

Top Laos Position Seen Red Target

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao forces that recaptured the Plain of Jars may now be heading toward Muong Suoi, an important Laotian government position nine miles west of the plain, American sources said today.

The sources reported a "light probing attack" during the night on the mountain outpost of Phou Kout, on the western edge of the plain 100 miles north of the capital and on the route to Muong Suoi.

There was no report of casualties in the attack, and it was not clear whether the North Vietnamese had captured the village or pulled back.

Another unconfirmed report said an enemy force was observed moving from the Plain of Jars in the direction of Gen. Vang Pao's headquarters at Long Cheng, 35 miles to the west. Vang Pao commands a force of about 10,000 Meo tribesmen who are paid and trained by the United States.

The North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao captured Muong Suoi and held it for a short time last summer. 728 bombers of the Laotian Air Force operate from a base there.

Government forces were reported "regrouping" after the loss of the Xieng Khouang airfield Saturday drove them from the Plain of Jars. The situation was still "quite confusing," said Col. Thongphanh Knoksy, the spokesman for the Laotian Defense Ministry.

The airfield had been defended by about 1,500 men. Informants said 700 of these had been accounted for, another 700 were believed "wandering around" in the hills on the edges of the plain, and they had no idea what happened to the other 100 or so.

No casualties have been announced by either side.

Thongphanh said the North Vietnamese had used three helicopters and 18 tanks to support some 2,400 ground troops in the successful assault on the Xieng Khouang airfield. He said it was the first time the North Vietnamese had used helicopters in Laos.

The North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao are estimated to have a force of about 20,000 in the area of the Plain of Jars. Opposing them are Vang Pao's 10,000 Meo tribesmen, along with hundreds of American fighter-bombers that fly attack missions from bases in Thailand and South Vietnam and from 7th Fleet carriers in the Gulf of Tonkin.

The U.S. Embassy reported an American helicopter pilot was killed Thursday by sniper fire while ferrying supplies to

'Abduction' Linked To Bank Blast

UNION, Mo. (AP) — Authorities believe there may be a link between a series of bank robberies in Missouri, Delaware and Connecticut and the disappearance of two Franklin County, Mo., residents.

Sheriff Bill Miller says descriptions of bandits who robbed the bank of Pacific, Mo.; the State Bank of Union, Mo., and banks in Wilmington, Del., and Danbury, Conn., are quite similar. Bombs were involved in two of the robberies.

Miller also speculated that J. Russell Pardue, 53, and his 78-year-old mother, Mrs. Daisy Pardue, may have been abducted from their home about five miles west of Union as hostages after the Union Bank robbery. Pardue recently moved from Southport, Conn., to Franklin County.

The Pacific bank was robbed of about $50,000 last May by two men wearing ski masks, one of them armed with a machine gun and the other a sawed-off shotgun.

Bandits answering the same description took $18,000 from the Union bank on Nov. 13 minutes after a bomb exploded in the Franklin County Courthouse, wrecking the sheriff's communications center and injuring 10 persons.

Miller said the robbers fled

Arab Terrorists Attack U.S. Tourists, Kill Woman

JERUSALEM (AP) — Arab terrorists attacked a bus carrying 37 Americans on a "Bible Land Tour" of Israeli-occupied Jordan today and one woman was killed. Two other American women and a local tour guide were wounded.

The woman killed was identified as Barbara Artell, a spokeswoman at Jerusalem's Hadassah Hospital said. An earlier announcement said the woman killed was a Michigan resident but no address was given later when the dead woman was identified.

The wounded American women were identified as Tabes Damico of Atlantic City, N.J., and Lucille Draper, Buffalo, N.Y.

Mrs. Damico told an official at Hadassah Hospital: "We were driving along out of Hebron about 3:20 when suddenly we were being shot at from all sides.

"We crawled under the seats for safety."

Mrs. Damico was slightly wounded in one leg and Mrs. Draper had slight wounds in both legs.

They said they were on a "Bible Land Tour" sponsored by the Baptist Life Insurance Co. of Buffalo, N.Y. and had arrived Saturday.

"Everything so far had been so beautiful, so peaceful and normal," Mrs. Damico said.

The wounded guide was identified by hospital officials as Zvi Grinberg, who lives in the Israeli port of Haifa. He was released from the hospital after treatment for minor wounds from flying glass.

Grinberg said he believed machine gun fire hit the bus, one of two traveling near the village of Halhoul on the outskirts of Hebron. The other bus was not attacked, he said.

Israeli security forces rushed to the scene, surrounded the area and helicopters came in to evacuate the wounded.

A spokesman for the Proper Tourist Agency in Jerusalem said the Americans were all from the New York area and were led by a Rev. Dr. A. Ministry of Tourism spokesman in Jerusalem said Lucille Draper, the clergyman's sister, was one of the women wounded.

The attack came as Prime Minister Golda Meir summoned the envoys of nations with airlines flying to Israel and urged them to press their governments "to stop Arab attacks on civilian airlines." She did this in connection with the crash of a Swissair jetliner Saturday after it took off from Zurich for Israel.

Then in a reporter later to Israel's parliament, the Knesset, Mrs. Meir said her government

Meskill Tells Supporters He'll Run for Governor

By SOL R. COHEN
(Herald Reporter)

To the surprise of no one and in the presence of about 700 delighted Republicans, Sixth District Cong. Thomas J. Meskill this morning announced his candidacy for the GOP nomination for governor.

Meskill made his move at a 9:30 a.m. press conference, in the Terrace Ballroom of the Hartford Hilton Hotel.

Stepping to the rostrum without an introduction, promptly at 9:30, the 42-year-old congressman brought cheers from the invited guests with his opening remarks. "Just to keep the record straight, as of this moment, I am a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor of the State of Connecticut."

His announcement made it a three-way race for the nomination. Previously announced candidates are State Senate Minority Leader Wallace Barnes of Farmington and State Sen. T. Clark Hull of Danbury.

Barnes, considered the front-runner until today's announcement by Meskill, has said he is in the race to stay and that he will force a primary, if he gets the necessary 20 per cent backing of state convention delegates.

Meskill said today, "I offer the best and only possibility for a Republican victory." He said that his decision to run was based on statewide political polls, which showed him leading all potential GOP and Democratic gubernatorial nominees. "The polls," he said, "had a considerable influence on my decision."

He said the decision "has not been an easy one for me."

"But," he added, "I believe that there is a time in a man's life when he is called upon to do more than what is personally rewarding. I believe this is that time in my life."

Acknowledging that he is beginning the campaign "as a slight favorite," he pledged, "I will wage this campaign as if I am the underdog."

Asked to explain "slight favorite" versus "underdog," he said that, based on the results of the polls, he is the "slight favorite," but, based on the Democratic lead in registrations, he is the "underdog." Polls in February may not prove a reality in November, he conceded.

Questioned about whether he will force a primary, in the event he does not receive the nomination, Meskill replied, "I hope to get the nomination. I'm not talking now of a primary, nor even considering it."

"A primary," he said, "is not something to plan for bolstering the party. I'd like to see us avoid one. However, it need not tear the party apart."

He said he has made no choice at present for a Republican candidate for U.S. Senator. "I have great faith in the ability of the state convention to choose the strongest candidate. I will not wait to make known my choice of a candidate and, I will not try to influence the delegates."

U.S. Rep. Lowell Weicker Jr., of Greenwich has called a news conference for Wednesday morning, when he is expected to announce his candidacy for the GOP nomination for U.S. senator.

Reports persist among top state Republicans that they favor a Meskill-Weicker ticket.

Meskill, asked today whether he is a liberal, a moderate or

Swiss Move to Ban Arabs In Wake of Fatal Jet Crash

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — Switzerland issued today a virtual entry ban for Arab nationals, following the crash of an Arab-bound Swissair jetliner in which 47 passengers and crew from nine nations died.

Swiss President Hans Peter Tschudi told a news conference that the Swiss authorities will issue visas to nationals from Arab states only on humanitarian grounds—for visits of relatives—"and where significant Swiss interests are at stake," that is for diplomatic and important business visits.

He said tourist visas will no longer be given to Arabs with the exception of "extraordinary cases," such as trips by journalists.

Tschudi addressed newsmen after an emergency session by the Swiss seven-man collective government probing first official reports on the disaster.

A government statement published at the same time said that investigators thus far definitely established that the crash was caused by an explosion—in the rear of the plane but "it is not yet possible to draw any definite conclusion."

"We do not yet know what actually exploded," Tschudi explained. "It is clear that the government will raise no accusation it cannot prove."

Tschudi did not comment on the reported claim of an Arab guerrilla group—in Beirut, Lebanon, only a few hours after the crash Saturday—that it was responsible for both the crash of the Swissair Conair Coronado, and the explosion in an Austrian passenger plane in the same day in West Germany. The Austrian aircraft made an emergency landing at Frankfurt and no one was hurt. It carried mail for Israel.

The government also decided to convene an international aviation security conference as soon as possible to study ways and means for better protection of civil aircraft. It asked the International Air Transport Association—IATA—presently meeting in Montreal, to prepare the conference and offered to act as its host.

Tschudi announced that Swiss ambassadors in all Arab countries—including the smaller oil sheikhdoms of the Arab peninsula which are also affected by the new visa rules—were instructed to inform the respective governments and invite them to take "active measures against Palestinian resistance groups" to prevent terror acts in Switzerland.

Meanwhile, seven European airlines temporarily banned freight or mail to Israel in a continent-wide security clampdown today. Passenger luggage for Middle East flights was opened at several airports.

Strengthened police details patrolled corridors and lobbies of air terminals in a search for possible saboteurs. Airline officials and pilots' associations hastily called meetings to discuss long-term security measures.

In London, British Overseas Airways Corp. and British European Airways banned freight to Israel for 48 hours. Airlines with indefinite cargo bans included Air France, Swissair, Royal Dutch Airlines, Lufthansa of West Germany and Austrian Airlines.

Airlines were continuing pas-engers to Israel.

They were working together on a study of medical care in Israel, Japan and New Zealand to complete a second book on the subject.

They previously studied medical practices in Poland, Hungary and Czechoslovakia, and published "Social Medicine in Eastern Europe" in 1968.

Dr. Weirnerman, a professor of medicine and medical care at Yale, was director of ambulatory services for Yale-New Haven Hospital.

Four other Americans died in the plane crash. According to the passenger list, they are Mr. Lingafelter of Huntington, N.Y.; A. Silverthorn and Mrs. S. Silverthorn, both of Chula Vista, Calif. and Glenn Ware of Barrington Hills, Ill.

Three State Residents Die In Swissair Plane Crash

Three Connecticut residents were among those killed in the crash of the Swissair jetliner Saturday.

They are Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Richard Weirnerman of Hamden and Melville Meyererson of Stamford. Mr. Meyererson was vice president of Wallach's Clothing Division of Hart, Schaffner and Marx.

Dr. Weirnerman, 52, a Yale University professor of medicine and his wife, Shirley, 51, boarded the plane on the first leg of a trip taking them to Israel, Japan and New Zealand.

The couple were enroute to Israel to complete part of a study commissioned by the World Health Organization and Harvard University Press.

Pompidou, Nixon Meet On Mideast

PARIS (AP) — President Georges Pompidou left for a nine-day tour of the United States today, prepared for demonstrations against his Middle East policies but ready to put those policies in the most favorable light possible in his talks with President Nixon.

Pompidou and his dashing blonde wife, Claude, took off in a light rain.

Heavy security precautions, the threat of unfriendly pickets and prospects for a sizeable congressional boycott when Pompidou addresses a joint session in Washington Wednesday made for a gloomy mood among the president's aides.

After arriving at Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington this afternoon, Pompidou and his wife are to spend tonight at Camp David, the U.S. presidential retreat, before talks begin Tuesday with President Nixon, whom he has never met.

The two presidents are expected to look further down the path of Franco-American reconciliation on which Nixon set out a year ago. U.S. officials have expressed confidence that the White House sessions will be amicable because Nixon will avoid sensitive subjects.

Nixon does not intend to bring up France's relations with the Atlantic Alliance. Although President Charles de Gaulle withdrew French forces from NATO's military structure in 1966, U.S. officials have noted with satisfaction some informal

Housing Crisis Now Hits Middle Class Americans

Editor's Note: In an age of affluence, America isn't meeting its housing needs. This, the first of five articles from the AP Special Assignment Team, looks at the problem through the eyes of the middle class.

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A national housing crisis that long has plagued the poor is beginning to engulf middle class America as the need for housing outstrips production and prices spiral steadily upward.

At the same time, the rising costs and critical shortage of houses are intensifying the pressures, that low-income persons must fight to find a decent place to live.

The government says 26 million new housing units are needed during the next 10 years. Current production is not even half that rate, and it is declining. But marriages—the formation of new families who'll need a place to live—now average 2.1 million a year and are increasing rapidly.

The Associated Press investigated home buying to isolate the tangle of cost and other factors at work. Also evident, however, is the pressure the newer middle class housing miseries are exerting downward.

It works this way: Building costs and tight money make it harder for the upper-middle and upper classes to buy new homes. That, in turn, keeps the lower middle classes from buying the used houses which the wealthier would otherwise sell.

This creates more pressures: canny rates are dropping and on rental property, where rents are increasing. In stair-step fashion, each income level is kept in relatively poorer housing, with the pressure mounting as the production gap increases.

With middle America increasingly feeling the housing sting, the crisis is getting priority attention from both public and private sectors—President Nixon referred Jan. 21 to "the crisis situation we are facing in the housing of our people"—but action that may eventually solve the shortage and blunt cost increases isn't any help to today's house hunters.

One recent weekend, four families looked for houses and found only disappointment.

Jerry and Janet Rogers, parents of two in South Pasadena, Calif., have been searching for a house for nearly a year.

"I guess we're sort of indoctrinated in the east and midwest where the homes are nicer, custom-built and for less money," said Rogers after a tour of three one-story, stucco-coated homes.

But the situation in the midwest isn't that rosy for Ted and Janie Even of Detroit, married less than a year.

"One Sunday when we first started looking," Mrs. Even recalled, "we decided to go into a new house that was for sale in Madison Heights," a blue collar Detroit suburb. "We're looking for something in the $20,000-$25,000 range and we thought that was about how much it was."

"But when we asked the man in charge how much it cost, he said $34,000 and we just said 'thank you,' and turned and walked away. He must have thought we were some kind of nuts."

James and Catherine Smith, professional musicians who recently moved to Miami, already have faced the music on house prices.

Business And The Crusaders: New York City's Better Business Bureau, organized to protect consumers against irresponsible and dishonest business practices...

Washington's Advice: For years it was a custom among newspapers to report George Washington's Farewell Address to his birth-day...

Well, hardly anybody makes patriotic gestures any more. Flag-waving is treated as at best a quaint, if not a somewhat quaint, relic of a bygone era...

Many officials in government and numbers of consumer activists act on the basis of emotion and prejudice...

Industry is not without its faults, Woodrow Wirsig, president of the New York Bureau, conceded. But he doubted that the consumer is quite as helpless as some crusaders pretend he is.

And he doubted, too, that anybody either has the right to demand constant perfection or would choose to pay the price for it.

For the moment, we suppose, the crusaders, and their followers, will look on such a speech, and the applause for it, as an effort, on the part of business, to cover up its own guilt and avoid reality reforming itself.

But in the long run, as the great crusaders for the consumer keep flitting from one sensational peril to another, the public is going to have to realize that consumerism is, in reality, getting to be a big business of its own, which means it is subject to an occasional lapse in ethics...

Skelton Bounces Thurber: If there were any television viewers who fancied themselves as arbiters of taste, and they indulged themselves in a few moments of unfriendly judgment when they heard, the other day, that CBS had finally had enough of Red Skelton, what happened next served such presumptions characters right.

Not only was Red Skelton immediately picked up and signed to a new series, by NBC.

Stowaway Dead; He Fell From Plane

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — A 14-year-old boy who ran away from a "boys' town" to see the world fell 200 feet to his death from the wheel housing of a Japanese airliner Sunday.

C. M. Sapsford, a university lecturer in industrial engineering, identified the child as his foster son Keith, 14.

"All my son wanted to do was to see the world," said Sapsford. "He had itchy feet. His determination to see how the rest of the world lives has cost him his life."

Sapsford said the boy had run away before, and his mother, a wife took him around the world in the hope the trip would satisfy his desire to see the world.

Officials at the airport said they were notified by a Japanese Air Lines jetliner several hours before the plane took off and found the child in the wheel housing.

The plane was flying over the Pacific Ocean when the child fell from the ground and the wheels were down.

They thought that when the floor was opened after the take-off so the wheel could be retracted, the child fell to his death.

Officials of the airline said that even if he had not fallen, Keith would have died within 90 minutes after the plane took off for Japan. They said he would have been crushed by the wheel when it closed.

Inside Israel

physical security more tangible than Arab commitments to living in peace... The majority expectation is that it will lead, some years from now, to another war, which Israel will win. But there nevertheless remains hope that the Arab peoples and their leaders could, in the interim, tire of futilely despairing of another military onslaught, and opt for a negotiated settlement.

The Arab requirements for a sign of peace negotiations now. Their demands, essentially for the abandonment of the Arab boycott, and for a cessation of Jewish immigration, are more than they think they are willing to grant.

Thus, in talking of ultimate settlement, Israelis and their government look like hawks and present a very hard-nosed portrait of themselves to the world. But as an astute editor recently observed, it is easier to be a hawk in Israel than in the United States, he explained: "Americans have a car that gives up in Vietnam, while our government will end the war by bringing the threat of attack and cast doubt on the validity of its word and commitments, but cannot argue that it would subject America to military attack on its own shores or immediately threaten its military security. But an Israeli hawk can say, with all accuracy, that it is exchanging one cease-firing for a much weaker one."

It is not surprising, therefore, that a majority of Israelis would give back all of Sinai and the Golan Heights, but not the West Bank and the Gaza Strip, as now, on the other side of the Jordan and the west bank of the Suez Canal.

I am convinced that today, as has been true every day since the end of the June 1967 war, a majority of Israelis would give back all of Sinai and the Golan Heights, but not the West Bank and the Gaza Strip, as now, on the other side of the Jordan and the west bank of the Suez Canal.

About Town

Manchester Adult Evening School classes will not meet this week. Classes will resume March 1.

Men who would like to sing with the Manchester Chapter, S.P.E.B.S.Q.A., Monday at 8 p.m. at the Army-Navy Club may contact Dennis Santoro, 397 Spring St.

The leadership training class of North United Methodist Church will meet tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. at the church.

Members of the Manchester Civic Orchestra will not rehearse tonight.

Preceptor Gamma Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, will meet tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Albert Post, 59 Ferguson Rd. for the annual birthday party. Members are reminded to bring 10 cent gifts.

Memorial Temple, Pythian Sisters, will meet tomorrow at 8 p.m. at Odd Fellows Hall. Refreshments will be served.

Power Interruption

Residences on 12 streets in the Highland Park area will be affected by an electric service interruption for 1 1/2 hours Wednesday morning, starting at 9 o'clock.

The area is bounded on the north by Spring St., on the south by Wynding Hill Rd., on the east by Thimble Rd. and on the west by Dartmouth Rd. A complete list of affected streets appears in a HELCO advertisement in today's Herald.

Marvin Osterling, Manchester HELCO office manager, said the interruption is due to a distribution system conversion from 5,000 to 25,000 volts to meet the demand for increasing customer loads. The work may include the installation of new transformers.

In case of inclement weather, the interruption will occur Thursday at the same time.

Jehovah's Witness will hold a theocratic ministry school tomorrow at 7:30 p.m.

Two Declare For Congress

Manchester State Sen. David Barry now has two declared opponents to his expected candidacy for the Democratic nomination for First District congressman—State Sen. Jay Jackson of West Hartford and former East Hartford mayor John D. Brennan.

Barry announced his candidacy last Wednesday. Brennan announced his on Saturday. Barry has called a press conference for 10 a.m. Friday, at the Hotel Sossata, Hartford. He is expected to announce his formal candidacy then.

Among several undeclared candidates are State Insurance Commissioner William Cotter of Hartford and State Rep. James Kennedy, also of Hartford. Kennedy, son-in-law of State Democratic Chairman John Maloney, spoke to the Manchester Democratic Town Committee last Wednesday. His appointment drew favorable comments from several of the committee members.

Today, two members of the committee confirmed reports that they are backing Cotter for the nomination. They are Steve Cavagnaro, former town chairman, and Joseph Macaluso, former constable.

Last month, by a unanimous vote, the committee endorsed Barry for a candidacy and urged him to enter the race.

The 12 Manchester delegates to the June 20th First Congressional District Democratic Convention will be expected to give all of their votes to Barry, at least on the first ballot. Presumably, if subsequent ballots are needed, they will be free to vote as they see fit. Manchester does not operate under the unit rule.

Pill Probe Causes Panic, Senate Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — A catastrophic abortion "where the woman birth control specialist told a Senate subcommittee today that its hearings into the safety of the pill had created international panic and prompted a wave of unwanted pregnancies."

Dr. Elizabeth B. Connell of Columbia University said a step-down in pregnancies "strikes profound fear in the hearts of those who deal daily with women and population problems."

Dr. Connell characterized some of the conclusions reached by witnesses at hearings last month by the Senate subcommittee. Testimony then linked the pill to scores of side effects, including cancer, fatal blood clotting, diabetes and heart trouble.

"From a purely scientific point of view, much of the information displayed thus far can be blamed to the relationship between a drunken man and a high-top—more for support than for illumination," she said.

Dr. Connell, a mother of six and the first woman to testify at the hearings, said even the most violent of critics of the pill had to concede its data was limited and that many of its conclusions were based on unsupported speculation.

She commented in testimony prepared for delivery before the panel headed by Democrat Gay Johnson of Georgia, N.C., former president of the American Academy of General Practice.

The subcommittee is resuming for two days hearings on the pill. Dr. Connell was invited to testify at the instance of Republican members of the subcommittee. Some of the GOP members have said the hearings and others in a three-year probe by Nelson of drug industry pricing and development have been biased against the industry.

Dr. Connell, associate professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Columbia and director of research and development for its International Institute for the Study of Human Reproduction, said: "We are just beginning to see the first of the pregnancies of women who panicked in January, stopped their pills, and did not seek or use another means of birth control."

"These women will not be here to testify," she went on, "but they now bear within their bodies the testimony of the ineffectiveness of induced fear."

Adding that it was "axiomatic" that illegal abortions also will increase, Dr. Connell said her conclusion that panic had been caused was based on statistics such as these from a Detroit clinic: "In Detroit, 115 patients asked to discontinue pills and were fitted with diaphragms. Examined with diaphragms, 100 patients were trained in general practitioners, with the other 85 per cent becoming specialists. He said the ratio should be reversed."

Dr. Paul Patterson of Albany, N.Y., Medical College, said general diseases are responsible for 25 per cent of admissions to hospitals and institutions for the handicapped—often at a "home destroying cost."

Doctor Says Hospitals Bed Needlessly

By WALTER R. MEARS. WASHINGTON (AP) — A family doctor from North Carolina testified today that about 10 per cent of the people admitted to hospitals do not need to be there.

"These patients are there as good, or perhaps better—certainly less expensive—health and medicine care by means other than by lying horizontal in a hospital bed," said Dr. Amos Johnson of Gastonia, N.C., former president of the American Academy of General Practice.

Censure of Arabs Mounts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. WASHINGTON (AP) — A condemnation of Arab terrorism in parliament, that effective steps be taken today in the wake of the ambush of a busload of American Christians in Israel, was announced by the U.S. government.

Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., the chairman, said he hoped to find ways in which more compensation could be brought down to the level of the victims.

Johnson blamed unnecessary hospital admissions on the health insurance system—and also on physicians who "find it much more convenient, time-saving and financially rewarding" to hospitalize patients.

He said medical education has been a result of the crash of the health insurance system—and also on physicians who "find it much more convenient, time-saving and financially rewarding" to hospitalize patients.

World Pilots May Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — The president of the International Federation of Air Line Pilots Associations has warned of possible worldwide strike if efforts are not made to protect civilian planes.

Capt. Olo Forsberg said he would ask the United Nations and the airlines to guarantee an end to repeated incidents of terrorism against civil aviation.

"We feel that the United Nations is the only one that can get this rule done so quickly," he said.

He said a 24-hour, worldwide work stoppage may be considered if his organization's annual meeting March 11 in London.

In London, British air transport service Arab airlines refused to fly over the Middle East, saying the United States campaign to create a moratorium atmosphere for the Middle East conflict—but the first Arab fighter-bomber will be sold to Iran.

The British government said it has agreed to sell the aircraft to Iran.

One Cairo newspaper, Al-Gumhuriya, described the outcry as "American-Israeli alibi" designed to "divert attention from the crime that they committed against civilian workers at Abu Zaabal, a reference to the Israeli bombing Feb. 12 of a metal factory north of Cairo that killed 80 workers."

Al-Akhar said in an editorial: "The Zionists backed by their American imperialist allies have rushed in with charges claiming that Palestinians are a threat to civil aviation and communications. The purpose is obvious: to turn the world public opinion against the Palestinians and portray them as vandals and killers."

Another church member, Mrs. Kenneth Bos had been caring for the two Erie children, 8-year-old Dorothy and 7-year-old Sharon since their parents left.

The semiofficial newspaper Al-Arabiya, Saudi Arabian, said the airline was in its second year.

Laird Unveils ABM Growth

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird unveiled today plans to defend a third U.S. missile base with Safeguard antiballistic missiles and to prepare five other sites for possible later expansion of the system.

The plans for the groundwork for the administration to build at least two-thirds of a $12-billion system that some members of Congress fear will become even more expensive.

Laird, testifying before the Senate Armed Services Committee, called it "the minimum we can do and must do to defend against missiles of the Soviet Union and the emerging Red Chinese nuclear threat."

The administration initiated the Safeguard system last year with defenses of two Air Force Minuteman bases at Malmstrom Air Force Base in Montana and Grand Forks Air Force Base in North Dakota.

Under the latest expansion, which will involve annual spending at this point of only $620 million because of the early stage, Laird said the administration plans to:

Deploy an additional Safeguard defense site at Whiteman Air Force Base, a Minuteman complex, in Missouri.

Begin advanced preparation work on five other sites "without a deployment commitment" in the northeast, northwest, the Midwest and Ohio area.

Tour Meant As 'Gift' For Slain Woman

GRANDVILLE, Mich. (AP) — A close friend of a Grandville woman killed during an attack on a bus in occupied Jordan, said the woman had been on a tour meant as a "gift" for her.

The wounded woman and her husband, Dan Loo, of Detroit, were on their way to the Holy Land when they were attacked by Palestinian guerrillas in a bad light.

The Soviet news agency Tass said the same line earlier Monday, saying the United States campaign to create a moratorium atmosphere for the Middle East conflict—but the first Arab fighter-bomber will be sold to Iran.

Thirty Lives Believed Lost As Avalanche Jars Village

RECKINGEN, Switzerland (AP) — An avalanche crashed through this sleeping village at dawn today and 30 persons were feared dead.

Seven bodies were recovered but 10 hours after the slide struck 20 persons were still listed as missing.

Villagers said there is "no hope" for those still buried. Many of the victims were Swiss army officers whose barracks were crushed by the masses of snow which piled up 30-feet high. They were attached to a small anticaircraft unit stationed in the village.

More than 20 persons were dug out alive, but several were badly injured and in a critical condition.

A storekeeper's wife, Mrs. Leo Mueller, said: "I didn't hear the slide. I was awakened by uproar and shouting in the village—I thought someone had been celebrating. My husband and I rushed outside and saw that the military barracks and seven houses had been raved. One of the barracks walls was over 200 yards away."

"Two of the houses were vacation chalets, but only one was occupied. Fortunately the Swiss family in it was sleeping in the cellar and managed to get out. But the soldiers had no chance—two of their bodies were decapitated. There is no hope for the rest still under the snow—they are all soldiers. A second avalanche hit the village a few hours later, destroying a Catholic chapel, but no one was in the vicinity."

Hotel employe Heinz Jerjen said: "I was awakened by a tremendous roaring sound. I knew right away it was an avalanche and I dove to the wall for cover but it did not reach the hotel."

Reckingen is in Valais state, about 20 miles northwest of the town of Brig.

Five of the dead were identified as officers, two women and a 12-year-old boy, all Swiss.

B52 Bombers Hitting Laos, Sources Say

SAIGON (AP) — The United States is waiting the Vietnam government to authorize B52 bombing campaigns in eastern Laos, informed sources said today.

Sources estimated that more than 200 sorties—a sortie is one flight by one bomber—have been flown over the Ho Chi in the Michigan-Ohio area.

Nixon Grets Pompidou: 'France Our Oldest Friend'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Asked about reports there might be a boycott of the French President Georges Pompidou's visit to the White House today, President Nixon said he knew of no such plans.

"As far as I know," he declared, "I will be given the traditional honor due to him and his country."

Several thousand invited guests joined Nixon in welcoming the French chief of state in ceremonies on the White House grounds today. Pompidou was brought to the White House by helicopter from an overnight stay at Camp David, Nixon's mountain retreat in nearby Maryland.

In two days of talks, Nixon said, he and Pompidou will touch on "the great problems of the world. We will work together for liberty and independence of all people."

Specifically, the speakers complained of the French sale of jet fighters to Libya, refusing to deliver 50 aircraft already paid for by Israel.
