15 U.S. Helicopters Blasted by Viet Cong

SAIGON (AP)—The Viet Cong blasted their way into the biggest U.S. airfield in the Mekong Delta early today and blew up 15 helicopters worth an estimated $5 million before they were repelled by base defenders.

Another six helicopters were reported damaged in a mortar barrage at the headquarters of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division 40 miles away. One officer called the attacks an "opening beginning" of the long-awaited enemy offensive in the 14,250-square mile delta south of Saigon.

The Viet Cong attack on Can Tho, 80 miles south of the capital, was the first major ground probe against an allied airfield in several weeks. It hit the headquarters of the U.S. Army's 194th Aviation Group, the nerve center for military operations in the Mekong Delta in the region's biggest city.

Enemy sappers broke through the airfield's defenses under cover of a heavy mortar, rocket and machine-gun barrage that pinned down the Americans while the Viet Cong attached explosives to the helicopters. A barracks area west of the airfield was attacked simultaneously.

Field reports said five cargo and troop-carrying Chinooks and 10 smaller helicopter gunships were destroyed or damaged. U. S. casualties were eight killed and 10 wounded.

The U. S. Command said: "The enemy soldiers were quickly repelled by airfield security personnel, supported by U.S. Army helicopter gunships and a U.S. Air Force Dragon ship," a fixed-wing aircraft equipped with rapid-firing Gatling guns. A spokesman said the American retaliatory fire

Oil Strike Appears Near End

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—The nine-day oil strike of nearly 60,000 oil workers appeared all but settled today following Sunday's announcement that Union Oil Co. of California and the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union have come to terms on a new contract.

The package, containing wage increases and other benefits valued by the union at $9.6 cents an hour over two years, was expected to get quick approval from the directly affected locals in California.

If the course of negotiations follows past patterns, the settlement will be a model for the remainder of the 436 separate contracts which expired at midnight New Year's Eve.

"In the past there has been a general practice by all of the oil companies to go along with any agreement reached between us and one major company," said OCAW President A.F. Gropfman.

"It remains to be seen what will happen in this case. We hope and we trust the other companies will make comparable offers and will adjust on the local differences to the satisfaction of all concerned," he said.

Gropfman said if the California Union workers ratify the contract as expected, "the strike should be over in these plants within 24 to 48 hours." He said he hopes for early settlement with the nation's other major oil companies, all of which are affected by the walk-out.

Over Racial Issue

Africans Boycotting Commonwealth Talks

LONDON (AP)—Africans boycotted Commonwealth talks called today to tackle the politically explosive problem of migration in the multiracial association of 26 countries.

The move by the African members of the Commonwealth, according to officials who took part, was based on the argument that immigration difficulties which have arisen are primarily the concern of Britain.

Asian and West Indies delegates attended what was to have been a 17-nation session on migration matters on the sidelines of the Commonwealth Prime Ministers Conference. British and Canadian representatives also were said to have been present.

The meeting had before it two general propositions:

—A Pakistani scheme for the formulation of an immigrants' charter.

—A British proposal for a continuing Commonwealth study of the problems created by migration within the Commonwealth.

However, the chief purpose appeared to be largely lost following the boycott by the key African countries.

A majority of the Commonwealth grouping urged a referendum among white and black Rhodesians to test any compromise settlement Britain might reach with that white-ruled African nation, which broke from London's rule in 1965.

British Prime Minister Harold Wilson had twice assured delegates to the Commonwealth Prime Ministers Conference: "The people of Rhodesia will not have a constitution imposed upon them by legislation of the British Parliament against their will."

But African, Asian and other delegates expressed grave doubts that Prime Minister Ian Smith's government would permit Rhodesia's Africans to express their views freely on a settlement.

While the 26 Commonwealth leaders attending the eight-day conference were drafting their positions Sunday, riots flared in downtown London when demonstrators scorned the diplomatic missions of two white African governments, Rhodesia and South Africa.

Johnson To Recommend Continuation of Surtax

This is the British liner Carmania that ran aground on San Salvador Island in the Bahamas last night. The ship was on a cruise from Port Everglades, Fla., and most of the 471 passengers aboard were Americans, a Cunard Line spokesman said today in London. (AP Photofax via cable from London)

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson will recommend continuation of the income surtax at 10 percent in his State of the Union message Tuesday night, it was learned authoritatively today.

Johnson apparently received word from President-elect Nixon that he would go along with the tax surcharge extension.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dickson of Illinois said Sunday he thinks Nixon would go along with the tax as long as the Vietnam war continues with high expenditures.

The tax brings in about $13 billion a year and Johnson is said to have determined that he could not submit a balanced budget to Congress Wednesday unless the revenue from what has generally been regarded as a war tax is continued.

Johnson has decided to submit a balanced budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1. It would forecast a small surplus in revenue over expenditures.

Nixon is at liberty to revise this budget but its basic assumptions on revenue and expenditures could be changed only with great difficulty.

George Christian, White House news secretary, said at a briefing that submission of the budget Wednesday will be followed by an economic message Thursday.

In a nationally televised and broadcast personal appearance before a joint session Tuesday night, Johnson is expected to outline briefly his view of his administration's record and make specific recommendations for future actions. His message, still being written, is expected to be considerably shorter than previous similar messages.

Johnson scheduled a series of meetings today before his expected late afternoon departure for New York City. There, he and Mrs. Johnson will be honored dinner guests at a Plaza Hotel affair to be attended by about 400 persons. Many of the hosts are New York State Democrats.

Johnson started his final week in office today with the prospect that he may leave his successor a budget of some $195 billion to operate the government the next fiscal year.

In a nationally televised and broadcast appearance before a joint session of Congress Tuesday at 9 p.m. EST, Johnson will report on the state of the union as he views it after more than six years in office.

Although he can point to a record run of prosperity during his tenure, Johnson may feel impelled to warn against the rising wave of inflation that has pushed bank loan interest rates to a record high and is reflected in the soaring cost of living.

At home Johnson can point to his administration's programs to grapple with the problems of the breakdown of law and order, racial rioting, decaying cities, water and air pollution, and poverty.

In the international area, the President can cite the prospect that the beleaguered Paris talks eventually may lead to an end to the fighting in Vietnam. He can caution the nations that the explosive situation in the Middle East is a potential spark for a general war, but he must defer to the incoming president, Richard M. Nixon, any definitive answer to the Dec. 30 Soviet note proposing U.N. Security Council action to bring about peace.

Johnson is expected to review the nation's achievements in space exploration and to recommend

Passengers Not in Danger, Spokesman Says

Cruise Ship Aground in Bahamas

MIAMI (AP)—The Cunard Lines cruise ship Carmania, which got permission to sail from Florida, only after modifications to meet U.S. safety standards, has run aground on San Salvador Island in the Bahamas with 471 passengers and 450 crewmen aboard.

The 22,000-ton British vessel stuck on Gardner Reef at 10:40 a.m. Sunday, just 16 hours after leaving Port Everglades on a scheduled 19-day Caribbean cruise to Kingston, Jamaica.

"The passengers are still aboard and in no danger at all," said Ben Asterige, director of the Bahamas Air-Sea Rescue Service.

Asterige said the Carmania apparently moved close to the beach to give passengers a look at a monument on the spot where the Olympic torch was passed shortly before the Olympic Games opened in Mexico City.

"She went in too far," he said, "and there was a strong offshore tide."

The salvage tug Alice Moran was enroute from Bermuda and expected to arrive Tuesday for an attempt to pull the Carmania off the smooth coral and reef.

Another tug was dispatched from San Juan, P.R.

The cruise, originally scheduled to start from Port Everglades Jan. 20, was cancelled at that time after passengers had gone aboard when the U.S. Coast Guard found four potential safety hazards in violation of the 1960 Safety of Life at Sea Convention which took effect in this country Nov. 2.

Modifications were made in drydock at New Orleans and the cruise finally got under way at 5 p.m. Saturday.

Asterige said the master of the Carmania made no calls for assistance to either the United States or the Bahamas, and did not ask for signals from a U.S. missile tracking station and Coast Guard installation on San Salvador.

Other Cunard ships have been delayed in Florida by the U.S.

"The sand is smooth. Boats have been pulled off that reef before. The only trouble is, I understand, she went aground at high tide," said Asterige.

The Carmania lay five miles north of Oostpunt Town on the west side of San Salvador, the island where many historians believe Columbus made his first landfall in the New World. It is 275 miles southeast of Miami.

A skindiver examined the underside of the vessel and reported no holes in the steel hull, which was aground from bow to stern.

No immediate reports were available from Capt. Mortimer Hehir on how the cruise ship went aground, Cunard said.

A spokesman said plans called for the rescue tug to move the Carmania's anchor so the liner could try to haul herself free.

Crew members emptied the forward holds during the night to lighten the bow and float her free, but the attempt failed.

The accident was the latest setback for Cunard. The company's newest ship, the Queen Elizabeth 2 — pride of British passenger fleet — broke down during a trial run on the Atlantic at Christmas and the vessel's sailings to New York and American cruises have been delayed for repairs.

Other Cunard ships have been delayed in Florida by the U.S.

Coast Guard, which contends that safety certificates issued by the British Board of Trade were not sufficient to protect American passengers.

The Carmania had been detained for two weeks while the Coast Guard at Fort Everglades examined fire precautions, Cunard said.

The cruise was due to end Jan. 23 at Kingston, Jamaica, after calls at the Virgin Isles and other Caribbean isles.

Powell Appeal Set By Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court decided today on a full-blown hearing on the appeal of Adam Clayton Powell from his ouster from the House of Representatives March 1, 1967.

The court removed the case from its summary calendar which limits each side to 30 minutes of argument. The action means it will be set down for argument later with each side having at least an hour.

Powell contends his ouster from the 90th Congress was an "extraordinary, arbitrary and unconstitutional action."

A ruling in Powell's favor would mean that he would collect about $60,000 in back pay and regain his seniority. He was chairman of the House Committee at the time he was ousted.

Powell was re-elected to the House in a special election following his ouster, but never appeared to claim his seat during the 90th Congress. He was re-elected last November and was seated by the House under a compromise arrangement in which he was fined $25,000 for alleged misuse of public funds. Powell also is appealing from this fine.

Waistlines Return--Empire and Others

By HEBA STEWART
Herald Fashion Writer

NEW YORK — "The waistline has returned. But not mine."

That is the sigh of many women on seeing the new spring fashions that were paraded before the country's fashion writers by the American Designer Series. But among all the wide belts, tightly drawn around a waist that measures 20 inches on the model but probably more on a prospective wearer, and all the bare midriffs, there is a note of hope for those whose figures fall somewhat short of absolute perfection.

The waistline does not have to be at the revealing waist. No less an authority than Mollie Parnis pointed out that the Empire silhouette, beginning its curve beneath the bustline, is much easier to wear, and like most designers, she shows the high waist in abundance.

"This is for the woman who wants an effect of delicate nudity but doesn't want to show her age," Eleanor Lambert said when summing up the spring collections, and she showed a one-piece chiffon costume of harem pants with the gathers billowing from a point directly below the bust down to the ankles, making the lady into a fluffy balloon.

In everyday, garden variety types of clothes, there are many which provide a little flattery in a less spectacular manner. One of the prettiest is a sheer wool by Pauline Trigere that clings snugly below the bust because of four little inverted pleat pieces caught with gold clasps. This clings a little on the way down to the flaring hem. All these high-waisted dresses come in toward the body, but not like wallpaper.

Take Kimberly, whose knitted dresses and suits have been so well accepted by the 14 to 16 set despite their reasonable price tag, that every press showing starts with a recital of the famous names that wear Kimberly knits. Small flaps, woven into the dress between waistlines and bust, serve to hold a belt. There's a costume in Dress and coat costume combining mocha and white linen — from the Spring 1969 Mam'selle collection, designed by Betty Carol. The white coat is bordered in mocha to match the sleeveless dress beneath. The high line is achieved by a curve of the same color that extends around to the back where the coat has a center pleat.

Stewardess Foils Attempted Hijack

MIAMI (AP)—A would-be hijacker abandoned an attempt to take a Delta Airlines jet to Cuba today when a stewardess, disregarding his snarled-off shotgun, slammed the cabin door in his face.

Kenneth McPeck, 31, of Orchard Lake, Mich., was arrested when the plane landed at Miami International Airport with 69 passengers and six crewmen. His three-year-old son was taken into protective custody.

Stewardess Lynne Sargeant of Miami told FBI agents who met the plane that McPeck stuck the shotgun in the pit of her stomach and ordered her to tell the captain to go to Havana.

Instead, she ducked into the cabin and slammed the door.

The flight, No. 297 nonstop from Detroit to Miami, was in its landing approach at Miami when the gunman made his move. The captain, committed to the landing, notified the tower that a gunman was aboard and went on in.

McPeck apparently gave up the idea of going to Havana after Miss Sargeant's rebuff. He returned the shotgun to a duffel bag in which he had carried it aboard and officers found it under his seat.

It was the second time a hijacker changed his mind on a Delta airliner.

Lynne Sargeant

Last July, Oran Richards, a former mental patient, ordered a Delta flight to Cuba but later broke into tears, dropped his pistol and was turned over to FBI agents at Miami.

The attempt came hours after the victims of two weekend hijackings — had returned from Cuba.

The Dade County sheriff's department said local and federal officers arrested Kenneth Earl

Secret of Successful Marriage 'Close Your Eyes a Little,' Say Couple Wed 50 Years

By MARY SCHURE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—"Close your eyes a little." That's the secret of a successful marriage according to one couple who ought to know—they've been wed for half a century.

It's also good advice for a number of young persons—including the daughter of comedian Bob Hope—who were married this weekend.

The experts were Mr. and Mrs. James J. Gibney of New York who were among 23 couples, all of whom married in 1919, at a mass celebration Sunday at St. Patrick's Cathedral.

After repeating the vows they first exchanged 50 years ago, the Gibneys, who have four children, 15 grandchildren and one great-grandchild, shared some of their marital philosophy.

"You can't have your own way. One has to give in," said Mrs. Gibney when asked what she has learned in 50 years.

"Keep out of her way while she's doing the housework," said Gibney in reply to the same question.

"That means," said Mrs. Gibney, "he doesn't help."

"And," said Gibney, "I have learned to get home for meals on time. She gets very mad if I'm late."

New York wasn't the only place where couples celebrated their 50th anniversary. (See Page Twenty)

"THE WAY I HEARD IT"

by John Gruber

We might as well begin on "The Walkways" by Richard Wagner, stated for Feb. 8th at 8 p.m. Perhaps the easiest way is just to go, listen, and come away saying, "Yes it has some nice parts, but I'm sure I don't know what it was all about, and much of it was a bore." Probably most people go to this work in a similar manner.

Yet "The Walkways" is part of an overwhelmingly significant musical work, "Der Ring Des Nibelungen," or "The Nibelungen Ring," which has absolutely no parallel in the field of opera or drama, a work which is supposed to have at least a few people understand. Like all Wagner operas, the Nibelungen Ring is based on legend, Wagner felt, with some justification, that if a legend had endured for centuries in the past, it was liable to be more enduring in the future than some best-selling novel, as he chose legends for his plots. In contrast to Verdi who turned Victor Hugo's "Le Roi Lear" into "Rigoletto," for example.

Even though Rigoletto has survived, no musicologist will put it on a par with the Nibelungen Ring. Neither will anyone say that the Ring is anything like as popular as Rigoletto. Greatness in art, however, has nothing to do with popularity.

Twenty-six years elapsed between Wagner's first conception of the Ring and its completion. The fact that he lived more than he could chew naturally made the adaptation of the final part of the Ring, "Die Gotterdaemmerung" or "The Twilight of the Gods," somewhat more involved than the other parts. Wagner was a reasonable good poet who wrote his own librettos, he was no Homer.

Originally he started out to write an opera called "The Death of Siegfried." As you've heard of Siegfried even though you may have him mixed up with Achilles, the hero had the same doubts about his audience, and he started this opera with a scene in which the Norse or Fates in their Greek counterparts) fall into his hands. He was not successful and is sometimes omitted. It ought to be omitted always.

Little in Forefront Of Spending Fight

By MALCOLM BARLOW
Walter T. Little, president of the Manchester Project Owners Protective Association (MPOPA), is a 71-year-old ex-farmer whose "retired" life has kept him in the heart of Manchester.

For many years Little has been in the heart of Manchester, conservative statesman and his MPOPA, formed in 1967, is now the rallying point for that movement.

Manchester's voting record on housing issues and Project Owners in 1968 offer evidence of the MPOPA influence. Of the six housing issues Little was involved, only one passed and by a slim margin.

After the Nov. 5 defeat of the proposed Lincoln School replacement by 147 votes, the Board of Education chairman, Atty. John C. O'Rourke, said, "I look back at a couple of full page ads in a local paper can undo the work which has been going on for months and months by so many people."

When Little said that he was not a member of the MPOPA, he was referring to the MPOPA as "the unaffiliated" group which is not a part of the MPOPA.

Talk Slated On Zionism

The second lecture in a series being sponsored by the B'nai B'rith Adult Education group will be delivered tonight at 8 p.m. with Rabbi Marc Brownstein as guest.

The lecture series is on "The Jew in American Society," and Rabbi Brownstein will speak on the meaning of the Zionist movement to the American Jew.

In discussing his lecture, Rabbi Brownstein notes "there were many factors in the development of the Zionist movement that are still of contemporary significance in American Society today."

He gave as an example, the matter of the ability of the Jew to function outside of his own race or the matter of the role that the Jewish static today plays in the life of the American Jew.

Rabbi Brownstein is Rabbi of Temple B'nai, a Reform congregation in Newton. A noted lecturer and researcher, Rabbi Brownstein speaks with authority and experience on this subject. There will be coffee and discussion after the lecture.

The series is being held for several consecutive Monday nights at 8 p.m. at the Synagogue, 24 Thoburn Ave. The lectures are open to the public.

Wolfe to Lecture
"Capital Need Analysis" will be the subject of a series of lectures to be delivered by Thomas Wolfe of Vernon at seminars he will conduct in several major cities.

The subject is a procedure designed by Wolfe, who is co-director with Wolf-Zack and Assoc., Inc. It is a revolutionary new method of determining people's needs for life insurance and has wide acceptance all over the United States.

Wolfe, a member of the Board of Representatives had a program published on the subject. Fayette Lodge to Meet
Fayette Lodge 60, AP and the budget they gave us with vote, the MPOPA obeyed the $1.1 million sewer bonding issue, but said the other four issues should have been in the annual reports and urged voters to defeat them.

The other four measures were: $28,000 for school improvements including sports equipment; $24,000 to replace the police station heating system; $90,000 for heating and cooling at the Municipal Building and $30,000 for cooling the Mary Cheney Library.

More than 7,000 voters okayed the sewers 6 to 1, but turned down the three smaller issues by close to 2 to 1. The school issue lost by only 808.

The MPOPA ran more ads in the Municipal Building and $30,000 for cooling the Mary Cheney Library.
