

Lee Bailey Enters 'Massacre' Case

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"This was going to be our first real live battle, and we made up our minds we were going to go in and with whatever means possible wipe them out."

A military judge has ordered potential witnesses in the case to withhold public statements until the court martial, Bailey, reached by telephone in Columbus, Ohio said he would ask President Nixon to remove the restriction so Medina could offer a televised version of his recollection of the incident.

The Senate and House Armed Services Committees have ordered investigations, as has the Army. The White House has expressed concern over the case.

Bernhardt, currently stationed at Ft. Dix, N.J., said: "The people who ordered it probably didn't think it would look so bad... It was point-blank murder. Only a few of us refused. I just told them the hell with this, I'm not doing it. I didn't think this was a lawful order."

Spec. 5 John Kinch, still on duty in Vietnam, said he had been point man for the heavy weapons platoon.

"Captain Medina was right in front of us," Kinch said. "Col. Barker, the task force commander, was overhead in his helicopter. He came through on the radio saying he had got word from the medevac (medical evacuation) chopper there were bodies lying everywhere and what was going on. I heard Capt. Medina tell him: 'I don't know what they are doing. The first platoon's in the lead. I am trying to stop it.'"

"Just after that," Kinch continued, "he called the first platoon and said, 'That's enough shooting for today.' Colonel Barker called down for a body count and Medina got back on the horn and said: 'I have a body count of 310.'"

Medina has not been charged in the case. A murder charge has been brought at Ft. Benning, Ga., against one of his platoon leaders, Lt. William L. Calley Jr.

Bailey said Medina reported to his superiors after the attack that there had been 25 to 28 civilian casualties and was told by a major, "That sounds about normal."

"The company commander received no orders to butcher anyone or to kill any women and children—and he issued none," Bailey said in an interview.

Bailey, who said he is representing Medina, said the captain ordered the attack on the village on information that it was full of Viet Cong, and that "they were expected to be the only ones in the village."

"He at no time told anyone to kill women or children or shoot at any of them," the attorney said. "As far as he knows, this was not done."

Bailey said Calley's platoon was on the other side of the village, out of Medina's sight. He said Medina did shoot a Vietnamese who turned out to be a woman, after a helicopter radioed "that there was a Viet Cong lying on the ground and moving with a weapon."

Bailey said Medina later got a helicopter report that there were women and children in the area, but was told only to "exercise caution," not to stop the shooting.

Bailey's defense of Medina followed reports from soldiers involved, some of whom refused to shoot at the women and children.

Among those recalling their experiences in the current issue of Life magazine was Sgt. Michael Bernhardt, who called the incident "point-blank murder."

He said he told his officers: "The hell with this, I'm not doing it."

Sgt. Charles West, a squad leader at My Lai said Medina didn't give us an order to go in and kill women or children."

He said they had been given a briefing that "put fear into a lot of our hearts" and were warned to expect heavy resistance, but added:

"Nobody told us about handing civilians, because at the time I don't think any of us were aware of the fact that we'd run into civilians..."

Protest For Santa's Sake

MARBLEHEAD, Mass. (AP) — A ban on all religious references to Christmas and Hanukkah, a major Jewish holiday, in public schools has been rescinded after parents and children picketed the home of the School Committee chairman and left an inflatable Santa Claus on his lawn.

"The program of observing religious holidays in the Marblehead public school system will continue as it has in the past," the School Committee said in a statement Sunday.

The School Department had issued a statement earlier saying: "All reference to the word Christmas will be eliminated in group activities planned in all Marblehead schools."

School Supt. Auro W. Coleman said the ban was adopted after a conference with clergymen of all faiths in this coastal community north of Boston.

A five-hour School Committee executive session Sunday was picketed by about 50 persons. At one point, Chairman Richard Farrell came outside to talk the protesters to stop singing and blowing car horns.

Fate of 500,000 Men Rests On Tonight's Lottery Results

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tonight the nation holds its first military draft lottery in 37 years, with the fate of half a million men at stake.

There will be a big board with numbers and dates being posted one by one; a hot glare of lights; standing men and women, intently jotting down every announcement and handing the notes to scurrying messengers. It may look more like a hot day in the stock exchange than a December night at Selective Service.

The numbers and dates will be birthdays—each one telling hundreds, or thousands, of men throughout the country their chances of being drafted in 1970.

Just outside Selective Service's jammed conference room where the drawing takes place will be a glass case in the lobby, containing a souvenir from the past.

It's a large glass jar—some kind of laboratory jar—the one used for the first draft lotteries in World War I and again in World War II.

In the lottery drawings of World War II this jar held 10,000 little capsules containing draft registration numbers.

Sample capsules are still in the jar; green and pink plastic with metal ends, like little lipstick tubes, for 1940 and 1941; blue ones for 1942, made entirely of plastic—every bit of metal was being saved by then for war production.

Soon every available man was needed, too, and there was no point to a lottery any more. It was abandoned, even during the low-draft peacetime years, until President Nixon revived the lottery—calling it "random selection"—last Wednesday by signing a law, an executive order, and a proclamation of tonight's drawing.

Even before Nixon signed the lottery into law, Lt. Gen. Louis H. Hersey, draft director since 1941, had ordered a new jar.

The old one held 10,000 capsules and could easily have served again tonight, when only 365 capsules—one for each day of the year, with an extra day for Leap Year—will be mixed and drawn.

But Hersey, 75 years old and being removed from his post as of next Feb. 16, felt the old jar symbolized the past, a spokesman explains. He wanted a new one.

On Nov. 21, two days after Congress approved Nixon's plan, Selective Service ordered a new, bigger laboratory jar, measuring 10 inches in diameter, with sides two feet high and walls a half inch thick. It lists for $110.

The next day, a colonel drove up to the lab supply dealer in northern New Jersey, to pick it up.

Saturday, another colonel and a Navy captain planned to write all the days of the year, from Jan. 1 through Dec. 31, on gummed stickers, roll them up with the writing inside, and pack them into inch-long plastic capsules.

Tests Start Today On Moon Rocks

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Scientists begin tests today on rocks and other moon samples brought back by the Apollo 12 astronauts. They hope the material will unlock more of the moon's mysteries.

The astronauts collected two boxes of rocks, dust and samples gathered by boring into the lunar surface.

The Apollo 12 crewmen—Charles Conrad Jr., Alan L. Bean and Richard F. Gordon Jr.—have nothing scheduled today. A formal debriefing on their mission is to start Tuesday.

All three astronauts had visits from their families Sunday as they relaxed in the quarantine quarters at the Lunar Receiving Laboratory. Conrad also spent some time putting together a radio kit, and Gordon and Bean watched football on television.

Quarantine of the astronauts is to end Dec. 10, if they develop no illnesses that can be traced to a moon microbe.

Scientists ready to put the moon material through further tests in an adjoining part of the laboratory already have noted major differences between the Apollo 12 samples and those returned in July from the first moon-landing expedition, Apollo 11.

Dr. Jeff Warner, a geologist for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said the rocks from Apollo 12 have almost no breccias, or conglomerates fused from a variety of minerals. Almost half of the Apollo 11 rocks were breccias.

This, he said, is the biggest (See Page Twelve)

Viet Legislators Walk into Fire

SONG MY, Vietnam (AP) — An American artillery barrage today forced a South Vietnamese legislative group to abandon plans to visit the scene of the alleged My Lai massacre.

The Marines said they were firing at Viet Cong guerrillas.

Six white phosphorus and high explosive shells crashed into an area about half a mile from the deserted village as the group of 11 Vietnamese officials and some 35 newsmen approached.

"Get away! Get down!" shouted a group of U.S. Marines from a nearby rise as the group appeared just as the first of the shells was fired from a nearby fire support base.

The Marines also fired a machine gun into the air to warn the group, which was headed by Sen. Tran Van Don. Don, the chairman of the Senate defense committee, said he was going to make his own investigation de-

GI Number in Viet at Low

BAIGON (AP) — American military strength in Vietnam has dropped below 400,000 men for the first time in two years, continuing a five-month trend downward that began with the first troop withdrawals last summer, the U.S. Command announced today.

There was increased speculation that President Nixon before the end of the year will announce more withdrawals beyond the 60,000-man reduction ordered so far this year.

The U.S. Command said that as of last Thursday there were 479,500 American troops in the country, a drop of 4,000 men during the previous week and 4,800 under the maximum of 484,000 Nixon set for Dec. 15.

American troop strength in Vietnam was 465,900 two years ago and rose to a high of 543,400 last April.

In its latest weekly strength summary, the U.S. Command gave this breakdown: Army, 321,800; Marines, 55,800; Air Force, 55,800; Navy 31,800; and Coast Guard, 800. Not included are approximately 28,000 Navy personnel and 600 Coast Guardsmen aboard ships of the 7th Fleet operating off the coast.

Meanwhile, enemy attacks across South Vietnam were reported at a low level, but allied spokesmen said this was part of the cyclic pattern that has prevailed in the past year.

Viet Cong sappers moving behind a mortar barrage blasted their way into the compound of a U.S. Army combat support unit eight miles north of the big American supply base at Cam Ranh Bay.

Security forces and helicopter gunships attacked the Viet Cong commandos, and they withdrew within an hour. Headquarters said three Americans were wounded. Material damage was reported light. There was no report of enemy casualties.

Militiamen and U.S. artillery killed 40 Viet Cong Sunday on the northern edge of the Mekong Delta, the allied commands reported, while the Viet Cong made two small attacks on the government pacification program deeper in the Delta.

One South Vietnamese soldier was reported killed and three wounded in the clash between the Viet Cong and militiamen in a rice paddy in Long An province, 24 miles southwest of Saigon. The militiamen killed 27 of the enemy, and then American artillery killed 12 more as they were withdrawing, allied commandos said.

Three civilians were reported killed and four wounded when Viet Cong terrorists threw a hand grenade into a hamlet 60 miles southwest of Saigon. Forty miles farther south.

Britain, Others May Join Europe's Common Market

THE HAGUE (AP) — Chancellor Willy Brandt of West Germany proposed today that negotiations begin as early as next spring to bring Britain, Ireland, Norway and Denmark into the European Common Market.

Brandt made his proposal at the opening session of the Common Market summit, where leaders of the six member states convened to give European unity a fresh impulse.

On hand for the summit were Brandt, French President Georges Pompidou and the prime ministers and foreign ministers of Belgium, Holland, Italy and Luxembourg.

Brandt said: "We are fundamentally agreed that the candidate countries will have to accept our treaties, their goals and the legal decisions that have followed from them."

There also is agreement, he went on, that the main lines for the Common Market's further development must be agreed on and laid before the candidates. He said the candidates would have to accept these too:

"Development and negotiation with the candidates," he went on, "can be carried on in parallel, so that neither will stop the other, but both will support one another."

France has been insisting that the future development of the union be decided over the admittance of the candidates.

Under former President Charles de Gaulle, France twice vetoed Britain's bid. While his successor, Georges Pompidou, has let it be known this standing veto has disappeared, he will nevertheless be striving to fix a high price tag on opening up the community to new members.

In his welcoming speech inside the Ridderzaal, Dutch Prime Minister Piet de Jong spoke of the risks of failure at the summit.

"In deciding to convoke this conference," De Jong said, "we have assumed a heavy responsibility."

"To bring together those who, in their own countries, carry supreme responsibility for the problems we shall examine in the coming days, is to raise the hopes of our peoples."

The problems alluded to by the prime minister are:

—Establishment of a permanent system of financing community farm price supports. The common fund now totals over $2.5 billion, and could reach $4 billion by 1980. Under treaty stipulations, the new scheme must be adopted by Dec. 31.

—Closer monetary, scientific and technical cooperation among the members. In brief, moving beyond the present stage of being a customs union.

—Finally, agreement, perhaps, on how and when to begin negotiations with Britain, Norway, Denmark and Ireland—the candidate states.

French officials have declared there can be no progress on any issues—including new members—until there is accord on farm financing, a vital interest for the French government and its large restless farm population.

France's five partners, most of whom contribute much more to the farm fund than they get out of it, can be expected to fight for a ceiling on the agricultural expenses.

Most diplomatic observers were expecting some kind of compromise—less money for the French than Paris would like, and a pledge to begin talks with Britain after forming a common negotiating mandate.

As the meeting began, demonstrators favoring European unity calmly marched to the Binnenhof, the parliamentary compound, chanting slogans in French and Dutch for a united Europe. Several groups were admitted to the heart of the compound.

The meeting is the first Common Market summit conference in two and a half years, and the lineup has changed considerably in the interim. French President Georges Pompidou and West German Chancellor Willy Brandt are attending for the first time as government chiefs.

The most important figure who has departed is former President Charles de Gaulle of France, who twice blackballed Britain's attempts to join the economic community. Also gone is former West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger, who never seriously challenged De Gaulle's stand.

Pompidou has lifted De Gaulle's veto, but the French are still the chief obstacle to opening negotiations with Britain and the other candidates for membership: Ireland, Denmark, and Norway.

France, chief recipient of agricultural subsidies which now total about $2.4 billion a year, wants assurances from the other five members—Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg and West Germany—that the subsidies will be continued.

The market's executive commission has proposed paying for the subsidies by pooling levies on agricultural imports, customs duties and payments from national treasuries. France has argued against putting any ceiling on the subsidies, but the other members favor such a limit.

Rail Strike Poses Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Around-the-clock mediating sessions aimed at averting a possible nationwide rail strike Wednesday began today.

Administration officials have expressed mild optimism about the outcome.

Representatives of railroad management and four shopcraft unions met with representatives of the National Mediation Board in an effort to settle the contract dispute.

Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz ordered the continuous sessions.

Assistant Labor Secretary W. J. Usery Jr. said "I am optimistic that a settlement will be reached. Both parties have been cooperating. Proposals have been exchanged. Some progress has been made. I believe both earnestly desire to reach an agreement."

But, in case desire falls short of accomplishment, Shultz warned "If a voluntary agreement is not reached by the deadline other actions will have to be considered by the administration."

The unions will be free to strike at 12:01 a.m. EST Wednesday at the expiration of a 60-day no strike injunction issued by President Nixon under the Railway Labor Act.

Although the unions—the AFL-CIO International Associa-

U.S. To Press Soviets, Israel on Peace Plan

(WASHINGTON AP) — The Nixon administration will make a major effort to get Israel to follow a new U.S. peace plan for the Middle East, but only if the Soviet Union accepts the proposal first, according to high ranking officials.

Despite the negative and often belittling noises from Cairo and any event some officials believe no definite answer to the American proposal will come before the December 20 summit conference of Arab heads of state.

In an extensive review on the eve of the resumption of Big Four consultations on the Middle East in New York, the officials summed up the new U.S. proposal, headed by Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin Oct. 26, as follows:

Israel should withdraw behind its pre-1967 borders with Egypt in exchange for Cairo's "binding commitment" to establish peace with Tel Aviv and to keep it.

Both sides would commit themselves to start talks with each other on the basis of the so-called Rhodes formula on "practical security arrangements" regarding the Gaza Strip and Sharm El Sheikh, the strong point guarding the entrance to the Strait of Tiran and the Gulf of Aqaba.

The Rhodes formula, applied in the 1949 Arab-Israeli armistice talks on the Greek island of Rhodes, means that representatives of the two belligerents will meet to discuss the terms of a final settlement, but no final agreement is expected. These may be drafted at a meeting of the six foreign ministers in Brussels starting Dec. 15.

That meeting will consider proposals to reduce farm prices, subsidies and surpluses. Such measures would be welcomed by the United States and other countries which would like to create their export of food to Europe. They would also make Britain's entry into the market easier, since its farm prices are lower than those on the continent.

The meeting in The Hague will be followed in Brussels Wednesday by the annual session of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. There the European Market foreign ministers will meet representatives of the United States, Britain and other Atlantic allies—all interested in what progress has been made toward West European unity.

The South Vietnamese troops are located in the U Minh forest region of Ca Mau and Rach Gia provinces.

A broadcast monitored in Tokyo said the villages sacked by Vietnamese troops were located in the U Minh forest region of Ca Mau and Rach Gia provinces.

It identified only one village, Khanh Lam, where it claimed South Vietnamese troops killed or wounded 107 civilians.

The broadcast claimed 229 other persons, mostly women and children, were killed in six more villages in Song Doc District of Ca Mau Province during the two-month period.

It said the massacres were the second committed by Vietnamese troops in the U Minh area. It claimed the troops killed or wounded 40 civilians in a massacre in the same area in December 1968.

President Nixon uses a golf cart out at San Clemente when he wants to go to the beach... The Journal story even reports that the Iowa barber drives himself to work every morning...

What's Right With America... Some of us are getting a little tired of all the emphasis on what's wrong with America.

Another Choice Coming... What we said at the beginning of the controversy over the nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth for the Supreme Court was still the main thing to be said at the ending.

When—apparently as the result of inadequate investigation of his own nominee—the President gave the opponents of anyone Southern or anyone conservative the weapons of ethical issues, he posed a severe test of conscience and consistency to those of his own supporters who had used the ethical issue against Ford.

There is still nothing to keep the President from nominating to the Supreme Court, if that remains his desire, a conservative who comes from the South and who has a record of distaste for unionization and integration.

We can be thankful for the courage, dignity, and dedicated leadership of President Nixon and his family. We can be thankful that he cannot be stampeded by any street demonstration that happens along the way.

The Nixon Supreme Court appointments are most encouraging and a part of what's right with our country.

Newton's Apple, Fleming's Mold... The same thing that happened to uncounted thousands of human beings on whom apples fell before one fell on Newton, or to hundreds of medical researchers whose germ cultures failed to grow in bread mold before they happened to refuse to grow under the eye of Dr. Alexander Fleming...

Inside Report

JERUSALEM — Although details are scarce, Prime Minister Golda Meir's urgent request for immediate U.S. credits is getting a favorable response from the Nixon administration.

While we have a vocal minority who irresponsibly demonstrate on every supposed wrong in this country, we still have the great silent majority, who still work, educate their children, pay taxes, worship God and patriotically support their country.

We can be thankful for the courage, dignity, and dedicated leadership of President Nixon and his family. We can be thankful that he cannot be stampeded by any street demonstration that happens along the way.

While we have, and will continue to have in the future, some bleeding hearts, liberals, demagogic Senators and Congressmen, we still have a hard core of realistic, patriotic, courageous statesmen that try to keep the ship of state on an even keel even though the waters around them are turbulent and threatening.

"Hartford Fifth Columnists" To the Editor,

A recent report in the Hartford Press revealed that City Manager Eliaha Freedman was more than a little alarmed over a $600,000 amount which was not accounted for in the city's school budget.

It is understandable that City Manager Freedman should demand a full explanation from the school officials concerning such a sizable amount of money.

It is time that all suburban School Boards and so-called civic groups take all the beating and crying of the whole Hartford crowd with a hand full of salt.

Rock Rings Cash Register, Gets Music World Prestige

By WHAYNE EISSMAN
AP Business Writer

That's the group that was between 10 and 17 years old when the Beatles swept Europe and the United States in the early 1960s with their unique style of song and dress and revolutionized the contemporary music scene.

"The impact on sales really started about five years ago," said Fred Castellano of MCA Records Corp., who as a rock promoter provides some 1,200 out-lets with the top 200 long playing and singles each month.

Eighty per cent of his sales are now "contemporary-rock" compared to 60 per cent in the Beatles era.

Martin Roman, executive vice president of Melco, a manufacturer's representative, estimates that 20 to 25 per cent of the 10 million records he sells to the military are now in the rock category.

Gaining fans in popularity among the young military men at home and abroad is Country Western music, with about 40 per cent of his sales, he said.

While recorded rock music sales continue on the upward, live performances are bringing in more money than ever.

Young promoters like moush-mouthed, long-haired Howard Stern, 25, are booking rock performers in prestigious theatres like Carnegie Hall to add to the new lustre of respectability rock now enjoys.

During three days this Thanksgiving week, for example, three of New York City's concert halls had advance sales indicating a gross of almost $50,000 in live rock concerts.

After going without a scene last Christmas, Manchester residents can now enjoy this new 20-piece, fiberglass nativity scene, presented to the town in ceremonies last night by the Nativity Scene Committee. The scene, looking over Main St. from an angle in Center Park, originally had 21 pieces until one figure, a lamb was stolen last week. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Fall in Park Brings Claim

Earl M. Robertson, 30 Fernside Dr. has asked the Town of Manchester to pay a dental bill for his minor son, Alan, allegedly the result of a fall Nov. 19 in Center Springs Park.

Robertson, in a letter filed in the town clerk's office, claims, "He (his son) was pushing a swing and stepped back and tripped on something and hit his face on the swing."

He claims that the boy broke a front tooth and that the dental bill will be approximately $125, for possible root canal work and for a gold, veneer jacket on the tooth.

Book Review

Mrs. Neville's Latest Work A Boys' Book for Everyone

BY VIVIAN FERGUSON

Friend is reading "Traveler From A Small Kingdom." And but I like it, too," said Laurie, my 15-year-old daughter. That's what everybody of any age says about Emily Cheney Neville's books. Her latest, one, "Fogarty" was published this week by Harper & Row. The book jacket states: "Age 12 up." Up is as far as you can go because many young boys enjoy Mrs. Neville's books.

"Fogarty" is the first book by this author. (Her first one, "It's Like This, Cat" won her the 1964 Newbery Medal.) Dan Fogarty is the central figure. An intelligent, young law school student who has become a dropout, he refuses to work until he can assure himself of a good reason for doing so. He is, of course, questioned by his neighbors. He hangs around the local garage, occasionally helping out.

Fogarty has had a disappointing love and he finally writes a play which is produced off-Broadway. Not only is it a flop but he is disappointed with his inability to fall in love with the star of the show, a young girl with whom he has established a fine rapport.

"Fog" finally finds himself and you will have to read the book to find out how. Mrs. Neville's greatest gift is her ability to characterize. Without long detailed descriptions, her characters are as vivid, her deep understanding of human nature and the problems of the young, projects the reader into her stories with great empathy. I must finally mention her award-winning first book. She is a quiet, unassuming woman, modest of nature, she seemed embarrassed by all the attention she was receiving. One picture her quietly spending her life studying and understanding her fellow human beings.

My favorite book, of course, is "Traveler From A Small Kingdom" because it is about her life as a child in Manchester. And my next choice is her prize-winning story above. My son, Tommy, 13, has read both books several times. At the moment, he is 46-year-old.

White Snow Falls

Nativity Scene Dedicated

It seemed as if the snow flurry specifically appeared last night for the dedication of Manchester's new Nativity Scene in Center Park.

About 400 people congregated in the cold evening air to hear beautiful music and watch William J. Stevenson, chairman of the Nativity Scene Committee, turn ownership of the scene over to the town. Strains of "Come All Ye Faithful" welcomed them as they gathered in the park.

Many of those present had contributed money to make the scene possible. Others had been working since last May on the committee, organized by Nativitas Forest, Tall Cedars of Lebanon, to solicit donations and purchase a scene.

The 20-piece Nativity scene was dedicated last night at 7:30 p.m. in Center Park.

Accepting the scene for the town, Mayor Nathan G. Agostinelli said, "In the years to come, as we drive down Main St. past the Nativity Scene, let us remember 'Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men,' and let us try to live by this rule."

Ernest J. Tureck, park superintendent and scene committee member gave a brief speech outlining the history of the Nativity Scene in Manchester.

Tureck explained just who had been involved through the years in making a Nativity scene possible. He said that he himself had gone to the Tall Cedars after the town went without a scene last year and recommended that they organize a committee to work on getting such a scene for this occasion in Manchester.

The innovation was given by the Rev. Clifford O. Simpson of Center Congregational Church, and the benediction by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Edward J. Reardon, pastor of St. James' Church.

The ceremony began at 7 and ended shortly before 9.

Musical selections were provided by the Salvation Army Brass Quartet under the direction of Mayor Kenneth Lance, and by the Manchester High School Round Table Singers, led by Miss Martha White.

The 20-piece Nativity scene, which has a glass manger, "Blissful Night" and "Drummer Boy" near the end of the scene.

The all-male brass chorus, under the direction of Vincent Zito, has sung at gatherings all over New England and volunteered its services for this occasion in Manchester.

The ceremony was given by the Rev. Clifford O. Simpson of Center Congregational Church, and the benediction by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Edward J. Reardon, pastor of St. James' Church.

The ceremony began at 7 and ended shortly before 9.

FOUR HORSEMEN—Four Baltimore defenders, Bubba Smith, Fred Miller, Roy Hilton and Ted Hendricks, move in on Atlanta's Harmon Wages in NFL play.

Take It From Sonny Jurgenson, Rams Have Appropriate Name

NEW YORK (AP) — Take it from Sonny Jurgenson, the Los Angeles Rams have an appropriate nickname. The Rams rammed the National Football League's most prolific passer all over the place while Roman Gabriel led with a sizzling offensive in a 24-14 victory over Washington Sunday that wrapped up the Coastal Division championship for the unbeaten team of the West Coast.

Los Angeles' 11th straight victory—the first time an NFL team has strung that long a winning streak since Cleveland did it in 1955. And, it continues the Rams' hopes of becoming the first team to complete an unbeaten campaign since the Chicago Bears of 1942, when the full season was split in two. The Eagles gave football its point passing only Cleveland's 90 yards in the fading minutes of a 24-14 victory over Chicago—giving the Browns the Century Division title.

Los Angeles will play Minnesota at home on Sunday, the Central Division championship with the Redskins. The Rams' season in Detroit—the Western Conference's premier quarterback? "My credentials speak for themselves," said Lamoni, who tossed two touchdowns to Warren Wells for a season total of 30, ran for another 100 and kicked Namath from start to finish. "I believe in Daryle Lamoni. I take care of him."

For almost the entire first half the game appeared to be following form, with the heavily favored Orange leading 10-0 and the Jets trailing 0-10. The youngsters, with a plentiful supply of veterans, broke a three-game losing streak by stinging the New York Giants 20-10 in a National Football League game before the Super Bowl.

Don Horn, in only his third game, took over for the injured Galt. Horn completed eight of 14 passes for 149 yards and two touchdowns in the Jets' 20-10 victory over the Giants. The Jets' victory put them one-half game up on Kansas City in the Western Division stretch race and postponed the Jets' return to the Division title clincher at least a week.

Player Draft Marks Start of Winter Baseball Meeting

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Baseball's player draft marks the start of the winter baseball meeting. The 1970 All-Star Game also will be decided by a National League City game in this year. Philadelphia, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh, all opening new stadiums next season, are among the leading candidates.

Also due for discussion is a proposal to return all star voting to the fans. The teams have been elected by the voters, coaches and managers since 1905, when Cincinnati's first star game was held. The National League's regular season games between the two leagues will be held in the winter. Also on the agenda are discussions of the possibility of eliminating the All-Star Game, which is held in late July or early August.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon called today for a massive national commitment to end hunger and malnutrition in the United States.

Nixon promised full consideration of any recommendations the conference proposes and said he expected a yearly floor under the income of every American family, supplementing or providing income for 28 million persons.

Nixon said the meeting of experts in the field marks an historic milestone and added: "It sets the seal of urgency on our national commitment to put an end to hunger and malnutrition due to poverty in America."

The President, who got a view of the angry mood of many of the persons invited to the conference, even before his scheduled keynote address, said the central question until now has been whether the nation would accept the problems of malnutrition as a national responsibility.

"That moment has passed," Nixon said. "... Speaking for this administration, I not only accept the responsibility, I claim the responsibility."

An ill-fed child, he explained, is dulled in curiosity, has lower stamina and is distracted from learning. An ill-fed worker produces less and is absent more.

The mounting cost of medical care resulting from illnesses related to diet puts an economic burden on all society, Nixon said.

The President conceded there is room for argument about the extent and severity of hunger but not the existence of hunger itself.

"The plain fact is, he said, "that a great many Americans are not eating well enough to sustain health."

Money is one factor in eradicating malnutrition, Nixon said.

MY LAI, Vietnam (AP) — South Vietnamese legislators are investigating an alleged 1968 massacre of civilians by U.S. troops after this shattered hamlet today after being destroyed by South Vietnamese tanks.

Riding atop two tanks, the legislators brought with them four civilians who said they lived in or were near the hamlet during the alleged massacre of 100 or more villagers.

The legislators said the civilians told them they had not seen American soldiers shooting unarmed men, women and children in My Lai on March 16, 1968, but heard shooting and civilians crying.

Sen. Frank Van Don, leader of the investigating team, who is chairman of the Senate Defense Committee, had been held up in nearby Quang Ngai with his investigating team. South Vietnamese officers told them they could not enter My Lai until militiamen secured the area and made sure it was clear of Viet Cong.

Despite indications armed Viet Cong remained in the area following the South Vietnamese clearing operation, the hamlet was found empty.

Two men among the four civilians accompanying the legislators said they arrived at the incident by escaping into nearby paddy fields.

They told the legislators they saw the Americans entering the hamlet and "heard firing and people crying," reported Sen. Don, who acted as interpreter.

The two men said the women, children and old men in the hamlet—which at the time was under strict Viet Cong control—"gathered together in groups to show they weren't firing weapons."

The men ran out of the hamlet and came back when the Americans left at about 4 p.m., Don said. The two men pointed at the water-filled ditch about 1,000 yards from the hamlet and said they saw 30 bodies lying there after the U.S. troops had gone.

Don's nine-man legislative team—four senators—arrived Monday in Quang Ngai. He said he doubts the villagers' accounts of a massacre—along with many Viet Cong—were killed by U.S. troops during a battle for the village.

Klien told Don: "I believe that official view even though the U.S. Army has charged a lieutenant with premeditated murder of 109 civilians at My Lai and a sergeant with assault with intent to murder. Two other Americans are under investigation."

Don conferred Monday with Klien, who has said he doubts the villagers' accounts of a massacre—along with many Viet Cong—were killed by U.S. troops during a battle for the village.

The U.S. Command announced that the 128 Viet Cong were killed. Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Anderson said he thought the My Lai incident, in which an Army lieutenant has been charged with the murder of 109 South Vietnamese civilians, was a "major tragedy."

Home for Old Burns Down, 55 Missing

NOTRE-DAME-DU-LAC, Que. (AP) — A home for the aged burned down on the ground in this town today, and 55 people were missing.

Police said as many as 55 of its inhabitants were unaccounted for.

Quebec Provincial Police reported that about a score of the 55 persons in the building were known to have escaped the flames that swept through the wooden, three-story building on Lake Temiscouata about 120 miles northeast of Quebec City.

Known to be in the home were an elderly patient, 17 of whom were listed as crippled and unable to move without aid.

But for the fact that too many young men it could mean a disrupted career, sweethearts left behind and the domineering wife, there is nothing dramatic about the blaze.

There are, after all, only so many ways a man can react, with feeling, phrases like "My God, this is a real-fer-serious."

The little bureaucratic ceremony, they could be saved from dullness only by the constant reminder that there is, in others, look never in private homes nearby.

Four bodies were recovered from the ruins of the home, which burned to the ground in an hour's time.

Police said many of the residents may have been trapped in the building.

Floored, But Standing Clear.

BOSTON (AP) — Boston College senior Greg Miller turned down a chance to enter a 1100 pool on what number would be drawn first Monday night in the draft lottery.

Miller said he was "wounded" upon hearing the news, but added, "at least I know where I stand."

Across the Charles River in Cambridge, Roger Gordon of Marblehead, a Harvard student, said he dropped his pencil screaming for a second and shook his head when he Sept. 14th birthday was drawn.

"I paced back and forth for about a mile," he said, "and then called my parents. My father said, 'Oh, no' and there was a long silence."

He said he would seek "alternatives," probably the National Guard.

Dorms, common rooms, even bars — anywhere where a TV set could be found — were crowded in the student population of Boston area during the lottery drawing.

One student, while leaving a fraternity house said: "I'm not taking it."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Men from 18 to 26 years old born on Sept. 14 who have last names starting with the letter J will be the first ones drawn next month under the nation's first Selective Service lottery in a general service headquarters.

In less than an hour and a half Monday night, all 360 days of the year plus Leap Year's Feb. 29 were drawn at random from a big glass laboratory jar at Selective Service headquarters.

The order in which they emerged, rolled up in blue plastic capsules, determines the order in which men with matching birthdays will be called for the draft next year — or, for those now deferred or exempt — in any future year when they become "1-A."

Sen. Alexander Pirnie of New York, ranking Republican on a House subcommittee on the draft, drew the first date on Feb. 29, 1968.

Then a succession of young men, women and representatives of state youth committees emerged earlier this year as unofficial advisers to the Selective Service System — took turns drawing the rest of the dates.

The second one drawn was April 24; then came Dec. 20; then Feb. 14, Oct. 18, Sept. 6, Oct. 28, Sept. 7, Nov. 23, Dec. 6 ...

Three youth advisers had returned to help in the drawing and a fourth balked when his turn came; four others helped in the drawing but only after making unshelved statements — one reading a mild protest signed by a group of students and others more or less supporting the proceedings.

Otherwise the drawing moved smoothly — so smoothly it was finished half an hour sooner than expected.

Following the drawing of the dates, another drawing was held in which letters of the alphabet were shuffled and pulled out to determine the order in which to draft the eligible men.

The new lottery system was signed into law by the President last week and provides the first major reform in the draft since the Selective Service established a complicated form of induction during World War II.

The previous system, which included a long list of deferments was criticized because it left young men uncertain about their fate for as long as seven years.

"The new lottery system is designed to reduce this period of uncertainty to one year," he said.

"The last time the draft was based on a lottery was in 1964. It was a lottery for one year — at least 18 years of age but not 26 years of age by the end of this year now has his place in the lottery. He will be called for the draft in whatever year he becomes 1-A."

"Available for military service," he said, "means that a young man is available for noncombatant military service only."

It is expected to include a limit on the amount of income tax that can be deducted from the gross income of a young man in 1970 in one of these classifications, fully exposed to the draft said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate GOP leaders seek "compromise" tax cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate GOP leaders sought today to shape a compromise income tax proposal which would win both White House approval and Democratic support.

It is expected to include a limit on the amount of income tax that can be deducted from the gross income of a young man in 1970 in one of these classifications, fully exposed to the draft said.

Sept. 14 Birthdays Mean 'D' (Draft) Day for Many

WASHINGTON (AP) — Men from 18 to 26 years old born on Sept. 14 who have last names starting with the letter J will be the first ones drawn next month under the nation's first Selective Service lottery in a general service headquarters.

In less than an hour and a half Monday night, all 360 days of the year plus Leap Year's Feb. 29 were drawn at random from a big glass laboratory jar at Selective Service headquarters.

The order in which they emerged, rolled up in blue plastic capsules, determines the order in which men with matching birthdays will be called for the draft next year — or, for those now deferred or exempt — in any future year when they become "1-A."

Sen. Alexander Pirnie of New York, ranking Republican on a House subcommittee on the draft, drew the first date on Feb. 29, 1968.

Then a succession of young men, women and representatives of state youth committees emerged earlier this year as unofficial advisers to the Selective Service System — took turns drawing the rest of the dates.

The second one drawn was April 24; then came Dec. 20; then Feb. 14, Oct. 18, Sept. 6, Oct. 28, Sept. 7, Nov. 23, Dec. 6 ...

Three youth advisers had returned to help in the drawing and a fourth balked when his turn came; four others helped in the drawing but only after making unshelved statements — one reading a mild protest signed by a group of students and others more or less supporting the proceedings.
