Man, 45, Held After Beating

Francis Mazon, 45, of 73 West Main St., was arrested last night and charged with breach of peace after police received a complaint that another man had been beaten. The alleged victim was Ralph Maynes of the same address. Mazon is scheduled to appear in Rockville Circuit Court 12 Oct. 14.

Montany Claims Damage to Auto

Eugene R. Montany, 280 Ferguson Rd. chairman of the Citizens' Advisory Committee, is asking the Town of Manchester to pay $1,545 for alleged damage to his wife's car. He claims, in a notice filed in the town clerk's office, that the damage occurred on Sept. 18, when the car, being operated by his son, was involved in an accident on Woodland St. Montany blames the accident on a "dangerous grade in the road in the vicinity of the railroad crossing."

Nixon Blocks Rail Strike

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon acted today to block for 60 days a threatened strike against major railroads. Nixon, signing the executive order creating an emergency board to look into the dispute between the six rail lines and the National Railway Labor Conference. Congress in 1967 imposed a special law for a mandatory settlement in order to halt a two-day shop craft strike that halted most of the nation's railroads. "We will try to negotiate a settlement," Wimpfinger said. "If agreement isn't reached, I don't know what we will do," he added. But he indicated the unions would stick to their strategy of calling strikes against only one or two railroads in an attempt to avoid creating a national shutdown which would provoke further congressional intervention. Wimpfinger blamed the "absolute intransigence" of railroad industry negotiators for the failure to reach a settlement through bargaining. "They could care less about the national interest," he said. "They are determined to have their way."

Stabbed Corpse Found in Car

DANBURY, Conn. (AP) — Two police patrolmen discovered the body of a 34-year-old man, the apparent victim of a stabbing, in his locked car Thursday night. The body of Joseph Laprentis was seen at about 10:30 p.m. in the car, which was parked near the municipal parking lot about one mile from his home, according to police Capt. Charles Chubb. When the car door was forced open, police found the body slumped against the driver's seat. Laprentis had been stabbed in the stomach. The weapon was not found. The body was removed to Danbury Hospital for an autopsy, and the car was roped off and guarded until a more complete investigation could be conducted. A 34-year-old described Laprentis as a "clean cut person."

General Accused of Stifling Probe of GI Club Scandal

WASHINGTON (AP) — A conspiracy to manipulate the currency of two nations and plans to invest huge funds stolen from servicemen's clubs were just two aspects of a case revolving around William O. Woodbridge, then sergeant major of the Army, were told today. Three key Army criminal investigators testified their former superior—Maj. Gen. Carl O. Turner, once Army provost marshal general—whitewashed an investigation into all aspects of a case revolving around Woodbridge, then sergeant major of the Army, were told today. The Senate permanent investigation committee had heard similar testimony Thursday, including reports that influence peddling and liquor smuggling were involved. Turner's orders blocking the investigation were obeyed without protest, Lt. Col. Jack Pruet explained, because: "After the investigation was over, the Army you lock your heels and obey your orders." Pruet said CID agents at Ft. Benning, Ga., reported that in 1967 Woodbridge, a retired Army major general and a group of sergeants who ran noncommissioned officers' clubs in Europe and South Vietnam met secretly. He said the purpose of the meeting was to "work out a system of manipulating American military paymen's certificates, South Vietnamese dollars and green (U.S.) dollars." He said the alleged case was wide in scope. Pruet said the twin-generals CIA Greenback aircraft gave no hint of trouble before it was plunged into the Gulf off the coast of Vietnam Thursday. It was on a routine flight carrying mail and supplies from Oahu Point in the Philippines to an aircraft carrier Constellation. A three-man investigating board was convened at Oahu Point, near Subic Bay. A tanker aircraft and two destroyers, dispatched to the crash site 16 miles from the reported sighting wreckage had no sign of the five crewmen and 21 passengers. The Navy said the five crewmen included Paul K. Moser, 33 then was commanding officer of the 1st CID unit in Washington. (See Page Eight)

Banker Links Politicians, Slumlords

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—A slumlord exist when the national interest have been getting away with violations because of public spatly, lenient courts and "political accommodation." James Bent, chairman of the Hartford Federal Savings and Loan Association, said slumlords have been getting away with violations because of public spatly, lenient courts and "political accommodation." Clamping down on violators would put politicians in an uncomfortable position because they would be "face to face with some of the voters who put them in office or with owners of non-conforming properties who help foot their campaign costs," he said. Some Hartford slumlords are years behind in their city taxes, Bent told a gathering of Hartford area real estate brokers. Bent, who headed a housing investigation by the Greater Hartford Chamber of Commerce, compiled a list of 20 landlords who he said were in violation of the law. He did not read any of the names, however. HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — (See Page Eight)

Withdrawal More Graceful Than Winning By a Nose

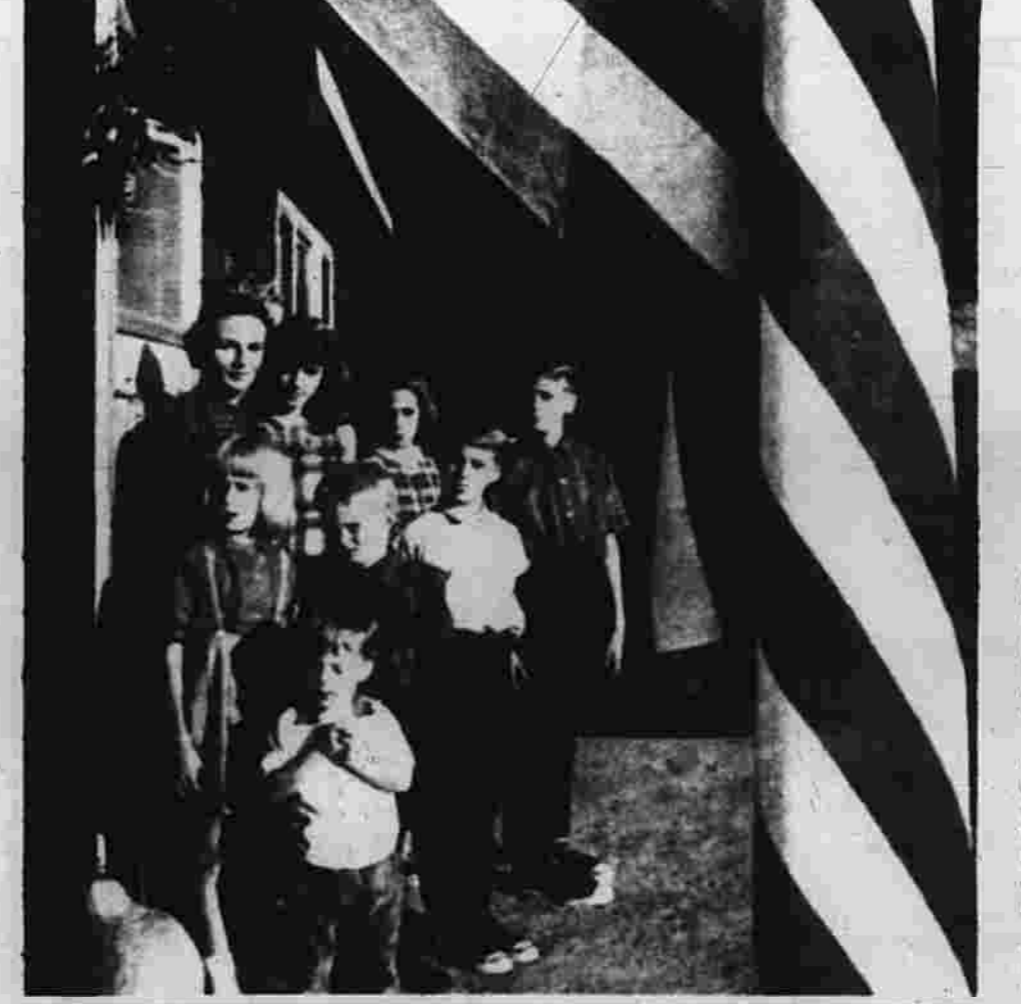

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's Republican, Sen. George D. Aiken, don't know where you all got such a thing. Somebody else said that to me. President Nixon would not have dreamed the thing up. When then asked whether he anticipated asking that the nomination be withdrawn, Haynesworth said he would not. "I don't think I would want to get confirmed to live it down," he said. "I don't think I would want to get confirmed to live it down," he said. "I don't think I would want to get confirmed to live it down," he said. (See Page Four)

Mother of 7 Holds Hope By One Thin Thread of Tape

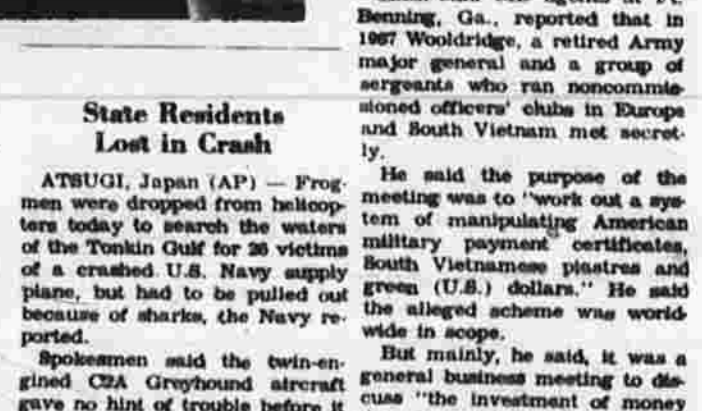

ALLOWAY, N.J. (AP) — The hope that Maj. Joseph S. Abbott is still alive is a thin thread of magnetic tape containing a recording which Joan Abbott and five-acre farm in Alloway in Salem County. The youngest of her seven children believe is his. They were in a North Vietnam prison camp. There is no other proof that Maj. Abbott is still alive, but Mrs. Abbott said, "I told one of war's voice which she believes is her husband. He was shot down in his P-50C over North Vietnam." (See Page Two)

Senior Senator Sees 40,000 More GIs Leaving War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George D. Aiken, the Senate's senior Republican, predicted today a new troop withdrawal of 40,000 men from Vietnam before Christmas, when they asked his position, that he remains uncommitted. Haynesworth denied reports that he had sought to have his nomination withdrawn. "I did not think about such a reporter who asked whether he would break the new Democratic party. The deputies of the Free Democratic Party (FDP) and the Social Democratic Party (SPD) would break the new Democratic party. (See Page Twelve)

State Residents Lost in Crash

ATWOLI, Japan (AP) — Progress was made today in the search for the wreckage of a crashed U.S. Navy supply plane, but had to be pulled out because of bad weather, the Navy reported. Spokesmen said the twin-engine C-47 Greenback aircraft gave no hint of trouble before it was plunged into the Gulf off the coast of Vietnam Thursday. It was on a routine flight carrying mail and supplies from Oahu Point in the Philippines to an aircraft carrier Constellation. A three-man investigating board was convened at Oahu Point, near Subic Bay. A tanker aircraft and two destroyers, dispatched to the crash site 16 miles from the reported sighting wreckage had no sign of the five crewmen and 21 passengers. ### Sheinwold on Bridge

BRIDGE DETECTIVE
SHEINWOLD ASKED
By ALFRED SHEINWOLD
"Wake up, Watson," Sherlock Holmes said irritably. "You've slept through one of the best-kept crimes of the year." And the great detective strolled toward the door of the Baker Street Bridge Club. The good doctor left his comfortable chair in great bewilderment. He had been wide awake, but hadn't noticed any crime.

North-South vulnerable. Opening lead—Ten of hearts. West led the ten of hearts, and South won with the ace. Declarer drew two rounds of trumps with the ace and king, cashed the top diamonds, and then got out with a low heart.

East cashed the jack and king of hearts and then pondered his next move for a long time. East finally returned the three of clubs.

South put up the jack of clubs, West covered with the queen. South dived with the king. If the declarer returned a low club from dummy and won a trick with the ten of clubs, the defenders would get two club tricks instead of only one.

Daily Question
As doctor, you hold: Spades, 8-3; Hearts, K-Q-8-4; Diamonds, 7-6-4; Clubs, A-7-3. What do you say?

Answer: Pass. The hand is not quite worth an opening bid. If your clubs were A-Q-3 instead of A-7-3, the hand would be worth a bid of one heart.

Nude Dancers Win Acquittals

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Two bottomless dancers were acquitted yesterday of lewd conduct.

A jury of 10 men and 2 women deliberated about 12 hours before deciding on innocent verdicts for dancers Susanne Haines and Sheila Glancy, both 22, who performed nude at the Pink Pussy Kat bar.

Also acquitted was Leonard Glancy, 30, owner of the bar. Each on girl was charged with two counts of indecent exposure and lewd and dissolute conduct. Glancy was charged with soliciting for such behavior.

The trial lasted more than five weeks. During that time, the court of Municipal Judge Earl Warren Jr. traveled to the Pink Pussy Kat to watch Miss Haines dance nude; to a night club to see San Francisco topless dancer Carol Dorn perform; and to a theater to see a controversial Swedish film with explicit sex scenes.

Defense attorney Ronald Byrnie said this was necessary to give the jury guidelines for what has and what has not been accepted as community standards in California.

In his closing argument, Byrnie told the jury that to convict the defendants, he would have to find that the dances: —involved "conduct substantially beyond community standards."

—That they were "utterly without redeeming social value."

—And that they "appealed predominantly to a shameful or morbid interest in sex or nudity."

That, in effect, is the basic legal definition of obscenity in California.

But Deputy Dist. Atty. Kenneth Hake argued that "this is a crime and must be handled like a crime."

Conviction would have brought jail terms of up to six months and a fine of $500 on each of the counts. Also, the girls would have been required to register as sex offenders.

Glancy said he planned to resume bottomless dancing at the tavern. He said business has been booming anyway.

Miss Haines is a tall, slender redhead. Miss Trenchum is shorter and has blonde hair.

The trial began on Aug. 26. Warren is the son of the former U.S. Chief Justice.

been right or wrong in Vietnam, from the political, diplomatic, or moral point of view does not seem to worry or bother Mr. Acheson.

It does bother him that the half million troops we threw into the war there did not win it, and did not win it because our military leadership was over-optimistic, and tricked him with its over-optimism into going along with the Johnson Administration policy.

Of such a stance, two things might be said.

It is indeed obvious that nothing falls like failure. In other words, Mr. Acheson is not the only one who has turned toward regret for our Vietnam policies only because they have not happened to us.

Secondly, it ought to be put into words — not to convert Mr. Acheson from his distinguished cynicism, at this late stage in his life, but to post a possible truth to which younger and more important people might look — that the importance of the moral position cannot be eliminated quite as conveniently as Mr. Acheson would like.

What would Mr. Acheson say if someone began advancing the possibility that one very big reason why our military could be wrong about their military chances in Vietnam was precisely because we were engaged in a course of action in which our own moral justification and our own violation of principles we had ourselves followed in other comparable situations had made us weak?

Push and nonsense, he would probably say, and proceed to reduce the war in Vietnam to a matter of the deployment of divisions, the treachery of the terrain, the difficulty of attaining clear decision over a guerrilla enemy.

But after he got through arguing everything from the pragmatic, non-principled point of view, one would still have the right to claim the presence of some intangibles in the Vietnam conflict, and the right to claim that these intangibles — such namely-pamby things as principle and morality — have upset practical military odds many times before in world history.

We have no instinct to try to force Mr. Acheson to turn around, embrace his steps, and come to a moment when he might face the issue of the war in Vietnam by asking first not whether he thinks we can win it, but whether it is right or wrong. But there has to be hope lines about the victor is that he campaigned vigorously in favor of United States withdrawal from Vietnam by 1970, for the diversion of military funds to urban problems, and against the deployment of the antiballistic missile system, campaign stunts which make it possible for national observers to interpret the Harrington campaign as a setback for the Nixon Administration.

Quite possibly, however, it may have been other less publicized elements in the Harrington career and campaign which contributed most significantly to his victory among his north of Boston neighbors.

Harrington was a candidate who was considered something of a dangerous risk because of his avoidance of normal backslapping and wooing of pressure groups and his addition to candor.

When, during the campaign, he was told that some of his views were not being well received, his answer was "Well, that is more than you can say about my opponent."

Although a Roman Catholic, State Senator Harrington sponsored, successfully, legislation to liberalize the Massachusetts birth control laws.

He also sponsored a measure that repealed a loyalty oath law for teachers and state employees.

After his victory, he said that the best lines of the campaign had been delivered by his wife, who had said "All our wealth is in books and tennis balls."

He's only 33, a little young to run for the Presidency.

But it's not without potential significance that Democratic National Chairman Fred Harris, a Senator from Oklahoma, happened to be on hand in the victory headquarters of this new young Irish-name Massachusetts "vegeter", suited to his place as the victor, as in, as a "New Democratic star."

Still Loyal To His Non-Principle

In his latest discussion of the war in Vietnam, former Secretary of State Dean Acheson has remained true to his own most cherished principle — or perhaps it should be called a non-principle — that should be stated in its simplest terms: He still believes that morality has no place in the decisions of a great and powerful nation.

Therefore his only regret about his support of our involvement in Vietnam is that he now finds that he was misled by our military's estimate of our chances of a military victory there.

To the Editor,

The Northeast office of Child and Family Service at 210 Main St. Manchester offers help to people in a wide area. However, more than one thing has troubled the clients here in Manchester.

As chairman of the Manchester Auxiliary I urge everyone to give generously to the United Fund. Manchester residents look to Child and Family Service for help with marital and family counseling, for assistance to unruly parents, for adoption and for foster home placement.

The Manchester Auxiliary members voluntarily give many hours of service. All of us, let's give the United Way.

Sincerely,

In Its 23rd Year

To the Editor,

The opening of school signifies the end of the summer and the start of the school year. Among other things, Halloween, October 31st, which has been declared National UNICEF Day by the President of the United States.

On that day several million children will become partners in an international program of assistance to needy children of other parts of the world by ringing doorbells to "Trick or Treat for UNICEF."

A word or two might be addressed to the adults of the community so that they understand more fully what this appeal for pennies, nickels, and dimes represents. The United States Children's Fund (UNICEF), now in its 23rd year, acts to stimulate and assist governments to plan for their future generations by servicing their children now. UNICEF has the nearly 500 projects in 118 countries in the fields of health, nutrition, education and family welfare.

The form of UNICEF aid is not in cash but in supplies, equipment, training fellowships and technical advice so that child-care programs can be undertaken and implemented by the assisted countries themselves.

Several basic principles underlie this work: The United Nations Children's Fund is non-political and takes no sides in political disputes. It believes that a hungry or sick child should be cared for without regard to the ideology of his government. Moreover, a country must request UNICEF assistance on a program and commit itself to contribute from its own resources an average of 2 1/2 times the amount UNICEF can commit toward carrying out the work. All governments are convinced that one of their greatest resources is their children, and that strong, healthy, educated youth are the assurance of good citizens for the future.

The Halloween collections sponsored by the U.S. Committee for UNICEF are an important source of income for the Children's Fund, raising $1 million in 1968, and UNICEF's greeting card sales are another valuable contribution. The growing support of American citizens for these programs and thus for UNICEF is abundant testimony that we intend to play our responsible part in meeting the needs of the world today and tomorrow.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Carl Lingenfelter,
Comm. State Representative for UNICEF

Tollard
GOP To Open Headquarters At Old Edgerton Homestead

Local Republicans have selected one of Tollard's "grand old homes" as the political headquarters for the Grand Old Party.

The Republicans will open their official headquarters at the former Edgerton homestead at 1030 Edgerton Rd., Edgerton, N.H., on Monday morning at 10:30. Tours of the old house will be conducted by First Selectman candidate Charles Ramondo and Democrat candidate Robert L. DuMont until 2 p.m.

The opening ceremonies will be marked by the cutting of a ribbon by First Selectman Ernest Vik, while all the Republican candidates remain on hand to meet the public. Refreshments will be served.

The Cape Cod home, familiar to many in the area, was built in 1720. The house has a center chimney plan, incorporating a fireplace in the parlor, including an original beehive oven. The mortar used in the fireplace is made of clay with animal hair, the earliest type of mortar used in the United States.

An added attraction is a butternut-type stairway with a heart door at the top.

Selectmen's Meeting

During the Selectmen's meeting earlier this week, the board agreed to increase the Blue Cross coverage for town employees from $10,000 to $20,000. A letter from the State Board of Education notifying the town that a number of circumstances have made it impossible to do this year's budget for the school building projects by the October date promised was read.

The earliest time these payments can be expected is January, according to the State Board, necessitating the temporary financing of the school building projects now under way.

4-H Committee Meets

The Tolland 4-H Town Committee will meet Monday night at 8 at the TAC Building. A report on the local low fair will be made, and plans for the annual achievement program will be discussed.

Kindergarten Assistants

Assisting mothers at the Tolland Co-Operative kindergarten next week are Monday, Mrs. Richard Gallagher, Mrs. Fred and Mrs. Koller; Wednesday, Mrs. Charles Gray, Mrs. Richard Koffman, and Friday, Mrs. Edward Koster, Mrs. Frances LaPorte.

School Lunches

Hot lunches in all local schools next week are: Monday, Bologna cup, spaghetti, bread, corn, carrot sticks; Tuesday, ham, butter, ice cream; Wednesday, spaghetti with meat sauce, buttered green beans, cheese sauce, bread and butter; Thursday, turkey on a stick, mashed potatoes, buttered peas, bread and butter, cranberry sauce, chocolate sundae; Friday, hot dog on a roll, buttered green beans, carrot sticks, home fries (high school), relatin with fruit; Friday, corn and potato chowder, toasted cheese sandwich, peanut butter sandwich, carrot sticks, merry berry cake.

PTA Teacher Organizes

The Parent Teacher Organization has announced the sponsorship of a bus to the Mansfield Children's Theater performance if that school administration. However, the show will be held at the E. O. Smith auditorium in Storrs instead of the College Theater.

The first presentation will be Robin Hood, scheduled for Oct. 11 at 2 p.m. Parents interested in transportation provided by the PTO are requested to contact Mrs. Ethel James or Mrs. Daniel McCarthy. The cost per child for all four school programs is $1 including transportation from the Hicks school parking lot to the theater and return.

Other plays scheduled in the series are "Are There Alligators in the City of New York Sewers?" on Nov. 18; "Snow White" Jan. 10 and "Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," March 15.

Sing Out Group Resumes

The Tolland Sing Out Group will resume its rehearsals Wednesday nights from 7 until 9 in the Tolland High School cafeteria.

The group, sponsored by the Tolland Junior Women's Club, is open to all interested young people from age 13 on.

The group rehearses under the leadership of Mrs. Madeline Malbury, a high school music teacher, and features both singers and instrumentalists.

Formed in March of this year, the group has already performed in the Junior Women's Show, the VFW Monument Dedication services and participated in the Tolland High School Memorial to hear the national Sing Out concert.

Drive

Mrs. Robert D. King and Timothy Jones will serve as co-chairmen of the annual Red Cross Drive in Tolland.

St. Matthew's Church

St. Matthew's Church has announced the formation of a Scholarship Committee for the express purpose of assisting graduates of Tolland High School to continue his education at college.

Heralding Politics
By Sol R. Cohen

When the 1967 General Assembly amended the state election laws to provide for municipal elections in even numbered years, its intent was to create more interest and activity in local elections.

The intent appears to have been frustrated at the intersection of E. Center St. Middle Tpk., Woodbridge St., when equipment was being moved from the Lawrence Rd. Firehouse.

Whatever happened to DeWitt? Mayor Nathan Agostinelli to cut down on permits for new gas stations?

Whatever happened to the quarterly reviews of Manchester's fiscal picture, instituted and apparently abandoned by the Board of Directors?

And, whatever happened to the monthly reports on Manchester tax receipts?

Perhaps things will pick up next year. In the meantime, the voters on Nov. 4 will be electing a new board of directors.

The present Board of Directors should be labeled a "lame duck" board, for its meeting on Tuesday night will be its last. A new board will be elected on Nov. 4 and will be sworn in on Nov. 11.

The board's agenda, Tuesday night, will include the election of the majority Republicans and the minority Democrats follow the pattern of the past three years — agreement on almost every action.

Both candidates for town clerk, incumbent Democrat Edward Tomkiele and Republican William Murray, issued statements today, each denying that it will be strictly advisory.

Tomkiele said that if he is elected, he will take a working position with the new Manchester State Bank. He said that whatever position he fills will be in a non-paying capacity and that it will be strictly advisory.

Neither has been seen since. Despite an air and sea search, the Coast Guard found no trace of the craft. The search was called off Wednesday.

Hoffa Faces Another 18 Months in Prison

WASHINGTON (AP) — James R. Hoffa, once counted among the nation's most powerful labor leaders, faces at least another year-and-a-half behind bars of a federal prison following rejection of his plea for parole.

Hoffa, who has served two years and eight months of an eight year conviction for jury tampering, lost his bid for early release Thursday when the U.S. Parole Board rejected his bid. The board said it would reconsider his case in March 1971.

Hoffa, a stocky, defiant figure, has been in the federal penitentiary since he was charged with the government seizure under the Kennedy administration, was continued during the Johnson administration and still are going on, is in the Lewisburg, Pa., federal prison.

He entered there in late 1967 after failing in his attempts to overturn a 1964 conviction on charges of tampering with a real estate deal. He was sentenced to three years in prison, and a $10,000 fine. He had to run consecutively with his present sentence.

While in prison the 66-year-old Hoffa has continued as president of the Teamsters, leaving direction of the union to Teamsters Vice President Frank Fitzsimmons. The union re-elected Hoffa to a five-year term in 1968 before he entered prison. In 1968, while in jail, Hoffa was re-elected president of his home local in Detroit.

Hoffa would have been eligible for parole Nov. 6, one-third of the way through his jury tampering sentence. His lawyers still maintain both his convictions were obtained with illegal wiretap evidence. He was denied freedom on bail this spring pending determination if the alleged wiretapping had violated civil rights.

While in prison, Hoffa has been described as taking life like a soldier, asking no favors, although the former convict friend who provided the description, said imprisonment is boistering him, but he won't admit it.

Each February since he entered Lewisburg, friends and family have sent Hoffa birthday greetings in the form of a streamer attached to the tail of an airplane which circles above the prison.

In Detroit, Mrs. Hoffa, their son James P. and Princess, a part-Celtic mongrel, still live in the house Hoffa purchased for $6,800 in 1959. She visits Hoffa each month, writes him three or four letters a week.

While her husband is in prison, said Mrs. Hoffa in a recent interview, "I'm living on hope and prayers."

Massachusetts' Harrington

Up in the State Congressional District of Massachusetts the other day, in special election, a Democratic candidate won a seat which had been held by the Republicans continuously since 1878.

Doing so, the Democratic victor, State Representative Michael Harrington, had to defeat a name famous in Bay State politics. His opponent was State Senator William L. Ballantyne, son of the former United States Senator.

Curiously as to how this could happen leads in two directions. First, it seems the verdict of Massachusetts observers that the young Ballantyne was not offering very much more than a name, that even the small Republican towns failed to get out a very impressive vote for him.

Second, the search for explanation leads toward the character, practices, and campaign of the winner, State Representative Harrington.

What has been mainly in the headlines about the victor is that he campaigned vigorously in favor of United States withdrawal from Vietnam by 1970, for the diversion of military funds to urban problems, and against the deployment of the antiballistic missile system, campaign stunts which make it possible for national observers to interpret the Harrington campaign as a setback for the Nixon Administration.

Quite possibly, however, it may have been other less publicized elements in the Harrington career and campaign which contributed most significantly to his victory among his north of Boston neighbors.

Harrington was a candidate who was considered something of a dangerous risk because of his avoidance of normal backslapping and wooing of pressure groups and his addition to candor.

When, during the campaign, he was told that some of his views were not being well received, his answer was "Well, that is more than you can say about my opponent."

Although a Roman Catholic, State Senator Harrington sponsored, successfully, legislation to liberalize the Massachusetts birth control laws.

He also sponsored a measure that repealed a loyalty oath law for teachers and state employees.

After his victory, he said that the best lines of the campaign had been delivered by his wife, who had said "All our wealth is in books and tennis balls."

He's only 33, a little young to run for the Presidency.

But it's not without potential significance that Democratic National Chairman Fred Harris, a Senator from Oklahoma, happened to be on hand in the victory headquarters of this new young Irish-name Massachusetts "vegeter", suited to his place as the victor, as in, as a "New Democratic star."

Constraints of Mobility

As the mobility of goods, services, capital, business enterprise, technology, and labor increases, the mobility of people will be increasingly difficult to manage. The mobility of people is increasingly threatened. In the high international mobility, the national mobility — becomes outmoded in the realm of economic policy, at least under the rules and conventions of international behavior that the major industrial countries have adopted. This is the internal contradiction in the present arrangements — a contradiction that was far less evident 20 years ago than it is today.

The tension between high mobility and divergent regional policies should be familiar especially to Americans, for parallel development has taken place within the United States and is moving further advanced. I attribute growing Federal transmission on matters historically reserved to the states less to a power grab by aggressive Federal bureaucrats than to the severe constraints on state action that are imposed by high interstate mobility. These constraints are well illustrated by the early attempts by states, immediately before and after the turn of the century, to regulate corporate financial structure and disclosure for the protection of the public. Far-ranging regulations were put in force in Massachusetts, Illinois, and several other states. But they were short-lived. Under the U.S. Constitution free state must be honored in others. As the costs of transportation and communications fell, firms gained greater freedom in their choice of location. Moreover, firms could incorporate in states by maintaining only nominal operations there. Under these circumstances, state regulations were not compatible with high mobility and absence of restrictions on trade. In self defense, states competed in relaxing the burdens they placed on incorporation. State regulation failed and the task was ultimately taken over in the 1930s by the Federal Securities and Exchange Commission.

The more recent history of state attempts at corporate taxation is similar. High state taxes would result in an exodus of firms. In competition with each other for business, the states are thus forced to relax their attempts to increase revenues, and some states are now pressing for uniform state taxation. The rock is there, and the water is rising. Air and water pollution control represent still other areas where Federal involvement is necessarily increasing, and for similar reasons. — RICHARD N. ### Coventry Peoria, Ill., Man Gets Manager Post

Dennis P. Moore, now the administrative assistant to the city manager of Peoria, Ill., has been selected for the post of town manager in Coventry. He said last night he would accept the position if he were elected.

The eight candidates will be narrowed down to a seven-man group by the time he arrives on Nov. 5, he will be called for the selection of the town manager. Moore will be administrative assistant since there is no provision for a manager until the charter takes effect on Nov. 8, the day following the town election.

Moore was the unanimous choice of the eight Town Council candidates, who last night voted to select Moore as their choice of candidates, who last night would spend a month of intensive work on this major issue, which will insure a smooth transition to the new form of government.

Starting Sept. 10 with nine applicants for the position, Moore's qualifications seem to stack up with what the candidates and the transition committee had in mind, and the eight candidates agreed that they ended up with two or three excellent choices after the interviews they conducted.

Head for Antarctica Women To Break Ice Of Last Male Bastion

By ELIZABETH SHELFON
The Washington Post
SKYLAND, Va.—For the first time a team of American women scientists will fly to Antarctica to dig out the secrets of the last male bastion.

Four members on an Ohio State team, headed by a geologist, Dr. Lois M. Jones will fly to Antarctica on the icebreaker ship, the Agassiz, on Oct. 16 to spend three months exploring the so-called "dry valleys" of Victoria Land near McMurdo Station, some 800 miles from the south pole.

At the same time, two other women scientists will participate in the austral (summer) research as members of husband-wife teams. One of these is German born Dr. Christine Muller-Schwartz, of Utah State University who will help her husband, Dr. Dietrich Muller-Schwartz, study the behavior of penguins toward the leopard seals and gull-like skua birds that devour their eggs and chicks.

A New Zealand couple also will join the project, known as the U.S. Antarctic Research Program, operated by the National Science Foundation and supported by the U.S. Navy's Operation Deep Freeze.

The women, interviewed at Skyland while here for a series of briefings, emphasize that they are going as scientists, not as females, to the last geographic frontier that has persisted as a male stronghold. Yet they are excited at the prospect of breaking the Antarctic ice for fellow women scientists.

They will not, however, be the first women to visit Antarctica. Before and during the 1950s, Russian women scientists, women members of the Flin Ronne expedition party even Dr. Ann American Airways stewardesses accompanying a planeload of Navy men to the pole.

There have been women journalists, paying as much as $6,000 in fare to voyage to McMurdo about 1,000 miles from the Maggy Dan. "And that's all-time maximum will never be the same again," the National Geographic commented.

"It's about time they try to do it," Jones said. "For three years I have begged and borrowed poor samples. Now they have the chance to do much better research on much better samples." She was told previously she could not go because of the lack of accommodations. Now that problem apparently has been solved.

She and her teammates will pick up their heavy research gear from McMurdo to Taylor and then to Wright Valley where they will set up their tents and hike into the field for projects taking as many as five days away from the base camp.

result of chemical weathering, that it is a result of the breakdown of the structure of the minerals in the rocks rather than deriving from the salty sea spray or products of volcanic activity.

NASA is interested in her project because the dry valleys simulate the environment of Mars. What Dr. Jones learns about the crust of the earth from the history trapped in its downfrozen refrigerator may help in eventually putting an earthman on the red planet.

To study the penguins and their predators, Dr. Muller-Schwartz will help her husband, Dr. Dietrich Muller-Schwartz, study the behavior of penguins toward the leopard seals and gull-like skua birds that devour their eggs and chicks.

At present there are 28 clients at the workshop, which outgrew its first quarters at the Bunce Center on Olcott St. two years ago and is now housed in the basement of the Board of Education building on School St.

Asked what job she held before this one she says, "I was a parent's job which is a very special job in relation to retarded adults an affectionate, respectful approach is particularly important. Encouragement, praise and patience are the techniques which the workshop staff help their clients to become productive adults."

Asked if she has experienced moments of discouragement in her job, Mrs. Sullivan replies with surprise that she has never been discouraged. Her clients have never ceased to amaze her; she is more proud of them every day.

Course Offered On Child Care

Dr. David C. Payne, assistant professor of child development and family relations at the University of Connecticut, will conduct a course on "The Child-Infant through Eight Years" at the Academy of Faith and Life on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at Ithaca Junior High School.

The academy, sponsored by five Manchester churches, will be held on consecutive Thursdays and is open to the public. The Rev. Eric Gotberg of Emanuel Lutheran Church will teach a course on "Contemporary Short Films." Registration for both courses may be made by contacting Mrs. Carroll Nelson, 24 Sunset St.

Dr. Payne's course will include "Child Rearing Patterns and Discipline"; "Intellectual and Creative Development"; "Moral and Religious Development"; "Pre-school and Grade School Adjustment"; and "The Eight Year Old: Past and Future."

Churches sponsoring the Academy are North and South United Methodist Churches, Emanuel Lutheran Church and Center and Second Congregational Churches.

Smiles were the order of the day for representatives of the Manchester Education Association, school administration, and Board of Education yesterday afternoon, when signatures were affixed to the teachers' contract for the current school year.

Techniques used to instruct students in business and vocational preparation. Cooperating with the program are all public and parochial schools, Howell Elementary Technical School, and Manchester Community College.

Jeffrey Keith of Keith Real Estate Co. of Manchester is president of the Business-Education Day committee headed by Mrs. Edward Kaminsky. He will be assisted by Dr. Fred D. Mangum, director of Howell Technical School.

The purpose of the Business-Education Day is to acquaint representatives from the business and industrial community with the most up-to-date educational methods and techniques used in town centers of learning, particularly those of the young people at the meeting.

MHS Warriors Trampled Twice

Manchester High's cross country team put up a good fight last Friday, but lost to Maloney by a point.

The MHS cross-country team, despite fine running, was defeated recently by both Maloney and Bristol Central. The MHS warriors were barely edged by Maloney High last Friday on their home course by the margin of a single point, even though Steve Gates '71 of Manchester broke the school record for the 2.8 mile course, and finished first in a time of 19 minutes 23 seconds. Also scoring for Manchester were Greg Nolan, '71, Larry Kahn, '70, Jim Burke, '70 and Gerry Magno, '72. The team hopes to average 22:15 in what they meet Maloney later this year in the CXCII Field Day. A powerful Bristol Central team edged out the MHS runners in a close 20:27 contest held in Bristol on Tuesday. The team ran well but was simply overpowered by the always steady Bristol Central runners. Steve Gates ran a strong race to capture second place, making this the first time in two years that Bristol did not take the first three positions in a dual meet. Gates was followed by Greg Nolan, Larry Kahn, Ed Nelson, '70, and Bob Swishak '70. The coach of the Bristol team was so impressed by the MHS team that he especially commended them on their fine running and sportsmanship. As the season enters the second half, the team hopes to better its 2:2 record at a meet against Bristol Eastern. All details have been half-line decisions. The meet will be held on the Manchester course Tuesday.

South African Life Parallel to Ours

It's quite amazing how quickly a person is not only able to adjust to a new situation, but to become a part of a family, friends, school and work. The social life of the South African teen-ager is similar to that of the U.S. teen-ager. One major difference is that they don't start early dating. They are not as heavily into the "steady" as we are. They are also more into the "party" scene. They are also more into the "party" scene. They are also more into the "party" scene.

Legion of Honor

"Participate, Baby! Why sit around, and let everyone else have the fun. That's no way to go to school."

Greg Vincek, or Tanaka as he is known in the football locker room, has done just that. He has participated and received the benefits.

Greg's drive and ambition have helped him become this year's co-captain of the varsity football team. On last year's team he was named All-CXCII defensive tackle because of his strength, skill and competitive attitude.

Serving as an assistant coach for the Midget Football League being a Little League umpire, and a member of the Manchester Fire Department have strengthened his convictions of "trying to be better than the other guy (in a nice way)."

Greg admires a person with a sense of humor. "Fun-loving, awesome and unique" are how he considers himself, and he wants, "people to like me." In August of this year, he worked at Misquamicutt, calling it an "unforgettable experience."

He likes food, pre-wrestling, and roller skating. "The Paper Lion", "BC", and "Tumbleweeds" and "Jim Hendrix, while he finds no favor for labors and put-ons.

Football has played an important part for him at MHS. ("It's a great school"), and he keeps a pass and running it back for a T.D." and on such football greats as Ernie "Big Cat" Ladd.

On the field and off, Greg Vincek will be remembered as a "tiger among men."

New Teacher

A graduate of East Catholic High and a local resident all her life, Miss Marie Petrone has made the "big switch" and come over to MHS, teaching Pools I and Sewing I.

"Manchester High is such a different experience from ECHS, it's such a large school. It came here because this is my hometown and I was interested in getting to know Manchester students." In addition to teaching Miss Petrone also serves MHS in another time-consuming and important capacity. Because she was an "Easter" majorite and because of her interest in all sports, she is the new cheerleading advisor. "I love working with the girls."

Miss Petrone continued her education at Saint Joseph's College in West Hartford, majoring in home economics education.

East vs. Manchester?
 What is going to happen between East Catholic High School and Manchester High School regarding programs? The question that many people is asking is still unanswered and will be for some time.

Recently, I talked with Coach Paul Phinney of East Catholic and Coach Paul Phinney of Manchester. Coach Phinney of East Catholic is a former head coach of Manchester and is now at East Catholic. Coach Phinney of Manchester is a former head coach of East Catholic and is now at Manchester.

Both coaches are looking for a way to work out a deal. Coach Phinney of East Catholic is looking for a way to get Manchester to play at East Catholic. Coach Phinney of Manchester is looking for a way to get East Catholic to play at Manchester.

Eagles Home Saturday, Indians on Road

Northwest Here, Platt Hosts Tribe

Both local high schools, East Catholic and Manchester, resume football action Saturday as the Eagles host Northwest Catholic in a Hartford County Conference game at Platt High at 1:30.

East enters Saturday's game with a 1-1 record as Northwest brings a 1-2 mark into the contest. The visitors are led by veteran signal-caller Tom Callahan. He has an experienced line in front of him, including Joe Anderson, Jeff Jacqui, Steve Courtney and Larry O'Connor. Running in the halfback position are Chuck Hardings and Perry McPeck. Bob Boyd, a 7-3 mark and best lineman, will be on hand as well as winner Perry McPeck.

Last year Northwest completed an undefeated season, winning 10 games and losing one. The team was led by head coach Steve Smokey Boutwell.

An added attraction for Sunday's show will be a display of sky diving and precision parachute jumping on the infield.

Local Menu Offers Fine Grid Games
 JOHN WIGGIN

Who wants to leave a claim that New England football fans don't have a choice of college football? It's take a choice proposition Saturday with a full card on the local menu. Fans have a selection of major college games or those among so-called small colleges, often misnamed.

But who cares about ratings as long as the competition looks stiff? Everything appears tough this week.

Harvard, a 1-0 winner over Holy Cross in last year's game, is home against Boston University, fourth-ranked after convincing victories over Colgate and Vermont.

Boston College, a 2-1-1 victor over Navy, gets its second chance to show power against Williams at Tulane at BC Stadium. The Eagles have a potentially awesome attack led by quarterback Frank Harris and halfback Fred White, but must show it.

Dartmouth, rebounding after last season's loss to Yale, is back in the New England ranks. The Indians rolled over New Hampshire in an opener, but should face a strong test against Ivy League rival, Dartmouth.

Other choice games include the New England schedule Saturday night on the radio. Dartmouth at Rhode Island, Northeastern at Vermont, Norwich at Coast Guard and in a real one game New Hampshire at Connecticut.

The New Hampshire Wildcats, stunned by Dartmouth, invade Connecticut for a showdown of the defending co-champions in the Yankee Conference. Connecticut is a power after defeating Yale 49-10 in the Bowl for the second straight victory. The Yale attempt to bounce back against Dartmouth, which rebounded in an overwhelming victory over Cornell.

Massachusetts will lose to Maine survivors. Its loss to Massachusetts was a 21-14 victory over Southern Connecticut, and now takes on Rhode Island, led by Temple and then a 21-0 loss to Suffolk.

Northeastern seeks a third straight victory at Vermont, while Norwich, a surprising 1-0 victor over American International, invades Coast Guard, loser of two in a row.

In other games, Brown is at Penn as Ivy League opener, and Colby plays at Tufts.

The rest of the New England schedule includes: American International at Amherst, International at Worcester Tech, Trinity at Bates, Wesleyan at Bowdoin, Williams at Bridgewater State, Brockport State at Middlebury, Southern Connecticut at Drexel, Central Connecticut at Bradley, and Middlebury at Springfield at Albright (night), and Curry at Montclair State (night).

Harvard, a 1-0 winner over Holy Cross in last year's game, is home against Boston University, fourth-ranked after convincing victories over Colgate and Vermont.

Boston College, a 2-1-1 victor over Navy, gets its second chance to show power against Williams at Tulane at BC Stadium. The Eagles have a potentially awesome attack led by quarterback Frank Harris and halfback Fred White, but must show it.

Dartmouth, rebounding after last season's loss to Yale, is back in the New England ranks. The Indians rolled over New Hampshire in an opener, but should face a strong test against Ivy League rival, Dartmouth.

Other choice games include the New England schedule Saturday night on the radio. Dartmouth at Rhode Island, Northeastern at Vermont, Norwich at Coast Guard and in a real one game New Hampshire at Connecticut.

The New Hampshire Wildcats, stunned by Dartmouth, invade Connecticut for a showdown of the defending co-champions in the Yankee Conference. Connecticut is a power after defeating Yale 49-10 in the Bowl for the second straight victory. The Yale attempt to bounce back against Dartmouth, which rebounded in an overwhelming victory over Cornell.

Massachusetts will lose to Maine survivors. Its loss to Massachusetts was a 21-14 victory over Southern Connecticut, and now takes on Rhode Island, led by Temple and then a 21-0 loss to Suffolk.

Northeastern seeks a third straight victory at Vermont, while Norwich, a surprising 1-0 victor over American International, invades Coast Guard, loser of two in a row.

In other games, Brown is at Penn as Ivy League opener, and Colby plays at Tufts.

Giants Defense Holds Own, Browns Favored over Lions

NEW YORK (AP)—Green Bay may run into its first loss Sunday at Minnesota but Los Angeles, Dallas and Cleveland, and other unbeatens in the National Football League, should make it three in a row.

Cincinnati, one of the two perfect record clubs in the American Football League, may lose to San Diego today to hand the team its first loss.

Form held up in the NFL last night as the Browns' defense held off the Oilers 14-0 in a game that was overshadowed by a 24-0 victory over the Colts.

Minnesota 20, Green Bay 14—Viking line in series, 11-4 but best Packers twice in the last two games. The Joe Kapp game was a 24-0 victory over Washington. Packers have been hot and the ground game is due to start producing. Packers show more than last year with Norm Snead on beam and Ben Hawkins living defensive carry.

Dallas has too much defense. Los Angeles 24, New Orleans 14—Rams can't afford to take a loss to the Colts. The Chiefs have a fine effort and Andy Livingston running like the once old for Steve Kinney who got the big rush from that Ram.

Collegians Play Three Top Games

Baseball isn't the only sport whose top teams will be opposing one another this weekend. Three college football games involving teams in the Associated Press' Top Twenty poll are on tap Saturday, with one of them a possible advance look at the Rose Bowl.

The clash in Lafayette, La., between eighth-ranked Purdue and 17th-rated Stanford and Rose-Ad State figures to be filled with football when Purdue's Mike Phillips and Stanford's Jim Plunkett start throwing.

The other big contests pit 11th-ranked Missouri against 16th-ranked Michigan, Arthur Mitchell, and Mississippi, rated 20th, against Alabama, No. 19.

Mississippi is a nationally televised game (ABC-TV, 9:30 p.m., EDT).

Florida, No. 12, hosts Florida State in the 1969 season. The Florida State game is scheduled for Saturday night at 7:30 p.m. EDT.

Manager Dark Predicts, 'Mets to Win It All'
 "Everybody's glad the season's over except the manager of the Cleveland Indians Alvin Dark. He predicted that the Cleveland Indians would win the American League pennant and the World Series.

Dark, who has been with the Indians since 1964, said that the team had a chance to win it all. He said that the team had a strong pitching staff and a good batting lineup.

Dark's prediction was based on the team's performance during the season. He said that the team had a strong pitching staff and a good batting lineup.

Asian Golfers Make Move In World Cup Tournament

SINGAPORE (AP)—The Asian bid for supremacy in the 45 team, 80-man tournament to be held in Singapore, the island country club was even more evident in the individual chase for the international trophy.

Hsieh led the individual competition with a sparkling five-under-par 66. He was preceded by Sakue with a 67 and Moody with an identical card.

The veteran De Vicenzo, a member of the two-man Argentine team which captured the first World Cup competition in 1968, was in the clubhouse with a 69. He was matched by Mexico's Cruz.

Moody and Trevino both have experience under Asian conditions. Moody spent 11 of his 18 years in the U.S. Army in Japan and was a three-time winner of the Korean Open. Trevino spent three years with the Army in Asia.

Wrights on Sports Scene Include Sky-High Salaries

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—There's something wrong with a country that rewards an athlete such as quarterback Joe Namath of the New York Jets with a large salary than a leading scientist working on the space program?

The Associated Press managing editor asked that question at the philosophical conference.

"I'm concerned about it," admitted Walter Kennedy, chairman of the National Basketball Association. "We constantly find in our mail letters that ask something wrong with our society when a basketball player gets a million dollars and a scientist gets a few thousand."

"I don't think there's ever going to be an answer," he said. "Player salary demands do concern me," said Lee McCracken, 1-up for the Connecticut. "I don't think there's ever going to be an answer."

Final Day Activities, Mets, Braves Lose

NEW YORK (AP)—Pete Rose, Cincinnati's Charley Hustle who runs almost everywhere, ran to his second consecutive National League batting title while Atlanta's Hank Aaron chose to sit on his final chance to win the home run crown.

Rose had gone 30-for-3 when he came to bat for the last time this season in the ninth inning of the Red Sox victory over Atlanta Thursday night. Runnersup Clemente of Pittsburgh, meanwhile, had gone 20-for-20 in the first round of the batting title race.

Rose, who entered the final frame ahead of Clemente 298-342, admitted "that's the final time in my life I've batted with two men out and the bases empty." He said he was nervous as he stepped into the batter's box.

Red's Rose Wins Batting Title For Second Consecutive Year
 ATLANTA (AP)—Cincinnati's Pete Rose won the National League batting championship for the second straight year Thursday night with a bunt single against Atlanta. He called it "the biggest hit I ever got—not the longest, the biggest."

Rose, who has hit 100 home runs in his career, finished the season with a .344 batting average. He led the league in batting average for the second consecutive year.

Mets Receive Scare, Liner Hits Gentry
 CHICAGO (AP)—The East Division champion New York Mets headed for Atlanta today for their National League championship play-off with the Braves starting Saturday.

Gentry made several practice pitches and declared, "I'm okay."

Manager Gil Hodges asked Gentry if he was sure.

"Yes," confirmed Gentry. "I've got to be sure."

Gentry is scheduled to work the third play-off game at work in Atlanta, in New York Monday. He finished the fourth inning stood there and bled while Wayne Garrett of the Mets and the Mets reached the legal limit of his shoulder.

Orioles vs. Twins For League Title
 BALTIMORE (AP)—"We're trying to accomplish in five games," Earl Weaver said. "Right now previous years it took 162 games or more."

Crows of 45,000 or more are expected for each of the two games in Baltimore, where attendance just eased over the regular season.

Saturday's game between the Orioles and the Twins will start at 1 p.m. EDT, with Sunday's delayed 6:30 p.m., because of a local ordinance.

After winning 109 games, two short of the league record for victories in one season, the Orioles still haven't qualified for the World Series.

Midlet League Play Tonight
 Second week in Manchester Middle League play in slated tonight with the usual doubler under the lights at 7:15.

Seeking second straight triumph will be the Jets (1-0) against the Patriots (0-1) in the nightcap. The Eagles (0-1) and Glaxia (0-1) collide in the opener.

Saturday night the Pony Red Raiders (2-0) will launch their free enterprise in the Charter Oak Conference against Hartford at 7:30 at Nebo.

Wayne said, "Because we're still trying to reach the Series. The World Series becomes important only after 100 or so games."

Conches' Headaches
 Football, still a major problem at Manchester, is also a big headache for many of the area coaches. An article written by the Coaches' Tom Hines states that Buckley's football powerhouse in the Capital District conference, has fielded only 27 players including both the JV and varsity teams. Hartford Public High School, the major one in the Capital City, started out with 48 boys but has dropped off to 12 players.

Heavier Battling Seen Erupting in Viet War

SAIGON (AP) — Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, arrived in Saigon today and predicted a new round of fighting will break the current lull in the war.

Wheeler, making his second visit to the war zone in 2 1/2 months, said he was particularly interested in seeing what progress has been made in turning more combat action over to South Vietnamese forces.

Commenting on reports by the U.S. Command that the level of action is at its lowest point this year, Wheeler said, "I look for it to pick back up. The same thing has happened in the past. The enemy has his cyclic high points and his low points and he is in a low point now because of allied actions."

Wheeler said he expects the Communist command to launch a winter-spring campaign, but he did not predict any limitable. Other military sources here said they thought the campaign might begin in November.

Wheeler was accompanied on the flight from Seoul, Korea, by the U.S. Command's chief of staff, Gen. Douglas Abrams. They had attended a celebration marking the 21st anniversary of the South Korean armed forces.

Wheeler will confer with military and civilian U.S. officials during his stay and visit the field as he did during his last visit July 1962.

In the war, the U.S. Command reported light and scattered ground action but no major battles involving U.S. troops.

South Vietnamese infantrymen reported that 31 enemy soldiers in two fights, one in the Mekong Delta 120 miles southwest of Saigon and other 22 miles northeast of Saigon. South Vietnamese casualties were put at 10 killed and 11 wounded.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported that Viet Cong gunners fired six mortar shells into a populated area 28 miles northwest of Saigon, killing one civilian and wounding three.

Viet Cong forces ambushed an allied jeep Friday on a road five miles east of the provincial capital of Ben Tre, about 40 miles southwest of Saigon, killing two and wounding three.

Loch Ness Puzzle: 'Nessie': A 'Loathly Worme'?

By ROBERT C. TOTH The Los Angeles Times

LOCH NESS, Scotland... The most credible of legendary monsters swims here, in the deep and black waters which fill the geological rift that cleaves the bleak Scottish highlands.

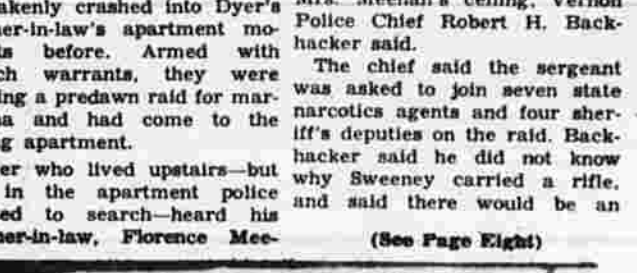

Swimming after it this summer, on the other hand, openly admits its lack of success in this, its eighth year, of waiting for irrefragable proof that Nessie is alive in Loch Ness.

But so far as is known, this most intensive and scientific search for "Nessie" has failed to turn up incontestable proof of her existence.

One of the two search teams involved in a show-by operation, however, and plays things very close to its chest. Sponsored by British commercial television network it refuses even to say why it chose two normally busy weeks in September for the search when 97 per cent of the sightings have come in calm, sunny weather.

The Loch Ness "Nessie" Phenomenon Investigation Bureau, on the other hand, openly admits its lack of success in this, its eighth year, of waiting for irrefragable proof that Nessie is alive in Loch Ness.
