Nixon Move Stirs Wrath Of Governors

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—President Nixon plans a massive cutback in federally financed construction projects—an inflation-fighting move which stirred dismay among the nation's governors.

"If for one an not going to take it sitting down," said Democratic Gov. John N. Dempsey of Connecticut, who threatened to seek an immediate protest from the first National Governors Conference in session here.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew told the governors of the administration plan at a closed session Tuesday and swore them to secrecy. But the news leaked almost immediately.

The formal announcement of the cutback is expected Friday, although administration representatives at the governors conference said that timetable is not firm.

The Nixon plan reportedly would cut off new federal construction projects immediately and halt federal aid for such state projects as highway building effective next April 1.

Sources at the western White House in San Clemente, Calif., said the cutoff would affect 10 per cent of new projects in both categories. Administration officials still in Colorado Springs talked in terms of a near total cutoff, with exceptions only for emergency projects.

The administration was reportedly planning to work out final details at a Cabinet meeting Thursday in San Clemente.

The governors were contacted as to exact terms and unhappy. "Nothing shocks people faster than news that the old buck isn't coming from Washington," said Gov. Dempsey, chairman of the Democratic governors caucus.

Another Democratic governor who asked that his name not be used, said Agnew described the administration plan as a move designed to combat the spiral of steadily rising wages and prices.

This governor said the vice president also reported that the federal construction should release manpower and material.

Sniper Fire Blazes in Disorders: Jersey Policeman, Teen Killed

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A while policeman and a 13-year-old Negro girl were shot to death Tuesday night in an outbreak of sniper fire in Camden, N. J. Sniping incidents with no reported injuries occurred in Camden, Conn., and Port Lauderdale, Fla.

The Camden victims were Patrolman Rende J. Chandler, 22, and Rose McDonald, both apparently hit by the same volley during the second night of disorders in the south Jersey city of 117,000.

Police said Chandler was one of several patrolmen assigned to "clear debris that had been thrown into a street. As the patrolman approached, more sniping, rocks and bottles began to fall and then the shot rang out.

In the section predominantly Negro since Monday night, sniping broke out when police tried to break up a fight among a number of juveniles. Police-dominantly Negro area three successive nights.

Police Restore Calm To Hartford, Jails Full

Pike's Wallet Found by Sea

JERUSALEM (AP)—Searchers today found the passport and wallet of Dr. James Pike, former Episcopal bishop of California missing in the barren Jordan wilderness northwest of the Dead Sea.

Army officials said Pike's belongings were found in a dry river bed or wadi about a mile east of his abandoned car.

The officials said they expected to find Pike soon "dead or alive."

Pike, 56, and his 31-year-old third wife were motoring through the area when their car broke down Monday night. The couple set out on foot to look for help, but Pike collapsed after two hours walking in the heat and sent his wife on alone.

She said she left him on a hillside. After walking all night, Mrs. Pike met some highway guards early Tuesday and they took her to Bethlehem.

The police immediately began a search using helicopters and planes. Pike's car was found Tuesday afternoon.

City Is Calm

Newsman on Night Patrol With Cops in Edgy Hartford

Editor's Note—Herald photographer Albert Busevicus and reporter Terry D'Alia were in Hartford last night. There were reports of sniping from a police car and they went to the police command post in the north end where they rode with two Hartford policemen on cruiser patrol. Although the police car was patrolled with a bottle, and there was sniping from many of the streets, the city was relatively quiet.

We had gone about 500 yards when several people, only a few of whom could speak English, entered the apartment building. They emerged shortly after to tell the frightened resident that the "bomb" was only a rattling door hit by a cigarette. Everything was quiet.

They began to file out onto the sidewalk carrying their children who were wrapped in blankets. Some of the women were weeping.

Both officers left the car and entered the apartment building. They emerged shortly after to tell the frightened resident that the "bomb" was only a rattling door hit by a cigarette. Everything was quiet.

Teachers Defy Order To Report to Classes

EAST HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—School systems with teacher walkouts to four. New Britain, New London and Groton school teachers also decided not to work without contract agreements with their boards of education.

High percentages of East Haven's 2,000 pupils had reported for classes, but only about 20 per cent of the teachers were there. The members of the association voted 211-13 earlier Tuesday to boycott classes until a contract agreement is reached.

The Woodstock school superintendent, Dr. Arthur P. Bibby, termed the walkout an "illegal, wildcat strike."

The Woodstock Teachers Association unanimously voted not to resume professional duties to their contractual status has been clarified. They were to report today. The teachers were $1,200 raise and other benefits.

New Britain school officials said 14,000 pupils had reported to school. The New Britain Federation of Teachers, A.F.-C.T.O. said they were $1,200 raise and other benefits.

Hanoi Radio Says Ho's Condition Fails

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Ho Chi Minh's condition is deteriorating and greatest efforts are being made to care for him, American monitors in Saigon reported.

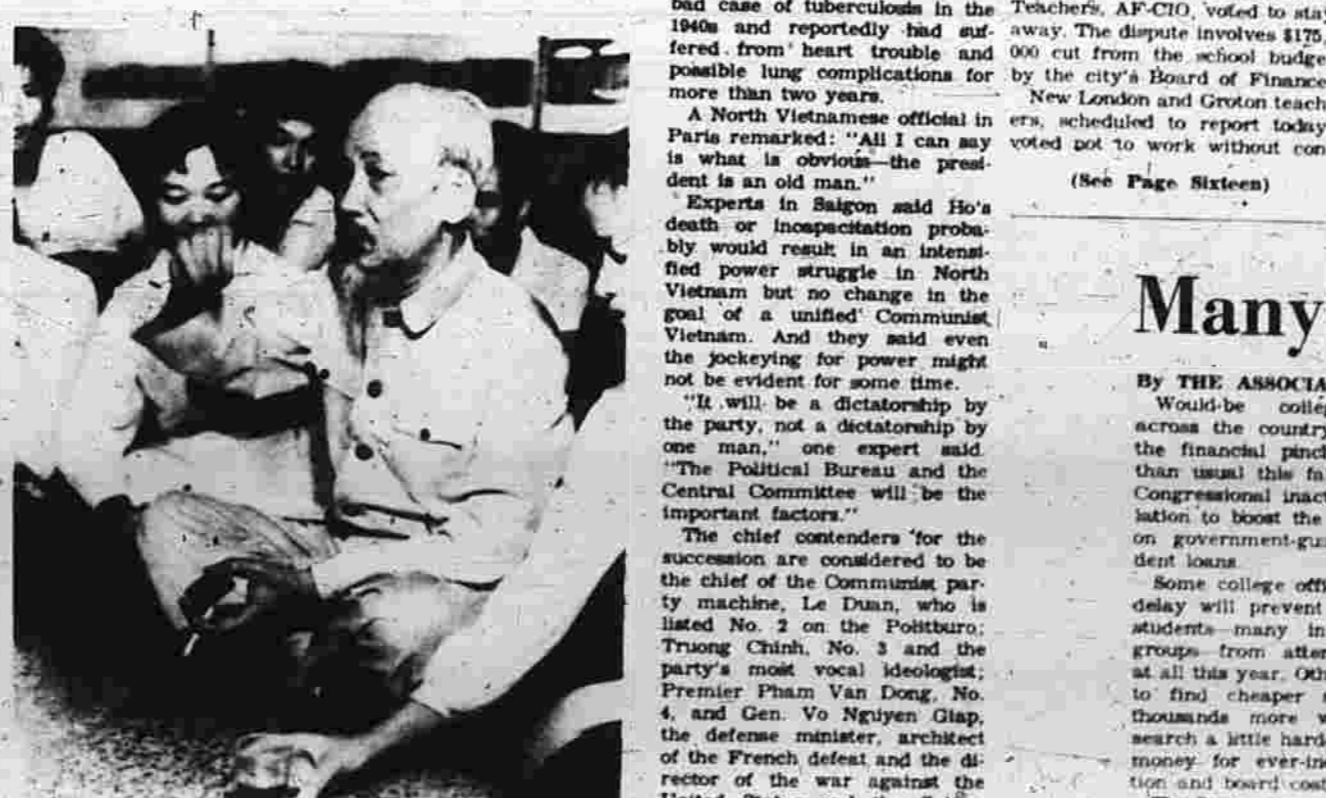

The French-language broadcast was Hanoi's first report that the condition of the 73-year-old father of Vietnamese communism was worsening.

Two earlier official announcements said he was in "some-what grave" condition and that his illness was "developing."

Officials in Saigon felt that even that much admission meant Ho was near death.

Hanoi did not disclose the nature of the illness, but Ho had a bad case of tuberculosis in the 1960s and reportedly had suffered from heart trouble and possible lung complications for more than two years.

A North Vietnamese official in Paris remarked: "All I can say is what is obvious—the president is an old man."

Many Are Kept from Colleges

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Would-be college students across the country are feeling the financial pinch even more than usual this fall because of Congressional inaction on legislation to boost the interest rate on government guaranteed student loans.

Some college officials say the delay will prevent hundreds of students—many in low-income groups—from attending college at all this year. Others will have to find cheaper schools and thousands more will have to search a little harder to find the money for ever-increasing tuition and board costs.

The Senate has passed legislation to raise the 7 per cent ceiling on the government-guaranteed student loans to 10 per cent, making them more attractive to lenders who now charge 8 1/2 per cent to prime borrowers.

The city council voted to maintain a citywide curfew for a second night, but scheduled it to start two hours later at 9 p.m. and to last until 5 a.m.

State police troopers were also asked to lend their forces again to help restore peace. They were set to resume patrol with city police at 4 p.m.

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Torn by 30 hours of looting, firebombing and occasional sniper attacks, the predominantly Negro and Puerto Rican sections of Hartford's North End were quiet this morning.

State police were moved back into the troubled area. Violence resumed, and city officials were meeting to decide if another curfew would be called.

The violence had spread Tuesday night to a predominantly Puerto Rican area of Hartford's South End. No injuries were reported in three sniper incidents in the South Main Street area. One suspected looter was wounded in the buttocks in the North End Tuesday night.

Arrests since Monday evening reached more than 250, 182 of them continuing between 4 a.m. and 11 p.m. Tuesday.

Some 115 of those were charged with curfew violations. They and others also were charged with looting, carrying a dangerous weapon, resisting arrest, breaking and entering, larceny and intoxication.

At 7 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew at first failed to control destructive looting and young adults. City police, backed up by 100 troopers, resorted to shooting tear gas and arresting persons by the dozens to restore calm to this city of 180,000, one quarter of whom are blacks.

In the disturbances about 20 stores burned or were looted and a score of persons, including firemen and policemen, injured.

City Manager Elisha Freedman said he would decide today whether to continue the curfew. The state of emergency declared Tuesday will continue, he said, and "there will be some kind of restriction."

Judge Delays Exhumation In Drowning

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP)—A judge rejected today a motion by the parents of Mary Jo Kopechne to discontinue an autopsy request, but agreed with them that further evidence must be provided before he could grant exhumation of the girl's body.

Judge Bernard C. Brontino of Common Pleas Court gave Dist. Atty. Edmund Denis of New Bedford, Mass., 30 days to amend his petition to show that an autopsy would resolve "the doubt and suspicion surrounding the death" in an auto driven by Ben. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

The judge said he had the authority to order an autopsy if the facts warranted it.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kopechne of Berksley Heights, N.J. had argued that Pennsylvania had no jurisdiction in the case.

Burmese Dissenters Feel They Need Strongman Ruler

By JAMES M. MARKHAM
Associated Press Writer
RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Gen. Ne Win, who has run Burma since he and the army took over in 1962, is little known to his people and to the diplomats in Rangoon.

"It is not unusual for ambassadors to see Ne Win when they present their credentials and when they go—'that's all,'" a European diplomat says.

The Burmese people see him even less.

The 57-year-old bogeyman—the Burmese word for general—is in the left freedom movement and rose rapidly in the resistance army that fought both the British and the Japanese. It is surrounded by high walls and surrounded by high walls and surrounded by high walls.

Ne Win's military leaders are not so much admirers as they are wary. Ne Win's military leaders are not so much admirers as they are wary.

Ne Win has not attempted to build a personality cult. His photograph hangs in government buildings—which is to say, most buildings—but it is invariably accompanied by a picture of Aung San, Burma's first military hero, assassinated in 1947.

Ne Win rarely speaks in public and sometimes goes for months without making an official utterance.

Despite a simple problem, he is thought to be in good health. Still, the question hangs over Burma: "What happens if Ne Win dies?"

Through many quizzical questions, Ne Win's last return to the country to democratize government. It is unlikely that the army would risk the loss of its power.

Ne Win has November convened 33 old politicians and asked them to draw up proposals for a new system of government. Led by U Nu, they mostly recommended going back to the parliamentary system. Ne Win has not yet given his official response to their suggestions.

Transfusions Care Must Be Taken In Varnishing Wood

By NATE HASELTON
AP Newsfeatures
WASHINGTON—Blood transfusions directly into the blood stream of a patient can be dangerous if the transfusion is contaminated. A transfusion technique was introduced by an Australian, Dr. A. W. Liley, in New Zealand, about six years ago, for the treatment of every thrombocytopenic anemia, an often fatal condition involving the blood.

It has since won wide acclaim and application for the treatment of every thrombocytopenic anemia, an often fatal condition involving the blood.

However, there were some in the medical community who warned of possible hazards with early transfusions. They pointed out that the transfusion technique was not sterile and that the transfusion was not sterile.

Dr. Grace S. Gregg and Donald L. Hutchinson reported in the latest issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association (JAMA) their follow-up of some 15 survivors of pre-birth transfusions ranging from 9 to 30 months of age.

Only one 27-month-old child, they reported, was functioning below normal.

"This child was retarded in growth and development (and) was in the dull normal (intellectual) range," they noted in their JAMA report.

It appears, they said, that intra-uterine (inside the womb) transfusions, judiciously administered before serious intracranial damage occurs, is not intrinsically harmful.

Dr. Gregg and Hutchinson further noted that the pre-birth transfusion technique has been lifesaving in the home, available by sending 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Knowledge, P.O. Box 677, Huntington, N.Y. 11743.

No matter how careful you are in choosing a project area where dust will not be stirred, you are likely to find specks hitting the wood surface while you are brushing. To get rid of them quickly, without most as quickly as you pull away the toothpick, the wet varnish will close in on the area and smooth out the disturbed spot. That is, it will fill in the hole while the varnish is still wet.

When you are finishing an object which can be turned upside down, such as a chair or table, do as much varnishing as possible in a horizontal direction. That is, turn the chair or table around so that you apply the varnish on as many flat surfaces as you can, then reposition it, and so on.

Sand very lightly between coats, using a fine grade of paper. Use a waterproof sandpaper for the final coat, dipping it in water occasionally as you sand, and not applying very much pressure. When the varnish has thoroughly dried—wait at least a day—apply a coat of paste wax.

American Men Say: Middle-Aged Stewardesses Okay on Some Other Flight

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Air France may have avoided a strike when it agreed to let stewardesses fly until age 50. It hasn't made some American men very happy, but others have flown to the defense of the older girls.

"It's a pretty depressing prospect," said Jack Nesel, 39, of New York City, when asked what he thought of a 50-year-old stewardess.

"I've never met an old french woman," said Nicholas J. Nichols of Chicago.

"I'm interested in good service, not age," said Ross Gelber in Washington. "Experience counts too."

Irvin Waterford of Greeley, Colo., said it depends on the individual. "I think that is fine as long as they are not worn out," he said, "but I want them trim or trim and no varicose veins."

"Why not, if they're still sexy?" Some chicks look better as they age," said Ted Rymar, 26, of Detroit.

"If a stewardess is 50 years old and can do the job, let her do a better job. I'm tired of finally getting my martinis or just a few seconds before bucking up for landing," said Joseph Gauchez, 28, of Chicago. And jazz clarinetist Pete

South Windsor School Fund Voted, Land Sale Put Off

The Town Council last night agreed to give the Board of Education an additional $45,000, decided to wait a little longer for serious bidders on the old town hall site, and agreed that private groups should be given an opportunity to assist in the development of the Rye St. park area.

In granting the Board of Education an additional $45,000, the council was keeping an agreement that it made with the board during the time of budget discussions. At that time the council agreed that it would make up the difference between the board's final offer to the teacher's and the final agreement providing that there was an increase in state aid.

In what is becoming somewhat of a ritual, the council again turned down all the bids it received for the purchase of the site of the old town hall as being too low. However, this time the council agreed to let the disposition of the land rest until after the November election before trying to dispose of the property.

The problem seems to be that all the offers so far have in the Council's opinion been too low and do not reflect the potential value of the land in question. While the individual sites apparently could not be built on alone, but could be used as a building site with the addition of adjacent land, the council agreed with the town manager that a bid of slightly more than $600 was not an adequate bid.

The council voted to reject all bids, and wait until a new council is elected, when the council will announce a minimum acceptable offer, and go to public auction instead of bids.

The council agreed to refer a request from the South Windsor Boy Scouts for permission to work to improve Rye St. park for use as an open area for camping and conservation purposes to the Education and Recreation Committee of the Council for further consideration.

With the council's action, the offer for assistance in developing the area for local use, the council felt that any action should be co-ordinated through the Recreation, Education and Recreation Committee, the Conservation Commission, and any parties interested in helping with development.

Any group wishing to contribute ideas or time and services to development of Rye St. park should contact Councilman Peter Nicholas, chairman of the Education and Recreation Committee.

In other action last night the council passed a resolution which in effect completes an even hand swap with the Savin Bros., Inc. which involves relocation of town sewers at the expense and convenience of the Savin Bros.

dict that the statistical odds are all with the seat belt wearer. This is obviously the conclusion of the theoretical testing that has been done by safety experts and by insurance companies.

Another Country Heard From

After 8,000 years of fairly well heralded history, interrupted only by attempts at conquest from outside, Ethiopia has joined the Twentieth Century world with a full blown brand of student unrest.

The agitated and agitating students of Ethiopia are idealists who think that Emperor Haile Selassie is a well-meaning fuddy-duddy who doesn't move fast enough or boldly enough into the realities of the new era.

It is somehow reassuring, comforting and perhaps inspiring, to have another country heard from.

SHAPING CANDLESTICK, ARTISAN AND APPRENTICE

Inside Report

by Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON — While President Nixon agonizes over withdrawing a second batch of U.S. troops from Vietnam, top officials privately admit they have no plan at all to deal with a far more acute problem: The fighting Communist advance into Laos.

With an estimated 40,000 to 50,000 "hard-core" Communist troops from North Vietnam now in Laos, the "neutralist" (actually, pro-Western) forces of Prime Minister Souvanna Phouma's government are being overrun. The royal capital of Luang Prabang is now vulnerable to Communist capture.

Already there are hundreds of thousands who are maimed and crippled, men with steel and plastic where their limbs once were, men with poisonous dreams in their heads, men whose eyes will never see a flower in spring, men who will never play ball with their children, and whose lives are a daily reminder of the infection of the Nam across all the summers of their lives.

Roy Richard, a 146 in the Army, will wear no brass bands at Seattle's "Beat" club, to be composed of drivers or passengers in motor vehicles who have avoided serious injuries by using safety belts.

By Whitaker

When a driver or passenger is killed in spite of the fact that he or she is wearing a seat belt, the presence of the seat belt is never publicized. If the seat belt itself seems to aggravate the injury in a minor accident, or if the seat belt might possibly have contributed to a fatality in accidents involving fire or water, one must never expect any allusion to such a possibility.

Let not my fear for him magnify my doubts and fears until I make him doubting and fearful in his turn. Quieten my judgment so that I shall know how to train him to think as a child, to be in all things pure and simple as a child."

The Sempinski Affair. By W. S. Kuncak. Doubleday, $5.95. International conspiracy, professional spies and counter-agents, the cold war, the combat, the double cross, desperate escapes, an assassination plot—and in the midst of it all an amateur adventurer named Oliver Hazard Shippe, a 42-year-old American expatriate.

These are the ingredients of Kuncak's suspense novel, which follows his popular, "The Thousand Hour Day," a story of the fall of Poland in World War II.

Shippe is hurled into going in a professional capacity to an unnamed Soviet satellite state, where it takes a while for him to realize that Sempinski are not the reason for his presence there. He has become a pawn in an international game of secret organizations.

He becomes involved with a young woman named Sempinski, captive of the plotters, and while he is trying to match wits and guile with the shadowy spies, he fights out the battle for Kristina's sake.

As in many suspense tales, this novel has a great many plot switches and quite a few fancy, superfluous foats of physical endurance. If you like tall yarns, this is your book. It is marked "An Entertaining" and is a rousing example of that category.

PAIR TABLES AND FANTASIES. By I. B. Ezer. A. S. Barnes & Co. $4.95.

What is so rare these days as a book of very delightful fairy tales? With six novels, spy thrillers and black humor and satire, the publishing world, a collection of fantasies and "once upon a time" tales is a real odd-ball phenomenon.

These stories have all the trappings of an old-fashioned fairy tale, and a sense of mystery and suspense. There are kings and queens and humble sheeps, and settings in exotic places of the Near East and the Far East; there are strange incantations, and magical forces and supernatural events.

One story is about an old wanderer who has devoted his life with the birds, a variation of the Pied Piper theme. Another contains a tale of a young girl rescued, not by a prince, but by a forest ranger who breaks through the spell of an evil spirit.

Another tale is about a greedy old miser who has devoted his whole life to the accumulation of gold; but then he has a dream that shows him the happy family life he might have had, and is converted to a complete devotion to philanthropy.

Most of these stories have a sterling moral. There is a warning against the pursuit of a monarch's successor. A self-righteous man overcomes the temptations of luxury. Vice must win.

This is a very quaint cluster of imaginative, morallistic tales that cheer their way out of ancient folk lore.

GOOD TIME COMING. By Edmund Schold. Simon & Schuster. $4.95.

Anon Farris is a 32-year-old publishing executive whose wife Faye is fed up with him. As the novel opens, Anon has just swung a big deal by getting $1 million for the paperback rights to a novel by David Stein.

Stein, who runs with the swinging crowd, has marital problems of his own. His wife Jeanette is alienated from him and keeps visiting a psychiatrist.

Anon—for no very clear reason—starts living it up. He jumps into bed with assorted females; in the author's opinion, the author's prose is a hammy, over-the-top style.

THE MOGAW-HILL DISCOVERY OF THE... Edited by Bernard S. Myers. $15.

This is a big reference work in five volumes encompassing the whole field of the visual arts, with its 15,000 entries and no less than 17 million words, plus illustrations numbering 2,000 in black and white, 400 in color and 500 line drawings.

These are the ingredients of Kuncak's suspense novel, which follows his popular, "The Thousand Hour Day," a story of the fall of Poland in World War II.

Shippe is hurled into going in a professional capacity to an unnamed Soviet satellite state, where it takes a while for him to realize that Sempinski are not the reason for his presence there.

He becomes involved with a young woman named Sempinski, captive of the plotters, and while he is trying to match wits and guile with the shadowy spies, he fights out the battle for Kristina's sake.

As in many suspense tales, this novel has a great many plot switches and quite a few fancy, superfluous foats of physical endurance. If you like tall yarns, this is your book. It is marked "An Entertaining" and is a rousing example of that category.

PAIR TABLES AND FANTASIES. By I. B. Ezer. A. S. Barnes & Co. $4.95.

What is so rare these days as a book of very delightful fairy tales? With six novels, spy thrillers and black humor and satire, the publishing world, a collection of fantasies and "once upon a time" tales is a real odd-ball phenomenon.

These stories have all the trappings of an old-fashioned fairy tale, and a sense of mystery and suspense. There are kings and queens and humble sheeps, and settings in exotic places of the Near East and the Far East; there are strange incantations, and magical forces and supernatural events.

One story is about an old wanderer who has devoted his life with the birds, a variation of the Pied Piper theme. Another contains a tale of a young girl rescued, not by a prince, but by a forest ranger who breaks through the spell of an evil spirit.

Another tale is about a greedy old miser who has devoted his whole life to the accumulation of gold; but then he has a dream that shows him the happy family life he might have had, and is converted to a complete devotion to philanthropy.

Most of these stories have a sterling moral. There is a warning against the pursuit of a monarch's successor. A self-righteous man overcomes the temptations of luxury. Vice must win.

This is a very quaint cluster of imaginative, morallistic tales that cheer their way out of ancient folk lore.

GOOD TIME COMING. By Edmund Schold. Simon & Schuster. $4.95.

Anon Farris is a 32-year-old publishing executive whose wife Faye is fed up with him. As the novel opens, Anon has just swung a big deal by getting $1 million for the paperback rights to a novel by David Stein.

Stein, who runs with the swinging crowd, has marital problems of his own. His wife Jeanette is alienated from him and keeps visiting a psychiatrist.

Anon—for no very clear reason—starts living it up. He jumps into bed with assorted females; in the author's opinion, the author's prose is a hammy, over-the-top style.

Just a few blocks north of here police encountered rifle fire from snipers earlier in the evening, but by 11 p.m. the city was relatively quiet. What has been described as a strategy meeting of key Democratic liberals to boost Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota for President was something of a great deal less than that.

Shortly after Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's accident, a fact-sheet supporter of McGovern invited a wide spectrum of liberal leaders to get on his back in the 1970 Senate race.

Actually, most of those present, such as Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona, Fredrick G. Dutton, political advisor to John Kennedy, and Blair Clark, manager of Sen. Eugene McCarthy's campaign for President, were not supporting McGovern now and are highly unlikely to do so in the future.

Whoever Rhodes actually runs for the Senate depends largely on public acceptance of his defense against the Life charge. That is expected to come by mid-September.

Known as "Uncle Ho" to the millions of Vietnamese who adored him the father of Vietnamese independence, Ho Chi Minh was the supreme leader of the communist government official who was fired by the French for his anti-French activities.

He studied in Paris and Saigon, then went to Europe in 1919 as a cabin boy on a French steamer. He got from that time on was a student in the French Communist Party in Paris. He studied for it, planning it, he worked in the mines and at the Carlton Hotel in London, met the leading socialists of the time in France, and met Lenin, Stalin and Trotsky in Moscow.

For more than 30 years of exile he devoted his energies to organizing an underground campaign against French rule in Indochina.

for the building of private dwellings, which has raised drastically in the cycle of rising costs and interest rates.

To this account, an administration source added word that the outbreak plan is intended to dampen the pressure for sharp wage increases in the construction industry. This source said it government projects are sharply reduced, the demand for construction work will drop and their bargaining power in coming contract negotiations will be diminished.

The source also indicated the Nixon administration's intention to limit the temporary freeze on highway construction and all tax exemption on interest from state and municipal bonds. He said the administration will ask the Senate Finance Committee to restore this benefit, eliminated by the House Ways and Means Committee in its tax reform bill.

The governors already have adopted a resolution urging Congress to restore the exemption of state and local bond issues, they prove difficult to sell and force higher interest payments upon the states.

U.S. Sends B52's to Assist In Battle Near Song Be

SAIGON (AP) — Massive American B52 strikes today hit North Vietnamese battle lines near the provincial capital of Song Be for the fourth day.

South Vietnamese casualties were climbing, with at least 20 troops killed, 138 wounded and 17 missing, as well as four American Green Beret advisers wounded.

The enemy resistance was so strong that more than 1000 troops from the Green Berets mobile strike force of hired mercenaries have been forced into retreat. Only six enemy soldiers were seen dead.

In the coastal lowlands south of Da Nang, U.S. troops attacked with tanks and armored personnel carriers killed 22 enemy soldiers near Duc Cho 106 miles southeast of Da Nang.

The fighting was touched off Sunday when a battalion of strike force troops surrounded an enemy base camp. The South American air cavalrymen quickly attacked from all sides and forced to retreat. They have been unable to move forward since.

The battle is taking place in the War Zone C, 45 miles northwest of Saigon, rap into a burrow of machine-gun and rifle fire Tuesday night. The American intelligence officers thought at first the camp was the headquarters of an enemy regiment. But now there is speculation that it may be a division headquarters.

During the night more than 20 B52s pounded the enemy camp with more than 500 tons of bombs. Some strikes were only three miles from the Cambodian border.

A U.S. air cavalry battalion of 400 men which had reinforced the South Vietnamese Tuesday was pulled out today after another 400 strike force troops were pulled out. Leaving 800 to 1000 South Vietnamese troops committed to the battle.

Consumer Woes: Some Inflation Hidden In Deflated Packages

By DAVID ROES

The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — Every y housewife recognizes the shrinkage in retail grocery prices, and she is somewhat puzzled to find that Congress is trying to do something about it.

But, says Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal (D-N.Y.), her super-market displays another brand of inflation which Congress has so far ignored: The shrinking of packages.

A study conducted by the House Special Studies Subcommittee, headed by Rosenthal, has turned up 800 supermarket and drugstore items whose package contents decreased over the past year. The average out an equivalent decrease in price.

That one half of the items had no price drop at all, according to subcommittee staff.

Baruch calls the shrinking packages a "major problem" in the Fair Packaging and Labeling Act (FPLA), which became effective July 1 and requires manufacturers to "obtain accurate information as to (package) contents and facilitate comparison" for the shopper.

Rosenthal is also concerned about a shrinking conspiracy outside the shopper's domain, one which he says "in dollar volume dwarf anything else." The Commerce Department's American Lumber Standards Committee has proposed new standards which would shrink the "two-by-four," which now measures 1 1/2 inches by 3 1/2 inches, down to 1 1/4 inches by 3 1/2 inches.

The National Bureau of Standards says the board known as a two-by-four has not actually measured 2 inches by 4 inches in finished form since the bureau first established lumber standards in the 1920s.

The board got its name, apparently, because at one time it measured 2 inches by 4 inches before drying and planing.

The lumber industry supports the change, which would permit more boards to be cut from the same tree. So does the Federal Housing Administration, which is eager to increase the lumber supply for its construction projects.

If builders do make up the 10 to 12 per cent extra cost of wood volume the new standards would impose, according to Matthew Russo, building committee chairman of Hempstead, N.Y., it would add some $40 to $60 to the cost of the average 20,000 home.

Present marketing practices, whether intentionally deceptive or not, add to massive consumer confusion, which the new labeling act is supposed to reduce. Some progress has already been made in cutting down the proliferation of package sizes, most notably in toothpaste. Fifty-seven sizes, all less than nine ounces, were being marketed before the act went into effect; now there are five.

But, even after reductions, there are still 85 sizes of cookies and crackers, 16 sizes of peanut butter, and 12 sizes of instant noodle.

The new law's effect is also being blunted by lack of enforcement. The Food and Drug Administration, which has authority for registering and enforcing information for most non-food products, has no money in its 1970 budget for enforcement.

The FDA's associate commissioner for compliance, J. Kenneth Kirk, said he would like to see the agency's budget increased with inspections and court proceedings.

Meanwhile the Federal Trade Commission, responsible for most of FPLA's packaging provisions, has delayed the effective date for its enforcement activities from July 1 to Sept. 10. Kirk said the FTC postponement has tied the hands of state officials who would otherwise have begun their own enforcement of FPLA last month.

FTC attorney Earl Johnson said the delay was ordered to settle claims by manufacturers that they did not come under FPLA. Every manufacturer who complained was freed from compliance, Johnson said. The result, he estimated, will be a 20 per cent cut in the scope of FTC enforcement.

Financial and administrative problems like these have held up the bill calling for a cabinet-level department to handle the affairs. Sen. Gaylord Nelson (D-Wa.) has a companion bill pending in the Senate.

Rosenthal and Nelson have also proposed what most consumers and manufacturers consider the definitive solution to packaging and labeling deceptions: Unit pricing.

That pricing is a cost-per-ounce figure which the Rosenthal-Nelson bill would require to be printed on most cans, boxes, and bottles.

Consumer watchdogs are excited about unit pricing and hoped that the industry experiment will bring the complaints of critics and lobbyists. In private, however, they concede that even completely clear

Debbie Attends First Day of School

By AL SREAY

Associated Press Writer

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Deborah Fox, born 13 1/2 years ago virtually without a face, went to school yesterday for the first time in her life.

It took 17 operations and help from a lot of people to get her there.

Debbie said she was "very happy" to be in a class with other children at last.

Before today, Debbie's education consisted of taking part in classes by telephone hookup, bolstered by three hours of private tutoring each week at her farm home in Soddy, north of here.

Further surgery is planned on her nose and mouth after tests this fall at Chattanooga. Her appearance is still not normal.

Stories about the operation brought Debbie a flood of mail, including gifts, from around the world. Her favorite gifts, she said, were a music box and a Chatterbox plastic surmount. She said she has been corresponding with several G.I. clubs in Alabama have been paid for by charitable organizations or governmental agencies.

Debbie has her 3rd- and 4th-grade classes.

Now she's an eighth grader in a special education class at the White Oak School. A spokesman for the Hamilton County Department of Education said it would be a "transition room for Debbie."

Four other persons were also hospitalized.

Debbie has collected 25 of her poems for publication including one about the Johns Hopkins operation, "The Six Best Men of My Life"—a reference to the six physicians.

It said in part: "This has been done for me. And I had been so free. Of a fear I had for many years. And for which I had shed many tears."

Debbie is the youngest of four children of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Fox.

Debbie has said she would like to work with handicapped children when she grows up. In addition to her face, one of Debbie's hands and one of her legs is deformed.

Her case first came to the attention of Edward J. Fitch, assistant superintendent in the County Education Department, through a Chattanooga plastic surgeon requested home schooling.

Fitch said almost all the operations have been paid for by charitable organizations or governmental agencies.

Teachers Defy Order To Report to Classes

ing the door open for further contract discussion.

In Rhode Island, a tentative School Committee and the teachers' union so far have been unable to agree on a new contract. The union reiterated its policy of "no contract—no work."

Teachers in Manchester, N.H., are to meet today for a vote on a new contract. The vote is in the wake of a temporary restraining order issued by a federal judge.

Manchester's 700 public school teachers had threatened to go on strike today. Tuesday night the Board of Mayor and Aldermen unanimously approved Mayor John C. Morgan's recommendations assigning representatives of five city departments to each school to insure the safety of the children.

Among communities where the missing day of school was caught up in pay problems were Springfield, New Bedford, Watertown and Braintree in Massachusetts; Pawtucket and North Providence in Rhode Island and Manchester, N.H.

In Springfield, the school year began for 31,000 pupils and 1,400 teachers but none of them knew until the last minute whether their principals would show up.

The 111 principals, supervisors and directors belonging to the Springfield Education Association scheduled a 7 a.m. vote on a contract proposal offered by the School Committee Tuesday night. Details of the offer were withheld.

The principals and administrators worked Tuesday but there was some doubt they would work today without a satisfactory agreement.

In New Bedford, Mayor Edward W. Harrington and school Supt. James Hayden said classes would open as planned despite a 1951 vote Tuesday by the New Bedford Educators Association to strike for a pay hike from $5,900 to $6,400. The association represents about 400 of the city's 700 teachers.

Hayden noted that a one-day work stoppage by teachers last year resulted in an injunction forbidding strikes, and he added the ruling remained in effect.

At Braintree, where the Braintree Education Association sought an 11 per cent across-the-board pay raise, some 400 teachers, administrative aides and others of the school district called a "professional day off" today to enforce demands.

But after discussion the association tabled the idea and decided to wait for a report Sept. 25 from its negotiating team.

In Rhode Island, a tentative agreement reached by the Providence School Committee and the Providence Teachers Union averted a possible strike in that city.

But in North Providence, the Teachers Union voted Tuesday not to report for work today. The vote was reported as unanimous but a spokesman for the teachers added they were keep-

Board Okays Seven Funds

The Manchester Board of Directors last night, with little discussion and by unanimous vote, approved seven additional appropriations to the 1969-70 General Fund, all to be financed by equal state or federal grants.

Other additional appropriations to the General Fund voted last night, all after public hearings, are: To the Board of Education, $4,400 for Project Head Start; a program for 60 pre-kindergarten reading program for approximately 20 children; and two separate sums of $46,194 and $48,483 for a reading and arithmetic remedial program for approximately 100 children.

When the Board of Directors adopted the 1969-70 budget last night, it anticipated that the General Assembly would authorize educational grants calculated at $100 per pupil. The Assembly adopted legislation based on grants of $200 per pupil. Hence, the increase in anticipated revenue from state educational grants.

By adding $92,000 to the Capital Improvement Reserve Fund, the directors wiped out a $24,712 overdraft in the fund, and left $17,288 available for new allocations.

And, later in last night's meeting, they voted a total of $49,200 in new allocations, reducing the Capital Improvement Reserve Fund to a new balance of $19,088, with 10 months of the new fiscal year still to go. Of the $48,200 allocated last night, $9,200 went for the purchase of a parcel bounded Union Pond, and $40,000 for the added costs of Nathan Hale School heating improvements.

Three Ask What Happened To Weed-Killing Program

Two years ago, a weed-killing program for town sidewalks and curbs was instituted by Director of Public Works William O'Neill. It drew considerable favorable comment in town and in the state and was the subject of an article by O'Neill last year in The American City Magazine, distributed coast-to-coast.

Yesterday at a Board of Directors comment session, managed by Mayor Nathan Agostinelli, three Manchester residents wanted to know why the program was abandoned after 1967.

They complained that the weeds are encroaching sidewalks and curbs all over town. One observed that, even as the town is repairing sidewalks and curbs, many more are being damaged by the weeds shooting up before cracks.

Agostinelli assured the three residents that he would refer their complaints to O'Neill for an explanation.

Brookings To Review Expenses of Defense

WASHINGTON—Any politician who says that the defense budget is too big is not only wrong but also naive, says a Brookings Institute study. The study, which is the first private review of defense spending, says that the defense budget is not too big, but that it is not being spent wisely.

Highways Claim 609 Lives Over 3-Day Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Highway accidents killed 609 persons across the nation over the three-day Labor Day week-end.

The toll fell short of the 620 to 720 the National Safety Council had estimated for the holiday.

Over a three-day nonholiday weekend in June, deaths totaled 430. The count was made by The Associated Press for comparison with the Labor Day figures.

The soaring toll for the Labor Day weekend began 5 p.m. Saturday, Friday and ended midnight Monday.

The Labor Day weekend marked the third straight holiday of 1969 in which traffic fatalities decreased from 1968 figures.

The toll during the 1968 Labor Day period was 626, highest for any Labor Day weekend.

Family Planning GREENOCK, Scotland (AP) — Due to a shortage of suitable staff, opening of a family planning clinic at Glasgow's Greenock, Scotland's only women's prison, has been postponed. The clinic was to advise women due for release.

UofH To Offer Back-To-College Program in Fall

Applications are being taken for admission to the University of Hartford "Back-to-College Program" fall semester classes.

Classes begin Sept. 10, and meet on campus three times a week for 80 minutes each, or twice a week for 75 minutes each.

The flexible return-to-classroom plan offers credit courses in art and music, area studies, business and public administration, education, engineering, and secretarial science.

The part-time study is designed for women who wish to resume their college education, prepare for a specific career goal, earn a certificate to teach, undertake graduate work toward a master's degree, update a field of previous study, improve their skills for volunteer work in a community service agency, broaden their personal knowledge, or begin work on the freshman level.

"Back-to-College" also accepts retired men who now have time to devote to academic pursuits. There is no age barrier for men or women.

Mrs. Margaret L. Finch, acting chairman of the department of art history, has accepted the chairmanship of a newly organized women's campus group, the Association of Back-to-College Women. Its purpose is to provide guidance for homemakers who wish to continue their education on the college level.

Advisors in the expanded program are Dr. Paul H. Stacy, associate professor of English, and Miss Muriel Quetta, evaluator in the school of arts and sciences.

Greenwich Man Given Citation 25 Years Late

NELLEIGH, Germany (AP) — The U.S. Army is catching up on Purple Hearts for CW2 Charles S. Ferber and he got his first one last week — 25 years late.

The native of Greenwich, Conn., said: "I wrote to the Pentagon asking about one from Korea, but they found the one from World War II instead."

Ferber, 47, was wounded by nine fragments while serving in an engineer battalion in World War II. In the Korean war, Ferber said he was flying an observation plane over Pork Chop Hill and was hit in the leg by machine gun fire from the ground.

"That was the Purple Heart I was looking for," Ferber added. Ferber was discharged in 1963 and flew as a bush pilot for 11 years in Alaska and Canada and then rejoined the army and was sent to Vietnam, where he was wounded a third time.

Ferber now serves as a pilot assigned to VII Corps in Germany. Ferber's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Ferber of 141 Milbank Avenue, Greenwich.

Authoress, 89 Dies in Hospital

OLD SAYBROOK, Conn. (AP) — Mrs. Sarah McNeil Lockwood, author of six books, including three novels, died Sunday at a convalescent hospital. She was 89.

A native of Iron Mountain, Wis., Mrs. Lockwood grew up in the iron-mining region of Minnesota and spent that setting for two or her books, "A Flutal of Stars" and "The Man from Mesaki."

Her third novel, "The Ethos of the Snake," was about the pioneer days of the Old West and was published in 1969. Mrs. Lockwood also wrote books on antiques and interior decoration.

A former resident of Bedford Hills, N.Y., Mrs. Lockwood had been at the convalescent hospital here for two years.

She is survived by grandniece, Mrs. Richard McGuffey of Groton.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at St. Matthew's Church, Bedford Hills.

Canoe Cleanup

EMMENECHE, Mo. (AP) — More than 100 canoe enthusiasts from five states finished a three-day cleanup of a 26-mile stretch of the Current River in southern Missouri Monday.

They gathered 203 burlap sacks of trash, mostly beer and soft drink cans and bottles, but they also were tired, bed-springs a lawn mower, a washing machine a wheel barrow and a sewing machine.

The canoeists came from Arkansas, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri for the 10th annual cleanup sponsored by the Ozark Wilderness Waterways Club.
