Judges in Russia Convict Nine Jews

MOSCOW (AP)—The nine Jews on trial in Leningrad on hijack plotting charges were all convicted today and sentenced to labor camp terms, Soviet sources reported. The defendants, according to official press accounts, were in the dock for alleged complicity in an abortive hijack attempt or for "anti-Soviet slander." The court reserved the stiffest penalty—10 years of strict regime in a Russian labor camp—for Gilya Butman, a 38-year-old engineer whose role in the planning of the June 15, 1970, hijack attempt was called treasonous by authorities. Mikhail Korenblit, 33, was sentenced to a seven-year term. The Leningrad prosecutor had asked for a 10-year sentence for Butman and eight years of confinement for Korenblit. This was the second Leningrad trial in connection with the hijack attempt that failed. Last December, 11 persons who were to have boarded the 12-seater plane for a flight to Sweden to make their way to Israel, were tried in secrecy. Two were sentenced to death, but the death penalty was later commuted. A 12th man, an army officer, was tried and convicted separately by a court-martial. The court, which operated in virtual secrecy despite the official claim that the proceedings were open, handed down these sentences for other defendants: Lev Yagman, 31-year-old engineer, five years strict regime in a labor camp. It was Yagman's illness which caused postponement of the trial which opened briefly last Jan. 6. It was called off on the first scheduled day, and Western Communists were told by Soviet officials that there would be no more trials of Jews who wanted to leave for Israel. Bullets Fly In Montville; No One Hurt

NORWICH (AP)—A 39-year-old father of four, charged with assault with intent to murder during a three-hour shooting spree at his Montville home Wednesday afternoon, was confined today at a state mental hospital here for observation. State police said the man, John J. Kaiser, had shot at police and at members of his family from his home before he was finally taken into custody when he passed out on a bed. His wife, according to police, said he had been drinking heavily. State Police Commissioner Cleveland B. Fuessenich, who has held the top police post less than two months, led three other troopers into the locked home when the shooting subsided. Fuessenich said they found Kaiser in the bedroom. The shooting started at about

Laotian Retreat Gives Cong New Route to South Vietnam

By GEORGE ESPEE Associated Press Writer SAIGON (AP)—The Royal Laotian Army has abandoned its last outpost on the Bolovens plateau in southern Laos, giving North Vietnam more supply routes down to Cambodia and South Vietnam. Military sources in Vientiane said commanders in southern Laos ordered the evacuation Wednesday of Houei Kong, 300 miles southeast of the Laotian capital, because the isolated outpost could not withstand an expected attack. The sources said the troops withdrawing westward clashed several times with the North Vietnamese, but there were no casualty reports. North Vietnamese forces captured the other two government posts on the Bolovens plateau, the towns of Pak Song and Ban Hotel Sal, on Sunday and inflicted heavy casualties on the defenders. The loss of the plateau is also a blow to the rightist Laotian faction which controls the government forces in the southern panhandle. The rightists' chief holdings now are the Mekong valley and on two sides of the U Minh forest in the Mekong delta. Communiques said 79 of the enemy and 22 South Vietnamese were killed, and 47 South Vietnamese and six Americans were wounded. On the third Indochina battleground, Cambodia, a new drive was reported under way south of Phnom Penh aimed at opening an alternate government supply route from the sea. The U.S. Command disclosed a third "protective reaction" air strike inside North Vietnam this week, the 41st this year. It said two Air Force F4 Phantom

In Connecticut 'No-Fault' Insurance Bill Killed After Senate Debate

HARTFORD (AP)—With a "no-fault" insurance bill killed after a three-hour Senate debate Wednesday, Connecticut's General Assembly is expected to opt now for studying the controversial plan—effectively delaying enactment until at least the next legislative session. The study proposal, which has been supported by some opponents of no-fault insurance, is expected to include a provision authorizing study of Massachusetts' current program. "Why not let Massachusetts be the guinea pig of the nation, instead of Connecticut?" was the way Sen. William Strada, D-Stamford, a no-fault opponent, put it. The measure to adopt no-fault this year was defeated on a 19-14 roll call vote—technically a vote to uphold an unfavorable report given the plan by the Insurance and Judiciary Committees. The plan might have languished in those committees, but its backers got enough signatures to petition it out of committee. So it was issued with the unfavorable report.

Protest Trio Linked To Red Groups

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House Internal Security Committee investigator testified today that subpoenaed bank records show three persons identified as members of Communist groups were in positions to sign checks for two antiwar groups that sponsored massive protests here. Sydney R. Stapleton, listed as president of the National Peace Action Coalition, and Patricia Grogan, identified as that group's secretary-treasurer, were the only two authorized to sign checks and do banking business on the organization's behalf with the Public National Bank of Washington, D.C., said subcommittee investigator John Stratton. He said those two are members of the Socialist Workers Party as identified in SWP publications and have in the past sought public office under that party's banner. Stratton also said Sidney

Cost Put Higher On LBJ Library

By GAYLORD SHAW Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP)—The Lyndon Baines Johnson Library, which dwarfs in concept and size all other presidential libraries, will cost the federal government four times more to operate than the figure given to the Congress that authorized the project. Budget records and interviews with federal officials disclosed the quadrupled annual costs as President Nixon, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and hundreds of veterans from Johnson's Great Society prepared to head for Saturday's dedication of the library on the University of Texas campus. At that time, the General Services Administration will formally take over the library's operation, maintenance and protection, adding these expenses to the National Archives' budget for collating the 31 million documents and other materials—including 600,000 still photographs.

Seale Verdict Possibilities Put at 13

By PETER COWEN Associated Press Writer NEW HAVEN (AP)—Black Panther Chairman Bobby G. Seale, accused of giving an order two years ago this morning for the slaying of a party member, awaited a verdict today from a jury weighing capital charges in his trial with a local Panther leader. The jury of five blacks and seven whites deliberated 3 1/2 hours Wednesday, then retired without reaching a decision in the six-month-old Superior Court trial of Seale and Ericka Huggins. After the start of deliberations this morning, the jury sent a note to the judge asking for a list of possible verdicts in the case of Mrs. Huggins. The judge returned a list of 13 possible verdicts. The jurors later sent a note to the judge and asked if a person is responsible for kidnapping if he "knows of a kidnapping but does not participate in it." The judge conferred with attorneys, called jurors into the courtroom and told them the answer to their question is "No." He then re-read parts of his instruction. The two Black Panthers are charged with kidnapping resulting in death and aiding and abetting murder—both capital offenses—plus conspiracy to kidnap and to murder in the fatal shooting of Alex Rackley of New York City. On Wednesday, Judge Harold M. Mulvey read his charge to the jury, instructing them not to draw inferences from Seale's failure to testify and to consider the possibility that tes-

President Sees SALT Stalemate Breakthrough

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon announced today that the United States and the Soviet Union have agreed to work toward an agreement on limiting antiballistic missiles and on limiting offensive nuclear weapons. In a brief statement on live television and radio, Nixon declared "this agreement is a major step in breaking the stalemate on nuclear arms talks" begun with the Soviets in 1969. Nixon's short announcement—timed with a similar one to be issued by Moscow—gave no details on what breakthrough he anticipated in the U.S.-Soviet Strategic Arms Limitation (SALT) Talks which got underway in Finland in the fall of 1969. In the Soviet Union, an announcement over Moscow radio said the Soviet Union and the United States have agreed to a two-step procedure. U.S. and Soviet negotiators in the SALT talks have decided to seek an accord on antimissile defense before tackling the complex matter of limiting offensive weapons, the Moscow announcement said. The major U.S.-Soviet disarmament negotiations have been stalled over a Soviet proposal to go ahead with a deal just to curb ABMs (antiballistic missiles). The United States has been contending that a SALT agreement should include both offensive weapons such as intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBMs) and ABMs in the same package. Nixon's announcement indicated there may have been some compromise by each side in order to make progress toward an historic agreement to limit the arms race between the two superpowers. But his national broadcast did not spell this out. Further details were expected to be made public by the White House later. The current SALT talks are in Vienna. Nixon has been meeting here this week with Ambassador Gerard Smith, head of the U.S. delegation to the SALT talks, and delegation members. The subject of their talks has been held in strict secrecy. Nixon also met with key members of congress, including Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Nixon acclaimed the agreement as "the beginning of a new era in which all nations will devote themselves not to the weapons of war but to the works of peace." He said the agreement had been reached at the highest level. He did not specify with whom. The Soviet Communist Party leader is Leonid Brezhnev. The prime minister is Alexei N. Kosygin. Nixon, speaking from the White House press room, said "intensive negotiations" must

Sadat Wants U.S. to Order Israelis Off Egyptian Soil

CAIRO (AP)—President Anwar Sadat told the National Assembly today the United States must promptly force Israel to withdraw from Egyptian soil to save the world from a new Middle Eastern war. Sadat called upon the United States to define its position "openly and frankly" in current efforts to produce a peaceful settlement of the Middle Eastern conflict. He said Israeli withdrawal from the Suez Canal must be the first stage in complete withdrawal, "with a defined timetable," from all territory occupied in the 1967 war. Israel opposes complete withdrawal from Egyptian territory unless it can be shown that Israeli security is not endangered. It proposes holding on to Sharm El Sheikh at the tip of the Sinai Peninsula because it overlooks the entrance to the Gulf of Aqaba, Israel's sole southern sea outlet. But more recently the Israelis

Pompidou, Heath Review British Bid to Join Market

PARIS (AP)—Leaders of Britain and France discussed British entry into the European Common Market for 3 1/2 hours today, but there was no indication of how the talks progressed. Prime Minister Edward Heath and President Georges Pompidou unexpectedly extended their first private conversation for an hour, then adjourned for lunch. They sent word that there would be a news blackout, which might extend until the windup of the talks Friday. A related story, offering a question-answer analysis of what the Common Market means is on Page 7. The success of their talks depended largely on the ability of the two leaders to align their policies toward the United States and West Germany. To win Pompidou's backing, Heath had to convince his host that Britain's cooperation with the Americans and Germans would never be at France's expense. In nearly seven hours of discussions today and Friday, the two men were to range over the affairs of Western Europe and its role in the world, the progress of the Brussels negotiations to enlarge the six-nation Common Market, and the long-term political, monetary and economic implications of en-

The Pink House

Set against the common of Woodstock in northeastern Connecticut, Roseland is a study in collecting and living over a century and a quarter.

It is a period piece only at first glance. The Gothic Revival exterior — sometimes known as "Carpenter Gothic," rural Gothic, or Tudor — is maintained throughout the interior, complemented by dashes of French, Italian, Greek, Oriental, and eastern European. The home was built in 1848 by Henry Chandler Bowen, who was born in Woodstock Sept. 21, 1813, as a replacement for a smaller house. The design is the creation of John Wells, New York City architect.

Bowen made his first fortune as a partner in New York City textile firms. He lost it in the panic of 1857. The second fortune was made as editor and publisher of the anti-slavery "Independent."

Married twice and the father of 11 children, Bowen and his family numbered in Woodstock. As one history of the town describes the completed summer residence, "So Henry Bowen tore it (small frame house) down and built a large, ecclesiastical-gothic mansion with pointed arches, latticed windows and fancy chimneys. His favorite color was pink and pink he painted it with wine-red roof and trim. And pink it remains to this day so that it is known far and wide as the Pink House, though he named it Roseland."

The vertical sheathing, scroll-sawn bargeboards, crochets, and trellises are dark red to contrast with the pink of the house. The gable end is parallel to the street and is flanked by porches. The chimney stacks are of glazed pink stoneware in Gothic designs. The quatrefoil pattern of the piered porch columns is the motif repeated in the carving of the parlor furniture.

As one steps through the castellated port-cochere main entrance from the arching driveway, he is in the central hall, off which opens the front and back porches. Each has a deep bay window and window seat, and frosted diamond-shaped red, blue, and green, and violet panes set in millioned casements.

Walls of the parlors are covered with heavily embossed green paper — Lincolniana Walton — imported from England in the 1860's. An octagonal, marble-topped table is in the center of the front parlor, around which are an upholstered parlor furniture.

Ceramic tiles surround the fireplace opening. Carved frieze on the Italian carved marble mantel over the fireplace have bases of cast, gilded metal in the form of a Turkish lady.

Pictures of the Immaculate Conception and Madonna in the front parlor are indicative of changes in attitude toward religion of the wealthy class from the straight-laced Congregationalism of an earlier era.

Between parlors is an arched passage containing two closets and two sliding doors carved in pointed, tri-lobed form.

White a partner in two New York City silk and drapery firms and owner of the "Independent," Bowen became deeply interested in the introduction of Congregational churches. He contributed $10,000 to the church-building society of the Congregational Union and was one of the original founders of the Broadway Tabernacle and the Church of the Pilgrims and Plymouth Church in Brooklyn.

He adopted the anti-slavery views of Arthur and Lewis Tappan and made his fortune as an instrument of the crusade. In 1848, Bowen married Lucy Maria Tappan, daughter of Lewis. She died in 1869. Two years later, he married Ellen Holt, daughter of Dr. Eliram Holt of Pomfret.

During the summers Bowen spent in Woodstock, and for 20 years after his death on Feb. 24, 1888, his grounds on the Pink House and Roseland Park were the backdrop for patriotic declamation and music every Fourth of July. Bowen used the income from "Independent" advertising space to lay out the park.

Workers dumped 900,000 small cartloads of sand along the pond shore. The western shore was laid out with a boathouse, bathing beach, and benches seating 500. Roseland Park was formally dedicated and given to the town on July 4, 1878.

The back parlor served as library and music room.

Doors open from both parlors to a conservatory, or writing room, which faces the street and common. On the desk is a guest book in which are the signatures of four U.S. Presidents and other guests from the worlds of literature, the church, and politics during the last half of the 19th century.

The table in the high-ceilinged dining room at the left of the main entrance is set for four with rose-bordered Limoges china bearing the Bowen monogram; coin silver; water glasses (Bowen was a teetotaler); pink tablecloth and matching napkins. Over one of two heavy sideboards is a painting, probably an old copy of Gilbert Stuart's "Washington at Dorchester Heights." On this sideboard is the Limoges service; and on the other, a Reed and Barton silver set and

Limoges pitcher with Bowen monogram

Guest celebrities arrived by train in Putnam on the eve of the Fourth and were brought to Woodstock by barouches, which is still in the barn at Roseland. In addition to Grant, other Presidents who helped to commemorate the occasion were Benjamin Harrison while he was in the White House, and Rufus B. Hayes and William McKinley as Congressmen. Other notable names are in the guest book were Julia Ward Howe, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Oliver Wendell Holmes, and Gen. George McClellan.

As many as 800 were invited for some of the observances. In addition, the whole town and people for miles around gathered at Roseland Park. "Crowds in a semicircle graduated facing the lake cheered the rolling rhetoric and sentimental poems of those unselfconscious times," an account describes one independence day.

"At night, the place became a fairyland of Japanese lanterns. The day of the "huge punch bowl kept filled all day long with iced lemonade" on the Fourth of July.

Over the fireplace hangs a portrait of Bowen; and on the opposite wall, a portrait of the last inhabitant of the house, Miss Constance Holt, his granddaughter.

As a textile merchant and later as a publisher, Bowen lived on Willow St. in Brooklyn, N. Y. Some mementos of his residency there are in Roseland. Brooklyn Bridge is etched in the downstairs hall light fixture, and framed photographs of the Brooklyn home hang in the bedroom.

Antique feature of Bowen's Brooklyn home was portraits of his children placed mosaic-style in the ceiling of his bedroom. When he left the city, he removed them, and some can still be seen as framed photographs in the bedrooms of Roseland.

The cosmopolitan decor is reflected again in the downstairs bedroom at the end of the hall. Here is a Balmain mountaineer in pasta on a noce base. It is thought to be of French origin.

One of two upstairs bedrooms facing the driveway is called the President's room. Three of four Chief Executives, who visited Roseland for traditional Fourth of July celebrations during Bowen's lifetime, slept there.

From the master bedroom, which is entered at the top of the staircase, and the other front bedroom, doors lead into a child's room built over the downstairs conservatory. The spread in the master bedroom is a replica of one used by Queen Victoria.

The barn and other outbuildings contain the pink and red color scheme of the main house. Between the house and the barn, a garden house in the form of a pedimented Greek temple is set in box hedges that surround the original rose gardens.

It was in the barn on July 4, 1878, that Ulysses S. Grant, one of the Presidential guests, made a stir in his first effort on the one-lane bowling alley. When he was handed another ball and challenged to try again, Grant is reputed to have said a polite "No thank you," lit a cigar, and walked away.

Bowen's ancestor of the same name was one of 18 plantation and plantation holders, sent from Roxbury, Mass. in 1688 to take possession of land for the new town of Woodstock. Judge Samuel Sewall gave the town its name because it was about as near Oxford, Mass. as the royal hunting park and lodge were to the English university town of that name. "It was situated on the 'Connecticut Path' of the period, a link between the Connecticut colonies and Massachusetts Bay settlements.

While a partner in two New York City silk and drapery firms and owner of the "Independent," Bowen became deeply interested in the introduction of Congregational churches. He contributed $10,000 to the church-building society of the Congregational Union and was one of the original founders of the Broadway Tabernacle and the Church of the Pilgrims and Plymouth Church in Brooklyn.

The Best Gift Offered Tricia By Lynda Bird

NEW YORK (AP) — Lynda Bird Robb has offered Tricia Nixon some advice on how to get out of the White House after her wedding, without the press finding out.

Mrs. Robb, the last White House bride and the older daughter of former President Lyndon B. Johnson, interviewed President Nixon's other daughter about her wedding June 12 to Edward F. Cox, a Harvard Law School student.

In the transcript of their tape-recorded conversation, appearing in the June issue of Ladies' Home Journal, Lynda offers to have her husband call Ed and tell him how Lucie and I made it out of the White House.

Referring to the escape approach she and her younger sister used, Lynda said: "Obviously you don't go out any of those big gates."

Tricia called the advice "the best wedding gift you could give us."

St. Bonaventure To Honor Hope

OLEAN, N.Y. (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree from St. Bonaventure University on May 30.

The Very Rev. Reginald A. Redden, university president, said Wednesday Hope will deliver the main commencement address and receive the degree "in recognition of his stature as a great American entertainer and humanitarian."

Hope's wife, Dolores, will receive an honorary doctor of humane letters degree "as an outstanding Catholic and to recognize her work for Catholic charities in the Los Angeles area."

House, Rubiniow Among Speakers On Status of State's Courts

By GENE DUSSEAU (Herald Reporter)

Manchester's Circuit Court, along with the other courts in the state, may well be among those "horse and buggy" mechanics of justice claimed by former Justice Thomas C. Clark to be the major malaise of the Connecticut judicial system.

In a speech last night at a conference of leading non-lawyer citizens who met today and yesterday to appraise Connecticut's Court system, Clark said the problem lies not with personnel, but in the machinery, which he said, "hasn't changed much in 150 years."

Clark decried the overlapping and often conflicting jurisdictions of Connecticut's state courts, the Superior Court, Superior Court, Circuit Court, Court of Common Pleas, Probate Court, and Juvenile Court, and implied a need for their consolidation. That, he said, is one of the three main issues discussed in a two-day seminar on the selection of judges, and judicial performance on the bench.

Organized largely by the Connecticut Citizens for Judicial Modernization, the conference brought together some 120 leading citizens of the state for an intensive critique of the courts and included speeches by Chief Justice of Connecticut Charles J. House, a Manchester resident, and by retired Chief Justice Howard W. Alcorn.

His organizers claim similar conferences recently held in other states have led to sweeping revisions in judicial systems, and Clark, along with the speakers, said the burden of judicial improvement on citizens acting in similar conference-like settings.

Three separate panels of legal authorities from across the country, each team devoted to one of the three main topics, met in a seminar on the selection of judges, and judicial performance on the bench.

One of the major concerns highlighted by the conference was the appalling delay in trial between arrest and disposition of criminal cases. Rubiniow blamed the delay on a congested calendar, caused by a backlog of minor motor vehicle violations, and other matters which he said should not be slipping the courts.

House Raps Over Gavel

By SOL R. COHEN (Herald Reporter)

To most observers, the 30 minutes spent by House members yesterday in debating a "point of order" was a waste of time. But, to the legislators themselves it appeared to be time well spent—in pursuit of a principle.

The action started during a debate of Substitute for H.B. 5445, which provides for the coordination of group relations in the State Board of Education and in local boards of education.

The Democrats, who backed the bill, claimed that no funds were needed for its implementation. The Republicans argued that as much as $28,000 would be needed for coordinators and they submitted a motion for referring the bill to the appropriation committee for study.

The motion lost by a voice vote and House Speaker William Ratchford so declared.

Minority Leader Francis Collins asked for a "point of order," and was allowed to speak. He said that he was requesting a roll call vote on the fact that Ratchford, when he declared the result of the vote, had not banded his gavel. He argued that, by precedent, House Speakers bang their gavel when declaring the result of a vote.

Ratchford ruled that "the point of order" was "out of order," since House rules require only the speaker's declaration of the vote results and make no mention of the banging of the gavel.

Collins then appealed Ratchford's ruling, that "the point of order" was "out of order," since House rules require only the speaker's declaration of the vote results and make no mention of the banging of the gavel.

Dempsey Leads Senior Songfest

By MARGARET HAYDEN (Herald Reporter)

Some 150 Manchester senior citizens sang out loud and clear while John N. Dempsey, former Connecticut governor, energetically led the group in the singing of "Peggy O'Neill" in the auditorium of the Senior Citizens Center after yesterday's luncheon.

Dempsey joked and chatted with the young retirees who served the lunch, low officials of the town, the programs for the retarded and the elderly at the center. He was generous with Irish wit and banter, both of which were happily received.

During the program after the lunch, Dempsey was presented an engraved plaque for his concern for senior citizens and for the mentally retarded.

Dempsey praised Wally Fortin, director of the center and Norman Fendell, who started the meal preparation program for the retarded, for the dedication and their program with a prayer. "Start all your meetings with a prayer," he said. "Prayer your life and America will be the land of the free and the home of the brave."

Looking at the audience he said he saw love, happiness and people helping people. He told about reading to Dr. Dempsy a speech for helping the elderly he had prepared as a freshman state representative. She suggested he replace the word "retired" with "retarded." "We are reserving this part of our life to do what Almighty God wants us to do and to watch what others do," his grandmother told him.

Referring to the retarded, he said, "I see young people sitting there, who have helped themselves. God knows we all need that help."

Assignment Due

A voice vote was taken on the bill itself. Collins, before Ratchford's declaration and claiming the result was in doubt, asked for a roll call vote. Ratchford made a great show of declaring the vote by rapping his gavel.

MANCHESTER EVENING HERALD, MANCHESTER, CONN., THURSDAY, MAY 20, 1971 PAGE SEVENTEEN

Highway Hearing Tuesday

A hearing on a proposed corridor for I-291 which will connect I-81 in Windsor and the Wilbur Cross Highway in Manchester will be held Tuesday, May 25, at 8 p.m. in South Windsor High School auditorium. Members of the Bureau of Planning and Research of the Connecticut Department of Transportation will be on hand to discuss the proposed road and tentative schedules for preliminary engineering, right-of-way acquisition and construction.

The Department of Transportation is recommending a corridor which would begin at I-81 in Windsor near Wolcott Ave., go east over the Connecticut river through the southwest corner of South Windsor, enter Manchester near the junction of the South Windsor-East Hartford-Manchester town lines, and end at the Wilbur Cross in the northwest corner of town.

House Passes Bill Barring I-86 Interchange

The House yesterday, in what may be the first action of its kind in the history of the state, passed a bill which would halt plans for the construction of a spur of I-86, from the Putnam Bridge in Glastonbury to Laurel Lake in Manchester, by way of Silver Lane.

The bill which passed by an overwhelming voice vote, now goes to the Senate for action. An amendment to the bill also approved by a voice vote guarantees that the improvements presently being made to the Wilbur Cross Highway (for the 2.5 miles between Silman Rd., East Hartford, and East Middle Tpk., Manchester) will not be affected and will be completed.

Construction of 8.7 miles of belt highway has been opposed by East Hartford and Glastonbury town officials and residents since 1969, when the State Highway Department unveiled its first plans.

The opposition increased in intensity through many public hearings and after several alternative plans were offered. During this year, several hundred citizens from the two towns conducted a peaceful vigil in the lobby of the State Capitol. They wore black arm bands and left behind them a coffin, bearing the inscription, "Here lies Rt. I-86."

The bill which passed yesterday provides that "no state monies shall be used and no further funds appropriated for the planning, surveying, design, right-of-way acquisition or construction"

Minority Leader Francis Collins warned that passage of the bill would set a precedent that would be duplicated many times in the future. "I'm afraid it would give the legislature power to create a no-man's land — power to stop construction at any time — at the middle as well as at the beginning," he said.

Collins warned also that passage of the bill could mean the loss of about $77 million in federal funds. "That much has been allocated for the project by the government and about $2.6 million of it already has been spent for property acquisition," Collins said.

"It's tradition you're afraid of, it's time we set some tradition on road building," replied Rep. George Hanson of East Hartford. "I'm afraid it's chief sponsor and spokesman for the bill, is an assistant majority leader."

"As for the $77 million," Hanson continued, "we're willing for it to go to some area that wants road construction. If there's anything we don't need in East Hartford, it's highways. Ten per cent of our area is covered by highways. We can sell highways to anyone who wants them."

"I'm ready to vote to avert the taxpayers of America $77 million," Hanson said. "As for the $2.6 million already spent on the bill to us — we'll pay it. Our mayor has pledged that East Hartford would repurchase all land for the road already purchased by the state — even if the town has to float a bond issue."

Also backing the bill were State Reps. Owen Clark of West Hartford, Irving Stolberg of New Haven, and Victor T. King said, "It would be a shame if we lost the $77 million in federal funds. The road deal would make East Hartford the center of Connecticut."

Glastonbury State Rep. Jean Murler Yacovone and Richard Willard said, "Such highways threaten to destroy a community." And T. King said, "Some of the state representatives today were there when Wilbur Cross was governor, and their ideas don't seem to change."

Speaking against the bill were Republicans James Lowell of Collinsville and Edgar King of Farmington.

New Road Could Join Wilbur Cross

A road through East Hartford which would connect the end of I-84 at Spencer St. in Manchester with the Wilbur Cross Highway would probably not be affected if the measure passed by the house yesterday becomes law, according to Earl A. Wood, state transportation commissioner. No date has been set for the completion of this connector Wood said today, because the final design of the road is dependent on whether or not I-86 is built and if so what the final design of that road is.

Wood said that the state has no alternatives to the controversial I-86 proposal.

Four corridors were originally considered for the I-86 project, Wood said, one north of the proposed route through East Hartford, and two south of it through Glastonbury. The new controversial corridor was chosen because it was the least costly and caused the least damage to residential areas, he said.

About $2.6 million has already been spent on the project, according to Wood, $1.3 million

Andover Town To Fete Principal On Retirement

The townspeople of Andover are planning a retirement party for Mrs. Doris E. Chamberlain, principal of the Andover Elementary School for the last 28 years.

Mrs. Chamberlain, who is retiring June 30 after a total of 28 years in the educational field, will be honored at a program scheduled for 2 to 8 P.M. June 28 at the school.

Appointed general chairman was the Rev. Raymond Bradley; Mrs. Marvin Grabow, a former president of the PTA, is in charge of compiling the "Book of Remembrance" which will be presented to Mrs. Chamberlain.

The entire program is under the guidance of the PTA's Executive Committee, which initiated the plans.

In case of rain the party will be postponed to June 27, the following day. Presiding as master of ceremonies will be George Munson and special guest speaker will be Donald Richards.

Every organization in town has been informed of the event and many offers of help have been proffered. The Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts, former students, past PTA officials, teachers who had taught under Mrs. Chamberlain, have all been asked to attend and contribute to the affair.

Church Socialists

Members of the Congregational Church are being asked to consider hours for a new summer schedule in an attempt to accommodate as many of the congregation as possible.

There are currently slips of paper available at the church indicating a choice of times, 9, 9:30 or 10 a.m. for conducting the Sunday worship service at the church during the summer months. Members of the congregation are requested to note their preference on these slips and leave them at the church.

A vote will be taken on May 30, Confirmation Sunday, as to the time accepted, anyone unable to leave his church at the church prior to that date may call any of the church deacons to indicate time preference.

Commensative Pines

Mrs. Mildred Bugbee, secretary of the Congregational Church, stated that the church has received the commemorative plates picturing the church with a brief history on the back.

Although the plates were purchased on an order basis, Mrs. Bugbee indicated that there are still a number of them available anyone interested in purchasing one may do so by contacting either Mrs. Bugbee or the parsonage.

Israeli Rioting 'Worst in Years'

JERUSALEM (AP) — A hundred Jewish "Black Panthers" charging discrimination against Jewish immigrants from Africa and Asia fought street battles for six hours Tuesday with police. Ten policemen and several demonstrators were injured in Israel's worst rioting in years.

Police said they arrested 74 protesters, who claimed that Jews from Africa and Asia are forced to live in slums and are deprived of educational opportunities. The Panthers organized three months ago.

The police had authorized a Panther demonstration at a square in the city but moved in with clubs and water hoses when the demonstrators left the square and marched down a main street. The Panthers responded with a barrage of stones, and they smashed shop windows.

Asian and African Jews have long claimed they are discriminated against by Israelis of European stock who dominate political, economic and military life in Israel. But this was the first serious outbreak of ethnic fighting since 1968, when there was a similar demonstration in Haifa.

Smith on Hot Streak As Red Sox Roll On

REGGIE SMITH

BOSTON (AP)—When Reggie Smith is in one of his hot streaks, nothing seems to slow him down. Batting with a man on second and one out in the seventh inning of a 2-3 game Wednesday night, Smith fouled off a pitch which glanced off his ankle, doubling him up in pain. Trainers Buddy Leroux applied some brief first aid, then one pitcher Smith drilled a shot into the right field bleachers well beyond the 380-foot mark for the game-winning home run in a 7-2 victory over the New York Yankees.

Earlier in the game Smith before raised his batting average to .353. He also has taken over the team lead in homers with three this season. Smith was batting in 23 runs batted in with 22. "Anything you're in a hot streak on, you're on a hot streak," Smith said. "You're just hitting it, and they're falling in for you."

Smith has established himself as a .300 hitter, with averages of .300 and .300 the past two seasons. He hit 29 homers in 1969 and 22 last year.

"Naturally anyone would like to see the Red Sox jumped on Yankee. He's hitting .300, he's hitting the ball, he's hitting the ball," he said. "I'm just trying to hit."

It took eight innings to decide a winner last night at Keeneey Field, but the scrappy Gorman Brothers army hung in there to score three runs in the bottom of the seventh and one more in the eighth to defeat former teammate Gary Waslewski for three insurance runs in the eighth on a solo home by Billy Coniglio (No. 5), a triple by Doug Griffin, a walk and a lead-off double by Steve Blass. The Red Sox then rolled off a 4-2 lead in the ninth.

When asked if he had any other goals for this season, "I'd like to hit better than '69," Smith said. "I'd like to hit better than '69," Smith said. "I'd like to hit better than '69," Smith said.
