all the nations that did and solemnly agree never to try to build atomic bombs for themselves. The nations that already had atomic bombs would pledge themselves not to help any of the other nations to get them.

Such an agreement, in which those nations which were outside the club promised not to try to get in it, and in which the nations already inside the club were to be allowed to continue their own possession and development of nuclear weapons, got itself called a "non proliferation" treaty.

Just as the United States then was piously disappointed when Russia refused to accept the Baruch Plan which would have left the United States alone as the world's only nuclear power, so the present day nuclear club composed of the United States, Britain and Russia seems saddened by the disclosure that not everybody who doesn't have the bomb now is especially eager to renounce it forever and leave a monopoly of the bomb to the powers which now possess it.

Neither Russia nor America pauses to try and speculate what its own attitude would be, if it happened to be outside the club, and it were being asked to agree never to try to join it, and to have confidence forever in the nuclear policy wisdom of the other nations which did happen to be in it.

Well, the latest news on the nonnuclear proliferation treaty is that the government of Japan, the only country ever to suffer the attack of which the atomic bomb is capable, has become the -95th government to sign the treaty.

But the signing of the treaty by the Japanese government does not have the legal effect of ratification of the treaty will not be happening any time soon. In fact, the Government issued, along with announcement of its signature, a 2,000 word statement in which, in effect, it suggested there might be certain conditions to any eventual ratification of the

How does it happen that governmental bodies and institutions of enlightenment are guilty of causing conditions they are obligated, either legally or morally, to

The answer to this question can be found in Hartford where, in 1967, a law was passed to establish a statewide air pollution control program and an Air Pollution Control Commission. That law was amended last year to provide that the regulations adopted by that commission shall become a part of the State Public Health Code and shall be administered by the commissioner of health. If you are looking for a change, you won't find it. It's true the name Hotel America has disappeared and in its place—the very same place-is Hotel Sonesta. And doesn't Sonesta sound exciting? The Rib Room, for example, can still be called one of the best restaurants in town. Service supreme. And a menu that reflects "culinary perfection." It's all still there and even better than it has ever been.

ST. MARY'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH PARISH HALL - LOCUST STREET

CONNECTICUT SALVAGE CO., INC.

HI, NEIGHBOR!

I'd like to thank our many friends and customers who have visited the Glorious Emporium during our long history of operation (6 months). Our business has been like a subject we can't talk about-when it's s bad it's still pretty good. More of you nice tendly people have us, and

ing us. And, because we still have more merchandise than we have customers for, I write letters. Many of you who are on our mailing list have received our fancy 8-page bulletin this past week, prepared at practically no trouble or expense. This bulletin has already produced some rumblings from Madison Avenue-I hear words like "barbaric," "ghastly" and "horrendous" but I don't care. I only want to please you, the customer-I'm not interested in prizes for artistry and neatness.

Come visit this Friday 10 to 9 and Saturday 10 to 5he coffee is hot, free and delicious and no one will pressure you to buy anything. If you see something you like, wake up somebody and buy it. If it doesn't please you for any reason, bring it back for a "no hard time" refund. We don't really enjoy making refunds, but you'll never know it 'cause we even try to be pleasant about it. As you may mow if you have been here before, there are lots of new items every week. We guarantee you 30% to 60% savings.

Here's a partial list of goodies and baddles we're peddling this week: New stock of groceries; Cannon and other embrandt (Rembrandt Jones, that is); chair and bed ptilows; end tables and commodes; motor off; automatic washers by G.E., Hotpoint and Norge; rook salt; plus host of other items like ranges, refrigerators, carpeting, nd lots of et certeras that I can't even remember. We hope to see (and sell) you. If you haven't been here b fore, we're hard to find near the corner of Adams St.

Dogs Develop Lung Cancer After Being Forced to Smoke

The Washington Post

NEW YORK-A medical scientist reports he has "closed the circle" linking eigarette smoking to lung cancer by growing cancers in 12 beagle dogs. The dogs were forced to smoke nine non-filtered eigarettes a This is the first time, despite years of trying, that scientists have been able to produce lung cancer in animals by making them smoke. The American Cancer So-search results here, said the findings "effectively refute contentions" by the tobacco industry, which has maintained that the link between smoking and lung cancer is merely statistical cause scientists failed to develop lung cancer in animals by making them smoke. A tobacco industry representative present at the press conference refused to comment on the new report because industry scientists have not had the time to study it. But he questioned whether there was a large enough control group of non-smoking dogs to make a valid comparison. The study was conducted by Dr. Oscar Auerbach, a patholo-

N. J., and an expert in smoking the effects of cigarette smoking on the lungs provided much of the underpinning for the 1964 report of the U.S. surgeon general, which stated that cigarette smoking causes hing cancer. A secondary finding of the Auerbach study, said Dr. E. Cuyler Hammond, a Cancer Society vice president for statistical research, showed that cigarettes with effective filters cause less damage to the lungs of dogs than the same cignamed brand of cigarettes. arettes smoked without filters. "The evidence indicates that lung tissue damage advances
