Rohrbach has taken a position in project engineering with Hamilton Standard Division of United Aircraft Corp., Windsor Locks.

Vernon Area Art Group Selects Month's Best Painting

A child's rhyme provides the title for the picture-of-the-month chosen by members of the Vernon Area Art Group. "Mabelle-Mabelle" is an oil painting by Mrs. Ada Cristman.

It shows the motions of little girls jumping rope, and in Mrs. Cristman's memory of her own childhood. It is being exhibited at the Rockville Public Library.

Mrs. Cristman has studied art under Claude Almond and is currently attending the Drawing of the Revision to the bylaws. After the meeting, there will be a social time with refreshments.

Other paintings by association members are being shown in area banks this month. They include "The Man with the Banjo," an acrylic by Mrs. Corina Lane, Rockville Savings Bank; "Breeze" painted on a ceiling tile by Mrs. Laura King, Peoples Savings Bank, and a watercolor "January 10, 1969" by Miss Emma Bate, painted after the recent storm and on exhibition at the Connecticut Bank and Trust Co.

Head Start, Job Corps OEO Losing 2 Programs

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon today is stripping the Office of Economic Opportunity of two major programs—Head Start and the Job Corps—and delegating their work elsewhere.

In a special message, however, Nixon promised to keep OEO alive as an "umbrella" for experimental programs bearing on the antipoverty campaign.

And he called for a national commitment aimed at "providing all American children an opportunity for healthful and stimulating development during the first five years of life."

During his campaign for the presidency, Nixon described Head Start as "one of the programs that deserves continuing, and could even be accelerated."

But he said the Job Corps should be eliminated, declaring, "This is one program that has been a failure."

Effective July 1, the popular Head Start program, to be defunded in summer, will be delegated to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

On the same day, responsibility for the Job Corps which seeks to train school dropouts and unskilled jobless youths for gainful employment, will be delegated to the Labor Department.

Nixon chose to delegate these programs elsewhere, because he has power to do so by administrative action. Had he transferred them outright, he would have had to seek special legislation.

Nixon also said he has directed that preparations be made for the shift from OEO to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare of two smaller, but popular, OEO projects.

These are Comprehensive Health Centers, which provide health services to the residents of poor neighborhoods, and the Foster Grandparents program, which sends college students to help in the care of the aged.

The President proposed no new legislation in his message but promised that before June 30 "I will send Congress a comprehensive proposal for the future of the poverty program, including recommendations for revising and extending the act beyond its scheduled 1970 expiration."

He said he would ask Congress to also extend for one year authority for antipoverty appropriations that run out on June 30.

The Nixon administration is reported mulling over the prospect of special tax breaks for both big business and the average housewife to enlist them as volunteers in the war on poverty.

Nixon, while critical of some aspects of administration of poverty funds, said OEO has proven "the value of having in the federal government an agency whose special concern is the poor."

White describing it as "a valuable fount of ideas and initiative for carrying out regularized programs so it can place greater concentration of its energies on its innovative role."

Summarizing his philosophy toward experimentation in efforts to alleviate poverty, Nixon said:

"The men and women who will be valued most in this administration will be those who understand that not every experiment succeeds, who do not cover up failure but rather lay it bare."

Europeans Set Plans For Protecting Nixon

LONDON (AP)—Police of six nations, working under undependable tension, are completing plans to protect President Nixon against organized demonstrators and individual terrorists during his European tour.

In Britain, France, Belgium, Germany and Italy, security agencies are charting routes, vantage points for potential assassins, assembly points for demonstrators and compiling lists of known "nuts" who might do something wild if they got the chance.

The President will stay at Claridge's hotel rather than the L.L. Security residence in Regent's Park because every British security officer knows every alley and corner of the venerable establishment in Mayfair.

The American Air Cavalrymen were riding helicopter gunships looking for troops from the North Vietnamese 9th Division in the triple-enclosed jungle of War Zone D. Suddenly they spotted several men in an opening and cut into them with machine guns.

A short while later, Air Cavalrymen on the ground discovered the bodies of 15 North Vietnamese killed by the machine gunners. Two and a half hours later, more Air Cavalrymen were landed to pursue the enemy.

A U.S. spokesman said American bombers and artillery were reported hitting 145 enemy troops who were moving into attack positions 30 miles northeast of Saigon.

Sharp fighting also was reported 18 miles north of the North Vietnamese border in the Mekong Delta, south of the capital, and along the jungle trails from Laos and the A Shau valley, west of Da Nang and Hue.

U.S. and South Vietnamese forces reported killing 145 enemy soldiers at a cost of six Americans and 18 South Vietnamese killed, 13 Americans and 33 South Vietnamese wounded and seven South Vietnamese missing.

Allied troops also uncovered many more tons of rice and munitions near the Cambodian border, another indication the enemy is still trying to stock up for an offensive in the highland areas, military spokesmen said.

Income Tax 2
Increase Deductions By Bunching Bills

By TOM STEWART
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nothing soothes the pain of getting a doctor's bill like the realization that there are more ways to pay for health care than the one you can write down your income tax.

If you itemize your deductions, that is, if you have substantial medical and dental bills, you probably should.

The first fact of life confronting the taxpayer who wants to turn his heap of paid medical bills into money-saving tax deductions is the 3 per cent rule.

This is the one that says unreimbursed medical-dental expenses are deductible only to the extent that they exceed 3 per cent of adjusted gross income.

So if your adjusted gross income is $20,000, only those medical-dental expenses about $200 — 3 per cent — are deductible.

The big exception is medical insurance. You're permitted to ignore the 3 per cent limitation on this item and deduct the full amount of what you paid for such coverage, up to a ceiling of $150.

The rest of what you paid out for medical insurance is deductible too, but it comes under the 3 per cent rule.

Suppose your premiums for Blue Cross and similar plans total $400. Since half of $400 is $200, you can deduct only $200 over ceiling — you settle for a $150 deduction and add only $50 to other medical expenses, the ones that have to clear that 3 per cent hurdle.

The 3 per cent rule frustrates a lot of people, especially since you can't deduct without children and others who have relatively modest medical expenses. They realize that in an average year their medical-dental outlays won't add up to 3 per cent of adjusted gross income, and they're able to cash in as far as such expenses go. They think, they'd be able to cash in.

Sheinwold on Bridge

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD
The opening lead of a low card usually indicates length but does not guarantee strength in the suit.

Later on in the hand, however, a defender should indicate by his lead whether or not he has strength in the suit. The method of doing so, and how this affects the outcome, are both above you.

South dealer.

North-South vulnerable.

Opening lead: two of hearts.

West opens the deuce of hearts, and declares play low from the dummy. East knows that his partner has led from a three-card or four-card heart suit, but he cannot tell whether or not West has the queen of hearts. To provide for the possibility, East correctly tries a ruse with the jack of hearts at the first trick.

South wins with the queen of hearts, draws two rounds of trumps and then leads the king of clubs promptly since he has a high diamond, and West East must overtake his club trick would get to his partner's hand in such a way as to try a switch back to hearts.

East shows weak suit.

South wins with the queen of hearts, but how does he tell West to switch back to hearts? East can do the job by indicating that his diamonds are worthless.

If East had a high diamond, he would lead a low diamond, such as the three or deuce. In this case East should return the seven or nine of diamonds to indicate that he has no high card in the suit.

West wins with the ace of diamonds and is warned away from a diamond continuation because East's seven of diamonds switches back to the ten of hearts, trapping dummy's king. The defenders get two heart tricks, defeating the contract.

Daily Question

Partner opens with one heart, and the next play passes. You hold: Spades, J-9-8-5; Hearts, K-5-4; Diamonds, Q-4; Clubs, A-3-10-2.

What do you say?

Answer: Bid two hearts. The hand is not quite worth a jump to three hearts (which would promise at least four trumps). Bid a side suit, and show the heart support later. Avoid bidding a very weak minor suit when you can comfortably bid in this situation.

Norwich Violinist Wins Aetna Scholarship

HARTFORD (AP) — A Norwich violinist, Charles R. Pile, won a $1,000 music scholarship from the Aetna Life and Casualty Company.

Runners-up were pianist Ira Brown, also of Norwich, and trumpeter Raymond Mase of Meriden, both 17. Each would receive $200 awards.

The three finalists were chosen from performances given during a series of young people's concerts by the Hartford Symphony orchestra.

Navy Wives Are Clued In

By JOHN WOODFIELD
Associated Press Writer

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — It used to be that wives of officers stationed for the first time at the U.S. Naval Academy had trouble interpreting such terms as "dragged a brick from Chablow," or "tried by the low woe." No more.

The Naval Academy Women's Club has issued a booklet entitled "Smooth Sailing" deciphering these and many other terms for neophyte service wives.

It also gives tips on how to shake hands with whom and when, what to serve midshipmen invited for dinner, and which buildings have convenient rest rooms.

The glossary of academy terms, for example, will tell you that to drag in a date; a trick is an "attractive drag"; and Chablow is Annapolis. Fry means to be put on report and low woe is the battalion officer of the watch.

The booklet also gives what may seem an obvious observation: "In the yard (academy grounds), a midshipman always has the right of way when he meets a car."

For those who worry about the social niceties, the booklet offers the following advice: "A lady rises when meeting older women, royally, the president or high church officials. When a senior officer or professor extends an invitation, it is a good idea to accept if possible."

For those who plan to entertain midshipmen, "be aware of milk or stock up on Midshipmen in the kitchen."

The 22-page booklet, which is being distributed free of charge to Navy wives, was written by Mrs. Hettie B. Cooper. It's the first time that a handbook for the staff members of the academy has been available to the wives of midshipmen, faculty and staff have been issued handbooks known as "Red Pages," which are updated each year.

'Sin' in the Suburb

By JOE WING
NEW YORK (AP) — When old friends from the valley of Ball Creek come to town, they sometimes give me the third degree on the sin in the suburbs. That's only natural because I've lived for years in Port Washington, a commuters' town on Long Island's old Gold Coast — just the sort of place where suburban sin is supposed to thrive.

As a matter of fact, the town does have its sinners; until recently we had one in our own home.

We called him Tiger, although his fashionably shaggy black hair and burning good nature were not in the least tigerish. In practical matters, Tiger was a lot like the dog that used to fetch the paper or do tricks or bark at the right people. He seemed definitely better behaved when it came to matters of the heart, he could outsmart a man.

He must have memorized the names, addresses and telephone numbers of every eligible female on our side of the Long Island East Road trunk. As soon as one of them became receptive, Tiger made ready to take off. No matter how carefully we guarded the door, Tiger would somehow get out. Given a second chance, he would be back at the right place. He would be back at the right place. He would be back at the right place.

He was no easy matter either to track him down. If he started west, it was likely as not he would swing around later to the east. If he headed south, he wouldn't be surprised when the dog catcher picked him up on the north side of town.

Tiger liked dog catchers. They would open the door of their Black Maxes, and he would walk right in. His favorite dog catcher got tired of hauling him in the pound and started returning him to us instead.

Not merely an ardent cheerer, Tiger was an effective lover. Of all the dogs that used to gather at Doozy's Schneider's house when Minnie was in heat, only Tiger was welcomed inside. We wish now we had accepted one of the pups that came along later.

As Tiger grew older, his adventures were spaced more widely. He spent more time prowling on the front hall rug. But even at the age of 12 the old He would tremble and abstain from food until he could get out and away.

He last flung therefore caused us no immediate alarm. Tiger was out on the town for the night, so what? It had happened scores of times before. But when morning came, we found him lying on his side at the end of the front walk. He had barely made it home, after a heart attack.

We buried Tiger in the vacant lot by the side of our house. There was no service, but Doozy Schneider provided the epitaph, she said:
"He was the sexiest dog in town."

Encees Show
Frank Larala of 74 School St. past grand knight of Camp Bell Council, will again be the master of ceremonies for the Knights of Columbus "Grand Nile of Music," April 26 and 28. Larala will also sing two new arrangements by Stan F. Resnik with the K of C Orchestra, "Somewhere My Love" and "The Lady Is In Love With You."

He has appeared with the orchestra at many benefits and has directed many shows at St. James'. He has been with the orchestra since its beginning seven years ago, and has worked on Project West with Brotherhood in Action.

Miss Mary Morlock of East Hartford, area dance teacher, will do the choreography for the dance routines by the trio of Miss Morlock, Tommy Peters of West Hartford, who is appearing for the first time with the show, and Miss Kathy Quinn who attends Eastern Connecticut State College and who danced last year.

Harvard Board Mum About ROTC Credits
CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The Harvard corporation will not say whether it has decided to withdraw academic credit from courses given under the Reserve Officers Training Corps Program at the University.

The Corporation, which is the governing board of the university, met Monday and a spokesman said that the ROTC issue was discussed. He would not say, however, whether a decision had been reached.

The Harvard faculty voted Feb. 16 to ask the Corporation to withdraw academic credit and terminate use of university facilities for the ROTC program.

A story in the student newspaper, the Harvard Crimson, said that it is not Corporation policy to reveal decisions. This means that the outcome will be ascertainable only by Corporation action, such as removal or termination of ROTC teaching contracts when they expire.

Increased Water Rates Needed To Pay For New Capital Works

Increased water rates to finance proposed improvements to the town's water supply and distribution system will be drawn up by the town administration at the instruction of the Board of Directors.

The directors last night told General Manager Robert Weiss to draw up proposed new rates and to work up a capital improvement program for the water projects suggested in a recent report done for the town by the Groswood Engineering Co.

Weiss said he regarded those two moves as the first steps in implementing suggestions in the report, after it was discussed briefly last night by the directors and representatives of the Groswood Co.

The report, culmination of several months' work, recommends improvements with an estimated cost at current prices of $4.2 million—to be undertaken between now and 1980.

The presentation last night was made by two Groswood engineers, Walter Foss, who was once town director of public works, and Fred Thrall, who retired as superintendent of the Water Department.

Foss stressed in his talk to the directors that the report sets its goals for the acquisition of new water supply 10 years ahead of the expected need for that supply.

By 1970, for instance, the engineers envision steps which will give the town 4.7 million gallons a day, about the amount the town will have to have by 1980, according to projections the engineers feel are somewhat conservative.

By 1980, the goal is 6.54 million gallons a day, which represents approximately the expected need by 1990, again based on projections the engineers feel are conservative.

Foss stressed this point, he said, because he felt it may have been misunderstood. Thrall said the engineers set up priorities in the report to make it easier for the directors to decide upon projects. Drawing on his experience as head of the Water Department, he said he felt it is important that the town set up a progressive and systematic program of improvements so that problems will not multiply until it becomes too expensive to solve them.

The directors agreed last night that the most urgent problem was to stop the loss of water through leakage, and when that has been taken care of, the town should begin to take steps to improve the quality of water and distribution. Later in the evening, however, the question of financing was not discussed.

Vernon Coronor Blames Groton Driver In Crash Death

A coroner's report as found Eugene V. Warmoth, 22, of Groton negligent in the traffic death of George H. Brough Sr. of Rockville. The accident occurred last Aug. 25 when the car in which Brough was riding was struck by a car driven by Warmoth who is stationed at the Groton post office.

The report, issued by Tolland County Coroner Herbert Hannan, said that Brough's death was caused by "the gross and willful misconduct of Eugene V. Warmoth and in consequence of his intoxication."

The accident occurred about 6:30 p.m. on Rt. 74 in Tolland. Hannan said that Warmoth had left the VFW club house on Rt. 74. When he spotted his car driven by his son at the time of the accident, the coroner's report said.

Brough was riding in a car driven by his son at the time of the accident, the coroner's report said. The car was a 1967 Ford Mustang.

Woman Tried On Charge of Selling LSD

A federal court jury was in deliberation this afternoon in a case involving a Rockville woman, who is charged with selling 10 LSD tablets to an undercover narcotics agent.

The woman is Mrs. Sharon Courtwright, 22, of 39 White St. She was arrested on a federal warrant Sept. 26.

In a brief trial this morning in U.S. District Court in Hartford, the undercover narcotics agent testified he met Mrs. Courtwright and a friend at a Hartford luncheonette and went with them to a Hartford apartment where he saw the LSD tablets.

The friend, Michael J. Guerry, 18, of Simsbury is serving a one-year sentence after pleading guilty to the sale.

Guerry testified today that Mrs. Courtwright met the agent and went to the apartment but did not receive any of the money he got from the agent.

Mrs. Courtwright, however, admitted during her testimony that she told the agent the tablets were "good" and she has taken LSD but cannot take drug now because of an operation and poor health.

Designer Says Try Decorating Using Doll House

NEW YORK (AP) — Who says dolls and doll houses are only playthings for little girls? By her own admission, interior designer Melanie Kahane, 37, played with dolls "long past the so-called proper age to do so."

Although the home is one area where a woman can make a career out of her hobby, Kahane says she never furnished a doll house.

Tolland Town Moves on Charter Study

The Board of Selectmen in Tolland today moved forward with the first steps toward the appointment of a Charter Study Commission.

The selectmen agreed to request both Democratic town chairman Charles Tulland and Republican town chairman Russell Staveman to submit names of recommended residents for appointment to a Charter Study Commission.

The action is the result of behind the scenes bipartisan agreement on the need for a charter study group to provide some type of home rule regulation. The commission's decision will not affect this year's local election.

After this session of the legislature ends, towns will be unable to request special acts for themselves through the legislature. Towns such as Tolland governed by state statutes would be unable to change a regulation to meet a local need.

The state statutes governing the appointment of a Charter Study Commission and outlining the commission's duties are extensive.

First Selectman Ernest Vlk asked each town chairman to submit several names of candidates for appointment to the commission.

State statutes call for not less than five members or more than 15. No more than one-third of those appointed may hold any other public office in the town, and no more than a bare majority may be members of any one political party.

The commission, which is to be appointed by the Board of Selectmen, will assume the duties of drafting a charter or the adoption of a home rule ordinance.

The selectmen will specify when the commission shall report, providing the date is not more than one year from the date of appointment. State statutes require the appointment of members within 30 days after initiation of the appointing authority.

This means the Selectmen would have to confirm the appointments by their March 18 meeting.

First Selectman Ernest Vlk asked for the recommended candidates to be submitted at the March 3 meeting of the board.

Possible Forms

The creation of a charter study commission does not necessarily mark an end to the town meeting form of government.

It is possible to retain the present selectmen-town meeting form and still maintain a charter.

Other possible forms of government open to the commission would be the creation of a legislative body on the basis of a representative town meeting, a Board of Selectmen, council, Board of Directors, Board of Aldermen or Board of Burgesses, or a combination of town meeting or representative town meeting with one of these bodies.

The adoption of a different form of government may mark an end to the Board of Selectmen, however.

State statutes give the power of adoption of the annual budget and any other powers provided in the charter "to the body having the greater number of members."

The recommended body with the lesser number of members will have the power to adopt, amend and repeal ordinances, subject to the limitations imposed by the charter or the general statutes.

If the town charter called for a town council, the Board of Finance would no longer be used, as in Vernon, South Windsor and when the charter becomes effective next year in Coventry.

The number of members in any elected legislative body and the terms of office of such members and the method by which they are elected will be prescribed in the charter.

In creating the charter the town will have a chief administrative officer who may be either a first selectman, a chief administrative officer appointed by the Board of Selectmen, a mayor elected by the electors of the town, a town manager appointed by the Board of Selectmen, by the council or a chief administrative officer appointed by the mayor.

A town opting for a town manager may still have a mayor who will be the presiding officer of its legislative body, the ceremonial head of the town and such other powers and duties as the charter prescribes. An example of this form is South Windsor, which also has a town council.

Vernon has an elected mayor with a director of administration answerable to the Mayor. The mayor in turn is answerable to the Board of Representatives.

Charter Votes

The statutes continue to define 57 different powers to be granted under a charter.

Twenty-one towns and cities in the state acted on a charter questions or adoptions during the November elections last year, according to statistics released by the Connecticut Public Expenditure Council.

Voters in 14 of these towns approved revisions to their charters representing over 22 percent of the state's population. Those in five towns rejected the appointment of a Charter Study Commission.

Area towns voting on charter questions included Coventry which adopted a 7-member commission to change the election date to November was approved by a 3,303 - 1,197 vote.

Manchester adopted its 9-member commission's recommendations for extensive charter revisions by a 5,106 - 1,361 vote.

Approaching the 10,000 population mark such as Tolland is, many people feel that a town meeting form of government is no longer desired.

Town meetings held here during the past two years illustrate the theory.

With the exception of two town meetings, the attendance at all others has hovered between 10 and 60 people, with the usual average attendance about 30, compared to the town's estimated 3,000 population.

Two exceptions were the annual budget meeting two years ago attended by about 800 persons and the town meetings on last night that the Board of Selectmen will work closely with the appointed commission.

One or more of the selectmen will probably be appointed to a decision, a referendum may be called, a referendum may be called, a referendum may be called.

Those interested in serving on the Charter Study Commission should notify their town chairman.

Manchester Evening Herald correspondent, Bette Quatralo, tel. 875-2848.

Softball Field Problem Now in Rec Board Hands

The possibility of converting the baseball field at Mt. Nebo to a softball field and lighting it for night use was discussed prominently last night at an informal meeting of the Board of Directors with a number of softball enthusiasts and some members of the Park and Recreation Advisory Commission.

The directors referred the problem of providing an adequately lighted softball field to the advisory commission and asked it to come up with a recommendation.

Converting the Mt. Nebo field was one of several possible moves discussed last night and the one which seemed to fire the most favor.

The Mt. Nebo baseball field is now used by the American Legion-sponsored team, and any plan for conversion would include asking the team to play at Memorial Field instead.

The softball players now use several town fields, including one superimposed on the football field at Mt. Nebo. That field is the only one lighted, but the lights are regarded as inadequate and are arranged for several years ago from Robertson Park where they lighted a softball diamond.

Chief spokesman for the softball players last night was Steve McAdam, who presented a petition requesting the lighted field and who turned over a blue print for lighting which carries an estimate of from $17,000 to $20,000. The petition carried 1,000 signatures.

Directors and members of the recreation commission present last night agreed on the need

Enemy Units Hit Moving on Saigon

The Israeli security authorities must reach the proper conclusions with regard to this extension of Arab terror.

Hayon, published by the right-wing Gahal party, said Israel "must react because her neighbors understand no other language."

The guerrillas, three men and a woman, opened up on the El Al Boeing 707 from behind a snowbank Tuesday night as it taxied down a runway at Zurich's Kloten airport to take off for Tel Aviv. Six of the 27 persons aboard, most of them Israelis, were wounded.

The most seriously injured were trainee pilot Yoram Peretz, hit in the abdomen by three bullets. He was reported out of danger following an emergency operation at the Zurich Cantonal Hospital.

The U.S. State Department and U.N. Secretary-General U Thant condemned the Arab attack in Zurich, and U.N. Secretary-General U Thant expressed hope there would be no repeat. But leading Israeli newspapers promised retaliation.

The semi-official newspaper Lomachay declared: "The sabotage of always cannot be one-sided."

Business Mirror

By JOHN CURRIE
New York (AP) — In communities all over America these days the construction of functional looking structures that faintly resemble motels stands out as a new industry.

Not long ago a nursing home might have occupied an old mansion. Most likely it is now a new building, built by a private party. And though standards sometimes were good, the image of the entire industry was tarnished by the many that were poor.

Today the industry is one of the glamor attractions on Wall Street, with some companies commanding price-earnings multiples of 100, meaning that investors are willing to pay 100 times earnings for a share of stock.

For a comparison, consider the P-E of Goodyear, which is 15, or American Cyanamid, near 18, or duPont, which is 21. A P-E of 100 for a nursing home may seem absurdly high but hundreds of investors don't seem to think so.

So great is the investor interest, and so meager the number of analytical summaries, that one Wall Street researcher now offers for $200 a copy a study of the industry, which just 10 years ago was thought to be an unchanging area of enterprise. The report sums up the change in this way: The motel

ing. In fiscal 1967 close to 850 billion was expended for health and medical care in the United States, an increase of 12 percent in one year. Health is a huge and growing business.

It is potential profit rather than altruism that motivates the operators of chains, the franchisers and other entrepreneurs. Motel owners often have to worry about vacancies. Well-run nursing homes have waiting lists.

Despite a sharp increase in the building of nursing homes, especially during the past two or three years, health officials estimate there is still a shortage of close to 80,000 of suitable nursing home beds.

This has been the trend: In 1968, about 1,200 institutions offered 20,000 beds, according to Equity. By 1964 some 7,000 institutions provided 100,000 beds. In 1965 the total was 12,000 and in 1966, 15,000.

In the next two years, however, 1969 and 1970, the number of beds is expected to reach 18,250 and the number of institutions to 10,000.

It is growth such as this, projected into the future, that is making scores of companies going to be losers, but the betting is that more than a few will succeed.

Airport Gets State Okay

An application to establish a private airport near the corner of Pucker St. and South St. has been approved by the State Aeronautics Commission.

The state approval means that the actual establishment of the airport is still subject to local zoning regulations, which do not permit airfields.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Thompson at Mason, 30 Tumblebrook Dr.

Gov. John Dempsey's 1969-71 budget report yesterday was not limiting close study to him alone.

State Rep. Donald Genova, Rep. said today, "I am shocked and deeply concerned by the budget presented by a governor with an Irish heritage."

Commenting today on the governor's record-high $2.8 billion "biennial" budget proposal, State Sen. David Barry, Dem., said, "I don't feel locked in by his recommendations for raising revenue."

Barry said that the budget that the legislature must act responsibly. A member of both the Appropriations Committee and the Finance Committee, Barry said medium wage-earner, and the economy wherever it can."

He said, "There's room for change, and some of the areas proposed by the governor as sources of revenue must be given a second look."

Two of those areas needing a second look, Barry said, are proposals for taxes on bank interest and on real estate transfers. He said that he is using the

ROCKVILLE SESSION

Adult Probation Officer Paul McGreehey declaring that the Department of Adult Probation is not a baby-sitting service, strongly recommended that probation be revoked for Raymond Leger, 33, of 315 Crane Rd., Ellington.

Leger is charged with three counts of violation of the probation he is on as a result of fraudulent issue of checks last year. He was instructed as a condition of probation to make restitution for the checks amounting to $138.

Recounting a history of emotional difficulties including an apparent attempted suicide, pathological lying and irresponsibility, McGreehey declared that probation wouldn't work.

LEM Dubbed 'Tissue Paper Craft'

Mission of Apollo 9 Crew: To Test Lunar Landing Rig

EDITOR'S NOTE—On Feb. 22, three astronauts are scheduled to be shot into space in another step toward the goal of landing U.S. spacecraft on the moon by mid-1969.

By HOWARD BENEDETT AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — "I wouldn't give you two dollars a day for a room in it. But it's designed to land us on the moon."

That's Air Force Lt. Col. James A. McDivitt describing the fragile lunar module which will help test on the Apollo 9 flight scheduled to start from Cape Kennedy Feb. 22.

McDivitt will command the flight. With him will be Air Force Lt. Col. David S. Scott and civilian astronaut Russell L. Schweickart.

The inner module undergoes a landing gear deployment test in the Manned Spacecraft Operations Building at Cape Kennedy, Fla. This will be the first time the LEM is mated to the command module.

On the third day, Schweickart will be kept alive by oxygen and other equipment carried in a pack on his back. He will be tied to the LEM by a 25-foot cord.

On the fourth day, McDivitt and Schweickart will separate the LEM from the command module and fly to a point 100 miles away. Then they'll start a series of rendezvous exercises to return to a linkup with Scott.

"I guess you'd probably call this the most critical phase of the Apollo 9 mission," McDivitt said. "The LEM has no heat shield and no tether so it can't re-enter the atmosphere. It's essential that the LEM returns to the command module in order to get home."

They are to orbit the earth for 10 days in one of the most complex man in space flights yet attempted. Many rate it tougher than the Apollo 8 moon orbit mission.

The major goal, McDivitt said, is to give the lunar module, called a LEM, its first manned test in space.

When Apollo 9 is launched by a Saturn 5 rocket, McDivitt, Scott and Schweickart will ride in the main Apollo ship, with the LEM resting in an adapter section between the third stage and the spaceship.

Once in orbit 118 miles high, the astronauts separate the main ship, called a command module, and turn around to dock with the LEM, pulling it free on the third stage.

The first referendum, held in December 1967, defeated all proposals for the building project. The second referendum held in March 1968 approved $1,250,000 for the building project.

At a public information meeting held Monday evening, 49 persons including board members, architects and press discussed the reasons for the additional funds.

At a board meeting following the closing of the polls yesterday the board moved to table any actions or further discussion on the referendum until a special meeting of the board on Monday.

School Board Takes Action On Personnel

Action taken by the Board of Education Monday night on personnel changes was routine in 11 of 12 instances.

The board approved the immediate resignation of a teacher and the appointment of a new teacher.

On the recommendation of Superintendent of Schools Donald J. Hennigan, the board approved a sabbatical leave of absence for the 1968-70 school year for Donald Warren, Bennett Junior High School teacher.

Mrs. Susan Blair was appointed to teach Grade 4 at Richard Martin School for the remainder of the school year.

The resignations of two elementary school teachers for retirement purposes at the end of the school year were accepted with regret.

Effective resignation dates of two teachers accepted at January meetings were changed. That of Mrs. Ruth Madell was changed from Feb. 21 to Feb. 28, and that of Mrs. Barbara Montiller from Feb. 14 to Feb. 11.

Similarly, two leaves of absence dates were changed, that of Mrs. Janet Hiberno from Jan. 2 to Jan. 15, and that of Mrs. Barbara Kroll from Jan. 9 to Jan. 10.

School Panel Sets Meeting Tomorrow

The Board of Education will hold its regular monthly meeting tomorrow night. This is the meeting that was postponed because of the storm, and then because of the Republican caucus.

The agenda is very short, however, and after the necessary business of paying bills, the report, the board is expected to get back to work on its budget preparation.

Superintendent of Schools Joseph Castagna attended the American Association of School Administrators convention in Atlantic City over the weekend. Over 30,000 administrators were there.

Dr. Castagna said he spent quite a bit of time looking over the exhibits, with an eye out for furniture for the new elementary school and physical education and shop equipment for the middle school.

20 Seniors Accepted
According to the February newsletter from the high school guidance office, 32 seniors have sent a total of 111 applications to colleges, universities and Worcester Polytechnic Institute.

The students, a few of whom have been listed before, and their acceptances, are: Keith Carpenter, Northeastern and Worcester Polytechnic Institute; Carol Clark, Bates; Kathy Geer, Northeastern and the University of Connecticut; Karen Hills, Drew and UConn; Duane LeBlanc, University of Hartford; David Loyd, UConn and Florida Institute of Technology; William Mickiewicz, UConn and Georgia Tech and UofT; Debbie Miner, East Carolina University; Gary Mortenson, UConn and UofT; David Norris, Westminster; Jean Pesce, UConn and University of Michigan; Debbi Porcheron, West Virginia Wesleyan; Jack Sadler, UConn College and Florida Inst. of Tech.; Jackie Treschuk, Drew and UConn; Paula Vares, Eastern Conn. State College, and Gretel Cole, Larry Fiano, Alvin Gauthier, Cynthia Barnhorn and Charles Zoppo, UConn Scout Banquet.

The postponed Blue and Gold Banquet of Club Soccer Frack 197 has been set for next Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. in the education building of Bolton Congregational Church.

Bulletin Board
The zoning board will meet tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the town office conference room.

Atty. George Athanson will give the last in a series of lectures on foreign affairs tomorrow night at St. George's Episcopal Church.

The 15th annual combined Ash Wednesday service of the United Methodist Church and Bolton Congregational Church will be held tonight at 8 at the Congregational church.

Plenty of Casinos
LONDON (AP) — A call for fewer gambling casinos in Britain comes from the Church of England Assembly's Board of Social Responsibility. The board says none of the controls now being considered by Parliament would be effective. Britain, it says, has more facilities for gambling than any other state in the world except Nevada. There are 1,000 casinos in England compared with 100 in France.

Sherman R. Collins, who became a 10-gallon blood donor yesterday, receives a certificate of commendation and a 10-gallon lapel pin from Mrs. Kevin Decker, (left), chairman of yesterday's bloodmobile, and Gray Lady volunteer Mrs. John L. This week we'll make and sell about 9 million donuts!

Wonder why?

Well, maybe it's because we make more types of Donuts than probably any other wholesale baker. We make Golden Donuts, Sugar, Cinnamon, Chocolate, Jelly, Frosted, Homestyle, Glazed and more. Or maybe it's because our Jane Parker Donuts are known to be light and luscious.

Whatever the reason, it's a fact. We will make and sell about 9 million donuts this week and average nearly the same every week of the year. Such popularity must be deserved.

This week, shop A&P. Visit the Jane Parker Department. Pick any donut variety and discover for yourself why they're so popular.

Ted Kennedy 'Too Vulnerable' To Enter Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says his political experience and family name were factors in his decision not to seek the Democratic presidential nomination last August.

The Massachusetts senator, who will be 37 years old this Saturday, was quoted in the current issue of Look magazine as saying he was under considerable pressure to try for the nomination, adding: "Basically, I just didn't have the feeling at that time for politics and campaigning and, beyond that, I was too vulnerable."

"After all, how could I conscientiously combat allegations by Nixon—and we had to anticipate he would make them—that I was too young, that I had no record in public life strong enough to recommend me for the high office of president, that perhaps I was trying to trade on my brother's name. I could not expose the Democratic party to that kind of vulnerability."

The senator, two of whose brothers, a president and a senator, fell to assassins' bullets, said, "Some people say that 1972 is the year I must make a move for the presidency, or 1976, or 1980. But how do I know that some young fellow—some Jay Rockefeller—won't suddenly come on the scene and make everybody forget that anybody ever considered Ted Kennedy for the presidency?"

Asked why he goes on in politics, Kennedy said: "It seems to me, if you have the ability and the training for public service, and the opportunity, it would be a sin not to try. I don't have any feelings of guilt, any of that conscience about someone's obligation because I happen to be born with money. It's just that there is so much wrong in the world, so many people suffering needlessly, and, if I think I can help, it seems to me I just try. And there is a challenge in politics."

Soviet Assassin Reported Freed, Living in U.S.

BONN, Germany (AP) — A Soviet assassin convicted in 1961 of slaying two West German leaders has been released from prison and is living in the United States.

The West German Justice Ministry confirmed yesterday that Rogan N. Stashinsky, 37, was released from prison two years ago after serving five years of an eight-year prison term and left West Germany. The ministry said he was eligible for release because he had served two-thirds of his sentence.

The ministry said he was allowed to leave West Germany because his life was in danger here. It would not say where he went.

The Hamburg weekly magazine Stern reported in its current issue that Stashinsky and his wife went to the United States.

"He was met by agents of the U.S. intelligence service CIA and immediately taken to the United States in a military plane," the magazine said.

In October 1961, the West German Supreme Court sentenced Stashinsky to eight years for the killings in Munich of Ukrainian nationalist leaders Lev Rebet in 1957 and Stefan Bandera in 1959.

Stashinsky, who turned himself in and admitted the slayings, said he had killed on orders of the Soviet secret service with pistols that sprayed potassium cyanide and caused instant death.

In imposing what was considered a comparatively light sentence, the court said it decided that Stashinsky was only a tool in the hands of the Soviet government.

Stashinsky testified he was blackmailed into joining the secret service in 1950 after he was caught making an illegal trip to his native Ukraine.

He fled to West Berlin with his East German wife in August 1961, less than 24 hours before the Communists erected the Berlin wall. He was stationed in West Berlin and said he fell into disfavor with the Kremlin by marrying the East German woman.

Stamps In the News

By SYD KRONBERG AP New-York-features The Apollo 8 Mission, which received world-wide tribute for its trip around the moon, will be honored on a new 8-cent U.S. stamp scheduled for issuance on May 4. That's the anniversary date of the first U.S. manned orbital space flight in 1961 by Capt. Alan B. Shepard Jr.

Throughout the years the Post office has issued stamps of great importance, but few events have captured the imagination and acclaim as have the Apollo 8 Mission. Their daring recognition on a new stamp is most welcome.

Another philatelic recognition well deserved is the new 6-cent U.S. stamp commemorating the 50th anniversary of the American Legion to be issued March 15 in Washington, D.C. The design features an eagle clutching an olive branch. This particular eagle is the emblem of the Great Seal of the United States. At the top of the stamp are the words "American Legion." Beside the eagle's wing is "50 years." Beneath the olive branch is the phrase "Veterans as Citizens."

Collectors desiring first-day cancellations may send addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Washington, D.C. 20035, prior to March 15.

The world's first U.S. Latin American stamps will be issued in London in February in the auction rooms of Stanley Gibbons Ltd. This is the second of four sets of the "Americas" collection.

One of the items for sale is the famous "Pack of Cards" of Brazil which is expected to bring more than $20,000. Late American in the sale surviving male relative of the late Antarctic explorer Roald Amundsen.

When all four parts of the collection are sold, it is expected to realize more than $1 million. Book Review

EAST WIND, RAIN, BY ELLIOTT R. THORPE. Gambit Inc. $4.95.

In this World War II memoir the author, now a retired Army general, details his experiences in the Pacific.

In 1941-42 he was an intelligence officer in Java, and nominally a Lenz-Lewis officer. It happened that the Dutch in Java had an espionage net that gave them a pretty good idea of what the Japanese were up to. But when Thorpe relayed Dutch information pointing toward Pearl Harbor, he was told abruptly by Washington to mind his own business.

Following the Japanese invasion of Java, he reached Australia in time to join the first militia of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Southwest Pacific command and became a chief of counter-intelligence.

There follows the story of the slow push northward to New Guinea and to a recapture of the Philippines—in this episode he describes with some bitterness the problems of sorting out those who had been collaborators with the Japanese.

Finally there is the account of the American occupation of Japan, in which he played a major role as a staff officer for MacArthur.

His portrait of MacArthur as a general is anecdotal and personal. He admires MacArthur's general as a great man. MacArthur became a controversial figure, and he attempts to be objective in his account, but it is clear in the later chapters that he is an advocate of the general as a great man.

Thorpe's story is told in low key and is full of understatement and mild humor about the follies of wartime confusion. It serves as an interesting comment on the war, often depicting the decisions of the White House, the State Department and the Pentagon.

THE MOUNTAIN LION. By Robert Murphy. Doubleday, $4.95.

Murphy writes vividly of wild life in their natural habitat. He casts his writing in the form of short novels. Among the more memorable narratives he has produced are "The Puma," the story of nature's balance in a small body of water, and "The Golden Eagle," the life story of a masterful bird.

The present tale about a mountain lion, Beta, emphasizes the predator's fight for survival in an environment where man is encroaching more and more.

Beta is 3 years old as the story begins, and is seeking a mate for the first time.

Her first encounters with men are very nearly disastrous, as she has no way of understanding the danger she is in, but fortunately she is helped by a friendly shepherd. The climax of the tale comes when Beta is captured by a lion hunter and narrowly escapes death. Murphy's expert narrative and descriptive powers create an unusual empathy between the reader and the wild creatures of his books.

Miles A. Smith

ROME IMPERIALISM IN THE LATER REPUBLIC. By E. Badian. Cornell University Press, $4.95.

Was ancient Rome imperialist? The affirmative is generally taken for granted and Rome is considered the prototype of the predatory imperialist state, however admirable and sophisticated its internal system.

Prof. Badian, in this closely argued study, presents evidence that the imperialism of the later republic, at least, was of a peculiar and ambiguous kind, starting for influence over client states but not for direct rule. Moreover, he contends persuasively that economic motives played little part in Roman foreign and military policies of the second century.

The modern historical temper, heavily mortgaged to Marxist emphases of economic factors, may recoil at the idea—the Roman senatorial oligarchy pursuing ends other than palpable material advantage!

Yet according to Badian, so it was. Time and again, the Senate showed its aversion to acquisition of new territories, even to incorporating bequested kingdoms in the Roman domain. And the profits from conquests long remained loosely organized and, by and large, extremely modest.

The policy of restraint changed after the Social War, beginning in 89 B.C. and as the Republic drew toward the close, the oligarchy was diluted through enfranchisement of Italy, and men like Crassus and Pompey put Senate and more importantly, the plebs, in a more direct way than had been the case of war fought for and gain.

How much this blatant rapacity run counter to older Roman traditions forms the main argument of this elegant little study. While he presupposes familiarity with Roman history, Badian writes lucidly enough so that the general reader can follow his thought without trouble.

R. J. Clappon

IN TOUCH. By John Steinbeck. Knopf, $4.95.

People over 30, many of whom have difficulty communicating with those under 30, would do well to read this book.

The author, now 72, looks back over his recent experiences, and as a sort of intermediary between the generations sheds a good deal of light on subjects that baffle the over-30 crowd.

The first of three sections deals with his year as a broadcast specialist with Armed Forces Radio and Television in Vietnam. As he apparently had in civilian life, he deliberately got himself into some unorthodox scrapes in order to expand his consciousness.

He reports that Vietnam changed him from a hawk-accusatory he had not been very hawkish, instead of volunteering, he wanted to be drafted—to a dove. It was a classic case of youthful disillusionment.

The second section is on the incidents, well-publicized at the time, that followed his return. Still in uniform, he gave shelter in his apartment to a hippie friend. There was a marijuana raid; he was involved in a trial (and acquitted). Then he was invited to testify before a Senate subcommittee on the use of marijuana in Vietnam, on which

4 Get Organ Implants Given by One Donor
By BRIAN SULLIVAN
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Teams of surgeons removed six organs from a single donor Wednesday night and early today. The heart, liver and both kidneys were transplanted to four recipients, and two corneas were being held for use.

The four recipients were reported doing well at midday by the two hospitals where the series of operations were performed.

The two New York hospitals said the operations involved the largest number of organs ever removed from one person for immediate use. Some of them were carried a city block from one hospital to the other.

One cornea was scheduled for implantation later today, a spokesman said, but it was uncertain when the second would be used. The hospitals had said earlier all six organs were used immediately, but a recheck showed that the corneas were being held for recipients.

Doctors, unlike the other organs, can be frozen and stored indefinitely for later use.

The work was performed at Memorial Hospital for Cancer and Allied Diseases and at New York Hospital, institutions a block apart near the East River.

The hospitals said they would not identify any of those involved.

The donor was a 57-year-old man who was admitted to Memorial Hospital with an inoperable brain tumor.

"As death approached," the hospitals said in a statement, "the patient's next of kin resolved that on the death of the patient, they would permit the largest number of organs ever removed from one person for transplantation in the hope of prolonging comfortable and useful life for others."

The patient died at about 4 p.m. Wednesday. The hospital said "brain death"—the absence of all electrical activity in the brain—was certified by a team of physicians including the patient's own doctor and neurosurgeons who had no connection with the transplant procedures.

This, the statement said, was a step taken in accordance with the wishes of the donor.

Prof. Roach Seeks Appeal To Court Ban
Prof. Jack L. Roach of the University of Connecticut yesterday petitioned the chief justice of the State Supreme Court for the right to appeal a temporary injunction issued against him Feb. 5 in Toland County Superior Court.

Roach was enjoined by Superior Court Judge William Barber from taking part "in any activity which might impair or prevent the accomplishment of any lawful activity, process, or function of the University of Connecticut, including the disruption of placement interviews and unlawful entry into or upon the buildings of the university."

Roach is one of four professors who have been active in protests against job recruiting at UConn. A complaint was filed against him Jan. 31 by the university, asking that he be enjoined from disruptive activities.

A temporary injunction normally cannot be appealed, but Roach's attorney, Thomas J. Groark Jr., of Hartford has discovered a little-known statute which may offer an opportunity for appeal.

The statute (52-206a) of the Connecticut General Statutes requires the petitioner to show that the case is of substantial public interest, and that a delay may work a substantial injustice to the rights of the defendant.

The main advantage of the statute is its speed. Chief Justice John Hamilton King is required to decide whether he will allow an appeal to be heard within one week after the filing of the petition.

The petition offered several reasons showing why the case has substantial public interest. The petition states: "The work was performed at

Washington's Birthdays
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon today named new over. All three of the appointments European posts—Jacob D. Bean to the Soviet Union, Wallace Robinson to Greece, and John S. Eisenhower, now serving as ambassador to U.S. Army, also is getting his first key government post with assignment to Brussels, where he is replacing Ambassador Rodway Knight.

A resident of Phoenixville, Pa., he has been assisting his father in publishing his magazine, Triangle Publications, Inc., publisher of the Philadelphia Inquirer, the Philadelphia Daily Evening Bulletin, and the Philadelphia Evening Post. The firm has an assistant director of the U.S. arms control and disarmament agency.

He is considered one of the top Kremlinologists in the government and has had wide experience in Western Europe. He served previously in Moscow in 1952 and took over as acting ambassador when Ambassador George Kennan was declared persona non grata by the Soviet regime. He was ambassador to Poland from 1965 to 1967.

The U.S. Command said today 197 Americans were killed in action last week and 1,100 were wounded. This brought the total number of American combat deaths since Jan. 1, 1961, to 21,799.

Draft Call Keeps Induction Level Up
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon, maintaining high induction levels this year, called today for the drafting of 33,000 men in April.

The Selective Service System was asked to draft 20,000 for the Army and 2,000 for the Marines.

Draft calls have been relatively high this year as the Pentagon presses to release thousands of Reservists and National Guardsmen who were ordered up in 1966 after the Pueblo crisis in Korea and the Tet offensive in Vietnam.

A total of 28,800 men were sought in January. Other draft calls this year included February's 35,700 and March's 32,100.

Seven Iraqis Executed As Israeli Spies
DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Iraq executed seven young men today as spies for Israel, then put their bodies on display. There were no Jews among them.

Israel was expected to issue a denial of any complicity, but it seemed unlikely there would be another storm of foreign protests such as followed the execution and public display last month of three Iraqi Jews and five other Iraqis as spies for the Jewish nation.

Baghdad Radio canceled regular programs this morning and broadcast repeated announcements of the execution in what appeared to be an invitation to crowds to go to the capital's Liberation Square, where the bodies were hanging.

The seven Iraqi Muslims, all between 19 and 24 years of age, were condemned after a three-week trial before Iraq's revolutionary court. The government radio said two were soldiers, and they were shot by firing squads, while five civilians were hanged at Baghdad's central prison.

A third soldier also was sentenced to death, the broadcast said, but his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by President Ahmed Hassan al-Bakr because he "helped us

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon's week-long trip is set to begin today. As ambassador, he replaces David E. Bruce. Pending New Regulations Hickel Calls Off Sale Of Offshore Leases
WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel, in his third action of the day, called off the sale of offshore oil and gas leases.

The sale of 27 Gulfcoast tracts that could have brought the government millions of dollars, was scheduled for next Tuesday and was the only such sale of federal offshore leases in history.

Hickel said the sale would be postponed "until we are positive we have regulations which will prevent pollution such as the Santa Barbara tragedy."

He referred to the 15-day leak of a Union Oil Co. well which spread an 80-square-mile slick across the Santa Barbara channel late this year of areas off Alaska, but that sale has not yet been plugged Feb. 8.

Hanoi, NLF Again Take Hard Stance
PARIS (AP)—The United States insisted today that common ground exists at the Vietnam peace talks to bring the conflict to an end, but the members of desklock deepened as Hanoi and the National Liberation Front stuck by their all-or-nothing demands.

The U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge told the North Vietnamese he was in the spirit of the basic principles of those accords that the Americans had made their proposals for a military de-escalation.

Lodge claimed the other side recognized last week that the solution of military issues is "an absolutely essential first step" for the creation of conditions in which political problems can be resolved. He recalled that the Hanoi-front side had called the withdrawal of troops a "fundamental condition."

"Thus," he said, "your side and our side seem to agree that
