All In The Family?

The handsome gold medallion bears he legend "Family of Man Award," and the award is given by the Council of Churches of the City of New York. In the past, this award has gone to such as Presidents Elsenhower, Kennedy, Johnson, and Nixon and, last year, Mayor John Lindsay.

This year, it was somehow originally cheduled to Bob Hope, on the theory that he had made some special contribution to mankind. News of this created an uproar among some of the clergymen in the Council, and they created such a storm that the Council felt forced to change its plans. It took, as its most graceful out, an emergency decision to give its award posthumously to Whitney M. Young, Jr., the black civil rights leader, and a gentleman who may, indeed, have made some special contribution to mankind.

The clergymen who objected to Bob Hope as a recipient apparently based air aversion to him on what they called his "uncritical endorsement of the ilitary establishment and the Indohina war" rather than on any sensi tivity to his particular brand of humor. So doing, they raised the standing istime, and perhaps of all time, which nobody seems able to answer to the satisfaction of everybody

Is God a Liberal or is He a Conserva-

Is God a Pacifist or a Militarist or a Necessitist?

Each of us may prefer one kind of answer to such questions, but none of us can know that the answer which happens to appeal to us is the only right answer.....

Let us suppose, to try to reach for a solution, that God is neither Liberal nor Conservative, neither Pacifist nor Militarist, but exists and operates on some higher level on which He is God, and Grace, to each and to all of these, so long as they possess sincerity in their beliefs and practices.

In that case, one might suggest, for a true "Family of Man" joint citation this year, a triple program with medals for Hope on one side, the memory of Whitney Young in the middle, and the Fathers Berrigan on the left.

Not Merely Hybrid Seeds

The most familiar and repetitive pattern of our times is that of the supposed advance which either develops unexpected backlash or, in the end, actually ompounds the difficulties of the problem it was intended to solve.

The pat example of the moment is the growing concern among our agricultural scientists over the possibility that some of their own miracles may be providing an opening to new curses.

The miracle hybrids of our time have been bred with varying goals in mind quantity of production, so that plants produce more heavily; regularity of production, so that the yield throughout a field will mature on one time schedule; and resistance to known plant disease, so that less care and less spraying will be necessary.

We are still in the high tide of miraculous success in such endeavors and in our achievement of such goals.

Last summer, however, a leaf blight fungus hit parts of the nation's seed corn crop and sent a ripple of fear and caution throughout the nation's agricultural scientist community.

Somehow, in their breeding of diseaseunt, heavy and uniform-vielding

MANCHESTER EVENING HERALD, MANCHESTER, CONN., FRIDAY, MARCH 19, 1971

They may find where their breeding went wrong, and switch a few genes around, and escape from the danger. A few years ago there was a similar alarm after the development of a new strain of oats, which had been bred to possess immunity from one fungal disease, but which proved helpless before another disease which hadn't hitherto been considered a serious factor.

So, for the future, the alarm is up "Watch out that progress and cure don't become invasion routes for new pestilence and trouble."

What can happen with hybrid seeds keeps threatening to happen in other fields, as if it were, indeed, the pattern for our times and our troubles.

We have to be wary about miracle drugs. Hospitals, the symbols of the best possible care, have been known to breed their own surprise infections. Welfare systems become self-proliferating and eventually self-defeated monsters. It is our concern with security, personal or national, which often builds our greatest danger. We keep reaching for more democracy and then threaten to drown in it. We move more news faster and react to it less.

But then we didn't do so much better in the days when we weren't straining this way. All we did, then, was get us where we are today.

Detergent Hysteria

The growing volume of shrill voices in egislative bodies throughout the land seeking to rule out of existence detergents which contain phosphates is an amazing socio-political phenomenon. 1 he hysteria whipped up by glib consumerists and fueled by pathetic letters to the editors of influential newspapers whose ponderous editorials and slante "news stories" pound the drums of war against detergents, the real scientific and technical facts are overlooked or ignored.

mong these facts: 1. Neither detergents nor phosphates are toxic (a point we were glad to see made in the article, "The Detergent Di lemma," in the January Issue of "Good Housekeeping'' magazine). 2. The role of phosphates in sutrophication is a highly complex one on which there is considerable disagree ment in the scientific community. How or example, explain the fact that bodies of water in different parts of the country receiving comparable quantities of phosphates do not manifest the same ymptoms of eutrophication?

3. Commercial detergents, the effect veness of which has been enhanced by developments in phosphates, are super-ior cleaning agents that have made an contribution to sanitation and immense health, A ban on detergents containing phosphates could have serious conse quences that are overlooked completely experts. Such a step could mean the elimination of dishwashing detergents both in the home and in commercial and institutional restaurants. For these prod ucts, there is today simply no replace ment for phosphates.

4. It takes from eight to 10 years to bring a new chemical from test tube to commercial producton. With the volun tary withdrawal of NTA as a partial re lacement for phosphate, detergent pr ducers must start all over again in their quest for a safe, effective substance setting deadlines of one year or 18 months to come up with a satisfactory replacement material is not only unrea istic but foolhardy since insufficien time is allowed for the necessary tes work to provide, above all, the safe ma terial being sought.

5. The real answer, and probably the only one, is a federally financed program of expanded and improved sewage reatment facilities adequate to mee the needs of the skyrocketing populatio of the U.S. is nothing short of a national scandal. To single out cleaning products as the scapegoat is completely unfai considering the unbelievable amounts of raw sewage from hundreds of municuntreated and often toxic wastes from industrial plants and spillage from virtually every craft alfoat being poured into our oceans, lakes and

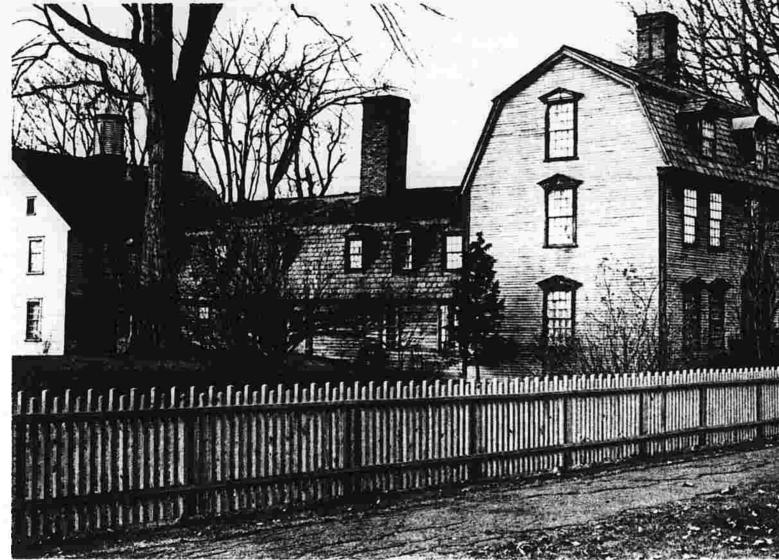

Because of the rank injustice being visited upon producers of detergents, the Soap & Detergent Assn. has begun a court action in Akron, O., seeking an in junction to prevent enforcement of a recently passed ordinance in that city which would require the early reduction and eventual elimination of phosphates from detergents by June 30, 1972. Similar action should be instituted elsewhere, if necessary, to protect the indus-try from being discriminated against in a way that has few parallels in history. Because banning detergents has become a political football second to none, a court of law, where hysteria can be checked at the door, is the only place letergents can receive a fair hearing. -EDITORIAL IN, "SOAP & CHEMICAL SPECIAL/TIES" FOR FEBRUARY,

Mayor Shona's elimination of the historic city contribution to Christmas ighting may be a small matter, but it is typical of his slightly indifferent attitude toward downtown development. Although Middletown has improved the quality of its Christmas lighting in past years, it is still a far cry from the inviting atmosphere provided by New Haven or Hartford, which have adopted a far more sophisticated technique. The problem in Middletown is money. and the cancellation of the longtime city support, which last year was $3,000, will not help the problem at all. The Mayor tried to kill off the fireworks show last year, did manage to extinguish the zoo, and now has taken aim at Christmas lighting. It would seem to us that this is moving in the wrong direction. - MID-DLETOWN PRESS.

Garden Show at the Hartford Armory seems headed for record attendance. On the first two days, 18,000 people saw the including a trafficshow snarling turn-out of senior citi zens who were specially invited and admitted free on Wednes day. The advance estimate for the six days was 50,000. The show continues through Sunday and it offers what people like to see in very early Spring, lots of color, lots of flowers, well-designed garden corners that you can imagine transported to your own backyard, and exotic blooms that you know very well could never grow outside a well-managed greenhouse. "They love it," said Mrs. Genevieve Zavisza of Enfield, asked what comment she gets rom visitors.

From Hobby to Business Mrs. Zavisza loves flower shows. She displays and sells African violets grown at Powder Hill where she started 15 years ago with a few plants, uilt a greenhouse, then a larger one, and now has to exand again. She grows and sells he flowers while her husband has a factory job, raises broadleaf tobacco and helps her only with the heavy work.

The flower show represents a commercial opportunity for this gardener whose hobby turned nto a business, but it is something more. Mrs. Zavisza likes to talk with the people who stop in to see the violets, greet those he has met before, and talk shop with other veterans of the flower show circuit. Her sister, Mrs. Florence Karvula of Woodbridge, joins her for the six days and this is their chance for "a real visit." They nave no other help and seem not to mind the 12-hour day from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. The long day is taken for granted, indeed, by people who regularly do business at flower nows or fairs. Mr. and Mrs. Alsert Buell of Eastford, also sell- the nursery last Saturday to be ing African violets, work to- taken to Hartford Monday gether and counting travel time taken to Hardord Adonady h a v e about a 14-hour day, weekend thieves opened the shows like this have been im-truck and stole the plants. Fertilizer and light are gauged to bring the plant t full bloom at the time it is to be displayed.

Difficulties Overcome The flower show preparations did not go smoothly for everyone, as perhaps they never do. On the day before the show opened a swimming pool set up on the armory floor as a commercial exhibit, "let go" and dumped 10,000 gallons of water on the floor. Dick Coutriss, show producer, had 30 men al work all night moving the partially-built exhibits, pulling u dry it out and putting it down again. The show opened on time, and Spaulding Florist of Suffield responded to an emergency appeal to install a hastily designed garden to fill part of Convert to gas heat before April 30, and make no conversion payment until October.

On CNG's deferred payment plan, switching to economical gas heat with your present heating system is easy. You use the same furnace or boiler you have now. Just a small conversion unit is installed. And all you pay for now is the low-cost of the gas you use. Right now, oil for home heating is 29% more expensive than gas. And heating with electricity costs 23/4 times as much as heating with gas. If you prefer, you can rent a compact gas conversion burner on a low, monthly payment plan. There's no charge for installation and no equipment to buy. And your satisfaction is guaranteed. If you are not completely satisfied with converting to gas heat on the rental plan, at the end of the first full year CNG will refund every cent you paid in rental.

Join the Luckies and save. If you live on a CNG gas line, call your gas heating contractor or CNG in Hartford (525-0111) or New-Britain (224-9157). Convert now and pay later.

and "Martin Limited". Music donated by Watkins Brothers.

The program was divided into two parts, girls' and boys' fashions, with refreshments served during the intermission. Models Hope Pastel, Laurie Horwitz, Jody Kautz, Laurie Ladimer, Jennifer Malone, Debby White, Robin Franklin and Melinda Moore traveled down a raised platform into an audience shaped in a U seating arrangement. Mrs. Rosemary Styles from Carriage House Boutique was featured as commentator for the girls' fashions. A variety of fabrics, including denim, leather, acetates, voil, and nylons were topped with accessories to add the peasant look, knicker look or ever-present feminine look. Empire waists, ruffled hems, skinny rib knits, peek-a-boo slashes, and dogcollared necks all allowed the individual to choose her very own fashion style. Pant suits were still plentiful on the fashion scene, and many, of the models chose one for at least one of their outfits; hot pants were also included. From the bare look, ready for the beach, to an Irish green pant suit in anticipation of Saint Paddy's Day, the looks were varied. 'The boys' fashions were modeled by Phil Romanowitz, John Kautz, Dean Carlson, Rick Conti, Steve Deltatto, Gary Carlson, and Dan McLennon. Short-sleeved, long-sleeved, flowered, butterfield, candy-striped, herringbone, seethrough and ribknit shirts were shown with a variety of differently styled pants. A Patriotic look was also displayed as red pants, topped with a blue and white starred shirt. Wet look jackets and sushed belts were some of the many accessories used. Knit

'Summertree' Is A Challenge By now, nearly everyone knows that Sock and Buskin is presenting "Summertree" to-night. You probably even have a general idea of what the play is about. But do you know why we're presenting it?

"Summertree" is a play about the life of a young man killed in Vietnam. You know that; you've been hearing it for the past two weeks. But it also shows what brought the Young Man to Vietnam and, even more importantly, asks why is he there. Although the play discusses the "generation gap" education, marriage, and the break-up of family life in America, the playwright, Ron Cowen, writes most strongly against war, using Vietnam in much the same way that Bertolt Brecht used the Thirty Years

War in "Mother Courage." The attitude of most people toward war seems to be that of "enlightened apathy". They know war is wrong but they are either too frustrated or just don't care enough to do any thing about it, "Summertree" is to show people what their apathy is doing not only to American youth but to all Americans. "Patriotic" is a term rightwingers, reactionaries, and John Birchers like to reserve for themselves. But patriotism is more than "My country ... right or wrong." It is a concern for one's country and the honest effort to make it a better place to live. This apathy toward war and other vital problems of our times, this irresponsibility shows a lack of patriotism or the part of all Americans. War might be human nature but it can be avoided in many cases. In spite of published re-ports that the U.S. is pulling out of Vietnam, the war ha been extended to Laos and Cam bodia. Our men are still dying And what about boys who don want to go to war. They can go to jail or to Canada. A whole generation is trapped. Enthusiasm Is Lacking In Concert

It seems that from whatever direction you viewed the Spring Concert, the verdict to be passed on it appears the same -and it is that the performances giv-en by both Round Table and Combined Choirs showed obvious lack of preparation.

The problem could, however, also have been due to the fact that a great many people on stage didn't care enough about what they were doing. The choir, which sang Leonard Bernstein's Chichester Psalms, showed a marked lack of enthusiasm and feeling, and the general volume level for the number of singers was poor. Vocal soloists Gloria Jordan, Ilga Paups, Martin Hogan Constance Terrio, Joanne Robarge, Kenneth Bernstein, Daniel Mc-Lennon, and David Johnson gave good performances. Dave should receive special recogni-tion for his solo during the Chichester Psalms, as it was a difficult piece to sing. The instru-mental trio, composed of Con-ald Charlamb on piano, Abbie Horwitz on violin, and Liza Larson on flute gave an outstanding rendition of the Tric Sonata in D minor by C.P.E Bach. Carlton Burke should be singled out for his performance as the percussionist. Also deserving mention are the accompanists Conard Charlamb, Sharon Plante, Kathy Donovan, Terri Low, and Victoria Gallo.

AMAZING RETIREMENT HOMES IN AN ADULT COMMUNITY

Homes are not shell homes, but are completely finished and furnished with no extras to buy. All of Jensen's pre-built homes and mobilehomes are built to American Standard Association Code A119.1 or above.

Professionally Landscaped Lots—you will be surprised at the layout and planning on each lot. Perky evergreens, sturdy shade trees and colorful flowering shrubs highlight this development.

Adult Home Villages are engineered, planned and built around the theory that pre-built home mobilehome living is practical and enjoyable for couples. We do not recommend this type of living for people with school children.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO BE RETIRED to buy a retirement home. Many people whose last child has left home, purchased them although their retirement may be 10 to 15 years away.
