Bolton School Board Okays Carnival, Dance Plan

The Board of Education has given the go-ahead to the class of 1972 for an annual carnival and block dance to be held Oct. 2 and 3 on the high school grounds.

The board gave its permission after Principal Norman Shaw spoke in behalf of the students and explained plans for more recycling at the regular board meeting Thursday night.

Some disturbances had occurred during last year's carnival and block dance, John Petrus, who had been one of the teachers in charge during last year's events, said that the disturbance had not been caused by Bolton students, but by outsiders, and commended Bolton students for their behavior.

This is the third annual carnival and block dance, the first two having been the major fundraising activity of the class of 1970.

Shaw said that an additional cost will be hired for Friday night, bringing the number up to four, and that the class is contacting the resident state trooper. Adult advisors of the Bolton Youth Council will also be volunteered to be in attendance.

The board said it had not intended to cancel the carnival, but perhaps to shorten the evening hours. The event runs from 6:30 to 11:30 Friday night, and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

Shaw explained that the owners of the various rides and food concessions expect to remain open for a certain number of hours, and that the class already has a verbal agreement with these men.

So the board went along with many arrangements that have already been made this year, but Chairman James Grunke warned that if there were any problems other than with outsiders this year, the board would "take a very dim view" of a carnival next year.

The carnival committee has apparently been meeting all summer in preparation for the event, which will include games and booths invented and manned by students, as it has in the past.

Eric Geer and other juniors are distributing printed cards advertising the event.

Assembly Leaders Clear Path for Jobless Session

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — House Speaker William Ratchford of Danbury and State Senator Majority Leader Edward L. Marcus of New Haven both indicated Friday they wouldn't oppose the idea of confining a proposed special session of the General Assembly to the subject of extending jobless pay benefits to Connecticut's unemployed.

Gov. John Dempsey said earlier Friday that a special session might be necessary in order for the state to receive additional benefits from a new federal program that starts the week of Oct. 11.

Under the program, eligibility for jobless pay is extended for another 13 weeks for workers who have used up their 26 weeks of eligibility.

And, State Labor Commissioner Renato Ricciuti said in an order to make a final determination as to Connecticut's eligibility for the program. However, he said the state is "virtually certain" to qualify.

The governor apparently does not have the power to limit the session himself, according to the order, which was signed by Robert K. Killian, Ratchford's secretary.

Shainwold on Bridge

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD
You can't always get the best results by thinking carefully. Sometimes you just think so quickly and casually that the opponents are unaware that you had a problem. Lynn expert Leslie Popper illustrated the point in a hand of the U.S. Master Card Championship during the recent national tournament in Boston.

Neither side vulnerable. Opening lead King of hearts and stopped for thought. West opened the king of hearts and saw the dummy. A heart continuation would clearly help declarer set up dummy's long suit, so West looked about for a new point of attack.

West switched to the five of clubs, and declarer played the queen from dummy since the hand would be virtually led from the king. This hope was dashed when East produced the king of clubs. Quick as a flash Popper saw that he couldn't afford to take the trick. If he did, he would eventually have to tackle one of the red suits; and then the defenders would be virtually forced to take their three tricks. While you were reading this, he was reading this on his hand — just like a man who never forgets the ace of clubs.

Rehars Trump
East returns a trump, and south put up the ace. Declarer next led the queen of hearts, and West went with the ace. By this time the defenders had taken three tricks, and West could defeat the contract by cashing the ace of diamonds. But West wasn't sure that South had a diamond, and he did feel sure that his partner had the ace of clubs.

Superior Court Justice Albert S. Kardon handed the sentence West therefore led another down.

Enfield Leaders Protest Moving Jail Into Town

ENFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Reports that the state plans to relocate the Hartford Correctional Center here drew strong protests Friday from two local state legislators.

Rep. Stanley Bigos, a Democrat, said the jail was originally built to be located in Enfield, but has been relocated in Danbury by State Corrections Commissioner Silvio C. MacLaughlin, who said the town is willing to make a court issue of it.

"I talked Friday with Commissioner MacLaughlin and told him I will use every power of my office to decline the location of an additional jail facility in either Enfield or Somers," Bigos said.

State Sen. Charles T. Alfano of Suffield, president pro tem of the State Senate and also a Democrat, said he agrees with opponents of moving the jail to Enfield.

"Just how much can the State of Connecticut expect from the towns of the Seventh Senatorial District?" Alfano said. "The state already occupies several hundred acres of tax-free property in Enfield for the minimum security state prison and several hundred acres in the town of Suffield and Windsor Locks for Bradley Field Airport. MacLaughlin should begin to assume his share of this responsibility."

South Windsor Wapping Visit Scheduled By School Bus

A Red Cross Bloodmobile will be at the Wapping Community Church from 9:45 a.m. until 6:30 p.m. on Oct. 2. Friends of the family of young Jay Collins who succumbed to leukemia this summer, have suggested this action as a fitting memorial to the boy and an appropriate expression of thanks to the organ donor who was of such help to his family.

The Social Action Committee of the Wapping Community Church is sponsoring the visit of the Jay Collins Memorial Bloodmobile. The South Windsor P.E.S. organization has volunteered drivers for anyone requiring transportation to the church.

Appointments are not necessary, but it would be appreciated if those who intend to contribute blood would sign up in advance. Cards for this purpose will be available in community churches. A number of civic organizations will also have donor cards on hand for a meeting being held in September.

For appointments and further information contact Mrs. Jack Kelley of 20 Willow St. or The Wapping Community Church Office.

Cereal Critic Calls Us Nutritional Illiterates

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the nation's most outspoken market critics in some areas of displaying cereals and pills side by side on shelves. He cited as an example a display of Kellogg's cereal and a box of Plintstone, an A.T. & T. television character, advertising a new General Foods product called "Pebbles" and a pill called "Fred's Vitamins."

Robert E. Choate, who stirred up a nationwide controversy last July when he told a Senate Commerce subcommittee that he had advertised cereals in advertising policies in the past, appeared before the Food and Drug Administration and the Federal Trade Commission last week to urge the agencies to take steps to prevent the practice of advertising advertising.

Choate was critical of a supermarket practice in some areas of displaying cereals and pills side by side on shelves. He cited as an example a display of Kellogg's cereal and a box of Plintstone, an A.T. & T. television character, advertising a new General Foods product called "Pebbles" and a pill called "Fred's Vitamins."

Choate said one reason there has been little apparent change in advertising policies in the past is because the Food and Drug Administration and the Federal Trade Commission are not necessarily split the responsibility for supervising advertising.

Choate said he was greatly outlandish by television advertisements of the food industry, who offered the panel edibles ranging from potato chips to dietetic powders as they defended their products.

Choate said the "classroom nutrition teacher has been greatly outlandish by television persuaders."

"Junior is off at the TV set being misinformed by endless ads while Mother is slicing open a plastic package to save time and trouble," he said. "The cartoon character, the jingle writer, the box label designer, the food broker and the supermarket manager are helping to shape our food habits."

He showed the panel cereal advertisements monitored during the Saturday morning cartoon hour and said, "I still think it is safe to state that the huckstering of the cereals to children continues."

Choate has claimed that less nutritious and presweetened cereals are heavily promoted, while the top nutritional cereals are seldom advertised.

Jail Term Set On Drugs Count

HAMPTON, N.H. (AP) — Robert Savillon, 17, of Manchester, Conn. has been sentenced to a year in jail and fined $500 on one charge of marijuana possession and bound over to Superior Court on a felony charge of possession of 2.2 pounds of marijuana.

District Court Judge John Perkins imposed the fine and jail sentence Thursday on Savillon's hearing July 27 when he was arrested at a Hampton motel.

He was arrested the next day and charged with illegal possession of the larger amount of marijuana. He pleaded innocent to the charge at Thursday's hearing and was bound over to Superior Court.

At the time of his second arrest, authorities said it was the largest seizure of marijuana at one time in the town's history.

Long Sentence

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — Paul Boyd, 21, of Portland and Bridgeport, Conn., was sentenced to six to 12 years in state prison Friday for the rape of a 17-year-old Portland girl on June 15.

Superior Court Justice Albert S. Kardon handed the sentence which was to be recognized as a graduate of the Reformatory Institute.

The course is in three parts, and is given by leading people in the field of Real Estate, one of whom is Dean Robert H. Wray of the UConn School of Business Administration.

South Windsor Democrats Open Headquarters

Mrs. Joseph Duffey, wife of Democratic candidate for United States Senate yesterday visited South Windsor Thursday to visit with the opening of Democratic headquarters at 1702 Elington Rd.

Mrs. Duffey was greeted by Chairman William Young; South Windsor Citizens for State Committee Chairman Joseph Walsh, candidate for State representative from the 46th Assembly District; Abrams Glassman and Mrs. Donald Waite, committee member in charge of the opening arrangements.

Mrs. Duffey has done extensive traveling through the state in behalf of her husband and the rest of the Democratic ticket.

Of her ventures on the campaign trail, she said "I am particularly interested in."

A professional schoolteacher who has worked for the Hartford Association for the Mentally Retarded and served as a substitute teacher, Mrs. Duffey said she is interested in the interests of children.

In a morning of a convalescent home, Children's Workshop for the Retarded, and regional centers," she said. "I see the young people, older people, the working men and suburbanites totally involved in the life of the state."

The Democratic party should be pleased with their concern."

A button pinned to her dress showed her approval of the 18 teaching, interesting part-time job for one or two ladies who would like to combine service to the town with income in the pocket book. Mrs. Young or Mr. Herald.

After Diagnosis, Any Cure? Last July President Nixon appointed a special commission, headed by Henry Cabot Lodge, himself a former ambassador to the United Nations.

It took courage for the 12 members of the jury to convict Black Panther Louie McLucas on the charge of conspiracy in New Haven yesterday.

It took strong nerves and firm personal conviction for all 12 of these people to stay on the job and to withstand all kinds of pressure were applied to divert or prevent their carrying out their assignment.

It would have been terribly easy for the members of the jury to avoid their responsibility. Any one of them could have broken under the pressure, gotten sick, necessitating a new trial.

These people were chosen for the job because they were not extraordinary, they were ordinary people from the population, as fair-minded as possible.

It is on people like these that the strength and effectiveness of a free society and of our justice depends — and beyond it, the whole structure of democracy.

These people have done so admirably well with courage and the best judgment they could muster. They deserve the respect and thanks of all of us. — MEREDITH RECORD.

The details are a little hazy, but I think the man at the party said he was "Mike" and his wife said, "I didn't know that." And the man talked about a new book with a certain title and his wife said, "I didn't know you'd read that."

"Have you two met?" asked my wife, getting a nice subject for conversation. "Yes, I've never talked to her," said the other wife. "I have to go out like this to hear what she has to say."

Why is it that wives value the idea of tactfully so lightly? I can't remember the last time my wife called me "inconspicuous" or "Olympian," as the post said of Lincoln.

It isn't that "I have learned silence from the talkative," he, but to quote the prophet. The facts are quite different from the stereotype of that late-show "Hoodlum" movie in which a carnival Barker introduces an act with: "You'll notice he doesn't say anything. That's because, like all normal human beings, he's not allowed to." Actually, it's choice, not coercion, that makes husbands tend to be silent rather than glib.

I have every confidence that my wife would prove me the time and opportunity for me to do just what I only had more to say. Even as it is, I think she tries to extend my sentences by dropping in comments when my brief pauses seem long to her — I. I. I conclude, "I say Sam Wilson today, ..." and she'll say, "who is he? I'll have to find the sentence about Sam, whereupon she'll say "and..." and I'll add a few details.

It's different when she begins by asking a direct question and I reply with a non-committal answer. This means she is recognizing that there are few pat answers in this world. Then she asks for "a simple yes or no" as I believe I have reported in these pages before.

In any case, she seems to want a definitely verbal response to things, showing little appreciation for the right range of nonverbal communication recognized by scientists and developed in our part of the world. Her facial expressions, hand gestures, clear to me. They come easier than words which, often they have been thought, often have been worth anything. This may be because I'm a husband like the one described by his wife in "a simple yes or no" as I believe I have reported in these pages before.

In this fashion the tether can be used as rigid as a piece of steel and formed into any shape the astronaut desires. The tether can then hold him in position and can be retracted and extended at the astronaut's will.

The third element in the system, the "anchor," consists of an electrified pad which will strongly adhere to any metal or any other electrically conductive surface. The pad is shaped so that they can be brought into intimate contact with the anchor surface.

This system has three experiments: (1) the attachment system, connected to the left hip of the operator to serve as a counterbalance; (2) the tether section and (3) an adhesive pad and attachment which will adhere to the tether to a "stable" platform.

The tether consists of a series of integral ball-and-socket links strung over a central tensioning cable. The links are arranged so that the ball of one link rests in the socket of the next. The end of this tensioning cable is in the body-mounted controller unit where tension can be applied by cranking a handle.

Tooling Up for Astronauts

By Dr. I.M. Levitt, Director of the Fels Planetarium

The Franklin Institute Current opinion holds that man must be able to work efficiently in the space environment. To assemble large structures some method of tying components together must be developed and some method must be found to anchor astronauts to perform tasks under severe restraints. Also methods must be developed to secure an astronaut in trouble. These facts of the extravehicular problem have been studied and heretofore thrust upon them, and most of them probably accepted it unthinkingly.

Judge Harold M. Malvey was well aware of the pressures and the challenge they faced, and his handling of the case and of the part in it was correspondingly firm. When they brought him the verdict, he had words of high praise for them. Their work, he told them, "indicates to the whole world" that they had gone "almost beyond what was expected of you," to help bring justice in this case.

It is on people like these that the strength and effectiveness of a free society and of our justice depends — and beyond it, the whole structure of democracy. These people have done so admirably well with courage and the best judgment they could muster. They deserve the respect and thanks of all of us. — MEREDITH RECORD.

"Good Police Work" To the Editor, Because of subtle police work by an officer in the Hartford Police Department, I have recovered an automobile that was stolen from me.

I wish to publicly express my appreciation to the Hartford Police Department and to Officer Harold Beard, a veteran of 24 years on the department, whose good police work and astuteness were key factors in the recovery of my car.

On Wednesday, Sept. 9, while I was attending an Army Reserve meeting in the Broad St. Armory, my car was stolen from the Armory parking lot. After reporting the car missing at police headquarters, I was told that some fifty cars per week were stolen in Hartford. I was resigned to the loss of the car and to the financial sacrifice its loss would mean to me.

But two days later my car was recovered. Only good police work by Officer Beard was responsible for its recovery. Officer Beard, while patrolling his area, noticed an old car in a vacant lot. He discovered that the ID tag on the old car was the same as that of my car.

In a day when policemen have been criticized and often berated harshly, it is a pleasure for me to give credit where credit is due. My hat is off to the Hartford Police Department and to Officer Harold Beard.

Sincerely, Aloysius J. Ahearn Bolton

Search Plan At Airports Expanding

Monday's pinhole winners were: Frances Pike, 68; Bruce Martiny, 66; Helen Flavin, 62; son, 62; Paul Schuetz, 67; Katherine Herrigan, 66; son, 60; Oliver Roberts, 63; Mabel, 62; Clair Reed, 64; George Schroll, 63; Eva Post, 61; Charles Casper, 62; son, 62; Lyla Stee, 61; and Fritz Willinson, 62.

Wednesday was our first Friday, and although my plans for a little rest and relaxation were through, we managed to have a good time. We showed the slides of all the electronic fashioned costumes. It was almost like seeing each other on a little rest and relaxation were through, we managed to have a good time.

After the slides, and some old fashioned singing, we had a real interesting time. Our number one square dance caller, Mr. William Hickey, was able to continue "calling" for us, as he has other commitments to take up. We're really going to miss him, and can't really say that he's enough for us. We wish him luck in his future plans, and hope he'll be able to continue "calling" for us.

Schedule for the week: Monday, 10 a.m. to noon, ballroom, 120 and 160, 100, and 4 p.m. Tuesday, 10 a.m. to noon, ballroom, 120 and 160, 100, and 4 p.m. Wednesday, 10 a.m. to noon, ballroom, 120 and 160, 100, and 4 p.m. Thursday, 10 a.m. to noon, ballroom, 120 and 160, 100, and 4 p.m. Friday, 10 a.m. to noon, ballroom, 120 and 160, 100, and 4 p.m.

News for Senior Citizens

By WALLY FORTIN DIRECTOR

Hello everybody! Well, didn't it start off with a bang on Monday, as we had 77 persons enjoying the kitchen social games. In the afternoon, the joint was really jumping, as we had a record breaking 17 tables, meaning there were 34 people for the pinhole tournament.

It sure was great seeing everyone again, and their smiles were certainly brightened up over the otherwise dull, rainy day.

Pete Vendrillo really had his hands full, arranging and rearranging the card table, but once play started, it went along like clock-work.

"Tuesday" was a "braveheart" day as far as our pinhole tournament was concerned. However, we spent a good part of the morning having our bus repaired. The emergency brake was about to drop off, so we had to have a plate welded on, to secure it. After all, we don't want to be parking the bus in one spot, and then finding it someplace else.

Tuesday afternoon was Senior Bowling League action at the Parkside Lanes, and our teams have been formed and are rolling along. The league is sanctioned, and there will be recognized, and any "big" scores will be known nationally.

Still room for more bowlers, as how about you? Keep an eye on the alloys, this Tuesday? Speaking of Tuesday, by popular demand we will once again hold our oil painting classes, starting on Tuesday, Sept. 22. Mr. Ostrowski, adult education supervisor, set things up so that we may continue this class.

We're very fortunate again in having Mrs. Kay Hendrickson back with us, as the supervisor for this activity. Kay's class is open to beginners, as well as those with experience, and the only charge will be nominal for some of the materials and equipment you'll use. It's loads of fun, and you'll surprise yourself with the talent you never realized you had. Stop by this coming Tuesday, and Mrs. Hendrickson will be very happy to help you get started.

Monday's pinhole winners were: Frances Pike, 68; Bruce Martiny, 66; Helen Flavin, 62; son, 62; Paul Schuetz, 67; Katherine Herrigan, 66; son, 60; Oliver Roberts, 63; Mabel, 62; Clair Reed, 64; George Schroll, 63; Eva Post, 61; Charles Casper, 62; son, 62; Lyla Stee, 61; and Fritz Willinson, 62.

Wednesday was our first Friday, and although my plans for a little rest and relaxation were through, we managed to have a good time. We showed the slides of all the electronic fashioned costumes. It was almost like seeing each other on a little rest and relaxation were through, we managed to have a good time.

After the slides, and some old fashioned singing, we had a real interesting time. Our number one square dance caller, Mr. William Hickey, was able to continue "calling" for us, as he has other commitments to take up. We're really going to miss him, and can't really say that he's enough for us. We wish him luck in his future plans, and hope he'll be able to continue "calling" for us.

Schedule for the week: Monday, 10 a.m. to noon, ballroom, 120 and 160, 100, and 4 p.m. Tuesday, 10 a.m. to noon, ballroom, 120 and 160, 100, and 4 p.m. Wednesday, 10 a.m. to noon, ballroom, 120 and 160, 100, and 4 p.m. Thursday, 10 a.m. to noon, ballroom, 120 and 160, 100, and 4 p.m. Friday, 10 a.m. to noon, ballroom, 120 and 160, 100, and 4 p.m.

These people were chosen for the job because they were not extraordinary, they were ordinary people from the population, as fair-minded as possible.

It is on people like these that the strength and effectiveness of a free society and of our justice depends — and beyond it, the whole structure of democracy.

These people have done so admirably well with courage and the best judgment they could muster. They deserve the respect and thanks of all of us. — MEREDITH RECORD.

The details are a little hazy, but I think the man at the party said he was "Mike" and his wife said, "I didn't know that." And the man talked about a new book with a certain title and his wife said, "I didn't know you'd read that."

"Have you two met?" asked my wife, getting a nice subject for conversation. "Yes, I've never talked to her," said the other wife. "I have to go out like this to hear what she has to say."

Manchester Evening Herald quoted one elderly couple as saying: Asst. Treasury Secretary Eugene T. Rossides, supervisor of the Customs Bureau, had promised to visit the city on a tour of public schedules, but international passengers frequently are required to check in early on Monday.

Earlier programs of screening passengers for potential hijackers and the use of electronic instruments to check for weapons had been aimed at airports but the Federal Bureau of Investigation personal searches were ordered after Arab guerrillas hijacked four planes to the Jordan desert and blew them up.

After the Arab hijacking, the Federal Bureau of Investigation ordered armed guards to ride shotgun on international flights.

1040 u.s. individuals Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

- Q) I don't have the money to pay all that I owe on my third quarter estimated tax. Can I pay part now and the rest next time?
- A) You may have to pay a penalty based on a 6 percent annual rate if your payments are not made in full when they are due. To avoid the penalty, your estimated tax installments must be paid on time and should amount to an annual statement of wages paid and social security taxes withheld. A full statement of your Social Security coverage may be obtained by writing the Social Security Administration, Baltimore, Md. 21256. Give your name, address and social security number when you write.
- Q) I used an employment agency to get my job. Are the fees I paid deductible?
- A) Yes, if you itemize expenses this will be deductible. If a job was not secured, the fees are nondeductible.
- Q) I work part-time for the maid. How can I file if social security is being paid for me?
- A) Ask your employer whether these taxes are being paid for you. Employers are required to file a return and pay social security taxes for household employees when cash wages of $20 or more are paid to an employee during any calendar quarter. Employers are also required to provide employees with an annual statement of wages paid and social security taxes withheld.
- Q) My son has earned almost $600 this year. If he makes any more will I lose his exemption?
- A) If your son is either under 19 at the end of the year or a full-time student for at least five months during the year, the amount of his earnings will not affect his status as your dependent. The other dependency tests, support for instance, must continue to be met.
- Q) I took a loss when I sold some stock I inherited. Can I deduct this on my return?
- A) If you sold the stock for less than its fair market value on the date of the decedent's death then you are entitled to either a short or long term capital loss depending on how long you owned the stock beginning with the date of death. Anything over six months would be a long term loss.
- Q) The bank where my daughter opened up a savings account wants her social security number. Where can she get one?
- A) Your daughter may apply for a social security number by filling out Form SS-5 which may be obtained from your local Social Security office. Banks and other financial institutions are required by the Social Security Act to obtain and report the identifying number of the recipient.

Rock World Mourns Guitarist Pal Hendrix

NEW YORK (AP) — "He was a good friend of mine and I will miss him," singer Janis Joplin said when told of guitarist Jimi Hendrix' death in London Friday. And she cried.

Rock musicians across the country mourned the loss of a rare talent and a brilliant guitarist.

"He was an innovator," said Miss Joplin from a California recording studio. "He made everyone in the music business aware that the public was ready for and really wanted his musical expression. He showed them that it wasn't just delusion. It was a reality."

"The cat was definitely the main man," said drummer Buddy Miles, formerly with Hendrix' Band of Gypsys and now leader of the Buddy Miles Band. Hendrix, 27, was found in a London apartment, reportedly hanged from a pipe. He had been in London for about a week, followed by a coroner's inquest, probably Monday.

Eric Burdon, former lead singer with the group called the Animals and a friend of Hendrix, said: "All I know is that he had taken some sleeping tabs." Burdon added that Miss Joplin had found Hendrix.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
 by Eugene Brewer

In Acts 2 we read of the saving gospel of Christ first being proclaimed to a vast assemblage. When they were convinced that Jesus whom they had crucified just seven weeks before was truly the Messiah of prophecy, they were convicted of their guilt and cried desperately, "What shall we do?" Peter's reply: "Repent ye, and be baptized everyone of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins." After further exhortation, "they that gladly received his word were baptized... about 3,000 souls."

To what religious group(s) did these young Christians then belong? If today's conditions had prevailed, denominational preachers would have led them to join the sect of their preference. But instead, they were added unto them (the disciples) and they continued "in the apostles' teaching and fellowship." You see, God added them to the church without sectarian division, which development is neither apostolic nor Christian.

Kiwanis Day Will Kick Off Radio Auction

Tuesday will be Kiwanis Day in Manchester. That's the day the Manchester Kiwanis Club kicks off its campaign for the annual Radio Auction over WJLF.

In proclaiming Tuesday as Kiwanis Day, Mayor Nathan Agostinelli noted the funds are used for the many civic and charitable projects sponsored by Kiwanis.

Style Show Set By GOP Women

The Manchester Republican Women's Club will present "New Look for '70," its annual fashion show, on Wednesday, Oct. 7, at 8 p.m. at the Manchester Country Club.

Clothes will be furnished by Davidson and Leventhal, Inc. with Miss Jeanne Martin as coordinator. Tres Chic Beauty Salon will create hair and wig styles, with makeup by Mrs. Conrad Quinlan of Beauty Counselor.

Mrs. Jack Mercer is chairman of the event. Members of her committee include Mrs. Paul Martz and Mrs. Charles Young Jr., decorations; Mrs. Eugene Montany, prizes; Mrs. Alfred Kargl, favors; Mrs. Thomas Bailey, Mrs. Robert Brown and Mrs. Robert Dunfield, model assistants; Mrs. J. Formal Opening Held at ECHS

East Catholic High School yesterday morning formally opened the school year. Opening with a Mass in the gymnasium at 9 o'clock. Celebrants were the Rev. Robert E. Saunders, new principal, and the Rev. Herbert Clarkin and the Rev. Gerald Daley, both of the faculty.

In the informal phase of the morning, the freshmen marched around the gym to pay homage to the seated upperclassmen, and then the first-year students presented a number of humorous skits, which were emceed by John Jacen, senior.

Richard Brown, Student Council president, welcomed Father Saunders, presented him with an engraved desk set on behalf of the students, and pledged their support and cooperation.

In his response of thanks, Father Saunders said he was impressed during his first week by the friendliness of faculty and students, the openness and self-control of the students, and the good rapport between both groups.

Brown welcomed the freshman and urged them to expend a great deal of effort to perform the great feat of becoming individuals.

In the pep rally that closed the morning, Athletic Director Clifford Demers spoke about the opening football game with Rockville this afternoon, and Nancy Roberts, head cheerleader led the student body in cheers.

Weather Good For GOP Fete

Pleasant weather is in prospect for Manchester Republicans this afternoon when they gather for their annual Chicken Bar-B-Que and picnic at Dougherty Lots, Center and McKee Sts.

Interest in this year's event is heightened because of the election and, with it, the planned appearance of state candidates.

Cong. Lowell Weicker, U.S. Senate candidate, is expected to arrive soon after the festivities start at 4 o'clock, and Cong. Thomas Meskill, the party candidate for governor, will be on the scene about 7. Others expected are Hartford Mayor Ann Uccelli, candidate for First District congressman; and Mrs. Helen Bergenty, candidate for high sheriff of Hartford County. Manchester Mayor Nathan Agostinelli, who is a candidate for state comptroller, plans to attend.

Lutz Room Lets Kids in Act

The Lutz Junior Museum north room isn't what it was a few months ago. That's all to the good with Mrs. Madeline McAuley, director. She uses words like involvement, exciting, colorful, and innovative to describe the new look the room took on over the summer.

Mrs. McAuley believes children, and maybe many adults, will find she is not exaggerating when the room officially opens Sunday afternoon from 2 to 5. The emphasis is on participation. This is in keeping with the thinking of today's museum curators that children should be allowed to touch, taste, smell, and hear. The days of beautiful displays locked in glass cases are numbered.

To that end, adult members of the museum have planned, assembled, and erected a dozen exhibits that children may manipulate to their hearts' content. "Eye Games" consists of several exercises in black and white optical illusions. The "Sound" corner contains an oscilloscope that produces a picture of one's voice vibrations, and an apparatus of metal strings, at the end of which different weights can be attached to show how tones are changed by increased tension.

Mobile and cube prisms, and tri-colors that can be superimposed to produce a third color are in the "Sunlight and Color" exhibit. In "Let's Make Movies," a child will be able to be his own producer and projectionist by making a design on a strip of paper and twirling it in a tilted cylinder to get the effect of movement.

"Big and Little" contains the large and the small of chains, turtles, mirrors, shoes to be tried on, sea life, and a chance to trace a hand or a foot. The "WWII" exhibit is made up of a variety of military uniforms, plus a canteen, musette bag, field pack, and other equipment to be taken apart and reassembled.

For exotically inclined children with an interest in fashions, there is a genuine Indian sari, with instructions for draping it properly. "All About Bones" is a guess-and-see board about whether six forms of life are exoskeletons or endoskeletons. A youngster makes his choice and pushes a button. If he's right, a chime rings.

"Tel Lutz" will be a challenge to the novice archaeologist. A nine by four-foot box is filled with sand, in which sherds, or pieces of pottery, found at specific digs in Israel, are buried. When a child finds a numbered sherd, he can match it with a corresponding number on a wall map of Israel to learn where it was discovered.

When a child returns the sherd to the museum desk, he will receive an argara, an Israeli coin, as a gift. Mimeographed information will be available on each of the Israeli tells, which are flat-topped hills with gently sloping sides.

In the only new exhibit in the south room, a child may do exactly that with "Listen and Read." He may seat himself before an inclined reading rack, open the story book, put on earphones (two children can be accommodated at the same time), push color-coded buttons, and listen to the story being told on a film loop.

An added Sunday feature will be a "glue-in" conducted by the host and hostess, Dr. and Mrs. Alan Krupp. It will involve youngsters in making original pieces of sculpture with different shapes and sizes of wood. If it is appealing, a surprise will be planned each Sunday. The activity is free to members, with a nominal charge to non-members.

Presto-change, and eight-year-old Elisabeth Lang of 130 Kennedy Rd., a fourth grade pupil at Buckley School, is momentarily transformed into an attractive young Indian lady as Cheryl Champy, Manchester High School sophomore and a member of the Lutz Junior Museum Teen Volunteer League drapes the sari over and around her. The India alcove is one of a dozen new participatory exhibits that will be officially opened tomorrow afternoon from 2 to 5 in the museum's redecorated north room. (Herald photo by Ofiara)

Teen Volunteer League members will assist younger children Sunday and from 2 to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday. Membership in the league is open to students in Grades 7-12. Mrs. Donald White, Mrs. Gerald Charest, and A. Hyatt Sutcliffe are the supervisors. David Nason painted the room walls a soft orange. Committee members responsible for the new exhibits are Mr. and Mrs. Allan Schubert, Michael Dworkin, Mrs. Lewis Segal, Dr. Burton Melsner, Mrs. Walter Heimann, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Lang, Mrs. Harold Krantz, Miss Janet Brewer, Mrs. Edward Timbrell, Miss Hazel Lutz, Thomas Latham, Kenneth Krivanec, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Freshlin, Mrs. White, Mrs. Elaine Mis-

Other committee members are Mrs. Krupp, chairman, Willard Marvin, Jann Sanchez, and Mrs. Sutcliffe.

Junior College Social Service Faculties Meet

On Monday, Manchester Community College will host an estimated 35 persons at a conference for coordinators and instructors of social service studies from New England two-year colleges. The conference will be held at South United Methodist Church.

Registration will be held from 9:30 to 10 a.m. The conference is scheduled to end at 4:30 p.m. Curriculum content and resource materials will be the subjects of morning discussions. The afternoon will be given over to in-service training, job placement, and the role of the social service agency in education. In both sessions, conferees will form small discussion groups and regroup later for a general discussion.

The conference has been called largely to coincide with an area visit by Mrs. Mary Denure, consultant in public service occupations with the California community college system. She is writing a preliminary curriculum for a program of studies to train social service technicians. Conferees have been asked to share with her their experiences in the development of social service studies where they teach.

Another reason for the conference, according to Mrs. Eleanor D. Colman, MCC coordinator of public services programs, is to stimulate, among New England junior and community colleges, development of programs of study that will broaden the scope of social work. Problems and solutions, successes and failure experienced thus far will be discussed.

Adult Classes Start Monday

Manchester Adult Evening School classes will start Monday. Students are requested to park in the large area at the rear of the building.

Annual Gridiron Groan Resounds in the Kitchen

By BOB CARROLL
TV Editor

The great household shaker rolls across the television screens on Sunday; and Monday will never be the same. Pro football begins its annual march at 1 p.m. and although we know you won't come, girls, you're invited.

Damaged, but not lost, millions of marriages will run smack into another barrier of the ballgames — The Monday Night Game.

If Manchester area reports can be magnified across the football world, the male population will not be available on Mondays.

Monday's PTA meetings are falling by the sidelines. Moms delight in shaming Dad into going to PTA. All arguments fall, however, when faced with a football game. And there's suspicion abroad that Mom has somewhat succumbed to the gridiron grasp.

Perhaps the most stalwart of the bastions fell recently with the end to the Monday Night Poker Party. Eight dedicated men bravely submitted to cancellation of the poker night, only to open efforts to find another night out.

And the Season

Football for the season begins with the Boston Patriots meeting the Miami Dolphins at 1 p.m., Sunday on Channel 30. At 4 p.m., 1970's Super Bowl champions, the Kansas City Chiefs face their Super Bowl rivals, the Minnesota Vikings.

And then on Monday, over Channel 8, the New York Jets are at Cleveland at 9 p.m. The Monday night games will run for 13 straight weeks, girls, and there is already talk of third TV sets in each home.

Half-times on the Monday night programs will be devoted to highlights of Sunday games and a question and answer segment, conducted by and for women.

What with NCAA football (college) every Saturday, professional football Sundays and then the Monday Night Game, it looks like a season of harmony or chaos in millions of living rooms.

Announcers for the Dolphins-Patriots game over NBC will be Jay Randall and Dave Ko-courek and for the Vikings-Chiefs contest, announcers will be Curt Gowdy and Kyle Rote.

It's a long, long time from January to September... Especially if you were a loser in the Super Bowl, pro football's biggest showcase, and now you are provided with another chance to exact a measure of revenge on national TV.

The waiting is over for the Vikings. They will be out to even the score against the world champion Kansas City Chiefs in the first rematch of last January's Super Bowl classic.

Doubleheaders Due

The game between the Chiefs and Vikings, whose last meeting resulted in a 23-7 Super Bowl triumph for the American Football Conference Chiefs, will feature the first of seven doubleheaders on NBC this season and will kick off a record of 82 games on NBC's television schedule.

Coach Hank Stram's Chiefs, evaluated by most pro football observers as having the best balanced personnel in the game, will employ much the same arsenal they turned on the Vikings in New Orleans last January.

The Kansas City offense will be spearheaded by quarterback Len Dawson and a diversified aerial and ground strategy.

The Vikings' attack will be directed by Gary Cuozzo, a veteran who is a talented replacement for last year's incumbent, Joe Kapp, who has yet to come to terms.

The Chiefs, along with the New York Jets — Super Bowl winners over the Baltimore Colts two years ago — will be seen a total of 20 times during the course of the regular season, 10 appearances each for the Chiefs and the Jets.

Opening day on Sept. 20 will mark professional football's first season as a two-conference entity. NBC will televise 18 inter-conference games.

Under the provisions of the new TV contract with the National Football League, NBC will televise inter-conference games only when an American Conference team is the visiting team.

Rival Clashes

In addition to the Super Bowl rematch set on the network for Sept. 20, NBC will telecast several intriguing neighborhood rivalries.

The Cleveland Browns and the Cincinnati Bengals clash in Cleveland on Oct. 11 and at Cincinnati on Nov. 15. Houston and Dallas will do battle for the championship of Texas in Dallas on Dec. 20.

NBC will climax its record television schedule of pro football with the American Conference playoff games on Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 26 and 27, the AFC championship game on Jan. 3 and, finally, the Super Bowl, to be televised exclusively by NBC from Miami's Orange Bowl on Jan. 17.

ELIZABETH HYPHEN

Elizabeth Taylor, who with her husband Richard Burton is currently filming a fall episode of "Here's Lucy" for broadcast on the CBS Television Network, was born in London, and now calls herself "an American-hyphen-Londoner."

GUEST STAR

Jo Van Fleet, Tony award-winning actress of Broadway and films, is the guest star in the first "Mannix" drama filming for broadcast next season on the CBS Television Network. Mike Connors stars in the series.

Gene Barry, of NBC-TV's "The Name of the Game," gives his definition of a millionaire: "He's a man who summers at the beach, winter in the mountains and springs at blondes." and

About Those Giants

The New York Football Giants, love 'em or leave 'em, are back on Channel 3 this year. Like the Red Sox, both rooters and booters talk about the Giants — but they watch them on Sundays.

Not so this year. WTIC-TV has dropped several other National Conference games into the Sunday afternoon slot, beginning with the Dallas Cowboys at the Philadelphia Eagles tomorrow at 12:30 p.m.

Alex Webster's Giants open their TV season under regular scheduling on Sunday, Sept. 27 at Dallas at 1:30 p.m. Then the Giants will play on successive Sundays: At New Orleans, Eagles at New York, Patriots at Boston, Cardinals at New York, Jets at Shea Stadium, Cowboys at New York and Washington at New York.

Then comes a mixed schedule in which the Giants play a sometimes role. Check the Herald for Giants dates.

The full schedule of the Giants will be covered on WTIC Radio, as well as the games played by the University of Connecticut Huskies and the Hartford Knights.

Channel 3 will also broadcast several post season National Football Conference games including both divisional playoffs and the conference championship, that on Jan. 3. The station will broadcast the Pro-Bowl game Jan. 24 at 3:30 p.m.

TV Notes

Art James, host of NBC-TV's "The Who, What or Where Game," has added the sport of skydiving to his repertoire of hobbies, which include piloting multi-engine aircraft and gliders.

Art Carney has been an entertainer since the age of 15. Early in his career, he traveled with Horace Heidt's band announcing, doing comedy impersonations and singing novelty songs.

Sharon Acker, who will play Hal Holbrook's wife in "The Senator" segments of NBC-TV's "The Bold Ones," met the actor's real wife, actress Carol Rosen, for the first time recently. Sharon quipped: "I think we have a pretty nice husband," Carol replied: "I couldn't agree with you more."

Anthony Zerbe plays a dual role in a fall episode of "Gunsmoke," Monday night series on CBS.

Judy Rolin has joined the cast of "The Secret Storm," weekly drama on CBS. She appears as Didi, 17-year-old daughter of Hugh Clayborn, played by Peter McLean.

Lois Kibbee, who has the new role of Geraldine Whitney on "The Edge of Night," daytime dramatic series on CBS, is a niece of the late Guy Kibbee, one of filmdom's all-time greats.

Rob Reiner, actor-writer son of actor-producer Carl Reiner, is both actor and writer for a "Headmaster" episode filmed for fall presentation on CBS.

Hal Holbrook, star of the senator segment of the "Bold Ones," Sunday on NBC.

Whatever your preference in girls, there's something for everyone this season on NBC-TV's "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In" regarding the series' new comedienne. New regulars are Ann Elder, a blonde; Nanette Phillips, a brunette; and Barbara Sharma, a redhead.

Tim Conway, star of the forthcoming new variety series "The Tim Conway Comedy Hour" on the CBS Television 2Network, and his wife, Mary Ann, became the parents of a 7-pound-1-ounce boy Aug. 5.

The producers of NBC-TV's "Nancy" series are trying to work star Celeste Holm's dog into an episode, but up till now they haven't been able to get the proper story.

TV Notes
Robert Stack, star of NBC-TV's "The Name of the Game," is a fanatic about his classic 1962 Mercedes 300 SL sports car. "The motor is so clean," his wife Rosemary says, "that he won't let a mechanic with dirty fingernails work on it."
Mort Greene, who has written comedy material for Red Skelton for the past eight years, is the lone scribe retained by the comedian for the new Red Skelton Show.

Bob Crane, star of "Hogan's Heroes" on CBS, has a music room adjoining the studio set where he practices drumming to hi-fi recordings.

James Arness, star of "Gunsmoke" on CBS, was wounded in the leg by a German machine gun bullet during the Anzio landing in World War II.

Doug McClure, star of NBC-TV's "The Men From Shiloh" series (formerly "The Virginian"), claims that he's probably the telephone company's best customer in Encino, Calif. "I talk almost daily to my little daughter who lives in Hawaii," says Doug, "and you ought to see our phone bill."

NBC-TV's "The Men From Shiloh" will film some of its outdoor scenes in a new location—the Mojave Desert near Rosamond Lake in California—for the "Jenny" episode starring James Drury and Janet Lee.

Roman Gabriel, star quarterback of the Los Angeles Rams, and last season's MVP in the National Football League, will be a guest star in the "Ironside episode, "Blackout," scheduled for Fall showing on NBC-TV.

One evening, NBC-TV's Dean Martin joshed his studio audience by saying: "There's something special about a live audience—the closeness, the communication. A live audience gives you something—I think it's the flu."
