study of the state's welfare system to determine how to reduce these payments.

The report was introduced in the House of Representatives today and is expected to be passed in the coming weeks.

The report also criticized the state's welfare administration for being inefficient and for having too many overlapping agencies. It called for a reorganization of the state's welfare department to make it more effective.

Health Forces Retirement Of Archbishop O'Brien, 72

He taught French and English at the seminary and in 1932 became vice president of the preparatory school. Two years later, Bishop McAuliffe appointed him president.

At the age of 44, he was elevated to the episcopacy by Pope Pius XII, who made him titular bishop of Sita and auxiliary bishop of Hartford.

He was described at the consecration ceremony as a man of "keen intellectual qualities, a solid piety and an unswerving seriousness of purpose" by Bishop Matthew F. Brady, who delivered the sermon.

Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston who had installed him as bishop in 1948, delivered the sermon at the 1963 ceremonies at which he became an archbishop.

In 1956, Pope Pius appointed him an assistant at the pontifical throne, a special recognition which gave the archbishop a rank just below that of cardinal.

It was also in 1956 that Archbishop O'Brien was faced with the problem of building a new cathedral when the old one burned down.

A major fund drive raised $5 million to build the new cathedral on Farmington Avenue.

Another huge fund-raising campaign sponsored by Archbishop O'Brien was to finance three new Roman Catholic high schools in the Hartford area. All three opened in 1961.

Among the three schools was Manchester's East Catholic High School, which opened in September 1961.

Archbishop O'Brien was outspoken in his support of federal aid for parochial schools and criticized the aid-to-education bill supported in 1961 by President John F. Kennedy.

He said it discriminated against children in parochial schools "because their parents exercise the constitutional right to educate them in accordance with their religious convictions."

"I believe this is a direct violation of the liberties guaranteed all American citizens by the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution," he said. "It penalizes both the child and his parents because of their religious convictions."

In 1965, on the occasion of his 25th year as a bishop, the Catholic Transcript of Hartford described Archbishop O'Brien in these terms:

"The real man is one of strong feelings behind a facade of reserve. Extraordinary loyalty and kindness are among his principal traits. . . . If one had to choose a single word to serve as a synonym for him, it would probably have to be 'patience'."

It might be assumed that he is by temperament conservative. Indeed, he is conservative in the sense both of carefully husbanding the Church's resources and of painstakingly preserving the best yield of the past.

"But his record is outstandingly progressive. There has been a great deal of pioneering under his direction. . . ."

The Transcript also described the Archbishop as a man with an excellent sense of humor.

"To realize this in its fullness, one would have to eavesdrop on an informal gathering of priests at which he is present. He is then relaxed and thoroughly enjoying himself, bantering with the rest, telling stories on himself and relating the wit and humor which flash through the room."

"If he is relaxed, so are the others, for he does not ice the atmosphere as do some dignitaries, and, while commanding respect, he does not overawe."

If you are investing in new cookie sheets, buy those with no sides at all or with partial rims on a couple of sides for ease in handling. Cookie sheets without sides help cookies to bake and brown well. The cookie sheets should be made of a dull metal because the dulled surface also helps the browning process.

Town, Vernon to Negotiate Tying in Sewer Systems

Town Manager Robert Welas has been authorized to negotiate an agreement with the Town of Vernon for tying in one or more sections of the sewer systems of Manchester and Vernon. The authorization was voted last night by the Board of Directors.

The possible agreement, concerning location, use and rates, is expected to be of immediate benefit to Manchester and of near-future benefit to Vernon.

Vernon Mayor John Grant, appearing at the Manchester Board of Directors' meeting last night, said that his town's Board of Representatives will consider the proposal on Dec. 2. He predicted that his board will approve the agreement with little opposition. He based his prediction on a telephone poll he had taken.

Grant said that the Vernon Sewerage System operates at only 50 per cent capacity normally and at two-thirds capacity at its peak.

A tie-in of the two systems would be at gravity-flow points, and would eliminate the need for two new pumping stations in Manchester and one in Vernon.

The immediate beneficiary of the agreement would be Green Manor, which would tie in its developments off Vernon St. into the Vernon system.

Vernon's charges would be under a rate per-gallon or per-dwelling basis, with meters installed to determine the effluent flow.

It was the consensus of the board last night that sewer line boundaries are "political, and not economical or topographical barriers."

The board instructed Welas to arrange a joint meeting with the St. Utilities District board, to resolve other matters related to sanitary sewers. They are a 1963 agreement between the town and Green Manor, concerning a $350 per dwelling assessment in the Forest Hills subdivision; a 1963 sewer-swap agreement between the town and District; and cost-split charges for the planned northeast sewer interceptor and Secondary Treatment Plant.

The board authorized Town Counsel John Shea to retain additional legal assistance in connection with sewer project rights-of-way acquisition and with Rt. 6 condemnation proceedings.

Shea explained that the town must acquire 17 assessments and that possibly five attorneys will be retained for title searching and for price negotiating. He estimated that the added cost

Bentley School Library Named for Mrs. Woods

A large crowd was present at Bentley School last night for a ceremony naming the school library the Florence G. Woods Library in honor of the present principal.

Mrs. Kenneth Machin, PTA president, said, "Mrs. Woods has always had a high regard for teachers, parents, and especially all children. She has opened the doors to all parents and encouraged a close parent-teacher relationship. She has been very instrumental in developing the library and has made a valuable contribution to the PTA."

"I admire Mrs. Woods personally, and I know all who know her feel proud and happy and privileged to be part of this recognition ceremony."

Mrs. George D. Elliott, PTA treasurer, unveiled a facsimile of a bronze plaque to be placed in the library. This is a gift of the PTA and Bentley faculty. Assistant Superintendent of Schools Ronald Scott paid tribute to Mrs. Woods' administrative abilities and conveyed the best wishes of Dr. Donald J. Hennigan, superintendent of schools.

Mrs. Raymond Woodbridge extended the faculty tribute. Mrs. Clifton Coffin, PTA vice president, read a letter of congratulations from Thomas Bentley, former principal, who was unable to attend. Mrs. Frank Nymann, library chairman, presented a corsage to Mrs. Woods.

Mrs. Woods graduated from Manchester High School in 1928, studied at New Britain Normal School for two years, received a BS in 1933 from New Britain State Teachers College, now Central Connecticut State College, and an MA in teaching administration from the University of Hartford in 1966.

In 1928-29 she taught all grades in Bolton Elementary School, and from 1929 to 1936 taught in Wethersfield.

Following her marriage in 1936, Mrs. Woods resumed teaching in 1945 in the Manchester school system. In 1945-46 she taught Grades 4, 5 and 6 at the Koeney Annex, from 1946 to 1949 Grades 5 and 6 at Lincoln School, from 1949 to 1952 Grade 5 at Manchester Green School, and from 1952 to 1955 Grade 5 at Bowers School.

In 1955 she was appointed teaching principal at Robertson School, remaining there until her appointment to Bentley.

Adult Courses In Catholicism Topic of Talk

Mrs. Eleanor Oltman of 125 Baldwin Rd. was guest speaker last night at a meeting of the Guild of Our Lady of St. Bartholomew at St. Bartholomew's School.

Her speech, "Catholic Education - A New Look," consisted of a discussion of quotes and highlights from the book, "Vision and Theology," by Brother Gabriel Moran.

She began by saying that Fr. Moran does not advocate doing away with Catholic schools or the Council of Christian Doctrine (CCD), but does believe in education for adults. The church's organized educational resources ought to be at the service of the adult community. A child's main education comes through his parents, Catholic education is wasted on three-fourths of those in Catholic schools because of the absence of a sufficiently religious family milieu. The burning issue is not Catholic education or the CCD, but the education of the entire Catholic population.

On the subject of schools, she said, the author feels we need "well qualified teachers grounded in theology." Especially needed is a theology of Christ and a theology of hope. The three necessary periods of intensive training being early childhood, adolescence, and adulthood (college or post college.)

Also, a good teacher, even when he is lecturing, maintains an attitude of searching together with his students for an understanding of what God is now asking of them and a respect for the individual. When they see what a Christian life is and when they have come to hold it freely, then they will stop equating morality with obligations.

The crisis of faith, she said, are: 1. Apathy, which is definitely an approach; 2. Approach, science influences the young to disprove God; and 3. Attack a misunderstanding as to what Christianity is all about.

After the discussion there was a brief question and answer period.

Dorondo Ferrari Wins Parole in Vernon Slaying

Dorondo A. Ferrari of Verona, N.J., convicted ten years ago in the slaying of a Willimantic woman in Vernon, has been granted parole.

The decision was made following a hearing of the Parole Board at the State Prison yesterday.

Ferrari, who is 53, was charged in the fatal shooting of Mrs. Evelyn Seddon as she was seated in a parked car on Valley Falls Rd. in Vernon in March 1958.

Ferrari confessed to the shooting about a month later when he was picked up in Wallingford. He had been plant superintendent at Penn Manufacturing Co. while Mrs. Seddon was secretary to plant executives. Police said the relationship "involved money entanglements or deals."

The exact date of Ferrari's release has not been decided. It will be after a residence and employment program is completed, which is usually in about 60 days.

The State Pardon Board met Nov. 4 and reduced to "time

Board Formalizes Swap Of Land with Golf Course

The Board of Directors last night formalized an oral agreement it made two years ago with the Manchester Country Club, but had never consummated.

It executed an amendment to the country club lease, involving a land swap. The club now will be able to make par-5 holes of 14th and 18th holes. The town, in exchange, has legal permission for an access road from S. Main St. to the Nike Site. The access road was needed to the state, when Manchester Community College indicated it might construct its campus on the Nike Site. The college has abandoned those plans.

The state is expected to forfeit its rights to the Nike Site and return it to the federal government. And, it is expected to return ownership of the access road to the town. The town may construct its own road, to service a planned recreational complex in the area.

In another action last night, the board, by an 8 to 1 vote, allocated $1,800 for painting the exterior of the abandoned Pine St. Firehouse.

The lone dissenter was Director Anthony Pietrantonio, who said that the expenditure is a waste of money, considering the state of the building, and that "it would be much better to demolish it."

Prior to the vote, most of the directors agreed with Pietrantonio, and it appeared that the board would turn down the request (submitted by Town Manager Robert Welas.)

Director John Garside, before he changed his mind, said, "The building has no insulation and no heat. Painting it would be a waste of $1,800. Unless someone is interested in buying it, I recommend running a bulldozer through it."

What changed Garside's position and the positions of all but Pietrantonio was a statement by Welas that the build-

Fiano Request On Water Line Again Rejected

For the second time Monday night, the Board of Representatives tabled a request of Val Fiano to extend a water line on Rt. 83 to a commercial building he plans to construct.

Clarence O'Crowley, chairman of the Economic Development Commission, told the board that his commission members agreed it would not be economically feasible to the town to extend the line the way Fiano wanted it.

The installation of the line would cost the town $8,400 and Fiano would contribute $2,000 above that. O'Crowley said the commission could not find any justification to approve the action on a cost basis versus revenue.

It was pointed out that the Rockville Water and Aqueduct Co. is asking the town to subsidize it by paying for the line and then asking for a guarantee of at least ten per cent of the total cost of the line annually, until it pays for itself.

It was noted, however, that Nell McKenzie, president of the water company said the 10 per cent guarantee was a mandate of the Public Utilities Co. and not the Water Co.

Fiano, present at the meeting, said he could wait until the next meeting for a decision and the board agreed this would give it time to have town counsel Abbott Schwedel study the matter further with the water company.

Manchester Area Ellington Youth Charged in Sale Of Marijuana

Daniel Brinn, 16, of Glenwood Rd., Ellington, was arrested in that town yesterday by State Police and charged with sale of marijuana.

The youth, a senior at Ellington High School, was released on a $1,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in Manchester Circuit Court 12 Dec. 9.

Other area police activity: VERNON - Vernon police picked up three boys last night and turned them over to detectives from the East Hartford Police Department.

The three were charged by East Hartford police with taking a motor vehicle without the owners permission.

Responding to a call that someone was tampering with a car off West St., police discovered the car had been stolen from East Hartford and was owned by James Morrison of that town.

The youths were Victor Johnson, 16, Center Rd., Robert Pratt, 18, Dalley Circle, and John Harzog, 19, of Highland Ave., all of Vernon.

Johnson is being held in lieu of a $1,000 bond and the other two were released after posting bond.

All But One Board Now GOP Controlled

Following a host of appointments and reappointments to town agencies and commissions by the Board of Directors last night, all of Manchester's boards but one are now controlled by the Republican Party.

And the lone exception, the Manchester Housing Authority, is expected to become GOP-controlled in July, when the board meets to elect its Democratic members.

In appointing a GOP replacement, the Republicans will have a 3 to 2 control of the MHA.

The directors made the following appointments and reappointments last night:

Town Council—Atty. John F. Shea, Republican, reappointed to a one-year term.

Town Auditor—The Hartford firm of Rhodes, Rice and Karpf, reappointed to a one-year term.

Advisory Board of Health—Dr. Melvin Horowitz, Democrat, reappointed to a five-year term.

Priests Ponder Celibacy; Choice Or Requirement

BOSTON (AP)—New England Roman Catholic priests will ponder the possibility of making their ancient vow of celibacy a matter of individual choice instead of a requirement.

The 66 priests attending the New England Conference of Priests' Seminars rejected a resolution that celibacy and the apostrophe be considered two separate vocations instead of one.

However, the Rev. Henry Bowen of Worcester, who spoke against the clause, said later that members were not necessarily opposed, but just had not had time to study the proposal.

Civil Peace Planning Agency—Dr. Frederick W. Love, Jr., Democrat, reappointed to a three-year term.

Country Club Board of Governors—Roy Thompson, Republican, reappointed to a one-year term.

Veterans' Graves Custodians—Edwin Edwards, Democrat, and Everett Kennedy and Frank J. Anderson, Republicans, reappointed to one-year terms.

Administration Council—Dr. Donald Hamilton, school superintendent, reappointed to a two-year term. William Murray, a Republican, appointed to a two-year term to succeed Republican Francis Dallas, who declined reappointment.

Acting Commissioner for the Aging—Dr. George Landberg Sr., the Rev. Kenneth Steere, Republican, reappointed to two-year terms. James Herle, Republican, appointed to a two-year term to succeed Dr. Gil Boiswain, who resigned.

Strikes in Prague Plants Support Students' Sit-in

PRAGUE (AP)—Scattered strikes broke out in other college buildings in support of students who announced they would prolong their massive sit-in demonstration by 24 hours.

The workers and student action was to protest loss of freedom following the Soviet-led invasion. It is a challenge to the country's Communist leaders who have accommodated themselves to Moscow's demands.

In a few plants work actually halted for 15 or 30 minutes. Whistles sounded from several factories in the industrial Vysehrad district as a show of worker solidarity in plants where there were no strike formations.

The Prague Student Action Committee met overnight and a question was whether the government and party would let the youngsters called the first official and organized strikes since the Communist takeover of Czechoslovakia in 1948.

There was evidence on divided opinion in the party of the strike action, just as party leader Alexander Dubcek was trying to strengthen their role in state and society.

Threatened with force if they hit the streets, the striking students were giving their national leaders a taste of the discipline, passive protest that the whole nation used against the Russians in August to prevent a puppet government from being forced on Czechoslovakia.

The Dubcek regime survived August but as predicted it has since been forced by Moscow to "undercut some of its own support by abandoning such popu-

Faulty Burner Cools City Hall

Some Municipal Building employees working with their winter coats on today when one of the two oil burners in the building went on the blink.

One burner served the front part of the building and the other heats the back. The one heating the rear of the building blew open its doors in a minor explosion that it was nothing serious and the faulty furnace would soon be fixed.

Many students were critical of recent loud speeches by Gustav Husak, deputy premier and head of the Slovak Communist party.

The Dubcek regime survived August but as predicted it has since been forced by Moscow to "undercut some of its own support by abandoning such popu-

Vernon Town Board Told Decision To Sell Tract Is Illegal

The Board of Representatives, after being told by the chairman of the Planning Commission that its decision to sell a parcel of town-owned land was in direct conflict with the state statutes, tabled the matter Monday night for further study.

David Chase of Westford had asked the town to sell him the land, less than two-thirds of an acre, to incorporate in his plans for a shopping center. The land is north of Dart Hill Rd. and west of Rt. 88.

At a previous meeting of the board it was agreed to sell the land for $18,000 rather than exchange it for the original parcel which was another plan.

Damage Low In Attacks On Da Nang

(Continued from Page One) Cong shells hit a base camp of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division in Dong Tam, 35 miles southwest of Saigon. Light damage and casualties were reported.

The South Vietnamese spokesman said there now have been 74 rocket and mortar attacks on population centers since President Johnson halted the bombing of North Vietnam Nov. 1. He said 25 civilians have been killed and 195 wounded in the attacks.

South Vietnam Repeated Charges That Communist Command Was Violating Agreement To Stop Shelling Provincial Capitals and District Towns in Return for the Bombing Halt

The U.S. Command reported continuing ground activity south of Da Nang, where more than 600 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese have been reported killed in the past three days.

U.S. Marine artillery fired on an about 70 North Vietnamese soldiers spotted moving 20 miles south of Da Nang late Tuesday. A U.S. spokesman said the big gun killed 51.

Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam, commander of South Vietnam's five northernmost provinces, said earlier that the greatly increased enemy activity around Da Nang meant the start of the enemy's winter offensive in the North region.

American Offers $1 Million for 'Spy' Information

PARIS (AP)—An American offering $1 million for information about Hugh Francis Redmond sits in a hotel room here and waits for the Red Chinese to call.

They didn't in London, the Hague or Stockholm, and it doesn't seem likely they will call here either.

The man Sol Friedman, a Yonkers, N.Y., lawyer who is administrator of a $1 million fund for Redmond, an American who has been in Shanghai jail for the last 17 years, says $1 million will be paid to the man who provides the information.

Clergy Association Plans Ecumenical Thanksgiving

The Manchester Clergy Association will sponsor an Ecumenical Thanksgiving Service Sunday at 8 p.m. at Emmanuel Lutheran Church in the city.

The service will feature the participation of both Protestants and Catholics. The service will be held in the church's sanctuary.

The theme of the service will be "The Light of the World." The service will be held in the church's sanctuary.

Climate in Imperial Valley Provides 12-Month Season

EL CENTRO, Calif. (AP)—torches stranded on a desert road in the valley said to be the most desirable in the nation—why is another way of saying it's one of the hottest in the world.

Advertisements placed in newspapers in the valley range from 100 to 150 degrees year-round. More than 120 days have temperatures over 100 degrees. Average high temperatures peak in the 100-degree mark in every month from May to October.

Rain averages about three inches a year.

That's just the way the valley is in the Imperial Valley like hot, dry weather and long, hot summers mean a 12-month sportsman's paradise.

Other, less welcome, forms of wildlife also find valley conditions favorable.

Chickadees proliferate and swarms over field and town.

Hard as the weather comes the climate, averaging from 60 to 80 degrees in the valley.

Police, afraid that the climate would prevent them from making their money, but that's what the climate is all about.

El Centro boasts that it's the place "where the sun spends the winter," and that's what the climate is all about.

Nighttime temperatures occasionally drop into the 20s but the days are clear and warm with average January highs of about 60 degrees.

As one veteran valley resident puts it:

"No one lives in the Imperial Valley in the summer. We just come waiting for winter to come."

Dream Comes True for Yanks' Stan Bahnsen

Wins AL Rookie Honors

NEW YORK (AP) — Stan Bahnsen always wanted to travel. When he was a kid in Council Bluffs, Iowa, he used to dream about being a big league ball player.

The dream came true for Bahnsen last season when he turned in a 10-12 season that was a major factor in the New York Yankees' rise to fifth place. As a result, he has been named the American League's Rookie of the Year by a land-only other votes from the 20-man committee of the Baseball Writers' Association of America, two from each league.

He was named to the All-Star team and currently a south-pawed pitcher with a 10-12 record.

Bahnsen made the grade in ball over," said Hook who put him on the right track. "The richly deserves it," said Bahnsen didn't get to camp until March 17 last spring. He had a spot on the club if he cause he was in the Army. He spent two weeks in the Army in the state."
