No Lunar Bugs Seen Returning

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — If the Apollo 12 astronauts are found to be free of alien organisms, future moon explorers may be excused from the three-week quarantine now in force. The Apollo 12 commander set down 800 miles away, in the Ocean of Storms, and space scientists say there is a far-etched possibility of a return of life might exist in the different environment. They don't expect to find any, but they're taking no chances.

Moon-Bug Reported

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Before Apollo 12 was launched into space, technicians reported to Charles "Pete" Conrad Jr. that a cocoon was seen inside the spacecraft, but it got away. Conrad later issued a statement that perhaps he could catch the insect in space and show it on television. Sunday, the Apollo 12 commander announced he had done it but all he held up for TV was a hand-drawn drawing of the cocoon, but it got away. Presumably, if the cocoon were alive, he would have taken it with him on his trip to the moon and back.

Earth Eclipse of Sun Awees Returning Crew

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Racing through the final hours of their voyage of discovery, Apollo 12's moon men marveled at a spectacular earthly eclipse of the sun today and fired their jet thrusters a brief burst to zero in on their splashdown target in the South Pacific. Charles "Pete" Conrad Jr., Richard F. Gordon Jr. and Alan L. Bean were in good spirits as their Yankee Clipper streaked faster and faster toward their home planet on a course that would slam them into the atmosphere 70 miles high at a speed of 24,000 miles per hour. Atmospheric friction and parabolic splashing, set for 3:38 p.m. EST about 400 miles southeast of American Samoa.

Moon's No Slice of Cake Says Conrad

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — "I'll tell you one thing," Peter Conrad was saying. "It took every ounce of my strength to get that baby down there in the right place. That was no piece of cake."

Number of GIs in Viet Lowest in Two Years

SAGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today that American troop strength in Vietnam has dropped to 464,000 men, the lowest in two years. This virtually completes the second round of troop withdrawals ordered by President Nixon. The Command's report of troop strength as of last Thursday showed a drop of 4,000 men during the previous week. This reduced U.S. strength to only 460 more than the new ceiling of 460,000 men Nixon ordered to be reached by Dec. 15. A U.S. spokesman said the command still expects to reduce American troop strength by that date to 450,000 less than Nixon's ceiling of 460,000 men. U.S. forces reached a high of 543,000 men last April, two months before the President announced withdrawal of 25,000 men. In September he announced another 25,000 men were being pulled out. There has been speculation in both Saigon and Washington that Nixon may announce further troop withdrawals before the end of the year unless there is some marked change in the war picture. Informants reported today (See Page Thirty-Five)

Gene Control Raises Fears

BOSTON (AP) — The genes, which transmit hereditary characteristics, has been isolated for the first time by two scientists who helped do it. The discovery has raised fears of possible manipulation of human traits. "I feel the bad far outweighs the good in this particular work," said Dr. Jonathan Beckwith, 38. "I feel this is more frightening than anything else. It is obvious that it raises the possibility of genetic engineering."

Army Files Murder Charge Against Officer in Viet Deaths

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army today ordered a general court martial for 1st Lt. William L. Calley Jr., accusing him of the premeditated murder of at least 109 men, women, and children in Vietnam in March 1968. Calley, first American soldier charged in the controversial, alleged massacre of Vietnamese villagers, will face possible charges of death or life imprisonment if convicted, the Army said. Decision to proceed with the trial was made by the command at Fort Benning, Ga., where Calley is now stationed, and announced publicly in Washington and Georgia. Only a short time earlier the Army had announced the assignment of 1st Lt. Gen. William R. Peers to find out whether the brigade involved in the alleged massacre had tried to cover up the incident in its original investigation of the operation. The Army charged Calley with 4 specifications of premeditated murder of "Oriental human beings" during a U.S. military operation at the village of My Lai in Quang Ngai Province on March 16, 1968. Each specification accused Calley of killing the villagers with a rifle. One specification charged him with killing 79 males and females, including 20 children. Another specification charged him with killing a child, about two years old.

The decision on the court martial was made by Maj. Gen. Orvin G. Talbot, who as commanding general at Fort Benning was the convening authority in the case. The Army said the trial will be held at Fort Benning No date has been set. The Army said it would take at least a month for the defense and prosecution to prepare for the trial. Lt. Gen. William R. Peers has been instructed to determine the adequacy of both the investigation and its subsequent review. The 11th Infantry Brigade, which made the investigation and the decision last year, "developed nothing to indicate any disciplinary action or to warrant further investigation," the Army said. It said the appointment of Gen. Peers does not mean that the original investigation and review were inadequate. This will be determined by the special review, which will be separate from a current criminal investigation which so far has resulted in charges against two Army men and the investigation of the role of two dozen other soldiers and former soldiers. The incident was at the village of My Lai in March 1968. Both the 11th Infantry Brigade, whose members were ordered to wipe out the Vietnamese village of Song My at the time of the incident, and South Vietnamese authorities originally looked into Viet Cong reports that a small group of American soldiers had shot possibly 100 Vietnamese civilians during the My Lai raid. "As recently as last Saturday South Vietnam's defense ministry reported on the basis of its own investigation that reports of civilian deaths ranging as high as 500 took place in the operation were completely inaccurate," the ministry said. Peers was presently chief of reserve components on the Army staff. He was serving at the time of the My Lai incident as acting commander of Field Force One in Vietnam, a command not connected in any way with the My Lai operation. The assignment was announced by Secretary of the Army Stanley C. Westmoreland, Chief of Staff. They said Peers would be assisted by a team of legal and investigative experts including H. R. West, assistant general counsel of the Army.

Guests included William F. Booth of New Haven, grand master of Masons in Connecticut and a past potentate of Pyramid Temple of the Shrine in Bridgeport. He was accompanied by Merle F. Tapley, grand judge; and by Joseph Goulet, who is orientalist guide of Pyramid Temple and chairman of the grand lodge committee on the condition of Masonry.

Representing Sphinx Temple was William O. Gidd, orientalist guide. Elected to serve with Bogue are: Robert Murdock, first vice president; Richard Rothwell, second vice president; Herbert R. Kingsbury, secretary; and Stanley N. Baldwin, treasurer.

Directors for three-year terms are David R. Nichols and Robert Shultz. Elected to fill the vacancy on the board created by the election of Rothwell to a vice presidency was James Sullivan. Leo Libera was named to the newly created post of sergeant at arms.

Bogue is supervisor of production and inventory at Hamilton Standard Division of United Aircraft Corp. at Hartford. In his Masonic life, Bogue joined Masonry at Pawcatuck and is past master and current treasurer of Friendship Lodge of Masons. He belongs to both the Pyramid Temple and bodies of Masonry, and is master of the Pyramid Temple of the Goodwill Chapter of Rose Croix at Hartford in the Scottish Rite. He has been a member of the grand lodge committee on the condition of Masonry.

Bogue belongs to the Shrine Temple Shrine, formerly served as secretary of Omar Shrine Club, and is a member of the Eastern Star. Grand Master Bogue gave a short talk on Masonic membership. Entertainment concluded the program.

Jobless Claims Rise in Town A 3.2 per cent increase in unemployment competition claims was reported for last week in the Manchester office of the State Labor Department. The figures were 477 for the week ending Nov. 15 and 482 for the week ending Nov. 8. Statewide claims declined slightly by 129, to 24,200 total. The figure was 20,540 for the corresponding week last year.

Bridgeport, with 1,374 claims, was the state leader last week. It was followed by Hartford with 1,258. New Haven with 1,141, and Waterbury with 1,786. Manchester retained its 17th position among the state's 19 offices.

Nixon Now Mulls Strategy On Next Court Nomination

By DON McLEOD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second time this century a president is trying to decide what to do next after the Senate voted down his nominee to the Supreme Court.

President Nixon said Friday after the Senate rejected 52-45 his nomination of Clement F. Haynsworth that he would wait until Congress returns in January for its second term before submitting another nomination.

Nixon also said he would stick with his campaign pledge to pick a nominee who believes in "a strict interpretation of the Supreme Court's role."

While smarting from his worst congressional defeat since taking office, Nixon must try a second time to find such a man who will be agreeable to the Senate.

The last president to face this dilemma was Herbert Hoover, and he handled it well by any yardstick. Hoover barely won confirmation of his first Supreme Court nominee, Charles Evans Hughes, and lost his second, John J. Parker of North Carolina, by a 43-39 vote on May 7, 1930.

Parker, like Haynsworth, was opposed by labor and civil rights groups. Some critics said he was nominated to pay a political debt to Southerners who had supported Hoover in 1928.

Progressives in Congress, smarting under the conservative rule of the 1920s, opposed Parker's nomination.

Hoover, like Nixon, looked for another nominee who would fulfill his philosophical requirements and clear the Senate. He came up with Owen J. Roberts, who gave unanimous confirmation. He probably would have satisfied Nixon as well.

A strict constructionist on the bench, Roberts was strictly middle-of-the-road politically. He voted sometimes with the court's conservative bloc, sometimes with the liberals. But such a decision was based on the law as he read it, not social or political philosophy.

When the court overruled the New Deal's Agricultural Adjustment Act in 1936, Roberts wrote the scorching decision.

When the Roosevelt administration began to try substitute bills with a greater regard for the courts' wish, Roberts joined the liberal faction in approving many of the new measures.

Parker, too, fared well after the bitter court fight. He remained on the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals, became chief judge and in time even won the respect of labor.

Hughes, whom Hoover made chief justice, was confirmed 60-37 despite complaints that his recent work as a lawyer had been largely for great corporations.

The confirmation fight lost Hughes but did not prevent him from becoming one of the court's most known and high school distinguished members. Nor did it prevent him from being a similar battle keep Justice and chief justice. He was confirmed in 1947 appealing to housewives.

Wedding

Hirth-Garfield

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Martha Garfield of Northfield, Vt. The groom is Paul T. Hirth of Rockville, Vt. The ceremony was held at White Memorial Chapel, 27, at White Memorial Chapel, had once belonged to the Ku Klux Klan. Black admitted the bride's father had been terminated long ago and that he did not hold the racial or religious views attributed to the Klan.

Despite the long battle, Black survived the attacks and sits today on the court.

Nixon also said he would stick with his campaign pledge to pick a nominee who believes in "a strict interpretation of the Supreme Court's role."

While smarting from his worst congressional defeat since taking office, Nixon must try a second time to find such a man who will be agreeable to the Senate.

Education Board Weighs Plans To Expand Program

The possibility of expanding the continuing education program in the Vernon school system will be discussed tonight at 7:30 at the meeting of the Board of Education to be held at the Sykes School.

Ronald A. Kosch, principal of the adult evening school, will present his views on the subject. The discussion will include the adult evening school program, the summer school and the high school work-study program.

The board has asked the superintendent, Dr. Raymond Ramsdell, to prepare figures on what the additional costs would be for expanding the program.

The adult evening school has expanded its program recently to include a high school equivalency course to prepare the adults for the state exam. The present summer programs are of either remedial or a make-up nature. It is also hoped to expand this to other areas.

Also at tonight's meeting, James Norwood, social studies coordinator will report on the curriculum for the department which was drawn up at a workshop conducted this past summer.

TTCHWELL, England (AP) — A British farmer says he has produced a new strain of Brussels sprouts and claims his product will be in the market by next year.

Alfred Ringer, chairman of the sprout growers' association, says his new sprouts are more palatable than the original Brussels variety. He says he has produced it after experimenting for 18 years at his Norfolk farm.

KIMBERLEY, South Africa — The Orange River Project, begun in 1963, will take 20 years to complete, at a cost in excess of $600 million.

The project includes three major reservoirs, nine smaller dams, a 91-mile tunnel, 20 hydroelectric power stations and a system of irrigation canals extending many thousands of miles.

Teachers Strike Closes Schools In Providence

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — This city's 26,000-public school system was shut down today by a teachers' strike undertaken by the 1,200 members of the Providence Teachers' Union.

The issue was a new contract. School Superintendent Richard C. Briggs ordered the system closed down Sunday after being advised that the union had voted to strike.

Negotiators for both the city and the union were to meet separately later today for further discussions.

The union began the school year under an extension of their 1968-69 contract. It was extended again Nov. 3 to Nov. 13, and the city had asked that it be extended a third time so that it could evaluate the findings of an arbitration panel.

The teachers rejected the request. The arbitration panel last week recommended a contract providing a 13-step salary scale, ranging from $6,800 to $10,600.

The union had proposed a salary scale of $9,500 to $17,300 in ten steps. The 1968-69 contract provided a salary scale of $9,200 to $10,100 in 11 steps.

Discrimination Charged Against Black Police

HARTFORD (AP) — The National Council of Police Societies charges that "grave evidence of discrimination" is prevalent against black policemen in Hartford.

The council, which represents more than 6,000 black policemen in 14 cities, made the statement Sunday. Its president, Calvin W. Allen of New York City, served notice on the Hartford City Council, especially its two black members, that the alleged grievances must be eliminated.

The Guardians, the local organization of black police, is charged earlier this year that black police were discriminated against in promotions and assignments. City officials, however, said the charges could not be substantiated. Hartford has 87 blacks on its police force of 388 men.

Earth Flow an Oddity

SILVERTON, Colo. — At Lake Fork Reservation Area, near Silverton, a big attraction is a creeping river of earth — the Shurgullin Earth Flow. Its origin is a geological oddity. The earth is a mixture of sand, silt and clay. It is a result of a landslide that occurred in 1917. The earth is now a solid mass of earth that is still creeping down the hillside. It is a unique phenomenon that is attracting many tourists.

Sato Satisfied With Pact On Okinawa

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Prime Minister Eisaku Sato said Friday that the agreement he had reached with President Nixon last week.

Behind a tight police guard in the presidential suite at the Mark Hopkins Hotel on Nob Hill, Sato relaxed after three days of talks with President Nixon last week.

In the talks, reversion of the formidable island bastion in the western Pacific was worked out to take place before the end of 1972.

When Sato and his official party arrived from New York Sunday afternoon, a band of 100 demonstrators waited for him at the Japan Air Lines terminal at San Francisco International Airport. However Sato's plane taxied up to the Pan American Terminal a quarter of a mile away and he left the airport by car without seeing the demonstrators.

They carried signs saying "End U.S. and Japanese Imperialism," "Awa for the Asians," "Okinawa for the Okinawans," and "Shun the Security Pact."

They followed Sato's motorcade to his hotel, and their shouts were audible as he appeared before a packed news conference in a fourth floor suite.

He paid them no attention as he expressed his satisfaction with the agreement with Nixon, which met with "overwhelming approval."

Some groups oppose the basic security arrangements between Japan and the United States, he said, "so that it may not be possible to obtain unanimous approval of the agreement."

He said he was confident the overwhelming majority supports it.

Laird Cuts Draft Quota For January

WASHINGTON (AP) — January's draft quota has been cut by two-thirds, bringing a manpower needs created by defense officials to "Vietnamization" of the war to more than 20,000 for a four-month period which began in October.

Announcing the cutback in January's draft call from 35,000 to 12,000 men, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said Saturday he would act quickly to put into effect the draft lottery system enacted last week.

The reduction in projected military manpower needs for January is the second to be announced by the new administration this fall. President Nixon earlier cancelled November and December draft calls totaling 60,000 men, October's draft quota of 29,000 men was also cut over the three-month October-November-December period.

With the January reduction of 22,500 men, the total drop in projected manpower requirements by the end of 1969 was being 72,000.

Laird said the cutback was made possible by "the progress of Vietnamization," a term he uses to describe withdrawal of U.S. forces from Vietnam and their replacement by South Vietnamese troops.

Because of the decrease, and partly because of economy waiting list, military, Laird also announced that Army combat training centers would be closed and 100 training companies abolished.

He did not name the centers but indicated that they would include Ft. Gordon, Ga., and Ft. Bliss, Tex.

2,000 Protest Panther Trial

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — People came from four other states for a weekend demonstration protesting sympathy with 12 Black Panthers charged with slaying of Alex Rackley.

As buses arrived from Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, as well as other cities in Connecticut, the crowd outside the courthouse swelled to more than 2,000 Saturday.

Most of the demonstrators were young and most of them were white. They chanted that the Black Panthers were the victims of a "frameup" and were actually "political prisoners."

Police have said that Rackley, a Panther from New York City, was brought to New Haven, tortured, interrogated and finally executed because he was suspected of being a informer.

One of the 12 persons awaiting trial in Superior Court is Bobby D. Seal, national chairman of the Black Panther Party. Seal ordered the execution of Rackley while on trial, two juveniles in addition to the 12 persons awaiting trial, two juveniles were also taken into custody in connection with the slaying of a hearing has been going on released on bail.

VEA Presents Package Deal To School Panel

A package deal containing salaries, fringe benefits and contract proposals has been presented to the Board of Education's salary study committee by the Vermont Education Association.

As in the past, no figures will be revealed during the negotiations until a final agreement has been reached by both groups.

The second meeting of the two groups was held last week. At that time, the VEA committee praised the Board of Education for its philosophy and implementation of class size throughout the local school system.

In order to keep the Board of Representatives and the mayor informed as to the progress of the negotiations, a three-member committee of the Board of Representatives is sitting in on the meetings which will continue until spring. They include James Rockwell, James Carthy and Morgan Campbell.

The group bills its annual meeting as the world's largest cocktail party. It will begin at 4 p.m. Dec. 16 at Kill Devil Hills and end at 10:30 p.m. Dec. 17, when the observance of the Wright Brothers' first flight begins here.

A Move At Paris—Backward

Even while he has been our chief negotiator at Paris, Henry Cabot Lodge has voiced the opinion that the war in Vietnam might never become one to be settled by formal negotiations.

There is no reason to believe that his conduct in the negotiations at Paris ever suffered from his own private pessimism, or indulged itself in any adventurous search for more optimistic possibilities, either.

There is absolutely no indication that, at any time, the North Vietnamese did or said anything which constituted any real invitation to or pressure upon Hanoi to alter its own policies.

Now, however, Ambassador Lodge and Washington have done something which does have some significance.

Down the two-to-one table at Paris, the meaning is and is intended to be a warning to the North Vietnamese that Washington is now downgrading the importance of the negotiations at Paris.

Since the peace talks were not getting anywhere, what is there to lose? That, obviously, is the question Ambassador Lodge and Washington ask, to their own apparent satisfaction, with their answer "nothing."

That is not, however, quite the end of a great, civilized nation's discharge of duty and responsibility to itself and to the world.

Every negotiation that has ever taken place between the two worlds of present history has been, first of all, an endurance contest.

In this instance, the United States is becoming the first to move in the endurance contest, but it is choosing to move backward, rather than forward.

We happen to incline toward a belief that Ambassador Lodge may be an accurate prophet with regard to the war in Vietnam, and that the way for it to end may be for it to divide down and make out, just as the actual policy of the Nixon administration seems to be planning to have it do.

Some Day, A Real Beauty

Just as the truth about which has always been the stronger sex has emerged in the matrimonial societies of the twentieth century, so, now, there begins some male honesty with regard to what has traditionally been labeled woman's lot.

Understandably enough, the male who is beginning to awaken to what once was called dandyism has to find himself masculine-style rationalizations. Of all the new kinds of cosmetics men are now beginning to buy, the face bronzer is the easiest to sell because, when he keeps a tan all year round, even the least adept applicator gives at least himself the illusion of being a great virile outdoorsman.

Next, the male who has finally begun to satisfy the repressed longings of generations by letting hair grow out on his cheeks and grow long and bushy around his neck and ears finds it easy to tell himself that so much distinguished hair needs more than rounded attention.

After he goes for the permanent tan and the good grooming of the hair spray, the new American male is likely to slow down a bit, before he reaches for the night face cream, the day time powder, basically dishevel hair dye, mud packs and eye pads.

There is absolutely no indication that, at any time, the North Vietnamese did or said anything which constituted any real invitation to or pressure upon Hanoi to alter its own policies.

Now, however, Ambassador Lodge and Washington have done something which does have some significance.

Inside Report

Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

CHICAGO — The probable election of Mayor Richard J. Daley's regular Democratic machine of State Treasurer Adlai Stevenson III for the 1970 Senate nomination can be fully savored only in the light of Stevenson's clandestine plot against Daley barely three months ago.

Just how far the soft-spoken Stevenson was willing to go in leading reform and other dissent, Democratic against Daley's possession of the party was revealed to some of his closest political supporters late in August at a dinner party in Stevenson's Chicago home.

After dinner, he told them confidentially that he wanted a challenge to not only Stevenson's position in the suburban townships of Cook County (Chicago) in the primary next March but wanted to contest Daley's picks for the two county offices at stake in 1970: sheriff and county treasurer.

Indeed, Stevenson revealed he had specific choices for the two spots — a Polish-American banker closely associated with the Stevenson family for treasurer and an anti-organization state legislator for sheriff.

Stevenson's friends advised that a frontal assault on the Daley machine's iron bulwarks would be suicidal. Stevenson far from being dissuaded, countered that he planned to take some pots to test his plan.

The possibility of those pots ever being taken was wiped out about two weeks later in the momentous events of Sept. 7. That Sunday, a gathering of anti-Daley reformers on the Stevenson farm in suburban Libertyville was paid surprise visit by Daley himself.

Simultaneously with Daley's visit came the news that Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen had died in Washington. That combination of events effectively choked off a serious reform challenge to Daley's party control.

Whether Daley's visit to Libertyville itself would have accomplished much is doubtful. It headed the reform movement in 1970 and Daley making peace overtures, Stevenson abruptly dropped his reform abruptly and, understandably, set his sights on the Senate. With nobody else around to lead, the reform movement is moribund. Daley's regulars will go unopposed in the March primary.

Accordingly, if the regular party stalwarts give Stevenson the Senate endorsement to date as expected, Daley will have a free hand to the state level, his familiar local practices of co-opting powerful dissenters into the regular organization.

Such co-optation of Stevenson was in Daley's mind in 1968 but was prevented both by Stevenson's opposition to the LBJ war policy and deep opposition from organization ward chairman.

In fact, Daley has faced similar opposition this year. Rep. Daniel V. Rostenkowski, one of Daley's closest lieutenants, has not returned to his personal animus toward Stevenson and was behind a recent abortive effort to sell Ambassador R. Sargent Shriver (who left Chicago in 1968) to the Senate nomination.

Adding Room Next Spring? Study Hard Over Winter

If the do-it-yourselfer is planning an addition to the house come next spring, his wife should encourage him to spend the winter studying the project to give it a professional look and one that looks patchy.

Libraries have books on architecture, and many libraries keep newspaper and magazine files that may provide photographs of houses that resemble the one to be remodelled.

What secrets in detail should draw the architect's look apart from the do-it-yourselfer's? Lots of them, says this architect, who prefers anonymity.

Amateurs, he says, can educate themselves on this point. One way is to photograph the exterior of the house from every angle while the trees are dormant and everything is pretty stark around the building.

Bolton Ordinance on New Roads On Town Meeting Agenda

The first item on the town meeting agenda tonight is an ordinance which would allow building on roads in developments before the roads are completed and accepted by the town.

The present ordinance adopted by a town meeting in May, 1964, forbids any building on unaccepted roads. There are exceptions in this ordinance, and they are carried over to the new ordinance.

The reason for the 1964 ordinance was to prevent the construction of homes on roads which had not been brought up to town standards, and hence could not be accepted. The ordinance halted construction in areas such as Rosedale.

The new ordinance is deemed necessary by the Planning and Zoning Commission because the old one has not allowed developers who clearly intend to finish their roads according to town specifications to construct homes in the developments before the roads are completed.

Under the new ordinance, a surety bond would be posted with the town to insure the completion of the road.

The other two items on the agenda are the establishment of fees for permits issued by the zoning agent-building inspector, and the acceptance of Tumblebrook Dr., off School Rd. The meeting will be held at the Community Hall, 8 p.m.

The Rev. Robert Doherty of St. George's Episcopal Church will deliver the Thanksgiving message. Mrs. Olive Toomey, town clerk, will read the Governor's Thanksgiving Proclamation.

Members of the Methodist Youth Fellowship will offer their services as baby sitters. Refreshments will be served after the ecumenical service.

Lodge Denies Accusations By Thuy of Intransigence

Associated Press Writer PARIS (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge today denied charges that he had made the allegation in an interview with the New York Times that Lodge was unwilling to hold private meetings with Hanoi's representatives on "general problems" concerning South Vietnam.

Xuan Thuy, Hanoi's chief envoy to the Paris peace talks, had made the allegation in an interview with the New York Times. Thuy said Lodge was unwilling to hold private meetings with Hanoi's representatives on "general problems" concerning South Vietnam.

Army Drill Sergeants Are in Short Supply

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army is short of drill sergeants because noncommissioned officers with tough reputations who have the job of transforming civilians into soldiers.

Reasons for the shortage include long working hours, not enough pay and too little prestige. The Army is trying to cure the situation, including $30 a month more to sweeten the pot.

Investigators looked into 19 claims of brutality since 1965. Army authorities emphatically deny their sergeants use rough stuff in shaping recruits.

Men who elect to become drill sergeants are put through a rugged six-week course. The attrition rate ranges between 35 and 40 per cent.

Authorities said there is no special "psychological" screening. Drill sergeants are put through a rigorous physical training course.

Drill sergeants get certain benefits now, including a $30 a month "superior performance" payment, extra uniforms and free laundry.

Proper Thawing, Cooking Will Prevent Salmonellosis

By ANGEL CASTILLO Associated Press Writer ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — If your Thanksgiving turkey is coming out of a freezer, let it thaw completely.

Then cook it thoroughly. That way, says Dr. Matthew B. Lowenstein, you minimize the risk of having the holiday spoiled by food poisoning.

Dr. Lowenstein is assistant chief of the Salmonella Unit of the National Communicable Disease Center (NCDC) here.

Lowenstein says salmonella, well as other poultry, eggs, and many meat products—may transmit salmonellosis, a food poisoning that could turn Thanksgiving fun into great discomfort.

Hunter Charged In Man's Death

LIBRISON, N.H. (AP) — A professor at the University of Massachusetts faced court arraignment today in the shooting death of a Springfield, Mass., school teacher during a hunting trip Sunday.

Maurice Brosky, 31, of Bunnell, was charged with manslaughter in the shooting death of Joseph J. Dziukowski, 28, of Greenfield, an assistant football and track coach at Springfield Cathedral High School.

Police said Brosky was charged with careless shooting while hunting and mistaking a human being for an animal while hunting.

The state's Department of Community Affairs announced shortly after the October announcement that it would supply a force of specialists to help clear up problems encountered by NOW. The state noted, however, that it could not afford to finance the program.

Fishery Student Takes Wife On Long Voyage at Sea

KINGSTON, R.I. (AP) — A commercial fisheries student at the University of Rhode Island has lured the wife of a fisherman home for long periods of time.

"I can trust my wife at the wheel more than most of the rest of the crew," says David M. Kennedy, 28.

"I don't think that a family life," Mrs. Kennedy said. "I cook, act as general moral support and try to keep from getting seasick."

Navy Pilot, Former POW Tells Horrors of Captivity

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A former U.S. prisoner of war in North Vietnam says his Communist captors let him with knives, threatened him with rocks, slapped him and tied ropes around his right arm.

"I was shocked when his plane was shot down," Kennedy was on the West Coast when he heard of URI's commercial fisheries program in the college of resource development.

"I don't think that a family life," Mrs. Kennedy said. "I cook, act as general moral support and try to keep from getting seasick."

The Name of the Game For Barry: Politics

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The name of Gene Barry's favorite game is politics, and he may be the next actor to campaign for elective office.

"I would like to run for office, but as to whether I can soon— who knows?" says Barry.

"I don't think that a family life," Mrs. Kennedy said. "I cook, act as general moral support and try to keep from getting seasick."

How to Kick the Habit

Dr. Irwin Lublin, clinical psychologist at California State College at Los Angeles, uses a hair dryer to blow stale smoke from smoldering cigarettes into the face of Jill Austin to help her quit smoking. Miss Austin, a student at Cal State, complains puffing on her cigarette during the "treatment." Dr. Lublin says the smoker usually kicks the habit forever after five successive 30-minute sessions. Fire Calls

Eighty district firefighters went to the Crestfield Convalescent Hospital Saturday evening. A short circuit in an electrical outlet was the reason for the call, but firemen said it was a "false alarm" and nothing serious. The call came in at 5:35 p.m. Town firefighters went to 120 Birch St. Saturday at 4:20 p.m. The call was for a burning stove, but firemen said there was no fire there when they arrived.

Top Folk Dancer Shows Vernon How

The generation gap may be bridged by a happy leap or a whimsical hop, skip and jump. Mrs. Albem spoke of the potential value of folk dancing as a family and community way of being physically active and enjoying the system for boys and girls in many towns. It could be considered in Vernon, she said, if enough persons indicated an interest.

Stalin's Image Gets Polished by Soviets

By ANTHONY COLLINGS
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — In the exhibition hall just across from the Kremlin, the woman glances at the portrait of the man with the familiar mustache and double-breasted suit.

It was Stalin.

Joseph Stalin, still partially in official disgrace, is almost everywhere in published photographs. Yet here he was, not in just one but in two pictures at an exhibit showing Soviet history.

The women's uncontrolled surprise was typical of some but not all visitors to the exhibition. Many quickly glanced away from the man whose bloody purge affected most Soviet families. Possibly still afraid to express any opinion of him, they averted their eyes.

A few smiled ironically. Some looked around to see how others reacted.

The photos were believed to be the first Stalin pictures given such prominence since Nikita Khrushchev, as premier, denounced him, removed his body from a Red Square monument and replaced his statues and renamed the city.

Khrushchev's successors have permitted limited but greater mention of Stalin, usually highlighting his wartime leadership. The moves to restore Stalin's image have provoked protests from liberal such as the writer Alexander Solzhenitsyn. One underground anti-Stalin group claims that statues of Stalin and posters with his picture, as in newspaper articles, are being prepared for the 10th anniversary of his birth on Dec. 21.

With the controversy over Stalin raging behind the scenes, Soviet leaders, such as Leonid Brezhnev, seem uncertain how to react to the unexpected sight of pictures of him.

There Are Hard, Soft Sells But the Arab Can Outsell All

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

TANGIER, Morocco (AP) — In this age of supermarkets, credit cards and television television pitches, the Arab merchant still is the supreme technician of salesmanship.

Madison Avenue couldn't touch him with a 10,000-volt computer. Come with me to a Casbah and see for yourself.

"Welcome my shop," a friendly voice called out from the beginning of a stall in the crowded bazaar. "Have a look around. Buy nothing. No obligations. All ben Nadim bids you a thousand welcomes and the blessings of Allah."

"You can't place the name, but the fee is familiar. Smiling, trusting, avuncular, offering there amid a Sultan's room of rich rug and copper urns, he is hospitably teasing.

"Please, sit down. Have a coffee. Have tea. Have a Coke. Buy nothing. Get out of the sun. My shop is my home. You welcome here."

The master of the soft sell also you gently, firmly by the arm. Before you can blurt: "I left my wallet in my other suit," you find yourself enthralled on a threaded camel skin pouf, fingering a jewel-studded, multi-annum handled, genuine Damascus steel dagger that, from the merchant's room on a street of Koran, severed the jugular of a many a Rif ruffian.

"My grandfather's kria," the proprietor informs you in reverent tones. Only the price creates the unbearable oligarchy of the moment. "Genuine antique 10 dirhams (20) But for you, my friend, a special price: 80 dirhams (16)."

A small boy, known in the trade as an urban-merchant, has appeared with a tray of weak tea in authentically dirty glasses.

Between the first two sips, the price already has dropped to 70 dirhams.

"You my first customer today," extra special price. "The smile is shy and tentative, that of the philanthropist who won't let his left hand know what his right hand is up to.

There is assurance, too, in the mother-of-pearl placard spelling out the other of the establishment: "Fixed Price... No Haggle... Will Not Be Underbid."

You have yet to make an offer, but the merchant's kria, which has turned to how you would like it shipped or wrapped or taken to your car.

"Now just a dang-busted, goah darn minute," you say in your best early James Stewart innocent-American and try handing the knife back, but no one is available to accept it. The small boy is busy fanning away the nooney heat; the proprietor is digging deep into his treasures.

"Here, genuine rhinestone hill: 80 dirhams."

You manage to get across that you don't want it, but you might be interested in a pair, one of those puffed up balloons, pillows that come by Carlo or Vera Ralston used to spread on waiting for the call to come home. One in the stall next door caught your fancy.

Our Own Body Chemistry Can Make Chemicals Toxic

By HARRY NELSON
The Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES — About eight years ago a group of scientists investigating liver disease in sheep in Norway made a discovery with implications which could make the recent cyclamate scandal appear to be a summer breeze.

They discovered that a very potent cancer-causing chemical can be formed by the innocent mixture of two compounds commonly found in foods around the world.

The implications of this finding, and speculations built upon it, could result in important revisions of food and drug regulations.

In tracking down the cause of the sheep liver disease the Norwegian scientists called a class of chemicals called nitrosamines. Nitrosamines are regarded as extremely potent cancer-causing agents which have been found capable of producing tumors in a wide range of organs and in every species of animal on which they have been tested.

Furthermore, they will do it at very small concentrations — only a part per million.

Nitrosamines are formed by the interaction of nitrates and amines. Nitrates are widely used as food preservatives. Amines are naturally present in certain foods, one of them being fish.

The Norwegian sheep disease was found to be related to meat made of herring which had been preserved with sodium nitrate. Some of the batches of herring had nitrosamine concentrations as high as 100 ppm.

The finding that a potent cancer inducer can be formed in such a way was unexpected by the scientists.

But this is only one part of the new knowledge beginning to accumulate about the toxic and other effects of chemicals we ingest, inhale or otherwise come in contact with.

As techniques for measuring infinitesimal amounts of toxic materials become more sensitive and scientists become more inquisitive, possible new hazards in foods, drugs and a number of environmental agents begin to become apparent.

According to Dr. Samuel G. Epstein, a toxicologist at the Children's Cancer Research Foundation in Boston, a Pandora's box of newly recognized possibilities is opening up.

The major emphasis in the past has been on the regulation of chemicals which by themselves are known to be toxic or otherwise harmful.

But Dr. Epstein predicted at a recent American Cancer Society science writers seminar that within the next few years there will be an explosion of interest in harmless compounds which are transformed into harmful ones while being metabolized in the body.

One recent example of this involved the cyclamate, the artificial sweetener subsequently taken off the market because of its cancer-causing effect on animals.

Before this was discovered experiments were under way showing that cyclamate breaks down into nitrosamines. It was not cyclamate in its original form which had this effect, however, but a breakdown product, a cyclamate formed in the body during the process of metabolism.

Dr. Epstein and others say there are probably a large number of other food additives which can be significantly altered by the presence in the body of other chemicals which have been ingested as food additives or perhaps even inhaled from polluted air.

When mice were given a certain dose of barbital (a sleeping pill) it was found that they slept for about 40 minutes. And if a chemical called piperonyl butoxide (PB) was given at the same time, the mice slept for 180 minutes.

PB is described as a comparatively inert and nontoxic compound which is used in domestic pest-killing.

In mice and perhaps in humans, PB apparently stops the action of enzymes which detox-

Rocky To Sign Intent Memo On Penn Central

NEW YORK (AP) — Management of the West End train on Penn Central's New Haven division appears closer to Connecticut and New York State control with an announcement by Gov. Nelson Rockefeller that he will sign a "memorandum of intent" next week.

A spokesman for the New York Governor said Friday Rockefeller would sign the memorandum at 10 a.m. Tuesday in his office.

John Dempsey has been out of state for the past several days and could not be reached for comment on Connecticut's part in the arrangement.

The memorandum provides that, if it receives all the necessary federal and state approvals, the Penn Central will pass from the Penn Central to the Metropolitan Transportation Authority, a New York Agency, and the Connecticut Transportation Authority.

Under the latest agreement, federal and state funds would be used to make major capital improvements on the commuter line for the two state authorities.

The agreement, approved by both state legislatures and the U.S. Senate, will be passed by the House of Representatives and approved by several federal and state agencies before it goes into effect.

Yule-'Tis the Season To Be Merry, Wary

By JOHN CUNIFF
All Business Analysts

NEW YORK (AP) — For most people the Christmas season is a time to be cheery, but to the Better Business Bureau it is the season to be wary — of scrupulous operators, swindlers and gypsies.

Money is plentiful during the season, and spirits are high. Inspiration flows and guards are down. People are in a hurry and they don't count their change. And the swindlers are well aware of it.

One of the most successful gypsies — and its continuing popularity attests to the gullibility of men — involves a visit of perfume being sold by a street vendor. Any woman would recognize that perfume couldn't be sold at such an abnormally low price. But to a fellow who has just left an office party and is heading home very late, the stuff looks like the magic that will ease his way into the house.

Something about the merchandising method also indicates a real buy: A cardboard carton is spread out on the sidewalk; a hurried, harried vendor stands behind it furtively trying to spot an oncoming policeman.

The gullible husband bites, ignoring his wonderment that such fancy perfume could be spirited from Paris through the customs men to be sold at a fraction of its cost on a city street. It is, of course, nothing more than cheap cologne rebranded.

Another racket is perpetuated by sending a claim stub to an individual stating that the sender is holding a package that will be sent on return of the stub and a small amount of money.

Sceldom is the amount sought very large, because that might arouse the suspicions. The sum might be only $2, the very amount that forgetful Aunt Sally spends on gifts she sends to the children.

Anxious to find what gift is to arrive on return of the stub and the money, the housewife succumbs. In return she receives a gift of almost no value. The package isn't from Aunt Sally. In fact, it has no return address.

Another swindle capitalizes on concern for your neighbor which often is warmer during the cold holidays than it is back on those summer mornings when he started his power mower at 6:30.

Would you please accept a package for Mr. Jones next door?" the messenger asks Mr. Smith, adding innocently, "It's C.O.D."

The magnanimous man of the house, anxious to get back to his television set, hands over the money and receives a strangely light package. By the time his suspicions are aroused the young messenger has scooted away.

What is Mr. Smith to do but take home and then walk over with the package? Mr. Smith opens it and they both have a laugh. Mr. Smith's laugh is as hollow as the box though, because he has been pressed into their hands.

With this knowledge of just how easy it is to beg effectively, many of these same people will be holding out something that holds more money than a palm. It will be a cup, and the intention once will be that the money is for charity.

The customary warnings from the Better Business Bureau and others state that any charity should be investigated before a donation is made. But on a snowy, windy, dark night, how is one to investigate? It's impossible.

The biggest surprise of all, however, may not involve gypsies, and since the effect can be the same, the BBB reminds you this holiday season: If you are buying a battery-operated toy, check before Christmas to see if it needs batteries.

Englishman To Take Charge Of Dublin's Abbey Theater

By DENIS O'CONNOR

DUBLIN (AP) — An urban Englishman who taught wartime spies to act takes over next month in a temple of Irish nationalism, Dublin's renowned Abbey Theater.

North of the border, Lord Hunt, conqueror of Everest, has just reorganized the riot-battered Northern Irish police. Now Prof. Hugh Hunt, his younger brother, becomes artistic director of the Abbey, itself the cockpit of some celebrated riots in the troubled 1920s.

It might seem revolutionary, even dangerous, to put an upper-class Englishman in charge of the Irish Republic's national theater, but it isn't. Hugh Hunt was an Abbey producer for three years before World War II and founded here his reputation as a theater director and administrator.

He left in 1939 to go to Broadway. He spent much of the war in London using his theatrical talents to coach intelligence officers.

He returns to an Abbey Theatre vastly different from the small playhouse destroyed by fire in 1961.

The new Abbey, financed by a government raid on funds from unclaimed wills and helped by an annual subsidy, is one of Europe's most modern and most prosperous theaters.

It includes the smaller Peacock Theatre, which looks after the Abbey's responsibility for experimental work and plays in the Irish language.

Hunt's arrival, Dec. 1 coincides with the first Abbey appearance of movie star Peter O'Toole in Samuel Beckett's "Waiting for Godot," staged as a tribute to the author's capture of this year's Nobel Prize for literature. Beckett was born in Dublin.

Alan Simpson, who retires as Abbey director the day before Hunt takes over, gave Dublin his first production of "Godot" in the small Fike Theater 12 years ago. The new production, directed by Sean Cullen, is the first Dublin production of a Beckett play on a major scale.

Hunt's first major production will be Peter Luke's "Hadrian VII," the fantasy of a man who decides that he is Pope. Cyril Chusick has the lead.

"The first thing," he says, "will be to place greater emphasis on new Irish plays and to encourage Irish writers, new and established, to write for the Abbey."

"At the same time I hope to widen the Abbey classical repertoire with plays stemming from the Irish tradition."

Shapiro Believes Welfare Conflicts Will Be Resolved

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Connecticut's departing welfare commissioner, Bernard Shapiro, says he is confident the state will be vindicated in its disagreement with the federal government over some welfare policies.

The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare has summoned state officials to a Jan. 5 hearing to discuss the disagreement according to Shapiro, administrator of HEW's Social and Rehabilitation Service. Connecticut has failed to conform to some federal regulations.

Shapiro, however, says some federal regulations are "arbitrary and capricious" and he has recommended that Connecticut go to court if necessary to fight federal efforts to strip off federal welfare aid to this state.

At stake are funds estimated by Shapiro at $80 million a year.

If the state did what HEW wants it to, the cost of welfare would rise more than $1 million a year, according to the state welfare department.

Shapiro, who will represent Connecticut at the Jan. 5 hearing, since he is leaving his post on Dec. 7.

The purpose of the hearing is to determine whether Connecticut will receive state aid for continued federal welfare reimbursements if it does not go along with the federal regulations.

Apollo 12 spacecraft, its three parachutes billowing, plunges toward the Pacific Ocean. (AP Photo)

U.S. Never To Resort To Germ War WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon renounced today any resort to chemical or germ warfare and promised to destroy existing stockpiles of bacteriological weapons.

Astronauts Quarantined

ABOARD THE USS HORNET carried a share of mission films (AP) - America's unshockable astronaut research in the biological field will be limited to capsule today while a chest of scientific treasures from the moon was being flown to Houston.

Dr. Clarence Jernigan, a physician isolated with Apollo 12 astronaut Alan Bean, Charles Conrad Jr. and Richard F. Gordon and Bean had a relatively easy schedule today. Medical checks—including blood tests—and telling highlights of their mission into tape recorders were the only events planned.

The three are unshockable to Bean, who along with his shipmates was prompted Monday from commander to captain and back to captain, at 27, the Navy's youngest captain, required medical attention on two counts. A 16mm camera popped free from its stowage Monday during splashdown and landed on the right eyebrow, opening a half-inch cut that had to be stitched. And he has an inflammation probably caused by the atmosphere in the Yankee Clipper spacecraft.

All three specimens had minor irritations where biomedical sensors had been attached to their chests, but none of the problems were considered serious. Difficulty in attaching a plastic tunnel connecting the spacecraft on board the Hornet to the Mobile Quarantine Facility (MQF), delayed off-loading of the lunar rocks and film gathered on the 10-day mission, but the first shipment was still expected at the Manned Spacecraft Center near Houston by mid-afternoon. The schedule calls for both boxes to be put in a vacuum chamber at MSC's Lunar Receiving Laboratory, the first box to be opened Wednesday morning and the second later the same day.

Taking all precautions against losing the entire load of geological gems, officials split the valuable cargo into two lots and put them aboard separate aircraft to be flown first to Pago Pago in American Samoa, then nonstop to Ellington. Each plane also

Pentagon Vague on Charge Officer Faces in Slayings

WASHINGTON (AP) - Army spokesmen say regulations prevent them from stating whether Lt. William L. Calley Jr. is accused of pulling the trigger or issuing the order in the alleged murder of 109 Vietnamese civilians.

But while the Pentagon was being vague on the specifics of its case, a man identified as a former soldier said in a television interview Monday night that he killed the officer who actually pulled the trigger or issued orders to men of his platoon to slay the Vietnamese villagers.

The Army said Monday Calley would be court-martialed on charges of premeditated murder in the 1968 raid on the village of My Lai.

The specifications were expected to be filed Monday night. Calley did not testify in court. He was charged with premeditated murder in the 1968 raid on the village of My Lai.
