In the main, the book is con-cerned with the mass media and in particular the impact of the mass media upon society. The author points out that "there is an interaction between inclination and society, and this very relationship imposes an enormous obligation on the media to function with awareness and respontions that sex and violence in the media, especially television, precipatated some riots and demonstrations. Dr. Steinberg, however, finds no evidence to support such allegations.

A Gray-Out Of War News

If the war in Indo-China has seemed, lately, to grow more shadowy and confusing both in its outlines and in its daily developments, that may be the result of two separate trends which converge toward the same result.

For one thing, the war, as we all know, is spreading itself, to extents we never quite know, into Laos and Cambodia, even as it recedes back in South Viet-For the second thing, this wider, thinner spread of the war is also being accompanied by some deliberate closing down of the news coverage of the war, which has, until lately, been historic for being the most complete and graphic news coverage of war in history.

The dispersion of the action, and the curtailing of the flow of information and of the opportunity to observe and report, make it more difficult for the newsmen in Indo-China to assess, with very much authority, the extent and success of our action, the importance of military encounters, the seriousness of the threat to the capital of Cambodia, the effectiveness of our continuous bombing in Laos, and the cruciality of our from-the-air infighting in Cambodia. In such circumstances, newsmen have told, plus what they themselves can manage or happen to see, and they report what is available to them even though they themselves are unable to construct, from it, an authoritative picture of the whole situation.

Such limited reporting inevitably leaves a number of home front questions unanswered.

Who's really winning in Cambodia? Is the capital city really threatened? How extensive and regular is the possible violation, by our military command, of the operation restrictions intended by Congress? Are the Cambodians really fighting, or are they leaving that to us and to the South Vietnamese?

Even in the wide open news policy days in South Vietnam, we could get conflicts and uncertainties as to just what was happening, even when part of the action was being brought to us on our home television screens. And we still don't know, for that matter, exactly what happened in the Gulf of Tonkin, way back before we admitted this was a war. But the new gray-out on war news seems more uniform and widespread and intentional than before, and we have less real knowledge, now, of what we are against the 71.8 per cent he had gotten in actually doing, and of how things are really going, than at any previous stage of our involvement.

For eighteen years, anybody in one half of Berlin who wanted to telephone anybody in the other half of the city could do it only by the time-consuming and expensive process of going through the West German national switchboard at Frankfurt and the East German national switchboard at Leipzig.

Now the two halves of the city which are still divided by the Berlin Wall are going to have a direct phone connection restored between themselves. The beginning plan calls for only 10 such direct lines between West and East Berlin. But it will be a connection, a physical, electronic and social linkage together again of the city which has lived separated, like Germany itself, for so ridiculous-

Washington had to be consulted, or, if onsulted, gave their approval to such a imited reestablishment of normality be-the history at work is clear in any case; Germany, from now on, will be gradually but steadily reunifying itself, and the only real choice open to Russia and the United States is that of whether they might conceivably prove intelligent enough to go along voluntarily, and thus finally make at least a European peace between themselves, or are going to keep on resisting the inevitable until it happens in spite of them.

Prognosticator Palpitations

Richard Nixon has done something inhibiting to the mental processes of this nation's political prognosticators. Every time they are about to issue a flat pronouncement about the ultimate possibilities of some candidacy or career, they are forced to remind themselves that, once upon a time, they almost unanimously consigned one Richard Nixon to the nation's stockpile of broken politicians, as a gentleman who was never likely to win either a nomination or an election, ever again. With that one-time certainty about Mr. Nixon in their prognosticating backgrounds, how can they, then, venture to render the resounding verdict on any of the current field of Democratic possi-

How do they know, how can they be sure, that it couldn't be Hubert Horatio? With what certainty can they judge that Senator George McGovern, the South Dakota Democrat, is perhaps an residential stature? How can they risk applying to Senator Edmund Muskie, of Maine, the formula for front-running failure developed by George Romney, the gentleman who, in 1966, had his party's 1968 Presidential nomination easily sewed up, if he could only have kept the stitches from unraveling?

Whatever principle of political prognostication one might seek to formulate and follow, there is that spectacle of Richard Nixon in the White House, the one place the pundits were agreed he never would be.

Chastened and curbed by our own reninders, we have decided that, for our eart, we will let Senators McGovern and Muskie have their run at the thing, and, if we can't help ourselves at all, even enator Humphrey.

Senator Kennedy And The Future from the post of Senate Democrati Whip could and should be salutary both for the Senator himself and for the country. From it Senator Kennedy should learn that men in high public office cannot deviate from high personal stan for this. The country can be encourage with the United States Senate's obviou sensitivity to this fact. In the end Senator Kennedy has the opportunity to grow into a finer public servant. And America should be impelled to demand that the tandards which have now been applied o forcefully to the senior Senator from Massachusetts be applied just as rigorously to all others in Washington.

It is true that a number of factors combined to bring about this startling levelopment. There was the ceaseless political activity of his successor, Se Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, There knifing by those wh suppor thers for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomi nation. There was also a measure of dissatisfaction with Senator Kennedy's lengthy absences from the Senate's

But it is extremely doubtful if these would have combined to overcome Senator Kennedy's popularity and power, had it not been for the bad taste left in many mouths by the accident at Chappaguiddick and its aftermath. To put it frankly, these events raised in the minds of millions continuing doubts as to Senator Kennedy's basic moral merely underlining what the Senator's own state had done last November. At that time the Senator suffered what must be looked upon as a serious moral defeat when he obtained (against a sincere but clearly sacrificial Republican opponent) only 58.8 percent of the votes

The big question is whether the Senator, in the years immediately ahead, can so restore his image through both personal recitude and serious hard work come a credible candidate for the Demo-As for 1972 we see little reason to disagree with the general belief that the sachusetts Senator has been all but definitively removed from the list of ikely candidates. This could have an interesting, and probably helpful effect on It makes that race - as it now stands learer cut than before. With the Kennedy shadow probably removed, the race today is primarily between the moderate, middle-of-the-road position and policies of Maine's Sen. Edmund S. ones of South Dakota's Sen. George S. ### Solomon's Ships Sought in Agaba By New Sonar

Belmont, Mass. (AP) Scientists spurred by an Old Testament story will use electronic devices to probe the silt beneath the Gulf of Agaba for the ships of King Solomon, who ruled Israel a thousand years before Christ. "The Book of Kings tells over and over again of a fabulous trading center called Ezion Geber. No one knows where it was exactly, but the Bible tells of a fleet of ships going down there in a great storm." says Robert Rines, one of the men making the expedition. Rines, president of the Ameri can Academy of Applied Science, and scientists from Brit-

Silver-Less Dollar Coin Depicts Ike

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - The irst $1 coin to be minted since before World War II depicts Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower on one side and the American eagle on the other. Unlike its pre-decessor, it will contain no silcoin, first to be struck since 1935, was unveiled Monday at the U.S. Mint by its designer. Frank Gasparro, and Mary T. Brooks, director of the mint. In what engravers call a trial strike, a large orange coin press exerted 130 tons of pressure on a blank silver disc, producing a stern silhouette of the late pres dent and general of the Army Gasparro, whose inspiration was a glimpse he caught of Ike during a "V-E" victory parade in 1945, said he wanted the likeness to be "heroic." The coin is to contain 40 per cent silver when it is distributed in proof and uncirculated editions after July 1, but in the 20 million coins scheduled for gen-eral circulation the silver will be replaced by the cupronickel alloy used in the 25-cent coin.

All previous $1 coins, includ-ing the Eisenhower Dollar's immediate predecessor, the Lib-erty Dollar, contained either siler or gold in varying amounts. The cois depicts Eisenhower's right profile, his features sombre and commanding. He has more hair atop his head than during his presidential years.

'I had to add the hair because when you strike a coin the lustres on a held head shines promitre on a bald head shines promi-nently," explained Gasparro.

The eagle on the other side is part of a design honoring the first moon landing by the Apollo

Cy Howard Directs

NEW YORK (AP) — Cy Howard has been signed to direct the motion picture version of John Bowen's hit British stage play, "Trevor." It will be Howard's first film since the boxoffice success, "Lovers and Other Strangers."

Set in London, "Trevor" is the story of a pair of female lovers who invent a boyfriend named Trevor to conceal their relationship from their families. The deception works until both families decide to visit on the same

Mrs. Herbst offers three general rules: 1. Talk to your child before going shopping, telling him the purpose of the trip. 2. Give the child a part in the trip by asking him to choose certain items.

3. Don't let yourself get upset by a child's naturally buoyant

Mrs. Crouse has six pointers: i. Limit the time of an excur-sion. The longer you're out the more trouble you're asking for. "Mothers abuse their own chil-dren. They is keep a child out a long time, it's hot, the baby's long time, it's not, the baby's diapers need changing and he gets hungry. No wonder the child starts fussing," she added.

2. Pick a good time for you and the child to shop. Take the child when he's alert, eager and inquisitive. Mothers often go when they want and don't stop

Officials started a massive involved a Coast Guard helicop-search today for a twin-engine ter from Brooklyn, N.Y., private jet owned by the equipped for cold weather oper-wealthy Cousins family of At- ation, several Civil Air Patrol lanta, Ga., after it disappeared planes and a tiny but growing over Icy Lake Champlain group of small boats. Wednesday night shortly after take off from Burlington International Airport in a near-blizzard with five men aboard.

Officials said those aboard did not include any members of the Cousins family, which owns the Atlanta Hawks of the National Basketball Association and Cousins Properties, Inc., of At-Cousins Properties, Inc., of Atlanta, a multimillion dollar corchance that some of those poration with vast interests in aboard might have reached the poration with vast interests in real estate.

"At this point we're looking for one of three things—wreckage, a silhouette or an oil slick," said Charles E. Mell, state aeronautics commissioner and coordinator of the search.

Crisp, clear skies favored the search, but bitter cold and a thin veil of mist blanketed the lake at sunup, hampering surface visibility. Meil said the mist was dissipating "very should be indentified tentatively as T. G. Nikita, the pilot; Donald E. Meyers, copilot; Randy Williams, vice president of Retail Planning Corp., a Cousins subsidiary; and Frank Wilder and Kirby Windsor, Cousins-retained engineers. All were from the Atlanta area, Meil said.
