The Communists have, therefore, accepted the invitation to downgrade, to sesculate the peace talks at Paris, we urselves chose to hand them with the resignation of Lodge and the lack of eplacement for him.

Our own willingness to use the Lodge esignation as a chance to show our ontempt for the progress of the Paris seace talks to date was based on our eling that the Communists had, so far, ontributed absolutely nothing to any chance of success there.

But when we chose to play the downgrading, negative game, we might have to respond would be to play the same kind of negative game, which is what Hanol has now done.

There is, of course, another possible way of doing business in this world. But since it doesn't have a very successful time of it selling itself to an advanced. intelligent nation like ourselves, one can hardly expect the wicked and backward Communists to practice it.

The other possible way would be that of responding to negativism not with more negativism, but with a touch of the positive. Thus we might conceivably have re-

Is nonconformity good or bad? There is no aimple answer, for it depends upon certain variables. Often people feel compelled to be different from the majority. This compulsion becomes a virtual obsession, ensiaving them just as certainly as convent on ensiaves certain conformists. With some, being different is as much a source of vanity as being a "dandy" is to others. Many are nonconformists out of a spirit of rebellion against custom, propriety, with no really constructive motive. Some are different in order to "conform" to their group, to "conform" to their group, to be accepted by their cir-cle of "nonconformists."

Conforming and not con-

Conforming and not conforming to accepted norms of behavior are neither good nor bad, per se, but are to be judged by an objective, authoritative standard, and one's true motive. The apostle

At this point, months before the date for election of party officials, Cummings re-election as party chief appears safe.

The Republicans face opposition from only a small segment of their town committee—that faction, mostly YR (Young Republicans) members, which backed William Murray for the post of town clerk. The town committee declined to back him and, in fact, gave silent support to the re-election of Democratic Town Clerk Edward Tomkiel.
