NEW REVOLVING STAGE!

Vegetable cookery is a better test of a good cook than fancy desserts. At its best it is most simple; the freshest of vegetables at just the right maturity, the briefest of cooking in the least water, and served at once. This way vegetables bring grace and lightness to a meal, they supply vitamins, minerals and a pleasant sense of fullness—with very little fat and few calories. Excess water and overories. Excess water and overture, vitamins and minerals. to cook vegetables. All vege-tables can be worked into casserole dishes. The more we travel around the world, the more kinds of vegetables and methods of preparation we discover. It's also difficult to find a better restaurant than MR. STEAK, 244 Center Street, 646-1995. In fact, it's impossible! Our luncheons and dinners are prepared to perfection and served with a smile. We love to serve the children and have a very special menu just

A Fateful Paralysis The usual sequence of events in the Near East is one of Arab brayado sometimes in guerrilla deeds, sometimes merely in verbal pronouncements from Nasser-answered by Israeli deeds. Nasser keeps asking for it; Israel keeps giving it to him.

The tragedy is that, given the situation history has created for them, neither seems able to do anything different. Nasser sees the enemy in his own territory, and can find no way to abandon the idea of driving him out. Israel, motivated by the paramount consideration of a security which it helieves can only be maintained, in its basically precarious situation, by the strongest reliance on its own good arm, finds that this version of security has no territorial limit, but has to keep thrusting forward in order to maintain its own military edge over the enemy. What has happened, in the latest interchange between Nasser's almost compulsory foolhardiness and Israel's fated compliance with its own necessities, is that one more fateful geographical and psychological line has been crossed, with the very forceful Israeli raid along the western shore of the Gulf of Suez.

ministration's decision, in 1965, to carry the war to North Vietnam, which took between the two Vietnams for the first

Israel has now crossed another such line—the line which divides Egypt proper from its occupied eastern hinterland and the line which separates the continents of Asia and Africa.

This action will have various effects -none of them, really, what Israel could have had in mind.

It will increase Nasser's need for braggadocio in word and deed, because he will not feel it tolerable to try to be a leader who takes such military humiliation without answering back. And for may have been labeled when it was being planned and executed, but the punitive measure which wasn't quite severe enough to work. With Israel, in other words, the next drive will be to make the next raid a little stronger and a little deeper, really to teach Nasser the lesson. And when Nasser does not learn the leason, as he cannot learn it in his situation, what is there for Schoolmaster Israel to do but repeat the lesson, with increased emphasis? Ultimately, Israel's security could come to mean a monitory establishment of bases on the west side of the Canal, in Egypt proper. Eventualy, Israel's security could come to seem o require a foray into Cairo.

The remorseless necessities of the two interlocked enemies in the Near East seep grinding along, past the territorial nilestones, past the psychological Rubicons, quite as if men had created themselves a situation men could no longer

Meanwhile, it is in the news that Rusian-American diplomacy, for the umpeenth time in the last few months, may soon be concerning itself again with the stuation in the Near East. And the United Nations seems to have utterly no capacity to regain or impose the kind of grip it once was able to maintain on situations of this nature.

Never mind, for a moment, the assessment of blame between the enemies in the Near East.

Focus thought on the rest of the world, which ought to be able to sense the fatefulness of the situation, and which still cannot pull itself together to any concerted influence or action, not even on behalf of all civilization.

The Nixon Tax Plan President Nixon's new tax proposal

contains a number of revisions that make more sense than the bill voted by the House of Representatives. n response to protests from governors and mayors, the Nixon administration proposed to keep state and municipal bond interest in the tax free category. The result is that some very rich individuals could keep all their money in such bonds and escape federal taxation completely. In our view, the House bill government bonds difficult to sell. The Nixon proposal goes too far in the other direction. A compromise should be work-

The House bill contained a complicated formula that would have included charitable deductions within a maximum limit and would have subjected n treating with capital gains, the President urged retention of the 25 per ent tax for those who have less than $140,000 in capial gains a year (if married) or whose capial gains do not exceed four times their other income. This is a simpler way to accomplish a limi tation—the aim of the House bill—however it does cut down the federal revenue gain by one third. The change, in our view, is warranted, including the retention of the old rule of a six months solding period. Becuase buriness prospers when people make productive instments, it would seem wise to encourage such activity by not impinging on this investment flow by increased axation. The same argument applies to deduction restrictions, in the case of buying land or stocks, although the Nixon bill may go too far in allowing that seemed unwise was the 7.5 taxation on foundations, now reduced to 2 n'r cent 'n the N'xen bill. As we noted earlier, what foundations can't do, the overnment will be called upon to do. t therefore seems unwise to rob Peter In reducing the effective tax that cor-

The other problem is that the President has concentrated tax relief less in the lower tax brackets than the House bill. In most individual taxpayers will get slightly less relief, although the two bills are so complicated that generalities can be misleading. Home owners are treat ed more kindly than in the House bill because of changes in the stan-35 would be one third less under the Nixon bill, but would apply to all, not just heads of households. He urges that long run revenue losses should be scaled down to respond to the House bill in a manner that knocks out inequities and produces less of a federal income loss. Originally the House bill sought to produce tax reform with no income loss to the government. But just before the bill went to the floor the House Ways and Means Committee decided to include greater tax relief, especially for middle income families. In attempting to balance government revenue demands, with equity the Nixon bill is a very reasonable compromise, even if it is not quite as good news for individual taxpayers. MIDDLETOWN PRESS

Be Sparkling for Autumn's Galas

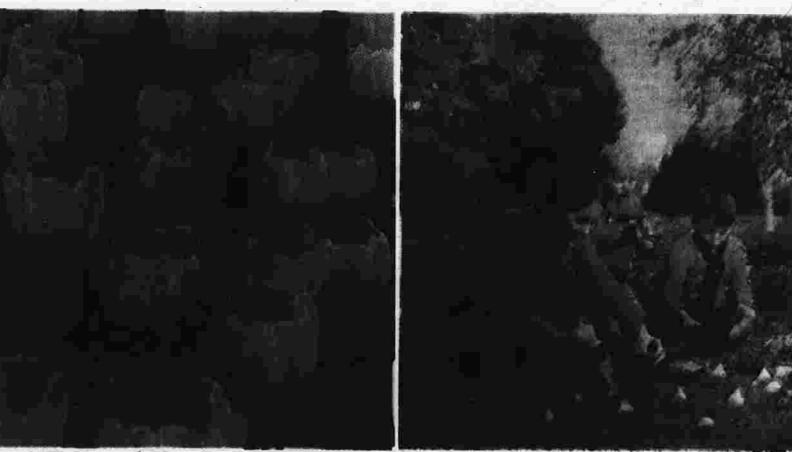

Set off spectacular color sparks with fashion's newest fall headliners--color with conditioners and jeweled dazzlers designed by Kenneth J. Lane especially for the hair. The redhead (left) sets off fiery color sparks by placing in her gleaming hair a barette of rhinestone brilliants set with amethysts. The blonde (right) chooses a cluster of gems to match her print gown and clips a lone sparkling star atop her cascade of glistening curls.

Williams Due On $20,000 TWA Flight

LONDON (AP) - A special Trans World Airline flight left London today carrying Ameri-can black militant Robert Wil-liams to Detroit. The plane was due in Detroit about 12:45 p.m. EDT. The flight left 80 minutes early. Airline officials said they were advised "from America" to move it forward, presumably because somebody was afraid of Williams was accompanied by a friend, Detroit lawyer Milton Henry. They were the only pas-sengers on the flight, which is osting TWA about $20,000. The American Civil Liberties Union had threatened legal action against the airline because it refused to honor Williams' ticket for a transatiantic flight. Williams, 44, is returning to face a charge of kidnaping a white couple in Monroe, N.C., during a racial demontration eight years ago. He fled from The United States then and has lived in Communist China, Cuba and Africa. He claims the kidnaping charge is trumped up and says he is innocent.

River Dr. Emery, Edward professor of Egyptology at the Iniversity of London, has found 506 of them. The discovery is unique in Egyptian excavations. The baboon cemetery, come upon in the last few months and only recently announced, is at Saqqara, a desolate plateau 20 miles south of Carlo, dominated by the step pyramid of Pharoah Zoser, the oldest stone monumental structure known. It discovery was less a matter of serendipity than of brilliant intuition and scientific, deduction. It came about in the course of a search to which Emery has now dedicated his life: I hunt for the shrine and torns of Imhotep, architect of the steppyramid. Zoser's grand vinier,

The babooms, like the thises, give abundant additional validity to Emery's thesis. For both creatures were identified with Thoth, god of the moon, mathematics, learning and enlightenment. They were his sacred animale indeed, in the close t inexplicable theology of the ancient Egyptians, incarnations of the god himself. And Imboten came to be equated with Thoth assuming his attributes, power and even identity. The baboons were along the sides of two underground passages, one above the other. One
