Soviet Craft Crashes Into Lunar Peaks

Moscow (AP)—The Soviet Union's latest moon probe crashed into lunar mountains in the Sea of Fertility today and radio contact was cut off, Tass said.

The probe, Luna 18, was launched Sept. 2 and it made 54 revolutions around the moon during its flight on near-moon orbit, the Soviet news agency reported.

"According to the measurements, the landing of the station in these complicated topographical conditions was suspicious."

"This was the first major Soviet space effort since the death of three Russian cosmonauts who perished on returning to earth last June after setting an endurance record for space flight."

It was the third consecutive failure in the Soviet space program.

When Luna 18 was sent on its mission, it was expected to orbit the moon for 14 days, then to descend to the lunar surface and return to Earth.

Edith Loses Status As Hurricane

Hurricane Edith, still packing 60-mile-per-hour winds, was downgraded to a tropical storm today while Fern, her younger sister, battered the Corpus Christi area of Texas with gale force winds and heavy rains.

Thousands of miles to the east, Tropical Storm Ginger continued to gather strength, leading weathermen to predict she would be a hurricane.

The National Hurricane Center reported at 6 a.m. EDT that Edith was near Latitude 19.3 north, Longitude 89.9 west, or about 800 miles south of the Gulf of Mexico near Merida, Yucatan, Mexico.

Forecasters predicted Edith would continue moving northwest at about 14 m.p.h. with her center crossing into the Gulf of Mexico near Merida tonight.

Edith will weaken further over land today but could strengthen rapidly over the Gulf of Mexico tonight, a hurricane center advisory said.

Residents around the Yucatan Peninsula were warned to evacuate to higher ground in case of heavy rains and flooding.

Barrier, Edith had attacked the Yucatan Peninsula.

School Integration Situation To Be Probed in Michigan

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP)—The injunction request pending in the federal court in Pontiac today, on charges of local police enforcement of court-ordered school integration in Pontiac.

U.S. District Court Judge J. Edgar Hoover has done a good job but he does not have sufficient power to control the situation, the judge said.

The judge said that if the school board is not able to integrate the schools, he will order the school board to integrate the schools.

Democrats In State Hit With Lawsuit

HARTFORD (AP)—Former Gov. Rep. Emilio Q. Daddario filed a lawsuit today against the Democratic Party, claiming that the party had discriminated against him in its nomination process.

Daddario, who lost the primary election to Gov. John D. DeLoach, filed the suit in Superior Court, claiming that the party had discriminated against him in its nomination process.

Khrushchev Reported Dead Of Heart Failure in Russia

This picture was taken of former Soviet Premier and Communist Party Chief Nikita Khrushchev when he visited Moscow to vote in last June's elections.

MOSCOW (AP)—Nikita S. Khrushchev, 77, a skyrocket in Soviet politics for the 11 years he served as the nation's premier and Communist party leader, died today of a heart attack at his home, unofficial sources reported.

Tass kept silent and there was no announcement from any official quarter.

Rebel Prisoners at Attica Work on List of Demands

By BEN DE FOREST

ATTICA, N.Y. (AP)—With the help of state police officers as radical lawyer William Bradford Huie, the prisoners at Attica State Prison worked on a final list of demands today for the freedom of hostages they have held since Thursday morning.

The list of demands met with 100 intermediaries into the early morning hours and were to be taken up again at 10 a.m.

At one point, the meeting broke off for more than an hour when prisoners thought state troopers were moving into the cellblocks. It turned out to be a minor incident.

A newspaper pool reporter said the mediators would ask the state correctional department to join the next session of the talks.

The reporter said Krumholz estimated the inmates now have 30 demands and were most insistent about a new demand—the removal of Attica State Prison.

Krumholz, whose clients have included the Chicago 7 and Black Panthers; U.S. Rep. Manfredo P. D'Amico, the only native Puerto Rican in Congress; and Tom Wicker, an associate editor of The New York Times, were among the intermediaries. They were on a list of names called for by the "hard-core" inmates still holding away over one cellblock area.

Prisoners have the hostages who include guards and an estimated 11 civilians—clothing, blankets, mattresses and food.

The move to review the list of demands followed a 19-hour lapse in negotiations.

Oswald met for 30 minutes with the rebels, despite their refusal to accept a short while earlier Friday morning to state another cellblock. Tear gas turned back the rebels.

Besides the demand for speedy and safe transportation out of confinement to a nonimpoverished country, the rebels also demanded that the list to include "complete amnesty, meaning freedom from and beyond."

They were asked when 1:30 p.m.

North Viet Industry Damaged By Floods

SAIGON (AP)—Hanoi's worst floods in at least 28 years are causing a major offensive south of the demilitarized zone that straddles the two Vietnams.

Radio Hanoi broadcasts called on North Vietnamese workers to carry out flood relief work and to cooperate in urgently needed reconstruction of electric power plants, transformer stations and transmission lines, factories producing industrial and agricultural tools, distribution centers for clothes, food and building materials, and oil pumping stations.

Hanoi also ordered top priority reconstruction and repair of dams and dikes and drainage of flooded farmlands.

Meanwhile, officials in Saigon said a misunderstanding had led to publication of a report that South Vietnam's government television station had said up to one million people already had died in the floods.

The broadcast Friday night was based on a story produced by Vietnam Press, the official government news agency.

An official of Vietnam Press said the agency used the figure in reference to the estimated 3 million who died in a 1960 flood.

Thieu Begins Bid for Votes

SAIGON (AP)—President Nguyen Van Thieu began his campaign for re-election today in a nationwide television broadcast.

Thieu had told the nation in a previous television address he would run as the sole candidate in the October election, and would step down if not given a "vote of confidence."

He did not explain then, however, what he would consider a "vote of confidence."

The British government has told Washington and several other nations that it would support Thieu's bid for a second term.

Thieu said that there would be only one ballot and the people would vote for him by placing their ballots in the voting envelope and putting it in the ballot box.

Britain Supports Red China For Nationalists' U.N. Seat

LONDON (AP)—Britain will offer other capitals that the American position could be maintained to the United Nations even if it costs Nationalist rules on the basis of logic.

China's seat in the world organization, senior officials said today.

The British officials said the United Nations was bound by its charter to consider only whether Peking or Taipei U.S. hopes of winning majority support for seating both China seats in the world body.

Foreign Minister James Callaghan said the U.N. Assembly session, which opens today, would be held in Washington.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers said Japan's action would adversely affect the U.S. effort to keep the Nationalists out of the United Nations.

Thieu said that there would be only one ballot and the people would vote for him by placing their ballots in the voting envelope and putting it in the ballot box.

THE OLD CODGER'S CODGITATIONS

The Junior Class home room in his room after school hours. For some reason there happened to be a thumb tack in the corner of the second floor. The Miss Locke was the Splinter-Charge. She taught English and German and French. Everyone liked her. Even Mr. William "Billie" Gardner who had the Senior Class home room next to hers on the south side of the hall. They were seen together on the street a few times with the result that when senior day came along Miss Locke was presented with a bouquet of flowers named "Sweet William" for her great pleasure and Mr. Gardner received a pat on the back for his chertle and friendship.

Miss Locke's predecessor had been Miss Valentine who seemed much older. However, she was determined to learn to ride a bicycle. Day after day when school was out she would walk her "wheel" to the corner of Main and Maple Sts., hang on to the handlebars and glide along the sidewalk. The result was that she was seen on the sidewalk of the Main and Maple Sts. hang on to the handlebars and glide along the sidewalk.

Mr. Gardner taught math and English. Once a meeting of the athletic association was held there or not.

Sunday School To Resume At Two Churches

Sunday school resumes at both Congregational Churches tomorrow with Rally Day scheduled for the following week. At First Congregational church school will begin at 9:45 a.m. followed by an 11 a.m. service which will include a communion service. At Second Congregational, the Sunday school session starts at 10 a.m., with the service at the same time.

At Second Congregational, the coffee hour following Sunday Worship services will resume this week. At First Congregational, the confirmation class will start meeting in Rev. James C. Meade's study at 7 p.m. Monday. All students in sixth grade are eligible for this class.

At both churches, Oct. 3 has been designated as "Neighbors in Need" Sunday. A special collection is taken for victims of calamities around the world. The First Congregational Church has announced the hiring of a new organist and choir director, Mrs. Genevieve McGieleski, organist and choir director at the church for the past three years, was held last month.

The women's discussion group is also meeting on Sept. 19 at 8 a.m. Interest in the group is such that there are plans to double in size. Mrs. Edward Turn is in charge of this and can be contacted for further information. Rally for the season is scheduled for Oct. 18 at the date for its annual holiday fair.

The Ladies' Association of the Congregational Church will hold its first meeting of the season on Sept. 22 at 11 a.m. at the church. The group's first meeting is scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 26, at 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Senior Citizens The Senior Citizens will meet Sept. 19 at 1:30 p.m. at the Second Congregational Church Community House, Rt. 44A. The program will include a speaker from the Department of the Aging, as well as entertainment and refreshments.

Air Force Technical Sgt. Kenneth Bartlett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyndon Bartlett, 11 Hickory Dr., is on duty at Tan Son Nhut Air Station, Vietnam. An air cargo supervisor, the sergeant has previously served in the Republic of Korea and at Charleston AFB, S.C. He is currently assigned to a unit of the Pacific Air Force, headquarters for air operations in Southeast Asia, the Far East and the Pacific area.

Bartlett is married to the former Constance J. Graham. Navy Seaman App. Kevin T. Tromley, son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Tromley of Brighton Tavern Rd. has reported for duty at the command at the support base, USMC, Camp Pendleton, California.

Next week the club championship tennis team will play the game sponsored by the Manchester Bridge Club. It is played each Friday at 8 p.m. at the clubhouse, 128 Edgemoor St. Play is open to the public.

Results in a Thursday morning duplicate bridge game of the Manchester Country Club group played at the home of Mrs. Maury Brown, 44 Porter St. are:

North-South, Mrs. Willard Koropatnik and Mrs. Richard Raas, first; Mrs. Richard Ter-Harsh and Mrs. Herbert Young, second; Dr. Saul Cohen and Ernest Berube, third; Miss Fabel Cohen and Harriet Galina, fourth; Mrs. Charles Burr and Mrs. Paul Willhite, fifth. The weekly game is played each Thursday at 9:30 a.m. Next week it will meet at Mrs. Brown's house again.

Glass, Paper Drive

A four-day glass and newspaper drive, conducted by roofing contractor Al Palmer of Manchester, starts today. Old bottles and newspapers can be brought to the Parkside Bowling Alley, where they will be placed in trucks.

The glass bottles are being broken up and recycled, and the newspapers are being sold to a scrap dealer. All proceeds are being deposited in a bank and will be used to stock Batten's Pond with fish.

Palmer has held two similar drives this summer, which resulted in profits of over $200.

MOVIE RATINGS FOR PARENTS AND YOUNG PEOPLE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD You should be able to make certain choices as to what movies to see by reading the ratings in this column. If you're not familiar with it, just look at the hand carefully and remember the next time you run into it in actual play.

North dealer: Both sides vulnerable. Opening lead - Jack of Clubs. You take the first trick with dummy's ace of clubs and lead a low trump to the ace. Then, if you're greedy, you try to make one extra trick, worth 30 points - and lose a small slam worth 20 times as much. If you continue the trump by leading a low trump toward dummy's ace, this protects you against any possible trump trick.

As the cards lie, West must be able to prevent dummy's spades from winning. West's discard tells you about the bad trump break.

You win any return, lead a trump to the jack and take your hand and draw the last trump with the king. The rest is easy.

The standard play works even if East has the four trumps. West discards when you lead the second trump, and dummy's trick forces out the queen. You stop to dummy later and return a trump to finesse through East's ten.

The same sort of play is correct even if your ace and king of trumps are in separate hands. For example, with K-3-2 opposite A-10-2, take the first trump with the king. Get to your hand and lead a low trump toward the ace. The situation is then the same as today's hand.

What if neither opponent has any trumps? You lead the ace of trumps and take the king. The rest is easy.

The President's Poker Game

There was one sustained roar of applause during the President's speech to Congress Thursday which was brightening.

It was brightest when it reflected too much eager, shallow sentiment regarding a shallow man and an appeal which, aside from being unworthy, was also unmanly.

The particular Presidential sentence which precipitated this unprecedentedly powerful palpitation of palms read as follows:

"In the years ahead, we will remain a good and a generous nation—but the time has come to give a new attention to America's own interests here at home."

What went before that sentence was President Nixon's account of how much we had helped the rest of the world, economically and militarily, since the end of World War II.

And what soon followed that sentence was a repetition of Mr. Nixon's favorite phrase about this country's economic relationship with the rest of the world: "The time is past for the United States to compete with one hand tied behind her back."

But later in the same speech, President Nixon got around to remarks which could be rated much closer to some kind of reality and inner truthfulness.

"We cannot," he said, "remain a great nation if we build a permanent wall of tariffs and quotas around the United States and let the rest of the world pass us by."

This might have been — but was not — the signal for a storm of applause, if there was anyone available for realism instead of for fantasy.

Anyway, there it was in the same speech, the contrast between two ways of feeling and thinking and planning for this nation's economic role in the world — with the audience making its choice, and with the spirit of the President's delivery indicating that it was making the choice which was really dominant in his own instincts, too.

Specifically, it could be noted that although he took the occasion of this speech to announce the approaching termination, on schedule, of his 90-day freeze on domestic wages and prices, leaving what would happen beyond that to the good judgment of the various domestic interests involved, he made no such announcement of timetable for his per cent surtax on foreign imports, also supposedly a temporary measure.

The danger in all this, as emphasized by the applause of the day, is that we may all forget a point President Nixon himself came near, but never quite reached explicitly.

He was explaining the nature of our past economic relationship with the world, using the analogy of a poker game.

"Fifteen years ago," the President said, "a prominent world statesman put this problem that we confronted then in a very effective way. He commented to me that 'world trade was like a poker game in which the United States then had all the chips and that we had to spread them around so that others could play.'"

"What he said," the President continued, "was true in the 1950's. It was partially true in the 1960's and is no longer true today. We have generously passed out the chips. Now others can play the game on an equal basis—and we must play the game as we expect and want them to do."

What the President didn't quite bring himself to say was that, if we hadn't passed out some chips, there would have been no poker game. Our "generosity" was a generosity of self preservation as well as one of help to others.

The situation hasn't changed as much as the President now assumes. Our real self interest still lies in a free, wide open world poker game. That means we can't really threaten to leave the game, or demand a change in the rules, if we fail to get across back to back in every hand. It is time for us to stop feeling over-optimistic about the past, sorry for ourselves in the present, and afraid of the future, and deal.

Pence By Pill

Dr. Kenneth B. Clark, president of the American Psychological Association, has produced what he obviously wanted — headlines and debate — with his speech the other day advocating the development of new mind-affecting drugs to be used on world leaders to keep them from resorting to violence.

"The angles for argument are limitless. Is violence something naturally in the mind, like a chemical presence to be controlled by another chemical? Or is it the result of the system and environment in which the individual functions?"

"The normal brain is beautiful," says one of the psychologists eager to debate Dr. Clark. "There is no demagogical animal or force lying within that needs chemical treatment."

And another holds that "you cannot manipulate the abuse of power simply by manipulating the minds of individuals. You cannot manufacture a human personality that can't go wrong so long as institutional arrangements permit abuses of power."

Besides, how do you know that, when you give a leader a chemical to prevent him from doing violence to anybody, you may not also prevent him from doing anything good?"

Thus goes the debate among the professionals.

Ultimately, however, every such debate comes to the point where it has to be carried toward its final conclusion by the amateurish layman on the outside of the professional circle. The amateur has to ask the question the professionals never get around to asking:

"Who," he has to ask, "will be in charge of deciding which leader needs how much of the peace drug?"

But there is no answer, the layman has to imagine what the professionals must be assuming it would be. Presumably, there would be a committee of psychologists all with perfect chemical balances.

Not By Emotional Blackmail

The young people who run Hartford's Revitalization Corps have had nothing but the best of intentions as they brought hundreds of more city kids to the shore for excursions from residential families for the unorthodox drive have been unbelievably good — time after time, kindhearted people have taken the young children, often driven them back to their homes, and sometimes made them permanent friends and periodic visitors."

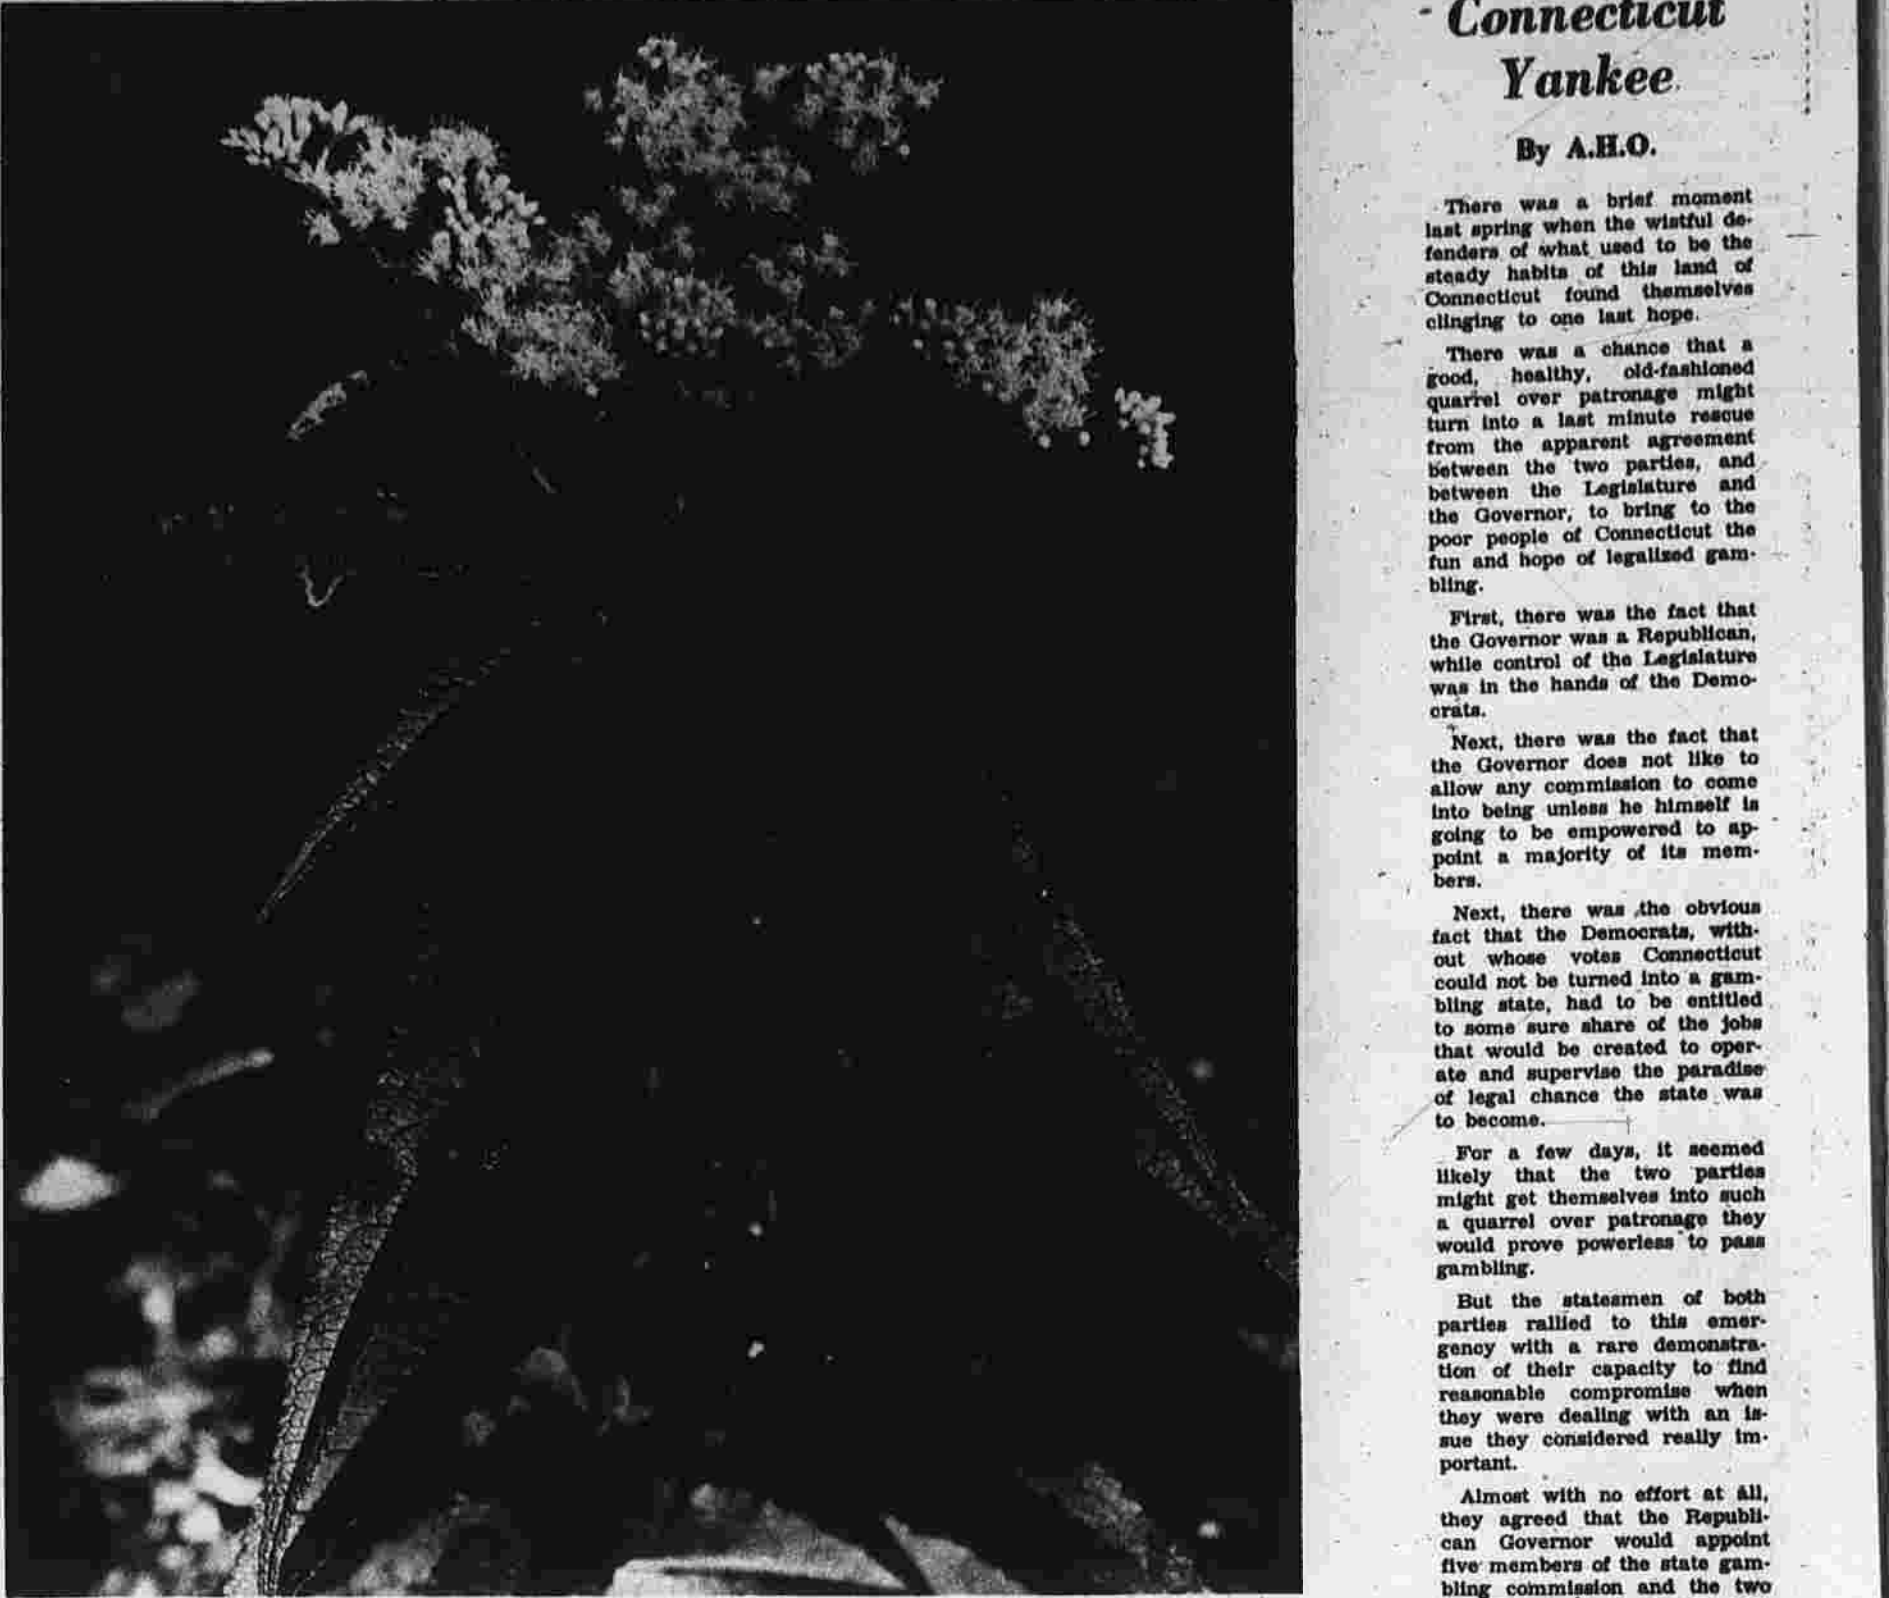

All the same, the Board of Selectmen of Old Lyme will not be unduly until Corps officials produce the names of sponsoring members. On the other hand, the Board of Selectmen will be needed by visiting busloads, and buses will not be allowed to leave any beach until all the visiting children have received invitations to stay.

"Emotional blackmail" is what one spokesman for Old Lyme's Beach Association called it, and there is no doubt that the sight of these less fortunate youngsters hanging around hoping for a chance to escape from the summer in the city streets was enough to give a lot of fat-cat vacationers an uncomfortable and not necessarily deserved guilty conscience.

But there are more serious objections to the program as it has been conducted than the disfigurement of vacationers. The hit-or-miss method of encouraging youngsters to pick up invitations is unfair to the kids and their families, and could be downright dangerous. What is to prevent a perverted or sick individual from luring one of the children into his power? Is there insurance? What happens if a kid has an accident? Who is responsible? What kind of a check is there to see that the kids are safely returned on time? What protection do the host families have against youngsters who are sick with a communicable disease?

Most people want to help, and it is to their credit, not that of the directors of the program, that all the children have found hosts this summer. But for everybody's safety the system should be improved. A committee working in the host town should make prior arrangements for youngsters to stay and should screen host families. Basic provisions for insurance, physical exams, and return transportation should be clearly defined.

Good intentions should not be strangled in red tape. But a well-planned, responsibly administered program will not only be safer but is likely to be carried on much longer.—MERIDEN RECORD.

Inside Report

Vietnamization's Biggest Test

By Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

DUC PHU DISTRICT, Quang Ngai Province, South Vietnam—The empty barracks here of a departed battalion of American soldiers symbolizes how thin South Vietnamese forces are spread in this traditional Viet Cong trouble spot, part of a deepening military danger facing all the northern provinces of South Vietnam.

With the Americans gone, Duc Phu district is protected by some 1,500 territorial troops—regional forces (RF) and popular forces (PF)—backed up by a regular formation of the Army of the Republic of Vietnam (ARVN). That would seem more than enough to handle a few hundred Communist guerrillas dreading to spend the weekend. But the truth, many more men are needed to leave any beach until all the visiting children have received invitations to stay.

Nevertheless, to villagers, the empty barracks signify that the Communists—who controlled Quang Ngai province through out the war with France—are coming back. To those who have sided with the Saigon government, the departure of U.S. troops means the whole world is casting its.

Indeed, the mood of the countryside in Quang Ngai and Quang Nam is deteriorating.

But what happens when the U.S. 101st Airborne Division, backing up the 1st ARVN, leaves next year? The 6th North Vietnamese Regiment last spring moved into the 101st's area on the approaches to the city of Hue. Moreover, when the Americans go, the 1st ARVN will no longer have the luxury of so many helicopters, gunships, tanks and jet planes, is possible. However, what Saigon policy-makers feel is much more probable is the second threat resulting from deterioration well south of the DMZ in Quang Nam province and, particularly, Quang Ngai province. Here, with the imminent departure of the U.S. American division, North Vietnamese regulars could sweep in from the hills to the west, where Communists now are building, unlike a new road system to parallel the Ho Chi Minh Trail, in these two provinces, a climactic battle could be fought in 1972 and 1973.

The remaining option is to recruit additional territorial troops in troublesome districts such as Duc Phu district, where half the southern soldiers desert.

Thus, as expected, the last phase of American troop withdrawal is the most dangerous, threatening the remarkable gains against the Communists since 1969. Yet, there are valid reasons, non-military and non-Vietnamese, why the Americans should have been pulled out even more rapidly—a subject to be explored in a future column.

But it's still a puzzle, why, holding around in the bushes of prospective millions being waged and taxed, the bipartisan statement collaborating to take Communist out of its traditional steady habits should suddenly reach for a real Rotmeyer salary scale.

News for Senior Citizens

By WALLY FORTIN
DIRECTOR

Hello! Well things at the Center will be off and running in a few days. We'll be starting Monday morning. We'll be starting Monday morning. We'll be starting Monday morning.

Schedule For the Week
Monday, 10 a.m., to noon, lunch and coffee. Tuesday, 9 a.m., to 4:30 p.m., open card playing, shuffleboard games, etc. Wednesday, 10 a.m., to noon, lunch and coffee. Thursday, 9 a.m., to 4:30 p.m., open card playing, shuffleboard games, etc. Friday, 10 a.m., to noon, lunch and coffee. Saturday, 9 a.m., to 4:30 p.m., open card playing, shuffleboard games, etc. Sunday, 10 a.m., to noon, lunch and coffee.

Lake George Trip
I mentioned about our Lake George trip, and how we had three buses full by the end of the first day of registration. Since then we've been placing bus after bus. We're looking for a fourth bus if the interest is there. We're looking for a fourth bus if the interest is there. We're looking for a fourth bus if the interest is there.

Our building is in real great shape, thanks to the hard work of James Macdonald, assisted by Charles Dore and Robert Ahern. Like I said, we're ready to open Monday, and I'd like to get a Bridge Club started real soon. We have a few names, however, I'm sure we'll have many more who like to play bridge. Remember, we can find a nice quiet secluded spot to play mornings, afternoons, or evenings. So if you're a little tired of the regular routine of the morning worship service at 10:45 a.m. and proceed to the morning worship service at 10:45 a.m.

"Does Your Dog Bark?" will be the children's sermon given by Mr. and Mrs. George P. Apel, assistants in Christian Education at the church.

The Bible Speaks
By Eugene Brewer
As one reminisces over a decade of work, he is filled with mixed emotions. There is much of which to be proud, but there are lapses which produce a blush of regret. Moments of pleasure flood his memory, but sadness and heartache temper that joy. The satisfaction of successful ventures warms the heart, but it cannot erase entirely the recollection of the discouragement of separate failures.

Best Entry Ever for Manchester Open

Field Filled Both Sunday And Monday
By EARL YOST
Attendance High, Gate Receipts Low
It was interesting to note in recent days that Greater Hartford Twilight League baseball final playoffs between Manchester's Moriarty's and the New Britain Falcons attracted 5,000 spectators who contributed $1,084.55 to watch five games. This averages out to about 18 cents per fan...

Jet Ground Game Helps Bury Pats

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A hard-hitting ground attack sparked by John Higgins and Emerson Booser was the difference Friday night for the New York Jets as they crushed the New England Patriots 38-9 in a National Football League pre-season game.
Young Jim Plunkett struggled to lead the Patriots, but despite a couple of 100-yard runs he was never able to urge his team inside the New York...

Plenty of Depth in Backfield In Yale and Bridgeport Camps

NEW YORK (AP) — Roly Purrington a passing-and-running threat, and Don Priel, 190-pounder who moves superbly over the ground, are among the players who are being sought for depth on offense, Yale and Bridgeport are stymied by surprises in their backfields.
The coaches at both camps are looking for depth in the backfield, where five players are being sought for depth on offense, Yale and Bridgeport are stymied by surprises in their backfields. Payne First In Hardship Cage Picks

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Tom Payne, 7-foot-2 center of the University of Kentucky, has been named the first pick in the National Basketball Association's first hardship draft.
Payne was bound for the NBA training camp at Louisville, Ky., after the draft. He had needs and necessities that would be filled while he was in college and I couldn't go on a scholarship, he said. Friends To Honor Vincek, Long Active in Local Sports

Who was Manchester's best all-time football player? Good question, if you want to start a hot discussion. The answer is Vincek.
Over the years in Manchester's football history, there have been many great players. But Vincek stands out as one of the greatest all-around performers, with only his best friend, Albert 'Foxy' Vincek, who was a star at the University of Virginia today, in the running for the title. Vincek was a star at the University of Virginia today, in the running for the title...

Hartford Friends of Daddario, the Daddario for Governor Committee and the Democratic Campaign Committee of 1970. Papers were served Friday on the defendants.

The suit claims that the organizations owe the Palm agency $41,820 for services the agency hired on Daddario's behalf, $28,303 for services paid for by the agency and $8,606 for overhead and local services.

The largest financial gatherer in the former Hartford congressman's campaign was the Hartford Friends of Daddario. It reported to the secretary of the state it had paid out $414,000 for the campaign and had a deficit of $120,000.

About $31,000 of that deficit was owed to the Palm agency, the group reported. It also said that during the campaign about $28,000 was paid to the advertising company, with much of that amount paying for radio, billboard and television advertising.

any physical, mental and legal reprisals" for their actions. They also had Oswald's promise against administrative reprisals and a federal judge's injunction against "physical reprisals."

A group of 10 persons was permitted to enter the exercise yard where the rebels keep the hostages. Paul McClelland, a reporter for the Buffalo Evening News, said most of the rebels were seated in a ring with the hostages inside it.

The hostages had been blindfolded, according to newsmen, but the blindfolds were removed when the visitors arrived.

There were several small fires, apparently fueled by broken furniture and debris. When a newsmen asked an inmate his name, he replied: "My name is Attica. I am all of us."

While most of the intermediaries arrived at the request of the rebels, five came at the behest of Oswald and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Priscilla Glitters, but Drops Talent Test

By BILL COE (Herald Reporter)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. —The question uppermost today in the minds of the people here from Connecticut is whether Miss Connecticut, Priscilla Anne Doyle, will be among the top 10 semifinalists going into tonight's final round of the 1971 Miss America Pageant.

Priscilla saw her hopes for the Miss America crown grow dimmer last night as the top honors in her group's preliminary talent competition went to Miss Kansas, 20-year-old Sandy Rings of Topeka, who did a ventriloquist-acting act to the tune, "Toyland."

For her presentation, Priscilla performed a Spanish flamenco dance to Ernesto Lecuona's "Andalucia," with full orchestra.

Dressed in a black costume with scarlet ruffled bib under a bolero and twirling a bullfighter's cape that glinted with sequins, she looked striking under the bright lights of the Convention Hall stage, and turned in a polished performance.

Alternately haughty and gay as the gypsy dance progressed, she ended with a wild fling of her cape and a loud "Ole!" that earned her one of the best rounds of applause of the night.

Some Prejudice

The consensus from Connecticut—admittedly somewhat prejudiced—was that she should have taken first place, and many of the people were disappointed that the judges saw fit to give the award to another ventriloquist.

A similar type of act in Wednesday's opening talent round was performed by Miss Georgia and earned her a tie with Miss Pennsylvania, an operatic soprano.

Thursday night's talent award went to Miss Maine, a soprano, who performed a semiclassical number. Last night's award in the swimsuit competition was taken by Miss Ohio, 22-year-old Laurie Lea Schaefer, who is 5 feet 7 inches tall with auburn hair and green eyes.

Ties Prevail

The previous winners in swimsuits going into the finals are the contestants from Virginia and Washington (tie), and California.

The unprecedented ties in the two categories give this year's contest eight preliminary winners who are considered to have a good chance of being among the 10 semifinalists.

Thus there is much speculation here on who may be the remaining two semifinalists, and the opinion among some pageant watchers is that the judges may select a different type of talent—dancing, for example—in order to provide variety for tonight's show.

"After all, the pageant draws one of the biggest television audiences of the year, estimated at more than 70 million viewers," a veteran show business professional told this reporter, "and you better believe that the network people have plenty to say about providing a variety of talent."

All 19,000 Convention Hall seats are said to be sold out for tonight's show, which begins here at 8:30 and goes on live over NBC starting at 10.

The show starts early locally in order to give the cast and orchestra a warmup on the production numbers, to announce which girls will be semifinalists, and to make necessary last-minute changes for their part in the production.

Protest Due

Both an anti-war organization and a women's liberation group have been reported in the local press as planning demonstrations outside Convention Hall today.

However, thunderstorms moved into the area early this morning and threatened to put a damper on the demonstrators' plans.

Following last night's competition, Miss Connecticut remained onstage to talk with reporters. Smiling and looking relaxed with the tensions of the preliminaries over, Priscilla said she was "a little disappointed" at not-winning the talent event but was not discouraged and felt she still had a chance to make the top 10.

Title Possible

Because of the rules of point scoring, it is possible for a girl to emerge as Miss America without having won in the preliminary rounds. This was the case last year, when the reigning Miss America, Phyllis George, won the title.

The reason this is possible is that scores in two categories of the judging, evening gown and judges' interview, are not made public.

Priscilla's supporters from Connecticut were at her hotel again last night to greet her on her return from Convention Hall, but after chatting with her briefly, she excused herself and retired for the night. A full day of rehearsals was in store again for all the contestants.

Khrushchev Listed As Dead in Russia

Khrushchev denied that he had authorized publication of any memoirs, and he may have been telling the truth in that respect, but there was no specific denial that these words were his. Experts in most cases agreed that it all sounded like pure Khrushchev.

If it was, it was a source of embarrassment to the regime which had toppled him six years before. The book dealt with all the strange and terrifying aspects of life in the Soviet Union and among its leaders under the baleful glare of dictator Stalin, whom the new regime was guardedly rehabilitating.

It detailed the bungling of wartime Soviet officials under the dictator, as well as the days of glory at Kurak and Stalingrad against the Nazis.

Indirectly it accused the current regime of such things as falling to discourage anti-Semitism, of attempting to impose the Soviet mold on all "Socialist" countries, which the book said was "just plain stupid," and of many other things.

The book suggested that the Soviet Union was over-militarized. It suggested, too, that the Communist party was a sclerotic bureaucracy in which "nowadays a party card all too often represents nothing more than its bearer's hope of finding a comfortable niche for himself in our Socialist society."

It accused the regime, by implication of trying to do what Khrushchev himself had done, trying to "regulate the development of art and culture with a stick or by barking orders."

The book would remain a topic of discussion around the world for a long time after its appearance, a subject of argument about its authenticity and of speculation about its hidden meanings for the Kremlin hierarchy. It would also keep the name of Khrushchev alive, which probably was the last thing his political foes in Moscow had wanted.

Khrushchev ruled for a full decade, but he never made it as a dictator. He was more a chairman of the board, of a collective group of rulers who guided Soviet destinies.

He was obliged frequently to explain himself, defend his policies, even apologize for his failures. He was obliged frequently to reverse himself as he fitted from one experiment to another in a desperate effort to better the Soviet internal economy while retaining the year's end.

Fire Drill To Test Out Four Units

Sometime Monday night, an Eighth District fire alarm will sound, and fire trucks will be dispatched to the W. G. Glenny Lumber Co. on N. Main St.

It won't be arson, however—it's a simulated fire situation to evaluate fire department operations.

The simulated fire will be of such large proportions, that fire departments from Manchester, Vernon, and Rockville will be summoned by a Mutual Aid call.

The purposes are to evaluate communications, pump operation, hose-laying, ladder use, and respirator use. The fire command will be watched, to see how the four fire departments work together.

The large area at Glenny's, with several buildings, indicates that about 50 men will be needed to control the fire.

When Monday night it'll be a surprise, as will some of the problems firefighters will encounter.

Soviet Craft Crashes Into Lunar Peaks

course, Tass described the mission as being to carry out further scientific research of the moon and near-lunar space.

Western analysts had expected the Luna 18 spacecraft to make a soft landing on the moon and either deposit a second remote-controlled moon rover modeled after Lunokhod 1, or to repeat an earlier experiment of recovering lunar soil samples, this time with an improved drill.

A near-blackout maintained since the launch of Luna 18 led to speculation that things were not going as planned. The Tass announcement this afternoon confirmed that impression.

"The program of exploration with the help of the automatic station Luna 18 is over," Tass said.

Town firemen went to 623 Main St. for a smoking electrical motor in the basement, at 3:45 yesterday afternoon.

Rocco Francoline Named DeMolay District Deputy

Rocco J. Francoline Sr. of 616 Spring St. has been appointed a district deputy of Connecticut DeMolay for District 9E of the state. He succeeds Joseph Belotti of Rockville in that post.

Francoline has received many awards and honors in recognition of the work which he has rendered on behalf of DeMolay. He is the only advisor in Connecticut to ever receive three Advisor's Honor Keys and also the only Connecticut advisor to ever receive two White Honor Keys, both awards given in behalf of membership achievements.

In 1969 he was awarded the Service to Youth Award of the Grand Lodge of Masons of Connecticut in recognition of his work with DeMolay. That same year, the members of John Maher Chapter instituted a special award, the Rocco Francoline Advisor's Award, to be given to the outstanding advisor of the year of the chapter. Francoline was the first recipient of this award. Last May, Francoline was invested with the highest honor which the International Supreme Council of DeMolay can confer upon an advisor, the Cross of Honor.

Francoline is a member of Hartford Lodge of Masons, the Scottish Rite Bodies of Hartford, the Connecticut Conistory (32nd degree) of Norwich, Sphinx Temple Shriners and Omar Shrine Club.

The appointment as district deputy takes effect immediately.

Francoline is presently serving as chapter advisor for John Maher Chapter, Order of DeMolay in Manchester, having served as advisor for the past five years. During 1970 he served as the State ad advisor for Connecticut.

Building in Chester, Pa. before coming to Manchester. Until her retirement seven years ago she was employed as a payroll accountant for the Institute of Living in Hartford.

She was a member of the South United Methodist Church and its Mizpah Spencer group. Other survivors are two brothers, John Stettlock of Dures and Joseph Stettlock of Old Forge, Pa. and a sister, Mrs. Michael Fedorsak of Scranton, Pa.

Funeral services will be Tuesday, at a time to be announced, at the Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St., with the Rev. D. Manley Shaw, pastor of the South United Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will be in East Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home tomorrow and Monday from 7 to 9 p.m.

northern British Honduras forcing many of Belize's 40,000 residents to board up their shops Friday and flee to high ground as the storm moved menacingly close. But Edith only aded-wiped the city with heavy rains and gale force winds.

Hours before Edith hit northern British Honduras, Fern slipped into Texas, some 100 miles west of Galveston and began diminishing in strength almost immediately.

By 6 a.m. EST today Fern was near Latitude 27.5 north, Longitude 97.5 west, or a little south of Corpus Christi.

The Hurricane Center said Fern was drifting very slowly southwestward at 5 m.p.h. or less.

Gale warnings remained in effect from Matagorda Bay to Buffalo Bay and winds were estimated at 30 miles per hour.

Forecasters said that although Fern was expected to decrease in strength during the day, tides might build up locally to above five feet in gale warning areas, particularly the area around Corpus Christi, a city devastated last year by Hurricane Celia.

Heavy rains were reported over the middle Texas coastal plains and between three and six inches of rain was expected north of the storm center.

The Air Force reconnaissance plane reported at 6 a.m. EDT that Tropical Storm GINGER had changed little in strength during the night, with winds of 70 m.p.h. near the center.

GINGER was near Latitude 27.5 north, Longitude 64.5 west, and moving east at 5 m.p.h.

mandate or how the people could vote against him.

Even though the vote of confidence will be based on the percentage of votes actually cast—protecting Thieu from possible election boycotts—he appealed to the people to turn out "in great numbers and added: "Vote to show either confidence or no confidence in me. If you stay home it will make me worried."

Thieu introduced his vice-presidential running mate, Tran Van Huong, and his vice-presidential alternate, Prime Minister Tran Thien Kiem.

He appealed to the voters to vote for him to "stabilize the nation, safeguard peace and national unity, defeat Communism, and safeguard the nation."

Police Officer Suspended In Firearm Use

A Manchester police officer has been suspended for five days, without pay, Chief James Reardon said this morning, because he fired his gun at the fleeing driver of a stolen car although he "had no reasonable grounds or probable cause to indicate that the unknown violator was committing, or had committed a felony."

In a letter addressed to Officer Dennis Roggi, Reardon ordered him suspended from Sept. 12 to Sept. 16.

The action stemmed from an incident in which Roggi, after a collision between his cruiser and a car he had been chasing, fired one shot at the driver as he fled on foot.

According to Reardon, "the pursued operator escaped and apparently was not hit."

Roggi is the second Manchester policeman to be suspended in two days. Yesterday, Reardon announced that Sgt. Brian Rooney received a two-day suspension as a result of a confrontation with an East Hartford resident last May. Rooney, in his private auto, allegedly pulled 21-year-old Ronald Lasky over and attempted to pull him from his car, after a dispute between the two drivers.

Reardon criticized Rooney for failing to make an arrest, if the situation demanded it, and failing to identify himself as an officer.

Letter to Roggi In his letter to Roggi, Reardon described how Roggi, in the early morning of Sept. 5, gave chase on Chestnut St., to a car which had squealed its tires on Center St. The chase ended as both drivers lost control at Chestnut and Forest Sts., and collided.

Reardon reprimanded Roggi for unreasonable use of "deadly force," in firing the shot. Reardon said the car was later found to be stolen, but emphasized Roggi had no knowledge of that before the shooting incident.

and famine and "did not mean for the future to be associated with the current floods."

There have been no reports by Radio Hanoi of famine thus far in the floods, but it has reported severe hardships in the northern sector of the country.

There was no major fighting reported for the sixth day in the allied operation south of the DMZ near Laos. South Vietnamese troops said they found the bodies of 20 North Vietnamese soldiers killed by air strikes, and they claimed killing five more in a brief skirmish. There were no South Vietnamese casualties reported.

In Phnom Penh, the commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific said that the Communists in Indochina no longer believe in eventual victory for their side.

"The ravages of war have torn at them and they realize that the situation is entirely different today," Adm. John S. McCain Jr. told newsmen after completing a 3 1/2-day visit to Phnom Penh to confer with Cambodian leaders on U.S. military aid.

Dave Garroway Happy With TV Job on Coast

By CYNTHIA LOWEY
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Dave Garroway, after a year of sampling Southern California life and work, has decided he likes it and plans to stay—in television.

Dave, 10 years after he left NBC's New York-based "Today Show," is having his first important network exposure as host of CBS's "Newcomers" in eight summer replacement shows. The TV shows are all taped, and now Dave has quit a local music and talk radio show he had conducted for the past year.

"The television show was too good to be true," he reported. "It was so much fun for me it was almost indecent—like doing 'Garroway at Large' again. It even had Bill Hobbs, who was with me then, back as producer."

The radio show—three hours a day, six days a week—was beginning to be a grind because "you need an awful lot of things to talk about to keep that up," he said.

"There are so many TV things in the wind, I am feeling a little confused," he continued. "The network is still talking about continuing the summer show as a midseason replacement. I don't know our chances but they are keeping the costumes and scenery intact, which should mean something. There's a TV special that is pretty well set and a couple of others in the talking stage. And commercials."

Garroway, original host of "Today," quit after the sudden death of his wife in 1961. Some years followed with a couple of false starts in TV shows and some ill-starred business ventures. A well-remembered 18-year hiatus and is looking for a house in Los Angeles' outlying regions to which he can ship his 6,000-pound telescope. An astronomy buff for years, Garroway now has the telescope in his Scituate, Mass., home, which he expects to sell.

His spirits and outlook are brighter than in years but he is the same gentle, thoughtful man whose whimsy and understatement made him one of TV's earliest superstars.

"I'm even taking acting lessons," he said. "I want to be ready for anything." I have no regrets about leaving "Today," but I sometimes do have a nostalgic twinge when I watch it. As the original host, I'm going to be with Hugh Downs on his final program in October."

He defends California with the passion of a convert.

"Life is very, very pleasant out here," he said. "All those put-downs you get from Easterners—I think they come from people who went back when they didn't make it here. I'll just say that during my last two years in New York, my son David was held up and mugged three times: He didn't like that."

Don Adams stars in NBC's "The Partners" Sept. 25.

Burr To Join Flip Wilson

Raymond Burr (NBC-TV's "Ironside"), Stevie Wonder and special guest Ruth Gordon join Flip Wilson for an hour of music and comedy on NBC Television Network's "The Flip Wilson Show" Sept. 30.

In a comedy sketch, Flip, Miss Gordon, and Burr do a dramatic reading, "You're the Top"; in another skit, Burr and Miss Gordon are opera-gcers while Flip portrays a not-too-typical music fan complete with corn chips and liquid refreshment; in a silent-movie spot, Burr is the villain, Saskatchewan Sam, and Flip plays Lt. Leroy of the Royal Mounted.

In a scene set in Charley's Diner, Miss Gordon portrays a would-be stage actress who is befriended by Charley (Flip).

Walt Disney TV Series In 10th Year

Walt Disney Studios' popular series of nature stories, cartoons, comedies and adventure dramas—"The Wonderful World of Disney"—begins its tenth season on the NBC Television Network Sept. 19.

The 1971-72 season will mark the 18th anniversary of Disney programs on television. The late Walt Disney first entered the medium in 1954, the season that his Davy Crockett stories became world famous. "The Wonderful World of Disney" series became a part of NBC
