West Virginia, there hasn't been a single sign of that possible heritage which might try to argue that West Virginia has enough people to try to provide jobs, schools, housing, and roads for.

No one has mentioned the possibility that there is no particular virtue in growing to be itself as it is, with its present population, its present industry, its present number of children to educate, its present mixture of homes and open space? Will there be anybody who will forsake such a community its non-conformist heresy? Will there be anybody who will protect it from the volunteer services of those who insist on showing it how to grow bigger and bigger and cost itself more and more money?

What is an ideal community?

Is it one which keeps on attracting more and more population?

If so, is the inward flow of population ever halted, or does it continue to high rise itself toward infinity for as many stories as it takes to hold the newcomers?

Highways And Transportation
 Americans who do not want their country and their environment buried under concrete should pay keen attention to what Congress is doing about highways and mass transportation.

Legislation on both subjects will be a hot political issue for the next 12 months. The chief highway legislation up for consideration is extension of the Highway Revenue Act of 1966, which set up the National Highway Trust Fund. That fund — designed to lay down 41,000 miles of interstate highway by 1972 — runs out in 1972. In the intervening years, the total mileage has been extended to 42,000 miles. And rising costs and delays have stretched out the time deadline to 1973.

The second major piece of congressional legislation on mass transportation is the March 1969 Senate-passed Nixon administration's urban Mass Transportation Assistance Act of 1969 (S. 816). It calls for a contract authority — not a trust fund — to assure financing of $1 billion over the next 12 years. It is a compromise bill. Today it languishes in the House Banking and Currency Committee.

It is not overstating the case to say that the quality and even the style of American life is being determined by the decisions made by these legislative bodies. A few statistics will illustrate this.

Nearly 80 per cent of the nation's population now lives in urban areas. An additional 100 million citizens, expected by the year 2000, will bring that figure up to 90 per cent.

Automobiles are proliferating along with people: 90 million were no longer in 1960, 105 million in 1970; and prospects for over 200 million by the year 2000.

Patrons of public transit systems is less than 75 per cent today of what it was 15 years ago, and only 25 per cent of what it was 25 years ago.

The nub of America's transportation problem is that American workers and jobs have moved away from central cities. The average volunteer in the program is an unmarried white male college graduate in his early 20s. Why should he be exempt from military service if that means a black ghetto youth is going to take his place in Vietnam?

That answer is better rapid transit from city to suburb. The city streets cannot bear more automobile traffic, the city air cannot bear more pollutants, and the inner-city poor cannot afford automobiles to take them to suburban jobs.

What is obvious, nothing in the present federal transportation policy would make it appear so. The federal government is spending more than $1 billion this year on highway programs (for which it supplies 90 per cent of costs).

In this same year, the federal government is spending less than $300 million for urban public transportation.

While the administration urban transit bill talks about $10 billion in 12 years, Representative Edward Koch (D) of New York points out that it says nothing about authorization of funds, much less appropriations. Moreover, it provides for only two-thirds federal funding of mass transit programs, compared to 80 per cent of highway costs.

With both highway and mass transportation programs up for action in Congress, now is the time for urban dwellers to let congressmen know they do not want to be buried under more concrete.

Some congressmen already have seen the light and are fighting for a rational balance. Senators Charles Fary (D) of Illinois and Edward Kennedy (D) of Massachusetts have called for a national transportation trust fund that would include mass transit as a beneficiary of the Highway Trust Fund.

In addition to cutting public transportation in on the financial grantivity train, transportation decisions must be keyed into a better system of obtaining. This cuts across all government levels. It starts with a national land use policy, and works down to local development plans in major cities and suburbs.

The 1968 Highway Act was belatedly amended to include so-called "CRA" approach — which calls for "cooperative, comprehensive, and continuing planning."

Like Cindarella, this legislative fester child has been given this gruel while its highway transportation sister has waxed and waned by its indifference. It is better for the health of the soul to make one man good than to sacrifice oneself for mankind.

For a mature man, these are not alternatives, but two aspects of self-realization, which mutually support each other, both being the outcome of one and the same choice.

Cooling Off The VISTA's

By Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON—An underlying reason why some 300 VISTA volunteers gathered in Washington last week to angrily demand Donald Rumsfeld's resignation as Nixon administration poverty chief may be found in a private chat held at the same time in Kansas City, Kan., where Rumsfeld's first assistant, OEO's bureaucratic monarch, he has made perfectly plain that the politics of confrontation is dead in the poverty program.

Indeed, Rumsfeld could have had no other way and still have any part of the program. Early in 1969, prevailing sentiment at the White House was to do away with OEO entirely as a bad business from the start. The surprise is that Rumsfeld has preserved so much of it.

There is, then, an irony at work here. Rumsfeld, a White House special assistant as well as OEO director, has been growing closer to President Nixon. Though he denies it, friends believe Rumsfeld has moved perceptibly leftward since his conservative days in Congress and is now an important player for social welfare at the White House. But he has intruded the left by his reshaping of the poverty program to satisfy angry demands from the right.

Those demands have concentrated on VISTA, whose volunteers have made a point of antagonizing the established political order. Rumsfeld was smothered with complaints about VISTA while attending the Western Governors' conference at Columbus, Ohio, in recent weeks.

He was told, for example, how one New York-based volunteer in Alaska was traveling about promoting an independent Eskimo republic. Gov. Jack Williams of Moreover, ending VISTA as a draft haven complements Rumsfeld's broader aim of eliminating all revolutionary vestiges in the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO). From the moment Rumsfeld resigned his seat in the Republican Congressional caucus last year to take over OEO's bureaucratic monarchy, he has called for slightly higher spending—$2.5 million this year compared with $2.3 million in the last Johnson year—and to pose a new model volunteer program outright. Instead, he has called for slightly higher spending—$2.5 million this year compared with $2.3 million in the last Johnson year—and to pose a new model volunteer program outright.

Rumsfeld has spelled this out in a meeting with VISTA radicals were orchestrating a confrontation designed for headlines. Rumsfeld wisely ducked last week's Washington conference of the 300 dissidents.

When Rumsfeld has been less than wise in his failure to appoint a VISTA director, Rumsfeld wasted months toying with the idea of a 26-year-old liberal, Richard Blumenthal, a former White House aide now on a Marine Corps tour. The idea exploded two weeks ago in a burst of bad publicity.

But whoever is named, no matter how liberal, will have to follow Rumsfeld's VISTA policy. That policy means VISTA will no longer serve at a sanctuary where radical white youths, proven in the draft, can peddle their revolutionary pipedreams in the slums under Uncle Sam's sponsorship.

However many VISTA volunteers not only protest in the future, those good old days will not return as long as Mr. Nixon is President.

A Thought for Today

Sponsored by the Manchester Council of Churches

The "great" commitment all too easily obscures the "little" one. But without the humility and warmth which you have to develop in your relations to the few with whom you are personally involved, you will never be able to do anything for the many. Without them, you will live in a world of abstractions. Your greed for power, and your death-wish lack of interest in the other, which is stronger than they are. Love, which is self-out, an object, the outflowing of a power released by self-surrender, but which would remain a selfish sort of superiority, self-assertion, powerless against the negative forces within you, if it were not tamed by the yoke of human intimacy and warmed by its tenderness. It is better for the health of the soul to make one man good than to sacrifice oneself for mankind.

For a mature man, these are not alternatives, but two aspects of self-realization, which mutually support each other, both being the outcome of one and the same choice.

D'Amour-St. Pierre

MRS. ROBERT EDWARD D'AMOUR

Carla Jean St. Pierre and Brian Edward D'Amour, both of Hartford, were married last Saturday morning at St. Columba's Church in Columbia, Conn., after Aug. 15.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donat St. Pierre of Hartford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland D'Amour of 321 Lake Rd. in Andover.

The Rev. Hugh Murphy of St. Columba's Church performed the double-ring ceremony and was celebrant at the nuptial Mass. Mrs. Andrew Gaspar was organist, and the soloist was Robert Horton.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of silk organza, fashioned with a lace applique panel at the front, and a train. Her floor-length veil of silk illusion was attached to a pearl-trimmed headpiece, and she carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis and baby's breath.

Mrs. Paul Eschmann of Andover was matron of honor. She wore a gown of apricot crepe with a matching veil accented with pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow and apricot colored roses, mums and carnations.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Gerald St. Pierre of Manchester, sister-in-law of the bride; Miss Mary Jean McGuire of Bristol, cousin of the bride; and Miss Mary Beth Montieri of Hartford, the flower girl. The bridesmaid was Debra Ann Degree of Newington. Their green gowns and veils were similar to the honor attendant's. They carried bouquets of yellow carnations and apricot colored mums.

Paul Eschmann of Andover served as best man. Ushers were Russell St. Pierre of Hartford, brother of the bride; James Davidson of Andover and Frank Zuraw of Mansfield.

Mrs. St. Pierre wore a blue chiffon dress with matching accessories. The bridegroom's dress and coat. Both had plans for a honeymoon in Ireland.

A reception was held at the home of Mrs. Raymond Roach of North Miami. The bride, North Miami Senior High School, is employed as a bookkeeper at the People's National Bank, Miami Shores, Fla. Mr. Cappa, a graduate of Manchester High School, attended High Point (N.C.) College. He is employed at the Gold Triangle.

An interview with the Wisconsin Congressman pointed to a problem in the translation of what he said to students means when it is translated into the House. We recommended that the House should be allowed to learn what was happening on the campus. The President's election was not done until it was too late.

Willis-Schwab

MRS. ROBERT O. RUPP

Barbara Cannon Schwab of Lakewood, N.Y., and Robert Russell Willis of Manchester were married Saturday afternoon in the First Presbyterian Church in Lakewood, N.Y.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. Morgan Schwab of Lakewood. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold G. Willis of 21 Phelps Rd. The Rev. David Foubert of Jamestown performed the double-ring ceremony. Baskets of flowers were on the altar.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a full-length empire gown of silk organza over bridal tulle, trimmed with Venise lace and decorated with long bishop sleeves and cuffs, and a chapel-length veil. She wore a mantilla of illusion edged with scalloped and floral Venise lace and decorated with miniature gandy flowers, and she carried a Cascade bouquet of sweetheart peas, blue delphiniums, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Mrs. Robert O. Rupp of Columbus, Ohio, was matron of honor. She wore a full-length empire gown designed with a white organza bodice and a navy blue A-line skirt, a ruffled matching blue hatbox and a matching blue hatbox and a matching blue hatbox and a matching blue hatbox.

The bridesmaids were Miss Sandra Lee of Verona, Pa., Miss Patricia Hecht of Lebanon, Pa., and Miss Ann Baschmann of Indianapolis, Ind. Their gowns and flowers were similar to the honor attendant's. Russell G. Willis of Manchester served as best man for his brother, who was a student at the University of Connecticut.

Mrs. D'Amour is a graduate of St. Catharine High School, Hartford, and is employed at the Connecticut Bank and Trust Co. in Hartford. Mr. D'Amour, a graduate of Rham High School, Hebron, is an apprentice at Pratt and Whitney Division of United Aircraft Corp., East Hartford.

MIAMI (AP) — Twice in four days a DC8 jet loaded with passengers lost power in all four engines, once at 14,000 feet and once on the ground, Eastern Airlines said Thursday night.

On July 29, over Ontario, Calif., the plane with 106 aboard dropped 6,000 feet in 17 minutes before power mysteriously surged back to the engines and the plane was safely landed.

The plane was checked over, flown empty to Miami for tests and then sent on a charter flight Saturday from Atlanta to Mexico City with 123 aboard. After landing, the engines went dead again.

It was returned empty again to Miami, and airline officials, Federal Aviation Administration investigators, technicians from Douglas Aircraft Co. which built the plane, and Pratt & Whitney which made the engines began trying to pinpoint the cause of the power loss.

Ashebrook said the plane will not be used again for passenger service until the problem is located and repaired. He said the plane normally earns $100,000 a day for Eastern.

"This is an extreme concern," Ashebrook said. "There's something we just don't know about it."

The marriage of Diane Threlfall Puda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Threlfall of South Norwalk, to Jay Marie Gordon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay E. Gordon of Manning Hill, Conn., took place Friday evening, July 31, at the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Suzanne Johnson of Greenwich, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Richard C. Gordon of Coventry served as best man.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents after the ceremony.

Mrs. Gordon is a graduate of Bristol High School, Norwalk, and Penn Hall Junior College, Chambersburg, Pa.

Mrs. Cappa is a graduate of Connecticut College, New Britain, and attended Utah State University, Eastern Connecticut State College in Willimantic and the University of Connecticut.

Cappa - Roach
 Irene Roach of North Miami, Fla., attended the bride of Bruce Cappa, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Cappa, formerly of Manchester, Friday evening, July 31, at the Chateau-Belle Isle in Bal Harbor, Miami Beach, Fla.

very disappointed in the lack of response to the specific recommendations," said Rep. Thomas (R-Pa.), a committee member. "The President did not pay much attention to our report. I think he has some people, including Henry Kissinger, who feel they know a hell of a lot more about the college campus than we do. I think the President was completely unaware of the response he would get from the campus when he invaded Cambodia. I think the explosion in May period we may have known what we were talking about."

Rep. William A. Steiger (R-Wis.), another member of the committee, gave the Senate Commission a rundown on the status of the ten recommendations last week.

He said Mr. Nixon "deserves high praise" for working against "repressive legislation" aimed at putting down campus dissent, as they had urged him to do. Steiger also applauded the start in draft reform by the Administration—another of the committee's recommendations.

He noted that Congress had lowered the voting age to 18 as the committee had recommended, and that students themselves "have responded vitally" to the idea of broadening their participation in electoral politics, as the committee had hoped.

But then Steiger tolled the list of recommendations on which little or no action had been taken: A national youth foundation to spur community involvement by young people; a student teacher corps; expanded aid to low-income students; a central office in the federal government to co-ordinate national youth programs; and a Presidential Commission on higher education.

In an interview the Wisconsin Congressman pointed to a problem in the translation of what he said to students means when it is translated into the House. We recommended that the House should be allowed to learn what was happening on the campus. The President's election was not done until it was too late.

First Golf

The first written reference to the game of golf appeared in 1487, when King James VI of Scotland issued an edict against "fute-ball and golfe" because it distracted the hearts of the nobles from archery, then an essential military art.

ued, "that if our recommendations had been acted on, the severe reaction to Cambodia, Kent State and Jackson State might have been averted. After they occurred, the Administration reacted. So the message I get from that is that if you're violent, you get a result; and if you're not, you won't. And that I think is a serious error."

Rep. Edward G. Blester, Jr. (R-Pa.), a third member of the committee, said he thought the reluctance of the administration Avenue from 67th to 69th streets, and Eighth Street, in Greenwich Village, will be closed to traffic.

Beginning in September, he present set of our institutional structure. That's a fact that's very difficult for people to grasp."

With the Hearst Report making the same point and the testimony before the Senate Commission pointing to the same conclusion, Blester thinks the uncomfortable truth may begin to penetrate.

But his committee colleague, Rep. Albert Guale (R-Minn.), is not sure even that will suffice. "Recommendations of this kind never have much effect," he said, "except on those who make them."

"Maybe, eventually, we'll reach the point where so many people will have served in a study commission on campus unrest that the majority will be aware of the situation. And maybe, eventually, there will be a President who is less prone to dismiss the behavior of the press than was President Lyndon B. Johnson. That's an essential military art."

Ellington Youth Dies In Mishap With Truck

A 16-year-old Ellington boy was dead on arrival at Rockville General Hospital last night after he was crushed between a truck and a home.

Richard D. Helm, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Helm of Ellington, died of multiple fractures of the skull and a broken neck, according to a autopsy report filed by Medical Examiner Dr. Francis Burke.

The police said the youth was on a rear loader of a tank truck being driven by his brother, Timothy Helm, 17. The two were in the process of getting water from a lake to fill the family swimming pool.

According to police, the truck was backing up and backed into Mrs. Nancy Helm's car. Richard was born June 19, 1954 in Stafford Springs. He would have graduated at Ellington High School in September.

Survivors also include another brother, Marshall E. Helm, Jr., at home; a sister, Nancy Helm, at home; and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Irene Willis of Ellington.

Army insists Gun Shipments Will Be Safe

The scope of planning and zoning, its beginning and development, and the proposed denials of permits for the number of apartments permitted on each acre of land were the subjects last night of a speech by Eric Potter, town planning director, at a Youth Commission session.

In answer to questions and objections about new gas stations in town, Potter said he was going to write a letter to oil companies warning them of conditions of some of the town's stations, noting that conditions will have to improve if the companies want to get any more licenses in town for gas stations.

He said that gas stations don't have to be "eye sore" banners and junk cars. "Zoning can't go so far," he said. "It can't restrict a man to his housekeeping." He also said that the commission can't discriminate against a certain type of business if it is permitted in a zone. "Businesses are allowed in Business Zone 1," he said, "but not in Business Zone 2."

He compared the scope of zoning to the scope of zoning in other parts of the state. "I've been to other parts of the state," he said, "and I've seen zoning that is much more restrictive than ours."

He said that zoning is not a magic wand. "Zoning is a tool," he said, "and it must be used wisely. It must be used to create a better environment for living and working."

Midnight Deadline For Kidnap Victims

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) - President Jorge Pacheco Areco's refusal to ransom an American police adviser and a Brazilian consul kidnapped by leftist rebels increased fears for their safety today.

In a communique Wednesday night, the Tupamaro rebels who kidnapped Dan A. Mirrone, 50, of Richmond, Ind., and Aloysius Mares Da Gonia, 49, of the government unit midnight to agree to release an estimated 150 political prisoners.

The kidnappers said if the government did not agree, they would "terminate" this affair and do justice. They did not specify that they would kill the two men, but the communique said Mirrone, an adviser to the Uruguayan police under the American aid program, admitted he had "provided lethal weapons to repress the Uruguayan people."

Local leaders of the Roman Catholic Church made a new effort to mediate, proposing a new exchange arrangement. In a television broadcast, they suggested that Mirrone be swapped for a prominent political prisoner held by the Tupamaros, and that the Brazilian consul be released in exchange for a prominent political prisoner held by the Tupamaros.

The president said he was not negotiating with the kidnappers. "I am not negotiating with the kidnappers," he said. "I am not negotiating with the kidnappers."

Court Cases

CIRCUIT COURT 12
Manchester Session

An Andover man was convicted yesterday of evading responsibility after a lengthy trial characterized by contradictory testimony.

Paul Jurovsky, 36, was arrested in connection with an accident in the Mott's Supermarket parking lot on July 25 in which he backed out of a parking space and struck a shopping cart. The cart was being pushed by Mrs. Nancy McGinley of Bolton. Her five-year-old daughter was sitting in the cart.

Mrs. McGinley testified that Jurovsky's car knocked the cart over injuring her daughter and causing minor damage to her car. She said that Jurovsky got out of the car, looked at her, got back in his car and drove away without saying anything.

Jurovsky and his wife testified that they both heard a bump as they backed out of the parking space, but Jurovsky did not see any damage to her car without saying anything because Mrs. McGinley was yelling at him.

Judge Henry Goldberg found Jurovsky guilty and fined him $50.

In another case tried yesterday, Norman D. Johnson, 23, of East Hartford, was found guilty of killing a dog and driving a hunting weapon. He was fined $40 with $100 because the second charge was part and parcel to the first.

Johnson was also fined $25 for hunting without a license and $50 for breach of the peace. He had previously pleaded guilty to both charges.

A hearing on a motion to suppress evidence was held in the case of William H. Chase, 21, of 169 Woodland St., charged with illegal possession of a controlled drug.

The defense is basing its motion to suppress on the fact that there was no warrant for Chase's arrest and the search of the truck was therefore illegal.

The case was continued for two weeks to allow the defense to prepare a brief.

Another hearing on a motion to suppress evidence in the case of Helen A. Kromm, 40, of 210 St. Charles St., charged with two counts of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol, was begun then continued after some legal conflict developed over the wording of the indictment.

Timothy Chapman, 17, of Hartford was sentenced to 30 days in jail, and probation for two years. He was previously found guilty of breaking and entering with criminal intent in connection with a break at Cole's Atlantic Station on W. Center St. on June 8. Sentencing came after Judge Goldberg was given the results of a pre-sentence investigation.

Richard W. Adams, 28, no certain address, was found guilty of operating a motor vehicle while his license was under suspension, operating an unregistered motor vehicle and mis-use of registration plates. His case was continued for disposition at the request of his attorney.

Another charge of larceny under $200 was noted.

A re-arrest warrant was issued for James H. Cook of Middletown, failed to appear yesterday to face a charge of breaking and entering.

All previous probable cause was begun in the case of Michael Dixon, 17, of Hartford, and Danny Love, 16, of Williamantic. They are facing a variety of charges in connection with a series of housebreaks June 18 in the North End.

Ronald Miller, 16, presently at the Meriden School for Boys, was declared a hostile witness by Judge Goldberg at the request of Prosecutor William Collins after Miller said that several signed statements he gave to police, implicating Love and Dixon, were false. He said that Kromm's statements to police so that they would let him go. The hearing was continued by Judge Goldberg so that the officers who took the statements could be subpoenaed.

Daniel Henry, 18, of Glastonbury, was sentenced to 90 days in jail, execution suspended, and placed on probation for two years with the condition that he voluntarily commit himself to Norwich Hospital for treatment of his drug problem.

Three other charges of theft from a person, larceny under $200, and possession of marijuana were noted.

Other cases disposed of were: John P. Shannon, 34, of 108 Falkner Dr., found guilty of making unnecessary noise with a motor vehicle, fined $15.

charge of reckless driving was noted.

Alan C. Jones, 21, of Rockville found guilty of operating a motor vehicle without a license, and unsafe backing, fined a total of $60.

Albert E. Turner, 45, of Broad Brook, found guilty of operating a motor vehicle without a license, and unsafe backing, fined a total of $60.

Notices were entered in the cases of Donald W. Focitt, 16, of 108 Falkner Dr., originally charged with taking a motor vehicle without permission; Richard A. Payne, originally charged with failure to drive to the right; Edgar L. Davis, originally charged with speeding; and Edward Yankowski, 22, of 196 and operating a motor vehicle charged with breach of the peace by assault.

East Hartford Session
A 65-year-old Manchester man was found guilty of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor.

The decision was made Wednesday by a jury of 12.

The man, Adolph Weiskopf of 70 E. Center St., was fined $100 and A. Payne, originally charged with failure to drive to the right; Edgar L. Davis, originally charged with speeding; and Edward Yankowski, 22, of 196 and operating a motor vehicle charged with breach of the peace by assault.

Suzanne Galante, 19, of Cromwell, was found guilty Tuesday on a substitute information of possession of stolen goods, and she was fined $25. She was arrested June 9 in Manchester on a warrant charging her with breaking and entering, and larceny under $15.

Correction
An 87-day extension to complete the Mayfair Gardens project is being sought by the contractor, and that figure, stated in the headline in yesterday's story, is correct. Through a typographical error, the figure in the story came out 87 days.

Miss Virginia G. Lowe, 57, Scarborough Rd., Miss Judith T. Miner of 44 Pieter St., Alan R. Tupak of 10 Concord Rd., and Dwight L. Fisher of 90 Foster St., Wapping, have been named to high honors dean's list for the spring semester at the University of New Hampshire.

Anyone interested in watching for the Esplanade, 70 project, should contact Curtis Lawrence, 37 Avery St.

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Cambodian strike forces led by fighter-bombers fought their way into full control of the heavily damaged crossroads town of Skoun as a one-week Communist offensive on the northern border of Cambodia high command reported today.

A military spokesman said Cambodians recruited and trained by U.S. special forces in Vietnam recaptured the Communist Command troops.

Skoun, a district headquarters 40 miles northeast of Phnom Penh, was considered the most critical point for the government during the broad northern offensive that started Aug. 1, when the market town sits on the border of Cambodia and Laos.

The fighting early Saturday involved a Communist unit attempting to infiltrate Phnom Penh itself, the spokesman said. But enemy pressure on the capital is now quite low compared to late May and June when a major offensive was launched.
