My Lai Jury Told: Limit Deliberations To Maiming Count

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (AP)—A military judge directed a verdict of manslaughter today on a charge that Capt. Eugene M. Kotuc assaulted a suspected Viet Cong prisoner by cutting him on the neck at My Lai in 1968.

But Col. Madison Wright let stand a charge that the 27-year-old Kotuc, of Humboldt, Neb., held so over objections from the defense.

The judge told the jury to limit its deliberations to the maiming charge.

The judge told the action attorneys for Kotuc moved on the second day of his court-martial for Wright to throw out both charges.

But the government's case was not supported by the evidence.

He said the government had been able to produce only one witness to testify about the alleged assault and that he had failed to substantiate the charge.

The government had to rely on the testimony of a single witness, Capt. Norman Cooper, South Carolina, one of three attorneys for Kotuc, made his motion after the government rested its case.

Cooper held that the government's case was not supported by the evidence.

Top Court Appeal Set On Wiretap

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department said today it will appeal to the Supreme Court the ruling by the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals that the government may not wiretap domestic groups suspected of subversion without advance court approval.

The decision to appeal, announced by Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold, was not unexpected. It left standing the appeal court ruling which would determine one of the basic wiretap policies of the Nixon administration.

The appeals court in Cincinnati had upheld the ruling of U.S. District Court Judge Donald Keith of Detroit, who refused to use electronic surveillance against U.S. citizens in so-called national security cases without a court warrant.

But the government's argument that the President and his attorney general have the authority to use electronic surveillance against U.S. citizens in so-called national security cases without a court warrant.

Balloting Heavy In South Korea

SEOUL (AP)—More than 80 percent of South Korea's 15 million voters turned out today for a presidential election and initial returns showed President Chung Hee Park ahead of his opponent.

But the results, from five provincial counties, were generally orderly and peaceful at a national level.

Some charges of voting irregularities were reported across the country, but voting was generally orderly and peaceful at a national level.

SEATO Gets Report On American Policy Toward Red China

LONDON (AP)—Secretary of State William P. Rogers said today that the United States wants to encourage Communist China to take a constructive rather than disruptive role in Asia.

Rogers also told other members of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization that the United States is getting out of the Vietnam war and "we are now on the final lap of that journey."

Most of the eight Southeast Asian allies agreed there is still need for their security pact, formed as a bulwark against Communist aggression in Southeast Asia.

An Asian prime minister, Edward Heath, put it: "It is sometimes suggested that de-escalation is a friendly neighboring country."

disfranchising young Americans to develop ways to live apart from straight society.

Allen has no interest in money only in making enough to support his. His main interest is in the clinic and leading a professional life not as "a economic machine" but as a human being with "medical knowledge to share."

"The way the arrangement is made now does an incredibly overpaid I could work one day a week as a straight doctor and make around $12,000 to $14,000 a year easily. That's how screwed up things are," he said.

"Clinics are a long way from the answer, he said, "I do not see them as being a realistic alternative to a free medical system with free laboratories and free X-ray technicians and free radiologists and free hospitals and free people."

He laughed, a laugh recognizing that the reality of his vision was a long way off.

Doctors like Allen remain rare. Allen said, as far as he knows, he is the only one of 72 Any variance in his graduating class planning to devote his career to free medicine.

Drugs Education

Any resident who might be interested in helping to plan an adult drug education program for the town is invited to attend tomorrow's meeting of the Hebron Drug Advisory Committee at 8 p.m. in the Town Hall.

This is only one of the major programs the committee is working on. It has already enlisted the services of a speaker for a meeting in the near future and hopes to line up several more.

To be able to provide the types of programs most specific to the town, the committee is seeking contributions. Interested sponsors may contact members of the committee or send contributions, which are tax deductible, to the Hebron Drug Advisory Committee, c/o the Town Office Building.

Internship

The Republican Town Committee would like to remind residents that the deadline is fast approaching for applicants interested in representing Hebron at the summer internship program in Washington, D. C.

Applicants must be under 21 years of age and must be the reasons they would like to attend and enclose a brief biographical sketch. Parents with children away at college are requested to inform them of this opportunity.

Applications may be mailed to Mrs. Marilyn Horton, Secretary, Marie Curie High School. The committee also has voted to give support to the HELP organization and to send a donation to FISH.

Connecticut River

This month's meeting of the Hebron Historical Society will be held tomorrow evening at 8 p.m. in the Town Office Building. The meeting will feature an illustrated lecture on "The Connecticut River from Source to Mouth."

In their presentation, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Cone, distinguished authors, will outline the historic landmarks near the river and explain their history.

Both the Cone are members of The Charter Oak Color Slide Association of Hartford and The Castle Creek Color Club of Meriden.

Cone is also president of the Meriden Nature Club and a member of the Connecticut Botanical Society. And Mrs. Cone is a member of the Geographic Society of America and treasurer of the Connecticut chapter.

Family potluck supper will be held at 8 and members are asked to bring a hot casserole, salad or favorite specialty.

The evening will end with a social hour and refreshments.

BRIDGE CRIMES GO UNPUNISHED

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

"We are considered a law-abiding people," Sheriff Holmes remarked, "but the fact of the matter is that we let millions of crimes go unpunished and unreported. That last hour is a perfect example. If you were a policeman, Watson, you would have to look one of the players' up to protect society from his misdeeds. Dr. Watson nodded gravely, but he didn't really know which of the players had misbehaved.

North-South vulnerable Opening lead - 5 of Spades. West led the five of spades and South put up dummy's jack. East covered with the king, and South retraced the king. East continued with the ten of spades and West overtook with the queen when South played low again. West led a third spade to force out the king. South led a low club and took a deep finesse with dummy's king being to the ten. East returned a heart, and South took four top cards in the red suits and four clubs to make his contract.

If you were kibitzing at the Baker Street bridge club, you would know which player to drag away to jail. If you have any doubts, make up your mind before you read on.

Criminal Follows

The criminal followed a familiar bridge rule, but of course this was a time when he should have disregarded it. The first three tricks were quite all right, but West fell from grace on the first club trick.

When South led a low club, West should have played the jack. South could not afford to let West hold the trick, since West would take his spade tricks. But if South won the first club trick in dummy he would be able to get only three.

Bolton Chance Seen for Funds To Develop Lake Parcel

Private Selection Richard Morris says the town might qualify to receive federal funding to purchase part of the E. J. Holladay on Bolton Lake. At last week's selection meeting, a letter was read from the Capitol which was notified by the public health nurse within the next two weeks to make arrangements for re-stating.

Morris said that expansion of Bolton Nitch State Forest and acquisition of land on Birch Mountain are also listed as priorities for open space conservation. Morris gave the information to Stanley Spades, chairman of the Conservation Committee, and suggested that the planning commission be advised of the HUD funds.

The Rev. Robert Brown, CRPA director, who said that town receiving HUD money would be set up like City State Park.

He noted that a small administration fee would be charged at the discretion of the town and that a reasonably good school district would be charged to non-residents.

Brown was asked whether Bolton could prevent extensive use by non-residents by developing the area as a recreational facility, but by leaving it as is, in an open space.

He agreed that it was possible, but said that Bolton will be competing with other towns for the money. Mrs. LeMaire said probably go to whichever towns promise the best development program.

PBC Candidate

James Harris, a Republican candidate for the Planning Board, Building Commission, has issued a statement expressing his interest in working out with the City Council on the ordinance two weeks ago reducing the speed from 30 to 25 miles per hour.

Since then, those ticketed for breaking the speed limit have increased. Harris, who voted for the idea; Sena Bus, secretary to the Portage city manager; Portage recreation director, Douglas Finley, and state Rep. Wayne P. Sackett of Portage.

Ponticelli Gets PZC Okay For Townhouse Apartments

Developer Charles Ponticelli N. Elm at some time in the past night received Planning Commission approval of his plans to build more townhouse apartment units on the rear end of the same design as the existing units. They will be of colonial style, 45-room units with enclosed basement garages; the exterior will be of white aluminum claspboard and white trim.

Before the commission's final approval of the plans, Ponticelli said that future development of the northern portion would be subject to subdivision approval as a separate tract.

The Southern New England Telephone Co. received unanimous approval of its proposed change from Residence B to offer street parking after the commission learned that the plans had been given by the PZC last June.

The northwest section was not approved for buildings because of swampy conditions there.

The commission's action last year was conditioned on approval of the layout by the town engineer. Town Planner J. Eric Potter noted that this approval had been obtained yesterday from Walter Senkow, the engineer.

It was the commission's consensus that developing the southern portion would not add to the existing drainage problem.

The sewer line to service the addition will come through to Ford St. and water lines will hook into E. Middle Pike, as the existing units. They will be off the Turpinle via a road company plans to close the lot to be constructed to town street on the west end, to forestall a traffic hazard at Main and Ford Sts.

The application by Atty. Leon Podrowe for approval of 32 in good condition.

Strike Losses Retrial Ordered in UAC Case

HARTFORD (AP) - The Connecticut Supreme Court has ordered a retrial of a case involving the United Aircraft Corp. because of illegal union activities during a two-month-long strike in 1960.

United Aircraft has sought a total of $15 million for losses due to the involuntary absence of workers who were intimidated to stay off the job.

The state's high court did not say whether it found the award too high or too low but indicated it found a variety of errors in the way the damages were figured in Superior Court.

Beyond Demonstrations

The message and meaning of our peace demonstrations is cumulative. And what it says, with continuing and increasing force, is that in this country, in this time, in regard to this war, the cause of peace has finally somehow become respectable.

We are no longer shocked, as we once were, by the possibility that American citizens should dare march and demonstrate and speak against a war in which their own country is engaged.

There was a time when to have done any of these things would have been to run a number of risks, ranging from social ostracism up to imprisonment and execution.

Now we have not only the confirmed pacifists, to whom peace is a religion, daring to form lines against a war in which their neighbors' sons may be fighting. We have come even to the admission that it is not necessary to be a confirmed pacifist, or a near-traitorous liberal, to be against this particular war.

Sold businessmen are against it. Politicians whose careers live or die according to how much they offend or please a wide variety of voters dare align themselves against it.

Finally, there are those who have given service and blood and limb to the actual fighting of this war who are now coming forward, with such respectable credentials, to make their demonstrations against it.

So it is that, for the first time in the history of western nationhood civilization, peace has at last become, temporarily at least, a safe, respectable cause.

Its new position of safe respectability is bolstered, of course, when its demonstrators themselves manage to observe the rules of peace in their own conduct, as they did, in the main, during last week's demonstrations.

All this is a novel experience for us all, whatever the proportion of its attentive red corpses flowing in our veins.

It suggests we may be living, if such a thing can be conceded possible for human beings, in an era of potential fundamental change in our instincts and our institutionalized behavior.

There is a chance that, having come face to face with our own capacities for violence, as not only this war but many of the other news events of our time have illustrated them, we are about to try to choose some other way of life.

But we need to muller, for that possible choice, much more than a rejection of the particular violence which have alerted us and shocked us into conceding at least a temporary respectability to the principles of peace.

We need to realize that, although it has been this war, with its particular conditions being laid out in our living rooms, which has triggered our freedom of thinking, we cannot logically halt that open thinking until it has encompassed the possibility that all war—even the most just, necessary war—is not very far removed or different from the war we now so freely condemn.

And we need to realize that other violences in the living of our time are not, although they may seem especially bizarre and foul to us, basically different from other violences which sometimes even pretend to wear a nostalgic patina as they fade into our past social history.

We are still at Cain and Abel, with the slight but precious difference that we may now be obtaining a clearer view of the Cain inside all of us and, therefore, ready for some attempt to exorcise it.

Shower? It would be something of a brute treaty on tradition, if our record of April showers should have to come down to that thunderous squall of last Saturday night for its lone exhibit.

The one service it did perform was in itself almost unthinkable for any normal April. It laid the April dust. It relieved, for a moment, an April drought. It was, in the month when daffodils and violets and tulips are supposed to open between benevolent showers, a destructive fury which snapped daffodil stems, blasted the red bloom from the maples, and twisted the young leave whorls from the lilacs.

If, however, we can forgive the outlandishness of its behavior and the grotesqueness of its timing, and rate it for its basic demonstration of what a storm can be, then we have to decide that it was something especially wild and beautiful.

It was best seen looking out from a darkened window toward a street light. The light itself seemed to serve as the target for the dance and drive of the flakes. Sometimes the great winds propelled the flakes head on into the light; sometimes they lifted them up into cascades over it; again, the storm caught its breath and held all the flakes suspended and motionless for a fraction of a second, before the seemingly endless white curtain swirled off again toward the Atlantic.

One could not help thinking, as it passed on in all its night-shrouded beauty and unharmed power, that it would have made enough gentle April showers, of which we still hope to see at least one, to last for years and years.

Penitence Publicity. In all the hullabaloo about the CBS show, "The Selling of the Pentagon," one matter seemingly has gotten lost.

The show's target, excessive spending on publicly by the Department of Defense, is a wholly appropriate subject for public discussion, however badly or unfairly CBS might have handled it.

CBS has been accused of using an exaggerated figure on how much the Pentagon spends for its various press, publicity and public-relations activities. In fact, it is difficult to know just how much the department and its branches spend for this purpose.

Adam Yarmolinsky, a onetime Pentagon "white kid" under Robert McNamara, says in his thorough book "The Military Establishment," that a high Army officer once estimated it would cost $80,000 just to determine what the Army spends for public relations. But in response to an inquiry by Senator Fulbright in 1969, the Pentagon admitted that it had an information force of 2,600, with direct salary and operating costs of $27.9 million. That was a tenfold increase from 1969.

The figure, which certainly is substantial, does not include other costly activities, such as Armed Forces Day shows, which can partly come under the heading of training but must also be included under public-relations activities.

Aside from all the questions of war and peace, press freedom, journalistic fairness and the like that the CBS show has stirred up, the simple and provable fact is that there are large-scale Pentagon publicity outlays at a time when the nation is under extreme pressure to bring government costs under control.

The Pentagon is not the only offender, to be sure. Public-relations and advertising techniques are in fairly common use throughout government. The Pentagon, however, with an over-all budget that looms so large beside anything else, most likely is the biggest spender.

Taxpayers need information about government but they don't need heavy subsidization and it is doubtful that any useful purpose is really served by it. Most Americans have been convinced for a long time that they need a substantial military establishment capable of insuring the nation's security and meeting its foreign-policy commitments. Professional testimony to Congress and advice to the President plus a free flow of information to the press should be largely sufficient for public-policy decisions on the specific needs of the Defense Department.

The real danger in any government department's attempting to build a large propaganda establishment is that it might prove capable of developing its own political constituency, outside the normal traditions of this nation's government. It could thus become difficult or even impossible for either the President or Congress to adequately control the department's budget and natural tendencies toward growth. Fiscal priorities can get badly distorted that way.

The Pentagon's budget has grown so large—partly as a result of the public's security fears and the over-enthusiastic foreign-policy goals of past governments—that its spending affects the livelihoods of large numbers of people. We do not raise the specter of a possible military takeover here, as some critics of the Pentagon might, since we feel that the nation's traditions of democratic civilian government are strong ones and are honored inside as well as outside the Pentagon. Yet the tendency of large institutions to generate their own life and momentum, and thus become difficult to reshape to changing needs, is an important problem in itself. Self-subsidization can contribute to this tendency.

CBS was attempting to deal with a subject that does deserve serious consideration—more serious than TV networks, with their show-business propensities and personality cults, ever seem capable of giving. The Pentagon's public budget should be cut and so should publicity budgets of other government departments that are inclined to go beyond minimum informational roles.

There is, after all, a basic anomaly in super-salesmanship campaigns by government. They are, in effect, spending the taxpayer's money to still more of his money. The taxpayer still more of his money. The taxpayer would be better served if he could find some way to tell government on spending less. —WALL STREET JOURNAL

YEAR OLD BALD EAGLE. With Syrian Officers On The Cape

The Professors

By STANLEY KARNOW

The Washington Post. An intriguing brain trust functioning under the aegis of the Dreyfus Corporation, the New York financial firm, includes a number of professors along with such Washington veterans as Bill Moyers and Richard Goodwin.

One guess is that this heavy-weight group, which advises Dreyfus boss Howard Stein on a variety of matters, could be waiting in the wings to go into action on behalf of a suitable Democratic candidate.

Critics of the Nixon Administration contend that its penury of ideas stems from its failure to attract the professors. But even these critics would not return to the Kennedy days, when Washington was filled with a good many academic carpetbaggers.

Thus the collaboration of government and academia could be fruitful if the bureaucrats and the professors are able to work out a complementary relationship based on the mutual understanding that neither has the corner on the absolute truth.

At his best, it is argued as well, the scholar can serve as a healthy-stimulant for shaking the Washington bureaucracy out of its rut. As a State Department official puts it: "The academic types who won't take 'no' for an answer is an asset to us all."

The case against the recruitment of professors, on the other hand, is that they often tend to view problems from an abstract rather than a realistic angle, and therefore turn into quixotic characters.

Some of his Harvard colleagues criticize Henry Kissinger for seeing himself as a latter-day Metetrnich whose dream of global-power balances has made him an influence for rigidity rather than flexibility in foreign policy.

The American commitment to Vietnam during the Kennedy era. It is also suggested, was encouraged by scholars anxious to test their theories of coping with Revolutionary war according to this thesis, Walt W. Rostow was the Dr. Strangelove of counter-insurgency.

A key attraction of government for academicians is, of course, the chance to put their ideas into practice. In a sense, this underlines the extent to which universities have lost confidence in pure study.

This does not mean, however, that every politically conscious academic is aspiring to a place on the White House staff.

There are those, like the Nobel prize-winning economist Paul Samuelson or the European specialist Stanley Hoffman, who seem to have no government ambitions even though they actively propagate policy proposals.

There are also academic lobbyists such as the Committee of Concerned Asian Scholars, which is agitating for a radical change in America's Far East policies, and assorted other groups advancing views on every subject from welfare to Israel.

Today in History Connecticut Yankee

By A.H.O.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Today is Tuesday, April 27th, the 117th day of 1971. There are 246 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History. On this date in 1941, Athens fell to German invaders after 180 days of heroic Greek resistance in World War II.

On This Date. In 1821, the Portuguese navigator, Ferdinand Magellan, was killed by natives in the Philippines.

In 1791, the inventor of the telegraph, Samuel F. B. Morse, was born in Charlestown, Mass.

In 1822, the 18th American President, James S. Grant, was born in Point Pleasant, Ohio.

In 1900, the United States Steel Corp. broke ground along Lake Michigan for construction of a new city—Gary, Ind.

In 1946, in World War II, American and Soviet troops met at the Elbe River, cutting Germany in two.

Not only had the measure in question received previous public hearings. It had also, the very day before, received a favorable report from the Legislative Government Administration and Policy Committee.

When the author of the bill appeared before the General Law Committee, he was questioned as to why he bothered to appear, when his bill had already been favorably reported by another committee. He replied that, having seen the bill listed for a hearing, he thought it a prudent thing to appear and testify in favor of it, just in case. Questioned as to how it happened that his bill had ever found its way into action by another committee, instead of the General Law Committee to which it properly belonged, he replied that he knew nothing of why what was happening where to his bill.

Although this was the first time, to our knowledge, that the present General Assembly had been so generous to the public as to hold a public hearing on a measure which had already been favorably reported, it was by no means the first instance in which measures had been given more than one public hearing.

At this same committee session, not by any oversight but by deliberate courtesy, a second hearing was given another bill, merely because, when the first hearing was held, its own supporters had not appeared.

And anyone drifting through the public hearing season of this session, now virtually concluded, found that there were more measures being given more than one hearing, or, at least, being scheduled for more than one hearing, than ever before.

Regrettably, we confess that we do not see this as a result of any new solicitude for the public.

It seems, rather, to have resulted from simple confusion, which somehow, in the age of super management and computerization, managed to proliferate.

Do you really want to put us out of business?

We represent the small commercial banks of Connecticut. In this age of "bigness," maybe what happens to us doesn't seem terribly important. But we think it is. We think there's a role for the small bank—providing personal "home town" service to individuals, families and local businessmen in our communities.

We have a problem, a big problem. Connecticut's big savings banks have mounted a powerful political offensive to obtain the right to offer personal checking accounts. They've been asking you if you wouldn't like to have a checking account at your savings bank. It's an easy question to say "yes" to. But watch out.

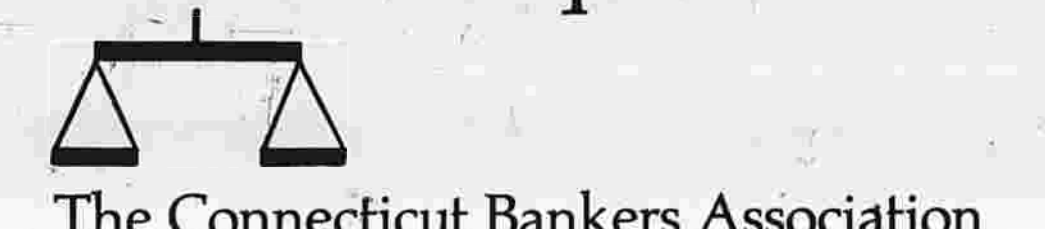

If savings banks are allowed the additional privilege of offering personal checking accounts—together with the advantage they already enjoy in being able to pay a higher rate of interest on savings—our banks will be in real trouble. We depend heavily on personal checking accounts as the primary source of our deposits. Our deposits are what make it possible for us to make loans in our community—to small businesses, retailers and manufacturers, to finance their growth and expansion. Savings banks don't serve business. We do. Jobs are at stake—maybe yours.

All it would take is a shift of some 20% of our checking account deposits to our now-powerful savings bank neighbors. For all practical purposes, that would put us out of business in being able to serve our customers. The formation of new commercial banks would be totally discouraged. We think that would be a bad thing.

So the decision facing our legislature is not just whether or not savings banks should have checking accounts. What it really boils down to is whether or not small commercial banks such as ours will be allowed to survive and to continue serving our customers and communities. The proposed bill has provisions which are supposed to protect us. They do not—in any way.

What do you think? We won't put words in your mouth by giving you a ballot to sign or anything like that. But if you agree that banking in Connecticut should be kept fair and equal—now's the time to let your legislators know how you feel.

Let's Keep It Fair and Equal

HOSPITAL CHARGES ARE MOVING UPWARD MORE RAPIDLY THAN CONSUMER PRICES. Source: U.S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare. Government statistics indicate your present coverage may be inadequate to meet today's rising costs. That's why you can't afford to be without this indispensible, low-cost, high-benefit Extra Cash Plan.

Why You Need This EXTRA CASH Plan in Addition To Ordinary Hospitalization. You know, of course, that the tremendous jump in hospital costs has forced millions who already have hospitalization to dig into savings or, worse yet, turning to family and friends for help. In fact, very few people have enough savings, hospitalization or income to cover the TOTAL cost of being sick or injured.

How long could you stay in the hospital without worrying about the pile-up of daily expenses? Who will pay for the expenses of costly X-rays, doctor bills, drugs and medicines? And how about the expenses at home—rent, food, telephone and others that just go on and on? With expenses like these, could you avoid having your savings wiped out and your family life upset?

Better Safe Than Sorry. Wouldn't it be comforting to know these problems could be solved by your Extra Cash Income Plan—the plan that gives you $100.00 a week—IN CASH—tax-free—from the very first day you're in the hospital for up to 100 full weeks.

PAYS YOU CASH - $100.00 a week tax-free cash from first day in hospital. PAYS YOU CASH - up to a maximum of $10,000.00 for any hospital stay lasting 100 weeks. PAYS YOU CASH - Money mailed direct to you—not to the doctor or hospital. PAYS YOU CASH - In addition to hospitalization and Workmen's Compensation.

EXTRA CASH Gives Peace Of Mind and Security, Helps Replace Lost Income

Everything costs more these days. (Who knows better than you?) Hospital costs alone have TRIPLED in just a few short years... and they're expected to DOUBLE soon. While 7 out of 8 Americans have some hospital insurance, most find that benefits simply don't cover ALL the bills that mount up when sickness or accident strikes.

The new Union Fidelity "Extra Income Hospital Plan" has NO WAITING PERIODS. It covers you immediately for every possible kind of sickness and accident, except of course, hospitalization caused by mental disorders; act of war, pregnancy, childbirth or miscarriage; or care provided in a federal government hospital. It even covers you for pre-existing condition after your policy has been in force for only 2 years (one year for age 65). Everything else is covered.

Send No Money—Special Offer Expires Midnight of Date Shown on Coupon Below!

To introduce you to this remarkable new Plan we are making this unusual offer with a Money-Back Guarantee. To take advantage of this tax-free "Extra Cash Income Plan"—Form 442-65—fill in the Enrollment Form on this page and mail it before Midnight of the expiration date shown. When you receive your policy, take your time to examine it carefully. It's written to be easy to understand. There is NO FINE PRINT. Show it to any trusted advisor—your doctor, your lawyer, your clergyman. In fact, show it to your own insurance man... even though he probably works for another insurance company! If he is a personal friend, he will tell you the best for you. So you can believe him when he tells you there is no better value available anywhere. Then decide for yourself... and while you're making up your mind, you can be protected by this wonderful Plan by sending in only one month's premium at the low rate shown below. If the Extra Cash Income Plan isn't everything you say it is, return the policy within 30 days and your money will be cheerfully refunded with no questions asked. However, if you decide to continue this worthwhile protection, you may do so at these low rates:

Table with columns: Age at Enrollment, Union Fidelity Monthly Renewal Rates, Monthly Premium (Per Person). Rows for ages 0-18, 19-29, 30-39, 40-49, 50-59, 60-69, 70-79.

NOTE: The regular Monthly Premium shown here (for your age at time of enrollment) is the exact amount you will continue to pay for the life of your policy. It will never increase because you own the policy. It is not a "trial" rate. It won't even change because of premium credits or the amount of money you collect. It can change only if there is a general rate adjustment affecting all policies of this type in your state.

How Can We Offer All This Protection for So Little?

If you're lucky, you can buy ordinary insurance at any time and pay regular rates. But NOT—with just a stroke of your pen—you can get Union Fidelity's $100 a week ($14.28 per day) Extra Cash Income Plan for the special low cost shown above. And how is this possible? BECAUSE UNION FIDELITY ENROLLS A LARGE NUMBER OF PEOPLE AT ONE TIME... direct by mail. This highly efficient "mass enrollment" cuts our costs to the bone. We are able to issue thousands of policies in a few short days. By this method our overhead expenses are reduced drastically. And the savings are passed on to you.

And bear this in mind: the rate you pay now will never be increased because of changes in your health—nor will your benefits ever be reduced!

Driver Clear In Fatality

The coroner's office has cleared a Manchester man of any criminal responsibility in the death last summer of a three-year-old boy run over by a truck. Deputy Coroner for Hartford County, Henry Ramonda, said Stephen Howroyd, 19, of 31 Conway Rd., the driver of the truck, was "in no way criminally responsible for the death in that he could not see or know that the deceased was behind the right rear wheel of his truck." The accident occurred last July when the boy, John C. O'Brien, of 25 Tudor Lane, and a friend were playing in the parking lot of a nearby occupied apartment construction site on Tudor Lane. According to the coroner, the boy was dashed behind the right rear dual wheels when the truck struck him. Appearing for Howroyd was Atty. Dominic Squatrito. Atty. Ronald Wright, doing business as McCabe St., conveyance tax $22.

Shown at the junction of the Manchester High School north and west wings is some of the repair work being done on the roof. A portion of the 2,500 lineal feet of gravel stop, raised from five inches to seven, and being placed around the entire interior and exterior perimeters of the quadrangle and along the front of Bailey Auditorium; chipping and stripping of the library and all stair tower roofs; and the visors, which will be covered with Neoprene. The north and south wings have been completely retrofitted, random patching is being done on the east and west wings, and 24 roof vents have been installed. "The company (Potter and Carrier of Hartford) is doing a fantastic job," Theodore Fairbanks, supervisor of buildings and ground, said. Griswold Chappell, former town building inspector, is clerk of the works. Work, interrupted by winter, has been in progress five weeks and should be finished within a month. Fairbanks said. MHS Roof Repairs Will Reach $57,000

Completion of repairs to the Manchester High School roof will run close to $57,000. M. Philip Susag, buildings and sites commission chairman, informed the Board of Education last night. At the April 12 meeting of the board, he estimated the additional cost at $12,000 above the original $45,000 allocation. The contractor, Potter and Carrier of Hartford, submitted a low bid of $57,000 to correct most of the causes of the leaking roof, which has been a problem for a number of years. The extra funds will be needed, Susag said, because more work than was anticipated will have to be done. Insulation over and above what was originally planned has had to be ripped out, he added, because "It was wetter than a soaked sponge."

Work Starts Tomorrow On Highway Widening

Preparatory work for the addition of one lane in each direction on the Wilbur Cross Highway will start tomorrow morning, the State Department of Transportation announced today. The widening project, which will cost about $160,000, according to Joseph Levine of the Transportation Department, the highway will be open to traffic while the alterations are being made.

Susag Reports On Tank Leak

All circumstantial evidence available points to a leak in the Manchester High School oil storage tank as the cause of Bigelow Brook pollution, M. Philip Susag, buildings and sites committee chairman, told the Board of Education at last night's meeting. The oil slick was discovered by Manchester Community College students clearing the river on Thursday during Earth Day.

MCC 'Black Night' Features Skits, Art Works, Panel

Skits, a film, exhibits of black art, displays of Afro-Asian clothing styles and a group discussion will be included in tonight's three-hour program at the Martin Luther King Memorial Center. The program, sponsored by the Afro-American Society of the college, will begin at 7 p.m. in the cafeteria at the Hartford campus. Although there will be no admission charge, donations will be accepted for the Martin Luther King Workshop Fund which is used to provide summer employment for young people in Hartford. The program will begin with a performance by the Carol Manago Black Play Group. Miss Manago is a student at Trinity College in Hartford. According to Douglas Shadd, an MCC student in charge of the event, the skit will deal with the new black man's ideology and how black women see it. Immediately following the skit, a film "The Ghetto" will be shown. A four-member panel will then discuss with members of the audience the reactions to the program. On the panel will be Earl Shepherd, education coordinator of the South African Development Corp. in Hartford; Enoch Lewis from the United Brotherhood of Carpenters; Foster, a senior at Trinity College; and John Brown, director of the Hartford Film Workshop.
