MOSCOW (AP) — In a step toward building orbital space stations the Soviet Union's manned Soyuz 11 linked up today with the space Laboratory Saluta launched seven weeks ago and three cosmonauts went aboard.

The two craft together formed a vehicle 60 feet long and 12 feet in diameter weighing 25 tons, Tass news agency said. Its volume was given as 3,521 cubic feet.

"A Soviet manned orbital scientific station is functioning," the agency reported.

The linkup climaxed a chase through space lasting more than 25 hours. Soyuz 11 streaked into orbit Sunday morning and began pursuing Saluta, launched April 19.

The rendezvous, linkup and transfer was a key maneuver which must be perfected if the Soviet Union is to carry out its high-priority goal of building a permanently orbiting space laboratory.

Soviet space scientists envision a network of such space stations circling the earth and manned by crews which could be relieved by transport rockets. The rockets would dock with the station, link up and transfer the crews through air-tight passageways.

Stations like Saluta could serve as the cores of such stations and the transport rockets could link up to them like spokes to the hub of a wheel.

Soyuz weighs 7½ tons and Saluta 17½ tons.

Soyuz 11 was the second Soviet spacecraft to dock with Saluta. On April 24, three cosmonauts aboard Soyuz 10 linked up with the station for 6½ hours, undocked and returned to earth. The Soviet press reported no attempt to transfer cosmonauts.

In Washington, Dr. James C. Fletcher, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, described the mating of the Soviet space station Saluta as a major milestone in the exploration of space.

"It is a clear demonstration of the Soviet Union's continuing interest in manned space flight, and represents a further experiment to determine the value of manned earth orbital operations," he said. "We wish the cosmonauts every success in their mission."

Moscow television reported that the first man in today's linkup was Viktor Patsayev, the crew's 37-year-old civilian test engineer.

Patsayev is a specialist on the docking mechanisms and systems of orbital stations. He trained with Nikolai Rukhovich-Nikrov, the test engineer aboard Soyuz 10.

The second man to go aboard, the television report said, was Vladimir Volkov, the flight engineer. At 35, he is the youngest, but most experienced.

State Budget Stalemate Continues

By DON MEIKLE
Associated Press Writer

HARTFORD (AP) — Gov. Thomas J. Meskill offered a slightly modified version of his original fiscal program Monday, but House Speaker William Ratchford promptly called it "totally unacceptable."

A special session of the General Assembly seemed more likely than ever, and Meskill said he was prepared to call one for Friday. The regular session ends at midnight Wednesday.

Ratchford said there was "no basis for negotiations" and "no basis for compromise" with Meskill's proposal to raise the sales tax to 7 per cent.

Neither side indicated it was going to invite the other side back to the bargaining table, where negotiations broke down that reportedly included a state income tax.

While referring to the Democrats' plans to pass their program—including a tax on personal income from interest, dividends and capital gains—as "a sham and a charade," Meskill said he was not issuing an invitation to negotiate in order to head off passage of a plan that faces certain veto.

Newsmen trying to pin Meskill down on whether there was any chance of his accepting a state income tax found it difficult to do so.

When asked whether there was any conceivable set of circumstances under which he would sign an income tax bill, the Governor replied: "I don't think so." But he quickly added that most supporters of an income tax want more spending, too.

Meskill said he could not cut his budget any lower than the $1,042,000,000 revised figure.

On the other hand, he said he would veto any fiscal package including an income tax if it also meant a "substantial increase" in the budget.

The Democrats' proposed budget is $1,080,000,000, and Meskill said this would be a "substantial increase" over his recommendation.

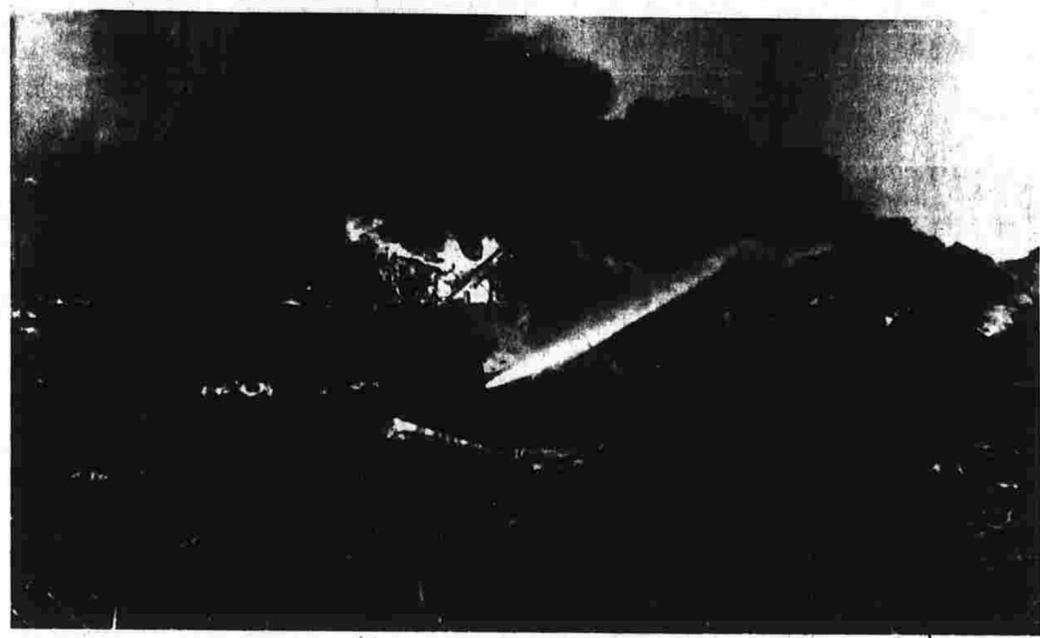

Although Meskill had apparently been willing last week to swallow a state income tax as a compromise with the Democrats, he issued a statement Sunday saying he would not "contemplate to foist an income tax on Connecticut's beleaguered taxpayers."

Meskill also took another shot at the Democrats' proposed tax on unearned income (interest, dividends and capital gains), which the Democrats are preparing to pass and send to his desk, where it faces certain veto.

"I don't intend to be a partner in a program of fiscal automania which cynically concatenates such hard-won and vital

Plane Hits Power Line In New Haven; 28 Die

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — An Allegheny Airlines propjet struck a power line, ripped through some summer cottages and crashed into marshland near Tweed-New Haven Airport Monday, killing 28 of the 31 persons aboard.

Yale-New Haven Hospital said three badly-burned persons were admitted for treatment.

The Convair 440 hit the utility line as it approached the airport in heavy fog, according to airport manager James Malarky.

Five apparently vacant beach cottages near the end of the runway were struck, then the wreckage crashed in two big pieces.

Yale-New Haven Hospital identified the survivors as the copilot, James Walker, 45, of Memphis, Tenn.; Janet McCaa, 28, of Washington; and Norman Kelly, 38, of Waterford, Conn.

Malarky said no one on the ground was hurt.

Allegheny said 28 passengers, including two infants, and a crew of three were aboard the regularly-scheduled flight, which originated in Washington, D.C. Police said it was believed most of the cottages were vacant.

Allegheny headquarters in Pittsburgh at first said 29 persons were aboard, but the passenger list later was revised upward to include two infants.

The plane was Flight 468, which originated in Washington, D.C., and had flown to New London, Conn. It was to have continued on to Newport News, Va., following the stop at New Haven.

Most of the bodies were found still strapped in their seats in the burned fuselage. Another large piece of the plane was found about 150 feet away.

At Midday, rescue workers were waiting for the plane's and air race accidents over the weekend in three separate locations.

Police said he was an experienced pilot. He was flying a Bucherjurgensetter, a one-seat aerobatic plane, when he crashed into a sand and gravel pit near the field where the air show was taking place. He was from New Haven, where he owned an auto body shop, police said.

The show was sponsored by Interstate Aviation of Plainville, which runs charter airplane flights and a flying school at an airfield owned by Stan Robertson.

A witness to the mishap, Ev Cassegrone of Cheshire, who is a pilot for a New Haven architectural firm, described the accident this way:

"He came over the field rather slow in an inverted position and I could tell right away he was going to start an inverted spin, which is a precision aerobatic maneuver.

"And as he started, I thought 'Well, all the shows I've been in myself and seen around the country, well, he was pulling a rather low altitude for an inverted spin. He should have been at least another 300 or 400 feet or maybe 500 feet higher.'"

"He entered the spin and did two complete turns and I had to duck."

She said the two-engine plane then hit the wires near the beach yard and did "sort of a turn, then came down and exploded."

Martin Patricelli of East Haven said he saw a body fly out of the plane and land in a pond of water, "waving his hands feverishly."

The crash "looked and sounded like an atomic explosion," said Nancy Palmieri of East Haven, who said she heard three explosions as the plane hit the end of the runway.

Joseph Horowitz, manager of a beach club near the crash scene, said he heard the plane

Crash Kills Stunt Pilot In Plainville

PLAINVILLE (AP) — Gilbert Gillette, a stunt pilot, was killed at an air show Sunday as he attempted an aerobatic maneuver, then was unable to pull out of a nosedive.

Gillette, in his early 40s, was the sixth pilot killed in air show and air race accidents over the weekend in three separate locations.

Police said he was an experienced pilot. He was flying a Bucherjurgensetter, a one-seat aerobatic plane, when he crashed into a sand and gravel pit near the field where the air show was taking place. He was from New Haven, where he owned an auto body shop, police said.

Jets Collide Over California; Only One Survivor Found

BY MIKE GOODMAN
GEORGE KRIMSKY
Associated Press Writers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A jetliner carrying 49 persons cartwheeled "like a shooting star" into a mountain region and exploded after a collision with a Marine jet fighter. The only known survivor was one of the two crewmen aboard the military plane.

The Sunday night crash of the Hughes Air West DC9 was the worst civilian plane disaster in California history. And it was the first crash in the United States of a scheduled airliner in more than a year.

The radar interception officer of the Marine F4 Phantom jet parachuted to safety after the in-flight collision east of here.

He was the only reported survivor, but a helicopter pilot later reported sighting a parachute which he said he believed to be that of the pilot of the F4. It was sighted near the wreck of the fighter plane.

Ed Sprull, a county fire battalion chief who spent the night on the mountain, said the survivor told him the naval plane saw the other craft and attempted an evasive maneuver but it was too late.

He did not elaborate but it was the first indication that fliers of either plane saw an impending collision.

Nine bodies were spotted from helicopters in the wreckage of the twin-engine airliner, which crashed into a deep gorge in two pieces and was still smoldering hours after the disaster.

Wreckage was spread over a mile-square tree-studded area.

Fire officials and sheriff's deputies who flew over the wreckage before darkness fell said they were convinced no one aboard the DC9 could have survived.

Gary Butters, 17, a Duarte High School student, rode his motorcycle into the mountains to where he said he could see the jetliner wreckage. He said he saw no signs of survivors.

"Most of the people were thrown up the sides of the gully, maybe 200 yards from the plane," Butters said, "but some were still strapped in their seats."

A Sierra Madre Search and Rescue Team member, Miner Hartness, 41, flew over the crash site in a sheriff's helicopter.

"The commercial jetliner was completely blown apart," he said. "The only thing you could recognize was the tail section. The whole area was on fire—the 'see and be seen' rule."

Washington's major airlines without a fatality on a regular jet flight, a safety stretch without precedent in modern aviation history.

It was the last disaster, an 83-death collision between an Allegheny jet and a student pilot's plane near Indianapolis, Ind., in the fall of 1969, that touched off both an intense study of mid-air crashes and the safety quarrel.

The dispute involves the National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB), an independent agency which investigates accidents, and the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), the agency that writes the safety rules and controls the nation's air traffic.

The NTSB blamed the Indianapolis disaster on what it called gaps in the FAA's control of air traffic. It said the old "see and be seen" rule is, in the NTSB's words, "totally unacceptable" today in airport areas where jetliners are mixed with private planes flying visually.

The FAA issued a 10-page reply saying the pilots of the two planes still had the responsibility to see and avoid each other.

But the NTSB repeated its arguments in March against mixing the two types of air traffic near airports, in a bulky study of the mid-air collisions that contained the ominous 10-year death prediction.

The strained gulf between the NTSB and the FAA has been growing recently. The NTSB has been publicly critical of the FAA in a number of its reports. Privately, FAA officials, from the agency's top man on down, have been heard to accuse the NTSB of both headline-grabbing and power-grabbing.

Senate Tables Draft Debate For Secret Confab on Laos

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the Senate put aside its marathon draft debate for a secret session on U.S. operations in Laos, its Democratic leader said today it is doubtful Congress will set a deadline for U.S. withdrawal from Southeast Asia.

Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., who advocates legislation to compel withdrawal, said that means only President Nixon can set a pullout date. The President has said repeatedly he will not set or agree to any withdrawal deadline.

"All we can do up here is to express an opinion," Mansfield said. "He has to make the choice."

The Vietnam withdrawal measure is to be offered as an amendment to the draft extension bill. Mansfield said the Senate outlook is problematical, but the situation in the House indicates the measure would not become law anyhow.

He said he considers it necessary to set a pullout date to gain the release of U.S. prisoners of war.

"I think the most effective date of all would be the day after the Vietnamese elections next fall," he said.

Mansfield said it now appears it will be "awfully tough" for Congress to complete action on the draft extension before the current law expires June 30.

And he said it would be difficult to gain the Senate votes necessary to limit the debate.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., requested today's closed session, charging the United States is spending hundreds of millions of dollars in Laos on military operations "without congressional sanction and outside the normal appropriations process."

Only senators are permitted at secret sessions. Today's was the seventh in recent years, including two on the safeguard antiatomic missile and one in December 1969—just before the Senate voted to bar U.S. combat ground troops from Laos and Thailand.

A provision enacted last year bars U.S. financial support of foreign troops to help the governments of Laos and Cambodia. But the prohibition excepts actions related directly to aiding withdrawal of U.S. forces

House Action Expected On State Lottery

HARTFORD (AP)—The House is expected to act today on a bill that would legalize horse-racing, create an Off-Track Betting system and set up a state lottery.

The bill was stalled in Saturday's session over arguments about patronage possibilities of the proposed state gambling commission.

Meskill is on record in favor of the bill, but patronage considerations have cast a cloud over the measure's chances of finding its way into the statutes.

Under one of the 129 bills passed Saturday by the House stores in Connecticut would have to display the "unit price" of food and other merchandise.

The "unit price" is the price of goods per ounce, pound, pint or quart. The bill was passed and sent to the Senate Saturday.

The House also defeated a move to abolish the State Highway fund by merging it with the General Fund.

Many Republican opponents of the bill said they could have gone along with the expansion of the fund to include all forms

Old Flying Rule Triggers Safety Agencies' Dispute

By JAMES R. POLK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government efforts to end deadly mid-air collisions have become caught in a fight between two safety agencies over an old flying rule left over from the Lindbergh days—the rule of "see and be seen."

In a jet age with airliners flying 600 miles an hour, a safety board is questioning whether a pilot's eye is fast enough to rely upon to see and avoid collisions.

The latest disaster that killed 49 in a crash between an Air West jet and a Marine Corps fighter plane Sunday near Los Angeles met all the classic conditions:

Clear, sunny skies. A crowded airspace, flying under radar rules, only a few minutes away from its airport. Another plane slipping along by visual rules—what the radar people call "unknown traffic." Failure to spot it soon enough. Death.

The tragedy added to an already grim list of numbers:

—Mid-air collisions have resulted in nearly two-thirds of all deaths, 240 out of 396, in U.S. jetliner crashes over the past four years.

—Almost once a day, somewhere in the nation, another jetliner has a close brush with a private plane in what the government labels a "near-miss."

The study containing these statistics cited Los Angeles as the most dangerous area, New York second.

In the next 10 years, another government study predicts, 528 persons will die in airline disasters in midair if today's odds aren't reduced.

The Los Angeles crash ended nearly two years for the na-

Million Angry New Yorkers Stalled at Drawbridges

NEW YORK (AP) — The men who tend the city's drawbridges pulled a surprise walkout today, blocking motorists at more than two dozen river crossings and locking an estimated million people in hopeless traffic snarls.

The strikers' angry over delays in approval of proposed new pension agreements, took key parts with them and made it impossible for the bridges to be closed.

With 28 of 29 bridges locked in their open position, cars and buses approaching the heart of the city had to make their way over the few stationary bridges that cross the waterways around the island of Manhattan.

Aggravating the inbound and outbound snarls were city trucks abandoned by their drivers on key roadways in support of the walkout.

The trouble began at 6:30 a.m. and as the morning commuter crush grew cars and buses were backed up into Westchester County to the north,

Long Island to the east and New Jersey to the west.

The city, which moved for a court order to stop the strike, obtained a temporary injunction. Signed shortly after noon by a state Supreme Court justice, it barred interference with the operation of the river spans.

The city's water resources commissioner announced that the entire 600-man emergency repair crew of the Bureau of Water Supply had joined the walkout. They are responsible for responding to emergencies such as water main breaks and with performing preventive maintenance.

The union said that a million cars a day use the drawbridges. There were no official estimates of the numbers of people delayed but workers were arriving hours later at the offices. Delivery trucks were blocked and Fire Department vehicles were stalled in the traffic. No

Enemy Attacks Driven Back By South Vietnamese Units

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese forces guarding infiltration routes along their northern frontier drove back three North Vietnamese assaults and engaged the enemy in a fourth battle during the weekend.

The allied commands estimated that 298 North Vietnamese were killed in massive U.S. and South Vietnamese air attacks and ground fighting Saturday and Sunday at half a dozen points south of the demilitarized zone. South Vietnamese headquarters said its forces captured 27 heavy weapons and 44 rifles from the battlefields.

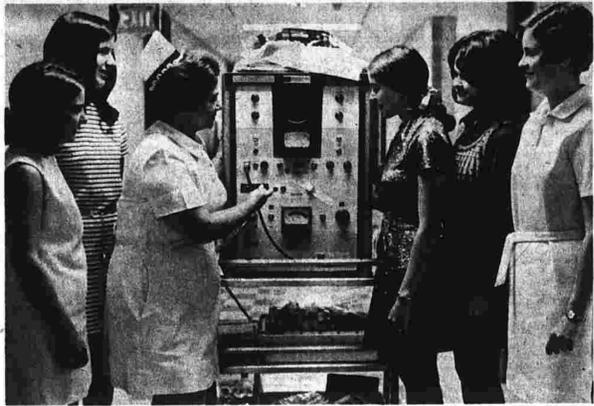

Six South Vietnamese soldiers were reported killed and 53 wounded in the fighting. No American ground troops were involved, the U.S. Command said.

The enemy shelled Da Nang early today for the third time in nine days. Three 122mm rockets apparently meant for the Da Nang Air Base smashed into the base shortly after midnight, killing three Vietnamese civilians and wounding 10, the South Vietnamese Command said.

Three more of the 100-pound missiles fell inside the air base but caused no casualties or damage, the U.S. Command said. The U.S. Air Force has a wing of F4 Phantom fighter-bombers at Da Nang flying bombing raids against the Ho Chi Minh trail.

Five Named Recipients Of Student Nurse Loans

Four Manchester High School senior girls and a student at Manchester Community College have been named 1971 recipients of loans that will help to finance their preparation for careers in nursing.

They were selected for the $700 awards from among 17 potential applicants. The loans are made available each year through a Manchester Student Nurse Loan Fund sponsoring committee.

The winners are the Misses Carolyn Haberman of 25 Birch St., daughter of Mrs. Norman L. Muller and William Haberman; Carol Guillemette of 63 Hemlock St., daughter of Orlin Guillemette of Canada; Patricia Lane of 139 Thompson Rd., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph James; Elizabeth Marie Thurston of 820 Spring St., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Thurston; and Carol Ann Strong of 17 Griffin Rd., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Strong.

Mrs. Marie Ritchie, R.N., assistant head nurse in the special care unit of the hospital's new East Wing, explains to nurse loan recipients the use of mobile equipment that monitors cases of cardiac arrest. The girls, from left, are Carol Guillemette, Patricia Lane, Elizabeth Thurston, Carolyn Haberman and Carol Ann Strong. They will return to MMH after completing their training.

Trinity Chooses Cohen As Capital Area Scholar

Joseph S. Cohen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sol R. Cohen of 51 Jordt St., has been named a Capital Area Scholar by Trinity College. The honor carries a $2,700 stipend for the freshman year and is renewable.

In notifying the recipient of his selection, Dr. Theodore D. Lockwood, Trinity president, said, "These scholarships are limited to approximately ten students in Greater Hartford and are among the finest awards at the college. We are just delighted that your fine qualifications put you in the final selection."

Members of the Capital Area Scholarship Selection Committee were Robert R. Ebert, publisher of the Hartford Times; Ostrom Ebert, retired chairman of the Hartford National Court; and Edward Suisman of Suisman and Bimfahl, Inc. of Hartford.

Joseph, whose father is a political reporter and State Capitol correspondent for The Herald, is a candidate for graduation from Manchester High School in June 22. This year he is literary editor of "Artisan," the student art and literary magazine, after serving on the staff two years. He has been a member of the American Field Service Club two years, a historian and student representative to the town committee, and was a finalist in the selection of an exchange student to spend this summer abroad.

He has been a member of the Round Table Singers three years; Announcers' Club two years and president this year; Fulk Club three years; and is a Student Council representative and member of the F. A. Vespers Chapter of the National Honor Society. He was a member of the All-Connecticut State Chorus in 1969, and last year received the Harvard Book Prize.

Outside school, Joseph is a member of Young Judea Group and United Synagogue Youth of Temple Beth Shalom. In 1969, he was on the staff of Jimmie-Jimmie Productions, which staged summer plays, and has been active in the Vote 18 Movement.

Tolland County Dairy Judging Team Picked

A team of four young people has been chosen to represent the Tolland County 4-H'ers in the dairy judging contest to be held at the University of Connecticut on July 14.

Those chosen were: Audrey Aborn, Sherwood Aborn, Ellington; Randy Kieger, Vernon and Lori Meloch, Bolton with Judi Lipton of Somers chosen as an alternate.

This team will compete on the state level with 4-H'ers from other counties and those who do the best will then judge at the Eastern States Exposition in the fall.

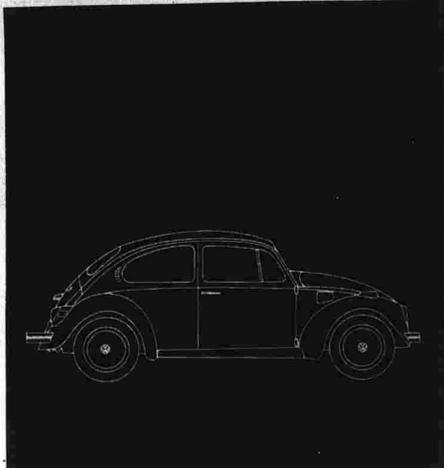

Several new County 4-H Clubs have been formed recently. In Coventry a garden club has been formed, led by William Hunt; in Hebron, the K-9 dog club, led by Mrs. Audrey Wolcott and Mrs. Gloria Stewart; in Somers, The Preservers, led by Mrs. Janet Foxe, a sheep club, led by Loyd Madden and Millard Rolston and a dog club led by Mrs. Georgine Thomson.

Four new Clover Clubs have also been organized: In Coventry led by Paul Stotter, Jr. and one led by Mrs. Carol Busby and in Willington, one led by Miss Moore Ray and one by Mrs. Melvin Willis.

The Twilight 4-H Horse Judging meeting will be held tomorrow night starting at 6 at the Sue Smith stables in Coventry on Rt. 44A.

The Annual Tolland 4-H Fair Day will be held Saturday at the Tolland County Agricultural Center, Rt. 30 Vernon.

Tolland 4-H members and clubs will set up exhibits and programs throughout the day. Some of the highlights will be a talent show, a debate, a schooling horse show and a chicken barbecue. The fair is open to the public.

The best idea to come out of Detroit in years.

Limitation is the sincerest form of flattery, someone once said. And never before has our modest car been on the receiving end of so much flattery.

What with the Big 3 auto makers coming out with a little 3. And one even promising not to change designs for five years. Of course, it won't always like this.

Take 1949, for instance. The only people who liked the Beetle then were the two who bought it.

But being first with an idea also has its advantages. Nobody, for example, has the experience we have, working on a single small car.

We've had the time to test our ideas. And improve it thousands of times. And refine it thousands of times. Every step the others take, we've been through before.

In fact, it's kind of funny now. Watching the makers of 425-horsepower engines try to catch up with a Volkswagen.

Pre-Nuptial Chores Keep Ed Going

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tricia Nixon spent a quiet weekend with her family and Edward Cox readied their two-bedroom apartment as preparations for their White House wedding Saturday proceeded on schedule.

Everything but the weather seemed under control.

Tricia and her parents spent the weekend at Camp David, the presidential retreat in the Maryland mountains.

Cox moved out of his bachelor quarters at Cambridge, Mass., and put some of his possessions into the apartment he and Tricia will occupy next fall. He is a student at Harvard Law School.

The couple will live in New York this summer. Cox has a $60-a-week job in the U.S. attorney's office there, starting probably about June 22. He was one of 70 law students selected for the coveted job.

Tricia, in a Time magazine interview, expressed qualms about moving from the privacy of the White House into a town such as Cambridge.

"In a place like Cambridge," she said, "you're always going to be on display."

She also disclosed Cox was her "first love."

"And we always knew how we felt about one another," she said. "We just thought this was the right time."

The White House said the only major problem remaining in the wedding is the weather. The wedding is scheduled outside in the Rose Garden but inclement weather could force a move inside to the East Room.

The wedding cake was successfully baked Saturday. Despite troubles reported with a scaled-down version for home baking, the White House cake turned out fine.

"It looks fine," and it tastes "very good," Mrs. Nixon said, deputy director of press relations for Mrs. Nixon.

Chief of staff Henry Halper, pastry chef Maurice Bonte of New York will set together the giant six-foot-tall cake structure in the next few days.

Ready to go into satin scarves boxes are squares of the lemon-flavored, old-fashioned pound cake. These have given to 400 wedding guests.

Other details also were reported Saturday.

Designer Priscilla Kildner of Boston will arrive Thursday with a seamstress to make any necessary last-minute alterations in wedding gowns.

Floral consultant J. Liddon French will arrive from Philadelphia Wednesday to supervise the "bever of flowers" that will decorate the wedding scene.

Cox' bachelor dinner and a rehearsal dinner are scheduled Thursday and Friday.

Andover Cadette Scouts Will Entertain Their Parents

Cadette Girl Scout Troop 801 has arranged a Parents Night for this evening at 6:30 at the Andover Elementary School.

Troop Leader Mrs. Paul Prinsdale and Assistant Leader Mrs. Henry Parkington will show slides featuring the troop activities in the past year.

Also on tonight's agenda will be the making of plans for the weekend trip to the Presidential cottage in Newport.

Cadettes planning to make the trip or who need further details must attend the meeting.

Miss Regina Adams and the Misses Nina and Christine Prinsdale have recently returned from a Cadette Conservation Weekend sponsored by the Connecticut Trails Council of the Girl Scouts at Camp Townshend in Morris. Other such conferences will be held in the fall.

Senior Girl Scouts

An organizational meeting for a Senior Girl Scout troop to serve the towns of Andover, Hebron and Marlborough, will be held Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the Hebron Congregational Church.

Selected to act as advisor for the fledgling troop is Miss Mary Berringer, a member of the Hebron High School faculty.

Mothers Club

The Andover Mothers Club will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Algona Roberts on Hebron Rd.

The evening's program will be sponsored by the Tolland County Extension Service, with member-at-large Mrs. Roberts presenting a canning, freezing, canning and freezing techniques, while Mrs. Nadia Hillman and Mrs. Jean Person will demonstrate preparation of frozen foods and meals.

In charge of refreshments for the evening, which will consist of frozen products, are Mrs. Frances Roberts and Mrs. Frances Mills.

The Wednesday night program is open to all.

Boleteria Board

Monday: 6:30 p.m. Orange No. 78 Potluck supper at the old town hall on Rt. 6; 8:30 p.m. Cadette Girl Scout Troop Parents Night at the elementary school.

POW Families Head for Hanoi

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Two Wichita women are heading for what they hope will be their second meeting with North Vietnamese officials.

Mrs. Ann Howes and Miss Maureen Smith, representing the Forgotten Americans Committee of Kansas, Inc., left for Paris Sunday. They spent 10 days there in March, and expect to be gone 21 days this time.

They are hopeful that blank film and tapes they left with the North Vietnam officials earlier this year has been used to record the voices and photos of American prisoners of war.

The women said they also plan to file for visas to Laos.

Object of Search Merely Visiting

MONTREAL (AP) — While police were searching across Quebec province for Johanne Wagner, 16-year-old daughter of former Quebec Justice Minister Claude Wagner, she was staying with a girl friend.

She returned home Saturday night when she heard of the search, police said.

Police began looking for the girl after she disappeared shortly before noon Thursday from the convent school she attends.

She had asked her father to pick her up at a corner store and had not told her parents of her change of plans.

First Mishap

STAFFORD, Va. (AP) — Only minutes after she'd received her driving license from Juvenile Court Judge Francis Gouldman, a 16-year-old Stafford County girl was back in court.

She had something to tell the judge—personally.

On the way out of the parking lot back of the courthouse here, the car she was so proudly driving had struck another car — Gouldman's.

"It was just a little bump," she said tearfully, and she could find no damage at all.

The judge left the bench to console her.

"That car is seven years old, has been driven 8,000 miles and has been bumped before," he said. "One more little bump won't hurt it."

Gouldman, who wouldn't identify the girl, sent her happily on her way.

Border Peace

TEGUIGUALPA, Honduras (AP) - Honduras' new president, Ramon Ernesto Cruz, has been inaugurated with a pledge to seek a settlement favorable to his nation in its long border dispute with El Salvador.

The two nations fought for five days in July 1969 in a war ended only after the Organization of American States stepped in.

Manuel Antonio Soto, president of the Honduran Catholic Church, said he would support Cruz's efforts to bring about a settlement of the border dispute.

Priest Declines Bay State Race

ROSTON (AP) - Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass., the only Roman Catholic priest in Congress, says he won't run for the U.S. Senate seat in Massachusetts next year because it would be "too hard for the voters to sort out their prejudices."

Drinan told a television interview Sunday that a contact with Sen. Edward Brooke, the only Negro in the Senate, is expected to seek a second term next year.

South Windsor Councilmen Mull New Swim Area

At its 8 p.m. meeting tonight, the Town Council will hear a report by the council's committee on Capital Improvements.

Deputy Mayor Warren Westbrook will make the report in the absence of chairman of the committee, Mrs. Jane Romagnolo.

For over two years, the council has been considering the need for more swimming facilities. When it became known that plans for the proposed new high school included a pool, the Council deferred action on the matter.

However, in June of 1970, the high school question was defeated in a referendum. The council has considered the possibility of additional outdoor swimming areas in the east end of town and in the western section.

The subcommittee was formed to gather information on types of facilities, possible locations, etc. The committee has met with officials in West Hartford and East Hartford and are convinced that an indoor pool should be near a high school to assure maximum use.

Presently, the land across from the South Windsor High School has never been built on. However, the Board of Education has a portion of the site will be used for a football field.

On the agenda also is consideration of fee changes for the Veterans' Memorial Park, the only park and swimming pool in the town, this year, vandals caused a great deal of damage.

The council will also act on resignations of two town officials, Charles Wiles of the Industrial Development Commission and Joseph Adams from the Capital Improvements Committee.

It will act a time and date for public hearing to accept King St. as a public highway, P20 Hearing.

The American Legion will sponsor a fireworks display in Manchester again this year and again it will be held at Mt. Nebo.

It was assumed by most citizens that the display held last year at Mt. Nebo would be the last there, because of the opening of the new I-94 nearby. However, when it was evident that the opening would be delayed beyond July 4, the Legion obtained permission for the display.

Francis O'Connell, commander of the Manchester Legion Post, announced plans for the display today and said that he has appointed Hugh F. Ward of 9 Evergreen Rd. as chairman.

The fireworks will be shown on the night of July 4 unless it rains. If it does, the display will take place the night of July 5.

Funds for the event are obtained from contributions at the gate and by direct solicitations from citizens. The Legion has asked for contributions to make the display possible.

O'Connell thanked town and state officials and Arute Bros. road contractors, for their help in arranging the event.
