Dodd's office said the news conference would be at 10:30 a.m. Thursday in the Statler Hilton Hotel in Hartford.

Earlier today, Dodd, reached at his home in Old Lyme, said of reports that he would announce his decision today or Thursday: "I won't have anything to say on that." Dodd also declined to say when he would announce his political plans.

Last weekend he said he would make an announcement soon regarding his decision, but he gave no firm indication which path he might choose.

The New Haven Journal Courier said today that it learned from informed sources Tuesday that Dodd would announce his political plans.

Earlier in his remarks, the President had candidly confessed, "I am a political

That being conceded, he certainly has to sense that when he talks about the state of the economy, he is talking about the worst danger he and his party face in connection with next November's state and congressional elections. Heavy unemployment, continued doldrums on the stock market, lack of upward lift in production indices—these are the factors which might conceivably turn what could be a Republican year in politics into something pleasant for the Democrats.

In other words, the political part of President Nixon has fervent reason for noping for an upturn into better times, just as Democratic politicians, for a few months more, will find their hearts leaping if unemployment figures go up.

That being the situation, President Nixon may have consciously reached for impressive words of optimism and he may possibly have clutched a few straws along with the slight economic indices which do seem to have begun turning

But the conclusion, here, would be that he was bouncy and buoyant because he had reached a real feeling that the worst was over, and a gradual and perhaps sounder revival of economic activity had

Most of us are more concerned with what would be good for the economy than with what happens to any particular party in the elections next November. What would be good for the economy would be what the Nixon Administration has consciously been trying to do-dull inflation without creating too much unemployment, cool boom without exploding a depression. It has actually been an unprecedented, open effort to manage the economy through a safe channel between two dangers, and there will be continual doubt, until clear water and open sea welcome us again, that such a delicate operation can really be managed. But so far, political claims one way or another notwithstanding, the ship is weaving to and fro between the rocks as if it was beginning to feel a real chance of making it. If this miracle can occur, there will be an urgent mo miracle. That would be to try to take our new good fortune moderately, without trying to propel it immediately into another of those no-limit booms we are always chasing, the moment we emerge is in picking winners, hopefully at good Each weekday an edition of the Armstrong racing sheets reaches Meriden just before noon. There is often a waiting line to buy the tipster sheet, which costs 50 cents a copy.

Conneiticut stands alone among the states in the northeast which forbids betting on horse racing. Every legislative session sees attempts made to repeal the ban so as to allow parl-mutuel betting. Its sponsors contend that it will bring vast zenefits to the state in the form of evenue, a contention not well substantiated by the experience of other states. But the supporters of legalized betting fall silent when confronted by other issues, notably moral and religious objecspite the best efforts to keep it out, or ganized crime has a way of muscling into betting operations. The tracks them selves attract a proportion of undesirables. That is one reason why the State Police in Connecticut have been consistently opposed to legalized betting at race tracks, and why Governor Dempsey has opposed it.

The issue will come up again in six months when the 1971 session of the General Assembly convenes. Already the pressure is mounting to lift the ban. But whether the people of Connecticut, long known as the Land of Steady Habits, will approve the change remains very much in doubt at this point. -MERIDEN

The regulations limit the amount of sulphur in fuel. Their purpose is to cut down on sulnur-dioxide, which is given off during the burning process. One result is that many utilities and industries which were ourning coal had to find another

A case in point is Chicago, which passed low sulphur regu lations at the end of April and made them effective, July 1. Industry sources report that utilities and power plants are rushing to buy low-sulphur resi-dual oil. They add that the demand is greater than the supper cent of the electric power generated in the United States n 1969. Natural gas accounted for 23 per cent, residual oil for 10 per cent, nuclear power for 11/2 per cent and hydro-electric power the rest. But according to Chase Mar nattan Bank figures, residual of demand is up 15.6 per cent this year. This compares with, according to other figures, a 2 per cent jump in demand between 1967 and 1968 and an 8 per cent increase between 1968 and 1969. "The 1970 estimate called for a growth in demand for residual oil of 4 per cent, which is un-realistically low," one petroleum industry source said.

dustrial concerns who will not be able to get fuel oil this winter," says I.F. Goldman, chair-man of Petro Products of Detroit, an oil shipper. He says his firm will be able to supply current customers but will not be able to increase supplies to them or take on new customer The supply of residual fuel oil, according to Oil Daily, has been deckining. In mid-June supplies totaled about 47.5 million bar-rels, a decline of 23.4 per cent from the supply in June 1969.

The shortage has led many concerns to buy oil from abroad. At the same time the shortage has resulted in a clamor for relaxed oil import restric So far this year 18 requests for import quotas have been filed with the Oil Import Ap-peals Board, as compared with only one last year. The entire quota system— based on oil imports for the year 1957 when the quotas were established—is being studied by the Oil Policy Committee, a group of eight top-level govern-ment officials under the chair-manship of George Lincoln, di-rector of the federal govern-ment's Office of Emergency Preparedness.

But there is some question whether relaxed quotas can al-leviate the shortage.

Introducing the lowest-lead, highest-octane gasoline for the money. Anywhere.

ESSO PLUS

New Big Plus.

We've taken lead out, kept the octane high. And we've priced it below premium.

To help clean the air.

Cleaning the air is the biggest thing we wanted to accomplish. So we took lead out of Big Plus. Actually, there wasn't that much lead to begin with. One-and-a-half cc's of tetraethyl lead, less than an eyedropper-full in a gallon. Now we've removed one cc of that. To make Big Plus 99.98% lead-free on a volume basis.

Then we doubled the amount of engine-cleaning detergent, to reduce exhaust emissions even more.

It all adds up to this: Big Plus can cut automotive air pollution from your car significantly. Right now.

9 out of 10 drivers can use Big Plus without worrying about engine knock. Big Plus is high in octane.

It has what engineers call a 'research octane' rating of 96. Octane, of course, is not the only guide to choosing a gasoline. But it's important.

Big Plus will work perfectly in cars that don't have real high-compression engines. Cars that do should use our premium gasoline, Esso Extra.

There are 83,000,000 cars on the road today. What we've done is to make Big Plus an anti-pollution gasoline that 9 out of 10 drivers of today's cars can use without worrying about engine knock. And it'll be good for the 1971 cars, too.

Why we didn't take out all the lead.

We could have, of course. But engine testing shows that some lead is needed to prevent possible valve damage.

So we left the minimum amount in. And still made a cleaner gasoline. Try it soon. And help your car run clean.

There may be other questions about gasoline you'd like answered.

So we've prepared a comprehensive brochure. You can get it free at Esso stations. Or write Humble's Consumer Affairs office, Box 2180, Houston, Texas 77001.

Tax Free Dollars

Your neighbor carelessly backs his car into your fence, causing 200 worth of damage. Acknowldging his fault, he hands you a check for $200. Do you have to pay income tax on this

No, because it is not really 'income" at all. The money merely makes you "come out

Now, suppose he refuses to pay and you have to sue him for the money. Then, too, if you win the $200, it is tax free. Again, it simply makes you come out even. This principle has wide application, notably in personal injury cases. Accident victims sometimes win verdicts involving large sums of money. To the extent that the money is compensation for their injuries, it is not subject to income tax. In fact, the injury need not even be physical at all. In one case, a man won $100,000 for defamation of character. The government tried to collect income tax on this sum, but a court ruled that is was not taxable. The court said the purpose of the money was just to "make the plaintiff whole." And in another case, the money that a girl won in a breach of promise suit was likewise held not taxable, since it was compensating her only for the harm she had suffered. However a verdict may also include "punitive" damages, imposed not to compensate for the plaintiff's injury but to punish the defendant for his wrongful conduct. On this portion of the verdict, a tax may indeed be col-

For example: In another defamation case, the plaintiff won $1,000-$650 for the damage done to his reputation, and $350 to teach the defendant a lesson. The $650 was held tax free, but the plaintiff did have to pay income tax on the $350. This was considered income because, in spite of the harm he had suffered, he came out $350 richer than he had been

State Grant Provides Funds for This Road Work

Many town roads are getting a new face these days. This stretch of W. Middle Tpke. from Deerfield Dr. to Adams St. was being resurfaced today. It is 44 feet wide and about 1100 feet long, so resurfacing it will cost about $4,650, according to Town Engineer Walter Senkow. He estimated that it costs about $16,200

Barnes said that his request was brought about by the disclosure, last week, that the same firm which designed the safeguards against pollution of the Rt. 291 was also hired by the Transportation Department to decide whether the safeguards were adequate. He concluded, "That makes about as much sense as a doctor hiring himself as his own consultant." The Nov. 3 state election has to be called one of the most unusual in Connecticut history. The only incumbents running for re-election, on the national and state ticket, are U.S. Rep. Robert Glaimo, in the Third Congressional District; U.S. Rep. John Monagan, in the Fifth Congressional District; and Atty. Gen. Robert Killian, all Democrats. Killian was never elected to his state office. He was named to replace Harold Mulvey as attorney general, when the lat-ter was appointed a Superior Court judge.

However the election goes, whether won by the Democrats or the Republicans, newcomers will fill the posts of U.S. Senator, U.S. Representatives from the First, Second, Fourth and Sixth Congressional Districts, governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of the state, treasurer and comptroller.

(1st no. + 4th no. equals month)

We know the food you buy at Stop & Shop is fresh We want to make sure you know it, too!

Every supermarket in the country has what we call a freshness code. It's those mysterious numbers on every package (or can or bottle). They're there to make sure you get the fresh, tasty foods you want and are entitled to get. We don't want them to be mysterious any more. Actually, they never should have been. Because those numbers don't tell you when to stop eating the product. They tell us when to stop selling the product. Which is an entirely different thing. Because every code is timed to assure freshness in normal home

But to reassure you that we never sell any thing that isn't fresh, we're revealing our codes. We want you to know what you're buying. STOP & SHOP. When you talk, we listen.

OUR FRESH MEAT CODE

Stop & Shop Fresh Meats and Fish carry codes governed by the type of weighing and pricing machine in the department. At the present time we are using two types: (1) N.C.R. (Which is a square label). (2) TOLEDO (Which is a rectangular label). Regardless of the machine in use, three separate codes are used: (1) A.M. Packages (from opening to 1 p.m. that day). (2) 1:00 Packages (from 1 P.M. to closing). (3) Rewraps (rewrapped because of torn packaging or excess leakage). The following are the codes for both machines:

OUR FRESH DAIRY CODES

The following Stop & Shop Dairy items: Eggs, milk, cream, fruit drinks, and cream cheese, use the following coding system which signifies the expiration date, after which the item must be taken off display. These items use the four digit code: Example: 0621 - June 21. The first two numbers - month, the last two - the day.

Most brand name Dairy products are coded as indicated above, after which time they are taken off sale.
