Vietnam Strategy Changed

begin nearly six weeks ago. "We are not abandoning the maximum pressure concept, but this certainly does represent a change in it," said one source. The new strategy is being applied primarily in the Red Corps tactical zone which includes Saigon and the 11 provinces around it, the area in which most of the fighting has occurred since the bull began June 15.

The sources said that one important aspect of the shift in strategy is that while reconnaissance and ambush patrols and other small units are continuing to operate freely in the field, large-scale forces are now dispatched only in response to intelligence data that indicates a good chance of meeting the enemy.

Prior to the onset of the fall, the sources said, large U. S. units were on the ground daily in searching operations. "About the time the enemy stopped moving in big units, so did we," said one source. "We now are relying primarily on our intelligence which is much improved, to respond in kind to whatever the enemy is doing."

Some hours later, the base camp at Dau Tieng was hit by more than 35 rounds of rocket and mortar fire, but U.S. spokesmen said damage and casualties were light and there were no deaths.

Meanwhile, U.S. troops swept a familiar battleground north of Saigon today in search of North Vietnamese stragglers from the sharpest fight the Americans have reported in more than a month.

The U.S. Command said 25 enemy soldiers were killed in a lightning-like pincer thrust Monday into the often contested area known as the Citadel. It is 25 miles north of Saigon.

U.S. officials said documents found afterward indicated the light spotted plans for a series of attacks on American patrol and artillery bases.

The nations of the Near East are exercising, every day now, the sovereign right to wage war. What the whole world has to consider is whether their conduct does not prove the validity of the thesis that this can no longer be permitted to be a sovereign right. The United Nations has said no before, once in Korea, and once in Suez. It needs the strength to say it again.

A Plea For Mercy
 That not always pleasant Puckishness which stood always just inside the political officeholder or candidate has now been pleased to remove the last doubt about next year's Senatorial race in Minnesota. Senator Eugene McCarthy will not run for his own present office either as a Democrat or as anything else. That leaves the way clear for Hubert Horatio Humphrey to return to the United States Senate, and to spend two years there getting himself ready to run for the presidential nomination once again.

Conceivably, then, Senator McCarthy may end up having twice conferred upon his party and his nation the blessing of having Hubert Humphrey as a candidate for President.

Imagine playing John the Baptist to Hubert Humphrey once!
 Imagine doing it twice!
 But aside from our fascination with Senator McCarthy's talent for setting the stage for Humphrey, the prospect of the result leaves us unimpressed.

We think we tire of practiced politicians who make showman candidates and showman officials and we think we would vote, almost any day, now, for some rash neophyte who might have the smooth, glib, professional answer to every question that came along.

There have, of course, been some notable long range political rivalries in history—Jefferson and Hamilton, or Madison and Monroe, or Adams and Jackson, or Gladstone and Disraeli—but we might have Richard Nixon and Hubert Humphrey, jousting with one another for the next three or four presidential campaigns. Humphrey, of course, having just by a narrow margin, has lost much right to again as did Nixon after he had lost by a narrow margin in 1960. But the Democrats could spare us all, couldn't they?

The Greatest Adventure
 No other great adventure was as great as the one which has been going on since anything (except its own affairs) and two quiet Americans have been on to the moon. The moon has been looking curiously at the moon for a million years and now we are there and all the scientists have proven that the moon is not a dead planet but a living planet, and the common quality in all adventures, Armstrong and Aldrin are the only two men who have been to the moon. They were the first to land on the moon, and they have returned with a great deal of information. They were the first to land on the moon, and they have returned with a great deal of information.

A Thought for Today
 Sponsored by the Manchester Council of Churches
 One lesson brought out by wars, past and present, is that it makes a great difference what nations and individuals believe. Man can be redeemed only as he believes in something splendid, holy, and magnificent. Reverence is the antidote which cleanses life and makes it sweet and sane.

Every person needs to believe in something bigger and more holy than himself. No man can live in a vacuum. He must have something to believe in. He must have something to believe in. He must have something to believe in. He must have something to believe in.

Inside Report
 By Rowland Evans Jr.
 Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON — Despite continuing political demands for a radical change in combat strategy in South Vietnam, present battlefield tactics worked out by Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the commanding general of the American forces in Vietnam, are being tested in a series of maneuvers. The reason for this firm decision by Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird is that fewer U.S. lives are lost as a result of offensive actions against enemy concentrations, particularly actions to locate and destroy rocket caches, than would be lost if search-and-destroy operations followed the enemy offensive were curtailed.

Gen. Earl G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, has reported back to Laird after his recent trip to Vietnam that the Communist summer offensive still has not gotten beyond the point of heavy rocket attacks and small-unit assaults against exposed U.S. positions. Wheeler's findings exactly correspond with the line laid down in a June 22 speech by North Vietnamese Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap.

Man's landing on the moon is not just a technological feat. It is an adventure. President Kennedy wanted an American on the moon and he wanted the American to be a young man. Kennedy's motives were not primarily scientific or even perhaps adventurous. He felt that the Egyptian military has suddenly achieved all the proficiency it so plainly lacked in two previous tests, in 1966 and in 1967.

Connecticut Yankee
 By A.H.O.

When the State Senate following the unanimity of the House, voted 25 to 0 to re-pass the vetoed measure establishing a Joint Legislative Management Committee, it proclaimed itself to be voting the independence of the legislative branch of government in Connecticut, and the independence it talked about was independence from domination by the executive branch.

The idea that any Connecticut Governor has ever been able to dominate the Connecticut Legislature is largely fictional, an invention of the amazing persecution complex which has been the course of their own crusade for power, spending and seasoning.

The Governor has never been able to dominate the Connecticut Legislature. But from time immemorial, or to be specific, from J. Henry Horback to John J. Bailey, recognized political bosses or leaders have been able to. And what the State Senate was really saying by its vote on July 22, was that it was frustrating the legislative branch from that mythical political majority in the Governor's hands.

Town Land Fill Area To Acquire 11 Acres

The Planning and Zoning Commission unanimously approved a zone change last night that will acquire 11 acres to Manchester's sanitary land fill area.

The property is located on Spencer St. The total piece is 34 acres, of which 11.2 acres will be acquired by the town from the owner, Mrs. Dolphine Holzman. Mrs. Holzman has 15 acres, plus an amount of money. According to William D. O'Neill, director of public works, south from the 11.2-acre site will be trucked to the present location of the dump. Then the site is excavated, and the level of Laurel Lake, that area will be used for filling refuse, and earth will be trucked in from somewhere else to cover that area.

The remaining 22.8 acres will be retained by Mrs. Holzman and will be developed as a shopping center designed to serve the community College and the new apartment unit that will be built there.

Denied unanimously last night was a bid for a zone change for a 3.2-acre parcel, located in the area of the new apartment units, that borders on the East Hartford property, owned by Mrs. Jeanette D. Massaro. Mrs. Massaro made a plea to the commission to adopt a regulation for the construction of high-rise apartments. She wants to build a three-story apartment building on the 3.2-acre parcel at 52 Park St. She has said that there is someone interested in the property who wants to build a "real luxury" high-rise apartment building.

"What information we've been able to get wasn't favorable. But it's possible it is already a hurricane."
At 6 a.m. EDT the storm was about 1,500 miles east-southeast of Puerto Rico and about 2,500 miles from Miami.
The storm was moving westward at about 14 miles per hour with little change in course or speed expected right away.
Highest winds were estimated at 60 m.p.h. over a small area near the center and gales extended 175 miles north and 125 miles south.

Youths Produce 'Celebration' For Three-Night Performance

The non-profit, youth-run Jimmarkar Productions, presents "Celebration," a Broadway musical Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights at Illing Junior High School.
The plot: A "dirty old man," the richest in the world, has debauched himself in every way. He buys the garden of an orphanage. An orphan tries to win it back. A fallen angel struggles for the heart of the cold rich man but meets the orphan. The playwrights, Tom Jones and Harry Schmidt, call it a fairy tale for adults.
Filling Illing's stage with "Celebration's" pathos, comedy and music are many of Manchester's finest young theater artists. Many are working days to pay for college this fall. Many are in high school.
The youth production is the only one of its kind in the state this year. It all began last Christmas.
"There's nothing to do around here," everyone was saying wherever they got together, according to Jim Nicola, 19, of 18 Stephen St.
The high school does nothing in summertime. Local theater groups are mostly for adults. Jim said he became more and more aware of all the young talent in town doing nothing.
Jim is a theatre major at Tufts University in Boston and worked last summer in summer stock in Lake Placid, N.Y. A second summer job there failed to come through this year. He, too, faced a nothing summer in town.
Fred T. Blush, a leader of the Little Theatre of Manchester, had been talking to Jim about putting on youth drama during the summer. The idea started to grow.
But Nicola needed help. Mary Buck, 19, of W. Middle Tpk. said, "I got a phone call in February from Tufts. Would I do it? Would I be the stage manager?"
Karen Krinjak, 18, of 216 Fern St. got a call in March asking her to handle the music.
The three teens then formed Jimmarkar Productions and began making what now appears to be grandiose schemes. Not one had ever put on a show that was not run by adults. They had planned six big plays for this summer but will now do just two.
The problems came up rapidly. Each seemed capable of stopping the whole thing. They needed a cheap place to practice and perform. An old dance hall on Keeney St. looked good for awhile but the fire laws alone ruled it out.
Schools were ruled out as too expensive. There were no churches big enough. By early June, they were convinced they would have to give up.
As with every other problem they have faced, a solution was worked out. The Board of Education offered them Illing for part of the rights of the show, for the cost of the custodial care. Half a dozen churches offered their halls for rehearsals. After several more problems were ironed out, they tried to pick plays.
They wrote to all the stage companies who had rights to the plays they liked. Only Music Theater International did not respond. They got details on three leaders have been de-

Peck Seeks Injunction Against Town, Roncari

Wipac Millwork Inc. of 73 Roland Tpk., formerly called the William Peck Lumber Co., is seeking an injunction in Hartford County Superior Court, to stop the Town of Manchester and Roncari Industries of Granby from allegedly trespassing on its N. Main St. land.
In addition, it is seeking $50,000 in damages. The action is scheduled for hearing on Aug. 5.
The right-of-way formerly held by the Eighth Utility District, for its sewage line, because the Northeast Interceptor is a cooperative effort, the District transferred its right-of-way to the town to permit the construction of the improvements.
Wipac, while acknowledging the right-of-way, claims that Roncari has trespassed on its land, has disturbed the surface, has stored motor vehicles and other personal property thereon, and, although warned not to, has stored lumber and other materials on the town easement.
William O'Neill, director of public works, said today that the problem arises when the contractor's trucks must turn and maneuver within the 30-foot easement.
Peck's property starts at N. Main and Stock St. He has a deed more than 1,000 years old, which gives him a right-of-way in Latin America in 1877. The figure was 50 per cent more than in 1877. Most of the emigrants settled in Argentina or Brazil.

peaked with the star, Edward Pagan, about deleting the worst words they will do. Jim picked Mary and Karen to work with him on Jimmarkar (made from the first letters of their names) because of their talents and their ability to get things done. Mary has handled all backstage work from sets to selling tickets. Karen has worked with the singers and has put together a combo of about seven pieces to accompany the songs.
Jim Buck never cared about theater until she had Mrs. Janet Prevost for sophomore English at the high school. The "fantastic" teacher started about 20 of her students that year into taking part in theater. Mary joined the school's Book and Huskin and did mostly publicity. Her first stage role was as a gym teacher, and her line was, "Good morning, lovely day, which she got to say twice.
"That I didn't give up," she said.
She won the role of Mrs. Higgins, Henry's mother, in "My Fair Lady" in her senior year. She graduated in 1967 but went back to the high school last year every night from 7 to midnight and all day on Sundays.
"I used to be so shy, I was petrified to open my mouth. Suddenly I can't keep it shut. I don't know what happened," she said.
She works full-time at South-Western Telephone Co. in Hartford and helps around the house. Lately, she only sleeps at home and spends every other minute working on the show. She is saving for college now, and hopes to become a speech therapist.
Karen is also the only one in the family interested in theater. Most of her connection has been with music.
She began learning about music in the third grade as she took accordion lessons. Then she started learning band instruments as her church, the Salvation Army. She played brasses there and in junior high school and high school bands.
She was a hit in the mission band in the high school production of "Days and Dolls."
She credits the refinement of her piano skills to Miss Martha White of the high school music department and Mrs. Elizabeth Scheidel of South Windsor. Her skill got her into the Boston Conservatory of Music where she will be a sophomore this fall. She hopes to teach music in an area high school when she is done.
"Everyone is in tune as show-time approaches," she said.
The show's four stars are Ed Pagan, Bonnie Starr, Mark Ahness and John Roy.
"We were really stuck on the part of Mr. Rich. He's an old man, heavy. We thought of getting an older man," Jim said.
"Then I ran into Ed on the street one day, and said, 'There's our Mr. Rich.'"
As a high school junior, Ed played the rich Mr. Beaugreard of "Mame." That's his only real stage experience but it convinced Jim he could do it.
"Bonnie has a great voice. There's no other for the part of the Fallen Angel," Jim said.
She will be a voice major at UConn as a freshman this fall. She played Agnes Gooch in "Mame" on its first night.
Mark plays the Orphan in the Storm and brings a lot of experience from high school to the part. He will be a freshman at UConn also.

Part of the backstage crew works on a stage flat on a Saturday afternoon.

The leaders of Jimmarkar Productions, Mary Buck (left), Jim Nicola and Karen Krinjak, check the script.

John will play Potemkin. His acting is unquestioned but few thought he could sing until he auditioned, Jim said. He is majoring in English and minoring in Theatre at UConn where he will be a sophomore this fall.
This show is different from other student shows in Canton and Windsor because it has no adults leading it. Jim cited two adults as advisors, Blush, and Robert Digan, coordinator of youth services for the Board of Education. Blush gave theatre advice and Digan helped them find space.
Blush has made a few phone calls to talk things over. Blush said about his help, "Sometimes, he's done what I advised."
Blush said he dropped in on a rehearsal in Luther Hall of Emmanuel Lutheran Church and was impressed with the amount of work being done without an adult in the building. A sign of the care they take, he said, is that they shut off the parking lot lights which might have annoyed the neighbors.
Other adults have smoothed Jimmarkar's way. They have loaned stage set equipment. Rehearsals have been held in four adult-run churches, Emmanuel, Second Congregational, St. Mary's Episcopal and South United Methodist.
The other play this summer by Jimmarkar will be "Thurber's Carnival" by James Thurber. If both shows bring in a profit, it will either go for more shows next summer or to a local charity, Jim said.

The medical examiner said the autopsy indicated the woman might have been dead even before the accident, in which she received only a scratch.

U.S. Atty. David Marqueti, who filed the first case in the state to be prosecuted under the new and stricter regulations. The conviction on the charge carries a maximum sentence of one year in prison.

Bank To Merge STAMFORD (AP)—The Atlantic National Bank of Stamford and the Connecticut National Bank of Bridgeport have announced plans to merge. The plan, approved by the directors of both banks, would create a bank with combined assets totaling $75 million and offices in three counties. It is subject to the approval of stockholders and government regulatory agencies. Under the plan Atlantic shareholders would receive two shares of Connecticut National stock for each share of Atlantic stock. Connecticut National is the fourth largest bank in the state.

Enter Guilty Pleas HARTFORD (AP)—Two men who pleaded guilty to charges of violation of federal firearms laws were sentenced to maximum penalties of five years each in prison Monday. Thomas Moon, 43, of Washington and William J. Stebbins, 26, of Stamford, both pleaded guilty to interstate transportation of firearms. The weapons were found in their car June 28 when they were arrested on charges stemming from a sting operation. Federal officials said Moon also was wanted in New York City on a homicide warrant and by federal authorities for violation of parole.

awaits Sentencing HARTFORD (AP)—A 34-year-old Bridgeport man awaits sentencing in U.S. District Court as he pleaded guilty and faces a maximum sentence of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine. George James Brema Jr., 34, pleaded guilty and faces a maximum sentence of two years in prison and a $10,000 fine. Preliminary Hearing NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Three Connecticut residents and a New Jersey woman accused of illegal possession of narcotics had their preliminary hearing postponed for a sixth time Monday. City Judge Nunzio Rizzo scheduled the hearing for Aug. 28, saying it was the last postponed. The four are accused of bringing marijuana across the border from Canada early this year. One of the defendants, Miss Suzanne Marsh of Fairfield, Conn., sent a telegram saying she could not appear in court for psychiatric reasons. The other defendants are Joe J. Krauszman and Daniel J. Krauszman, also of Fairfield, and Ann Rosenblatt of Clinton, N.J.

South Windsor PZC Hearing To Consider Zone Change

Tonight's hearing on Mitchell Trucking's application to haul gravel from the Dan pit on Barber Hill Rd. may be stormy enough to obscure the fact that a substantial number of residents also are being considered at the hearing. The amendment proposed by the Planning and Zoning Commission would, if put into effect, permit the commission to increase the percentage of the maximum lot coverage by buildings in industrial Park Zone from 40 to 65 per cent if the building in question is a warehouse. The present allowable coverage for any buildings in any zone is 50 per cent, which is in the regular industrial zone. The regulations permit 25 per cent coverage in a residential zone and 35 per cent coverage in a General Commercial Zone. The 65 per cent coverage would be permitted at the discretion of the commission and is subject to certain conditions: 1. Location of the building on the site, 2. Proximity of the building to adjacent residential areas, 3. On-site traffic patterns and 4. Entrances. The maximum lot side, rear and front yard requirements would remain the same 50 feet for front, 25 feet on each side and 25 feet for the rear yard. When the hearing convenes at 7 p.m. at the town hall, a strong objection to the application of Mitchell Trucking, Inc. for a permit to haul gravel is expected from residents in the area. The trucking company which has conducted previous hauling operations in the area is the center of a controversy in which residents claim that the truckers have created hazards through their operation, which the residents claim that they have been unfairly harassed by residents' complaints.

Government Pace Slow? WASHINGTON (AP)—A Civil Service Commission study of young federal workers with professional qualifications found that only 38 per cent plan to stay in government work. Of those who do not plan to leave, another government agency. The commonest complaint was that work is too easy or not challenging enough. "I was scared to death that first day she recalled," she said. "I never lectured in a class before. But really there's nothing to it after the first day." She has mixed emotions about teaching. "One can lose one's temper with those students who refuse to understand, won't do their home work and so forth," she said. "But it's also a good feeling to see the students who worked so hard finally pull through."

Help Asked NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York has asked two members of Congress from his state to expedite Congressional approval of a compact between New York and Connecticut to improve commuter service on the New Haven Railroad. Rockefeller, a Republican, Sen. Jacob K. Javits and Democratic Rep. Emmanuel Celler, introduced legislation Monday that would transfer control of the railroad and the transportation authorities of the two states are entering a public debate. Congressional approval is not obtained by Dec. 31, Rockefeller said, the compact between the two states will lapse and the legislative process would have to start all over again in both states. The compact was initially approved in 1956 by the governors of the two states.

Reported Earnings PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Penn Central Co. has reported earnings of $2.85 million for the second quarter of 1968. This is 7.4 per cent less than for the same period last year, before the Penn Central acquired the Delaware and Hudson Railroad. Penn Central's second quarter earnings announced Monday amounted to $28.4 million, or 63 cents a share. For the second quarter of 1967, the company reported consolidated earnings of $22 million, or 59 cents a share. The New Haven, which became a part of the Penn Central at the start of the year, reported a loss of $5 million for the second quarter of last year.

Flood Warnings HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Flash-flood warnings were issued Tuesday for southeastern Vermont and parts of Westchester and Dutchess counties, New York. Heavy rains early in the morning will cause flash flooding in small streams in those areas, weather bureau officials said today as a frontal system moves eastward toward New England, increasing the threat of flash flooding. Some of the larger streams will rise today, said the center, but will remain well within their banks.

Salesmen 'Strike' HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Two "salesmen" with an unorthodox but highly effective approach have been arrested. Police say the two young men, Edward and John P. Johnson, were arrested Monday night and offered to sell him a hand gun. The vendor whom police did not identify, said he examined the gun, then turned down the offer. The two men, described as one white and one black, had robbed him of about $60 and fled—taking the gun and the money. In a similar incident about a week ago, two men who police believe were the same pair, robbed a store proprietor of $50 after he turned down the gun offer.

Recognized Genius at 16, College Teacher Takes Job

MIAMI (AP)—Like hundreds of other college teachers, Edith Edith had a real dilemma. "I found a cold drink and a simple statement of authority could handle her," she explained. Several students, upon learning her age, tried to "show me," she said, "but I quickly put that down." Like last year, Edith will teach a math course Monday through Friday at MST. She will carry eight hours a quarter and is scheduled to complete her master's degree in June. Right now, Edith is looking forward to Aug. 16—when she'll be 17. "Next month I'll finally get rid of the Sweet Sixteen garbage," she said. "Fifteen was all right but 16 is such a cliché age."
