Sapienza Press Secretary To New Delaware Governor

Gerard T. (Jerry) Sapienza, a Manchester native and former city editor for The Manchester Herald, has been named press secretary by the governor-elect of Delaware, Russell W. Peterson, a Republican. Sapienza now lives in Wilmington, Del.

Sapienza was Peterson's press aide in his bid for the Delaware governorship. Peterson defeated incumbent Democratic Gov. Charles L. Terry by a 107,048 to 100,861 vote, for a 185th plurality.

The campaign was Sapienza's first active participation in politics. He was assistant editor of the Wilmington Journal-News when he was approached by Peterson to help him in his campaign. Sapienza resigned from his job and joined the successful fight.

Sapienza, 43, the son of Mrs. Mariana Sapienza of 91 Autumn St. and the late Thomas Sapienza, worked for The Manchester Herald from June 1946 to June 1968, first as a general reporter and then as city editor.

He left Manchester in 1967 to work for the Lancaster (Pa.) New Era. He left that paper in 1968 for the job with the Wilmington Journal-News.

Save After Fuel Runs Out Pilot Steals Plane, Ditches in Atlantic

NEW YORK (AP) - A lone pilot told them he had an argument with his wife Monday evening. Police said the car had blood on the front seat and that Hemphill had been treated for a cut on his right arm at a local hospital Monday night.

The Coast Guard said the apparently inexperienced pilot was given instructions on how to set the plane down in the sea by Capt. Vance K. Randall, pilot of a rescue aircraft and a veteran of 20 years of flying.

The helicopter was taking the man to Elizabeth City, N.C. Coast Guard Air station where an agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation was to take him into custody.

Student Riot Shuts School In Brooklyn

NEW YORK (AP) - The state has ordered a strike-free Brooklyn junior high school closed "until further notice" after a day of disorder and student vandalism in the Ocean Hill-Brownsville district and elsewhere in the public school system.

State Education Commissioner James B. Allen ordered Monday followed clashes between rock-throwing students and police in the district. It was the first time in the history of the city's continuing school crisis.

Allen also announced that Asst. Commissioner Herbert F. Johnson, the state-appointed trustee trying to run Ocean Hill in the aftermath of the bitter teachers' strike, was being temporarily relieved of his own duties.

"He's pretty well worn out at the moment," Allen said. "He wants time to rethink the program and decide where to go from here." William D. Firmans, an assistant state commissioner, was named Johnson's replacement.

A state observer reported that while Johnson was at Junior High School 271 during the day he was kept locked in a classroom for a while by persons who opposed his attempt to oversee the school.

Johnson would not comment on the situation when he left the school in mid-afternoon. It was not clear how he could have been locked up since he was accompanied by aides and a police bodyguard.

The Rev. C. Herbert Oliver, chairman of the state-appointed Ocean Hill local governing board, denounced the decision to close JHS 271 as "more evidence of contempt for the black community."

Israel charged that Jordanian gun began firing first on agricultural settlements in the Golan Heights. The Israelis said eight settlements came under fire during an exchange that lasted nearly five hours.

The Jordanian spokesman said most of the victims were at Karf Aswad and the bombing and shelling destroyed 10 houses at Irbid.

He added that rescue operations were continuing, and the number of casualties might increase.

The Israeli spokesman said that the cease-fire line would be held by the Israeli army.

He also expressed indignation about any move to sharply cut back on the space program.

Caltech President Named Nixon's Science Adviser

NEW YORK (AP) - President-elect Richard M. Nixon announced today his appointment of physicist Leo A. DuBridge, president of the California Institute of Technology, to be his policy-making science adviser.

Nixon told reporters that he believed a number of scientists and intellectuals "take a rather dim view of the political operation" and expressed hope that the 67-year-old DuBridge would help bridge that gap.

DuBridge, who has planned to resign his university post soon - he has been president of Cal Tech since 1964 - said, for his own part, that he would try to encourage and increase federal support of basic research, which he said is in a down trend.

The president-elect said DuBridge, whom he has known for 22 years, has been able to advance his retirement date and will begin immediately working full time for the incoming administration.

He said his new science adviser would go to Washington almost at once to confer with Dr. Donald P. Hornig, who holds the post of science adviser in the Johnson administration.

DuBridge told newsmen that "certainly my first interest" would be in expanding basic scientific research in the United States. He said he would be in Washington almost at once to confer with Dr. Donald P. Hornig, who holds the post of science adviser in the Johnson administration.

He also expressed indignation about any move to sharply cut back on the space program. I think it's important for the United States to meet its commitments in space, that we should not turn off and on like a faucet," Dulbrige said.

"No One Wins, Everyone Loses"

Add the Chicago disorders to the list of situations we have developed in which nobody can win.

The special study for the President's Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence found, when it wanted to begin summarizing its report on the troubles in Chicago at Democratic National Convention time, that it was dealing with "circumstances" in which everyone loses.

How do we get ourselves into such "circumstances"? The special report on Chicago does not really try to answer, although it alludes to a few contributory factors. What the Chicago report does, mainly, is present a series of accounts of things that happened, and how they happened without getting into the basic sociological or psychological questions.

Nobody sees, everybody lugs, in the actual events in Chicago. And nobody really wins anything, and everybody loses something, in the special report's account of what did happen and in its appointment of blame.

The report describes the various elements in Chicago's street scene, the crowd as entirely hippy-Tippie, entirely "new left," entirely anarchic, or entirely youthful political dissenters, in both wrong and dangerous. The stereotyping that did occur helps to explain the emotional reaction of both police and public during and after the violence that occurred. Despite the presence of some revolutionaries, the vast majority of the demonstrators were intent on expressing by peaceful means their dissent either from society generally or from the Administration's policies in Vietnam.

But then, as the report seems about to absolve the crowd, it adds this: "While it is clear that most of the protesters in Chicago had no intention of initiating violence, this is not to say that they did not expect it to develop."

Going some place expecting something to develop is not, after all, too far removed from going to that place to help it happen.

This special Chicago report puts it out on the line that the Chicago police had made special targets of newspapermen and especially cameramen, as evidenced by the fact that more than 60 newsmen among the 300 assigned to cover the parks and streets of Chicago either suffered physical injury at the hands of police or had their equipment smashed, or found themselves arrested.

But then this report—in which no one ever really does win—goes on to make the following statement: "There is some explanation for the media-directed violence. Camera crews on at least two occasions did stage violence and take injuries. Demonstrators did sometimes stop up their activities for the benefit of TV cameras. Newsmen and photographers' blinding lights did get in the way of police clearing streets, swaging the park and dispersing demonstrators. Newsmen did, on occasion, display legitimate police officers to 'clear the streets.' News reporting of events did seem to the police to be anti-Chicago and anti-police."

"But was the response appropriate to the provocation?" The answer to that is probably no. But that doesn't mean the media win any clear victory in the Chicago post mortem, either.

In what seems likely to become the most widely quoted and controversial statement of its report, the special Chicago study says that "on the part of the police there was enough wild club swinging, enough cries of hatred, enough gratuitous beating to make the conclusion inescapable that individual police officers and lots of them, committed violent acts far in excess of the legitimate force for crowd dispersal or arrest. To read dispassionately the hundreds of statements describing at first hand the events of Sunday and Monday nights is to become convinced of the presence of what can only be called a police riot. So it was the police themselves who let themselves get out of control and into a state of 'riot.' They were lead-

Why Coddle Suspended Drivers?

There is no more willful violator of the law than the driver operating a motor vehicle after his license has been suspended. Such an act involves more than a mistake. It denotes deliberate scorn for law, an irresponsible attitude that has caused the death of many an innocent motorist.

Yet the Connecticut General Assembly has refused to deal sternly with those who have been guilty of such lawlessness not once—but twice or more. State Rep. Victor Tulan, Windsor Democrat, has met frustration in trying to gain legislation that would make a 30-day jail sentence mandatory for second convictions on the aforementioned charge.

An argument that should be self-defeating has instead been used to turn back measures proposed by Rep. Tulan during the last legislative session. The courts, opponents of the proposed law argued, should not be deprived of their discretionary power. But it is this prerogative of judges that makes the mandatory jail term so necessary.

Police files in this state bulge with cases of leniently-treated suspended drivers and lots of them, committed violent acts far in excess of the legitimate force for crowd dispersal or arrest. To read dispassionately the hundreds of statements describing at first hand the events of Sunday and Monday nights is to become convinced of the presence of what can only be called a police riot. So it was the police themselves who let themselves get out of control and into a state of "riot." They were leading down the law and order structure they were supposed to defend. But the same report also includes the following statement: "During the week of the Democratic National Convention, the Chicago police were the targets of mounting provocation by both word and act. It took the form of obscene epithets, and of rock-throwing, beatings and even human feces hurled at police officers. Some of these acts had been planned; others were spontaneous or were the result of a general police action. Furthermore, the police had been put on edge by widely published threats of attempts to disrupt both the city and the convention."

That, says the report, was "the nature of the provocation." Then it goes on, a paragraph or two later, to point out the fact that the police, thus provoked, often inflicted their own violence "upon persons who had broken no law, disobeyed no order, made no noise and committed no act of violence." This included peaceful demonstrators, onlookers, and large numbers of residents who were simply passing through, or happened to live in the areas where confrontations were occurring.

No matter how far one follows the report, one keeps coming back to the same statement—that "there are circumstances in which no one wins, in which everyone loses, and the only real hope it will not all happen right over again anytime anywhere lies in the possibility that people in and out of power, in and out of uniform, in and out of power, will realize that nobody does win in such encounters because nobody can win in any such joint betrayal of our supposed attainment of civilized standards of conduct.

An "Enemy" We Cherish

These Yale professors who agreed that the automobile has become our Public Health Enemy No. 1 had all the easy logic on their side. It is, as they said, the instrument that is responsible for at least two-thirds of the pollution of our atmosphere. It helps us congest the cities almost to the point of unlivability. It has its published record of fatalities every weekend. It is involved in more than half the disabling accidents which now happen to us. And it contributes to a lack of respect for a higher risk of circulatory ailments, because the automobile generations do not walk any more and thus sit their throats on. On top of all that, it is responsible for a higher risk of the most inefficient methods of transportation ever developed. Imagine taking 300 horses to get to work, when you can get there in 10 minutes. Can you imagine a greater waste of horsepower? So easy and so sweeping is the indictment possible. What about cars, for instance, shift to a kerosene-burning turbine car which would cut the smog "by a very large factor" and perhaps be a little less lethal on the highways. The question is whether we Americans would be "willing to give up moving about the countryside at 90 miles an hour in a large vehicle for a little less jazzy perambulation in a small vehicle. America seems wedded to the motor car. Every family has to have at least two. And one has to be a convertible with 300 horsepower. Is this the way of life that we choose because its values are those we cherish?"

Its values are indeed those we select, said another of the professors. We have permitted ourselves to become, he said, "a society which regards profit as a supreme value, under the illusion that anything that is technically possible is, therefore, ethically justifiable. It is, in other words, patriotic loyalty to the American way of life to buy more automobiles than we need with more power than we need to use at speeds higher or than safe with exhausts that threaten to poison the air upon which we depend for life itself."

It is easier to tell what we are doing wrong than it is to figure out how we can ever persuade ourselves to the cure. Sometimes, indeed, we wonder which does the driving—the automobiles or us. Is it servant, or master? To what else in our civilization do we devote as much time, money and unwavering loyalty? Is there anything else we will sacrifice quite as much for? How many horsepowers do those Yale professors own, and where do they walk?"

Connecticut Yankee

Any consideration of what the 1968 election returns in Connecticut did to individual Republican candidates, and even more so to the Republican Party as a whole, is incomplete without a look at the Connecticut Yankee. The Nov. 5 returns began by eliminating certain standing, almost perennial party ambition. Former State Senator Peter Montali, who ran for Congress in the hope of being able to run for Governor, lost both races. Former State Chairman Ed May, exercising his option to run against Ribicoff in the party, lost to Ribicoff in the primary. Ribicoff's Representative Nicholas Lange, whose bright and appealing record as minority leader in the 1967 House at least a name to include in all lists of potential future major candidates, was defeated in the general election. He was replaced by the old House member, State Representative William F. Purnell, who had himself reelected and advanced to the post of floor leader for the House. Purnell's victory may have to display himself there has to be disappointed severely because his geography puts him in Hartford County along with Congressman Tom Madley, who seems practically guaranteed one of the two top places on the party ticket for the November election.

The negative effect of the Nov. 5 results on several standing party ambitions might have been less conclusive if it had not been bolstered by outright positive boosts for two relative newcomers. One of these is, of course, Congressman Medalie—Republican mayor of a Democratic city, then narrow Republican winner in a swing congressional district, then, this year, landslide Republican winner in that same district. The other is, of course, Congressman Medalie—Republican mayor of a Democratic city, then narrow Republican winner in a swing congressional district, then, this year, landslide Republican winner in that same district. The other is, of course, Congressman Medalie—Republican mayor of a Democratic city, then narrow Republican winner in a swing congressional district, then, this year, landslide Republican winner in that same district.

Dr. E. Stanley Jones speaking in the Mount, we read about in the 31st Chapter of St. Matthew's Gospel, verses 21 through 23. In verses 21-23 he is saying, in effect, "Always have reverence for the personality of those in a class below you, those to whom you might dare speak words of rebuke, for you are not to be full of self and peace, and this was true whether adulterers, tax collectors, or what have you. The worth of a soul is infinite."

Artist's Son Jean Drawing, 1901" By AUGUSTE RENOIR

How Much Are You Worth? Yesterday we came to see that the "Lost Chord" of humanity is reverence, reverence for life, for personality, a nod for God. Jesus Christ taught this in the Sermon on the Mount; moreover He embodied His own teaching in this regard; and more importantly He meant to do it to the content to be found in those who would discover Him, and follow Him.

Dr. E. Stanley Jones speaking in the Mount, we read about in the 31st Chapter of St. Matthew's Gospel, verses 21 through 23. In verses 21-23 he is saying, in effect, "Always have reverence for the personality of those in a class below you, those to whom you might dare speak words of rebuke, for you are not to be full of self and peace, and this was true whether adulterers, tax collectors, or what have you. The worth of a soul is infinite."

Santa and the Hippies

Synopsis: Santa sends Ding Dong to Hippies because he behaves so badly at home.

"Let's make Santa our prisoner," shouted the hippies.

CHAPTER 3 FUN WITH THE HIPPIES DING DONG stood there looking at the hippies. They hadn't had a bath or changed their clothes in goodness knows how long. But they looked good to Ding Dong because they were having fun.

A red-headed boy with his mouth full of peppermint candy grabbed Ding Dong and shouted, "You're new, aren't you? Well, you're in luck. The action is just starting in the next room!"

He led Ding Dong into a back room where kids were sitting on the floor around a big electric pot. Suddenly the pot began jumping up and down and Ding Dong saw it was a popcorn popper.

Tolland Vacation Camp Proposed For Earlen Grove Site

Plans for the development of a vacation camp site at Earlen Grove were stated before the Planning and Zoning Commission last night.

Owners of the recreational site presented plans which would further expand the present area, which is now used by Vernon's Head Start program during July.

The camp site would be limited to an area in back of the ponds, well back from the road. Camping would be limited to 14-day limit placed on campers.

The plans call for 23 camp sites, each measuring 48 by 80 feet. Permanent flush toilet and shower facilities would be provided in buildings similar to those already located in the front portion of the recreation area.

David Parker, owner of the site, explained he and his father plan to open the recreation facilities to the public during May and June. Use of the facilities in July would be limited to after 4 p.m. because of the federal regulations governing the Head Start program.

The overnight camping area would not house children during school time, but would be available for use during the summer months.

It is doubtful that the operation will get under way this summer. The PZC last night agreed to have consulting engineers Buck and Buck of Hartford investigate the proposal, and detailed zoning regulations would have to be written governing the use of such an area before it could be brought to a public hearing.

Seven members of the PZC who belong to the North American Campers Association spoke of the need for more well-managed camp sites. The PZC will also check with the campers organization regarding the recommended specifications for camp sites before drafting zoning regulations.

Square Dance Scheduled The Tolland's Square Dance Club will hold a dance from 8 to 11 at the Meadowbrook school. Charlie Underwood will act as caller.

New Lots Approved The PZC approved three separate one lot subdivisions at last night's meeting.

Plans for three lots were submitted by certified land surveyor Al Schneider. The approved lots are a choice by Dorothy Radtke on Rt. 30, another by Eleanor Jenks on Torry Rd., and the third by Walter Wagner on New Rd.

A representative of Buck and Buck will make on-site inspections tomorrow of road and drainage conditions in the Tolland Manor and Siero subdivisions.

U.S. to Send 15,500 Men To Europe for NATO Games

By GEORGE WILSON The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon has decided to send 15,500 American servicemen from Western Germany to NATO exercises in Europe for NATO exercises in January and February, it was learned Monday.

The Defense Department announced this first rotation of troops back to Europe from the United States may have been completed as early as Tuesday.

The long anticipated move by the Pentagon is part of the American effort to calm the jittery nerves of its NATO allies which saw a modern Soviet army overwhelm Czechoslovakia in a matter of hours August 20.

Another objective of the coming exercises is to serve notice on the Soviet Union as well as NATO allies that U.S. forces stand ready to respond quickly to any crisis in Europe.

The withdrawal of about 24,000 American servicemen from Western Germany has been described by the Pentagon as a "redeployment" since the men — although based in the United States to ease the gold flow — remained committed to NATO.

Two brigades of the army's 24th Infantry Division and some of its support units were redeployed from West Germany to the United States starting Jan. 1, 1968. Four air force squadrons have also been withdrawn at the same time.

The Air Force squadrons all flew F-4C fighters. They were three squadrons of the 49th Tactical Fighter Wing, redeployed to Holloman Air Force Base, New Mexico, representing 2,350 men; and the 41st Tactical Fighter Squadron redeployed to

Israeli Jets Hit Iraqi Artillery

TEL AVIV (AP)—Israeli warplanes attacked Iraqi artillery installations in Jordan today and one jet did not return from the 10-minute raid, the Israeli Army announced.

Senior Justice in TV Interview

WASHINGTON (AP)—Justice Hugo L. Black, parting still further the curtain of silence that traditionally shrouds the Supreme Court, says nothing gives demonstrators the right to "tramp" streets such as those of Chicago or assemble on private or government property.

Black Sees Limits to Dissent

Black, however, took note of the fact a case arising from the Chicago disorders could come before the court. "I don't want to say what my view would be, because I don't know what the evidence would show," Black said.

Justice Hugo L. Black

Black was asked to apply his oft-stated belief on free speech and assembly to the bloody August clashes between police and antiwar protesters at the Democratic convention. He made it clear his answer applied to both private and government property.

Israeli Jets Hit Iraqi Artillery

The air strike started at noon and the raid ended at 1:30 p.m. Radio Amman reported the Israeli planes raised the city of Al Madraj and two villages in the Irbid area, Tishah, and Be-nania. The radio, quoting a Jordanian army spokesman, said anti-aircraft batteries fired on the planes.

Black Sees Limits to Dissent

Black touched on several cases in which he took part. But perhaps his most startling comment came on the school desegregation decision of 1954. He said that the phrase "with all deliberate speed" possibly should not have been included because, he said, the wording has been used to delay integration.
