

"THE WAY I HEARD IT"

by John Gruber

"I don't have any more (I hope) to do with this. It's a simple, but I don't know if it will be. Series 'B' is available only on a single set basis, oddly enough. It starts on Oct. 17th with 'An Entertainment for Elizabeth.' This is a major work which celebrates the period of Elizabeth I of England. It plays minimal background music, with lyrics and features candlelight, dancers, and singers, all in period costume. (No not the candles, the others are in costume.)

Bream, outstanding guitarist and lute player, will present an all-guitar recital on Wednesday, Oct. 22nd. He is a New York Philharmonic, and he is a member of the New York Philharmonic. Although Shell is listed, don't be surprised if Louis Lane actually conducts.

The one I'm really hoping to hear comes on Saturday, March 20th. This is the Minnesota Orchestra, which used to be called the Minneapolis Symphony. It has always had a very good reputation. In her early days I didn't care for her; she tried too much for the blame and the development of a new technique. But lately her music is really artistic and to have something to say in the modern idiom.

Mr. Sullivan brings the Philadelphia Orchestra with Ormandy. This orchestra rates as one of the finest in the world and is a terrific attraction everywhere. Personally, I find Mr. Ormandy unimpressive in programs, and somewhat monotonous in interpretation. Nevertheless, his is an orchestra you really must hear once in a while.

Sunday, Dec. 4th brings Rudolph Serkin to the organ. He is a very fine baritone who sings in opera, but is a very sensitive interpreter of the organ. You'll find him to be like this one.

Then, come I Solovoi. I'd guess he's not a soloist, but rather listen to his son. He's quite an attraction, just the same, and he certainly plays well. If a little coldy for my taste.

The Boston Symphony comes on Monday, Jan. 11th. Just who the conductor will be, I don't know. The orchestra is getting along with guests.

The Siberian Dances of Ormandy are slated for Jan. 22nd. This is one of those cultural exchange programs arranged by the State Department. They're invariably good. The company is large. I would gather there is a lot of folk dancing, and little or none of the formal ballet we associate with the Bolshoi and Kirov theater.

Friday, the 12th of February brings the Cleveland Orchestra.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jeanne Moreau is one of those remarkable Frenchwomen who work a world of wisdom in her eyes. When she speaks, she speaks widely, wise, too, touching on matters of love, war, youth and age with a sad, aching ring. She is confident that Hollywood will solve its economic ills, largely because of the burst she has put in the industry.

"Each nation has had its own time of flowering," she observed. "After the war, it was the Italians. Then the French and the Americans. Now it is the Americans who are attracting attention. Her confidence is not misplaced. Her confidence is not misplaced. Her confidence is not misplaced.

The actress was here for a two-day guest appearance in "Alice in Wonderland," a film directed by Paul Jausaryk. "Bob and Carol etc." She signs her own lyrics to a song in a dream sequence which depicts what would happen if she came to Hollywood Boulevard.

The series are both jazz events. Orestis Coleman and his Quartet will be heard March 10th. Of course Junior will want to attend this one, but make it conditional on his having attended "Mama Was a Sailor." Another on his list will be the Jimmy Griffin Trio. The French industry continues to exist, she added. "Many members of the New Wave are still active. Truffaut continues to make films. Godard exists in a special way, not in the United States, but there is no money for films in the United States, then there is none in France. American financing has been supporting the French films for years.

"I have friends in the English film industry, and they tell me it is even worse here. You'll find studios were almost totally supported by Americans, who are now pulling out. The English industry, because it relies heavily on the American market. French films are better off, because they are more readily accepted in all parts of the world.

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Italy and the Vatican began diplomatic talks today to settle their dispute over a bill in Parliament to legalize divorce.

Foreign Minister Aldo Moro, Justice Minister Orlando Reale and the Italian ambassador to the Holy see, Gianfranco Ponzio, met with Vatican Secretary of State Jean Cardinal Villot and Pope Paul's top diplomat, Archbishop Agostino Casaroli.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said the two sides discussed their differences "in the spirit of reciprocal, friendly relations between Italy and the Holy See."

It is Moro and Reale presented a "juridically documented" case why Italy believes the divorce law is in the national interest. The law would not violate a 1929 church-state accord.

The Vatican officials said they would study the Italian bill and report back to the Holy See at the next meeting, set for June 21.

The Vatican has opposed the bill which has been passed by the Chamber of Deputies and is to be voted on later this month by the Senate, unilaterally violating the concordat. The Church's stance accord gives civil status to marriages performed in the Church.

The diplomatic contacts stemmed from formal Vatican protests to the Italian government which came to light during a government crisis in March.

Premier Mariano Rumor, whose Christian Democrat party opposes the divorce bill, pledged when he proposed a new center-left coalition government March 27 that the diplomatic talks would not interfere with the parliament's action on the bill.

AVOID GAMBLING PLAY WHEN OPPONENT GLANCES BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Tournament experts usually play for every trick that isn't nailed down, but there are exceptions to this rule. When an opponent slips, hold on to your advantage rather than gamble for anything additional. This point is illustrated by a spectacular play made by Romy Violin, Los Angeles expert, during the national tournament in Portland, Ore., 10 weeks ago.

Opening lead — Seven, of Clubs.

Violin, playing the South card, won the first trick with the jack of clubs, drew two rounds of trumps, cashed the ace of clubs and gave up a club.

East drew a third trump with the jack, and then returned the ace of spades to dummy's ace. Declarer ruffed a club and then wanted to reach dummy with a diamond to the king. The problem was how to play the diamonds. The best chance to avoid the loss of a diamond trick was to lead the jack. If West had the king and covered the jack, East might drop the king 10 or 8 or 7.

Violin knew the odds were very high that he would lose the trick. East would have played the suit. What's more, if South led the first diamond trick, East would have a spade to defend the contract.

Since West's failure to open a spade had given South a chance for the contract, Violin decided to hold on to his advantage. He therefore led his low diamond to dummy's ace, intending to discard the losing spade and then give up a diamond trick. It was pure audacity that East had to drop the singleton king of diamonds, giving Violin an overtrick and a top score.

75 Volunteers on Call As FISH Starts Today

Starting today, South Windsor residents will have the services of the organization FISH, with 75 volunteers on call to help those who have problems.

Guidelines concerning these problems have been set up by a steering committee, and they include: Situations which arise unexpectedly with no usual source of help available; situations which require care of immediately and without a regular source of help available; problems not emergency proportions that would require police, fire department, ambulance or other specialized help, and if there are no regular sources of help available by the individual himself, by such actions as calling a taxi, requesting a volunteer or acting as a regular volunteer.

A professional answering service will receive the calls 24 hours a day. The calls will then be referred to the volunteers. Mrs. Violet Peters is chairman of the steering committee.

Christian Brotherhood of Beesbeek Rd. has been elected chairman of the Fourth District Democratic Committee and Mrs. Donald E. Wash of Carmen Rd. vice chairman.

In accordance with party rules, other officers of the district will be elected at the next Wednesday meeting at 8 p.m., at the Town Hall.

Scott Awards

Awards were presented to members of Cub Scout Pack 186 at the recent Fun Night held at the Avery Street School, Sunday. One-year service stars went to Patrick Stienar, Gary Rose and David Gathers. A two-year service star was awarded to Kevin Gough.

Others receiving awards were: Frank Lane, assistant pack leader; Larry Dagle and Jerry Henning, webelos stars; Steven Woodcock, seven-year service star.

Council Meeting

The Town Council will meet tonight to set the date for a public hearing on a proposal to construct a sidewalk along the north side of Kelly Rd. and the east side of Avery St., between Kelly and Raymond Rds.

The sidewalk is to be installed for the protection of children walking to school. It will be a walkway type of construction with a black top surface.

The estimated cost of the construction is $14,000. The town to pay 75 per cent and abutting property owners, 25 per cent. Notices of construction will be sent to each of the property owners.

Other items on tonight's agenda include appointment of seven members of a Mass Transportation Commission; acceptance of a report of the Capital Goals and Improvements Committee; report on the results of a special referendum which voters approved to establish a Historic District in the East Windsor Hill section of Main St.; authorization of a job order contract to hire the same idea. They left Phnom Penh separately, and it was not known if they linked up on the road and were traveling together.

The Chamber of Commerce junk car cleanup campaign has netted 371 disabled, unwanted vehicles according to a report from the chamber office.

Of the 371 release forms picked up or mailed to residents, 332 have been returned and the rest are expected to be returned today; the final day they are to be accepted.

Dr. Lawrence J. Andrus, chairman of the steering committee, reports that 100 old cars have already arrived at the town dump where a huge crushing machine will start crushing them tomorrow.

During the cleanup campaign the town declared a moratorium on enforcement of ordinance which requires owners of old cars to be subject to a fine. The ordinance will go back into effect next Monday.

The television crews left early Sunday to drive to the vicinity of Tuxedo, 40 miles south of Phnom Penh, and were due back before dark. It was in this area that three men were captured and held for eight hours on May 24, and another three-man Cambodian crew was briefly detained there by North Vietnamese soldiers the next day.

Doi Webster, another CBS correspondent returned to Saigon today from Phnom Penh. He said he traveled down and found the city in a state of confusion. He saw the bodies of the men who were killed in the motor vehicles similar to those containing the missing CBS crew. He said he passed the last checkpoint on Sunday.

He gave these details:

A short distance beyond the checkpoint, 32 miles south of Phnom Penh, the vehicles apparently ran into North Vietnamese troops along the road. The Cambodian said he heard an explosion, then small arms fire. He said he saw several Cambodian civilians caught up the road and reported seeing stretcher cases.

The soldiers said they tried to go about 1 1/2 miles down the road and investigate but ran into "heavy enemy fire" and were forced to pull back, leaving one of their own dead behind.

None of the soldiers saw any of the missing CBS crew members, but some saw both the Mercedes Benz and the Jeep that carried the five CBS men and their driver. The Jeep was destroyed by the road and destroyed by the road.

The Mercedes Benz was apparently destroyed by the road. The NBC crew had been using the Opel station wagon which carried the five CBS men.

None of the soldiers said they saw bodies or signs of movement around the vehicles but they did not get very close because they were taking enemy fire.

The CBS crews had been using the road to cover a Cambodian operation which was supposed to have begun to clear the road of enemy forces. The CBS men apparently did not know that Haugen and the NBC crew had the same idea. They left Phnom Penh separately, and it was not known if they linked up on the road and were traveling together.

Students Show No Handicap In 'Jaunt for Jobs'

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Ten crippled college students rolled into the city Sunday in wheelchairs, ending a 100-mile demonstration of their stamina for work.

The students, members of the Winged Wheels Club at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale, Ill., averaged four miles an hour over the six-day trek from the campus to Bush Stadium here. At least two wheelchairs were on the road at all times while others took breaks.

"We were getting tougher every day," said John Thayer, 24, Madison, Wis., president of the club. "We decided we had to stop by lying down or we would get too soon."

The students had planned to roll to the campus of Southern Illinois University in Carbondale, Ill., to raise money for a job-hunting campaign, but the school closed after recent antiwar protests.

Mike Kaminaki, 22, Middlefield, Ohio, was the trip leader and an infantry veteran paralyzed from the waist down by a mortar explosion in Vietnam.

"We were all handicapped," said the students decided on a "jaunt for jobs" to "create public awareness that handicapped persons can perform many tasks."

The other students were Bill Chadwick, 21, McHenry, Ill.; Alex Wilton, 28, Chesterfield, Mo.; Alfred Blacker, 20, Evansville, Ind.; Pat Gibson, 22, St. Louis; Mike Winters, 19, Ken Burns, 20, and Herb Hoffman, 23, all of Chicago; and Edward Curtis, 20, Miami, Fla.

"Faster wheel job hunting after getting his B.A. in speech but found it "damned difficult," McGraw graduate student, he said of the trip.

"We met a lot of fine people. And they learned a lot about handicapped people. We're just as human as anyone else. We just have a different mode of transportation. But we showed we have the stamina to do a job."

Father Groppi Delivers Farewell Sermon

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Rev. James E. Groppi, militant civil rights leader, has made his farewell sermon at St. Boniface Roman Catholic Church.

"If I had anything to do over again I would be more militant," he told his racially mixed congregation Sunday.

Father Groppi and three other priests who made up a white pastoral team formed three years ago are leaving St. Boniface to make way for the team of Negro priests. The Negroes were appointed at Father Groppi's suggestion.

The Water Was Fine . . . Once You Got In

All brave young men know that the only way to get into the chilly water on a breezy day at the opening of the swimming season is to dive. Some of the less courageous townpeople who joined these three in the water at Globe Hollow Pool Saturday and yesterday preferred the test and dip — method. At any rate the pool drew a large number considering the weather. The pool is open from 8 to 8 p.m. every weekday and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on weekends from now until about June 20 when longer hours for the summer season go into effect.

Supreme Court Sparer Man Condemned to Death

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today spared William L. Maxwell from execution but did not decide the challenges to capital punishment his appeal presented.

The 6-1 decision gives Maxwell, an Arkansas Negro, a chance to argue in lower court because opponents of capital punishment were kept out of the jury box.

In another major case today, the court gave federal judges the power to break strikes that are called in the face of "no-strike" contracts.

The Maxwell case reached national prominence because it became a pivotal test of the way the death penalty is administered in this country.

The court did not rule on the issues presented, but granted review to death cases from California and Ohio which also stated strong challenges to use of the death penalty.

The action means the issues will be decided in next term when the court will be at full strength.

In a prepared statement, Dr. Wylie said, "This unexpected resignation is a regretful decision to leave Manchester. . . I want to thank those people who elected me and gave me the opportunity to serve."

Democratic Town Chairman Ted Cummings said that Dr. Wylie's resignation came as a "great surprise." Cummings stated that the first term director showed "great talent and interest," adding that "he will be a hard man to replace."

Dr. Wylie has indicated that he will serve on the board as long as he is needed. Cummings, noting that "we are lucky to have him for the next months," stated that it was too early to determine who will replace Wylie.

Dr. Wylie received a BS in 1963 from Plymouth (N.H.) State College, and a master's in education in 1965 and a doctorate in education in 1967, both from Boston University.

Vernon Town Board Will Review Firemen Ordinance Tonight

The Board of Representatives will discuss a proposed ordinance which will establish a firemen's fund. The fund will be financed by a 10-cent surcharge on all property taxes in the town.

The five chiefs regarding the setting up of the ordinance to off set a proposed change in the ordinance, noting they would only be in favor of such a change if they were protected by the ordinance.

As the charter now reads the town has to have the two departments. The change would allow for a consolidated department when it is needed.

Also to be discussed Monday night will be a recommendation from the Planning Commission concerning sewer installation on Merline Rd., Eva Circle and Emerald Rd.

Other items to be discussed include: Request from the tax collector to abate or remove accounts from open listings; request from the tax collector for funds to install street lights; drainage work on Merline Rd.; replacement of some sidewalks and ramps; and a revised summer schedule for the Board of Representatives meetings.

Army Takes Him Despite Limiting Steel Rod in Leg

FT. LEWIS, Wash. (AP) — Spec. 5 James G. Sparks says he has a surgical steel rod in one leg, which limits his ability to walk, but the Army is sending him to Vietnam anyway.

Sparks, who is on orders to fly to the war area Tuesday, said in an interview Sunday he is not complaining — "I'm glad to do it."

Sparks, a 22-year-old microwave technician, said the rod was placed in his left thigh after he was injured in a 1967 auto accident. It was the rod or months in a body cast, he said.

During basic training, Sparks said, the Army exempted him from jumping, running and crawling or squinting. Later, he said, the Army cleared him for activity other than squinting, such as cleaning or deep knee bends.

Sparks said an officer once told him, "I don't know how to hell you got in the Army."

Ribicoff Asks Ratings On Health Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate panel headed by Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., is to evaluate and rate the nation's 1,000 private health insurance plans.

The consumer has a right to know what kind of insurance he presently has and whether he might find a better policy elsewhere, Ribicoff said in a letter made public today by the Senate Government Operations subcommittee on executive reorganization.

The purpose of the study should be to rate each plan by name according to an objective list of standards that reflect your best judgment of the plan. Both earned honors grades throughout their college careers. Kathleen, who earned the highest four-year average of any sorority member, with a 3.95 GPA (4.0 is perfect), is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

But since the turn of the century at least 40 cities have passed the million mark. Some are not well-known, such as Alameda, Prayung, Surabaya, Kiti-Kiyabu and Wu-han.

Manchester Marks Memorial Day

By ALEX GIRELLI (City Editor) and David Silver

There was the music and the lonely sound of "Taps." Then everyone went home. That was the way Memorial Day was observed in Manchester Saturday just as Maj. Nathan Agostinelli, principal speaker in the ceremonies in Center Park, described the traditional American tribute to the nation's war dead.

Agostinelli, the town's mayor and commander of the National Guard Headquarters Detachment in Hartford, contrasted the scene before him with the uncertainty, the fear, and the mutual dependence of men in battle.

He rejected the theory that men who died in war went forward blindly seeking their fate. "We know," he said "that when men have been long in battle and have thought deeply about their situation, there comes to them the awareness of ultimate responsibility—that one man must go ahead so that a nation might live."

Colorful contingents from veteran's organizations filled the ranks of marchers and in a motorcade rode other representatives of veteran's organizations and their auxiliaries.

Major Agostinelli, Memorial Day Speaker

Major Agostinelli's Address

I deeply appreciate your invitation to address you on this Memorial Day 1970. Each year at this time we, individually and collectively, honor those men of our country who in the common defense have made the supreme sacrifice. A sacrifice which cannot be bought by all the resources known to man. A sacrifice so unique that scientists over the centuries are still trying to understand it: The sacrifice of life itself.

To most of us, this commemoration is traditionally depicted by scenes of the quiet cemetery up on the hill outside of town. It is hopefully a bright sunny day with a gentle breeze tuffing the grass blades and sending the shade trees ever so slightly.

This traditional scene, however, is far removed from the way most of these men died. For these men, and for those who were fortunate to live through it, war was a special province in which the Gods of chance rose to full stature. They came to know that uncertainty and confusion were inseparable from combat. They knew the unknown as the first born son of combat and uncertainty as its other self.

Yet they were not lacking in the resolve and determination necessary to withstand these pressures. On the contrary, they manifested an aura of confidence which is hard to put into words. It was confidence in their ability to fight, and fight well. It was confidence in the importance of themselves as individuals, as men. It was confidence in themselves as a group, a mutual dependence and respect of buddies in an outfit. And it was the firm belief that their country stood behind them and backed them up in what they had to do. This is not to say that they did not experience fear, for they most certainly did. They knew it intimately. They knew the violent pounding of the heart; the sinking, sickening feeling in the pit of the stomach; the cold sweat; the shaking of the hands and trembling of the body. Much as does the athlete before the starting gun. And yet, with the bitter drizzle of fear in their mouth, they went forward against enemy fire, sometimes not just once but many times. Their world shrank to the immediate of staying alive and destroying the enemy.

These men did not voice tender expressions of idealism, for on the field of battle, actions spoke louder than words. Then why, we may ask, did these men, as individuals, give so much of themselves. Where they truly aware of what they were doing? Could they conceive of the enormity of the sacrifice their nation called upon them to make? The boy fresh from the farm or the factory, did he know what his country was asking? The youth from the ghetto street, was he switched off when he entered the darkness of the pit? The young father who had known the fullness of life so briefly, could he imagine that death might forbid him to see his family forever?

These cynics who deride patriotism and faith tell us no certainty and confusion were inseparable from combat. They know the unknown as the first born son of combat and uncertainty as its other self.

I have never believed this. I have never believed that any man who has lived through this experience, worthy of the name, can accept this cynical counsel of despair. We know that when men have been long in battle and have thought deeply about their situation, there comes at last the awareness of ultimate responsibility—that one man must go ahead so that a nation may live. Today it is sometimes unfashionable to speak of patriotism and idealism, to fly the flag, to proclaim in depth what

French, Soviets Get Together On Politics, Money

PARIS (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko arrived here today for a round of political talks with the French and a bid for new Western investment in Russia.

Gromyko, in for a five-day stay, was greeted at Orly Airport by his counterpart, French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann, and prepared for an afternoon of tourism.

The Soviet diplomat gets down to real business Tuesday as his schedule calls for a meeting with Premier Jacques Chabanolles and a luncheon with President Georges Pompidou and a working session with Schumann.

On Wednesday, the commercial and economic side of his visit gets attention during a meeting with Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing and his aides.

On the agenda are discussions about French participation in the truck assembly plant, exploitation of a rich copper deposit in central Asia, French purchases of Russian natural gas and a review of bilateral trade, finally showing a surplus for France after years of deficit.

Set Accidentally

LONDON—The chases of 21 at the age of majority seems to have been arrived at by accident. Twenty-one was the age at which a knight was deemed capable of wearing full armor and wielding a lance. Gradually the knighthood principle found its way into common law and 21 became the legal age of majority.

Israel Seen Getting More U.S. Planes

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon, alarmed over the Soviet military buildup in Egypt, is expected in the near future to approve the sale of more combat planes to Israel and announce resumption of diplomatic efforts to defuse the tense Middle East situation. Nixon is due to announce his decision as soon as an administration review of the Middle East situation has been completed. The President ordered the fresh evaluation six weeks ago after Russian fighter pilots started flying missions into Egypt - a move Nixon considers ominous.

Voting Heavy In Alabama, California

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) - Early voting was extremely heavy today in the runoff for Governor George C. Wallace said he must win to keep a Negro "bloc vote" from controlling the state Capitol. Long lines of voters were waiting when polls opened in Jefferson, Mobile and Montgomery counties. Some stood in the rain for hours. Many places predicted the turnout would be greater for the runoff than for the first Democratic primary May 5.

Cow Chases Waiter Into A Restroom

PORTER CITY, Calif. (AP) - Restaurant policemen chased a cow through this San Francisco Peninsula suburb by car and foot for three hours before the heifer was corralled when it chased a waiter into the men's room at a restaurant. Police said they slammed the restaurant door on the cow at the Lobster Trap Restaurant, ending the Monday chase.

Quake Gave Balkan City Rare Chance to Rebuild

By DEN MORGAN
The Washington Post
SKOPJE, Yugoslavia - Shaken to pieces by an earthquake only seven years ago, this Balkan city has learned to stop weeping and love the modern face given to it by a massive reconstruction program. The quake, which leveled the city with a series of heavy tremors starting at 6:18 on the morning of July 26, 1963, seemed to provide a rare chance for many of its 210,000 residents. Many had seen the wreckage of destroyed buildings and the ruins of a city once rich and history but poor in resources.

Top Court Rules: Constitution No Protection Against Private Prejudice

WASHINGTON (AP) - Reading a Reconstruction era law in a restricted way, the Supreme Court has barred damage suits by victims of purely private racial discrimination. The 5-3 interpretation Monday of an 1875 federal civil rights law requires a showing of state enforcement of the law, not just a private act of discrimination. Justice John M. Harlan, speaking for the majority, said the Constitution does not protect individuals from private discrimination. In this first interpretation of the provision of the 1875 law, Harlan said a New York school teacher who claims she was denied a job because of her race is not protected by the law. The court was asked to rule on the case of a woman who was denied a job because of her race. The court ruled that the law only protects against state-sponsored discrimination.

House Fight Develops Over War Testimony Censorship

WASHINGTON (AP) - A battle was developed in the House over a secrecy law placed on four hours of testimony by Secretary of State William F. Rogers in which he reportedly told a subcommittee he opposed sending American troops into Cambodia. Nearly all the secretary's testimony, seven days before President Nixon's April 30 announcement of the U.S. attack into Cambodia, was deleted when the House voted to restrict Nixon's moves in Southeast Asia. The House also voted to restrict Nixon's moves in Southeast Asia. The House also voted to restrict Nixon's moves in Southeast Asia.

North Viets Inflict Heavy Casualties

SAIGON (AP) - North Vietnamese troops overran part of a South Vietnamese mountain top artillery base today, inflicting one of the heaviest casualties tolls suffered by the Saigon government's forces in such an attack. Field reports said at least 46 South Vietnamese troops had been killed, 84 were wounded and 15 others were missing. There also were some casualties among American and Australian advisers at the outpost in the northwest corner of South Vietnam, the reports said.

B52s May Be Used After GI Pullout

WASHINGTON (AP) - The White House has raised the possibility B52 bombers might continue to be used in Cambodia after June 30 if such missions are not necessary to protect American troops in South Vietnam. The big bombers have been used in Cambodia since the start of the campaign. Most of the sorties, a Pentagon spokesman said, have been in the Phnom Penh area.

1,000 Known Dead in Quake in Peru

LIAMA, Peru (AP) - The Peruvian government rushed aid to Chimbo on Monday night, when returning to Lima with 300 injured persons. The quake Sunday afternoon was on the route to begin removing rubble from highways and rebuilding bridges. Army communications men were setting up a radio network to replace the ham operators who have been the only communication channel with much of the stricken area.

Top Court Rules: Constitution No Protection Against Private Prejudice

WASHINGTON (AP) - Reading a Reconstruction era law in a restricted way, the Supreme Court has barred damage suits by victims of purely private racial discrimination. The 5-3 interpretation Monday of an 1875 federal civil rights law requires a showing of state enforcement of the law, not just a private act of discrimination. Justice John M. Harlan, speaking for the majority, said the Constitution does not protect individuals from private discrimination. In this first interpretation of the provision of the 1875 law, Harlan said a New York school teacher who claims she was denied a job because of her race is not protected by the law. The court was asked to rule on the case of a woman who was denied a job because of her race. The court ruled that the law only protects against state-sponsored discrimination.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The White House has raised the possibility B52 bombers might continue to be used in Cambodia after June 30 if such missions are not necessary to protect American troops in South Vietnam. The big bombers have been used in Cambodia since the start of the campaign. Most of the sorties, a Pentagon spokesman said, have been in the Phnom Penh area.

Quake Gave Balkan City Rare Chance to Rebuild

By DEN MORGAN
The Washington Post
SKOPJE, Yugoslavia - Shaken to pieces by an earthquake only seven years ago, this Balkan city has learned to stop weeping and love the modern face given to it by a massive reconstruction program. The quake, which leveled the city with a series of heavy tremors starting at 6:18 on the morning of July 26, 1963, seemed to provide a rare chance for many of its 210,000 residents. Many had seen the wreckage of destroyed buildings and the ruins of a city once rich and history but poor in resources.
