

Stubborn Blaze Badly Damages Sheridan Block

By DOUGLAS BEVINS AND ALEX GIRELLI

A fire which burned stubbornly for more than six hours early yesterday morning before it was brought under control severely damaged the Sheridan Block on Main St., displacing about 35 persons who occupied apartments in the structure.

Five places of business were also damaged in the fire, which was fought by more than 100 firemen using eight trucks. They poured tons and tons of water into the building in an effort to douse the blaze, which traveled upward through the interior partitions and under false ceilings, virtually beyond reach of the water.

The fate of the building, owned by the Sheridan Corporation, is uncertain. The original center structure, built in 1923 as a hotel, is apparently beyond repair, according to Atty. George Lesner, who represents the corporation. Aside from starting the monumental clean-up job, future plans are indefinite.

The first alarm was sounded at about 11:15 Saturday night, but there were indications that the fire had been in progress "for some time" before that, fire officials said. It was 5 a.m. Sunday before firefighters under the direction of Deputy Chief John Rivosa, were satisfied that the battle was over. Recall came at 9:38 a.m.

The first firemen to arrive checked the apartments in the building and evacuated all occupants who had not already gotten out. No one was trapped in the fire, despite the fact that many of the occupants are elderly persons, and two were reportedly ill.

Some of the occupants took refuge in the Sea Food Wharf, a nearby restaurant, where they were served coffee.

Using two aerial ladder trucks, firemen began soaking the roof of the building, and at the same time attempted to get

Series Victory Triggers Wild Melee in Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — A World Series victory celebration Sunday night turned into a wave of destruction, looting and sex-in-the-streets. Nearly a hundred arrests were reported and at least that many others were treated at city hospitals.

Newsmen reported witnessing two apparent assaults on young women — in full view of hundreds who cheered the assaults — and there were displays of public love-making, nudity and drinking.

At the height of the melee, a police desk sergeant said he had calls reporting about a dozen rapes. But officials today denied they had such reports.

Police said they arrested about 90 persons for intoxication, five for disorderly conduct, one for disorderly conduct and assaulting a police officer and two juveniles.

The crowd downtown at one point was estimated at more than 100,000 persons.

There was scattered shooting, but only one reported wounded. Hundreds of explosions caused by fireworks often were mistaken for gunshots.

At least 30 stores were looted and 30 or 40 more were damaged. More than a dozen cars were overturned and in some cases burned.

Ulster Violence Claims Four

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A terrorist bomb exploded in his hands but by the time soldiers fought their way through sniper fire to the seriously wounding three bystanders at the close of a bloody weekend that claimed four and possibly five lives in the struggle between British security forces and the outlawed Irish Republican Army-IRA.

The early morning bomb explosion wrecked the Universal Furnishing Co. in New York Street and shattered windows over a wide area.

Spreading violence over the weekend brought death to three British soldiers and an IRA sniper and three policemen were wounded. British troops said they shot a second sniper Sunday night just as he was throwing a bomb at them. The bomb exploded in his hands but by the time soldiers fought their way through sniper fire to the seriously wounding three bystanders at the close of a bloody weekend that claimed four and possibly five lives in the struggle between British security forces and the outlawed Irish Republican Army-IRA.

Two opposition legislators, John Hume and Austin Currie, arrived in London and told newsmen they had documented evidence supporting the charges.

Accusations of brainwashing and torture were made by the Sunday Times, an independent weekly newspaper in London.

Prime Minister Brian Faulkner denied the Sunday Times report which he said was irresponsible.

Study on Protest Controls Is Needed, Meskill Says

HARTFORD (AP) — Gov. Thomas J. Meskill said today the legislature should work on ways to control large demonstrations in and around the state Capitol.

Meskill said the proper group to consider the question would be the Legislative Management Committee.

At the same time, he said he was willing to meet with a representative of a welfare group still demonstrating on the Capitol lawn. But he indicated it wouldn't do the demonstrators any good.

Meskill was asked if he would meet with them and he said: "I haven't had a request to meet with anybody." But, he added, "I would certainly meet with a representative of any group which has a grievance against state government. I will not meet with a mob, however."

The comments were made at a morning news conference. Last Thursday, on the first day of the welfare demonstration, a crowd entered the Capitol building and in a brief flare-up state Rep. Charles Grab, 69, suffered a bloody nose and cut forehead.

In Danbury, House Speaker William Ratchford, a Democrat, said the 1972 legislature would consider the question of Capitol security.

Policemen Stand Guard Over Brown

By LARRY SIMONBERG

NEW YORK (AP) — At least 20 detectives and uniformed policemen stood guard today over H. Rap Brown at Roosevelt Hospital where the black militant was being treated for wounds suffered in a gun battle with police.

The 25-year-old Brown, once quoted as saying violence is an "American as cherry pie," was reported in fair condition.

He and three other men were captured by police after they allegedly tried to rob the Red Carpet Bar on West 85th Street early Saturday. Police said they came upon the scene as the robbery was in progress, and a fierce shootout erupted.

Brown, who first came to national attention when he succeeded Stokely Carmichael as chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee in May 1967, was held in lieu of $100,000 bond each on charges of attempted homicide, robbery and possession of dangerous weapons.

A witness had phoned police at 3 a.m. and reported that robbers were stripping 25 patrons and employees of money and jewelry.

His appearance had changed. Two lawyers said they didn't recognize him at the hospital, although they got only brief looks. The police said the identification through fingerprints was positive.

Brown's wife, Lynne, a New York schoolteacher, he had married in 1968, and his brother, Ed, were among those who visited the hospital. They declined to talk with newsmen.

Free on bail during appeal of the New Orleans conviction, he was reported being quietly in

Rap Brown Profile Fame as Apostle of Violence Built Over Three-Year Period

NEW YORK (AP) — A few years ago, H. Rap Brown was this country's best-known preacher of black revolution.

A gangly young firebrand with Afro hair, dark glasses and a drooping moustache, he advocated the gun, the torch and the bomb.

"We're at war—so accept the face and fight the honks. We built this country and we'll burn it down," he told an audience of fist-waving blacks in Camden, N.J., in 1967.

A speech in Cambridge, Md., that year led to indictment on a charge of rioting, inciting to riot and arson. His lawyers fought the charges for three years, and also battled his 1968 conviction in New Orleans on a federal gun charge which resulted in a five-year prison sentence.

When the Maryland trial was finally set to start in April, 1970, Brown failed to appear. He was added to the FBI's most wanted list and was not seen again in public for 17 months.

Early Saturday, New York police wounded him in a shootout after a bar holdup in Manhattan.

His appearance had changed. Two lawyers said they didn't recognize him at the hospital, although they got only brief looks. The police said the identification through fingerprints was positive.

During the New Orleans gun trial, he was charged with another crime—threatening a black FBI agent in a court-house corridor during a recess.

Free on bail during appeal of the New Orleans conviction, he was reported being quietly in

New York, where he published a book, "Die, Nigger, Die."

The activities of Carmichael, Brown and SNCC were closely connected.

Carmichael, credited with coining the phrase "black power," promised his followers that Brown was even more militant than he was.

Brown was born in Baton Rouge, La., and attended Southern University for three years before dropping out to work in civil rights and voter registration organizing. He became SNCC's project director in Alabama before succeeding Carmichael.

Under Brown's leadership, SNCC continued its development as an activist organization. Alliances were formed with the Black Panthers and such local groups as the Black Liberators, with which Petty, Young and Valentine have been linked.

The Liberators were led by Charles Koen, the prime minister, who is now leader of the Black United Front in racially tense Cairo, Ill.

Petty was wanted on a federal gun charge in St. Louis, and Valentine was indicted for murder there in 1969. Young was also said to be wanted by the St. Louis police.

Brown was visited at the hospital by his wife, Lynne, whom he married in 1968, and a brother, Ed. They declined to speak to newsmen.

His lawyer in the Maryland case, William M. Kunstler, said he looked at the patient through

China Debate Begins at U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Albania held today that adoption of the U.S. plan for dual representation of China in the United Nations would keep Peking out. The United States took issue with that view.

The two countries clashed as the 131-nation General Assembly opened its first debate on Chinese representation since the United States switched to a new policy.

Albanian Foreign Minister Nesti Nase, the first speaker, quoted an Aug. 20 declaration of the Communist People's Republic of China that it would "have nothing to do with the United Nations" if a "two Chinas" or a "one China-one Taiwan" formula was adopted.

U. S. Ambassador George Bush denied that the U.S. formula was either a "two Chinas" or a "one China and one Taiwan" plan. And he said "Nobody can know for sure how Peking will react" to the adoption of a 19-nation resolution he introduced to have both Chinas in the assembly and Communist China on the Security Council.

Bush warned against expelling the Chinese Nationalists, as provided in a 22-nation resolution that Nase had introduced to replace them with Chinese Communists through the United Nations.

He said the expulsion would be irreversible, since Communist China on the Security Council could veto the Nationalist's readmission, and it would constitute a dangerous precedent for other U.N. members.

"If the assembly is going to travel down that road, where, I ask, do we stop?" he asked. "Who can predict what U.N. members will be next?"

Nase's warning on Peking's attitude was backed by circulation of the Aug. 20 Peking declaration.

"Surely," Bush said, "there is many another member in this organization which, though fully in possession of territory and governmental powers, could one day become the target of some political combination commanding a simple majority in this hall, aiming to throw it out solely because its right to govern is disputed by others."

He then introduced a 22-nation resolution labeling the expulsion of Nationalist China an "important question," requiring a two-thirds vote to decide.

"The one and only question involved here is expulsion," he said. "It's just as simple as that."

Bush called the dual-representation resolution realistic because it would put both Communist China, controlling the populous mainland, and Nationalist China, controlling 14 million people on Taiwan, in the United Nations without prejudicing future relations between them.

"All the people of China," he said, "would thus at last be represented in the United Nations by the governments which for over 20 years have actually governed them."

Bush also said the formula does not "interfere" with the plans for President Nixon's visit to Peking "or with the mutual desire of the two sides to develop better contact with each other."

He said those contacts would not be "at the expense of any other party."

The Albanian foreign minister charged that the U.S. plan, which he called "two Chinas," actually was aimed at a deadlock which would prevent the seating of Peking.

It was the closest big-unit action in the capital in several months, involving an estimated 400 enemy troops and about 700 South Vietnamese of the 5th Infantry Division.

Spokesmen said the fighting began last Saturday when two South Vietnamese reconnaissance companies engaged an enemy battalion. The South Vietnamese were supported by artillery and tactical air strikes and later an infantry battalion reinforced them.

Fighting continued into the night. A body count Sunday morning showed 29 of the enemy and 17 government troops killed and 11 government men wounded, the South Vietnamese said.

Hostilities on the Cambodian border 60 to 90 miles northwest of Saigon intensified this morning with a sharp firefight near a paratroop base at Thien Ngon, on Highway 22 in Tay Ninh province.

Government spokesmen said about 200 paratroopers clashed with a large enemy force and killed 29 of them with the aid of artillery strikes. Seven South Vietnamese were reported killed and 20 wounded.

The Thien Ngon base was shelled four times Saturday and Sunday, but casualties were reported very light with no fatalities.

Another South Vietnamese base at Krok, seven miles inside Cambodia, was hit Sunday by nine 122 mm rockets and two mortar rounds. Again casualties were reported light with no fatalities.

The five Democratic candidates for the Board of Education today released the list of their "platform" as such, he said to Democratic town chairman Ted Cummings.

The five Democratic Board of Education candidates met with Dr. Walter Scharit, Board of Education member not up for election this year. The five were featured at a reception yesterday afternoon at Scharit's 31 Eastland Dr. home. The candidates left to right are incumbent Atty. Allan Thomas; Paul Greenberg; Mrs. Eleanor Colman; Atty. John Yavis; and Dr. David Winer. Dr. Scharit is at right. Atty. Pascal Frigano, a Democratic candidate for Board of Directors, is in upper left of picture.

Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices drifted without a pattern in today's slow trading as blue-chip issues scored modest gains. The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose 1.10 to 878.86. Declines led advances by a small margin on the New York Stock Exchange. Analysts said investors were torn between hope for the economic outlook and fears that inflation might be rekindled if wage increases were allowed under Phase of the new economic program.

Sudanese Plane Kills Bystanders

CAIRO (AP) — Eight persons were killed by a Sudanese government plane that hit them as it was taking off from Wau air-chemicals and electronics port in the southern Sudan, were up. State, mail order, Egyptian newspapers said today, and airlines were off. All day. The report said all eight other stock categories were mixed. At noon The Associated Press were uninjured.

Stars in Fuzz

NEW YORK (AP) — Burton Reynolds and Yul Brynner will star in "Fuzz," a comedy drama about the New York police which is coordinated and compatible with the new changes in the elementary school; a review of present curriculum to eliminate dated material to make room for an improved art and music program, a strengthened science program, and improved special services.

6. Sidewalk construction is initiated where busing costs are excessive. 7. Accountability procedures and management objectives be emphasized for teachers and principals. 8. In-service training, team teaching, and use of teacher aides should be encouraged. 9. Voluntary efforts to supplement education programs should be pursued. 10. Communication and coordination between Board of Education, Board of Directors, town manager, and taxpayers share. 4. Incentive programs be established to encourage cost savings to the people.

The list of Democratic objectives follows: 1. Mass purchasing practices which will allow the town to realize the cost savings from buying in large quantities. 2. Modernization of the business management and purchasing procedures to improve efficiency and provide better accountability of equipment and supplies. 3. Federal grants and state funds will receive special attention to insure an equitable share.

That record does not easily make him the "President's own expert" on nutrition matters, as a New York Times headline has described him, but it does, to say the least, entitle him to an opinion and a hearing on the matter of the Nixon Administration's effort to cut perhaps 1,200,000 of the nation's school children out of the federally subsidized school lunch program.

The Candidates Are Saying—

Mrs. Harriet Hasset
As a possible Board of Education member I present myself quite simply, as a parent and citizen interested in our educational system. My knowledge of our school system has been gained through PTA, children with learning disabilities and other educational committees. My children are elementary and pre-school age and thus my concern is at all levels of learning.

We have a good system—but that's not to say there isn't room for improvement. One area that has been opened up but needs much expansion is our learning disability program. Our teaching methods should be continually updated. However, I don't feel we have to throw out all of the older traditional methods—thereby assuming they are no good—and change to the new methods assuming the new methods are a cure-all. Also, I might add I consider good discipline a necessary ingredient to our schools.

I am a firm believer in the neighborhood school concept and thus would be opposed to regionalization of our school system. A 12-month school system has much merit and therefore deserves a thorough investigation to find out if it could be implemented in a town of our size with relative ease.

Our present Board of Education has instituted a good maintenance program which must be continued. Our physical plant was allowed to deteriorate in years past and thus we have had a lot of costly catching up to do.

Last, but certainly not least, I would strive to streamline and save while upgrading our educational system as today's youth equals tomorrow's future.

Mrs. Vivian Ferguson
As a candidate, I am not one to make so-called pie-in-the-sky statements. I can promise you hard work, an honest evaluation of the issues and can devote full time to this duty. During the time I have served on the Board of Directors, I have had perfect attendance at board meetings, all study committee meetings to which I have been appointed, all hearings, all tours of town departments, all morning comment sessions and have attended two seminars for government officials.

I have done my homework in that I have researched carefully anything upon which I made a decision. I have made myself available to the people of Manchester by listening to them. I have been available to them in my home as well as in official sessions. I believe that a public official should seek the opinions and suggestions of her constituents. I have and will continue to do this.

Profile of Brown

Paul B. Greenberg
This year Manchester has made many changes in the elementary school curriculum. These changes which involve more emphasis on individualized learning methods were badly needed and long overdue. During periods of rapid change, however, even under ideal circumstances, there is always some confusion due to the assistance on the part of a few to maintain the status quo. Therefore, when a system embarks on new programs, it should anticipate as many potential problems as possible. It should train its people, insure that all the necessary equipment is on hand, and plan for the unexpected.

Manchester has not prepared its teachers for the new program, has not provided them with the necessary equipment, and as a result has unnecessarily added to the confusion and endangered the success of the new curriculum.

It is the responsibility of the Board of Education to insure that the schools and their personnel are adequately prepared before making major changes, and if needed to the Board of Education, I will do all that is possible to insure that they are.

against Brown so that FBI agents would continue to look for Brown because of the seriousness of the felony charge. Yates, who denied the accusation, said on learning of Brown's capture, "Thank God, I thought they'd get him sooner or later."

The prosecutor said he thought the New York charges would have to be disposed of first.

"If the federal authorities get that Brown had died when a car, which had been wired with a bomb, exploded at Bal Air, Md., killing two of his friends in March, 1970."

Then when Brown did not appear at the Maryland trial, the rumors flew again.

That case led to a charge by Richard L. Kinslet, state's attorney for Howard County, that conference Saturday afternoon his counterpart in Dorchester with Police Commissioner Pat rick V. Murphy on hand to "fabricated" the arson charge.

Scenes at Fire Which Damaged Sheridan Building

Snorkel, right, and aerial ladder in the fight against the fire in the Sheridan Building which raged for six hours.

Occupants of the apartments fled the fire and some of them rested in a restaurant nearby. All found places to stay temporarily.

Firefighters attack the fire from the front of the building.

Bright lights guided the firemen as they worked.

Herald Photos By Reginald Pinto and Albert Bucetvicius

After the fire, the roof of the building looked like this.

The floor of this apartment collapsed in the height of the fire.

Lufkin Requests Aid of Citizens

THE NEW STATE Department of Environmental Protection needs the help of state residents, says its commissioner, Don Lufkin.

He said Sunday his department's job "is not the help of citizens groups who take an interest in the environment."

As an example, Lufkin noted a bill passed by the House of Representatives that allows his department to prevent the filling of wetlands. But he said it would be impossible for his department to do so unless the citizens groups working on the wetlands program to police the state's tidal wetlands without help from citizens.

Lufkin was speaking to the Environmental Protection Association at a meeting in Westfield, Mass.

Luftin Requests Aid of Citizens

THE NEW STATE Department of Environmental Protection needs the help of state residents, says its commissioner, Don Lufkin.

He said Sunday his department's job "is not the help of citizens groups who take an interest in the environment."

As an example, Lufkin noted a bill passed by the House of Representatives that allows his department to prevent the filling of wetlands. But he said it would be impossible for his department to do so unless the citizens groups working on the wetlands program to police the state's tidal wetlands without help from citizens.

Lufkin was speaking to the Environmental Protection Association at a meeting in Westfield, Mass.
