(AP) - President Nixon's surprise announcement that he will visit Communist China brought followup word from the Western White House today that the trip will take place well in advance of next May 1.

In announcing Thursday night that he had accepted an invita-tion from Premier Chou En-lai to go to Peking, Nixon said the ourney would be undertaken before next May.

A White House source who de clined to be quoted by name said this was an outside dat and that he would expect the trip to occur much sooner, alhough -- not necessarily this

The President said the prime purpose of his mission would be to seek a "normalization" of re ations between the United States and mainland China. The visit, was arranged last weekend by Chou and Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's adviser for national security affairs, who made a secret stop in Peking during an 11-day trip around the world. Kissinger did not meet while Nixon's disclosure drew a quick protest from Taipel, where Nationalist Chinese leaders were called into an emergency meeting. "The Chinese government has lodged a strong protest to the government of the United States," Chinese spokesman James Wei said after the session. The Nixon journey is expected to have an impact on the 1972 presidential campaign in the United States and may have an influence on the search for a negotiated peace in Vietnam.

Now it is more widely assumed than ever that the Nixon administration will not challenge the bid this fall for admission of mainland China, to the United Nations.

In fact, the chief executive's reference to "normalization of relations" seemed to suggest that his visit to Peking will be climaxed by establishment of full diplomatic relations between the United States and the Communist government which took over mainland China 22 years ago. Said Nixon, "I will undertake what I deeply hope will become a journey for peace-peace not just for our generation, but for future generations on this earth we share together." The President quoted from a joint announcement, made simultaneously in Peking. "Knowing of President Nix-

AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE ABOUT YOUR TELEPHONE SERVICE

Although there is a work stoppage, we are doing everything possible to provide uninterrupted service.

Because of the greatly reduced work force, there may be serious delays on operator-handled calls. Here are some suggestions to help you get the best possible service:

Dial your own long-distance calls if possible. Don't make calls requiring operator assistance.

Please look in your telephone directory for local numbers. Don't call Directory Assistance (411).

Please call our repair service and business office only in emergencies, since telephone installation and repair work will be greatly curtailed

Keep your fire, police and other emergency numbers readily available.

We regret this temporary inconvenience to our customers, and are doing every thing we can to serve you as well as possible.

The President Plans A Trip The direction of President Nixon's China policy must be applauded; he himself has matured so he can finally share Dwight Eisenhower's common sense instinct to treat China as we would normally treat any other similar nation: he has the courage to make normalcy moves John F. Kennedy might never have risked and Lyndon Johnson might never have wished to try.

It is, then, a striking picture, that of this supposedly conservative Republican President, an early hawk with regard to IndoChina, his own political career largely founded on anti-Communist poses and actions, now leading the way toward a possible new friendship between his country and the Communist behemoth on the Asian mainland. It is one more demonstration, this time perhaps an encouraging one, that people don't always get what they think they are voting for.

And to give the new policy move an exciting, dramatic flair, there has even been a demonstration that, even in these gossipy, spying days it has been possible to plan and keep a secret -like that of Dr. Kissinger's trip to Peking - a secret for several days.

All these plus notes having been ed. Any student of the experience of our imes-or of any time, for that matter -must realize how dangerous and unpredictable the practice of personal diplomacy can be. President Kennedy felt himself abused and bullied by Khrushchev at Vienna and came home making gestures of mobilization. Khrushchev went home and soon had missiles heading toward Cuba.

It is a pretty difficult thing for the man in the White House, whoever he happens to be, not to think that his own personal touch may be the thing that helps history along in the right direction; it is the high level meeting, handed down from King Richard and Saladin through Napoleon and Alexander, which , inevitably captures the imagination of wouldbe peacemakers.

No one would say to President Nixon, don't go to Peking. Yet subsequent. developments may make people wish he had not pledged himself to go. And the more important point is that there are always less spectacular and perhaps sounder ways of working toward a sound policy goal.

Such reservations, again, must yield to a strong general approval of the direction the President is taking. . May strength, discretion and good luck accompany all his journey toward the jour-

A Victory, On Schedule

Once again, this year with a little more publicity than usual because other theaters of the war are relatively quiet, the C.I.A. trained native forces in Laos have advanced into the Plaine des Jarres and taken it over from the Communistled Pathet Lao forces which had 'been holding it during the winter.

The system is that, with the advent of every rainy season, the forces on our side in Laos advance into this region usually without very much trouble be cause the native forces on the other side have retired without offering any resistance.

Come October, and the return of the dry season to the region, and the Pathet Lao forces will, if the pattern of other without too much real fighting either. years is followed again, return, and the forces friendly to us will retire, probably Conceivably, this year, the C.I.A. may be setting up something different, like a determined effort, next fall, to hold the region against the Pathet Lao's return But the chances are that the rou will persist.

It has been, in its oriental way, not a bad system for waging a war. Each side scores a victory and occupies a piece of territory once a year. The exercise, although relatively bloodless, seems to satisfy as much of a genuine fighting instinct as the Laotians can rouse up among themselves in response to their C.I.A. or their Communist advisers.

Additive Errors

Please take our word for it, without involved explanation that might be apted, that the federal government's latest official guidelines on the safe consumption of a certain food additive resulted from an error in the location of decimal point in the government's calculations.

The error, although now discovered and although on the side of laxity toward possible danger to human beings, is apparently going to be allowed to continue, so far as its effects are concern-

One notes, also, that the great unofficial guardian of the nation's consume welfare committed error in one of his pieces of public testimony the other day. le was engaged in the assertion that ertain kinds of toothpaste containing a ertain additive have a certain effect on teeth. His error consisted in naming, as samples of such toothpastes, two brands which no longer contain the additive in question.

One point is that there can be, in the process of safeguarding us, such a thing as an error.

What is still more sensational is that such an error can occur, not only inside some benighted government bureau, but outside government, within the rival bureaucracy of the self-appointed crusader who makes a whole career investigating the mistakes of others.

A Cautious, Mixed Verdict

Both those who applaud and those who are made anxious by the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States i he case of the Pentagon papers shou take notice that the court by no mean authorized an unbridled press.

The decision itself was on narro unds. Judgment was passed only o the question of whether in this case the government had made its claim of posclear as to justify "prior restraint." The court, by a vote of 6-to-3, said that he government had not made a good

Thus the first attempt in the history of the United States by the executive branch of the government to prevent newspapers from printing what they choose to print was turned back by the l branch of the same government But the court did not say that the government may never in the future resort o "prior restraint." It left open for the future a set of rules or standards concerning what the government might properly prevent newspapers from pub-lishing. It recognized that prior restraint or precensorship would be perfectivy proper even in peacetime against 'information that would set in motion a nuclear holocaust" or in wartime against information about war plans and

And there is nothing whatever in the lecision that frees the press from the normal legal penalties for doing wrong. The First Amendment to the Constitu tion prevents precensorship except in the extreme cases which the court now recognizes, but it does not give newspapublishers and editors immunity prosecution for wrongdoing. They are liable for what they print .If print slander they must pay up or go to jail or both, depending on the case. I they incite to riot, commit larceny or in any other way break the law they are subject to the consequences courts of law. And if they offend the sense of propriety of the community they will lose advertising and circula tion, and disappear from sight as thouands of newspapers have disappeared The press in the United States enjoys special right and privilege under the stitution, but it is not above the law. It is not immune from controls by government and people. It is not unwatched, unrestrained, and unguarded. Nor has the 6-to-3 verdict in this case reduced in any way the restraints on the

On the contrary the verdict includes an implicit invitation to the government and press to try to work out a set of ules which will reduce the uncertainty about where the line can safely t drawn between the freedom to print and he right of government to conduct the business of government in reasonabl privacy. Whether a set of rules can be written is another matter. It would be extremely difficult if not impossible. Perhaps the attempt should be made .But the important thing for the moment is that the ssential freedom of the press to print ithin reasonable restraints and limits een affirmed without any wider ing of the reasonable restraints and

In truth, the court was conservative i the sense that it conserved by its dec sion the system which has prevailed in the United States from the foundation That system, by and large, has work ed remarkably well. WASHINGTON - Behind President Nixon's seemingly imperturbable decision to stand out a tax cut is a terrifying forecast from his chief budget expert that the deficit for the new fiscal year just begun might reach the outlandish

That unbelievable possibility was reported to Mr. Nixon by George Shultz, director of the Office of Management and Office of Management and Budget (OMB), during the Nixeconomic team's Camp Daid session that decided to take no action about the sluggish economy. Indeed, the unprece-dented, uncontrolled rise of reda why the team decided a tax cut, further videning the deficit, was out of the question. Thus, Mr. Nixon is staking

The Talcott Village Story To the Editor,

On Tuesday, July 13, there appeared in this newspaper an article entitled "Talcott Village -A CUD Type Development." From this headline, the editor's introductory note, and the generous supply of attractive pictures, the casual reader is led to believe two things. First, that

The Savings Bank of Tolland has announced plans to construct a new office to be located on Rt. 74 between the Tolland Post Office and the new shopping center now under construction by David Web-

"We have engaged the serv-ices of Justus J. DeVries of Dorset, Vt. to provide architectural and engineering service in planning and construction of the new bank building," Bank President Donald Morgansor stated yesterday.

Confirming rumors which have been circulated through town recently, Morganson said the bank had purchased 3.07 cres of land in the commercially zoned area. He described DeVries as "one of the most outstanding bank building consultants New England." The new facility will permit the local bank to expand its services to include a night depository and a drive-in teller. The parking area will also be expanded. At present Morgan-son stated the bank has eight parking spots, and often a nany as 40 cars line up outside on Friday nights to use the bank at a given time.

No target date has yet been set for the opening but the intention is to move ahead now on the project. Also undecided is the fate of the bank's present office on the Green. According to Morganson th bank's officers cannot sell the ouilding without approval of the state banking commission which would also be responsible for establishing a price which should be charged.

At present the bank building is the only commercial business permitted on the Green. Morganson also announced th expansion of the bank's Board f Trustees to include two new members, Atty. Harold Garrity of Tolland Green, and Dr. Francis Burke, a Rockville physician and surgeon. In addition Theodore B. Bampton of Willington, director of the Connecticut State Board of Fisheries and Game and Alexander T. Tobiassen of Tolland Green, supervisor of building and grounds for the town achool system, were elected as corpora tors of the bank.

The appointments were made at the bank's annual meeting June 28, but were just announced yesterday.

The Board of Education last night approved the development of "a cooperative teaching, modular classroom" for the Robertson School. The proposal for the coopera-tive teaching program was pre-sented by first grade teachers Mrs. Susan Hoffman and Mrs. Elizabeth Sturrock. The teach-res stated that they "have at tempted over the past two years to teach cooperatively; that is, to pool our resources and abili-ties in our separate first grade classrooms and aid each other in developing our curriculum areas." In order to create a larger classroom area, the instructors suggested that two or three of the dividing panels botween their rooms in the primary wing be removed. "This would allow without disturbing the rest of the wing, yet allow for separate room facilities when necessary."
