Award Winners at Culinary Show

Story by VIVIAN FERGUSON

Awards for high culinary talent were presented yesterday to 12th annual restaurant show and culinary arts exhibit held at the Hartford Hilton. Mario Castra of Boston, who had created a delicate tiered decorative arrangement of spun sugar was adjudged as having the most artistic piece in the show. He is a pastry cook at Hotel Sonesta, Hartford and the former owner of Mario's Bake Shop on Main St., which no longer exists.

His delicate creation was entitled "La Douce Fantaisie" which in French means Fantasy Cake. His wife more aptly calls it "La Primavera" - "spring" in Italian. Primarily in white, delicate tiny pastel flowers provided the only touch of color, it is truly a masterpiece. Chef Caldera worked both at home and at the hotel. Transporting the fragile creation posed the greatest problem. As it was necessary to set up the piece in the early morning, there was some question as to whether the cold air would crack the spun sugar.

The best seafood award went to George Catalone of Sycamore Lane, Manchester. He is executive chef of Glastonbury Hills Country Club. Using a large salmon as the central theme, his classic artistry was arranged on a large mirror. It was so perfect that it seemed almost unreal. He had created flower petals from red lobster claws as garnishes for salmon steaks. Glazed with apple, the total effect held the quality of a fine painting.

Joseph Gaudreau, executive chef of Crestfield Convalescent Hospital, and a prizewinner last year, entered a mosaic centerpiece in the symbol of peace, the dove. Using a tallow base, he dyed egg shells various colors which were broken and carefully arranged to resemble mosaic. The dove was outlined with licorice piping. Dennis Klotzer, executive chef of Manchester Memorial Hospital, used a small pig to depict the dissection of a hog. Side removed. Cooked cuts of pork were arranged in their proper position - in effect, he depicted the anatomy of the animal in cooked form. The whole was covered with a burgundy glaze.

Two works were displayed by Peter Schroll of David's Restaurant at the Parkade - beef tongue chaudi-froid and frog's legs a la Peter. Chaudi-froid is a dish that is first cooked as a hot dish but served cold, usually glazed with apple. Chaud, of course, means hot and froid, cold.

The Grand Salon award given for an entire buffet table including centerpiece, main dishes, hors d'oeuvres and dessert went to The Hartford Hilton executive chef, Larry Marx.

A great deal of artistry, which takes hard work as well as skill, goes into the food presentations at the Culinary Show. While it is strictly haute cuisine, the non-professionals will enjoy seeing it. The work is good in all the entered categories which run the gamut from hors d'oeuvres to desserts. An outstanding table features a tall croquembouche centerpiece surrounded with exquisite tiny pastries. The classic croquembouche is made of little cream-puffs sautéed with cream and custard, glazed with sugar that has been cooked to the crack cake

Judged the most artistic creation of the 12th annual culinary exhibit, "La Douce Fantaisie" is the work of Mario Caldera of Boston.

Dennis Klotzer, Manchester native, used a small pig to depict the dissection of a hog using cooked meats. Klotzer is a one time winner of a scholarship awarded by Connecticut Chef's Association.

Reef tongue chaudi-froid and frog's legs a la Peter were displayed by Peter Schroll who will shortly move to Manchester from Rockville.

Joseph Gaudreau, also of Manchester, created a mosaic centerpiece using dyed egg shells formed into the symbol of peace.

Vernon Drug Cases Involving 11 Continued

The cases of the 11 youths who were arrested last week in Vernon on drug charges were scheduled for trial in Tolland County Superior Court yesterday. However, all were continued to future dates with bonds reduced in two more of the cases.

Two of $4,000 were lowered to $1,000 for Mark DeConte, 18, of Carol Dr., and Victor Johnson, 17, of 55 Center Rd.

These cases and those of Thomas Johnson, 22, of 55 Center Rd., Nicholas Zenick Jr., 22, Brookfield St., Bolton, and Raymond Griffin, 18, of 2 Highgate Cir., Ellington, were continued to next Wednesday.

The cases of the other six were continued for two weeks. Special public defenders were appointed to represent the youths.

John Johnson, 17, of the town who was apprehended last week while being accidentally by local police at Rockville High School, was sentenced to up to three years in the state prison by Superior Judge Alva P. Lottelie.

Charles Morrill, 20, of Merrow Rd., Tolland, had pleaded guilty to two charges. He was sentenced to one year on a charge of luring and entering with criminal intent and a year and a day to three years on a charge of burglary.

He further noted that Tolland would have to follow regulations forbidding the open burning of rubbish, following the results of the 1970 census. The town is in effect exempting Tolland for now.

He suggested the town investigate the possibilities of participating in the state C-DAF planning program, but explained it was most valuable to a town only when the town's residents actively participate in its formation. Too often when a plan of this nature is completed by a professional outside planner it merely lies on the shelves of the town hall, he explained.

In supporting efforts in the area of conservation and preservation, Elliott explains, "The town has a responsibility to leave it in better condition than we found it."

Midwest Football
William J. Skonieczki, commissioner of Charter Oak Middle and Pony Football Conference, will meet with a group interested in forming a midwest football team in Tolland.

The meeting will be held March 12 at the Italian-American Club.

Tolland More Town Planning Urged To Solve Local Problems

The town faces several problems in the area of future planning and conservation, according to Tolland County Extension Agent John Elliott.

Speaking last night to the Tolland Junior Woman's Club Conservation Committee, Elliott stressed the need for more concrete planning for the future of the town.

Included in this planning would be where and how much wetlands should be preserved, where should industry be located and what type of housing should be located in the various sections of town.

Zoning regulation enforcement should be strict enough to prevent the building of houses on swampy areas, he added.

The overall plan of the town should be reviewed and updated every two weeks, he suggested, to make sure it is serving the best interests of the townpeople.

He suggested a filtration pond be dug just above Crandall's Pond to trap the silt and debris which would otherwise flow into the pond, possibly turning it into a mudhole in another five to eight years.

Asked about the burying of telephone and power company lines, particularly on the Green, Elliott replied that there were plans in existence to do this, but that he was not aware of the timetable. A major factor would be the costs involved.

Historical Society Meets
The Tolland Historical Society will meet March 2 at 7:30 p.m. in the United Congregational Church Religious Education Building.

Stewart Danforth will present an illustrated talk on the restoration of his circa 1720 house, which was originally an L-shaped house located on the corner of Rt. 31 and Cedar Swamp Rd. It is still in the process of being restored.

Mother-Daughter Banquet
The United Congregational Church will hold its annual Mother-Daughter banquet March 5 at 6 p.m. at the Italian-American Club.

Following the tradition of the banquet the men of the church will follow the dinner. Ticket reservations may be made by contacting Mrs. Donald Miller, Mrs. Roger Gullie, Mrs. Eddy Woods, Mrs. Alfred Gottler, Mrs. Thomas Moore or Mrs. Charles Ramondo.

Truck Rolls Over
A van truck was extensively damaged yesterday morning at 9:28 when its driver lost control of the truck on I-84.

The truck rolled over on the left shoulder of I-84, according to a report by state police. The driver Joseph B. Kinney, 41, of Chestnut Hill Rd., Brighton, Mass., was treated for head cuts and released from Rockville Hospital.

Police explained the right wheel of the truck became loose as it was traveling west on I-84, causing Krinsky to lose control of the vehicle.

The Conservation Commission will meet tomorrow night at 7:30 at the home of Chairman Lyle Thorpe on Anderson Rd.

Supreme Court To Review New Hampshire Libel Case

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court of the United States agreed Tuesday to review a libel judgment of $20,000 against the Governor, N.H. Moore. The state's high court, taking note of the Supreme Court's decision in a similar case involving the late Dr. Pearson which was known as the "Pearson case," said that the case was of national importance.

The case was appealed from the decision of the New Hampshire Supreme Court upholding the verdict in the suit of former Rep. Alphonse Roy. Roy now is deceased.

In the New Hampshire trial it was ruled that the column, which stated that the governor had committed a "private libel" rather than legitimate criticism of a public figure.

In the case stemming from a Pearson column published in the Concord paper in 1960, the trial judge instructed the jury that it could bring in a verdict favoring Roy without finding reckless disregard of the truth on the part of the paper and the syndicate if it found the evidence was purely private libel and that there was no time to give for public offense.

Attorneys for the paper and the syndicate, in seeking the Supreme Court review of the case, maintained that the state

Narrates Film

Frank W. McLaughlin, executive director of the New Jersey Audubon Society, will narrate the fourth in the Audubon color film series Sunday at 3 p.m. in Bailey Auditorium of Manchester High School.

The series is sponsored jointly by the Lutz Junior Museum and Manchester Jaycees. Tickets may be purchased at the museum or the Jaycees.

McLaughlin has been a leader in the fight to obtain legal protection for the birds and animals, and conservation of these natural areas still to be found in New Jersey.

"Where Are These Votes Now?"

I have been greatly disturbed by the terrorism to allians operating in Israel. It now appears that Arab terrorists are accomplishing by their acts of terrorism against civilians the very thing that their countries were unable to do by military force of arms, that is to accomplish the slow strangulation of the State of Israel. There can be little doubt that an air blockade which is what has now been accomplished is equivalent to, if not more than, a sea blockade in its damaging effect on a country and a sea blockade is recognized by all nations to be an act of war. Are we to let by and watch the only bastion of democracy in the Middle East slowly strangled? I submit that there is no time to give up service to a policy of even handedness - when other powers, England, France and Russia stand strongly on one side. I look at this as the survival of a people and a nation. Six million should have been enough. Every retaliatory act of Israel and 20 rubands, Coast Guard is condemned by the President and his Secretary of State, by the United Nations.

Masons To Visit In Rhode Island

Manchester Lodge of Masons will exemplify the Master Mason degree and the Hiram Legend in full form on Saturday, April 25, on the stage at the Newport (R.I.) High School.

Manchester Lodge has made many fraternal visits to the Providence area over the past eight years, but this is its first visit to Newport, birthplace and former home of its Worshipful Master, James A. Stratford.

The lodge will be the guest of the Providence area lodge, St. Paul's Lodge of Middlebury, R. I. There will be a supper for Manchester Lodge at 5 p.m. at the Middletown Masonic Temple.

"We are of the opinion that small-time bootlegging activity about 800 Rhode Island Masons are expected to attend the program at the high school. Rhode Island dignitaries from both the Connecticut and Grand Island Grand Lodges will attend."

The trial judge is present.

At GOP Lunch Agostinelli Criticizes Tax System Inequity

Manchester Mayor Nathaniel Agostinelli yesterday criticized what he called the inequities of the local property tax in Connecticut and indicated that more state aid is necessary to bring the local tax structure into balance.

Agostinelli spoke at the week by statewide GOP Dutch-treat luncheon, at the Shoreham M.V. political office in the state, for local, Hartford. The day's luncheon, which was proclaimed "Manchester Day" by Republican State Chairman Howard Hausman and 16 Manchester persons were among the 50 who heard Agostinelli speak.

The 10 are State Rep. Donald Genovesi, GOP town chairman M. Adler Dobbin, vice chairman Sandra Taylor, Town Treasurer Rosebud Quish, Women's Republican Club president Mary Fletcher, Elsa Dobkin, Ernestine Brown, Margaret Dunfield, Mildred Dennison and Edward Fitzgerald.

Genovesi and Dobbin sat at the head table with Hausman and Agostinelli.

Agostinelli, at the beginning of his speech, praised Sixth District Congressman Thomas Meskill "on his fine presentation Tuesday, when he declared himself a candidate for nomination for governor."

Chamber Backs Bennett, Illing Smarten Clubs

D. Paul Lamon, Manchester Chamber of Commerce chairman, announced his committee has approved support of the Chamber of Bennett and Illing Junior High Schools as its youth club, this year.

Among other things, the clubs, with Mrs. Eleanore Skinner of Bennett and Kenneth Krivacic of Illing as advisors, are formulating programs to combat drug traffic and educate young people about the dangers of drug misuse.

The project is two evening performances and a matinee of a play, "Concepts," in the East Gate High School auditorium on Friday and Saturday, March 20 and 21. The play is written by the actors and former drug addicts who "do their own thing" in the Kings Highway Center, Milford.

Lamon's committee has accepted the plan, with Manchester High School Principal George Gagnier and Robert Duggan, coordinator of youth services for the Board of Education, as co-directors; and teachers and chaplains for the performances; rooms and meals for the director and 10 actors; "Concepts" and has contacted and made arrangements for the contract signing with the troupe's agency, DuPont Village of New York City.

poor little oil-consumer New England. New England's Republican legislators keep fighting valiantly for some relief for their region: they are always outnumbered.

The second factor against New England is that of the sheer weight of the oil industry, which now has the exact kind of import regulation it wants and which can concentrate untidily on fighting off any and all change.

Against such political and economic weight combined New England's special case almost divides to the status of a plea for mercy when it ought to be merely a claim for fairness and justice.

To conclude the President Nixon has just lacked the political courage to accept the recommendations of his own task force is not to argue that New England could hope for better treatment under a Democratic administration. Our last Democratic President was from Texas.

President Nixon at least keeps the question open, and, theoretically at least, optionable. Who knows, there may come a moment when he feels he can dispense a little justice to New England without doing too much political injury to all state Republican candidates. Perhaps, some cynical Washington comment suggests, the day after election day next November.

"BEACH OF THE ROCK," PORTIMAO, PORTUGAL. With Reginald Photo in Portugal

Inside Report

by Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON — U.S. development of the antiballistic missile (ABM), approved by a one-vote margin in the Senate last year after a convoluted battle, is proving to be best card in the U.S. hand in strategic arms limitation talks with the Soviet Union.

"Without the ABM, we would have been dead at Helsinki," one top Presidential arms-control adviser said privately in assessing the first stage of the arms talks in Finland.

Although U.S. experts learned long ago to be, triply cautious in appraising Soviet negotiating objectives—real objectives, as opposed to propaganda objectives—the Helsinki talks now in recess, left the following impression on the American negotiating team:

U.S. development of the ABM has become almost an obsession with Moscow. However, U.S. development of MIRV—multiple, independently-targeted reentry vehicles—is almost beneath Soviet attention.

If this genuinity reflects Soviet thinking, it means that the ABM, not the MIRV, is the best U.S. bargaining counter in trying to convince Moscow that the time has come to ease off the dangerous nuclear arms race.

The Nixon administration definitely thinks so. Thus, Secretary Milton Laird, who led the 1969 talks for phase-one of President Nixon's "Safeguard" ABM plan, is just an anxious for out last year's decision to move ahead with the ABM, it might not have come at all.

In 1970, heads of the various U.S. government departments met with President George Washington at his home, the first U.S. Cabinet meeting on record.

When Premier Alexei Kosygin came and met President Johnson at Glassboro, N.J., in 1967, he defended the Soviet beginning of an ABM system as a humanitarian insurance policy—a defense measure for civilians against possible nuclear attack.

This appraisal had undergone considerable transformation at Helsinki. Instead of being a humanitarian insurance policy, it had become a wicked multiplying factor in U.S. escalation of the arms race. In other words, rapid technological advances by the U.S. in ABM development had obliterated the Soviet rationale about ABMs.

Indeed, the Soviets now seem to be duplicating Mr. Johnson's position at Glassboro when he argued that neither nation should start building an ABM. Mr. Johnson's view was that, once either side began development of the ABM, the other side would have to develop a new offensive capability to offset the added protection of the ABM.

This made little or no impression on the Russians. Now, however, as they face a more advanced ABM technology in the U.S. than they themselves possess, they regard the U.S. eye as one that carries the gravest long-range threat to the Soviet Union.

THE ADDRESS FILES, By Lawrence Sanders. Pufman, $5.95.

An exciting story, told in an unusual way, this novel does not fit into any convenient category. It is about crime, but it is not a detective tale.

Duke Anderson is a professional stickup man and burglar, with inherent talents that might have taken him far if he had been on the right side of the law. A chance encounter with a sex-hungry matron leads him to a luxury town house on New York's upper East Side, now converted into an eight-story apartment house. It occurs to Duke that it would be a great opportunity to clean out the whole place—money, jewels, furs, securities, paintings, the whole works.

For months, Duke organizes a crew and acquires the building. His gang includes an ex-professional adept in cutting wires, picking locks and opening safes; a flutney homosexual who identifies objects of value, and some muscle men. He gets expensive money from a branch of the Mafia—men who are less interested in the payoff than in maintaining their reputations as terrorists.

The showdown comes on a Labor Day weekend when one of the tenants are away. One flakey factor that one could have foreseen alerts the police, and there is a war-like mobilization of law forces.

Most of the narrative consists of tape recordings from hidden microphones that various federal, state and local agencies have planted near the major and minor characters to learn of evasion, narcotics, securities violations, gambling, etc. — Unfortunately, there was no coordination among the agencies.

The stark realism of this method of narration gives the story a gripping effect. Yet the novel narrative technique does not smother the humor and pathos of the individual characters' lives.

This is a highly engaging and quite readable. And well worth reading.

Downs sees the humor in such situations as modern man entering to the ancient family fireplace at his back yard barbecue; or as a hobbyist, building models of antique modes of transportation. He even has a nostalgic bit about flying, making the point that today's supersonic aircraft are too much like rockets to be actual airplanes.

The author writes well, in a crisp style (or as we're supposed to say these days, he "communicates"). This is an odd book, but it contains some intellectual epics. Miles A. Smith

Book Review

MODERN EUROPE: A Popular History. By Thomas P. Neill. Doubleday, $6.95.

Most Americans trace their origin to Europe and much of U.S. history centers on that continent. The Yanks fought in two world wars, and there our tax dollars fueling the Marshall Plan, led the way to the prosperity that much of the continent enjoys today.

Thus almost any dispatch of substance from Europe raises questions of precedent; to a sort of "how did things get the way they are?"

This book by Prof. Thomas P. Neill of St. Louis University tells the story from 1789 to the fall of Charles de Gaulle. It will help you straighten out which Napoleon was which, how fascism got the hold it did in Germany and Italy, how "Queen Victoria saved the monarchy in England by being proper and respectable and not interfering in political matters."

To tell the story in 300 pages means there must be some shortcuts and an occasional stumble. It is hardly that Hamburg was "reduced to rubble," though its loss of buildings and lives in 1945 was frightful.

Over-all, Neill throws light in dark corners and when he finds the occasion does not hesitate to give his opinion. He says trenchantly if ungrammatically: "The outstanding examples of senseless bombing however, were the atomic bombs dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki instead of on a nonpopulated area to demonstrate the power that could have been used."

The book would have been enhanced elsewhere by editing, as in this sentence about West Germany: "The Christian Democrats were rewarded by the voters for their exceptional leadership by being given absolute majorities in 1963 and 1967." It's a bit simpler to say "The voters rewarded the Christian Democrats for their exceptional leadership, gave them absolute majorities."

The lack of maps, even an end paper, is frustrating.

THE BEST NATURE WRITING OF JOSEPH WOOD KRUTCH. Morrow, $5.95.

The author has selected 34 essays from his previous books. The nature of this collection, and it spans a good many subjects.

There are five chapters, one of which the first, "New England and the Desert," describes his reactions to the natural joys of southern Connecticut and then of Arizona. The second, "Other Lives," is a pleasantly literary adventure into the worlds of certain mice, frogs, toads, birds and other creatures.

Krutch is not a lyrical writer, nor a rabidist, in treating these subjects, but as an amateur naturalist he has a greater empathy with nature than the professionals.

The third section is keyed to geology; specifically, the Grand Canyon, the buttes, mesas and mountains of the Southwest and the coral dunes of Utah. But even Krutch cannot make geology very enchanting.

The last two sections are more reflective and philosophical. The author's attitude that man is a part of the natural world and cannot escape that fact; it is with man's relationship to the rest of nature that he is most concerned. He feels that the present concept of progress is inadequate, and that science should be humanized.

This collection of essays is evidence that Krutch is a cogent thinker about nature, even while he is celebrating the joys of communicating with some nature's more engaging creatures. Miles A. Smith

THE ADDRESS FILES, By Lawrence Sanders. Pufman, $5.95.

An exciting story, told in an unusual way, this novel does not fit into any convenient category. It is about crime, but it is not a detective tale.

Duke Anderson is a professional stickup man and burglar, with inherent talents that might have taken him far if he had been on the right side of the law. A chance encounter with a sex-hungry matron leads him to a luxury town house on New York's upper East Side, now converted into an eight-story apartment house. It occurs to Duke that it would be a great opportunity to clean out the whole place—money, jewels, furs, securities, paintings, the whole works.

For months, Duke organizes a crew and acquires the building. His gang includes an ex-professional adept in cutting wires, picking locks and opening safes; a flutney homosexual who identifies objects of value, and some muscle men. He gets expensive money from a branch of the Mafia—men who are less interested in the payoff than in maintaining their reputations as terrorists.

The showdown comes on a Labor Day weekend when one of the tenants are away. One flakey factor that one could have foreseen alerts the police, and there is a war-like mobilization of law forces.

Most of the narrative consists of tape recordings from hidden microphones that various federal, state and local agencies have

Book Review

EQUILIBRIUM. By Tombo Guerra. Walker and Company, $4.95.

This is the first novel of Tombo Guerra, who co-scripted the films "Flow-Up," "Eclipse" and "L'Avventura," among others.

The background is particularly important to those who have seen the films, directed by Michelangelo Antonioni, since the novel contains much of the same haunting, yet "startling" quality.

This is a highly engaging and quite readable. And well worth reading.

Downs sees the humor in such situations as modern man entering to the ancient family fireplace at his back yard barbecue; or as a hobbyist, building models of antique modes of transportation. He even has a nostalgic bit about flying, making the point that today's supersonic aircraft are too much like rockets to be actual airplanes.

The author writes well, in a crisp style (or as we're supposed to say these days, he "communicates"). This is an odd book, but it contains some intellectual epics. Miles A. Smith

A Man's Closet as His Life Fills with Things of Comfort

By HAL BOYLE

"Why in heaven's name would you want that now?"

"Because I wore it in the only war I ever knew. See this stain here? That's where I spilled some coffee while I was writing you a letter from a foxhole in Belgium. By the way, did you throw away the letter?"

"No, of course not."

"Then why do I have to throw away the jacket?"

"All right, keep it. But you do have to throw away something."

The husband fishes deeper in the closet and brings out a pair of shoes, dusty but new looking. I bought these years ago but couldn't wear them because they were too tight," he says, "Then why did you keep them?"

"I thought that as I grew older my feet might shrink."

"Get rid of them."

Looking at her husband curiously, the wife asks, "Just why do men like disorderly closets anyway? Wouldn't it be easier to find things if your closets were neat?"

"Well, a woman's closet is like an army on parade, full of bright new things, row on row, like fabric draped by scores of revolving dummies. She likes that fibers in her closet, why shouldn't he like it in his?"

"So, in order to move what he can, he finally settles down to the chore himself."

"It'll sit down and watch you," his wife says, smiling, pulling up a chair.

The husband dips tentatively in a box amid the tumbled things and starts pulling out items.

"Must I throw away my grammar school diploma? My mother had it framed for me."

"No," she says. "You can keep that."

"How about this old high school sweater? I was wearing it the first time I met you."

"Well, I guess you can keep that, too."

"How about this old military jacket?"

The husband closes the closet door. Safe for another year.

MIT Unveils Entry In 'Clean Air Race'

By NILES J. BRITZLAUS Associated Press Writer

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — With a crash of breaking glass and the "splash" of a half-gallon of "imported" fresh air from Cape Cod, two students from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology unveiled Monday the latest version of their low-polluting, electric-powered car.

Gov. Francis W. Sargent watched as pretty M.I.T. secretary Colleen Kough smashed the bottled air against the car's rear bumper, and then he climbed in for the inaugural tour. With David A. Saar, 21, one of the car's builders, beside him, the governor moved off with a buzz and a high-pitched whine for a 15 mile per hour turn around the final home.

The race is a follow-up to the "Great Electric Car Race" of 1968, in which electric cars built by M.I.T. and the California Institute of Technology raced each other across the country, in opposite directions, to help stimulate non-polluting automobiles. California won that race by a hair.

The "Clean Air Race" is open to collegiate groups around the world and may draw ten or more entrants, including the "re-match" cars from M.I.T., said Saar, who would race for the car to take top honors in next summer's "Clean Air Race."

Senseless Subway Assaults Worry Stockholm Citizens

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — After the incident, one policeman said he had been assaulted and injured by two young men jabbing the winter hibernation of the subway system.

Police officials say elderly people stay away from certain subway stations, knowing that by entering they risk being knocked down for sport by teenagers of both sexes. Assault victims are often battered to the ground by robbery attempts.

Having police patrols have been reinforced with a special "beat" method designed to make the force versatile enough to catch up with quick-footed youngsters.

"Big brother" police officers watch the subway on television monitors in a command center equipped with an extensive public address system.

The aim is "total saturation" of the subway system, authorities explain.

"If troublemakers see TV cameras eyes and policemen everywhere, we hope they will think twice about knocking somebody down," a policeman on the subway beat commented. Even as he spoke, there was a scream from across the well-lit underground transit hall. Several youths scattered, leaving a young woman sobbing forlornly in front of a smashed display window.

Police quickly moved in and arrested several youngsters dressed in sheepskin coats.

As Others See Us

LONDON (AP) — The Chicago trial which resulted last week in five convictions on charges of inciting to riot, received wide comment in British newspapers.

"It did look like two worlds meeting each other in mutual incomprehension," wrote correspondent Colin Cross of the Observer. "But neither the judge nor the defendants are really a part of mainstream America. Reality is somewhere in the middle, best represented by the jury."

Sunday Times reporter Cal McCrystal called the trial "troubling" and said the defendants had been "accused of a state of mind."

DRUMS along the POTOMAC

Drum major in fur and leather helmet commands musicians with his esponton.

Uniform in style of Washington's Continental Army.

George Washington had a tin ear. He himself admitted "I can neither sing one of the songs nor raise a single note on any instrument to convince the unbelieving."

Despite his lack of musical ability he would have had little trouble recognizing the music played each year on his birthday at Mount Vernon by the Fife and Drum Corps of the Honor Guard Company, 3rd Infantry (The Old Guard), U.S. Army, Fort Myer, Virginia.

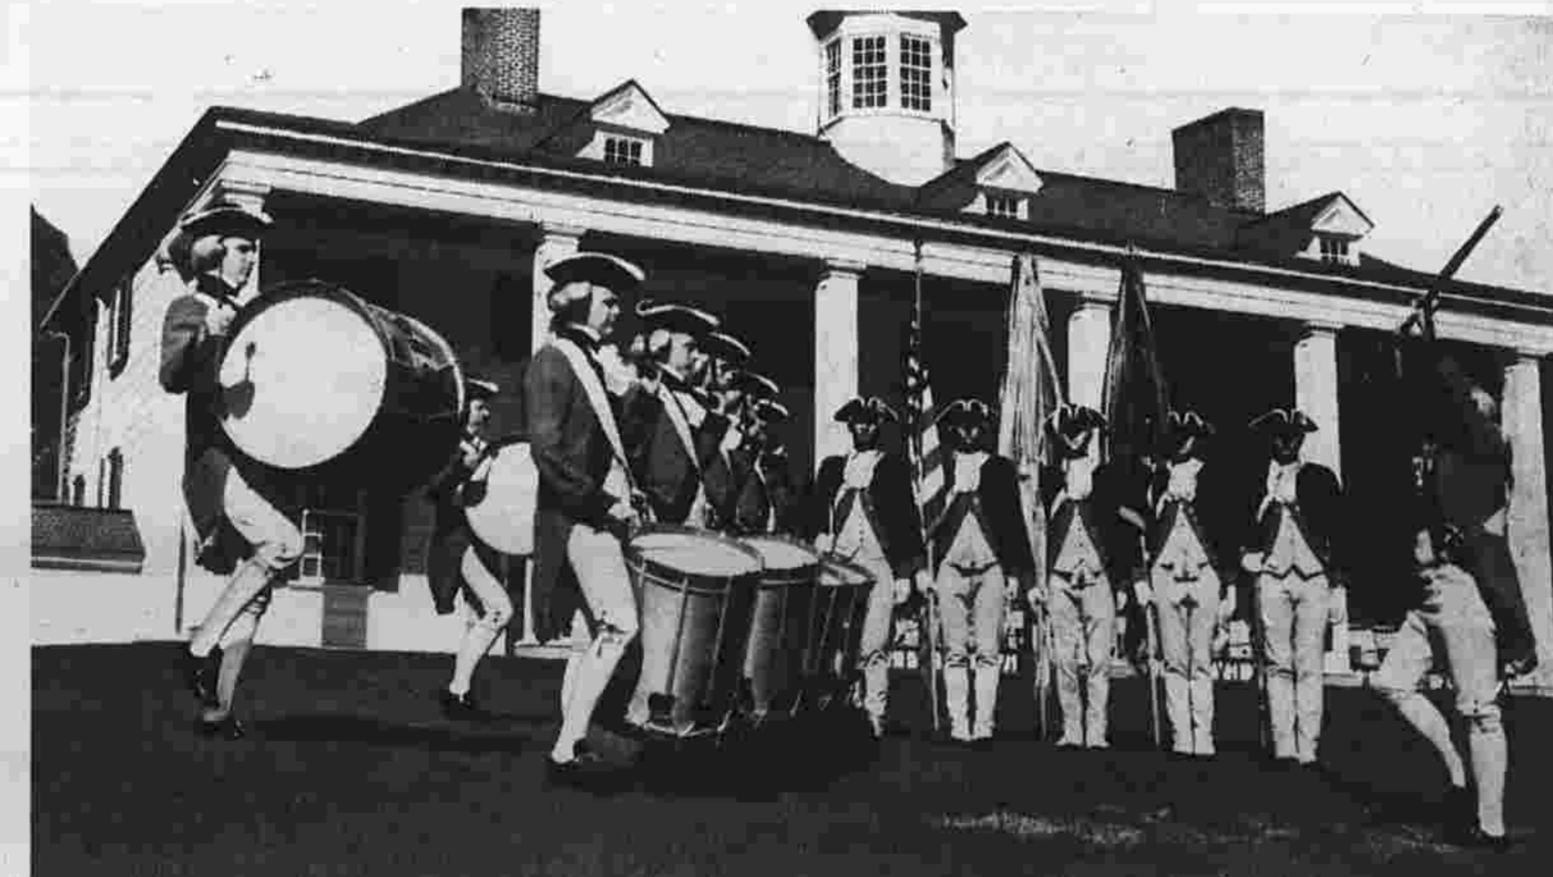

The Corps dresses in exact copies of fife and drum corps uniforms of the Revolutionary era—including wigs, the drum major wears a large fur and leather helmet, the Light Infantry Cap, as his badge of distinction, and brandishes an esponton, an infantry weapon once carrier by commissioned officers, to convey commands to the musicians.

The Corps uses six-hole wooden fifes, hand-made, rope-tensioned drums and baggles, replicas of those used in Revolutionary times. The music includes such tunes as "The World Turned Upside Down," which the British played as they surrendered to Washington at Yorktown, "Yankee Doodle" and other Revolutionary airs—all thoroughly researched before they were added to the repertoire.

In addition to the special birthday music, the band plays at many events in Washington, throughout the nation, and in foreign countries.

Hanoi Blames Miscarriages On Sprays

TOKYO (AP) North Vietnam said today that chemicals allegedly spread by U.S. troops in South Vietnam "have had very disastrous effects on child-bearing."

Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency (VNA) said a resident of Ta Pang village in Tay Ninh Province complained that his wife had a miscarriage "because of toxic chemicals spread by U.S. imperialists."

She was quoted as saying that U.S. planes dumped hundreds of barrels of chemical poison "on his village" last Oct. 12, after that, he said, his wife had "violent fits of fever and fits of delirium."

He added a week later the hospital which admitted his wife, reported that the seven-month old fetus within her had died.

The agency said 10 other women had miscarriages "resulting from chemical sprays."

It said "the common symptoms of poisoning by the chemicals were violent fever, hemorrhage and headache of the mothers and severe damage to a child to participate in the infant's stomach skin."

Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency (VNA) said a resident of Ta Pang village in Tay Ninh Province complained that his wife had a miscarriage "because of toxic chemicals spread by U.S. imperialists."

She was quoted as saying that U.S. planes dumped hundreds of barrels of chemical poison "on his village" last Oct. 12, after that, he said, his wife had "violent fits of fever and fits of delirium."

He added a week later the hospital which admitted his wife, reported that the seven-month old fetus within her had died.

The agency said 10 other women had miscarriages "resulting from chemical sprays."

It said "the common symptoms of poisoning by the chemicals were violent fever, hemorrhage and headache of the mothers and severe damage to a child to participate in the infant's stomach skin."

Bids Invited On Pool Parts

Bids will be opened March 6, at 11 a.m., in the Municipal Building, for filter replacements in the Verplank and Sullers Swimming Pools. The replacements will be for both the main pools and the wading pools.

The specs for the bids call for prices for Verplank Pool only, for Sullers Pool only, and for both combined.

They ask also for a price on salvage credit for the existing filters, pumps, motors and piping at the two pools.

The specs state that the new Verplank filter system must be installed and completed by June 15 of this year. The new Sullers system must be installed and completed after the end of the 1970 swimming season and before the beginning of the 1971 season.

Opposition Building To ABM Proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Nixon administration's proposed expansion of the Safeguard missile defense system is running into a creative opposition in the Senate.

Those who favor confining the ABM to defend U.S. offensive missile bases are joining opponents solidly against any expansion, adding a new level of opposition to the proposal, and prompting some senators to say the administration's plan faces an uphill fight.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird laid out details of the second Safeguard phase Tuesday, calling for authorization of a third ABM site at the White House Air Force Base, Mo., missile base and advanced work including site acquisition and so-called "long lead time" components for five others.

In addition, the plan outlined by Laird to the Senate Armed Services Committee and the defense appropriations subcommittee urged expansion of the two initial sites, Grand Forks Air Force Base, N.D., and Malmstrom Air Force Base, Mont., by adding more Sprint intercepter missiles.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., co-leader of the bipartisan effort last year which failed on a 50-50 vote to limit the ABM to research, said "It has already been acknowledged that the system of last year is not adequate for hard-point defense" of the United States.

Sen. George Allen, R-Va., an ABM opponent last year, said he thinks the administration faces an "uphill fight" especially in his proposal to start with area defense against Red China.

"This is involved in four of the five additional sites, those in Washington state, the Michigan-Ohio region, southern New England and the Washington, D.C., area."

"It will be a close question," Alken said.

But Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, said, "This would move along somewhat easier than last year, perhaps."

Sen. John G. Pastore, D-R.I., a 1969 Safeguard supporter, has said he thinks the program should be confined to the first two sites. Pastore is likely to be especially active in fighting extension of the ABM to New England, Alken said.

A clue to the way the battle is likely to develop came in the statement by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., a senior member of the Armed Services Committee who was ABM floor manager a year ago.

Jackson supported both the expansion of the two initial sites and inclusion of the third base in Missouri.

He added he favors ABM protection for the fourth offensive missile base, Warren Air Force Base, Wyo.

But Jackson expressed "grave doubt, however, of the wisdom of moving now to the thin and Chinese area defense," he told newsmen there would still be plenty of time to move in this area a year from now if the Chinese threat develops.

Opponents of any ABM expansion are likely to base their arguments on the system's technical imperfections; its cost, now estimated at least at $12 billion for the 1980s; Safeguard's development might have on the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) with the Soviet Union.

But their ranks appear likely to be swelled when they seek to block the start on the five additional sites.

Church and Gap Topic of Panel

"The Church and the Generation Gap in the 70's," a symposium, will be held during a Lenten Desert Meeting, Sunday at 4 p.m., in Drumhuff Hall of Center Congregational Church. The event is open to the public.

Dr. David Warren will be the symposium moderator for a panel discussion of "Why the Generation Gap?" "Narrowing the Gap," Miss Linda Rich, who received a degree in child development from the University of Connecticut; and William Edwards, a student at Central Connecticut State College, will represent one side of the "gap." The Rev. Tolly Williamson, chaplain at Manchester Memorial Hospital; and the Rev. Earle R. Custer, pastor of Second Congregational Church, will represent the other side.

There will be a question and answer period after the discussion.

Robert Simmers, a deacon of Center Church, is in charge of the evening which will open with strawberry shortcake and coffee.

Reservations are requested, and may be made by contacting the church office.

C-DAP Called Pioneer Venture To Involve Citizens in Plans

The Community Development Action Plan (C-DAP) represents a pioneering venture to involve Connecticut citizens in planning at the community level to improve the quality of their lives, and is not a "big brother" attempt by the state to take over the planning functions of local government.

This was the keynote sounded by John F. Merchant, deputy commissioner of the Department of Community Affairs, (DCA) in an address last night to 200 citizens and officials attending a C-DAP conference in Windsor.

Merchant said his department is particularly concerned with how our towns and cities can respond to the needs for change and, at the same time, retain their autonomy and integrity.

"We think C-DAP will provide a viable response for making changes in an orderly way," he said. "But he — and several other conference panelists — warned that C-DAP could only succeed in the degree of citizen participation in planning at the local level.

And that participation must include "just plain folks" from all walks of life, including minority groups, he added. Himself, a Negro, Merchant charged that much of America's urban mess stems from "the fact that we have not really listened to our black citizens. I assure you they want to — and stand ready to help us — go down the same road together."

Merchant was given a standing ovation at the conclusion of his remarks.

The conference, for towns in C-DAP District 2 (including Manchester and comprising the Capital Region), was attended by delegates from about 30 of the 36 communities.

It was termed by DCA officials by far the best attended of four similar discussions on C-DAP held to date in various parts of the state.

Manchester, which is in the first phase of developing a five-step, two-year C-DAP plan, was represented at yesterday's program by three town officials: John Harkins, assistant town manager and C-DAP coordinator; Helton Schaffer, a member of the school board; and Wilson E. Deakin Jr., assistant superintendent of schools.

The C-DAP plan, done by an advisory group of some 100 citizens and town officials, is designed to improve the community's long-range needs and set priorities for action in 12 basic areas of life.

Seven task forces of the advisory group in Manchester have over the past several months set long-range (20-year) goals and six-year objectives for each of the areas.

These have been defined as: housing, transportation and urban development, and guidelines governing federal participation in community development.

Damage chairman of the guidelines committee on rural and urban development, was expressed to pleased for stipulations governing federal participation in community development.

He pointed out that he was "standing in" at the conference for DCA Commissioner Lafayette Jones, who is attending today's National Governors' Conference in Washington, D.C., with Gov. John Dempsey.

Dempsey, chairman of the National Governors' Conference on rural and urban development, was expressed to pleased for stipulations governing federal participation in community development.

He was slated to urge the adoption of an over-all federal policy covering such diverse areas as population growth, housing, transportation and urban development, and guidelines governing federal participation in community development.

National community development policy guidelines are now spread among various federal agencies, such as the Federal Housing Administration and the Department of Agriculture and Housing and Urban Development, resulting in competing and conflicting policies at the state level.

To date, 68 of Connecticut's 169 towns — with 80 per cent of the state population — have C-DAP plans under way, Merchant informed last night's conference at Windsor's Sheraton-Tobacco Valley Inn.

In District 2 (which includes Manchester) the figure is somewhat higher and includes 20 of the 36 communities, he noted.

He admitted the program — begun after the 1967 State Legislature established a Department of Community Affairs — has "experienced problems in getting under way."

"But we believe it has been worth it because the department has allowed towns maximum leeway in determining their procedures," he said.

The conference included two panels by C-DAP participants and state officials who discussed the rationale of C-DAP and operation of the various community programs from their points of view.

CAC Members Adopt 13 New Objectives

Meeting together last night in the Highland Park School, some 18 members of the Citizens Advisory Committee (CAC) adopted 13 new objectives and revised others for submission to the C-DAP Agency.

It was learned that the CAC goals and objectives will not be discussed at the March 3 and 10 meetings of the I-90 Board of Directors since they were not available in complete form a week ahead of time for the board's inspection.

Eugene Montana, CAC chairman, said the list would be available in time for the April board meeting and would be discussed at the March 3 and 10 meetings. He said the extra time could be used to polish up existing goals and objectives and add some "new" ones.

John Harkins, assistant town manager and C-DAP coordinator, said members of the C-DAP Agency and Traveler's Research Corp. are already meeting to discuss, eliminate and write goals and objectives submitted by Manchester's CAC.

Representatives of the C-DAP Agency will meet with individual task force chairmen during the month to discuss their changes and suggestions, Harkins said.

The health and social services committee added several objectives in the field of dental health including one "relating" to fluoridation of all town water supplies.

The task force also threw out a previous suggestion for a mobile dental health unit and other in the field of public education and assistance. One objective calls for a dental internship program in Manchester Memorial Hospital to provide dental services that are available to certain segments of the community.

The public safety and transportation task force added several objectives to increase the protection of town residents, to provide the background and competence of police and fire department personnel, to keep the town well-lit, to provide adequate parking facilities, and to ensure that sidewalk and road design is in accordance with established patterns.

The plan also call for relocation on high-rise apartments to provide fire safety and adequate parking space.

One objective calls for a criminal justice facility including room for police department detention, juvenile and court facilities, and facilities for allied social services.

All motions and corrections were voted on by those present and given the final approval necessary before submission to the C-DAP Agency.

Police Officer Latest Victim Of Robbery

A daylight break into the 382 E. Center St. home of Capt. George McCaughey of the Manchester Police Department yesterday netted thieves $710 in bills and coins.

Capt. McCaughey, who had the day off from work, had taken his son on a day trip, returned home briefly about 2 p.m., and then left the house. Mrs. McCaughey was alone away during the afternoon, police reported.

When the family returned again in late afternoon, a coin collection was discovered missing from an upstairs bedroom. Further investigation revealed sums of $300 and $95 in bills taken from two bankbooks, $250 in rolled coins removed from a desk drawer, and $64 also in coins, stolen from a glass bottle.

Police said there was no ransacking, nor any sign of forced entry.

Vernon Vo-Ag Budget Voted by Board

The Board of Education Monday approved the projected budget for the Vocational-Agricultural School. This estimate of expenditures covers the school years 1970-71 and 1971-72.

The regional center at Rockville High School is partly funded by the state and the budget must be submitted to the State Board of Education after approval by the local board, but is open to revision.

According to the figures approved, the total estimated cost for operating the center for an expected 96 pupils is $87,725 for 1970-71 and $74,225 for 1971-72. The estimated cost per pupil is $775 for 1970-71 and $775 for 1971-72. The estimated grant request is $35,210.33 for the first year and $48,100 for the second.

In Manchester's Future? Planned Community Rising at Middletown

By CLEM EWELL YOUNG (Herald Reporter)

(First of Two Articles)

Connecticut planners abandoned their zoning and sewer problems temporarily last week to take a look at that portion of the future which has established branch offices in Middletown.

Members of the Connecticut Chapter of the American Institute of Planners flocked Monday to Middletown for a day and a night of planning and strips of carpeting to investigate the beginnings of Wesleyan Hills, a "planned unit development." They later tested, figuratively, on the brink of a new "think tank," as they listened to speakers from The Institute for the Future, appropriately known as "IFF."

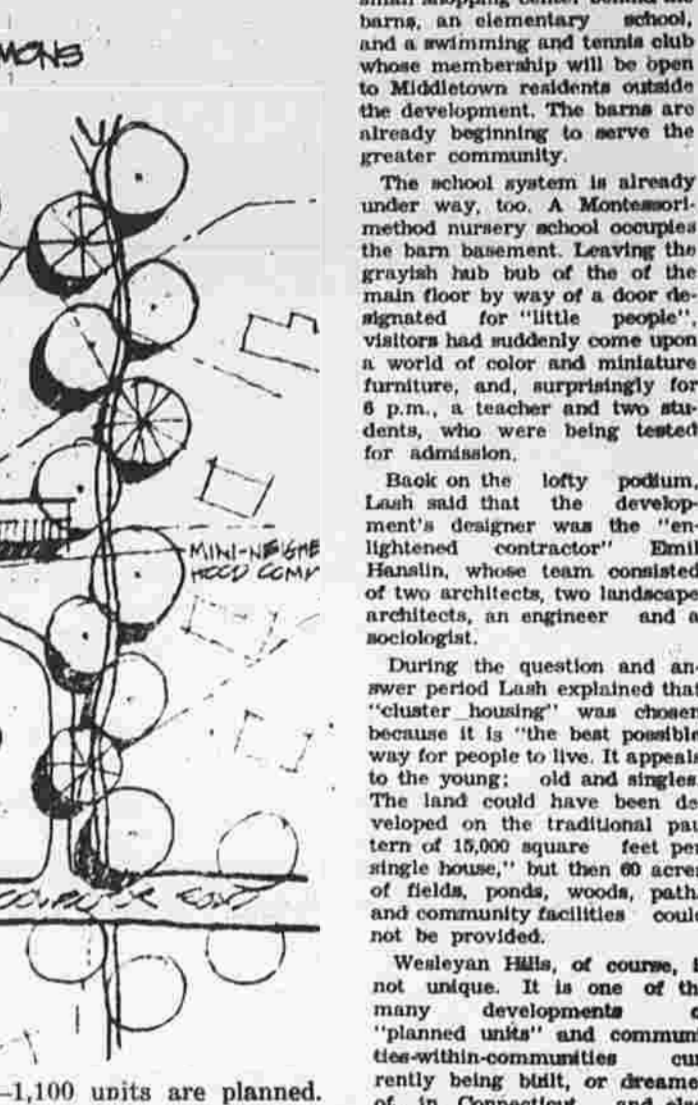

Among those attending from this section of the state were Paul F. Manchester, town planner; Horace Brown, Manchester resident and director of the Office of State Planning; and Robert Young, Bolton resident, director of the Windham Region Planning Agency and C-DAP.

A community similar to Wesleyan Hills, but with "improvements" in the early planning stages in Manchester, The LaCava Construction Co., the builders of most of the houses in Wesleyan Hills, is now in the process of acquiring about 300 acres of land near the intersection of Keating St. However, Joseph LaCava said today that the consummation of the land purchase is months away because of difficulties in obtaining long-term financing.

The planners began to congregate in the late afternoon in the Hill Development Corp. which is developing Wesleyan Hills, a center, to be used or removed by the new neighborhood, as it is the early planning stages in Middletown. The barn has also glass doors, rough floors sturdy enough for the most strenuous dancing, plastic stacking chairs for meetings and theatrical productions, and carpeting on what still looks comfortably warm in spite of cold winds and the lack of ceiling.

Two more barns are partly finished, but with no art exhibits planned for the new development of 1,100 units. Housing of all kinds — single family, row houses, condominiums, apartments — nestled in the greenery of the design.

Heritage Village in Southbury, home of Department of Community Affairs planner James LaCava, formerly of Bolton and Manchester, is similar in concept, except that children living there must be 18 or older. Built on Victor Borg's estate, it has all the facilities planned for Wesleyan Hills, plus a golf course.

The tour of Wesleyan Hills was the last of a series of tours for the Institute for the Future are part of C-DAP's "dialogue" on planning the environment. The emphasis this year is on the social environment; that is, on people and how they live or wish to live. Next year, the emphasis will be on the natural environment, and the following year, the economic environment.

Chapter members of the national professional planners' organization, some 100-strong in all the state, are expected to adopt their "policy and action program" in the spring, regarding their own homes, plus paths abridged from buildings by hedgehogs, a

Pan Am Happy with Jumbos; TWA Tries Them Out Today

Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Trans World Airlines, inaugurating 747 jumbo service between Los Angeles and New York today, comes the second airline in aviation history to fly the huge Boeing plane commercially.

North Side of Viet DMZ As Seen by AP Newsman

Editor's Note: The following dispatch was written by Daniel De Luce, an assistant general manager of the Associated Press, who has been admitted to North Vietnam. He and his wife were given a tour of the northern side of the Demilitarized Zone and the 17th Parallel. The first visit to that area by a Western newsman. Here is a report filed from Hanoi.

By DANIEL DE LUCE
ON THE 17th PARALLEL, North Vietnam (AP) — A huge crimson flag with a single gold star commands the skyline of the 17th Parallel. It is never lowered.

Across the rice fields of this war-torn valley it can be seen for miles by North Vietnamese cultivating their crops. Across the Benhai river in South Vietnam no one can be seen, but the explosions of American artillery occur frequently in the hazy distance.

There is the sound, too, of a helicopter aloft. Once in an hour an invisible jet is heard.

North Vietnamese officials say the Viet Minh army, which includes the northern part of the DMZ, is the most heavily bombed locality in the country.

In Cu Tung, at the mouth of the Benhai river, the people live in caves dug in the damp clay of the embankment. Cu Tung was a favorite summer resort of Vietnam's last emperor, Bao Dai. Now it consists above ground of low mounds of rubble.

Trenches connect the entrances to the caves. Sweet potatoes, manioc and banana plants grow in patches at the edge of deep bomb craters.

In one trench we passed a wooden sign painted with white letters on a black background. In Vietnamese it said, "Long Live Invincible Marxism-Leninism."

President Ho Chi Minh's picture hung on red-draped walls and bouquets of paper flowers. "President Ho Chi Minh Lives Forever," said a red banner with gold letters.

He Ngoc Thien, 32, vice chairman of the Cu Tung administrative committee, said that since the 1968 bombing halt there have been attacks on the village, "with guns of navy ships and artillery on the south bank."

He said an armed reconnaissance plane fired at the village later, 450 shells were fired into the village. The last attack, he continued, occurred Jan. 13, 1970, when 15 shells struck the village at 2 p.m.

He said the principal income of the village used to come from fishing, but the fishermen "can't go far into the open sea because United States warships are there to try to capture them, destroy their boats, lay mines."

Jeers Disrupt HHH Talk In Massachusetts

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — So far, passengers appear to be taking the delays in stride. With the exception of two days, 47 cancellations have been below average—about 6 per cent of the total passenger load, the airline said.

Passengers are attended by a flight crew of six purser and eight stewardesses, who serve multi-course meals.

Service on the 707 seemed better," said Mrs. Patricia Thurston, a U.S. Embassy employee, who flew from London.

Other demonstrators booted, stamped and tossed paper on the stage.

The former vice president of the University of Massachusetts Tuesday night to deliver a lecture on foreign policy.

Some $436 million of the $1.2 billion spent by Pan Am has been poured into ground equipment, maintenance and terminal improvement of passenger terminals, the airline said.

Pan Am has increased its staff of ground service representatives to 15 and has installed a containerized cargo system to ease congestion.

Passengers leave the plane at three exits and have been able to claim their luggage within 30 minutes. Most 747 travelers are through customs and out of the terminal in under an hour.

"We're not intimidated by size," said one U.S. Customs official of the added 747 load. "We handled 250 passengers on the DC-8. One bag or a thousand, it's all the same to us."

TWA, which has taken delivery of two of the 747s, will receive its passengers at a new 120 million terminal in New York featuring a containerized luggage system, moving slide walks, and its own customs facilities.

South Windsor Board Continues Its Review Of Proposed School Budget

The Board of Education last night held the third of four planning budget meetings in the high school library. The proposed budget of Superintendent of Schools Charles Warner, which requests approximately $11 million in additional funds for the coming academic year, was shayed by $15,000 in the two previous sessions.

A $12,800 allocation to a telephone expense account had been reduced to $11,800 and a $28,000 request for the replacement of instructional equipment had been cut in half.

The school cafeteria supervisor, Mrs. Carolyn Shearer, presented her request for $84,000 for additional school lunches. She repairs of non-structural items mentioned the poor condition of flooring in Wagon Elementary School and estimated cost of $12,000.

Justification for this conclusion came from a government experiment in which government funds allowed a 15-cent drop in lunch prices. A consequence of the experiment was student participation occurred.

Another aspect of Mrs. Shearer's argument involved the reduction of income sustained by a rise in prices. According to her, a five-cent rise would reduce revenues approximately $20,000.

The board approved further discussion of the budget tomorrow's meeting in the high school library at 7:30 p.m. To this date, the board has cut less than $50,000 from the proposed $11,800,000 budget.

A public hearing on the proposed $8.8 million high school budget will be held this evening at 7:30 p.m. in the South Windsor High School Auditorium where it will be conducted as a combined function of the Board of Education and the Public Hearing Committee.

Manchester Evening Herald, South Windsor correspondent, editorial salaries, an increase from $4,000 to $5,000 over the present allocation. According to the Herald, Bissett, tel. to Very, the school system is $43,371.

Connecticut, Massachusetts Under Study for Utility Sites

SALEMBURY, Conn. (AP) — A site for a new utility plant in Connecticut is being studied by the Massachusetts Electric Co. and the Connecticut Public Service Co.

The announcement said a five-year location to be studied in the Connecticut Mountains in Canaan late 1971, and in the mean time Northeast Utilities plans to consult with residents, local government agencies and conservation groups.

"We have pledged not to seek property until it becomes clear that one or the other of the preliminary plans for the Connecticut site will be accepted."

Did you ever hear of the "Minnesingers"?

No, they're not a rock and roll group of girls wearing abbreviated skirts, and they're not a bunch of midgets singing in a sidewalk.

Minnesingers were singers of lyric poetry in Germany during the 12th and 13th centuries. Their minnesongs were based on love poems from a knight to his lady fair during that period. The word "minne" means love.

The Federal Republic of Germany now has issued a new set of stamps honoring the minnesingers as part of its 1970 Youth Stamp series.

The stamps of the minnesingers are available at your local stamp dealer or stamp department.

The United Nations Postal Administration has announced it has released a new color film about U.N. stamps soon to be shown on TV throughout the country. The film is entitled "International Zone—Messengers of Peace."

According to STAMPS magazine, early semi-postals of the Netherlands are difficult to find in that country than in the United States.

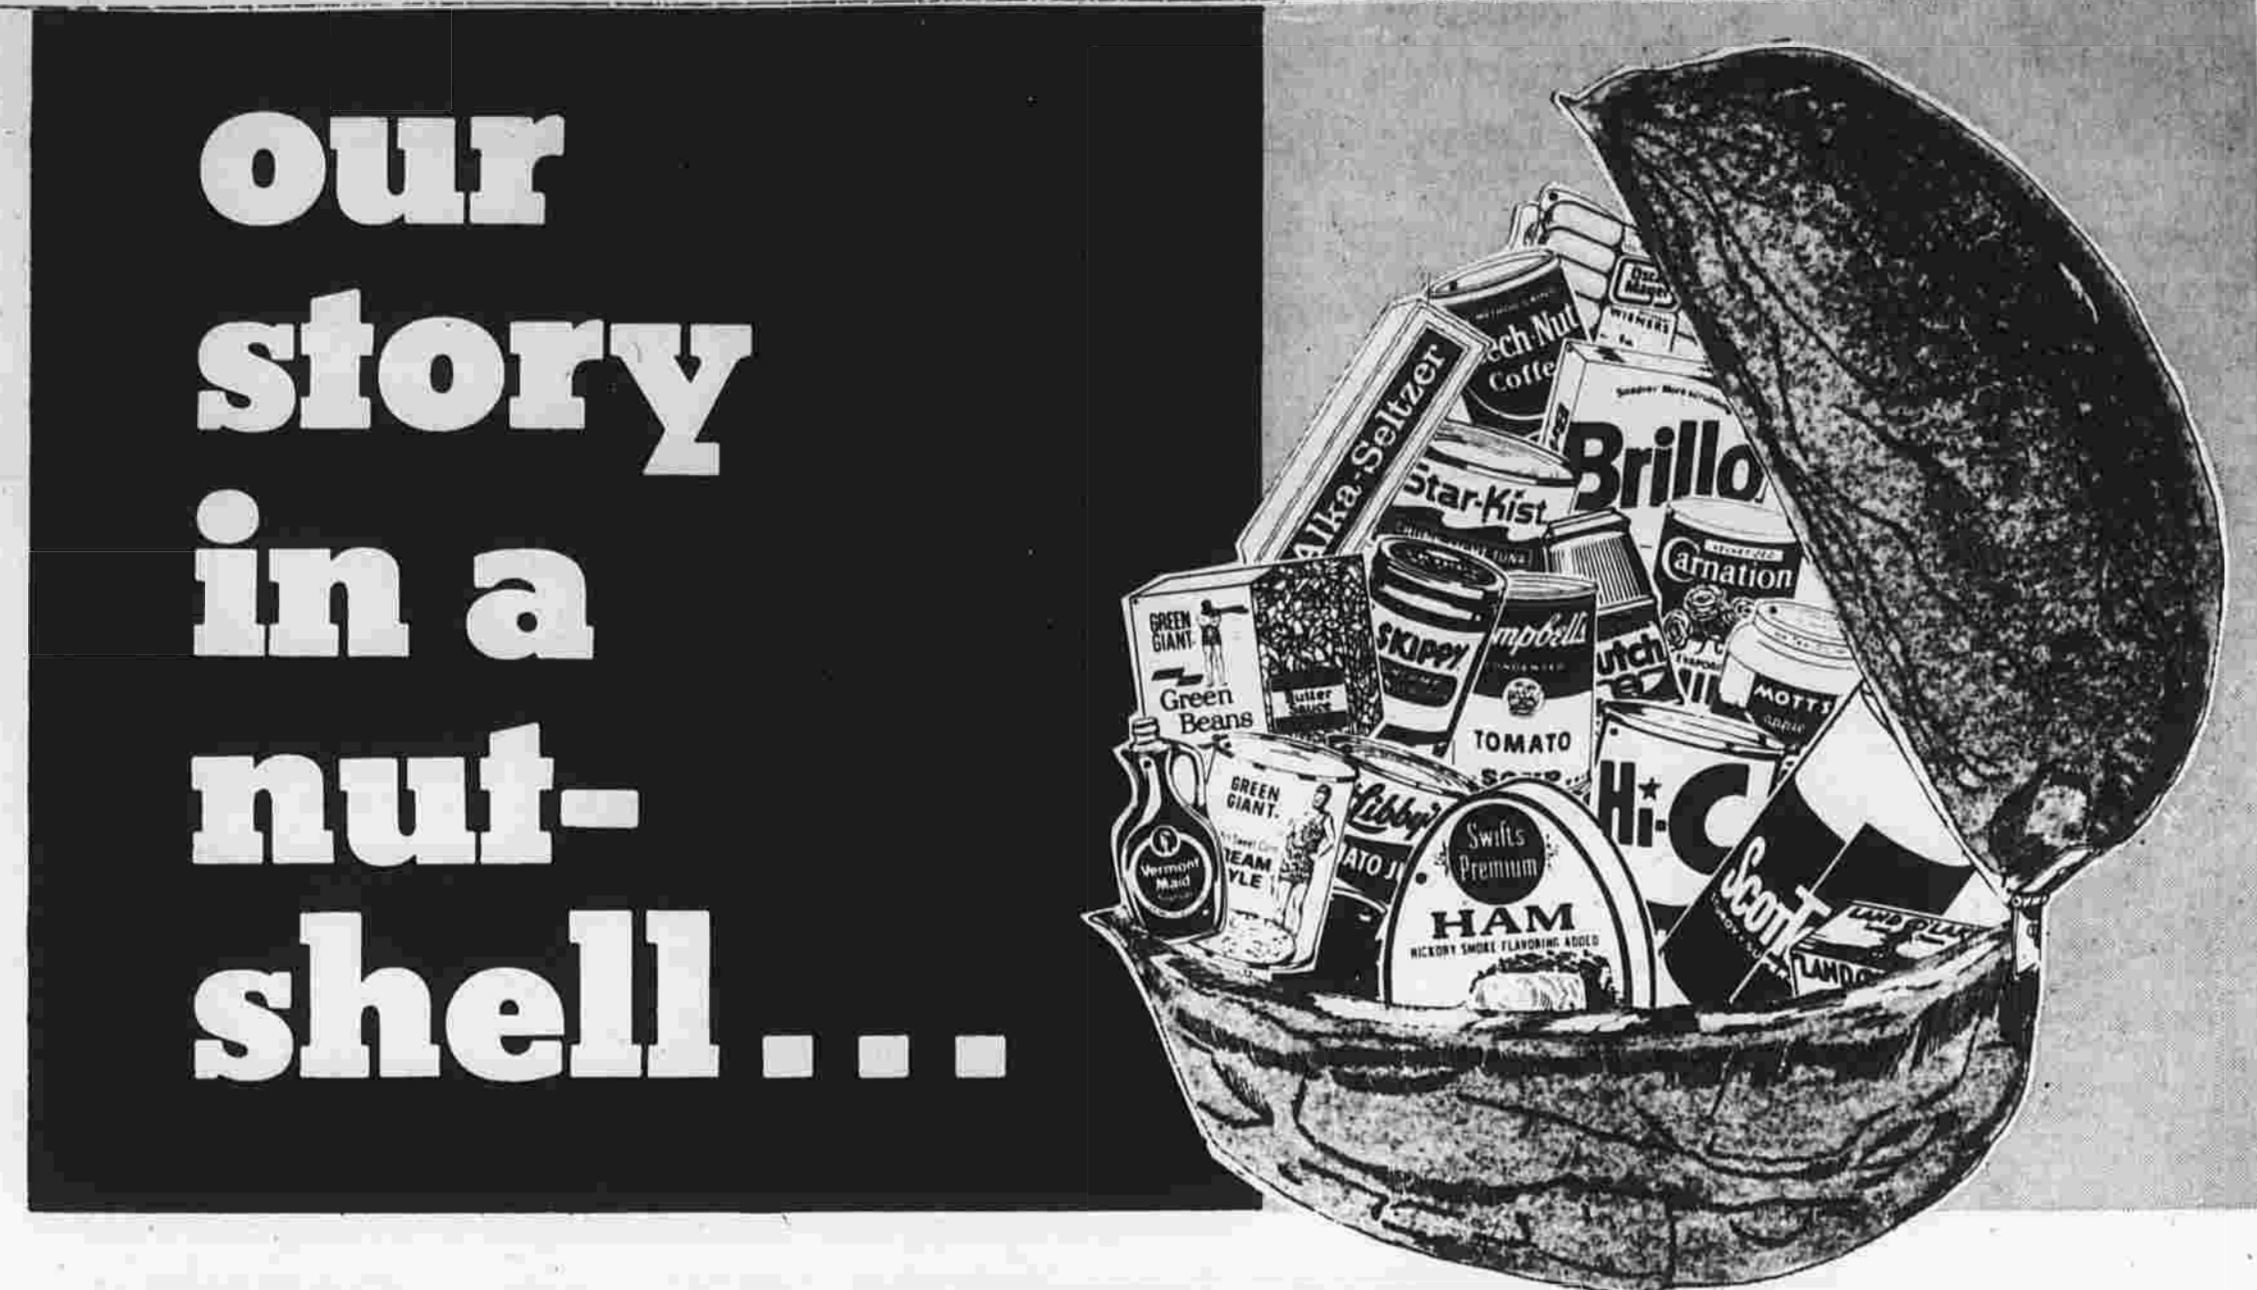

Greece has issued six new stamps featuring mosaic art. The 20 lepta depicts the Angel of the Annunciation from a cupola vault of the Church at Delphi.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Adopting an Adult

In the mind's eye, the word "adoption" conjures up a vision of doing parents taking possession of a gurgling infant—their last to raise as their very own child.

That is, indeed, a typical scene in an adoption court. But there is another, quite different kind of adoption. In most states it is just as lawful to adopt an adult as to adopt a child.

For example, it is usually not necessary to get the consent of the adult's natural parents, as it is with a child, or to go through a waiting period before the adoption becomes final.

Why would anybody want to adopt an adult? Obviously, it is not to "raise" him. In most cases, the purpose is simply to make him the heir of the adopting parent or parents.

In fact, the procedure has been attacked for just that reason. In one case a childless old man adopted three of his relatives, each one middle-aged. After the man died, several other relatives went to court to challenge the adoption.

But the court ruled that even if this was true, it did not invalidate the adoption. "This motive," said the court, "is a perfectly proper one."

Nevertheless, critics fear that the mere possibility of an adult adoption may lend encouragement to fortune hunters. In another case, a widower adopted his youthful housekeeper just before he died.

But in a court hearing, the children pointed out that the young woman had also been their father's mistress, that he had become mentally infirm, and that she had wielded excessive power over him.

The court thereupon decided the adoption was null and void. The judge said an adult adoption, used as a substitute for a will, should—like a will—be free of undue influence.

Linda Carbonetti, Canada's Figure Skating champion, took up skating to correct weak ankles and ease leg pain caused by learning to walk at too early an age.

By ARLEEN ABRAMMS AP Newsfeatures Writer

Reigning Canadian National Figure Skating champion Linda Carbonetti couldn't be happier about her career on ice. But the exceptionally pretty 20-year-old miss, who is making her professional debut in this year's Ice Capades, doesn't want any child she might have to set his or her sights on a skating career.

"I'm fortunate because my parents were able to afford the competitively all mine—my several thousand dollars a year parents were the ones who kept me from skating. I was making me if I wanted to quit—I ing, lessons, ice time, outfits, always wonder what it would have been like to have experienced a normal, typical childhood without the competitions, the heartaches and the frustration," said Linda with a wistful smile.

Even if Linda hadn't personally chosen an ice-skating career, she would have had to quit because of her childhood asthma, which she described as "typical."

Linda's father is a Canadian diplomat and frequent moves were part of his job. (Currently he is based in Ottawa, as Canada's Consul for External Affairs.) Linda, her brother Barry, now 17 and a competition skier, and her parents "lived everywhere from Rome to San Francisco" including London, Paris, Germany, Detroit.

"I was very lonely to keep moving. It was particularly upsetting as a child to make friends only to leave them behind a year or two later," recalls the diminutive blonde.

"Nowadays, of course, there's no problem about making friends, even though with the Ice Capades I'm still leading a nomadic type of life," adds the vivacious Linda. "There's such a great group in the show itself and you make friends wherever you go."

She does complain that it's terribly difficult to have a special boyfriend. "How can you expect someone to follow you all over?" she asks. That's why she says she tries not to get involved romantically.

Leg braces, which she wore at age 3, also distinguished Linda from her playmates. "I began to walk at too early an age—3 months for my legs and 18 months for my arms," she explained. "To ease the pain and support my legs a doctor and I developed properly—I was walking on my ankles—the doctors put braces on my legs. I wore them a year and to further strengthen my legs I did exercises and dancing lessons. Which I didn't like at all," notes Linda, wrinkling her nose.

By age 8 she was able to walk without pain. But because her legs and ankles were abnormally weak, ice skating was prescribed as a corrective measure.

Linda was enrolled in a group class in London, where her father was based at the time. Her classmates were the police victims who also were taking skating as therapy.

Back in Canada, Linda started taking private lessons and ultimately entered minor competitions. It was during one of these that she graduated from high school in San Francisco, however, that she turned all her attention to capturing the Canadian figure-skating championship.

The petite young woman who candidly says, "I don't like to do anything I'm not good at . . . I'm too critical of myself. I want to do anything I want to be the best," achieved her goal last year in the winter Olympics, she set an Olympic record for advancing 13 places in a single competition. Then she returned to Canada and won the national skating crown. She ultimately Linda hopes either to go to college and take up her old hobby or to go into business somewhere in the world of cars, so owners keep them safe. She particularly liked one on improving the facilities and they do no good in a sudden quality of skating and other amateur sports in the United States and Canada.

As a member of the International Figure Skating team which toured Europe and the Caribbean couldn't be happier. I saw firsthand the tremendous advantages the Iron Curtain athletes have. There, if a child shows promise, he is given free instruction, free ice time and Capades, doesn't want any child she might have to set his or her sights on a skating career.

Tolland County Politics

Sen. Houley Plans To Seek Re-election

By BETTE QUATRALE (Herald Reporter)

Promising to wage "another aggressive and active campaign," Tolland County State Sen. Robert Houley has announced he will seek re-election to the position on the Democratic ticket this fall. "I am eager to pursue the job at hand," he said.

The incumbent Democratic state senator indicated that he would immediately start to formulate a campaign committee and make plans for another energetic campaign, following his nomination at the Democratic caucus this summer. He is seeking a second term in the legislature.

"After all, there are 13 towns and close to 40,000 electors to contact," he explained. "And a candidate cannot get elected unless he is willing to work hard."

Promising to meet the issues of today to know how candidates think . . . more and more they are seeking out candidates that can and do arrive at independent decisions, free from the pressure of lobbyists or vested interest groups."

Houley cited his record as reflecting this attitude. "It is my belief that I did a good job as state senator representing the people of this district," he told county Democratic leaders in a letter last week.

Houley cited 100 per cent attendance at all sessions of the legislature. "Each decision was critically evaluated and every vote was carefully cast," he stated.

"Well over 5,000 individual letters were received and a detailed and personal reply made, according to the State Senator. "Every telephone call from constituents was accepted or returned if I was not available at the time of the call."

In his letter to the Democratic leaders, Houley predicted the 1970 election year will be the greatest challenge our Democratic party has had in more than a decade. If I am the District Congressional seat nominee for senate, I will vote another aggressive and active campaign, discussing the issues present and future. "I felt that the over-all Democratic record of governing our state is a good one," he added. "My personal record as your senator is a good one."

"Being your Senator has given me a great sense of accomplishment," Houley stated, promising "I will work hard to be returned to the 1971-72 Senate chambers."

Houley has received the endorsement of the Tolland Democratic Town Committee and the personal endorsement of his state senator representing the people of this district."

No other Democrats have expressed interest in the post and the Republicans of the county have remained quiet regarding possible candidates to oppose Houley.

Possible Republican candidates might be former State Sen. Andrew Repko of Willington or John Powers of Mansfield.

Steele Announcement Republican 2nd District Congressman Charles Steele of Vernon will make his formal announcement of intentions tomorrow morning in Colchester. He is expected to announce his intention to seek the Republican nomination for the 2nd and 3rd districts. If I am the District Congressional seat nominee for senate, I will vote another aggressive and active

Bolton Brown, Chairman, Quits Board of Finance

In a surprise action, Paul Bolton, chairman of the Board of Finance, resigned last night in seeking supplemental help from the board. He said he was cause of an injury to one volunteer resigning for personal reasons.

Brown asked the Board to appoint William Riley (present vice chairman) to succeed him. The board will take action on the chairman at its next meeting.

Brown began his chairmanship following the spring elections. He was first elected to the board for a two-year term, 1966-67, and then was re-elected for a six-year term, 1967-1971. Brown is a Democrat and works for United Aircraft.

Riley who is expected to succeed Brown has served as chairman before and is a Republican. The board voted to table a request from the Public Building Commission. In a letter to the Board the PBC asked that a half million allocated for town development be earmarked for the building of a new building. The board asked for a complete report from the Park and Recreation Commissioners.

The board also asked for a report to be submitted by the Town Treasurer regarding the balance left in the Park and Recreation Commissioners' book get.

In other business the board was advised of errors made in tax assessment in October 1968. Duffey, Marcus Appear Jointly; Mostly Agree MIDDLETOWN, Conn. (AP)—Two candidates for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate made a joint appearance before the Democratic Town Committee Monday night.

The Rev. Joseph Duffey of Hartford and State Senate Majority Leader Edward Marcus were in agreement on several issues. Duffey was alone in criticism of the third candidate for the party nomination, incumbent Sen. Thomas J. Dodd.

Both Marcus and Duffey spoke in opposition to the way in Vietnam, both criticized President Nixon's handling of the economy, and each felt U.S. Circuit Court Judge G. Harold Carwell is not worthy of a seat on the U.S. Supreme Court.

Duffey accused President Nixon of "double talk" in calling for an end to foreign entanglements while engaging in an arms buildup in Laos. Marcus said American forces should be withdrawn from Vietnam because of "our national interests."

NAACP Benefit Pays Tribute To Duke Ellington

NEW YORK (AP) — A concert tribute to Duke Ellington called "Solid on Soul" laid down a lot of heavy jazz and soul music on Monday night, then in the last of nearly six hours surpassed all the good things that had gone before, with the Ellington band playing and singing, B.B. King, Jimmy Rushing and Louis Armstrong sitting in.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People sponsored the benefit concert, as a benefit for NAACP projects. Tickets ranged from $4 to $100.

Lakers-Bucks Lose More Ground, Atlanta Increases Western Lead

NEW YORK (AP)—The Milwaukee Bucks and Los Angeles Lakers dug themselves deeper into second place in the two divisions of the National Basketball Association, although they fought back to boost their hopes.

The Bucks fell before Detroit's final period onslaught and dropped a 136-111 decision to the Pistons Tuesday night at Detroit, and the Lakers lost to the Atlanta Hawks at Atlanta.

Knicks and ahead of Baltimore, scored 101 points. But it wasn't until they had won their 121-106 victory over Phoenix, above the Bucks 5 1/2 games behind the Knicks in the Eastern Division with only 13 games remaining.

Atlanta increased its Western Division lead over the Lakers to three games at Los Angeles with only 12 games to go for each team.

In the only other game, Baltimore hauled San Diego 128-118 and Seattle beat San Francisco 139-122.

Atlanta, doing his best to keep Milwaukee after the Atlanta Hawks.

Ivy League Members Side with Yale in Celebrated Langer Affair Before ECAC Committee

NEW YORK (AP)—The celebrated case of Yale's ineligible basketball player goes before the Eastern College Athletic Conference membership today, ironically the NCAA-AAU dispute, which brought about the controversial affair draws nearer to agreement.

Ben Carnevale, director of athletics at New York University, disclosed Tuesday night that the National Collegiate Athletic Association Board, which would control international amateur basketball in the United States, has been meeting for almost a year and "hopes to be operative by April 1."

The new group consists of 10 representatives from both the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Amateur Athletic Union, which have been locked in a power struggle for years.

constitution earlier this month, Carnevale said. A final meeting will be held March 27 in Indianapolis.

"If we were in this position last year," Carnevale said, "I would have been a lot more aggressive in the settlement because a year too late and the ECAC's 190 members must decide Wednesday whether to punish Yale for continuing to use 6-foot-8 Jack Langer, who participated in the Macomb basketball tournament without having the matter go before the membership."

Yale officials were meeting late Tuesday night to decide their course of action.

"We discussed the matter with the ECAC's Executive Council, which indicated that the school would resubmit it Wednesday when the membership meets," Carnevale said.

Iowa's Johnson Sets Own Individual Mark

NEW YORK (AP)—ranked Hawkeyes unbeaten at by whipping Drake 88-72, and Pistol Pete Maravich of Louisiana State, Dan Issel of Kentucky, Austin Carr of Notre Dame have nothing on John Johnson of Iowa when it comes to individual high scoring games in college basketball.

Johnson threw in 49 points, an all-time low single game record in leading the Hawkeyes to their 13th straight victory, after a 116-97 over Northwestern at Iowa City Tuesday night.

This was short of the recent Iowa 66, 54 and 53 efforts of Maravich, Issel and Carr, but Johnson probably could have scored even higher if he hadn't been taken out of the game by a foul during the second half.

"I don't know if we can catch Johnson's of New York humbled Iowa City Tuesday night," Johnson said.

About Town

Friendship Lodge of Masons will have a Six O'Clock Lodge when it meets tomorrow night at the Masonic Temple. The Master Mason degree will be conferred in the special meeting. During the first section of the evening, a beef stew will be served in the banquet room. Officers dress for the evening in tails.

Chamber Emcee

William R. Johnson, vice president of the Savings Bank of Manchester, will serve as the master of ceremonies at the annual dinner meeting of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce. The event is scheduled for Wednesday, April 15, at the Pines Restaurant, Bolton. The social hour will begin at 6 p.m. and dinner will be served at 7. The annual dinner is the "event of the year" for the business community at which time the "award of honor" is presented to a citizen of the town who has given outstanding leadership and commitment to community betterment. The name of the recipient of the award is always kept a tightly guarded secret until the presentation at the time of the annual meeting.

Rollout TV Stands

There will be a dress rehearsal for the Little Theatre of Manchester production "You Know I Can't Hear You When I'm at the Post Home" tonight at 8:30 at the Post Home. Menubara are reminded to bring articles for a kitchen social.
