

U.S. Jobless Number Hits 9-Year High

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment in September made its biggest leap in nine years and rose to its highest rate in two years, the Labor Department announced today.

The over-all unemployment rose from 3.5 per cent in August to 4 per cent in September, the largest increase since September-October 1960.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics noted that unemployment normally drops from August to September as young workers return to school—but it failed to drop this year. Unemployment was up 365,000 over the month, with two-fifths of the increase among workers in the 20 to 24 age group.

Total employment in nonfarm categories was 70.8 million in September, an increase of 300,000 over the previous month. With seasonal adjustment, payroll employment was unchanged over the month but would have shown a modest increase except for the effect of the early changeover in auto models.

Although unemployment for nonwhites remained double that of whites, nearly all of the September increase in unemployment took place among the white workers whose rate climbed from 3.2 to 3.6 per cent. The rate for blue collar workers moved from 3.8 to 4.4 per cent, reflecting increased job-

Court Opens: 1 Seat Empty

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court opened a busy new term today with a solemnity in contrast to the stiff fight in the Senate over the nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth.

Following tradition to the letter, the new chief justice, Warren E. Burger, in a strong but low voice declared the new term open and welcomed 85 lawyers to practice before the high court.

Burger's extreme left was a vacant chair—the seat to which President Nixon named Haynsworth.

The 28-minute session began precisely at 10 a.m. with Burger and the seven holdover associate justices entering the courtroom from parted maroon curtains in back of the tall mahogany bench.

"I have the honor to announce the 1969 term of the Supreme Court is now convened," Burger said following the opening invocation.

Unlike most of his colleagues, the new chief justice looked straight ahead without bowing his head at the words: "God save this honorable court."

Then all waited patiently as the new lawyers and their sponsors came forward individually and in groups. Among them were 34 members of the National Association of Women Lawyers.

And, one of the court's most strenuous critics, Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., was on hand to introduce one of the lawyers, James L. M. Cromer of Columbia, S. C.

Burger and his colleagues then adjourned to a week-long series of private conferences on about 600 appeals that have piled up since last spring. The first round of decisions will be announced next Monday.

Later in the term, the court will deal with such controversial matters as the tax exemption of churches, use of the death penalty, the priority induction of

Officer Finds People Aloof

NEW YORK (AP) — On-duty patrolman Alfred Rivera said he held three robbery suspects at gunpoint for 20 minutes Sunday while passersby refused his pleas to summon help.

"They wouldn't even talk to me. No one wanted to be bothered," Rivera said.

Two plainclothesmen came to his aid after he fired his service revolver into the air to keep the three from fleeing, police said.

Rivera, who moonlights as a cab driver, said he was attacked after he drove the two men and a woman to their Bronx destination.

One of the men pointed a pistol at Rivera and the other held a knife to his throat, the policeman said. The pistol was a toy, police discovered later.

"I grabbed the gun from the guy in the back seat, flung the front door open and punched the guy who had the knife," Rivera said. "They all got scared when they saw I had a gun on me."

The patrolman said he "felt like crying" with frustration when passersby continued to refuse aid.

Long: Senate Will Cut Oil Bill Short

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Russell B. Long predicts his Senate Finance Committee will reject efforts to cut the oil depletion allowance—a controversial tax provision which has enhanced Long's income from oil royalties.

The Finance Committee, headed by the Louisiana Democrat, now is considering a House-passed tax reform bill which reduces the depletion allowance from 27½ per cent to 20 per cent.

"I am not going to vote to reduce it, and simply a matter of counting noses would cause me to think that the committee is not going to . . ." Long said in an interview televised Sunday.

A new element was injected into the tax reform debate by disclosure Long has collected in the last 5½ years more than $300,000 in oil royalties which have been free of federal income taxes because of the present 27½ per cent depletion allowance.

Louisiana Mineral Board records show Long has gotten $1,196,915 in royalties on four state leases since January 1964. Under present tax law, 27.5 per cent of gross income from oil, gas and other minerals is exempt from federal income taxes.

Applying the 27.5 per cent figure to Long's known royalty payments means the senator had income of at least $329,152 which was sheltered from the bite of federal income taxes.

Long, who has been identified with the oil industry since he came to the Senate two decades ago, said in an Associated Press interview that "Most of my income is from oil and gas."

"I don't regard it as any conflict of interest," he said. "A long time ago I became convinced that if you have financial interests completely parallel to your state, then you have no problem."

"My state produces more oil and gas per acre than any other state in the Union. If I didn't represent the oil and gas industry, I wouldn't represent the state of Louisiana."

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, appearing Sunday on ABC's "Issues and Answers," was asked about Long's tax-free oil royalties. He responded:

"I think first you have got to look at the time span over which this amount of money has been received by the senator and I think, if I recall, it has been a period of many years. This is not $300,000 in one year or anything of that sort."

"Secondly, I am very sympathetic to the Senator's defense when he says that his state is dependent to a great extent upon the life and the vitality of the oil industry, so that in representing the oil industry he is not representing himself, he is representing his state."

Agnew added, in answer to another question, that he doesn't view the depletion allowance as "a tax loophole to the extent many do . . ."

The depletion allowance came up, too, when Long appeared on Metromedia's "Evans-Novak Report," taped last week for broadcast on Sunday. There was this exchange:

Q . . . Do you favor reduction to 20 per cent?

A. I have said every time

Weary Viet Officer Asks: Why Let More Men Die?

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Army officer headed for a second tour as a battalion commander in Vietnam asked bitterly, "Why should I send men out to be killed?"

This veteran soldier spoke of disillusionment, of pointlessness to a war he sees as going nowhere.

"If we were trying to win, it would be different," he said. "But we're just hanging on."

This infantryman's frustrations and doubts were echoed by other military professionals, all in private conversations. None would be quoted by name.

An admiral whose job gives him a wide-angle view of the military establishment said morale has overtaken money as the No. 1 problem in retaining younger officers.

The erosion of morale seems to be a compound of factors—a war that is essentially a holding action, repeated separations from families and resulting marital turbulence, the surge of antimilitary sentiment in Congress and the country.

The depths of this erosion cannot be measured, but it may be significant that officer resignations have been rising.

Air Force resignations were up nearly 50 per cent in fiscal 1969 over fiscal 1968. In the Army, officer resignations jumped about 14 per cent. The climb was smaller in the Marine Corps and Navy figures showed level, but the Navy is worrying about losing aviators and submariners.

"Many of my contemporaries with 15 and 16 years of service are packing it in," reported one decorated Army lieutenant colonel.

"Pride of profession has kept

Pope Reaffirms His Right To Exclusive Church Rule

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI rejected today the concept of some Roman Catholic bishops and theologians that he, as Pope, does not have the exclusive right to rule the whole Church.

The 72-year-old pontiff, whose authority has been under fire since he issued his encyclical continuing the Church ban on artificial birth control last year, portrayed as enemies of "the one true Church" all who attack his power to rule.

He made the statement to 30 theologians convened in Rome as an advisory commission. The theologians heard the Pope's words at a Mass in the Vatican's Matilde Chapel, then left by car for a secluded area to begin discussing the burning issues in the Church.

"The authority and security of (our) magisterium," Pope Paul told them, "derive from Christ himself."

"They are essential for the government, stability, peace and unity of God's Church. He who refuses it (the magisterium) or attacks it assails the one true Church, and therefore incurs a grave debt in regard to the souls that have the faith or are seeking it, and undergoes responsibility before God's judgment."

The first meeting of a commission of 30 leading theologians was the opening event in what promises to be the most lively series of encounters here since the end of the Second Vatican ecumenical council four years ago.

On Saturday the Pope convened his second world synod of bishops, which will run for about two weeks. Dissident priests from eight European countries will hold an unauthorized parallel meeting to discuss key issues including priestly celibacy.

A central issue in all three meetings will be the authority the Pope himself wields over the world's half-billion Catholics.

This authority has been challenged repeatedly since the pontiff, who turned 72 last month, rejected artificial means of birth control in the controversial encyclical "Humanae Vitae"—"Of Human Life"—last year.

The theologians' commission is an outgrowth of the first world bishops' synod in 1967. That historic synod recommended a permanent body to advise the Pope on matters of doctrine and theology in the light of new research.

The theologians selected by the Pope last April as representatives of many schools of thought, will gather in a church building on the fringes of Rome for two days of secret discussions.

According to one published account, the leading issues in the primary report, prepared by liberal German theologian Karl Rahner, will be papal authority and the freedom of theological research.

Whatever comes out of the debate will be advisory only. The Pope will make his own decision about implementing any recommendations.

The synod will assemble 140 prelates from 100 nations. It will pit liberals such as Belgian Cardinal Leo Suenens, who favors decentralizing power, and traditionalists who want this power maintained undisturbed in Rome. Already one member of the synod has openly challenged

Pope Calls For Peace

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI urged all Roman Catholics today to pray for peace and understanding during October, the month of the rosary in the Catholic tradition.

In an exhortation distributed by the Vatican, the pontiff asked Catholics to say their rosaries this month and added:

"We shall pray that in every heart, starting with our own, sectarianism and racism, hatred and wickedness, may be rooted out since they are the ever recurring source of wars and divisions. For if evil is strong, grace is even stronger."

Eban Confers With Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI and Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban held an hour-long discussion on Middle East problems today at the Vatican.

It was the first encounter held here between a Pope and a minister of the Jewish state since 1952.

A Vatican communique afterward said the pontiff offered his "willing and cordial collaboration" in helping restore peace to the Middle East. It said he had

'Mystic' Says Mosque Blaze Was Set After 'God Called'

JERUSALEM (AP) — A police superintendent told a Jerusalem court today that a young Australian mystic had confessed setting fire to the Al Aqshah Mosque in Old Jerusalem to clear the site for the rebuilding there of Solomon's Temple.

Supt. David Ofer said Michael Dennis Rohan, 28, told the police in a statement after his arrest:

"About a week after I arrived in Jerusalem I discovered a Scripture that said that one person will be called by God to build the temple and therefore I decided God wanted me to build this temple. Therefore if I am the chosen one to do this, I will have to prove it by destroying the mosque. If this was God's will, then he would allow me to do it."

The Al Aqshah Mosque was built on the site of Solomon's Temple, and the Walling Wall Temple is the last remnant of the temple. The site is also Islam's third holiest shrine because Moslems believe that the Prophet Mohammed ascended into heaven from there.

Rohan is a member of a Christian sect which believes that the Messiah cannot come until Solomon's Temple is rebuilt on its original site. A sheep shearer by trade, the young man came to Israel in March.

Sitting in a bulletproof glass enclosure like the one that protected Nazi war criminal Adolf Eichmann, Rohan went on trial today on four charges of arson and desecration of a holy place.

His Israeli lawyer told the three-judge court Rohan "does not confess to the charge and he does not confess to the facts" outlined in the charges.

Under Israeli law, a defendant does not plead guilty or not guilty. He can admit or deny all or some of the alleged facts, or he can refuse to reply at all.

If convicted on all the charges, Rohan could be sentenced to 44 years in prison.

The police superintendent said Rohan in his confession gave this account of setting fire to the mosque:

After describing in detail the purchase of inflammables, he arrived at the mosque at 7 a.m. on Aug. 21. He paid the lone Arab guard 10 Israeli lira to gain entrance.

He put containers of kerosene and benzine behind the mosque staircase with an elderly Arab woman locked on.

"I pretended to take photographs," Rohan said.

When the woman left the mosque, Rohan took a kerosene-soaked scarf, put it behind the staircase and lit the end of it with a match.

The entire procedure took only five or ten minutes.

TEL AVIV (AP) — A bomb packed in a box of fruit and placed beneath a parked truck exploded in a crowded market in the town of Afula today, killing a man in the truck cab and injuring 23 others, police said.

Several of the injured, including women, children and Arabs, were reported in serious condition.

Police rounded up about 100 Arabs for questioning.

Sources said the charge.

General Sold Police Guns, Senate Probers Are Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maj. Gen. Carl C. Turner used his position as the Army's provost marshal general to obtain hundreds of firearms from the police departments of Chicago and Kansas City and sold many of them privately, a Senate investigator testified today.

Phillip R. Manuel, a staff investigator for the Senate's investigations subcommittee, said Turner told the department he wanted the weapons for Army training and for display in the military police museum.

Manuel said many of these handguns, shotguns and rifles and others, which he said Turner obtained from Ft. Bliss, Tex., were sold by the general to a North Carolina gun dealer.

Turner, who is now retired from the Army, has been mentioned frequently in testimony involving allegations he covered up evidence against Sgt. Maj. William O. Woodridge, once sergeant major of the Army. Turner is expected to testify

In the second week before the Senate investigating subcommittee, Army witnesses are expected to detail more about the double life they said was led by Woodridge.

Manuel testified that Turner signed for some of the weapons two weeks after he had officially retired from the Army in 1968 ending four years as provost marshal general.

The investigator said he was told some of the guns sold by Turner were destined for delivery to a group of revolutionaries on the island of Haiti in the Caribbean.

He gave no further elaboration.

Manuel said Turner obtained a total of 460 firearms from the Chicago Police Department, 98 weapons from Kansas City and a shipment of 200 from Ft. Bliss.

Manuel said Turner came in contact with Chicago police in April and May of 1968 as commander of the U.S. regular Army troops which were sent to the city during rioting following the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

"While in Chicago," the investigator said, "Gen. Turner obtained permission in his capacity as provost marshal general to inspect and obtain whatever weapons he wanted from all of the arms collected and confiscated by the Chicago Police Department."

"He obtained from the department on four separate occasions a total of approximately 460 weapons including handguns of all types . . . both of foreign and domestic origin," Manuel said.

Thieu Speech: Allied Forces Should Wait Out Viet Cong

By GEORGE MCARTHUR Associated Press Writer SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu said today the Vietnamese people "are determined to win the U.S. fighting units in 1970."

He drew applause from the largely conservative legislators several times, notably when he said the U.S. military will continue to fight to safeguard freedom and democracy.

Although he referred several times to American public opinion and aligned himself with Nixon's policy of troop withdrawal, he made clear that he thinks complete U.S. withdrawal is a long way off.

He said that with enough American economic assistance and the strengthening of South Vietnam's armed forces, he is confident that the Viet Cong will be unable to carry out their plan to take over the country.

Thieu spoke for an hour and 15 minutes, the longest public speech he has made since he took office in June 1967.

He emphasized that he remains willing to negotiate an acceptable cease-fire with the enemy to avoid a coalition government or surrender to the Communists.

He asked for increased American military and financial aid to shoulder more of the burden of the war.

Inside Report

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. — The Rev. Emil Saeges is recovering from near starvation after 22 days in the wilds of western Canada after a plane crash.

The priest, 38, was on a 100-mile solo flight from Wells, B.C., to his home at Vancouver, B.C., when a thunderstorm forced him to crash land his homebuilt aircraft Sept. 13 near the top of a 7,000-foot mountain.

Hunters from a lodge in the area, 100 miles southeast of here, found him Saturday. He was suffering from exhaustion, malnutrition and frostbite.

In an interview at a hospital, Saeges said: "It is a miracle that I am still alive. I spent most of my nights praying to God. He must have answered my prayers."

He lost 40 of his normal 180 pounds. A few days after the crash, a search helicopter passed over 300 feet beneath his makeshift mountain-side camp but the plane was in the clouds and the priest was not seen.

After staying with the plane 13 days, the priest set out to walk to civilization. During the nine-day walk, Father Saeges said, he staggered through swamps but even a moose wouldn't dare visit.

He was found by a search party from the U.S. Army. He is being treated at a hospital in Vancouver.

Priest Found After 22 Days In the Wild

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. — The Rev. Emil Saeges is recovering from near starvation after 22 days in the wilds of western Canada after a plane crash.

The priest, 38, was on a 100-mile solo flight from Wells, B.C., to his home at Vancouver, B.C., when a thunderstorm forced him to crash land his homebuilt aircraft Sept. 13 near the top of a 7,000-foot mountain.

Hunters from a lodge in the area, 100 miles southeast of here, found him Saturday. He was suffering from exhaustion, malnutrition and frostbite.

In an interview at a hospital, Saeges said: "It is a miracle that I am still alive. I spent most of my nights praying to God. He must have answered my prayers."

He lost 40 of his normal 180 pounds. A few days after the crash, a search helicopter passed over 300 feet beneath his makeshift mountain-side camp but the plane was in the clouds and the priest was not seen.

After staying with the plane 13 days, the priest set out to walk to civilization. During the nine-day walk, Father Saeges said, he staggered through swamps but even a moose wouldn't dare visit.

Mets Return to Own Backyard for Playoff Wrapup, One Step Away from First National League Pennant

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Mets were back in their own backyard today, looking to wrap up their National League playoff series with the Atlanta Braves and move on to their first World Series in their almost implausible eight-year history.

Braves Still Alive, Hitting, Not Winning
NEW YORK (AP)—If I had been told before the series started we'd get six and five runs off Jerry Koosman and Tom Seaver, I would have thought we'd sweep the series," says Atlanta's Hank Aaron.

Instead, the Braves, champions of the National League's West Division, moved into the home of the New York Mets—Shea Stadium—after losing the first two games at home.

However, the Braves weren't ready to play dead even though the Mets won eight of their 12 meetings during the regular season.

"I'm not conceding," said Manager Luman Harris of the Braves. "I was playing One Eye'd Cat I wouldn't concede."

Neither was the Mets talking about a sweep, but Koosman was confident of victory.

"The way we are hitting, we have all the confidence that we will get another win," Koosman said.

"Our boys, I think, are underrated as a hitting ball club," said Manager Gil Hodges of the Mets. "Naturally I thought our pitching would be better than it is."

Aron betted a three-run home in the fifth Sunday when Atlanta rallied for five runs and he had little else to report.

The new Mets fashioned a 20-run lead in the best-of-five playoff series during the weekend days, but an ineffective pitching by Tom Seaver and Jerry Koosman, making the most of 20 hits, five Braves errors and several mental mistakes for 95 runs.

That put the amazing Mets who stumbled through seven games of hopelessness before regaining their ragged-reiches story this season, one step away from the first pennant.

Chief Waco-Arena—preferably someone who could three-balls or catch-a-grounder game by Atlanta.

Shea Stadium began filling early today with the usual Mets fans.

And that left little doubt that the Mets and Braves were both shocked by the turn of events that had completely altered the odds which had favored Atlanta's hitting against New York's pitching.

"I had been told before the series started we'd get six and five runs off Jerry Koosman and Tom Seaver, I would have thought we'd sweep the series," says Atlanta's Hank Aaron.

"He (Aaron) always has been a nasty fellow with the bat," said Hodges. "I mean that as a compliment. He's a credit to the game."

When Jones and Art Shamsky had three hits apiece for New York as the Mets clubbed six Atlanta pitchers for 13 hits.

"We've got one foot in the grave and we've got to get out of our own way or get beat," said Harris.

The Braves' manager said he couldn't understand why his team was playing poorly, especially on defense.

"I know what you're saying. I know what to do about it. I also don't understand why our pitchers are so damn wild. It's unbelievable they've been that wild."

With the Mets jumping out of the bullpen to help St. Louis, a five-run outburst, some of the fans were grabbing at the banners being carried through the park by loyal Mets fans.

Miller, a 6-foot-1 right-hander, stepped into the breach for the Twins this year when injuries deprived Martin's starting lineup.

THE TEN BEST WORLD SERIES

YES, YES. This was the year 39-year-old Grover Cleveland Alexander forged his bottle and came in from the bullpen to strike out Tony Lazzari to help St. Louis win the Yankees in the seventh game of the World Series.

Lazzari knocked Alexander's second pitch two feet off the left field fence? Yes, that's true. Too. The bases were loaded. And he pitched perfectly for the next two innings.

Alexander, one of baseball's veteran drinkers, had won the second and sixth games with ease. Legend sometimes has it that he was somewhat the worse on that seventh day for having celebrated the night before—never expecting to be called upon to pitch again.

Feamates report, however, that he was clear-eyed and strong that day.

It was St. Louis' initial world championship after its first National League pennant.

Six Winners
BOBTON (AP)—Young Charlie Marfo, the apprentice riding sensation of the New England Thoroughbred season, boosted home six winners in including "Pick Knob" in the $10,000 Berkshire Handicap Saturday at Suffolk Downs.

Billy Martin Squeezed and Pinched into Dark Corner

MINNEAPOLIS—ST. PAUL (AP)—Emattbled Billy Martin, squeezed and pinched into a dark corner in the American League's championship playoffs, called on curly Bob Miller, a refugee from the Minnesota bullpen, to plug the hole.

Miller, a 6-foot-1 right-hander, stepped into the breach for the Twins this year when injuries deprived Martin's starting lineup.
