Tolland 'Overwhelming Response' Noted on New Town Topic

A meeting requested by speculation over the location of the new town runs high resulted in an "overwhelming response" from not only local residents but those in other towns as well, according to First Selectman Charles Thibault.

He has set tentative dates of Oct. 27, 28, or 29 for the meeting which will be held in the Tolland meeting room, 110 Main St., Tolland.

In a letter to Thibault, Greater Hartford Process planners have requested the Tolland meeting themselves. In addition, they have requested the Greater Hartford Process planners to hold the meeting in Tolland.

The actual date will be set by Greater Hartford Process.

School Board Needs $4,000 To Qualify for $8,000 Grant

The old adage "It takes money to make money" has come to roost on the shoulders of the Board of Education.

The school board last night learned it must come up with $4,000 if it is to be able to take advantage of a Title III NESEA fund grant already approved for the town by the state.

Half of the $8,000 would be returned immediately to the town, permitting Tolland to purchase $4,000 worth of needed equipment for half-price or 40-50 percent off.

The problem is that the board can't come up with the $4,000 needed, but not the additional $4,000 which would be refunded.

The board unanimously agreed last night to ask for the additional funds at a special meeting of the board on Oct. 27.

The regular constables have advised them they don't want to serve duty anymore. Interested residents may contact Thibault's office.

LEARN FROM OTHERS IN TOURNAMENT PLAY

BY ALFRED SHAINWOLD

One of the advantages of playing in a tournament is that you often get the chance to learn something from a player who happens to think of something that you overlooked. Today's hand was misdealt three different ways in a tournament, and when one player managed to defeat the contract he was accused of having more luck than brains until he explained his play.

Coventry Internship in Washington Called Valuable Experience

William Pratt, a senior at Coventry High School, thinks a year's internship in Washington is a valuable experience.

Each class in the school was given the chance to find out the difficulty in singling out winners in any one category, all pets received ribbons.

Some of the categories in this year's list of awards included "friendliest dog," "the dog with the shortest name," the "gentlest," "happiest," "biggest" and "blackest" dogs, the "best picture pig," the "poorest hamster" and the "best hamster."

Arrangements for the show are made by the four kindergarten teachers, Mrs. Linda Harrison, Mrs. Billie Kapp, Mrs. Carol Hollinger and Mrs. Elizabeth Halloran.

Council Speaker

Mrs. Arthur P. Gibbs of Rutland, Vt. will be guest speaker at an open meeting of the East Central Council of Garden Clubs next Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the City School in East Hartford.

Her topic: "Let's Deco- rate for Christmas."

Mrs. Gibbs, who will also give a demonstration of her work, has taught classes in flower arranging and Della Robbins, and has conducted workshops for the group.

Hearings Slated By Ann Uccello

CHESHIRE (AP) — Former Hartford Mayor Ann Uccello, now director of consumer relations for the U.S. Department of Transportation, said Wednesday her office may bring its hearings to Connecticut.

Her office already has embarked on a series of public hearings around the country aimed at discovering the needs of the transportation consumer, his complaints and suggestions.

Mrs. Uccello said she currently is analyzing results of the first session held in Tennessee. From this will come the rest of the schedule, which she said hopefully will come at a quickened pace and include hearings in Connecticut.

In Connecticut for a visit home and a series of meetings and talks, Mrs. Uccello made her comments to the Women's Republican Club here.

Commissioner Forecasts Welfare Cutback of 30%

HARTFORD (AP) — Welfare payments may yet be cut by a total of 30 per cent, says Connecticut Welfare Commissioner Henry White.

Under the AFDC payment system, which four separate types of payments were figured separately, however, recipients are now getting 10 to 25 per cent more than they will receive under the new plan.

In addition to the higher case load than expected in AFDC, White said, the likelihood that aid to the disabled may rise "because this category is now getting 25 per cent more than they are now getting." These people are the first to be laid off.

A U.S. official, asked about the state's reaction, said it was "important in this situation to separate public statements, which are made for public consumption, from private negotiations."

Two days after Rogers spoke, Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud El-Hadi told the U.N. General Assembly that a separate agreement with Israel, a reopen the Suez Canal would be a trap to lure the world into a "springboard" for further Israeli aggression.

Abba Eban Tells Need For Aircraft

on the distance Israel would withdraw from the canal, supervisory machinery to detect infractions; a compromise on Egyptian military presence east of the canal, and Israel will be permitted to use force to maintain an armistice on its timing.

The day after Rogers spoke, Israeli Premier Golda Meir said his six points had encouraged Egypt to maintain an armistice, "instead of strengthening the demand for a ceasefire and unilateral withdrawal to Israel's just demand concerning an end to the fighting."

She said, "I do not comment directly on Rogers' speech, however, and U.S. officials said it is important to close any doors on the American effort to achieve an interim settlement. But the Egyptian minister said any agreement to reopen the canal must be part of an overall peace plan that included Israeli withdrawal from the territory it occupied during the 1967 war."

U.S. Plans Global Sale Of Its Surplus Uranium

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission has announced plans to start selling its uranium surplus in 1974 because ample supplies are on hand to take care of our own nuclear program.

This would make 30,000 tons of refined, natural uranium available for sale to domestic and foreign customers for use in their atomic power programs. The AEC stockpile is more than what will be available from private, commercial suppliers.

In Wednesday's announcement, however, the AEC said it recently decided to suspend until the latter part of this decade any general relaxation of present restrictions against American "enrichment" of foreign-produced uranium for use in domestic power plants.

The commission said this new policy—somehat of a reversal of previous expectations—was designed to keep "viable" the U.S. uranium industry.

"Enrichment" means processing natural uranium, which consists mostly of non-fissionable Uranium-238, so as to build up the content of fissionable U-235, the kind of uranium needed as a power fuel.

Enrichment restrictions are maintained, the AEC said, because of "uranium production plans already adopted, the expected short (not overly active) uranium market over the next several years, the availability of excess foreign uranium production capability."

"After making provision for future government requirements, which are subject to some uncertainties, the AEC expects to have a surplus of natural uranium—estimated at about 30,000 tons of... (natural, refined, enriched) available for sale to domestic and foreign customers," the agency added.

Amounts available in a given year would be regulated by a commission-established formula.

In Las Vegas, Nev., AEC Commissioner William Johnson said: "Nobody was certain how big the stockpile of uranium for weapons would have to be. The decision was made on the safe side for national defense reasons."

He said the $600-million stockpile, all of which will be sold before 1984, Johnson said, the AEC will maintain an inventory of uranium big enough to meet any future nuclear weapons stockpile needed by the United States.

Principal Gives Teacher Aide Work Schedule

A teacher's aide work schedule has been drawn up by elementary school Principal Donald T. Libby.

Libby advised that this is only a guide and changes will be made when warranted.

Work of the aide includes review of material already taught, drilling children in facts, correcting children's papers, checking papers and other non-teaching jobs about the classroom.

The Creative Homemakers of Andover have formulated plans for the current year.

The group meets each month on the first Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the old town hall on Rt. 6.

Scheduled for the November meeting is a wreath-making program under the leadership of Mrs. Barbara Landman.

In March, members will see Mrs. Edna Kravitch demonstrate how to make hardware cloth birdhouses.

Man Convicted In Drugs Sales

by the same policies if no individuals named Dean Acheson or Harry Truman or Joseph Stalin or Winston Churchill had ever drawn breath? Perhaps, in the summation, he gave us neither great good nor great harm. Perhaps we were fated to do the things which were either his genius or his mistake. Perhaps his most genuine, lasting contribution was his ability to reflect, for the kind of day ahead, the cloth and shirt and tie of impeccable suitability, and, for the issue of the moment, the armor of the appropriate immorality. One thing no one could ever take away from him — his style. He was always dealing with lesser men, less wise, less intelligent, less proud, less entitled, than himself.

Not Even Popcorn

Is there anyone who can remember when, on a World Series afternoon, one could saunter out on Main St. in Manchester, buy a bag of fresh-popped buttered popcorn, and enjoy the open doorway of some accommodating merchant who had his radio turned up loud, and listen to an inning or two while a shoe shine boy applied the polish and the brushes to a pair of two-toned saddle shoes and discussed the stars of the game?

We cannot specify exactly how many years ago this might have been. We can speculate that the Series would have been being played between the two champions of two eight team leagues, that any boy or man could have given you without hesitation the names and cities of the 16 teams, and probably the batting averages of the line-ups that afternoon. Every now and then, on some likely October afternoon, some compulsive nostalgic impulse comes over us and we sally forth, in search of a Main St. where that baseball hit the ground, the American game. We soon come drooping back, having encountered not even popcorn.

It's Time To Close The Zoo

The animals are striking back, and maybe it's about time. From New York's Central Park Zoo, where a polar bear mated the mate of a tortoiseshell, to Wyoming's Yellowstone Park, where a bison trampled a tourist, mammals are on the march. The world of sports, animals are frequently pictured as savage creatures, to be hunted only at great peril. The truth is that the majority of mammals are shy and avoid man. The animals act when they are driven to defend themselves or their feeding grounds.

In zoo cages, wild creatures are subjected to final humiliation. Not only are they confined in spaces, but they are treated in a way designed to reduce the predator to the status of a beggar. The animals are kept in cages, and the cages are kept in cages. The animals are kept in cages, and the cages are kept in cages. The animals are kept in cages, and the cages are kept in cages.

But otherwise, the great policy accomplishments of the Acheson career will be listed as the Truman Doctrine, the Marshall Plan, and the NATO alliance including West Germany and Japan. For his part in these policies that the funeral orators will praise him most.

But suppose the orator in search of praise, repelled by the cultured cynicism of the man and then seeking refuge in the acknowledged great policy deeds of the man, encounters the theory that these policies and their accomplishments were not themselves beyond controversy?

What if the Truman Doctrine, the Marshall Plan, and NATO were, instead of the great strokes of world leadership for democracy, the great mistakes which came out of a traumatic fear of Communism? What if the policies which fought the cold war were also the policies which played their part in beginning it? What if the choices we made after World War II were not choices founded in morality and principle, after all, but merely part of the cynical power politics every powerful nation has a "moral" obligation to play as ruthlessly as it can?

Or suppose, to take another approach to the business of evaluating Dean Acheson, we concede that he had more influence than any other single individual on the policies we followed in the cold war, but then go on to question how much of such history can ever really be traced down to some individual here or villain.

Would not we and Russia have found ourselves in essentially the same circumstances and have followed essentially the same policies if no individuals named Dean Acheson or Harry Truman or Joseph Stalin or Winston Churchill had ever drawn breath? Perhaps, in the summation, he gave us neither great good nor great harm. Perhaps we were fated to do the things which were either his genius or his mistake. Perhaps his most genuine, lasting contribution was his ability to reflect, for the kind of day ahead, the cloth and shirt and tie of impeccable suitability, and, for the issue of the moment, the armor of the appropriate immorality. One thing no one could ever take away from him — his style. He was always dealing with lesser men, less wise, less intelligent, less proud, less entitled, than himself.

Connecticut Yankee

By A.H.O.

The most nightmare thing about the present nightmare that the panel of redistricting judges has now laid upon the once fair map of Connecticut is that it contains an endless succession of future nightmares, each possible of proving itself equally terrible. The redistricting process as set up by the new Constitution provides for the playing of its games, to no result, at the beginning of each new redistricting effort.

Then there will be a new federal census, and it will all be to do over again, through the initial set of the games into the final sudden death game in which the three judges eventually split two to one. If there is any sense in the state, or if there is any luck for the Democrats, the sudden death verdict, next time, will be one which heads in the other direction, undoing all this present nonsense but only in order, perhaps, to substitute for a Democratic to a new redistricting process, once he achieved that ideal one man one vote rating.

The alternative which had its brief chance 10 years ago, when the state was first trying to achieve compliance with the one man one vote formula would make each of the state's 160 towns a separate congressional district. The human individual elected to fill such a district would have the power of the population of his town. He might, if he represented a big city, cast six votes. He might, if he represented a small town, have only one-sixteenth of a vote. But every town would have voice, and every voter in the state would have equal one man one vote strength. We have had the opinion that such a system would work as well for the Senate as for the House. It would be instituted by the action of a constitutional amendment.

"This'll Hurt Me More Than It Does You!"

While they were eating, Jesus took the bread, gave a prayer of thanks, broke it, and gave it to his disciples. "Take and eat it," he said. "This is my body." Then he took the cup, gave thanks to God, and gave it to them. "Drink it, all of you," he said. "For this is my blood of the covenant, my blood poured out for many for the forgiveness of sins. I tell you, I will never again drink this wine until the day I drink the Kingdom." And when they sang a hymn and went out to the Mount of Olives, Matthew 26:26-30.

South Windsor Fitts Asks for State Aid On Avery Brook Problem

With the municipal elections looming over the town, the item has become a political issue. The Town Council appropriated $50,000 last month for the installation of enlarged roadway curbs and rip-rapping in the area to help resolve the flooding problem and control the water flow.

Fitts, in his letter, wrote, "We realize that the total problem is not resolved by allowing more water to move faster, but that upstream retention areas must be brought into existence to control the water flow and regulate the volume that passes through the residential area. While the State Water Resources Commission, the Department of Housing and Urban Development and Army Corps of Engineers were scheduled with the service and advice with the State Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources, a meeting is scheduled for the 15th of this month. Further discussion is planned on these subjects."

Recognizing that departmental changes have been made, Fitts said he hoped that interest and participation from the new Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources would be forthcoming.

But the president conceded that the people who pay the bills may not agree that research is worth the cost. "The public at large is looking for ways to do the job less expensively, while we seek to do it better."

"What posture, then, do we assume, in the face of such public criticism?" he asked. "I think . . . that we must not be defensive. You and I now of the varied from these well-meaning and vigorous efforts underway to strengthen undergraduate education, which we have long recognized as our most valuable asset."

These efforts should be celebrated not out of response to the criticism of the report of the Elberton Commission for public criticism or a desire to failing to recognize the difference between money—but because we see between a university and know as teachers that we own an "overgrown college" in it to our students and our nation. Babbidge said.

He told the faculty he expected a state attorney general's ruling on the question. "It takes thoughtful and enlightened people to understand the legality of university—the value—even the dollar value—being cut by anyone else's research. It takes more than the legislature and the Board of Trustees."

Winning Ways with The Versatile Apple

Three delicious dishes illustrate the versatility of apples—Apple Shrimp Salad Bowl, Apple Scotch Cookies and Baked Apples Marsala.

Flavor Affinities—Apples and Cheese

One of the best ways to serve apples for dessert is also one of the simplest—based on the continental tradition of serving fruit and cheese at the end of a meal. Apples, above all fruits, are the perfect affinity for cheese. Their tart-sweet flavor and crisp texture complement the mellow taste and smooth consistency of cheese.

Keep the apples in the refrigerator until serving time, then polish them to a glowing sheen. Provide each person with a dessert plate and a sharp fruit knife. Cut the cheese into serving size pieces unless it is purchased in individual portions. If the cheese is a soft variety, provide a butter knife to spread it on the apple slices.

Combinations are unlimited, but as a starter here are several combinations that are especially appealing:

Apples	Cheese
McIntosh	Sharp Cheddar
Red Delicious	Provolone
Golden Delicious	Camembert or Brie
Stayman	Blue or Roquefort
Jonathan	Gruyere
Northern Spy	Bel Paese
Cortland	Cream or Old English Cheese Spread
Winesap	Muenster
*Yellow Newtown	Swiss
*Gravenstein	Gouda
*York Imperial	Brick
*Rome Beauty	Cottage cheese with chives

*While these varieties are primarily used for cooking, many people enjoy their tart flavor when they are served with cheese.

Apples and cheese are flavor affinities. The tart-sweet flavor and crisp texture of apples complements the mellow taste and smooth consistency of cheese.

THE SMILE FRUIT

Apples are the most versatile of fruits. Their delightful flavor is compatible with so many other foods that they can take their place in the menu from first course to dessert. Here, for example, are recipes for a casserole (not illustrated), a salad, delicious baked apples for dessert, and cookies. Any one of these is guaranteed to add distinction to luncheon or dinner. And you might like to try hot apple cider, spiced to your taste, as a beverage.

From Your Neighbor's Kitchen

By VIVIAN FERGUSON

The season for pumpkin and jack-o-lanterns is upon us. Young mothers are shopping for trick-or-treat bags and masks for their excited children. Halloween and Thanksgiving are just around the corner.

The Pilgrims found the pumpkin being grown by the Indians in field of maize. The pumpkin is a member of the gourd family. While pie is probably the first thing we think of, it can be served as a vegetable, used in soup. There is pumpkin preserves and pumpkin jam. One research source states that Italians use pumpkin as a filling for sweet ravioli.

The pumpkin blossom, like squash and zucchini blossoms, are edible. I have never eaten them. Alex Hawkes, a noted botanist, wrote a book on vegetable cookery, combining his hobby of cooking with his profession. This is his favorite recipe for pumpkin blossoms.

Pumpkin Flowers
25-30 fresh pumpkin (or squash) flowers
2 tablespoons light oil or melted butter
sprinkle of salt

Quickly rinse the flowers in cold water and shake them dry. Place oil or melted butter in a shallow skillet with high-fitting cover. Add flowers, all in one layer, crowding them as needed. Sprinkle lightly with salt, cover container and, over high heat, cook for not more than five minutes. Serve at once.

The early name for pumpkin was pumpkin or, more commonly, pumkin. Pumkin was a colloquialism. It is now listed in the dictionary. The Indians taught the early New Englanders how to grow, cook and dry the orange gourd.

When the first settlers made pie, they had to cook and mash the pumpkin. They flavored it with brown sugar, molasses and spices, added some eggs and buck in Hartford for 20 years. I milk. Things are much easier today for the busy housewife. She can buy her pumpkin in a can.

The English made a pumpkin-apple pie using cooked pumpkin and applesauce. An American lady named Eliza Leslie wrote many cookbooks. Her first book was a small volume called "Seventy-five Receipts for Pastry, Cakes and Biscuits" was published in 1828. She listed a recipe for pumpkin Indian cakes which combined cornmeal with pumpkin.

Pumpkin bread is nice to have around this time of year. You will find Arlene Norman's recipe on page six of the 1968 Heron Cookbook.

Speaking of pumpkin bread, I ran into a lucky incident last weekend. I had knocked on the door at 201 N. Main St. in Mayfair Gardens. "Come on, I'll be right with you," she said. "It was a pumpkin bread that is more like cake. In fact, Mrs. Bernice Martin was making it in a tube pan to bring to a party. One of her grandsons was home on leave from the service. "We're a family who get together at the drop of a hat," she said.

"I love to bake," she said. "Most of my recipes are quite simple and easy. For this one you just jump in all the dry ingredients all at once, then the wet ingredients all at once and mix the whole thing up with a spoon. It's a thick batter and the recipe has never once failed for me. You can eat it with whipped topping or just plain. It's not too sweet. It has a certain richness to it."

Mrs. Martin baked another cake this week. I tasted the finished product and am happy to share her recipe with you.

Pumpkin Bread—Cake
2 1/2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
2 cups sugar
2 cups pumpkin (one can pumpkin for pie)
1/4 scant cup Wesson oil
4 eggs
Optional: One cup walnuts, chopped

Mix dry ingredients. Add liquid ingredients (eggs, oil and pumpkin). Bake in 8-inch greased tube pan for one hour at 350.

Bernice is a busy lady. "People ask me what I do in my spare time now that I am a widow and my family is grown. Well, I don't have any, I do a lot of knitting. My chief enjoyment is handwork, especially the knitting."

"I dabble in lots of things," she continued. "I determined that I grew older I would try to do it gracefully and not be an aggravation to my children," she continued. Mrs. Martin has two daughters, both of whom are secretaries in school systems. Mathie, who is Mrs. Earl Howard of 41 Adams St., works for George Braden, Manchester's assistant superintendent of schools. Ruth (Mrs. William Fisher) lives in East Hartford and is employed by the East Hartford school system. But Bill lives in

Holland, Mass., and is a cook for the Moran Towing Service out of New York City. She has eight grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

"I taught school once in Maine when I was younger. It was a one-room school and I was division manager at one time. For the last eight years, I worked for Sears Roebuck and back in Hartford for 20 years. I worked in the credit office."

One day a month, Mrs. Martin is officer-of-the-day for PISH, which means she takes all telephone calls for rides needed by individuals seeking help. At other times, she pinches for others when needed.

TV Records Court Case

Coverage of Juvenile Court will be a buildup in the force of volunteer probation counselors he seeks.

The counselors are assigned on a one-to-one basis to juveniles who have come before the court. The counselor is expected to spend at least one hour a week with the juvenile assigned to him.

"This can be spent any way the counselor chooses—taking the youth fishing, to a movie, to dinner, or just sitting down and talking," Corrigan says. "The idea is to show that someone cares."

Vernon Mayor Asks Review Panel On School Expansion Plan

Women's groups, PTOs and City today called for establishment of a "Review Committee" to study the proposed plans for the addition to Rockville High School.

The mayor's suggestion comes on the heels of charges made yesterday by Democratic candidate for the Board of Education Steven Marchant, that by the building project a "political football" is being kicked.

McCoys said today that he has refrained from making any statement concerning the proposed school addition, because he "did not intend this matter vital to all of us, should be a political issue of this campaign."

Turning the high school project into a political issue is not the mayor's intention, he said. He would be a great disappointment if the project of Vernon were to allow it to become a political football "kicked back and forth in a series of statements and counter statements, all of which would be suspect of political motivation."

"Anyone who thinks that a public official can cloak his statements in a shroud of political immunity simply by stating that he is speaking as a resident and taxpayer is only exposing his political naivete," McCoys said.

Noting that he recognizes the need for a high school addition, Mayor McCoys expressed concern about the estimated $10 million cost.

"I do not buy the argument on going out to bid by April 1, 1972."

Boy Stabbed During Rally In Hartford

He said his remarks were not construed as a criticism of members of the Board of Education, Republican or Democrat, who unanimously approved the proposal, or the school administration, the mayor said.

Tolland County Superior Court

Jurors were told yesterday by Judge Henry J. Naruk to stay away from the scene of the crime, and that means at least for this week and part of next week, no snacking or dining in the Howard Johnson Restaurant on Rt. 30 in Vernon.

It was there on July 17, 1970, according to police, that an armed man held up the night manager after the restaurant closed, ordered him and two maintenance men into the walk-in freezer and fled with $1,600.

The robber was dressed in women's clothes and a wig and five hours later police arrested Johnny Walker, 31, of Bloomfield, charging him with robbery with violence.

McCoys said he will ask education board Chairman Joseph Powers to join with him in appointing the committee which will be composed of some members of the Board of Education and members of the public.

Agreeing that he recognizes the need for the community review committee to develop its report on a crash basis "but whatever time is necessary for a complete review should be taken regardless of other factors," he explained.

The cost figure given for the building project which will expand the school to accommodate 1,000 students from the present 1,500-pupil capacity, was based on going out to bid by April 1, 1972.

Notes from the Notch Prefers to Sleep on Floor?

Fortunately, the university provided the gym. And we provided the floor for Stephen to sleep on, unwittingly at first. For two nights, as he later confessed, Stephen curled up on the study floor with a blanket and pillow, painstakingly remarking the rollaway cot in the morning.

Michigan State University researchers have reported what could be a tulip breakthrough: frozen spring bulbs that bloom in fall.

It is assumed that one of the duties of a "host family" is to try to interpret America, or at least Eastern Connecticut, to the guest, and to introduce him to a variety of experiences he might otherwise miss during his short stay as a student or intern.

For these reasons, when encountering the British during the warm months of the year, he immediately set out on a cricket hunt, because, invariably, as they stroll up the front walk, they ask, "What's that noise?"

He said he will charge the review committee to develop its report on a crash basis "but whatever time is necessary for a complete review should be taken regardless of other factors," he explained.

Guests Enrich GOP By $75,000

More than 900 of the state's Republicans, including about 30 from Manchester, packed the Hartford Hilton's Ballroom last night and contributed a net profit of about $75,000 to the party's coffers.

The keynote speaker was New York Sen. Jacob Javits, who checked his speech as Gov. Thomas Meskill looks on. State Comptroller Nathan Agostinelli is at Meskill's right.

He said he understood Gov. Agostinelli, who was seated next to Gov. Meskill, received the opportunity to demonstrate to the American people once again that he was not a man to be trifled with.

When State Comptroller Nathan Agostinelli took his place, he said he would like to see the grand old flag. "It was exacted from me one year ago Tuesday when they registered Republican because their fathers were Democrats," he said.

Manchester Area Police Blotter

A Rockville man was charged with operating under the influence of liquor or drugs last night, after he was involved in a two-car accident in Hebron.

Police said Arthur Fortin, 45, was headed north on Rt. 86 in the southbound lane and collided with a car driven by Edward Horton, 27, of Hebron which was southbound.

Both drivers were taken to Windham Memorial Hospital, treated for minor lacerations and released. Fortin was scheduled to appear in Circuit Court 11, Willimantic.

Hebron Townspeople Okay Property Purchase

It took only 20 minutes for approximately 40 people at last night's town meeting to approve the purchase of the Gross-Dressman property, to authorize the Board of Selectmen and Town Treasurer to enter into any agreements necessary for the road for a distance of 1,600 feet from Rt. 85.

There was also routine acceptance of the paved portion of Carriage Dr. in the Salmon River Park Subdivision at a town meeting held on Oct. 13.

The Hebron Volunteer Fire Department last month responded to three fire calls: One ambulance call to Itham Hill meetings, open houses, public school meetings, the fire and the reaction Commission and the Fire Department Commission.

Company 3 of the Fire Department finally held its next meeting on Nov. 29 in the purchase of the Gross-Dressman property on Carriage Dr. and the Hill Rd. for $50,000 approved.

However, some doubts were expressed as to why the town north of the town should be paying almost $1,500 for an acre for the approximately area which has papers that are not in the name of the town.

Richard T. McDonald, local real estate agent who stated he is a qualified real estate appraiser, reported that he and several others had been appraised at the property.

However, he agreed with the Recreation Commission chairman Robert Dixon that all of the properties under consideration were overpriced.

McDonald did state though that in view of recent increases in the value of land, the town should meet at the Gilead Hill School at 1 p.m.

Tolland County Civil Engineer Plans to Cover Four Area Towns

The towns of Tolland, Bolton, Columbia and Marlborough will share the services of a civil engineer for 10 months, under terms worked out under the Emergency Employment Act.

Job specifications and papers were worked out by Dana Hansen of Bolton, executive director of the Capitol Region Council of Governments.

Under the breakdown of service, based on the amount of funds committed by each of the towns, Tolland will receive the major portion, three months and three weeks for $2,100.

On Tolland Tpk., near exit 94 of the Wilbur Cross Highway, a car driven by Leonard R. Fielding of Vernon left the road and glanced off a telephone pole.

Sometimes Tuesday afternoon and yesterday morning, someone took a manual typewriter from the telephone switchboard desk in the lobby of the Municipal Building.

HARTFORD (AP) — In the largest one-day sweep of its kind in this city, state and local police, Wednesday arrested 10 welfare fraudsters.

The arrests raised to about 20 the number of persons charged with welfare fraud in Hartford this year, according to police.

The latest arrests involved allegations of welfare fraud totaling about $18,000, the amount ranging from slightly more than $100 in one case to just under $2,500 in another.

Charged with fraud and fraud in obtaining state aid and in failure to report income were Dolores Cooper, 30; Hille F. Baker, 43; Gerald Milway, 40; Catherine Schrey, 41; Torrie Alderman, 24; Judy Schinger, 25; and Barbara Young, 24, all of Hartford.

Charged with all fraud were Albert Jimenez, 16; Gloria Rivers, 31; Theresa Barnham, 19; John Gant, 45; George Hope, 44; and Albert Cooper, 48, all of Hartford.

Meanwhile, State Welfare Commissioner Henry C. White announced preliminary results of a State Welfare Department investigation of all welfare recipients for evidence of fraud will be released in about two weeks.

The investigation, launched two months ago, will lead to the removal and possible prosecution of a number of illegal recipients. White said.

He said the study also could result in a massive overhaul of the State Welfare Department staff.

The Candidates Are Saying—

Eleanor D. Colman
Parents are hearing a great many terms used in discussing education these days—ungraded classes, open space work areas, differentiated teaching, "everywhere" school, programmed instruction, diagnostic testing, prescriptive programming, individualized learning.

First of all, we on the party worked long and hard to cut the general manager's budget to a mill rate of 1.41 mill which is an increase that I believe is acceptable to the taxpayers of Manchester.

The Democratic party has completed this without cutting the quality services that we in Manchester have become used to over the years.

The Democratic party has also made it clear that we do not bear this out. In 1967 the town budget of $275,497 more than the budget adopted by the town in 1966.

1. To take a good hard look at proposed programs.
2. To help explain to parents on a face-to-face basis what programs approved by the board can mean for the child.

If elected, a major effort on my part will be to improve communications between parents and the Board of Education. I will pledge to come to a different school each month and meet with parents for informal conversations.

Many a saving or improvement in operations has occurred in industry or other areas of service from what seemed to be a simple suggestion. In education, too, we need to listen to each other. We need to build mutual trust based on mutual respect.

Under the proposal, the state employees would work the same number of hours a week, 37 1/2 for most New York workers.

A CSEA official said the four-day week would reduce work time lost through "staring and stopping inertia," as he put it, eliminate a couple of coffee breaks.

Medals Company To Move Into Danbury Plant

DANBURY (AP) — Connecticut's "Amenal of Democracy" by virtue of its munitions industry, will soon be the home of the medal used to reward the highest valor by men at arms.

The new distinction comes with a move of Medallic Art Co. from New York City to Danbury. The company makes congressional medals of honor.

Ground for a new Medallic plant was broken here Wednesday, and company and city officials poured the plaster for the mold that will be used to cast the first medal.

"As this plaster mold is the beginning of the making of a medal, the ceremony is a mark of the beginning of a new plant and opportunity for the company and the residents of Danbury," said company president William Louth.

Medallic, which makes a variety of other medals, including presidential inaugural medals, was founded in 1892 in New York City.

The company has been in New York since 1968. It expects to begin production here in about nine months.

Patronage Squabble Erupts in New Haven

NEW HAVEN (AP) — primary challenge for the mayoral nomination last month, a department had contrasting views planning a demonstration Friday on whether they would be involved in allegations in New Haven that federal money was being used for political patronage.

One official, Paul Berlin, said he was making a special trip to New Haven. The routine visit had been planned for next week, he said, but because of the allegations he is coming earlier.

Another department official, Wayne Smith of the Boston office, however, said: "No, we're not sending anyone. In fact, no one there are no clearly defined charges anyway."

"As far as we're concerned, it's a local political situation. We don't get involved in things like that."

The question involves federal money granted to New Haven because of its high unemployment rate. The money is supposed to be used to create jobs for the city.

Smith said each city, like any other employer, is free to hire whom it wants with the money granted to New Haven.

The alleged patronage comes into the picture in a memorandum circulated among some black ward captains by Earl Washington, a deputy campaign manager for Democratic Mayor Danbowen Cuddihy.

The memorandum outlines requirements for getting jobs under the federal program—and the point of controversy is that other black ward captains who aren't aligned with the regular Democrats say they didn't get it.

Hebron Intimidation Charge Denied By Democratic Registrar

Democratic Registrar of Voters Joseph Hill denied that Democratic candidates "intimidated" registrants at last Saturday's voter-making session.

Republican Selectman Robert Dixon made the accusation Monday; it was termed by Hill "totally false and ridiculous."

Furthermore, Hill said, "it is unlawful and to my knowledge, there was absolutely no indication of any such action," Hill added.

Republican Registrar of Voters James Derby, Jr., however, said that several Democrats were requested to leave "in his presence there produced the non-partisan atmosphere that is and should be maintained by the Board of Administrators."

In his statement, Hill mentioned that he was pleased with the turnout last Saturday and commented on the excellent cooperation of the Democratic candidates and committee members who did a fine job of "getting the people out to register."

The platform

The Democratic Party yesterday released its platform for the coming election with the candidates pledging themselves to the principles they committed themselves to in the last election.

Two years ago, when incumbent James Derby, Jr., was elected, the Democratic candidates pledged to discharge their duties with the highest integrity, keeping the public interest foremost in mind.

They were committed to the principles of fiscal integrity, efficient, orderly and unified government. This year in renewing their pledges, they state "We have kept our promises."

The Democratic platform pledges to continue the work begun by the present Democratic administration and to continue to give responsive and positive direction to town affairs, mindful of the need of economy in government.

It dedicates the candidates to full-time government, pledging to provide "better communication between selectmen, townspeople and town boards."

The platform further states that the candidates believe in personal and individual attention to the needs of all our school children, keeping uppermost in mind in budgetary considerations the needs for reasonable teacher-pupil ratios for all education groupings, good education services and improved programs for the so-called "average" student.

Recognizing the increased awareness and the untapped reservoir of talent of the young people of our town, the candidates pledge to endeavor to enlist their aid, ideas and talent in service to the community.

They also pledge continued support to the Drug Advisory Committee which was established under Democratic leadership and to seek financial assistance if available from Federal and State authorities, and to embark upon a program of drug education and awareness in all effort to curb abuse.

It is also the intent of the Democratic candidates to keep Hebron greenbelt community in the Greater Hartford complex, giving earnest consideration to the Conservation Commission's land use recommendations and requests for acquiring appropriate water, fire, and watershed acreage to preserve the town's rural character.

Without losing sight of the above intent, they pledge further to endeavor to attract additional business establishments of a sort not inimical to ecological considerations to the end that they can continue to keep taxes down.

Also, they pledge themselves to work with the Recreation Commission in the development of progressive programs which will promote better recreational facilities for present and future citizens of the community.

They will further endeavor to

Irish Leader, De Valera, 89

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — President Eamon de Valera, once the sternly petrel of Irish politics and now the republic's Grand Old Man, is 89 today. Almost completely blind, he holds his graying 6-foot frame proudly erect at official functions. He led his country to independence from Britain 50 years ago.

The president plans to celebrate his birthday morning quietly in his mansion at Dublin's Phoenix Park, then travel 85 miles to the historic port city of Westport to receive the freedom of the town.

There he will join a distinguished roll of Westport freedom-fighters which includes the late President John F. Kennedy.

De Valera, on the southern coast, was a co-leader of the 1916 rebellion against the British.

Manhunt Ends In Shooting

In Bedford, Houston went to the door to find Walters holding a shotgun. In the house also were Mrs. Houston and two daughters.

David Study of the Bedford police told this of the Bedford manhunt.

"When we arrived, Mr. Houston's daughter came from across the street and said there was a man inside holding a rifle on her father. She said she had sneaked out of a window when the man got in and had run across the street and called us."

"We called for assistance but about that time he (Walters) came out of the garage with the rifle. He was holding a rifle on Mr. Houston and said he would kill him."

Study said Walters put the Houston family in a car and drove off. Police followed, finally surrounding and stopping the car.

"He had a shotgun to the man's head," said Study. "We were trying to talk him into giving it up. He refused and kept threatening to kill that family."

Walters had ordered the family out of the car and was standing with them.

Study said Arnold then shot Walters, using a telescopic sight on his rifle.

Staircase said Walters had been released from prison May, having been in federal prison for more than 20 years.

Before Walters' arrest, James J. Edgar Hoover wrote in a 1938 FBI Bulletin: "The operations of 'Ploof' Houston and Huron Tol Walters are similar to those of Bonnie Parker and Clyde Barrow. They are heavily armed and have stated they will not surrender without a fight."

term—including a letter, race-tracks and off-track betting—$30,000 to $30,000 a year.

"It might be advantageous, for tax reasons, for Mr. Burns to receive no salary for awhile," said Silverberg.

The commission will review the qualifications of up to 10 persons suggested for the job of executive director and will make its decision at a meeting next Tuesday, the chairman said.

Burns, a West Hartford resident, is known as a quip-cracking toastmaster as well as for his work in the GOP and his business activities. He is reportedly the leading contender for the top job in the state's new gambling enterprises.

Nobel Prize In Medicine To American

series of biological control mechanisms.

When you are driving a car, for example and there is a sudden emergency, you jam on the brakes—and your heart speeds up.

Your heart speeds up suddenly because glands inside you rush out adrenaline to make the heart thump. But the adrenal hormone doesn't itself make the heart speed up—contrary to popular belief. It activates cyclic AMP, which is what really causes the stronger heart beat.

"By discovering the mechanism by which hormones are either released or act," the Lasker Foundation said, "Dr. Sutherland has broadened our basic knowledge of endocrine physiology in health and disease."

After Dr. Sutherland demonstrated that cyclic AMP mediates a wide variety of hormonal action, many other scientists throughout the world have built a new structure of knowledge about hormones on top of the original discovery, scientists have said.

Cyclic AMP is even involved, scientists now know, in the control of genetic information.

Dr. Sutherland was born on Nov. 19, 1916, at Burlington, Kan. He earned a bachelor of science degree from Washington University in 1937 and a medical degree from Washington University School of Medicine in St. Louis, Mo., in 1942.

In his Nashville home, Sutherland mused that his life's research had become almost a hobby.

"In fact, in the beginning," he laughed, "I was really more like a hobby."

Work based on his discovery has "exploded," Sutherland continued. In one branch of the work, cyclic AMP has been shown in the laboratory to stop the growth of cancerous cells and return them to normal. But much more research must be done before any conclusions can be drawn from this.

Sutherland received the Nobel honor analytically.

"Of course there's money involved and there's recognition, although recognition isn't a big factor," there are a lot of fringe benefits. It makes the family happy, the school happy and it helps to arrange some things."

"That I made up my mind a long time ago to do without recognition," he said. "You know, if you do that, then you can go your own way. They can say you're doing it all wrong and you can just let them do it."

Sutherland's philosophy in his research was expressed in an address he made when he was the 1970 Albert Lasker Award for Basic Medical Research.

"It is an obligation of the scientist to do the work, especially in medicine," he said. "I am often asked why he could not benefit from it who could benefit from it but let me add that some of us Meat!!" for awhile, the crowd went into the hall of the House.

There they were joined by Bill Ciendemans, a Legal Aid lawyer from New Haven who signed requests for hearing in the event of cuts in welfare payments.

One of the leaders of the demonstration was Mrs. Isabelle Blake of Hartford, a member of the Citizens' Advisory Committee on Welfare. The committee issued a statement saying it opposes any policy which does not include an adequate allowance so as to provide for recipients in health and decency.

The committee also said Walters' "is bound by statute to appear, present and discuss any major policy prior to any directive."

White has not only announced cuts of 15 per cent in payments to families with dependent children, but has also hinted that additional cuts may be forthcoming.

The press secretary said Kissinger and his group would not make any public statements while on the trip.

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China was denouncing President Nixon's Phase 2 today as the time the White House was announcing Dr. Henry A. Kissinger's travel plans.

The official Peking news agency, in a broadcast monitored here, said Nixon's economic plan meant "that in his opinion the way to solve all problems is to let the capitalist world have more profits."

It said U.S. inflation was due basically to policies of "aggression and war by the U.S. ruling classes, and policies of unrelenting and expansion of the war of aggression in Indo-China."

wounded in the 30-minute action.

South Vietnamese spokesmen said another 12 enemy soldiers were killed as troops of the 21st Division repulsed an attack on the Ben NH camp in the Phu Minh forest of the lower Mekong Delta about 170 miles southwest of Saigon. Four of the defenders were killed and five were wounded, they said.

The South Vietnamese government's weekly casualty summary reported 33 communist troops killed, 877 wounded and 45 missing last week, a slight increase over totals reported the previous week.

The allied commands claimed 1,423 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed, 12 less than a revised total of 1,540 the week before.

The allied commands said these are the total reported casualties for the war:

American—45,572 killed in action, 309,990 wounded, 9,813 dead from nonhostile causes.

South Vietnamese—133,856 killed in action, 290,998 wounded.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong—777,983 killed.
