Manchester Doesn't Like Bonds
The voters of Manchester have developed a mind of their own with regard to local bond issues.

Perhaps the anti-bond issue voters of Manchester fall to put that proposition to themselves. Perhaps they are seeking to shift their own share of the responsibility for solving the community problems involved.

They have somehow convinced themselves—and they refuse to allow themselves to be smooth-talked out of it—that the bonding process makes everything it pays for cost at least half as much again.

WASHINGTON — Beneath the sugar-coated post-election statements by Presidential aides is bitter knowledge among apprehensive Republican politicians across the country that President Nixon must change his battle plan for 1971 or perish.

Mr. Nixon's ill-advised campaigning has damaged his credibility; almost by accident, Sen. Edward Brooke of Maine has emerged from the election as a formidable Democratic opponent.

Mr. Nixon's ill-advised campaigning has damaged his credibility; almost by accident, Sen. Edward Brooke of Maine has emerged from the election as a formidable Democratic opponent.

It may be that the one biggest winner in Tuesday's election was Senator Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, not because he happened to win reelection in his native state, but because of what the election eve spotlight did for him on the national scene.

Senator Muskie came on, following him, with a delivery which somehow mixed poise and passion, calm and force, and which offered the kind of message outraged and helpless Democrats had been waiting for as a man being suddenly rescued from the sea.

It was not unlikely that these few moments of Muskie rebuttal so inspired some Democrats and perhaps so influenced some independents that they negated the impact of the law and order issue which Presidential strategy had made the main thing of the last phase of the campaign.

In any case, whatever its influence on the outcome of Tuesday's voting, Muskie's performance was immediately recognized, by many of its viewers, as one of the notable political speeches of the time.

And for that reason, it extended its possible influence into the future of the Democratic party and the nation.

It came very close, all by itself, to making Muskie the winner in the race for the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1972.

In fact, Senator George McGovern, the South Dakota Democrat who also has ideas about 1972, soon labeled the whole sequence of events by which Senator Muskie was given the opportunity to make the appearance as "politics with a vengeance."

In this atmosphere, no-party age of ours, the kind of arrangement, the source of the financing, and even the identity of the speechwriter pressed in to emergency service to provide the Senator with his eloquence were all being made public property the next day.

The arrangement here was made outside the regular party organization, lest it seem to be picking its 1972 favorite in advance, the financing was by Averell Hartman, who loaned $100,000 as the down payment for the network time, and the speechwriting was by Richard Goodwin, who once wrote speeches for President Kennedy.

If all such mundane disclosures do not rob the performance of its magic, it has indeed placed Senator Muskie closer to the 1972 nomination.

What kind of victory this may be for him can be debated. At the moment, the American scene is full of the wrecked careers of fine men who gave up comfortable berths on one level of public service and honor in order to make the big run at something higher.

The Big Tassel Pull
Every now and then a highly acientific way of life touches base and comes down to the need of something as lowly as a human hand.

We now read, for instance, that the future of the nation's corn crop, for the year after next, may be in jeopardy because there may not be enough human hands available, next summer, to tend the production of the seed for that 1972 crop.

That is the morning-after disaster in the Republican party following the campaign bling by the President and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew. With a surprising unanimity that crosses ideological and geographical lines, Republican leaders agree that:

This is one of those columns scheduled to appear just after an election, but which, because of the mechanics of the trade, is written in advance of knowledge of the result.

There ought to be some way of liberating the candidates, and the voters, from the downgrade (letdown) of the descent to the lowest available kind of appeal.

This was, we think, because the actual caliber of so many candidates in this election was relatively so high.

In all the list of major candidates in this election we can think of only one who might possibly have any natural personal relationship for the full depths of his campaign performance.

All the others, we would guess, must have been bringing ideas, as they found themselves saying some of the things they were saying and striking some of the poses they were striking.

It is a candidate happened to meet the morning-after disaster in the Republican party following the campaign bling by the President and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Tolland County Superior Court Settlement Reached In Rudko Slaying

An out of court settlement for an undisclosed amount was reached yesterday in connection with the slaying two years ago of Alice Rudko at 800,000 charging negligence, failure to control the boy, failure to suspend him from school because of his emotional problems and failure to enforce school rules.

The suit was filed in Jan., 1969 by Thor Rudko, the girl's brother, represented by McCann, Davis and Linnon and named the boy, John R. Bagdikian and the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Bagdikian, Jr., Colin Pushee, principal at Rham; Robert Sieroski, assistant principal; Helen McDonald, superintendent of Hebron Rural office of State Board of Education as defendants.

The agreement was reached after the process of selecting a jury had begun for the second time. On Oct. 14 a jury had been declared a mistrial, noting that the number of challengers available to attorneys on both sides would use up the jury pool then present.

Judge Joseph Danahy is now sitting on the bench as an extra judge in Superior Court to hear Civil matters which have been put aside because of the great number of criminal cases.

Tolland County Superior Court Teen's Sentence Suspended On Knife Throwing Charge

A 16-year-old boy, Louis D. Flynn, of 118 West Main St., Rockville was given a suspended sentence Tuesday in what may have been for those who knew of the details, the saddest case to come before the court in a long time.

The boy was sentenced on charges of aggravated assault and resisting arrest stemming from a knife throwing incident. Public Defender Leo B. Flaherty, Jr. referred to "the tragic case" as one of "parental rejection" and told the court he had never seen anything like it and that it was surprising the boy had survived this long after a lifetime of traumatic experience.

The boy received a suspended sentence of one year on each charge, concurrently with the other. A former drug addict who has completed treatment at Valley House at Norwich State Hospital received a suspended sentence Tuesday in Tolland County Superior Court. James C. Woodman, 25, of East Hartford was sent to the new treatment center last February after his arrest on charges of breaking into Vernon homes in Seneca and Montauk during the summer before.

Because of his success under the program the young man's sentence which was two to five years in prison on one count of burglary and one on another slaving was not abolished until Sean Rayburn, who on Jan. 19, 1961, administered the oath to John F. Flynn, 30, of Tolland County, was sentenced to Lyndon Baines Johnson.

Europeans Term Vote Standstill

By COLIN FROST. LONDON (AP) — Some European newspaper commentators today viewed the outcome of the U.S. election as a standstill for the Republicans and the Democrats. Others considered it a setback for President Nixon.

The contest ended in a draw, as the pollsters predicted, said Paris conservative Le Figaro. "America, face to face with its terrible problems, didn't really make a move."

Rome's Il Popolo, the organ of the ruling Christian Democrats, also found the results inconclusive. It said the election "testifies neither the Republican claims of victory in defeating administration renegades, nor the Democrats' hopes that American voters have repudiated the politics of fear."

Sweden's conservative Svenska Dagbladet and liberal Dagens Nyheter, both called the outcome a defeat for the President.

Nation's Weather

Heavy snow belted the central Appalachians and freezing cold settled deep into the South today as an autumn storm swirled up the Eastern Seaboard.

Thirteen inches of snow was reported at Montebello, Va., on the Blue Ridge Parkway. Nine inches blanketed Hot Springs, Va. Driving was termed hazardous over most mountain roads through the region.

Temperatures staggered into the low 30s, and occasionally lower, across a wide area of the Deep South. Frost or freeze warnings were in effect from the Carolinas to Georgia, Alabama and northwestern Florida.

Gale warnings were in effect along the coast from Virginia Beach, Va., north to Cape Ann, Mass.

CONNECTICUT SALVAGE CO., INC. 50 HILLIARD ST. (near Adams) MANCHESTER, CONN. HI, NEIGHBOR! So much merchandise arrived this last week that it has taken all my experience and cunning to avoid working. Because David is complaining about lack of space, I am putting out a super duper 6-page mailer that promises to put the graphic arts industry back 14 1/2 years. Hopefully, this bulletin will sell millions, well hundreds anyway, of dollar bills a week, for the glorious Emperor to his normal state of confusion.

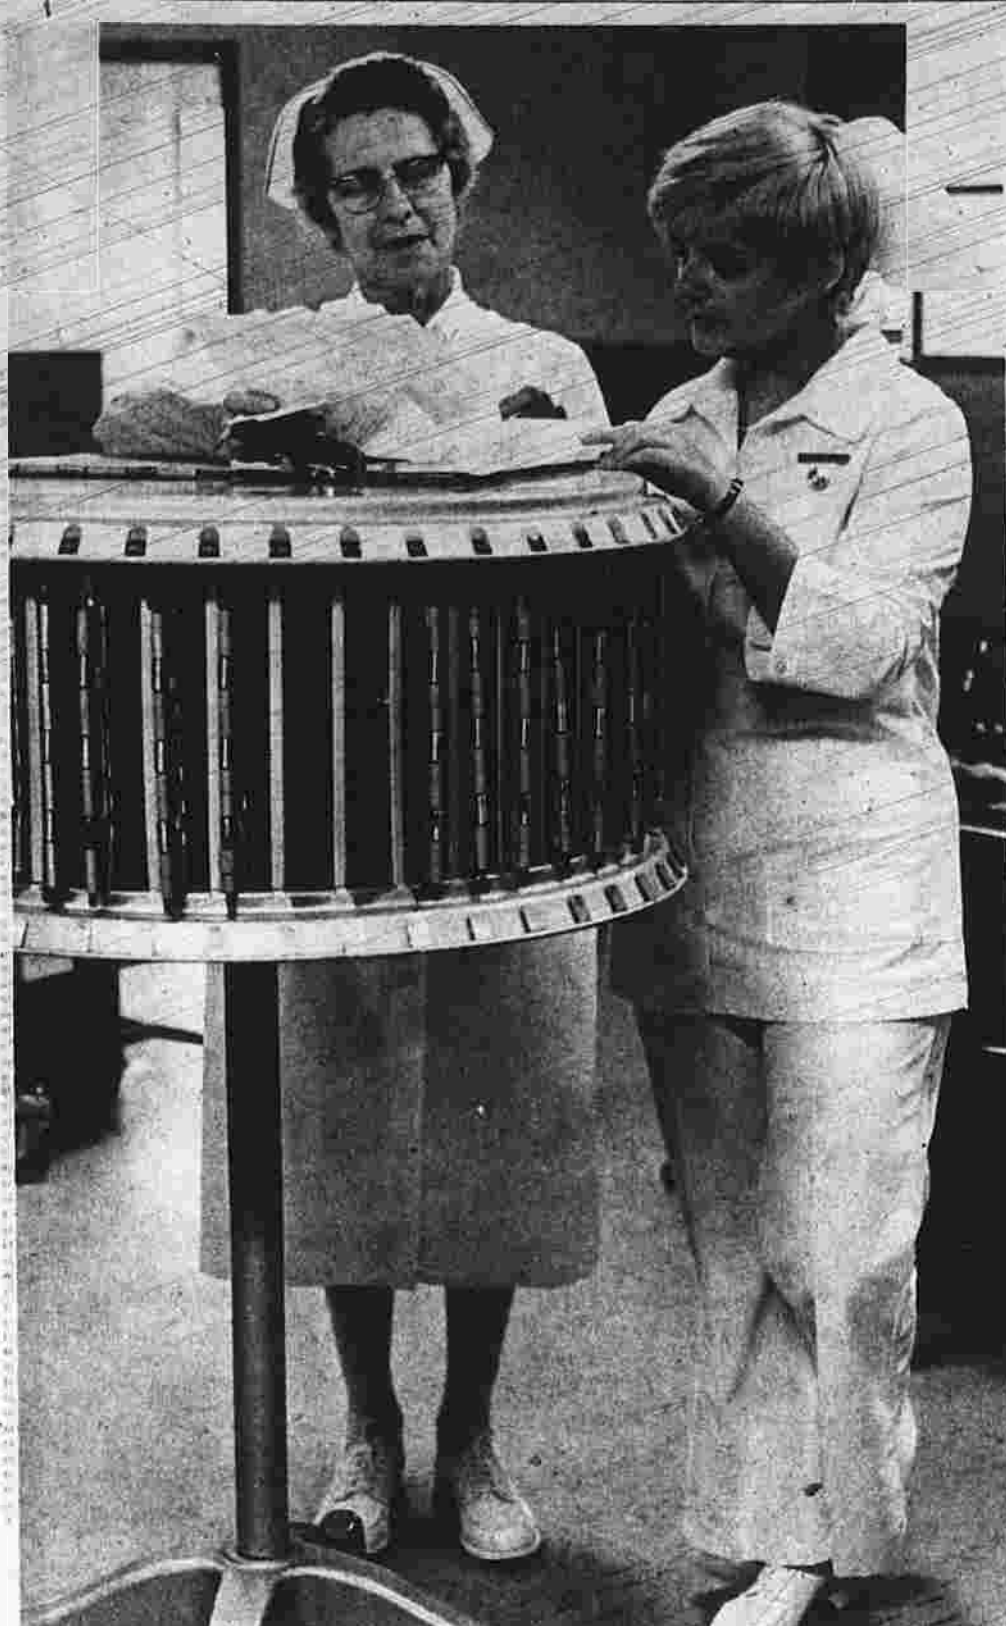

Enough propaganda. Now for a rough idea (none of mine are very smooth anyway) of what we'll be peddling this weekend:

- 1. A huge stock of paint we bought from a home supply center. Most colors of the rainbow and lots of colors never before seen by the human eye. Most to be sold at 75¢ a quart. Free decorating advice from our counselor who was just released from the Furry Farm.
- 2. Lots of Xmas items - tree ornaments, decorations, Xmas cards, small trees, etc.
- 3. A large stock of electronics - stereos, amplifiers, TV's, Color TV, stereo combinations, some of which should be out this week.
- 4. Genuine imitation Oriental throw rugs, carpet mats, remnants, etc.
- 5. Domesticities - crib sheets and blankets, Royal Cannon towels and washcloths, pillows of all kinds, bed cushions, blankets.

That's all I have room for! Come see for yourself the masses of shutters, louvre doors, interior and exterior doors, toys, mattresses, furniture, appliances and hundreds of other things. The coffee will be hot, free and delicious and we will with a "no hard time" money back guarantee. Fry our friendly atmosphere and bring your wallet. Remember our exhilarating hours - FRIDAYS 10 to 9 and SATURDAYS 10 to 5. We rest a lot.

The two, pictured at the nursing station on third north, are helping to show the evolution of styles in uniforms that will be part of the staff's display planned for "Hospital TV" exhibition in conjunction with Manchester Memorial's 50th anniversary celebration next week.

More than 40 separate displays depicting services performed by the hospital and other public agencies will be part of the exhibit at the State Armory on Main St.

It will be open to the public without charge Monday through Thursday. The hours will be 9:30 and 6:30 to 9 p.m. each day except Monday when there will be no break, in order to accommodate the large crowd expected.

On that day the hospital is also sponsoring a Career Day for Manchester and area high school students.

The 50th anniversary celebration begins Sunday with a 3 p.m. ceremony at the Armory rededicating the hospital to the veterans of all wars. These ceremonies, also public, will be preceded by this year's Veterans Day parade beginning at 1:30 p.m. The line of march will be from South Terminus north on Main St. to Haynes, then west to the hospital grounds.

Parties Offer Varied Views On Election

A three-way contest for the GOP in Maryland, Rep. J. Glenn Beall Jr. upset Democratic Sen. Joseph E. Tydings in Ohio, Rep. Robert Taft Jr. took over a Democratic Senate seat in Illinois, Adlai E. Stevenson III defeated Republican Sen. Ralph T. Smith in California, Rep. John V. Tunney trounced GOP Sen. George Murphy.

Democrats successfully defended 19 Senate seats, and Sen. Harry F. Byrd, a Democrat, was re-elected as an independent in Virginia.

Republicans held seven GOP seats, James L. Buckley, a registered Republican, was elected as a Conservative in New York.

Democrats scored significant gains in the less publicized areas of the state legislatures, which will design new congressional districts to match the population figures of the 1970 census.

Federal court rulings restrict the rearranging of the old-fashioned way of shaping a congressional district to guarantee victory for one party.

Democrats made legislative gains in Pennsylvania, Utah and apparently Illinois.

Republican strategists had hoped redistricting, and Nixon's re-election, would give them a good chance of capturing House control in 1972.

That prospect has dwindled. Democratic government will be in charge in at least 27 states.

In Maine, Gov. Kenneth M. Curtis was on a ticket led by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, a landslide victor who had hoped to prove his coalition strength as part of the buildup to a 1972 presidential campaign.

Curtis was narrowly leading James S. Erwin, the Republican attorney general. Erwin requested a recount.

Muskie won re-election with 62 per cent of the Maine vote. He said Wednesday he has not decided whether to seek the Democratic presidential nomination—although all the evidence is that he is already doing so.

Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien said Muskie is the front-runner for White House nomination, but maintained the Democratic field is wide open.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, said after his involvement in the fatal automobile accident on Chappaquiddick Island that he would not run for president in 1972, won re-election in a 65 per cent landslide.

Robert Humphrey rolled up 59 per cent of the Minnesota vote in winning election to return to the Senate.

The Democratic gubernatorial victories gave the party a significant base for 1972, an organizational and financial starting point for a White House challenge.

Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma, the House majority leader who will become speaker in January, said the Democratic pickney in the House "gave us a shot of confidence. I think we can field a ticket that can win in 1972."

"It augurs very well for the election of a Democratic president in 1972," said Speaker John W. McCormack, who did not seek re-election.

Suez Truce To Continue Past Deadline

The first 90-day cease-fire period in the Suez Canal zone ended at midnight in Israel and Egypt—5 p.m. EST.

Yugoslavia and 20 Asian and African supporters of Egypt pushed a resolution through the General Assembly Wednesday calling for a 90-day extension and immediate resumption of the Jarring talks.

The resolution was approved by 77 to 16 with 29 abstentions. The United States and Israel opposed it.

Israel had two objections to the resolution: It included a specific call for her to withdraw from the territories seized in the 1967 war and it calls for resumption of negotiations while ignoring the cease-fire violations charged by Israel.

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban told the Assembly that because of the Israeli withdrawal threat off balance the Security Council resolution of November 1967, which laid down the framework for a Middle East peace agreement, Eban said that because of the assembly action, Israel would have to review its position and reconsider its acceptance of the council resolution.

U.S. Ambassador Charles W. Yost told the assembly that the resolution was "clearly . . . put forward in behalf of one side to the conflict and represents the views of that side."

He said its adoption constituted a "step backward, not a step forward."

Jemal Frazier Golda Meir said in London today that Britain has moved toward the Soviet Union and France in its approach to the Middle East conflict, leaving the United States as Israel's sole supporter among the Big Four.

Prime Minister Edward Heath and Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home advised Mrs. Meir Wednesday night that Israel should realize as a fact of military life that Egypt will not withdraw the missiles from the canal zone. They urged her to reconsider her government's refusal to resume peace talks unless the weapons are removed.

Mrs. Meir said there was a recommendation by Weis, the board will consider the appointment of a Charter Revision Commission.

Meyer Nathan Agostinelli said today that it appears that the commission will be appointed. He said that, in addition to Weis, several other town officials have recommended its appointment, and that the recommendation has come also from citizen groups, notably the Manchester Property Owners Association.

Manchester Housing Authority (HUD) has ruled against the Manchester Housing Authority in its dispute over storm drains with the contractor on the Mayfair Garden elderly housing project.

In a letter read into a meeting of the authority last night, the Hartford area office of HUD said it was disapproving the MHA's denial of payment of $20,000 to the Rocky Marciano Co., general contractor for the project.

The letter, from Lawrence L. Thompson, director of the Hartford office of HUD, stated in part: "The facts indicate that this project was bid on May 6, 1969, and since no contrary information was issued at time of bid, the contractor had no choice but to omit all work listed as N.I.C. (not in contract) when he prepared his bid."

"We now suggest that an agreement be reached for the extra cost of the N.I.C. work." Agreement means that the MHA now will have to come up with the $20,000, members decided last night.

Leon Enderlin, executive director of the authority, said the contingency fund for the Mayfair project would be sufficient to cover the cost.

The dispute over the cost of materials and installation of storm drains for the project cropped up several months ago. Herbert F. DeSimone by 2,710 votes. About 1,200 today met to set a date for a review of the administrative performance of the town manager, as required by its charter.

Tolland County Superior Court
Somers Inmates Judged Capable of Standing Trial

After hearing testimony from the defendant was present in court as the doctors, Robert C. Court Judge Leo Parsley ruled that four of the five Somers prison inmates charged with first degree murder are capable of standing trial, of understanding the proceedings and of assisting in their own defense.

The inmates are charged as the result of a grand jury investigation with the slaying of another inmate, 34-year-old Richard Veres of Hartford, who died last July five days after allegedly being beaten in a prison warehouse.

In a written memorandum the psychiatric examinations Judge Parsley denied a motion were ordered by the court after they were requested by counsel Reinoska's case which is applicable to John Reinoska, Wallace Hole, George S. Howard and Frank Williams. In each case a motion was granted.

Flood's Pact Conditional, Needs Attorney Approval

NEW YORK (AP)—Outfielder Curt Flood's contract with the Washington Senators is conditional, and he must get the approval of attorneys involved in his suit against baseball. The Associated Press learned today.

At the same time, it also was learned that Flood was in 1969 during the 1970 season—$50,000 more than he received in 1969 during the 1970 season.

Flood's attorney, Joseph P. Kamp, said Flood's signing of the contract is conditional on the approval of attorneys involved in his suit against baseball. The Associated Press learned today.

At the same time, it also was learned that Flood was in 1969 during the 1970 season—$50,000 more than he received in 1969 during the 1970 season.

The joint document issued to Peking, Italy, and Communist China to reciprocal respect each other's sovereignty and territorial integrity, and to non-interference in internal matters.

Attending from town will be Superintendent of Schools Donald J. Hennigan; George F. Bradford, assistant superintendent of schools; Norman Fendell, supervisor of special education; Mrs. Florence Woods, Bentley principal; Edward Timony, Keeney St. principal; Miss Daisy Picher, development reading coordinator; Mrs. Zola Ford, elementary reading; Mrs. Jean Campbell, social worker; Mrs. Lorraine Sigal, psychological examiner; Mrs. Veronica O'Brien, Miss Karen Classen, Mrs. Shelley Lamantine, Mrs. Karin Vonbeck, and Miss Jean Lewis, speech and hearing; Mrs. Ethel Hawkins, resource room, Bentley.

When they replied "yes," he gave them shovels and instructions. They did the rest of the work — digging a hole, planting a 30-foot-high shade tree, and then filling in the hole.

The girls—Holly Rueter, Cindy McPherson and Rita Guinond — all said it was fun and that it made conversation name markers for the front lists of them.

Italy Recognizes Communist China

ROME (AP) — Italy and Communist China established diplomatic relations today, marking nearly two years of secret talks between the two nations.

The document said Peking considered "Formosa an inalienable part" of its territory. Italy "took note" of this affirmation by China and recognized Peking "as the only legal government of China."

Whites Trigger Scene

BRIDGEPORT (AP) — A law school professor who had the podium Thursday night when a white group broke up a community meeting, minority group relations with the police appeared planned and organized.

The whites yelled arguments and catcalls for half an hour, shouting down the speakers and then moved in force to the front of the hall to confront a line of young blacks.

The meeting, at which Sumner stepped between the two groups. "It was relatively clear to me that from the outset there was a group that had come with the deliberate intent to disrupt the meeting and preventing it from proceeding," said professor Clyde W. Sumner.

Those talks began Aug. 25, but Israel withdrew 10 days later, charging that Egypt had moved anti-aircraft missiles closer to the canal and that its guns remained quiet.

No Injuries Reported

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A dynamite explosion early today blew two holes in the corner of Temple Beth An in suburban Henrietta. No injuries were reported.

It was the third synagogue bombing in the area within 10 days. Two were damaged in Rochester Oct. 27 in explosions. Six other buildings in the city were bombed Oct. 12.

Police said they were looking for a red Oldsmobile station wagon which was reported near the temple shortly after the explosion at 1 a.m. A short-cut duty said he saw the car speeding north toward Rochester as it drove south to the synagogue.

Police said two holes, one measuring about 3 by 4 feet, the other 2 by 3, were blown in the back wall of the structure. All windows in the building were shattered.

The Good Shepherd Roman Catholic church, across the street from the synagogue, was undamaged. "Windows were broken in nearby homes," Mr. and Mrs. Justin Knowles, whose home is next to the Catholic church, said the blast woke them up. It was "just like when an airplane crosses the sound barrier," said Mrs. Knowles.

Recount Declares Killian Victorious

By DON MEHLER Associated Press Writer HARTFORD (AP) — State Atty. Gen. Robert K. Killian, won instead of lost his bid for reelection, according to a recount of the votes by the Hartford Courant.

Initial figures had the Republican Mayor of Meriden, Donald T. Dorsey, the victor by a narrow margin in the attorney general race.

But on Thursday, with Killian reporting process, the Courant decided to get the vote tallies directly from the 169 town clerks throughout the state.

Killian was present at the count when the newspaper's president, Edmund Downer, said he had twice by explosion spaced 30 minutes apart.

Persons in the crowd said they found three more charges that failed to go off.

The first blast occurred shortly after noon at a bus stop, but Dorsey had also come to light.

Downes did not show the totals to Killian right away, but went into his inner office and rechecked them. Then he came out and showed his right hand to the attorney general.

It was the first terrorist attack in a major urban area in months.

A 1,000-vote error in Killian's favor had turned up in Trumbull. Other errors favorable to Dorsey had also come to light.

The national jobs rate edged up one-tenth of one percent to 3.6 per cent of the work force, the report said.

The 3.6 per cent figure compared with the 3.5 per cent rate that House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said last Monday had been reached.

Millar spokesman said the significant contact was reported in the first hours of the biggest drive in Cambodia since U.S. and South Vietnamese forces crossed the border last May.

The drive was spread along about 100 miles of the Cambodian-Vietnamese border, down to the Seven Mountains region of the western delta.

Other South Vietnamese troops have been sweeping through the Seven Mountains region since August, trying to root out Communist forces.
