

No Accord Reached On State Tax Plan

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Democratic senators caucused for two hours today without reaching agreement on the tax package to be enacted at the special legislative session that convened this morning.

Majority Leader Edward Marcus said afterward he had been authorized to negotiate with the House leaders. He then arranged for an afternoon meeting with the House speaker and other Democratic House leaders.

The senators did not vote on the tax package, Marcus reportedly refusing to say whether any modifications were likely. Gov. John Dempsey announced last week that he had ordered Democratic leaders were in such close agreement over a proposed tax package that they were ready to adopt it formally.

The proposed $1.5 billion package includes a 5 per cent sales tax instead of the 6 per cent tax that Dempsey vetoed the last day of the regular legislative session. The present Connecticut sales tax is 3 1/2 per cent.

Senate Majority Leader Edward L. Marcus, a Democrat outspokenly opposed to the compromise measure, apparently has persuaded House leaders to let the Senate vote on the proposal first.

House Speaker William Ratchford said Sunday night the lower chamber would await action in the Senate, where Marcus has vowed to launch a major offensive to kill the tax package.

The House convened shortly before 10:30 a.m. and, after taking care of a few technicalities, recessed until 2 p.m. The senate went into caucus soon after convening.

The problem faced by the Democratic leaders was how to make up the $112 million in revenue that was cut by Dempsey's refusal to accept a 6 per cent sales tax.

Besides the 5 per cent tax, their proposal also includes: Additional budget cuts of $30.6 million, including $20 million in bonding reductions.

—The bonding of current operations of the Department of Community Affairs (DCA).

—Continuation of the unincorporated business tax and the broadening of the base to include professionals such as doctors, lawyers and dentists.

The proposal is bound to encounter strong opposition from the minority Republicans, especially the part that finances $2.5 million in current DCA expenses with borrowed money.

It's as Long -

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — John Bockey was watching two oil field workers trying to measure a long pole that was leaning against a derrick.

After they'd made guesses that differed considerably, Bockey asked: "Wouldn't it be simpler to lay that pole on the ground and measure how long it is?"

"No," one worker replied. "We're trying to figure out how tall, not how long it is."

Traffic Aides Insist FAA Stop Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization has warned it will not tolerate further government investigation of last week's slowdown, raising the possibility of a new—and possibly worse—air transportation crisis.

But the director of the Federal Aviation Administration's Air Traffic Service, William J. Flener, said the probe would continue.

The renewed dispute had no immediate effect on air traffic, however, and major airports throughout the eastern United States report normal operations.

Between 250-300 controllers called in sick last Wednesday and Thursday, while those who reported enforced FAA safety rules to the letter, forcing airlines to cancel hundreds of flights and delay others for hours.

The controllers complained of being understaffed and overworked.

When the slowdown ended Friday morning, FAA investigators began quizzing every controller who reported sick, asking each to furnish a physician's statement. Flener said the interviewing was stopped Sunday.

"If this is continued today, we think the whole thing will blow up and aviation will come to a stop," the organization's vice chairman, James R. Egan, said in New York. He said he feared an "emotional and spontaneous" reaction by controllers in key cities, even though organization officials were urging members to "cool it."

In Boston F. Lee Bailey, counsel for the controllers, echoed the prediction. "If it happens again Monday these men will walk out," he said. "They all have lawyers and if the investigators want to talk with them, we are available."

Bailey said he protested to the Department of Transportation over the weekend it was "harassing" the controllers.

SDS Splits, Two Slates Take Over

CHICAGO (AP) — Students for a Democratic Society, the radical group prominent in recent campus uprisings, ended its national convention today sharply split, with its so-called regular faction electing Mark Rudd, leader of the University of Wisconsin disorders, national secretary.

The other faction of SDS, headed by the Progressive Labor party, elected an entirely different slate of officers.

Both groups ended their conventions at different locations, both called separate news conferences for today to announce names of officers, and both claimed to be "the real SDS."

The PL faction ended its meeting in the Coliseum convention hall on the South Side, where SDS started its convention as a single group Wednesday.

Elected officers by the PL were John Pennington, national secretary; Alan Spector, educational secretary, and Mrs. Pat Forman, interorganizational secretary.

Fred Gordon, educational secretary for the last year, gavelled the PL faction's convention to a close in the Coliseum.

Besides Rudd, the SDS regulars elected as officers Jeffrey Jones of San Francisco, interorganizational secretary and William Ayres of the University of Michigan, educational secretary.

The "regulars" ended their meeting in a church on the West Side.

The PLs called a news conference for the University of Illinois, Chicago, to introduce their slate. The regulars called a conference in the organization's regional headquarters.

Court Applies Jeopardy Rule To State Cases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The constitutional prohibition against double jeopardy is applicable to state criminal trials, the Supreme Court ruled 6-2 today.

Reversing the larceny conviction of a Maryland man, the court held that the ban on double jeopardy, "like the right to trial by jury," is clearly "fundamental to the American scheme of justice."

Double jeopardy is the principle by which a person once acquitted, cannot be tried again for the same offense.

The decision today marked a reexamination of past rulings in which the court consistently declined to apply the double jeopardy provision of the Fifth Amendment to state criminal proceedings.

It made the application today through the 14th Amendment on the same grounds that the 8th Amendment right of a jury trial was extended to state proceedings last year.

Justice Thurgood Marshall, writing for the majority, said the ban on double jeopardy was rooted in Greek and Roman law and was established in the common law of England long before this country gained independence.

"The fundamental nature of the guarantee against double jeopardy can hardly be doubted," Marshall said. "This underlying notion has, from the very beginning been part of our constitutional tradition."

In dissent, Justices John Marshall and Potter Stewart (See Page Eight)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Warren Earl Burger was sworn in at 10:42 a.m. today to be the 15th chief justice of the United States.

The simple and sedate ceremony marked the retirement of Earl Warren after 16 years as chief justice and 52 years in public service.

President Nixon, in an unprecedented action, spoke to the high court, and said of Warren: "The nation is grateful for that service."

At the conclusion of the ceremony, Burger stood behind the bench and in a firm, clear voice swore to defend the Constitution and to administer justice faithfully and impartially, to do equal right to the poor and rich.

The 61-year-old veteran federal judge rested his hand on a Bible held by the outgoing chief justice.

They were flanked on both sides by the seven sitting associate justices.

Nixon is believed to be the first President in office to address the court. A lawyer, he spoke as a member of the court's bar. He stood behind the lawyer's lectern, but used no notes.

The President said of Warren what Will Rogers once said of William Howard Taft, onetime president and later chief justice: "It is great to be great; it is greater to be human."

Nixon said Warren's service as chief justice was especially characterized by three things—fairness, integrity and dignity.

Speaking of the court itself, the President said: "No institution of our government has been more responsible for continuity with change."

While the President spoke and before that, as three decisions closing out the term were announced, Burger sat at the clerk's desk, to the extreme right of the chief justice.

Warren, replying to Nixon's remarks, thanked the President for what he said but spoke mostly for the court itself. His voice at the breaking point on occasion, the chief justice said of the court: "We serve only the public interest as we see it, guided by the Constitution and our own consciences."

He said the justices don't always agree and if they do the court's virility will have been sapped.

Warren described the justices as "nine independent men who have no one to be responsible to except their own consciences."

Nixon's role in the transition ceremony, a brief speech, helps underline the contrast between the old and new chief justices.

Warren, an old political enemy of Nixon's, spent his 18 years as chief justice leading the court through its most activist and liberal periods. The 61-year-old Burger, on the other hand, spent the last 13 years as a little-known federal appeals judge building a legal reputation.

Chase Bank Sets 8 1/2 Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) Chase Manhattan Bank raised its prime interest rate to 8 1/2 per cent with great reluctance but with the conviction the increase was "absolutely necessary under prevailing money market conditions," David Rockefeller said today.

Rockefeller, chairman of the board of the New York bank, prepared his testimony for the House Banking and Currency Committee.

Once other banks started to raise their rate, he said, the only alternative his bank had was to increase its rate "sufficiently to halt a mass shift of borrowing to us from other banks and credit markets."

He said the boost has "given rise to a great deal of misunderstanding and a great many loose charges."

Rockefeller said rising interest rates "are a result rather than a cause of inflation and of the nation's efforts to cope with it."

"One cannot have persistent inflation, which has now reached a rate of 6 per cent per annum, without there being an effect on interest rates," he continued.

"This inflation, in turn, has been the end result of inadequate fiscal and monetary policies in the past."

Russia Turns the Clock Back Who Rules? Hard to Tell

By ANATOLE SHUB
The Washington Post
Who rules Russia today? The question is difficult to answer, and textbook models no longer apply.

Lenin's original Communist party dictatorship saw annual Party Congresses or conferences, with the party Central Committee meeting frequently, debating openly, deciding by majority vote. Stalin established his rule through the bureaucrats of the party secretariat, maintained it through the security police (successively named CHEKA, GPU, NKVD, MGB and now KGB), ended finally with a personal "special secretariat" which overshadowed the police as well as the party machine.

Khrushchev tried to revive the role of the party, held three party congresses, and used the Central Committee to outmaneuver his peers in the Politburo—until his colleagues used the same device against him, successfully, in October, 1964.

The "collective leadership" headed by Leonid Brezhnev at first sought to return to the forms prescribed in party statutes. They held frequent Central Committee meetings in 1965 and managed to hold the 23rd party congress in March, 1966, which revamped the politburo, Secretariat and Central Committee in conformity with their "general line." Within the top bodies, the ambitious Alexander Shelepin was gradually deprived of some of his posts and powers. During the Anniversary Year 1967, Brezhnev gradually, edged aside Premier Alexei Kossygin and President Nikolai Podgorny, who remained representative figures in what seemed to be a ruling triumvirate, or troika. In the party secretariat, Brezhnev's associate, Andrei Kirilenko, balanced the wily veteran Mikhail Suslov, inside the government, two "juniors," Dmitri Polyansky and Kiril Mazurov, balanced each other.

During the last year and a half, however, a single, continuous, traumatic experience—the Czechoslovak crisis which began in November 1967—has gradually shattered all the neat Soviet party forms as well as the prior calculations of individual and "collective" leaders.

As the crisis developed and climaxed with the invasion of Aug. 20, 1968, signs began to appear of both a vacuum of power and a struggle for power at the top—with effective influence frequently appearing to pass outside the constituted party bodies, to the marshals of the Soviet army and the shadowy agents of the KGB.

French Foreign Policy To Hew Gaullist Line

PARIS (AP) — Maurice Schumann, France's new foreign minister, dampened today any idea that his appointment might mean a change in the policies of Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

"The foreign policy defined by the founder of the Fifth Republic will be carried out by the new government," Schumann told the opening of a world medical assembly. He said this policy, based on the independence of France and of Europe, served the peace of the world.

Schumann, 58, once resigned from a Gaullist government after De Gaulle rejected British entry into the Common Market without telling his ministers in advance. But Schumann, known as the voice of France on BBC during the war years, later reconciled with De Gaulle and took another ministerial job in 1967.

The new Cabinet, appointed Sunday by President Georges Pompidou on the recommendation of Premier Jacques Chaban-Delmas, meets for the first time today at Elysee Palace.

Schumann succeeds Michel Debre, a hard and pure Gaullist. Debre had wished to remain at the Foreign Ministry to oversee execution of De Gaulle's ideas, but as a compromise finally agreed to become defense minister. In his new job, Debre is No. 2 man to Chaban-Delmas.

There had been those who thought Schumann's appointment, and that of Valery Giscard d'Estaing as finance minister, heralded the beginning of a new liberal era in French foreign policy.

One of the cofounders of the now-defunct Popular Republican movement, a Roman Catholic party that sought European unity after World War II, Schumann strongly disapproved of Gen. Charles de Gaulle's decision to keep Britain out of the Common Market. But he never broke with the general over it.

Marcus Shift Dismaying To Dempsey

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Gov. John Dempsey expressed disappointment today at Senate Majority Leader Edward L. Marcus' decision to oppose the tax package coming up for action today at the special session of the General Assembly.

"I am very disappointed that Senator Marcus has seen fit to break the agreement reached last Thursday at both caucuses," said the governor at his morning news conference.

Dempsey said it was his understanding that Marcus had agreed to go along with the modified tax program if a majority of the Democratic senators support it.

"Had agreement not been reached, I would not have called this special session," said the Democratic governor.

"I certainly hope the rest of the Senate Democrats and the House will adhere to their agreement and support the program."

Egypt Troops Cross Canal, Turned Back

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Dozens of Egyptian troops crossed the Suez Canal Sunday night but Israeli forces repulsed them, killing at least three, an Israeli army spokesman said today.

The attack came at about the same time as Israeli commandos crossed into Jordan south of the sea of Galilee and attacked Jordanian artillery positions.

They blew up a section of the East Ghor irrigation canal which was largely financed by American money. Sources said the raid was intended to serve "as still another warning" to the Jordanian army to "cool off" military activity.

A spokesman said the rupture of the Ghor Canal was meant "to show them what we can do if they keep it up."

The Israelis said that the canal battle with the Egyptians was the biggest in many months. The Egyptian force crossed five miles south of Qantara on the northern section of the canal after a heavy artillery and mortar bombardment, spokesmen reported.

They said the Israeli troops returned the fire, engaged the commandos and pushed them back across the canal.

The Egyptians left three dead on the Israeli side. The army spokesman said one Israeli soldier was wounded.

An Egyptian communique in Cairo today said their forces killed 16 Israelis in the raid.

The Israelis' Sunday raid in Jordan came after warplanes made three attacks in the same area.

It was one of the few commando attacks directed at a regular Jordanian army unit.

Some GIs Object To Pullout Shifts

DONG TAM, South Vietnam (AP) — The first American infantry battalion scheduled to be withdrawn from Vietnam is being sent home in name only, and the men are angry and bitter.

"They are just kidding the public," said 1st Lt. Paul Caputo of Brooklyn, N.Y. "Telling folks the 3rd Battalion is going home when in fact only the color and standards are going home."

Under President Nixon's withdrawal order, the 3rd Battalion, 60th Infantry of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division is scheduled to fly to the United States July 8 for demobilization. But it will actually be a composite battalion of 900 men.

Men with a few months left to serve in Vietnam will be transferred to other units. Their places on the trip home will be filled by soldiers from other battalions who have completed or almost completed their 12-month tours.

"We don't feel good about people going home with our patches on their uniforms," said 1st Sgt. Jerry Valente of Long Island, N.Y.

Many of the men have already received letters from home and are angry that their families will be disappointed.

"We all expected to be here and we are not trying to get out of it," said Lt. Harold Hector, a platoon leader from Cambridge, Mass. "It is just the way it was announced."

"It wasn't fair to the men or to their families back home. If they want to send short-timers home, then send them home. But don't say a battalion is going when it isn't."

"The timing and the way it was announced did cause motivation problems," said a sergeant.

Dr. Phillip Lebon, a prominent London surgeon who had treated Miss Garland for several years, said she had cirrhosis of the liver and that death could have come any time. "How she lived this long I don't know," he said.

A Scotland Yard spokesman commented: "It was a simple, plain case of sudden death."

Miss Garland had been married to Dennis, a 35-year-old former New York discoteque manager, for 100 days. A friend, singer Gina Dangeliers, said: "Judy was feeling on top of the world. They were very much in love and it seemed that she had found happiness at last."

The singer, who brought tears and joy to millions of fans by singing of a dream world "Over the Rainbow," often suffered the depths of personal despair.

Environment And The IQ

Lately—quite probably in answer to the published contention of Psychological Arthur Jensen that some races may be intellectually inferior to others—experts in the testing and sociological field have been giving a lot of their attention to the way in which various aspects of environment can play a part in the results of IQ testing.

Russia Turns the Clock Back Who Rules? Hard to Tell

In recent months, with industrial growth rates tumbling, most shortages proclaiming the failure of post-1968 foreign policy and the failure of the Chinese frontier costing the Chinese millions of post-1968 foreign policy, the struggle for supremacy appears to have intensified, within and among the various ruling Soviet institutions.

No firm conclusions can be drawn about the outcome of the struggle, but most unbiased observers tend to share the view expressed by a seasoned Western ambassador last week in Moscow: "The Communist experience in Czechoslovakia cannot be taken as a precedent for the Soviet Union."

The Soviet leadership has been unable to share the view expressed by a seasoned Western ambassador last week in Moscow: "The Communist experience in Czechoslovakia cannot be taken as a precedent for the Soviet Union."

On the very morning of the Plenum, Oct. 30, the rumor spread that the Politburo had decided to say that plans had changed. Their line was that they would not reveal the fact that Kossygin had, in fact, informally polled important Central Committee members.

When Prague rejected the ultimatum, nearly all the Politburo members, including officials (Khrushchev and Polonsky) were "paired" and taken to the airport. The Soviet leadership was in a state of confusion.

On the other hand, maintain that there would have been no 1967 crisis had not the Soviet Embassy in Prague followed the Soviet line. The Prague Embassy was to do as the Soviet line dictated.

Once the Czechoslovak Revolution really got under way, the Soviet leadership was in a state of confusion. The Czechoslovak Revolution really got under way, the Soviet leadership was in a state of confusion.

Other noted reactionaries such as Nikolai Zhukov and the Writers Union) also spoke, and the brief resolution of the April plenum proclaimed a campaign of "vigilance" against ideological enemies everywhere.

The Prague reversal had been produced solely by events in Prague—such as the varying "parades" that afternoon. The Prague reversal had been produced solely by events in Prague.

These two explanations do not exclude each other. What seems more likely, however, is that the Prague reversal had been produced solely by events in Prague.

Then, from sources close to the YD, it came out that a man seized had been an Army Engineer. Lieutenant named the man, who had come from the USSR, was a relative in the USSR.

Coventry Finance Board Defends Cut in Education Budget

In preparation for tonight's town meeting on the budget, the Board of Finance is considering a statement, in which the board notes that a "question was raised as to why the Board of Finance would ignore a mandate from the people and not restore $37.5 to the education budget."

The board said "the fact is the Board of Finance is considering a statement, in which the board notes that a 'question was raised as to why the Board of Finance would ignore a mandate from the people and not restore $37.5 to the education budget.'"

The statement, entitled "Facts concerning the Board of Finance reduction in the budget of the Board of Education," contains, "The present area of instructional cost, including the reductions made by the Board of Finance, represents an available complete figure ($107-8). This is in and of itself represents a very substantial increase in an area where the increase in enrollment has been substantial or non-existent."

The statement goes on, "When a legitimately detailed breakdown of the teachers' salaries was finally presented to the Board of Finance on June 9, the board discovered a very clear and important oversight in the Board of Education's figures. The salary account had absolutely no provision for the savings annually realized by resignations. Obviously, resignations cannot be hired in on the same level of the old ones leave, for if this were done, soon all our teachers would be on the top salary step."

"It is hoped that the setting of the tax rate would not be unduly delayed, the chairman of the Board of Finance said. The action attempted to reach a mutually agreeable compromise. However, it was made very clear that the Board of Education would not agree to a figure even in the $10,000 range, and in light of the above facts, the Board of Finance felt agreeing to such an amount would be irresponsible. Thus, the Board of Finance has chosen (by a 3-2 vote) to return the budget to the town for a final and hopefully clear-cut decision."

The statement concludes, "The Board of Education has the ability to transfer sums to areas which it feels should have priority. This right is not questioned, but other areas have come under scrutiny, and have been questioned, which appear to be of lesser priority than first indicated. Specifically, the necessity of providing an electronic data processing system for scheduling and grade reporting in a relatively small system such as Coventry's and as an aid to an area of guidance that has been a significant increase in cost has been questioned."

Coventry School Board Still Opposed To $37,775 Cut in Budget

Mr. E. Benoit, chairman of the Board of Education, announced over the weekend that the school board has not changed its position. It had initially requested by the Board of Finance, $37,775 to be added to the budget for the school year 1968-69.

Mr. Benoit said that "as far as I am concerned this is not a matter of public education or the program for every student in town, whether a person be a parent or a teacher. It is a matter of public education and general fund money. The school board must remember that the school board is not a body to be used for the school year 1968-69."

Yanks Use New Weapon, Hitless Reserve to Win

BOSTON (AP) — Baseball is loaded with strategy, but the New York Yankees have come up with a new weapon to win a game.

Grasped in an 0-15 slump, slugger Joe Pepitone got himself thrown out after grounding out to end the Yankee eighth against the Boston Red Sox Sunday.

Rookie Len Bouchner, who kicked around the minor leagues for eight years before landing a utility job in New York this spring, was summoned from the bullpen to replace Pepitone at first base.

With two out in the 10th inning, the word "Go!" was barked and a run-scoring single to left fielder Jim Frazier tied the game.

Frazier, who had been in the lineup for the first time since 1967, was named MVP of the game. "I've been looking for that hit since 1967," Bouchner said. "I was up briefly with Cincinnati this year and was offered a contract by the Yankees this year. This is like a 100-pound weight being lifted from around my neck."

"I had to be in the back of my mind—like a pitcher trying to get a hit," Bouchner said. "Getting a game-winning hit for the first time makes me feel like a champion. Winning is the main thing."

Acquired from Cincinnati Sept. 15, 1967, Bouchner, who lost 26 Saturday, was assigned to Syracuse of the International League last year. He mustered a chance with his "clutch hitting, because of his ability to play all positions."

"He's a real good kid, a real team player," said New York Manager Ralph Houk, who got sacked out just a couple of minutes before Pepitone then had a game-winning hit for him. He's a pretty good hitter. He just hasn't had any luck."

Bouchner got his opportunity against the Red Sox after he was named to the team. He had pitched a game for the Yankees on June 17. The umpire took the ball. The umpire took the ball and lost it back to the pitcher.
