Chocolate is loved by so many people that it rates more varied use than it gets in most homes. Many otherwise good cooks limit their chocolate cohery to chocolate chip cookies, brownies, chocolate cake, and chocolate pudding from a mix. They never make chocolate dessert cups, a proud souffle, or a delicate mousse. Nor do they use chocolate for decoration, as well as for an ingredient. A garnish of chocolate curis makes even the simplest of desserts a feast for the eyes. And they're so easy to make!

The fine meals served at MR. STEAK, 244 Center Street, 646-1995, make us rate high in the world of restaurants. We are called America's favorite family restaurant and delight in serving chiling, be sure to join us for luncheon. You're sure to find our menu most tempting. OPEN 7 DAYS - 11:00 A.M. TO 9:00 P.M.

Farber's Roses

The nature of the game of politics is in constant flux, and in one day's news, this week, it was in the gutter, one moment, the greenhouses the next.

The day began with an extraordinary exchange between two normally civilized gentlemen, Mayor John Lindsay of New York and the debonair Senator Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut, during a hearing of the Senate Finance Committee down in Washington.

Suddenly, to reporters who could hardly believe their ears, Senator Ribicoff was heard reproaching Mayor Lindsay for maintaining one of the "filthiest cities anywhere" and suggesting to the Mayor that he might train some of the city's numerous able-bodied welfare recipients to go out and pick up the The advantages of the water mattress

That jewel of the Ivy League, Mayor Lindsay, replied that such a suggested use of "welfare mothers with brooms and spikes in the middle of Fifth Ave. brings us back to the Middle Ages," and then, not content with such a highlevel scorn, hit the Connecticut Senator way low with the assertion that, of dirt in the streets, "you see it in Bridgeport, too, Senator."

These two worthles terminated their brawling over streets with an agreement to go on a tour of New York, but not of Bridgeport, together.

Meanwhile, back in the city itself, one Barry Farber, an erstwhile radio talk jockey who has a leave of absence from his microphone in order to run for Congress on the Republican ticket in a heavily Democratic district, opened his campaign by sending his opponent, Mrs. Bella Abzug, a dozen roses, along with a challenge to a campaign debate. Mrs. Abzug, a crusading leader in the women's liberation movement, and also one of the original leaders of women's movements for peace in Vietnam, apparently considered such a courtesy an insulting continuation of the revolting idea that women were somehow entitled to a special courtesy, scorned the gift of the roses, and, instead of accepting Farber's challenge, dared him to come out from behind his roses and his microphone and fight, presumably

The final outcome of these two controversies is beyond prediction, but the immediate reading had to be that Farber's roses, welcome or not, had perfumed an otherwise sordid day.

The Impossible Journey? The truth about peace in the Near East is that nobody really believes it

Israel, Egypt and Jordan accepted the American proposal for cease-fire and talk not because they had any measurable hope it could lead anywhere, but because none of them felt able to enact the callous defiance of world opinion which would have been involved in a rejection of the plan. with the social, institutional and legal en-Having accepted the plan, the same kind of psychology-"we fear this can't lead anywhere but we cannot be the early in the game"-has brought the three nations to their first day of separate talks with the United Nations mediator, Dr. Gunnar V. Jarring. consider, adjust, renegotiate—and run he risk of losing out. Ahead lies the long and difficult trail which, might, some fortunate day, lead to enough progress in the separate meetings of the two sides with Dr. Jarring to make possible and necessary that direct meeting between the two sides which

By the books it is all doomed To be hopeful is to ask the impossible

Yet it is already time to begin to do a little backward reading. There was a time, not many days ago, when it seemed as unlikely that the two sides would ever agree to a cease-fire and talk proposal as it now seems unlikely they will reach peace Until Monday you could feel the imossibility of their ever agreeing on such things as the place for the talks, and the level of representation at these talks as painfully as you can now sense the heavy odds against their surnounting the next opportunity for failure which presents itself to them.

But so far, step by step, phase by orturesome phase, the impossible is what has been happening.

Even more truly than on the moon each small impossible step is a giant step forward for mankind, and his hope of achieving a civilized existence. If you have nothing else to do, from time to time, try to beam a personal laser beam of intensified good will toward the rooms where men may, perhaps, be drawn toward the impossible because they find they cannot betray mankind by taking anything less.

Sleeping On Water

Not since we read, during the 1964 Presidential campaign, that Barry Goldwater had the sound of a brook piped in to his pillow, have we been offered such an exotic style of sleep as that promised by the newest kind of mat-

It would be called, we guess, a water mattress, for it is a plastic affair which, after you get it positioned in your bedroom, you fill, via garden hose, with some 150 to 200 gallons of water, depending upon how soft a bed you wish are that it fits your form, no matter what it is, with a more faithful adjustment than is possible for any other kind of mattress, and that the problem of bed temperature can be taken care of by heating the water in the mattress. But the real attraction is, of course, that whenever you move gently from one perfect sleeping posture to another, your own movement sets off a musical sort of sloshing inside the mattress, not too far removed, if you have imagination enough, from the piped-in trickle and ripple of Barry Goldwater's brook.

CDAP Begins To Crunch

In Wallingford, Councilman Albert Killen is urging closer liaison between the Council and the Community Development Action Plan Agency. He would like to see copies of CDAP minutes sent to each individual Council member. In ad dition, Killen and CDAP Coordinator Phil Hamel agree on the need to have a CDAP representative attend all council meetings and a councilman attend all CDAP meetings - although agreeing on the need and seeing that the assignments are carried out are two different things What happens when CDAP and the town government don't keep in close enough touch, or don't see eye to eye, was recently illustrated in Plainville. The town found itself in danger of losing its share of state funds for several pro grams, among them housing for the elderly, the day care center, urban renewal, housing code enforcement, urban planning assistance, and CDAP itself. because the Council disagreed with an important recommendation of the CDAF Coordinating Committee on industrial

The sticking point involved the CDAPrecommended plan to designate a large tract in the northwest section of town for industrial use. The residents sharply opposed such designation and the Council rightly or wrongly, agreed with them. Councilmen failed to approve the plan and referred it back to the "steering committee." At the last minute, the CDAP people backed down on the location of the industrial land, and the plan

Meriden, meanwhile, is still wallowing in a mass of preliminary recommendations which the professional planners, at a cost of $91,000 have prepared for the consideration of the citizen boards and groups. Some of these are worthwhil and well-intentioned and should be pursued. Many are long-standing objectives of operating city departments and boards, which will take action on them in due course with or without CDAP enouragement. Still others are so general as to be meaningless, such as the recomnendation to "provide assistance to Meriden residents to enable them to cope

Eventually Meriden and Wallingford councilmen, like those in Plainville, will have to approve CDAP plans in order to qualify their towns under the present aw to receive state funds. They can give token approval, since the plan has no legal teeth to force compliance with it, once adopted. Or they can conscientious

We predict that as more towns and cities arrive at the crunch point where against this kind of blackmail by a wouldn't want to bet on the future of CDAP, state or local, after the elections n November. — MERIDEN RECORD.

one-year delay. Since Ribicoff's speech, top officials in the White House and Department of Health, Education, and Welfare have started looking toward his scheme as possible salvation from their misery. George Schultz, powerful head of the Office of Budget and Management (OBM), paid a visit to Ribicoff's Capitol Hill office to talk it over.

The Administration is hoping against hope that Ribicoff's one-year delay might be enough to win over the recalcitrant Republican minority on the Senate Finance Committee, including their unyielding leader, Sen. John Williams of Delaware. Everything else, so far, has

Unless Williams and his Republican friends are neutralized by something similar to the Ribicoff plan, prospects for the reform package are poor as time runs out in this Congress. And if the program is not passed by this Congress, it surely will not be passed in the new Congress elected in November. The House simply would not go through another welfare reform fight. That would mean Mr. Nixon would be deprived of his one landmark piece of social legislation. But it also promises many concrete trouble. If the welfare reform dies in the Senate, the Nixon administration's problems in the House the next two years will be grotesquely The reason is that many conservative Republicans and some moderate Democrats in the House voted for the welfare reform on April 16 against the wishes of business lobbyists and perhaps their own inclinations only because the White House pleaded with them. If the bill now dies in the Senate, they will be left on the hook with a politically unappetizing vote fo naught. When the White House comes around to secure their votes on other difficult measures, the reception will be

CHENEY: TWO YEARS IN CHINA AND JAPAN, 1859-1861 by Antoinette Cheney Crocker. Davis Press, Worcester, Mass.

A blissard struck Hartford Jan. 8, 1859. The next day, three feet of snow lay on the streets of New York City, hardly an uspicious occasion to step scross the street, much less depart for the Orient.

But Frank Woodbridge Cheney had no choice. At the age of 28, he was sailing to China and Japan as a silk agent for the young Cheney Bros. firm. His first letters from Shanghai ndicated he expected to return y late 1859, or early 1860 at

· However, as opportunities in the Orient opened up and the success of the young FWC (his usual letter signature) increased as a raw silk purchaser, plans changed on both sides of the world. The first hint that his stay might be longer came in a Sept. 5, 1859 letter from ds Uncle Ward. "Of course, to obtain the full advantage of the Japan trade we must be able to operate directly with the Japasese, which may involve a longer residence out there." Having established the credit and reputation of Cheney Bros., ess than 40 years old but rapidly expanding, he left Hong Kong in March 1861 for the journey nome. As an aside, it may surprise some readers, as it did his one, to learn that some of the Cheneys were then living in Hartford, where a mill was operating on Morgan St.

Frank Woodbridge was the son of Charles and Waitstill Dexter Shaw Cheney. Frank's mother died at 35, and three daugh-ters and a son in childhood. Charles then married Harriet Several letters are in direnced of editorial comment. For one thing, many letters to and from Frank Woodbridge mention shipments of drills to be sold or used in exchange. What kind of drills? Where are they originally obtained? How did the Chinese use them?

For another, FWC's letters,

To Uncle Ward, Oct. 21, 1859, and knowledge of business mathers to act as minister and reality represent us, the better. The present incumbent might retire to private life."

There is a note of grim trony in FWC's letter of Feb. 14, 1860 outh to his father, in which he said to he had witnessed the departure of the Japanese Embassy to this country on the "Powhatan". to improve your lawn?

Do it now, when Nature helps most!

The few weeks of late summer and early fall are by far the best opportunity to upgrade your lawn. Days are growing shorter. Dews are heavier. The soil is warm, and nights are growing cooler. It's the one time of year when Mother Nature has all the odds stacked in your favor - the naturally right time to make real lawn progress.

How to perk up a summer-weary lawn!

This is the time of year when most lawns need reviving. Best way we know is to feed with TURF BUILDER, the fertilizer that helps grass multiply itself. It goes right to work building thicker, greener, sturdier turf. Strengthens grass roots too, so your lawn will "winter" better. Clean. Lightweight. Easy to handle. Use it any time, any weather. Will not burn grass or harm grass seed.

Add the vigor of new life to your lawn

Not only is early fall the naturally right time to seed a lawn, but this fall you can save on WINDSOR, Scotts improved variety of Kentucky bluegrass. When fully developed, WINDSOR makes a magnificently green lawn that thrives in summer sun. It takes wear and tear and when damaged has the ability to repair itself. WINDSOR is ideal for seeding a new lawn or upgrading an older one.

On Pain of Perjury Cutting off the tongue is no longer considered, as it once was, a proper punishment for perjury. Nevertheless, the law still considers perjury a serious offense indeed. The obligation to tell the truth under oath is a vital cog in the machinery of

In fact, a person may be guilty of perjury even when he does tell the truth-if he did not know it was the truth. For example: A witness in a homicide case swore that the defendant had not been present at the scene of the shooting. Later, the witness admited that he himself had not been there either. Yet the court found him guilty of perjury. Even though he had is facts straight, said the court, he had still lied about his knowledge of those facts. Nor does a cautious phrase like "I guess" or "I think" protect a witness from the possibility of committing perjury. Thus, a witnes who says "I think the defendant was speeding" would be guilty of perjury if he privately nought just the opposite—that ne defendant was not speeding. Of course, there is no perjury f the witness is honestly mistaken. Nor is there perjury if he

Abuse of Drugs LONDON (AP) - "LSD can take you places you never dreamed of," says the poster. It shows a youth in a straitacket cowering in the corner of a padded cell, undergoing treatment for addiction to the hallucinatory drug.

National Lifeline, a charity consortium which cares for addicts and alcholics, devised the black and white placards to strike out at early stages of drug usage which can lead to addiction.

One poster shows a writhing one-day old baby. "He's been a junkle all his life," says the cap-"This haby needs heroin the way most babies need milk," the message reads. "He's a reg-istered dope addict. A victim of the drug scene. If he lives it will be a miracle. "Unless people stop playing with drugs there'll be a lot more bables born in this state. Because this is what happens when you start turning on for a laugh. Some laugh."

Another poster advises parents to search their children's pockets for pep pills.

"Some school kids pick things up very quickly," says the legend on a picture of a boy with hooded eyes holding pills in his "It's not always sweet candies they pick for sixpence (six cents) a bag," the message reads.

Gilead Hill School Told To Change Its Incinerator

ental Health Service of the school year starting Sept. 9. Damarjian was authorized to Mrs. Curran will be the

Under a state regulation, which, according to the letter "became effective Nov. 2, 1968," the incinerator "may not be used in its present state." This is a new incinerator installed when the school was completed two and a helf weers mpleted two and a half years

Aram Damarjian, superin-tendent of schools, was au-thorized to contact the manu-facturer to ascertain what adjustments, if any, can be made to meet the necessary require-ments and the cost involved. Peter Beckwith and Lura Butt, board members who were appointed to a special commit-tee to study the hot lunch pro-gram after it incurred a $1,600 deficit last year, submitted

After meeting with Mrs. Marjorie Porter, cafeteria manager and Damarjian, they recom-mended that the price of adult lunches be lowered from last year's 70 cents to 60 cents with an additional 10 cents for milk. Student lunches will remain at Prices Raised Hot lunch prices were raised last April after the management realized it would be operating at a substantial loss. With a five-cent increase in student lunches there was only a five per cent loss in participation. However, increasing adult lunches from 50 to 70 cents incurred a 50 per cent loss. incurred a 50 per cent loss. The committee felt that by harging 60 cents without beverage, there would be a larger participation by the teachers. The board approved

Also approved was the rec-ommendation to use cardboard, plastic-coated dishes at a cost of $28.40 per thousand instead of he styrofoam dishes used last year at $32.20 per thousand.
Approximately 60,000 of these lates are used a year and the nanagement could save $250. ed a 20 cents an hour increase cook, and manager. However, the committee recommended and the board approved, by a vote of 5-2, a 10 cents per hour increase. Charles Barrasso and Ed Hinchliff vot ions would then be reviewed in crease.

This increase would raise the salaries to $1.60 per hour each for two assistants, $1.80 per our for the assistant cool $1.90 per hour for the cook, and $2.60 per hour for the manager. With the increase in salaries, the total expended will still be less than last year as one less assistant will be hired this year.

Cafeteria Staff Damarjian reported that all positions for the cafeteria staff have been filled as follows: Mrs. Marjorie Porter, manager; Mrs. Marianne Moore, cook; Mrs. Diane Dixon, assistant cook; and Mrs. Marianne Tier ney and Mrs. Barbara Porter, assistants.

The board unanimously defeated a recommendation by the committee that Mrs. Porter be reimbursed $140 for a convention she attended in Boston earier this month offering courses in hotel and restaurant food Rejection was made on the basis that no prior authorization was given to Mrs. Porter to attend the convention. Legal Notices
