British Posts Blown Up By IRA in Ulster

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP)—Irish Republican Army guerrillas blew up eight British customs posts along the Irish border today and bombed a British army post in Belfast, killing one soldier and wounding eight civilians. The soldier, a cook, died as he was making lunch for Scots Guards troops. The civilians, including their children, were injured when their house next door collapsed in the Roman Catholic Springfield Road district. The raids followed a powerful blast Friday which ripped apart a Belfast police station and killed an inspector, bringing the British province's death toll in more than two years of civil strife to 341. A sergeant, his wife and two children narrowly escaped when their home in the Finaghy district was blown up late Friday night. They had left 10 minutes earlier. An adjoining police house was badly damaged. The third house hit no longer belonged to police "A case of bad IRA intelligence," the British Army commented. A precinct house in Belfast's Antrim Road was bombed early today, but was only slightly damaged. An electricity company office next door suffered worse damage. Several civilian targets also were picked out by the bombers. The owner of a Belfast liquor store who tried to defend his property by hurling bottles at masked raiders was shot in the head. Hospital authorities said a precinct station.

Meskill Says: Degree of Aid to Schools To Depend on Tax Income

HARTFORD (AP)—Gov. Thomas J. Meskill has eased out on cuts in state aid to schools districts, while adding that the level of aid could increase or decrease depending on state tax income. The executive order issued Friday by the governor set the per-pupil education grant based on average daily membership (ADM) at $206. That is $6 less than the amount authorized by the legislature but $5 more than the amount Meskill had said in August he would allow. The August cuts, which also involved other forms of aid, totaled $3 million and stirred legal action from three quarters. Those court figures still are pending. The actual reductions in the ADM grants going out next week amount to about $1.5 million, since the payment is only the first of three in installments for the fiscal year. Meskill said he had eased up on the ADM grants in hopes the state can collect the capital gains tax at the full level targeted by the legislature. The new level is intended to double the tax. He said the administration also is assuming it will win its court fight for the right to cut welfare aid to families with dependent children. "We are putting on our rose-colored glasses," Meskill said, referring to the hope for reaching projected revenues. A deviation in revenue, he added, could push later ADM grants upward or downward. The crash was one of three announced by the U.S. Command.

10 Americans Killed in Crash Of 'Copter in Sea Off Vietnam

SAIGON (AP)—A big Army helicopter crashed at sea near Nha Trang and sank in about 120 feet of water last Tuesday, killing 10 Americans aboard, including one crewman and wounding another. A U.S. Navy OV10 light attack plane was shot down Friday night in the Mekong Delta, about 80 miles southwest of Saigon, but there were no casualties. The losses raised to 8,001 the number of U.S. aircraft reported lost in the Indochina war since Jan. 1, 1961. SAIGON (AP)—President Nguyen Van Thieu will be inaugurated to a second four-year term Sunday in the face of accelerated U.S. troop withdrawals and the threatened loss of American economic aid. The U.S. military shield is quickly being dismantled, and there is strong speculation that President Nixon soon will announce a total U.S. combat withdrawal from Vietnam by next July, leaving a residual force of 40,000 to 50,000 American troops and minimum air cover. Peak U.S. strength was 643,000 troops during Thieu's first term in office and it has dropped to 200,000 in a little more than two years. On the eve of Thieu's inauguration the U.S. Senate stunned officials here by voting to end all American foreign aid. While the Senate action does not affect military aid to South Vietnam, it means a loss of $549 million in economic aid for the fiscal year unless Congress reconvenes. U.S. officials said today there is not enough money available in the aid "pipeline" to carry South Vietnam through the current fiscal year ending next June 30. "Continuing resolutions" from Congress have kept John Downey, a Yale University graduate, an Richard Fecteau of Lynn, Mass., were captured Oct. 30, 1972 when (See Page Thirteen)

Senate Vote Kills Bill On Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has voted a stunning end to more than two decades of U.S. foreign aid by decisively rejecting a $2.9 billion bill to extend the program for two more years. The 41-to-27 vote Friday night—not totally unexpected—left in doubt the future of the aid program, which was started to get the Western World back on its feet after World War II's ravages. While various procedures to extend foreign aid remain possible, Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said any effort to keep it going would be met with extended debate. The government still has $4.7 billion in unspent foreign aid funds appropriated before last July, but when that runs out so does aid to foreign nations. President Nixon was quick to decry the Senate action, calling for an "immediate restoration of the absolutely vital foreign assistance program." In a statement relayed by a White House aide, Nixon called the Senate vote "a highly irresponsible action which undoes 26 years of constructive bipartisan foreign policy and produces unacceptable risk to the national security of the United States." The Senate vote came as a climax to long years of grumbling over the aid program. National polls have always shown it one of the government's least popular undertakings. In the showdown, liberals who contended aid led to the Vietnam war teamed up with conservative critics of the billions spent on the program to kill the bill. The bill, which would have provided $1.3 billion for economic aid and $1.6 billion for military aid until July 1, 1973, is for all purposes dead. The Senate tabled a motion to reconsider, thus killing the bill. No conference committee compromise is possible with the House, which passed a different bill. Revival of the aid program before Congress quits for the year seems especially questionable. Leaders hope to end the session in late November. An entire new foreign aid bill (See Page Eight)

Downey Kin At Border Of Red China

HONG KONG (AP)—Mary V. Downey is "looking forward eagerly and prayerfully" to visiting her son John in a Red Chinese prison where he has been serving a life sentence since 1962, another son said today. Mrs. Downey, 74, of New Britain, Conn., her son, William, and his wife arrived Friday and expect to cross the Hong Kong border into China on Sunday morning. "From the border," the brother said in a brief telephone conversation from his hotel in Canton and then, we have been told, we will fly from Canton to Peking sometime Monday. "If all goes as expected, we should have our first visit with John Tuesday and we hope to see him every day during the eight or nine days we hope to be in Peking." Food Policy Rapped In Bean Recall

WASHINGTON (AP)—A recall of canned green beans amid reports that botulism was found in a Florida child and his father has sparked renewed criticism of federal food-safety policies. "It is obvious that legislation is needed because existing administrative remedies have not been taken to properly safeguard the American public," Chairman Paul G. Rogers of the House public health subcommittee said Friday night. The Florida Democrat commented after the Food and Drug Administration reported that Stokely-Van Camp Inc. had started recalling a shipment of more than 15,000 cans of green beans. FDA issued an urgent warning to consumers who may have the eight-ounce cans on their shelves. The FDA said a Florida man, identified as Marine Campbell, William Cleveland Jr., 27, and his 4-year-old son William III, noticed a distasteful flavor after eating a few beans from a swollen can at their home in Pensacola. A spokesman at Pensacola Naval Air Station said Friday both were in "good condition" in the station hospital and were being treated with anti-toxins for botulism poisoning. Dr. George Rose said the strain of botulism found in their bloodstreams was "as deadly as the kind found recently in soup." At Stokely-Van Camp's Indianapolis headquarters, David McVey, senior vice president, said efforts were being made to determine where the 650 cases had been distributed. FDA said the batch of "finest French style sliced green beans" carried on each can code No. 8B 72-E213D, and was packed Aug. 1, 1970, in the firm's plant at Kalamazoo, Mich. McVey said the firm expressed grave concern "over the alleged possibility a can of its green beans might be contaminated with botulism." He added that the firm was acting as though the allegation is true even though he said it suspects it is a false alarm. Meanwhile, Rogers, whose subcommittee made lengthy investigations of cases involving the Vivant and Campbell's soups earlier this year, said his panel is expected to begin work soon on proposed legislation. Two Down and One to Go

That time has come, as it does each year, to acknowledge the fact that winter's near. A perfect solution, and a thing to treasure, is a clock with three hands, or an hour-glass measure. The thing to remember to do tonight, is to fix the clocks until they're right. When you're ready for bed and you've had that last snack, your clock must be pushed one hour BACK. If your clock says 2, it'll mean that it's 1. And be sure to wind it, or it just won't run. The end of Daylight Saving's here—the time for sure to shed a tear. If it seemed like the days were getting shorter—they'll be even shorter when you do what you oughter. And what you oughter do, in fact—is to push those clocks one hour BACK. (See Page Eight)

In Willimantic Pair of Psychic Investigators Battle Witches with Witches

WILLIMANTIC (AP)—If fire can be fought with fire, why not fight witches with witches? Why not? So felt ghost chaser Edward Warren of Monroe when he was called in recently to see what was ailing a Willimantic woman who was saying funny things. Things like she had been burned at the stake in 1839 after being condemned by a "pompous old flute." That bit of history was extracted from the woman, whom Warren identifies as Mrs. A. while under hypnosis. Warren and his wife, Lorraine, who describe themselves as psychic investigators, believed the woman was bewitched by an evil witch, Abigail, who died 332 years ago. Their reasoning was that Mrs. A's late father used to practice witchcraft in the basement and try to conjure up demons when he had been drinking. Enter the good witch, Zia Rose from Bridgeport and her coven of 13 witches. Not on brooms, however. They arrived in an old white convertible loaded with the necessary gear: bell, broadsword, incense, altar, candles, chalices, special sort of amulets and a portable magic circle fashioned from a bedsheet. "Now this ceremony is always very dangerous because we don't know what sort of forces we're dealing with," Zia explained. "Those outside the circle of protection could become obsessed or possessed by the forces summoned unless they are wearing a specially prepared amulet." The ritual would be short, Zia explained, because she "had to get up at seven and take the kids to school." Zia selected a nearby hill for the ritual, figuring lots of trees. (See Page Eight)

Vernon McCoy Asks Examination Of Record

"In the last election campaign I was referred to as 'A man of action.' I think I have justified that reference," Mayor Frank McCoy said today in urging the voters to return "my action-minded team to office so we can continue to act in your behalf."

In the last of the political statements before Tuesday's elections, Republican Mayor McCoy, who is seeking re-election, said he and his fellow Republicans are running on their record which "shows undeniably that we have delivered on our campaign promises of two years ago." The mayor has been head of the Town Council which is made up of eight Republicans and four Democrats.

The record of achievements he cited, but did not detail, the mayor said, included: the new town hall; completion of and plans for more drainage installations. Also: Reinstatement of a youth employment program with the cleaning up of the Hockanum River one of the projects; a new firehouse for the Rockville area initiated and approved; a plan submitted for improvement to the filtration plant; new and expanded recreation facilities including a new swimming pool and coordination and cooperation of improvement of other recreation areas; installation of sidewalks in several areas deemed dangerous for children walking regulations; filed comprehensive applications for federal grants at four dangerous intersections.

Mayor McCoy, noting that increased police protection by increasing the police personnel; additional housing for the elderly; activities increased for senior citizens; no show the hard work of my administration through firm administration."

Vernon Two Sought In Robbery

Vernon police are seeking two white males in connection with an armed robbery that took place at the Gastown service station on Rt. 30 last night at 9:30.

According to police, one of the suspects held the attendant at knifepoint while the other took about $200 from the cash register. Both escaped on foot.

In another case, police arrested Owen W. Wright, 20, of Pawcatuck, Conn., yesterday on a Toland County Superior Court bench warrant charging violation of probation. The arrest was made in Boston and Wright waived extradition. He was taken to Hartford Correctional Center where he was held in lieu of $5,000 bond pending court appearance Tuesday.

South Windsors Democratic Candidates Hit GOP Education Proposal

Democratic candidates for the Board of Education criticized the "minor mention of the Republican plan for solving the overcrowding problems at the high school," as stated in the 12-point platform the GOP issued yesterday.

Mrs. Cleo Decker, Donald Berghuis and David Cohen, in a joint statement, said "improvement of the (Republican) plan" would remove the high school situation from the category of 'problem' and turn it into a crisis."

The Republicans pledged to complete a study of the 6-3-3 plan of grade division and other proposals and then select the alternative that will provide the highest quality of education at the least possible expense and disruption of academic life.

The Democrats explained that the opposition is asking the town to act still while they begin another study. "They don't tell you that the study of the 6-3-3 plan was accomplished by the School Facilities Committee," and that both a majority position (against it) and a minority report were issued, they said.

If the plan has merit, the Democrats said, there is no real need for another long study. "Let it be brought to the board for discussion and possible implementation." They termed the call for another study a "delaying tactic."

The Democrats called for positive action by the Republicans. "If they favor a 6-3-3 plan, they should say so." They charged that to hide behind the political and educational cowardice.

They added that by supporting the Republicans in the matter, residents will be saying they are willing to allow the party to present "no bona fide plan to you and that you will trust them to do the right thing." They stressed that the Republicans have not told the people what they will do, but the Democrats have by stating they favor modulars and a conversion construction program at the high school while calling for retention of Wapping School as an elementary school.

Town Council will meet Monday at 8 p.m. in the town hall to act on the passage of an ordinance to establish four-year terms for registrars of voters. This item will be the subject for discussion at a 7:45 p.m. public hearing prior to the regular council meeting.

Council is also expected to authorize the expenditure of $2,000 from the contingency fund to the Manchester Historical Workshop and the adoption of the 1970-71 audit of the town as proposed by Fred, Marwick, Mitchell and Co.

The Library Board of Directors report and a sewer Commission report is also slated to be heard.

FINESSA NOMINATED AS WORST OF YEAR
By ALFRED SHEINWOLD
It is always a mistake for a columnist to state that this or that was the worst play in recorded bridge history because he can't forecast what horrors the experts are about to perpetrate. Still, after watching several thousand finesses under a magnifying glass this year, I am willing to nominate a finesse in today's hands as one of 1971's worst.

South dealer. Both sides vulnerable. Opening lead — Four of Clubs. West opened the four of clubs, and South played the six from the dummy. After making this play South ate the bread of adversity and drank the water of affliction.

East won with the king of clubs and wondered what his best return was. It seemed very unlikely that declarer had two spade stoppers, so East shifted to the six of spades.

South put up the jack of spades, losing to the king. Back came the eight of spades, driving out the unguarded ace. Now everything depended on the diamond finesse. South got the dummy with the ace of clubs and led the queen of diamonds. East could not do any real damage. A club continuation would develop a second club trick for South. Any other lead would take the king of diamonds and "Wewolves on Wheels," 9:10; "Simon, King of the Witches," 7:30; "East Windsor Drive-In — 'Robel Roomer' 7:30; "On Any Sunday," 8:30; "Hard Ride," 10:30.

Three Reasons To Vote Tuesday: There are three major reasons why every Manchester voter should be making it his or her business to be at the polls next Tuesday.

In their vote next Tuesday on the proposed purchase of the Manchester Water Company, the people of all parts of Manchester will be facing the option which has been preparing itself for them, in its own inevitable, relentless fashion, for many years.

The second major reason why every Manchester voter should regard next Tuesday's voting as a command obligation concerns this town's responsibility to children now starting their way through the school system.

Two things about the proposed school building program are indisputable—the need for it, and the cost. The need is already beginning to bulge out our existing facilities.

We will be carrying on our own traditional standard of providing our own children with what they need when they need it, if next Tuesday, we approve the new northeast elementary school and the proposed new junior high school, as proposed to us in Questions 2 and 3.

Question 4 will have a special appeal to all those Manchester people who have watched approved and helped the Manchester IOE program in the past, for it involves the construction, at the proposed new junior high school, of a swimming pool which would be adapted to IGE special purposes as well as to general town and school use.

For Harmonious Classrooms: Down in New York City, a number of otherwise discerning and intelligent people are pretending to be very much up-to-date because the President of the city Board of Education recommended, recently, the use of astrology in order to establish more congenial classroom atmospheres in the big city. The Board President told a public meeting recently that "if astrology is correct," one of the reasons some youngsters create behavior problems in school these days is because their birth signs conflict with those of other pupils or the teacher.

Some comment has supported Mr. Robinson. A member of the board of directors of the Astrological Guild of America has said, for instance, that Mr. Robinson is "absolutely right."

The inference, from this quarter, would seem to be that Mr. Robinson is some kind of a superstitious ignoramus. We prefer to treat Mr. Robinson's suggestion as merely the latest educational theory. And we ask, after suggesting that our readers enumerate, for themselves, all the bright new educational theories and systems which have had their moments of faddist glory during the past half century, what makes Mr. Robinson's suggestion any less worthy than all the other systems that have been tested and tried.

Afternoon Of The Maples: We don't think Manchester has ever been more beautiful to look at than last Thursday afternoon, between the full emergence of the leaves and their setting, when there seemed almost an equal proportion of maple leaves, all still warm and vivid with color, on and off the trees.

By the next day, which was in every way already beginning to show signs of the fusion of the two-direc-tion glow spread out laterally into the street spaces and into the lawn spaces and into the parlors and kitchens and dining rooms of the houses.

Unwarranted Intrusion: Sen. Edward Kennedy's demand in Congress for the withdrawal of British troops from Ulster and the unification of Ireland can only be described as a totally unwarranted intrusion into British internal affairs.

Black Political Power

By Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

CLEVELAND—Carl Stokes, retiring after four flamboyant and turbulent years as mayor of Cleveland, is on the verge of pulling off a two-phase demonstration of black political power with important national implications.

Phase No. 1 was successfully completed in the Sept. 28 Democratic primary when Stokes defeated Cleveland's huge Negro vote for white millionaire real estate tycoon James M. Carson.

Cleveland is the model, closely observed by Negro politicians across the country, for black political power. In effect, Stokes tells white Democrats he will not merely be their overruler but

When and if the new redistricting plan gets published and approved, this writer is going to have to graduate from the narrow, road provincialism of a voting lifetime and embark upon a much broader existence in which he becomes a sort of floating voter.

So far as the still informal orientation of his voting future is concerned, this columnist seems to be resident in a relatively narrow slice of his old home town which is going to be cut loose for political annexation to neighboring communities for the purpose of voting for two specific offices.

It would appear to me that Mr. John Thompson is misinformed on local affairs. On two separate occasions, he has shown a lack of understanding of local problems.

standing of the effects of a given action, as well as the Board of Education's powerlessness to alter a decision against sidewalks, are all shown through this example.

Two weeks ago he called for more housing for the elderly. If he had done his homework he would have known that Manchester has received all the Federal Aid that is currently available for such projects.

Additionally, Manchester was one of the first towns to begin implementing a program of public service employment in the Emergency Employment Act of 1971.

These attempts by Mr. Thompson to make political hay follow the pattern of the position party in the current campaign of trying to be all things to all people.

In making this statement, I am calling attention to: — The complexities of modern government. — The real limitations the School Board faces in dealing with some of its problems.

The need for meaningful coordination of action between different units of town government.

The fact that unwise expenditures can badly hurt the quality of educational programs.

As a simple example, are the savings achieved by choosing not to build sidewalks in some areas of town real savings?

While I wish to continue writing for the people of the town in which I was born and have always lived, I wish also to set an example for my children as I was taught by my parents. I wish to exhibit to them that life is not lived only for oneself, I wish to exhibit to them the taking of action in a positive manner.

I am not, however, so much of an idealist to be unaware of the challenges that face a public official. I have faced those challenges and will continue to do so. I must look at myself in the mirror each day and must be able to say to myself, "I did my very best, as working as hard as I could."

I consider it an honor and a privilege to serve the town of Manchester as an educator and his sincere interest for better education in our community have my vote — DR. DAVID WINER, DEMOCRAT FOR BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Patricia A. Anders

As the only woman candidate for the Board of Directors, I am repeatedly asked, "Why an open mind, to be receptive to ideas?"

Earlier in the campaign, Mr. Thompson charged that we have remained silent on the unemployment situation in town. That fact is that during the past summer Manchester initiated a program of summer jobs so that young people unable to find work during the summer months could continue their education.

to change that is good, and to make improvements wherever needed.

Certainly Manchester's problems are not identical to other towns, but looking at what other towns are doing is certainly a good indication of how we're doing.

Fifteen years ago when we first came to Connecticut we couldn't afford to live in Manchester. Today we can't afford to live anywhere else.

Coventry Busing, Boating Finances Topics as Elections Near

Candidates from both political parties are issuing last minute statements prior to Tuesday's town election, with Republicans going on record as being against busing to correct racial balance, and favoring the continuance of power boating on Coventry Lake.

GOP Town Council candidate James Ladd has issued a statement on the effect of I-84 on the town and Democratic Town Council candidate David Roush has expressed his concern over Coventry's financial complexity.

Roush said that "no reasonable person could expect an influx of small businesses or industry to Coventry in the near future, to alleviate the financial strain on taxpayers."

To: Voters of Manchester

As a long time member of the staff of the Manchester Public Schools, I am concerned about the future quality of education for Manchester's junior high school youngsters if Manchester does not provide for additional junior high school facilities.

Our student enrollment this year at Bennet Junior High School totals 1,300, up 70 pupils from last year. If today's educational program and services were the same as those of 15 or 20 years ago this enrollment would not be excessive for the physical facility.

Also, Bennet's program has changed in an effort to meet the educational needs and interests of today's young people. A broader offering of elective courses to supplement the basic program requires added spaces and a more varied use of facilities.

Today we are using our teaching spaces at Bennet far in excess of the accepted scheduling efficiency for secondary schools. As our student body continues to grow — we have but two choices if we do not add additional junior high spaces.

Why do we need a Southwest Junior High School? If Iling Junior High is to become an effective three-year 700-pupil school it must be relieved of approximately 450 pupils by 1974 - 75. (This too will allow Manchester High School to accommodate its 2,400 pupils.)

Manchester has sought to evaluate the changes that have come upon the educational scene in recent years and implement those that can best improve the program for our junior high students.

Manchester has met its responsibilities to education in the past. I am confident that as Manchester looks to its present and future needs that it will again respond favorably to the challenge.

To: Voters of Manchester

Iling Junior High School is now in its twelfth year as an active part of the Manchester School System. It is a school the community can be proud of.

The program offered to the students twelve years ago was one that was commonly accepted by the community as a good overall program.

As a result, we began to think of new programs — ones that would have real meaning and purpose for each individual.

One big handicap is the division of Iling's student body and staff between the Iling building and Manchester High School.

This year 340 ninth grade students are housed at the high school and 730 seventh and eighth graders are in the Iling building.

With the present program of studies making use of every possible space now available, both at the high school and at Iling, it leaves very little chance to meet the demands for new programs.

In the past Manchester has always wanted the best education possible for its future citizens. It is pretty hard to believe that Manchester would settle for anything less today or tomorrow.

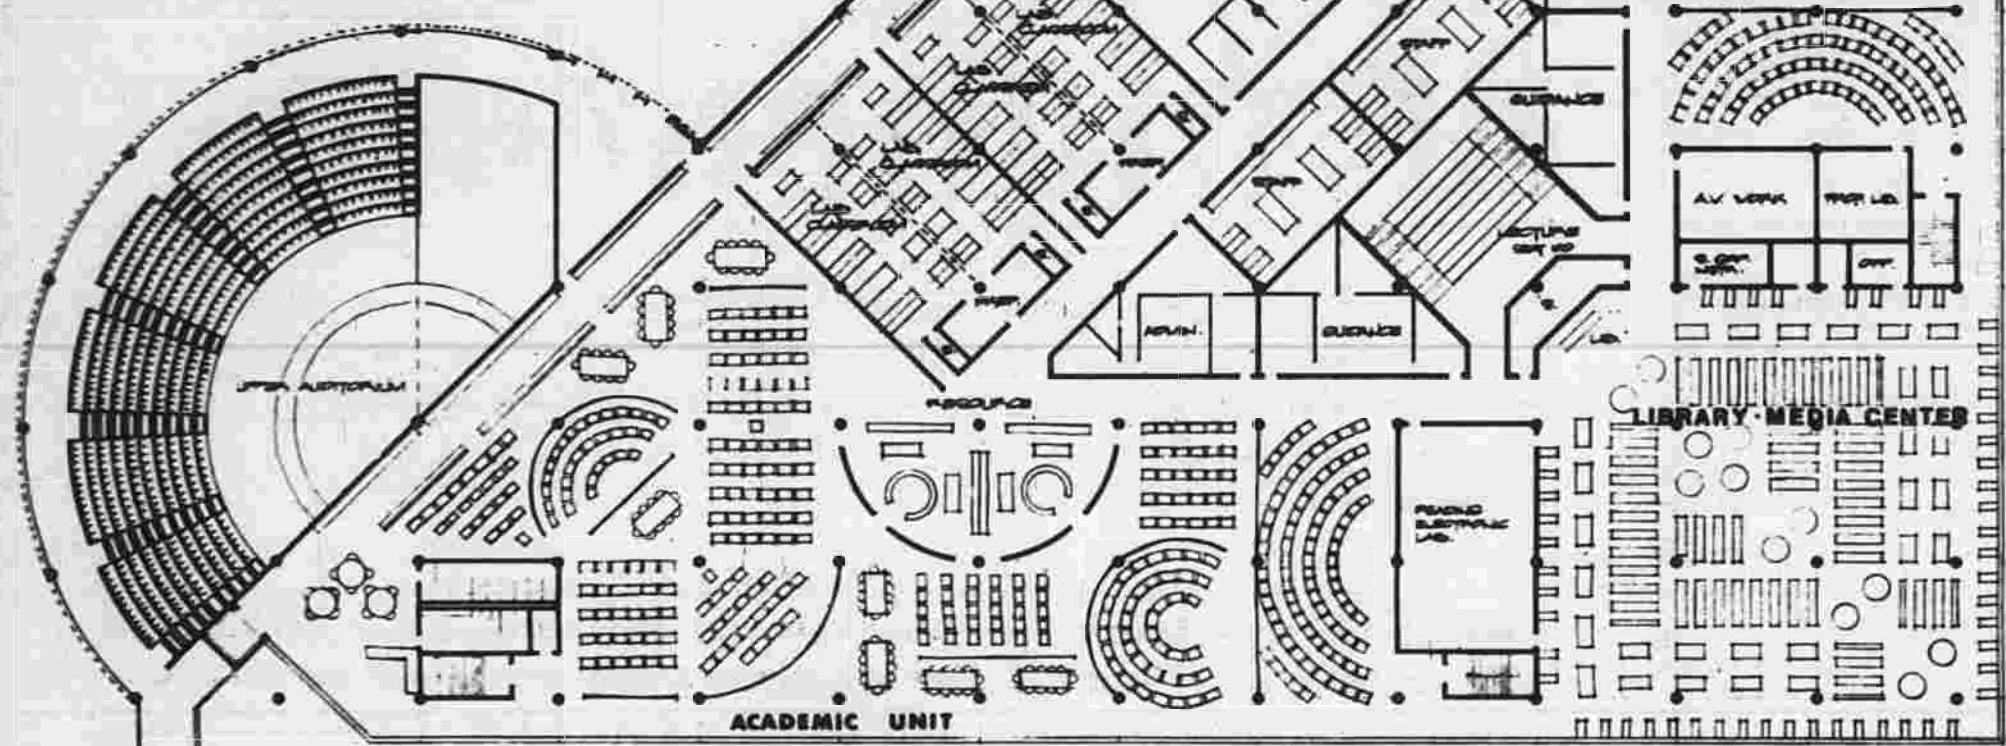

Sincerely, A. HYATT SUTLIFFE, Principal Iling Junior High School

Junior High Floor Plans

SECOND FLOOR PLAN

By JOHN JOHNSON (Herald Reporter)

Shown here are the floor plans for both levels of the proposed Southwest Junior High School which will be Question 3 among Tuesday's referendums. The total project cost, including site acquisition, is $2.87 million.

The site is a 26-acre tract east of Kennerly Rd. and north of Garden Grove Dr. Architect for the project is Charles T. Hollingsworth of the West Hartford firm of Roswell, Olshen, vonDohlen.

To get the proper perspective of the proposed school's position on the tract, the reader should turn the page slightly more than 90 degrees to the left so that the apex of the triangular-shaped building points up, or north.

Much of the instructional area has been planned to function under the open concept philosophy, or at least be adaptable to it. The darker lines in the floor plans will probably be permanent partitions. These are subject to change to permit individual classrooms to open into a large area when the teaching division is in session.

On the second floor, two academic houses will occupy the east and west sides of the building, with the library-media center at the apex of the triangle to serve both units. Housed in the two academic units will be an approximately equal number of students from the seventh, eighth, and ninth grades.

Each academic house would contain eight English and social studies rooms, three mathematics rooms, and two modern language rooms. Each would also have a resource room, in which a student may do independent study or other work with materials stored there or placed on reserve from the library-media center.

Immediately adjacent to one academic house would be a pupil reading laboratory, professional library, and other facilities specifically oriented to the faculty.

Directly south of the library-media center would be a room, capable of seating about 100 students, for large group instruction. On both sides of this room have been planned administrative, guidance, and staff offices for the personnel serving each academic house.

Along the base of the triangle, facing the vehicular approach to the main entrances and Garden Grove Dr., would be a four science laboratory classrooms and two resource preparation rooms on each side of a large learning disabilities center. The latter would be easily accessible from both academic houses.

Student traffic flow could be directed along corridors on both sides and at the base of the building, as well as on all three sides of the smaller inner triangle formed by the administrative, guidance, and staff offices.

On the first floor, and again at the apex of the triangle, would be the cafeteria, with serving areas on two sides. Food would be transported to the serving areas from the west side of the triangle.

Access to the 600-person auditorium, at the southeast point of the east side and the base, would be possible from both levels. Plans call for the central administration offices, health service units, and fine arts areas to occupy the exterior of the east side between the auditorium and the dining area; two music classrooms, a larger room for chorus and band use on the interior. In the center of the east side would be the business arts and special education areas.

Home and family arts areas would be situated at the first floor base of the triangle. Between the cafeteria and kitchen on the west side would be a large industrial arts area, including sections for graphics, metal, and woodworking.

A corridor would extend along the length of the triangle's base from the central administration, becoming the entrance to the proposed swimming pool, located at the southwest point of the west side.

Extending from the west side and across the corridor would be boys' and girls' showers and locker rooms and a four-station gymnasium, with bleachers to accommodate 800 spectators. The air bubble pool, vault in an inset on this page, is Question 4 among Tuesday's referendums. Instruction of the Handicapped (IHR) has promised to contribute at least $50,000 toward the estimated $300,000 cost.

The entire area of this structure would be 15,000 square feet. Seating has been planned for 460. Under the bleachers would be teachers' offices and boys' and girls' showers and locker rooms.

A portion of the horizontal part of the "bubble" pool would have a maximum depth of 1 1/2 feet for swimming instruction for handicapped children, conducted by IHR. The rest of the area of the pool would slope gradually in depth, with the stem of the T a greater depth for skilled swimmers and divers.

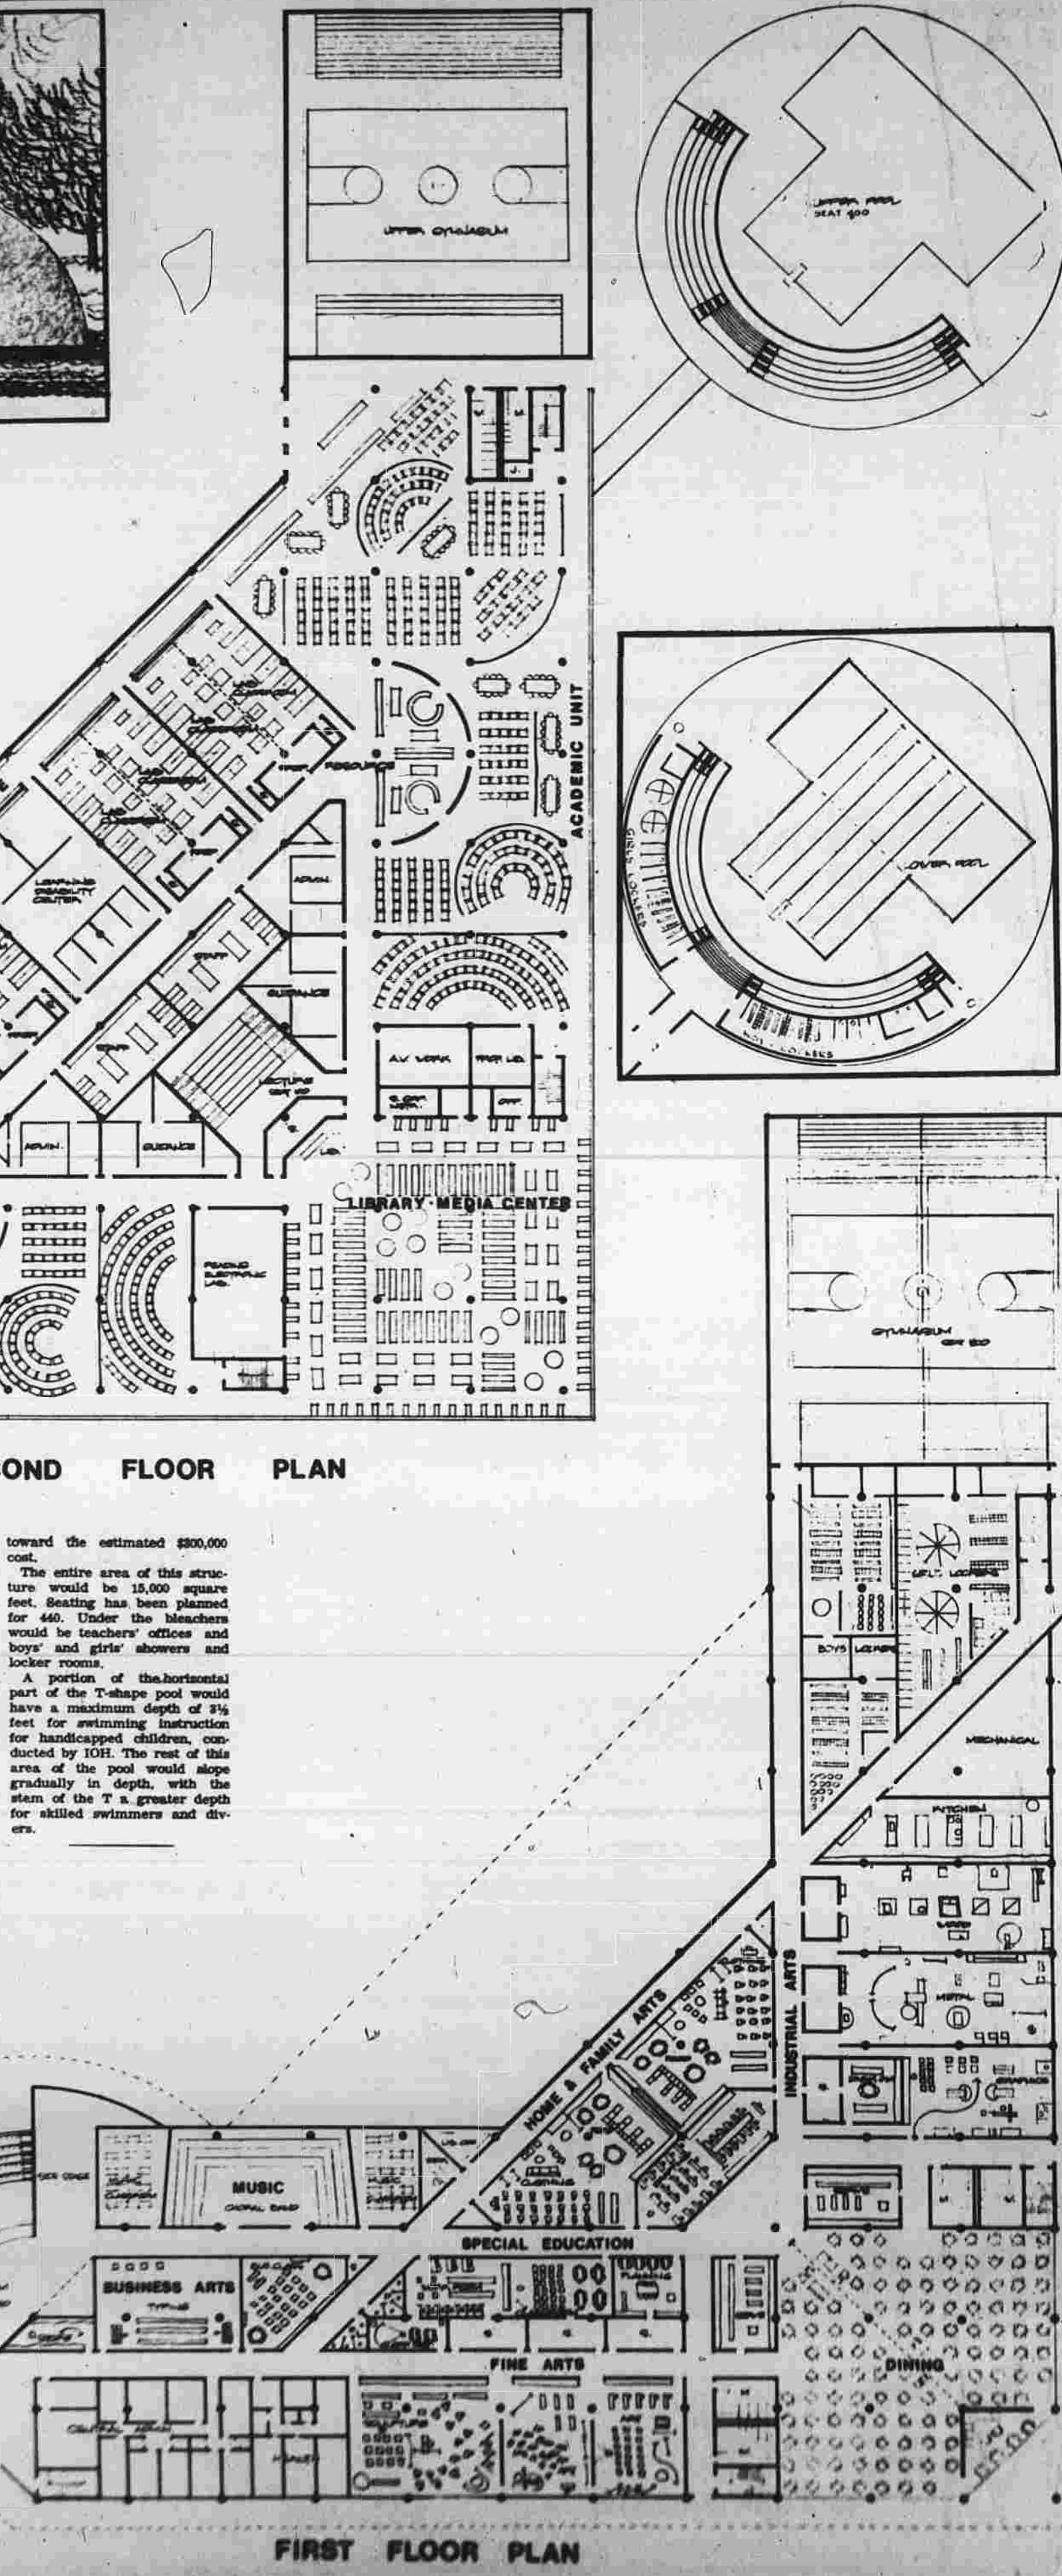

Each of the two circular swimming pools would be 100 feet in diameter and 10 feet deep. The entire pool area would be 15,000 square feet.

Students Live the Alphabet In New Reading Program

By BARBARA VARRICK (Herald Reporter)

Did you know that the letter "M" gets its sound from "munching mouth"? Well, Mrs. Marcy Davison's first grade students in the Avery Street School do. They know that "M" is beautiful "bubbles," "super socks" and all the other letters in the alphabet are also friendly characters.

This innovative method of teaching phonics is being conducted with such an enthusiastic student response, that the characters the letters represent have captured the youngsters' fancies.

This was depicted at the Halloween party Thursday when, in New York where two teachers with tremendous success. The woman who made Atlanta's each child appeared dressed in the costume of his favorite letter character and brought along "goodies" that resembled their character. For example, "B" also known as Beautiful Buttons, brought cookies decorated to resemble buttons; the vowel "E", who represents exercise, brought in gum drop barbells, etc.

In an attempt to explain the new "alpha-one method" Mrs. Davison said little stories are composed around each letter.

Using the letter "V" as an example, she explained in one tale, "V" Velvety Vest fell asleep. Along came Zipperzy and Beautiful Buttons (B), and sewed their representations on the sleeping letter. When Velvety Vest awoke, he ripped off all the additions, only to learn his vest. The vowel "E", calmly told "V" that she would stand at the end of each word as the ripped vest will not be shown (as in the words "involve, twelve," etc.).

Mrs. Davison said the children remember these rules. The children already know all their letters and are going into "blending or sequencing."

An example of "sequencing" is the word house, in which aginitively placed into a box, the letter people. She commented that during the party, children over-dressed removed their hot head- "munching mouth" with her umbrella, pieces but as soon as anyone entered the room, immediately the combined sounds of the letter replaced them without being asked.

According to Mrs. Davison, the program has been in effect in South Windsor for two years. She began using it in her kindergarten class and was so producing themselves as "I'm amazed at the results that she asked to carry the same program with the same group into the first grade. She presently has 15 of the original 27 children she had in kindergarten, as many have moved or had been re-enrolled to other schools.

To: Voters of Manchester

As principal of M.H.S. and also as vice-principal for many years, I have been deeply concerned about the limitations placed upon us by the continued presence of illing Junior High School 9th graders in Manchester High School.

Manchester High School was originally designed as a senior high school unit (grades 10, 11 and 12) and the ninth grade would remain only temporarily in our building. However, illing 9th graders have remained housed at M.H.S. since 1956.

For the past two years, there has been an attempt on the part of the staff and administration to make many changes in curriculum and general school organization to meet the needs of our students in a rapidly changing society. These changes also reflect recommendations made during our evaluation by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges during the spring of 1969. Not only are we concerned about those continuing on in some form of post-secondary education, but we are also very much concerned about the many students who are preparing for employment immediately after high school graduation.

In order to implement as many changes as possible during the present school year, we have re-organized our own school day and have instituted an overlapping session for the illing 9th grades. Their classes begin after the high school second period and extend beyond the end of our session. This type of re-organization has given us greater flexibility of pupil scheduling throughout the day and has also provided us with additional spaces for our expanding COEP, Art and Crafts programs. Without the overlapping session and re-organization of our school day, many of our present curriculum changes and other changes could not have been made. With an ever increasing high school enrollment next year, we expect that 9th grade will begin at approximately 11:00 and be dismissed approximately 4:45. Within three years, Manchester High School will need all of its space all of the time in order to provide a suitable program.

School Aid Depends On Tax Income

Last year's grants were $200 per pupil and Mehall had proposed to leave that unchanged this fiscal year.

Deputy State Atty. Gen. C. Ferris Phillips said the governor had consulted with his office on the approach in dealing with the lawsuits opposing cuts in aid.

"The action of the governor announced today indicates his own determination of the course of action required in these circumstances," he said.

Phillips refused to elaborate, but he said he wanted to make it clear that the attorney general's office, while run by Democrats, has pledged to defend the Republican governor's action in court with all the resources at its command.
