Area Voters Opt For New Leaders

Manchester area voters were evidently in a mood to switch their leaders yesterday, with the exception of Vernon and Ellington. An average of 72 per cent of those eligible cast ballots.

Both South Windsor and Coventry switched from Republican control to Democratic control.

Hebron and Tolland voters gave opposite reactions to the unique situation which had occurred in both towns two years ago.

Both towns had elected Democratic first selectmen, but without voting control of the Board of Selectmen.

The course chosen by Hebron this year was to return first selectman Aaron Reid to office along with the complete Democratic ticket for support.

Tolland on the other hand, elected first selectman Charles Thiffault to the post of third selectman and returned the leadership of the town to the Republicans by electing first selectman Erwin Stoetner.

Hebron's voters are pretty evenly split between Democrats, 49; Republicans, 67; and unaffiliated voters, 61.

Tough Cop Takes Philadelphia Vote, Dollar Issue in Kentucky Campaign

U.S. urban areas have been in a similar survival of the fittest since the Nixon economic package plan and represents the first major referendum of its kind since the election of President Ford.

Philadelphia's Frank L. Rizzo, a Republican, was elected mayor in the city's first election since the death of Mayor Joseph S. Sisco.

At one point, Patrick Denlon, district director said the election was a referendum on the city's economic future.

Philadelphia's Rizzo called himself "the toughest cop in America" and ended on his petition, but his remarks were the last in a series in which the election after the resignation of Mayor Joseph S. Sisco.

Mother, Wife, Actress Says Three Roles Difficult

By PEACE MORFAT
NEW YORK (AP) — The sunny hotel suite is almost empty, with three bouquets of flowers, a blaring radio, a hot plate, a piano and even a friendly, fluffy poodle named Mitzey.

And that's just how actress and singer Laine Kazan wants it to be—as much like a real home as possible for her 4-month-old daughter, Jennifer.

"I'm in a whirlwind of undisciplined behavior, so I'm trying very hard to keep her on a very definite schedule, Miss Kazan explains.

Holding her baby against her long, flowing robe and sounding much more like a mother than a career woman, Miss Kazan adds that she decided to take Jennifer with her on her travels almost as soon as she was born. However, she admits she is a little worried, especially since her husband, Peter Dinkelspiel, does not always travel with them.

"I'm apprehensive about what traveling will do to her, of course," Miss Kazan says. "But thank God my husband thinks in a marvelous way. We had many long talks about it, and the only conclusion we reached is that if a child feels love around her, she will know it."

"So I've decided that when I can take an active role in bringing her up—though not necessarily cleaning her up, since I have to have people to help me."

Miss Kazan says her own childhood probably wasn't as simple as she remembers it being. She was born in Brooklyn, N.Y., and attended Hofstra College, majoring in speech and drama. While still

A Winner!

By SOL H. COHEN
 I never thought it would happen: I've won my first sweepstakes a gift certificate from an Illinois mail order house.

I remember when the entry came in the mail. I didn't really think it was for me and it didn't look like it was for me. But I filled it out anyway.

All that was right about it was my last name, the town and the zip code number. The first name was wrong and the street was wrong. How the post office figured out that it was for me, I'll never know.

Well, anyway, I removed the dried ink from a box, as the instructions told me to do, and lo and behold — I found out I was eligible for a sweepstakes prize. So, I invested an eight-cent stamp and mailed the entry.

In speaking of those who had supported her in earlier successful campaigns, she told me that all of those people had moved to the suburbs. I but he said the outcome of Tuesday's voting had proved that it "will maintain support among blacks and whites."

He attributed his heavy margin over Mrs. Hicks to the agreed four years ago was 12,000 votes to a "positive campaign in the sense that we never struck out at Mrs. Hicks."

White's campaign stressed his record on crime programs for the young, additional police and a crackdown on landlords.

Mrs. Hicks aimed her campaign at White's record and stressed rising crime rates and city taxes. She also accused him of being unwilling to meet her in public forums.

Some local political observers said they thought the defeat for Mrs. Hicks, whose slogan through almost a decade of election campaigning had been "You Know Where I Stand," may have put her on the brink of political oblivion.

Her 9th Congressional District, a solidly Democratic, conservative white area of Boston, had been paired of some 85,000 voters by a redistricting committee. Added were seven suburban communities considered to be more liberal and known to have more Republican voters than the wards she lost in the shuffle.

Voters Defeat Young Hopefuls in New Canaan

NEW CANAAN (AP) — Two 20-year-olds who waged a court fight to run for town council were the only two among six candidates to lose in the election Tuesday.

Richard Ruberford, 20, and James Keenan, both carrying Democratic Town Committee endorsements, finished at the bottom of the list with 1,644 and 1,481 votes respectively.

Two other Democrats and four Republicans were elected to the council in this Republican-dominated commuter town.

The two young candidates were ruled ineligible to hold town office in Superior Court but won a place on the ballot through a town clerk's decision in spite of the court action.

Boulder Beats Population Bar

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Voters decided against a 100,000 population ceiling Tuesday but approved a resolution to slow Boulder's growth rate.

The proposed charter amendment to clamp a ceiling on Boulder's population, supported by the local Zero Population Growth organization, lost 12,158 to 8,660.

Approved by a 16,364-6,171 vote was a city council proposal which calls for a study to determine an optimum population level for the Boulder Valley while holding the city's population growth below the rate of the 1960s.

Boulder's population, now about 70,000, doubled in the 1960s.

Incumbent White Winner in Boston

BOSTON (AP) — Mayor Kevin H. White has scored a resounding victory over U.S. Rep. Louis Day Hicks and won a second four-year term.

White outlasted Mrs. Hicks by nearly 40,000 in a turnout close to 100,000 voters in Tuesday's nonpartisan general election.

Complete returns from the city's 22 precincts gave White 113,119 and Mrs. Hicks 70,228. White, 40, and Mrs. Hicks, 28, are both Democrats.

White conceded his administration had been controversial, but he said the outcome of Tuesday's voting had proved that it "will maintain support among blacks and whites."

He attributed his heavy margin over Mrs. Hicks to the agreed four years ago was 12,000 votes to a "positive campaign in the sense that we never struck out at Mrs. Hicks."

White's campaign stressed his record on crime programs for the young, additional police and a crackdown on landlords.

Mrs. Hicks aimed her campaign at White's record and stressed rising crime rates and city taxes. She also accused him of being unwilling to meet her in public forums.

Some local political observers said they thought the defeat for Mrs. Hicks, whose slogan through almost a decade of election campaigning had been "You Know Where I Stand," may have put her on the brink of political oblivion.

Her 9th Congressional District, a solidly Democratic, conservative white area of Boston, had been paired of some 85,000 voters by a redistricting committee. Added were seven suburban communities considered to be more liberal and known to have more Republican voters than the wards she lost in the shuffle.

Post Mortems, Future Hopes

After they turn their attention toward a conscientious performance of a minority role in town affairs, Manchester Republicans can be forgiven if they ask themselves what hit them, and why.

It seems valid to judge that they did not receive much positive help from the existence of the controversial administration of Governor Meskall at Hartford, or from the way the general economy in this industrial state continues to elude the attempted cures of the administration of President Nixon at Washington.

Such possible outside influences were not, however, the major trouble the Manchester Republican town administration had to overcome.

That major trouble, the voting pattern now makes as clear in retrospect as a few shrewd observers feared in advance, arose from the fact that a Republican town administration dedicated to prudent, restrained public spending nevertheless found itself going into a town election with a Board of Education proposal that the town spend $11,570,000 for the construction of two new schools.

The proposal for a new junior high school asked the town to spend almost twice as much for a new junior high school as it paid for the main high school, while getting only half its pupil capacity.

Whatever natural instinct the voters had to turn against such spending was reinforced when they began to realize, in the closing days of the campaign, that money from Board of Education accounts - tax money the voters have themselves had provided - was being expended in a lavish effort to persuade them to vote for the school bond issues.

The Green Bean Alarm

We suppose it might be possible to construct and pretend to believe and support a proposition like this: Better to cause the ruination of some innocent, conscientious, blameless business enterprise than to run even the ghost of a risk of permitting the death of one innocent, blameless consumer.

But that proposition works out wrong when it develops that a botulism case never involved a case of botulism in the first place and that, therefore, the business enterprise which had been called upon to recall its products as a public safety measure had been placed in an injuriously public spotlight without real cause.

A boy ate some canned green beans. Later on, he became ill. In the fashion of the day, the alarmist diagnosis pointed to botulism and the beans.

The company which had canned the beans was identified in the news of the nation as it recalled its product. At this point, the company, its label, and all its products had been delivered an incalculable harm and commercial injury.

"When you defame a product label to any million people watching television and reaching newspapers it takes a long time to rebuild it," said one official of the Stokely-Van Camp Company.

Next, the boy's illness did not follow the botulism pattern. The "canned" beans were found, after tests, to be free of botulism.

The company was thanked for calling its cans off the market, and then told that the recall no longer was necessary.

The FDA Commissioner, Charles C. Edwards, thanking the company for its cooperation, said: "In dealing with life-and-death problems such as botulism, there are times when the public interest demands action before the scientific test is complete."

New Isolationist Damper

By Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

COLUMBUS, Ind. — Here in the heartland of pre-Pearl Harbor isolationism, a new isolationist damper is rapidly taking on a shape that could drastically hamstring the ability of President Nixon or any other President to commit U.S. power to the assistance of an ally threatened by military aggression.

By substantial majorities, voters in 61 households here in Indianapolis flatly rule out "full" or even "partial" military aid to U.S. allies that might be threatened with aggression in four separate areas of the world: Western Europe, Israel, Southeast Asia and Latin America.

To obtain a rough yardstick of the new isolationism, we used pollster Oliver Quayle's index which measures a voter's reaction to American military involvement abroad in his descending scale: "Full" military assistance (in EU, in g. U.S. troops), "partial" military assistance (minimal), assistance and "none" at all.

For Southeast Asia, locale of the 10-year war in Vietnam, the results are unsurprising: 61 per cent of our respondents flatly oppose "full" or "partial" U.S. aid to help any country friendly to the U.S. that was threatened by military aggression. Instead, they chose either "minimal" aid or "none" at all, giving our an isolationist index of 61 per cent.

For Israel and Western Europe, the results narrowed. By similar ratios of 53 per cent to 47 per cent, our voters chose "minimal" or "no" U.S. aid in the event that Israel or such staunch "partial" allies as France or West Germany came under the threat of enemy aggression.

Most surprising of all was Latin America. Our sample, taken with the help of Mrs. Lucille Sutherland, Quale's Indiana field chief, showed that, by 63 per cent to 37 per cent, the low-to-middle-income voters we interviewed were against "partial" or "full" U.S. military assistance. Hence, as regards Latin America, we found an isolationist index of 63 per cent.

Those findings in the old Midwest isolationist heartland differed only in degree from recent samples of a thousand voters taken by Quayle in other areas of the U.S. In one Western state, never so isolationist as Indiana, nearly 500 voters opposed "full" or "partial" military aid to any U.S. friend in Southeast Asia in precisely the same ratio as our voters in Indiana—61 per cent to 39 per cent.

CONCORD, N. H. — New Hampshire, they say, is Nixon country, and the Republicans who have seen the polls taken here for the President say he is in a very strong position to win impressively in the year's first presidential primary here next March.

That may well prove true, and yet there is a certain compelling fascination to the campaign that the President's challenger, Rep. Paul M. (Pete) McCloskey (R-Calif.), is waging, and a suspicion — not wholly explainable by any one way or another, McCloskey's effort is going to prove significant.

The young Congressman has made New Hampshire his second home. He is here virtually every weekend, and campaigns non-stop from Friday morning until Monday afternoon, when he goes back to his job in Washington.

His organization has been slow in getting off the ground. Mike Steiner, Nancy Payne and Field Retchart, three attractive young people, are running the show. They are the only ones in the state who have been slow in forming, and four-fifths of the towns still lack McCloskey chairmen.

But the candidate himself is compensating for this by meeting the Republicans voters in their homes and letting them discover there is an alternative to Mr. Nixon. By the end of the year — before the heavy campaigning begins — McCloskey will have visited more than 100 coffee and talked face to face to perhaps 3,000 of the more active Republican citizens of the state.

The number in itself is not impressive, but what happens in these informal meetings is the YMCA. "Police Chief George Johnson of Minneapolis, Minn., after ordering all overweight cops in his department to reduce.

U.S. Marshal Position Set For Pallanck

UNION (AP) — A 51-year-old former Republican state legislator says he is to be nominated for the post of U.S. Marshal in Connecticut.

Ermen J. Pallanck of Union said today Ben. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., will submit his name to the White House to fill the post vacated by Gaetano Russo of Waterbury who was named assistant adjutant general of the Connecticut National Guard.

"Ben. Weicker told me a couple of days ago that he would nominate me and I'm honored that he would consider me," Pallanck said. His nomination has to be confirmed by the Senate.

The marshal, who receives a salary of $17,500 to $21,000, supervises a staff of deputy marshals operating mainly out of New Haven and Hartford. The marshals are responsible for order and security in the U.S. District Courts. They also serve summonses, complaints and make arrests.

Pallanck, who owns and operates a service station in Burlington, Mass., was a member of the General Assembly from 1963 to 1965. He is the GOP town chairman in Union and has served as a delegate to the Republican state convention for 10 years.

He served with the auxiliary police of the Town of Stafford from 1940 to 1946. He also served chief of police in Union for three years while he served as first selectman, which may make it easier for him to perform.

In an odd way, Mr. Nixon may be playing into McCloskey's hands by his sudden, sharp policy reversal. The impression is getting around that this President will perform only as well as circumstances—or political pressure—force him to perform.

When the dissent from his economic policies reached a deafening volume, Mr. Nixon "rose above principle" and imposed controls. When his original, lackluster Supreme Court choices were denounced even by conservative lawyers, he suddenly managed to find other, much better men.

McCloskey has an advantage, which McCarthy also possesses but Romney lacked, which may make it easier for him to perform.

Sex Sensation Makes History At White House

By FRANCIS LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Australia's tall, blonde first lady, Mrs. Gough Whitlam, was the center of a sex sensation at the White House today when she was seen in a white dress with a low neckline and a high slit.

Everyone from the President to the press photographers commented on the white-clothed beauty. Mrs. Whitlam was seen in a white dress with a low neckline and a high slit. She was seen in a white dress with a low neckline and a high slit.

It is not only the double-breasted dress that has caused the sensation, but also the high slit and the low neckline. The dress was seen in a white dress with a low neckline and a high slit.

The White House, 1600 Pennsylvania Ave., was the scene of the event. Mrs. Whitlam was seen in a white dress with a low neckline and a high slit.

It was a sexy sensation for the White House, but the comment was all rather diplomatic. President Nixon said he liked the dress. Mrs. Whitlam said she was wearing it because it was comfortable.

Ahern To Lecture at MCC On His Views of Attica

James F. Ahern, New Haven's former police chief, will give his views on the Attica, N.Y., prison uprising in a public lecture tomorrow night at Manchester Community College.

Ahern will speak at 8 in the auditorium on the Bidwell St. campus. MCC students will be admitted free upon presentation of ID cards. There will be an admission charge for the public and other students.

Ahern was thrust into national prominence by his handling of the tense and potentially explosive May Day, 1970 situation in New Haven. The demonstration was held to protest the murder trial of Black Panther Chairman Bobby Seale and his associates, the so-called "New Haven Nine."

Respected by Ahern as peaceful demonstrators and orderly crowd dispersal. The police were on hand for him as the leading proponent of a new approach to the handling of military construction sites, with police cast in the role of referee.

Ahern is currently director of the Crime Prevention Institute in Westport. It is a non-profit organization subsidized by more than 100 insurance companies to fight what they consider to be frauds inflicted against them "with collar crime," Ahern calls it.

Aged Voter Taft Backer

MARSHFIELD, N.Y. (AP) — In element weather in northern New York failed to keep Michael Sheets away from his polling place in the nearby town of Loudville on Tuesday.

He will be 100 years old Jan. 10.

Sheets said he has voted in every presidential election and in nearly all off-year contests as well since his first ballot for President William Howard Taft in 1908. He added that he hoped to return to the polls for the 1972 election.

Sheets said he was unfamiliar with the local candidates this year, so as an enrolled Republican, voted a straight GOP ticket.

New Mood: Isolationism Seen in U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONDON (AP) — The Washington correspondent for Britain's Guardian says there's a new mood of isolationism in the United States.

Hella Pick wrote last week that there are influential Americans who claim it is time for a Marshall Plan in reverse: for America's friends to come to the rescue of the ailing economy.

"The sad fact is that a broad spectrum of Americans now have very little interest in the outside world," the correspondent said. "It is strikingly obvious that Americans are far more preoccupied today by the disturbing state of their society than by external happenings."

By the time the Senate has voted to cut off all foreign aid, the London Daily Telegraph says, the "isolationist mood" will be even stronger.

"American aid on a big-hearted scale has become such an accepted part of democracy that it seems like an impious interference with a sacred trust," the paper says.

The Senate's vote was like an explosion of resentment that had long been accumulating at the excessive burdens left America by her allies in the post-war world.

The Telegraph also defended Nixon's decision to go ahead with the nuclear test on Amchitka Island, saying: "Some American critics take for granted continuance of the American interest in the world, but they have not yet learned that the world is not their backyard."

But the Times of London had reservations about the blast. "No scientist can guarantee an earthquake zone... It is said (President Nixon) could not follow the example of the French who earlier this year suspended tests in the Pacific after protests from Latin American countries."

The Stamps of Turin wrote: "The counter-revolution is becoming industrialized. Even its toughest representatives have given up revolution; the Italian paper said. "The most evident phenomenon is the transformation of the hippie movement into a form of capitalism or 'hippicalism.' Its clandestine publications accept industrial production, its members are created with their own suppliers and factories, and the dollar is no longer considered revolting."

La Stampa said this new capitalism was limited mainly to fashion, cosmetics, art and entertainment, adding "while the American economy languishes, it is experiencing a sensational boom."

Puppet Shows Help Build Strong Democracy in India

By JACK DAVIS

LONDON (AP) — The puppet shows are being staged to give India a more literate, democratic citizenry.

A spellbinding village audience of modern folk takes on a portable stage.

The puppet hero, a mustachioed, peasant farmer like the village man, saves his starving family by planting a new high-yield variety of rice which he learned about in a night-time literacy class.

Puppet women in shawl and long skirts like the women in the audience—learn to eschew home-made incense, a population of 600,000 is too big a problem for one small individual with "manager resources," admits Shweta.

"Our job is primarily to project workers and organize a read-due techniques and material to be used by government and other agencies," he explains.

The puppeteers are from Literacy House, a small private budget—$227,000—center in Lucknow leading the American and Canadian campaign to reduce India's staggering number of illiterates to one per cent.

The world's largest illiteracy center in Lucknow leads the American and Canadian campaign to reduce India's staggering number of illiterates to one per cent.

For 18 years the modest brick campus of Literacy House—designed by a British architect to resemble an Indian village—has been bursting with new techniques to make literacy the basic weapon against the country's poverty, hunger, disease and overpopulation.

Literacy House workers grow angry at the traditional notion that literacy consists of merely reading an election ballot and producing a signature.

Every word they teach is in the language of birth control, improved farm production, or nutrition and health.

This is the concept of "functional literacy." It was developed by the center's 31-year-old founder, Mrs. Welby Fisher, an American missionary and educator who gave up an opera career in 1924 to marry the Methodist Bishop of Calcutta and Burma.

At the urging of Mohandas Gandhi she focused on improving the life of the Indian village—where 90 per cent of the population lives.

She insisted literacy workers should not be mere "teachers" in the villages, but family planning counselors and agricultural advisers.

"We can't teach a person in a 4,000 years ago. The shell ring immediately gum up the wheels of the Indian director, E. C. Shaw, while we are teaching, we need to solve two fundamental problems—food and population."

Bubblegum-Killer

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Officials at San Diego Zoo say they're billing plant-eating insects by letting them chew a bubblegum-like agent.

The sticky substance, called Polytrap, is sprayed on plants and bushes to kill small, slug-like caterpillars, red spider mites and other little animals which feed on the greenery, experts say.

Ernest B. Chew, zoo horticulturist.

"When a pest chews on a plant which has been sprayed, v.a.c.u.m." says Literacy people were followed by a more the bubblegum agent will immediately gum up the chewing parts of the pest," Chew said.

"This prevents the pest from eating and it eventually chokes and dies."

Democrats Sweep Town Positions

School Board terms delayed

Many people at each of these gatherings looked to Hartford as one of the reasons for the election outcome. They viewed the results as a commission on Governor Thomas Meskall's slipping popularity. The unemployment in Manchester, they said, added to the discontent with events outside of Manchester. Many felt this discontent played a role in the Manchester vote.

Some felt that the school referendum questions, each decided yesterday by about 2,000 voters, were identical with the Republican ticket.

The Board of Education members for the coming year will be Democrats Thomas, Winner, Greenberg and Robert Schaffer and Dr. Walter Schardt. Republican board members will be Susan re-elected yesterday, Roy Conyers, Mrs. Anita Murphy, and Robert Spillane, present members.

Next November the terms of Dr. Schardt, Conyers, and Mrs. Murphy will expire. They will be replaced by Democrats Mrs. Collins and Yavis and Republican Robert Maltempo with 1,296 votes.

No one in the Democratic camp seems sure of who the Board of Education chairman will be. Thomas was the high vote getter among the five Democrats elected to the board yesterday. However, two years ago, incumbent Thomas was high among both Republican and Democratic candidates.

Another factor which might enter into the decision is the length of time Democrat Sheldon Schaffer has been on the board. He is in his fourth term on the board.

... town clerk held office since 1956

With the endorsement of both parties, Edward Tomblin, incumbent town clerk, was automatically re-elected. Tomblin has been town clerk since 1966. He has run unopposed for four of his seven two-year terms.

In 1966 he defeated Samuel J. Turkington Jr., in 1968 it was John Bowen and in 1969, William Murray Jr. Tomblin received 8,847 votes on the Democratic ticket and 7,210 votes on the Republican state.

There was one write-in town clerk vote yesterday for Murray. Murray ran as a Republican in 1969, but without the backing of the Republican town committee. The only other write in vote reported was for John VonDock for town treasurer.

In the contest for town treasurer, Roger Negro, the Democrat, easily beat Mrs. Roanald Quish, the incumbent by over 1,500 votes. Negro polled 8,781 votes to 7,197 for Mrs. Quish.

Democratic constables elected yesterday were William J. Desmond; Clarence E. Foley; Joseph Macri; and Paul F. Phillips. Republican constables were Martin J. Foley; Robert Meek; and Sedrick J. Braughan.

Democrats elected both of their candidates, Chester P. Bycholek and Irene H. Plesch, to the Board of Selectmen. The Republican elected to this board was Mildred Schaller.

Based on the contest for treasurer, where the most votes (10,983) were cast, about 65 per cent of Manchester's 24,342 eligible voters cast ballots. This is more than in 1969 when only 60 per cent of the voters cast ballots.

The real question now is what happens to the 10-year building program. "The long-term effect (defeat of the junior high proposition), as I see it," he said, "is overlapping seasons instead of 40 or 40 pupils in a room as we did years ago."

Stamford School Strike Awaiting Late Bargaining

STAMFORD (AP) — Public school teachers went to work this morning and said a decision to strike depends on the outcome of tonight's bargaining session.

Negotiations between the board of education and the Stamford Education Association broke up early this morning and the teachers said there had been no progress in the session which began at 2 p.m. Tuesday.

About 800 of the city's 1,270 teachers met at 7 a.m. and agreed to report to work pending the outcome of tonight's bargaining session.

William J. Barney, president of the SEA, says he thinks a settlement can be reached tonight. The main unresolved issue reportedly concerns salaries for teachers and administrators.

The teachers last week rejected a five per cent wage hike that had been recommended by an arbiter. The teachers have proposed an eight per cent raise.

Bluefield, W. Va., is called the air-conditioned city because of its height.

... conducted a quiet campaign

He was outspoken on a number of very specific issues which were tender enough to the people's representatives. He was particularly critical of the quality of west side water, the delays in renovations to Hales School, and the lack of sidewalks in areas inhabited by elderly residents.

Prigano, on the other hand, conducted a quiet campaign. Last night, some of his campaign workers reported that he had conducted a night door-to-door campaign, so much so that he was speaking to so many as 50 people in a night.

No attention will turn to the Democrats was, "We can do the job better for less." Republican last night seemed interested to see if it can be done.

ization of facilities." He commented that filling ninth graders may have to start school later than this year's 9:30 a.m. hour and leave later in the afternoon.

The first problem he will have next year, Indoor Vol. Manchester Green principal, said, "I am not sure if we can do it. We have an added 20 pupils. One sixth grade of 20 will be leaving," he stated, "I suggest that we enter into kindergarten. We now have 12 classes in 11 rooms, and this will make 13 in these rooms. This was going to happen next year anyway, but the length of time becomes indefinite."

Two possibilities he mentioned are conversion of the auditorium to a classroom, with resulting elimination of physical education and curtailment of music; or busing some children to other schools.

Alan Cone, Bennett Junior High School principal, said that it is now up to the Democratic party, under new leadership, to review the entire building program with the hope that this evaluation will justify the need for a third junior high. "The long-term effect (defeat of the junior high proposition), as I see it," he said, "is overlapping seasons instead of 40 or 40 pupils in a room as we did years ago."

did not reckon with the special quality of Maine people. Curtis said the vote "insures that badly needed services and programs will not be cut," and that "the fairest of all forms of taxation will remain part of the state's revenue system."

Scott Lamb, the chief architect of repeal, said "on the basis of this very impressive vote, we do concede that the voters wish to retain the income tax."

The anti-repeal vote was about the same in all of Maine's 16 counties. Prior to the referendum, veteran Maine election writers state income tax. The unprecedented vote was hailed by Gov. Kenneth Curtis as proving "the special qualities of Maine people."

Edwin Hotaler, the Portland attorney who headed the campaign to retain the tax said, "It is an enlightened electorate that wanted to retain the tax."

"Never before in history have the people of a state had an opportunity to express a tax preference in effect," Curtis said, and newspaper ads by supporters. "Those predicting sure defeat of the income tax."

Statewide Vote Goes Democratic

(Continued from Page One) man of Meriden, who despite an internal struggle within his party unseated Republican Mayor Robert Schultz. (Both Schultz and Poitac of New Britain, a state senator, who won the majority by a 5-2 margin over Republican John Poitac, a Republican who many people thought would have made a stronger candidate than Poitac did not want the job.)

—Democrat Frank Leggo of Bristol, who downed Republican can Mayor J. Harwood Norton, Long's campaign was based on a pledge to the citizens of the unemployment-plagued city that he would cut taxes if elected.

—Democrat Donald J. Irwin of Norwalk, a former congressman and longtime state treasurer, who hit the political ceiling last week by beating Jacob Ru- doff, a Republican state senator; Socialist Jasper McLevy for, and two other candidates in the Norwalk mayoral race, 1971.

(Democratic Mayor Frank Zulu- do did not seek re-election.)

—Democrat Abraham Gross- return, but when the votes were officially counted at City Hall, the tally was: Panulio 30,683, Curran 30,580, and Socialist Albert Perrowe 4,989. A recount was expected.

Actually, the results showed that Curran, a three-term mayor trying to re-establish his popularity, he had before some politically ruinous tax increases were put through, had needed his fences more carefully than many observers thought he could. A poll taken in mid-October that had been commissioned by the state GOP showed Panulio farther ahead than he wound up.

The mayor, who set a record for local handshakes in 1967, best Panulio by 10,000 votes in 1968, then apparently bottomed out after the state election last year, when Bridgeport went Republican while Curran was running for lieutenant governor on the Democratic ticket.

New Vitality

Panulio, a leader of the Republican Action League which infused new vitality into the Democratic GOP and got thousands of voters to sign up as Republicans, was able to win election to the state legislature while Curran was being beaten on the state ticket.

In Tuesday's municipal election, Democrats won all other city contests for city-wide offices. Panulio lost sight of the 30-elder-male race. Instead of solid control of the Common Council, they now have an advantage of only 15-4.

Freedman Wins His Third Term In Springfield

Mayor Frank H. Freedman of Springfield, Mass., won a third 2-year term yesterday by defeating State Rep. James L. Grimaldi by a 5,370-1 margin.

Freedman took about 65 percent of the votes cast to beat his opponent, who had lost three previous bids for mayor. The vote was 28,306 to 15,088.

Freedman was elected to his first term in 1947 by a margin of 6,000 votes. In 1949 he won by about 24,000 votes.

Although Mayor Freedman is a Republican, election in Springfield is on a non-partisan basis. The top two vote-getters in a September primary run for mayor.

Mayor Freedman's brother, Philip E. Freedman of 68 Grant St., Manchester, is a Democrat and a former town director.

Early Action Is Expected On Highway Alterations

State officials have indicated that they expect some action on the Environmental Impact Study concerning proposed Highway changes in Vernon early in the month.

Councilman Donald Eden, chairman of the highway (1-48) study committee, in a report submitted this week to Mayor Frank McCoy, said that he had been in contact with George Lines and prior department experience in these areas.

In Vernon, the Highway changes primarily concern the Talcottville area and along a portion of the Circle area and along a portion of the Circle area and along a portion of the Circle area.

The authority asked that an easement and access lanes will go west of a public hearing several months ago and as a result, the state has made some changes in the design.

After the impact statement has been reviewed by the Federal Highway Administration for its review and approval within an estimated 90 days.

Upon final approval the state may then proceed with the acquisition of the needed right-of-way. In the meantime, Eden explained, engineering work on the project is continuing.

Speaking of the proposed easement and access lanes, Eden said that the design serves to lessen the potential traffic load at the intersection of the Circle and Talcottville.

Democratic Headquarters Two Words Describe it— Jubilation and Confusion

By SOL R. COHEN (Herald Reporter)

Two key words can best describe the situation last night at Manchester Democratic headquarters: jubilation and confusion.

There was jubilation because Democrats, after five years, regained control of the Board of Directors, Board of Education, Board of Selection and the town treasurer's office. And there was confusion because nobody knew until about 11 p.m. which of the three possibilities was the high vote-getter and, consequently, the likely major designate.

After a mishap had been straightened out in Voting District 4, the Highland Park School, the announcement was made that John Thompson had won the election. Thompson, 36, is director of member services for the Connecticut State Employees Association, a Staten Island, N.Y., native, he resided in East Hartford before moving to Manchester in 1968. He is married to the former Elizabeth Collins of Burlington, Vt.

The couple resides at 118 Autumn St. with their five children: Sean, 14, Peter, 13, Michael, 11, Kevin, 10, and Susan, 8.

... didn't have to take that long walk again.

Last night, Cummings climbed a chair in Democratic headquarters and told a cheering crowd, "We one or two persons won this election. A whole lot of 8 p.m. were a mixture of people won the election. The Democrats won it. The workers won it. The cash contributors Board of Directors appears to have won it. And if you want to know why they won it, I'll tell you."

Big Vote Favors Merger

announcement by Cummings and by Barbara Coleman, Democratic vice chairman. But even while cheering, many were overheard saying, "I can't believe it."

It didn't take very long for even those who couldn't believe it. It was about 9 p.m. when everyone in Democratic headquarters was convinced they had swept the town.

Even if the district directors secretly felt the question was a toss-up, they probably did not feel that it would pass by such a wide margin.

Hankinson Remarks

William Hankinson, district president, indicated today that the district board would probably be by await a voter petition for a ballot on consolidation. "This is the general procedure," he said. "You can't fight city hall."

... can imagine how I felt."

"I left headquarters believing that Pat Prignano was high man, and I was very pleased," he said. "Then when Ed Tomkiel reached me at a friend's home and told me of the new developments . . . well, you can imagine how I felt. To say that I was pleased would be an understatement of the year."

Thompson said that he will accept the mayor's chair if it is offered to him.

Commenting on the townwide Democratic win, Thompson called it a "team victory."

John Bullivan, who was Thompson's campaign manager, agreed. "It was indeed a team victory. Jack had a lot of ever constituents want, that's why I'll do."

Voting Districts 1, 2 and 3 all overlap the boundaries of the Eighth District. Although exact figures are not available, the largest portion by far of the district population is in voting Districts 1 and 2. According to rough estimates of the town planning department, well over 75 per cent of the voters in District 1 are in the Eighth District. The District 1 vote was 1,263 to 846.

Only about 15 to 20 per cent of the population of the third voting district is in the district. That district went 1,480 to 377 for the consolidation.

Slow Campaign

The campaign for passage of the referendum was slow to start. The issue had support from members of both parties. Both Republican and Democratic directors as well as Weiss and O'Neil underook an ambitious list of speaking engagements to explain the issue to voters.

The argument which undoubtedly swayed the positive vote is that consolidation of water and sewer facilities throughout town would reduce the total cost for these services for most residents in town. Town officials have also said that the purchase bond for the water company will be self-repaying from combined north end water and sewer revenues.

That the consolidation would immediately cost Manchester now for water and sewer conversion, he said later. "We usually take District 4 by two to one."

Shea, like several other party leaders, said he thought the

GOP Hopes Dashed By Early Returns

By WILLIAM COE (Herald Reporter)

By 10:15 last night, a pink and yellow plastic elephant suspended from the ceiling at GOP headquarters on E. Center St. looked out the plate glass window from a darkened room.

Truly boards on the left wall, Democratic sweep was an ex-which had riveted the gaze of hundreds of party faithful early last night.

Republican Town Chairman M. Adler Dobbin came back to Manchester (now an edge of consultations. "It's happier than after visiting the victorious Democratic voter registrations, both down there," he noted wryly.

Dobbin said he was "naturally disappointed at the results." But the mood that prevailed throughout the evening was one of relief. One of incredulity, first at the unexpected large spread; quiet disappointment next; and finally, determination to begin rebuilding for 1972.

"Just watch, we're going to come back with flying colors in two more years," vowed Mrs. Marion Mercer, District 4 leader.

That district, normally heavily Republican, barely squeaked through in the GOP columns this year. It was there, at Highland Park School, that Town Council and former GOP town Chairman John F. Shea, Jr., three Republicans re-elected to the Board of Directors, said he hoped the school referendum was "a possible backlash reaction against the general economic conditions." He added that the school referendum was "a reaction to the school issues. All these big schools lost handsily by about 2,000 votes each.

Expected Close Vote

James Farr, ousted as mayor but re-elected, said he too had expected the election to be close and that he could find no individual issue to account for the vote.

"It has been a reflection of economic conditions," he said. "When times aren't good people tend to look for a change in leadership."

By 10 p.m., most of the crowd at the Center had departed or departed the street, chatting in small groups.

Two women remained, clearing the tables of untested cold meat and cheese, huns and olives. "There's still plenty left," one of them said. "Let's organize a campaign party for Saturday."

Fire Calls

False alarms were turned in last night from Box 418 at Main and Chapel Sts., at 9:48, to which the Eighth District responded; and at Box 44, at the Main and Oak Sts., at 11:26, to which the town department responded.

At 11:40 this morning, someone pulled the box in the hall near the cafeteria at the Manchester High School. The school fire alarm was sounded while the schools last handsily by about 2,000 votes each.

Gaming Unit Budget Gets Quick Okay

The state is putting up $2,150,000 to get its gambling expansion on the road, in the expectation that the returns will far outweigh the cost.

The State Finance Committee today quickly approved the gambling commission's budget, thus clearing the way for financing of the state lottery, retaining a consultant, printing tickets, and launching a state lottery tentatively scheduled for the end of February.

Gross receipts of $8.5 million by June 30 will be needed, if the state is to run the $2.5 million in lottery profits predicted by the General Assembly and Gov. Thomas Meskill.

Alternative plans announced by Joseph Burns, executive secretary of the gambling commission, indicated a lottery operation patterned after the one in New Jersey, with tickets selling at 50 cents each and with numerous weekly prizes in addition to the many planned weekly prizes, a top prize of $50,000 to be paid out of the $2.5 million lottery tickets sold.

Burns said that cash prizes would come to about 25 percent of gross sales. In New Jersey, he explained, a guaranteed 30 per cent of gross sales goes to the state as profit. The remaining 20 per cent, he said, goes for consultants, agency salaries and general operating expense.

The anticipated $8.5 million in lottery sales by June 30 are based on the New Jersey percentage, said Burns.

In explaining the commission's $2,150,000 budget, Burns said that about $200,000 of it will go for the salaries and other expenses of 58 employees and that about $200,000 will go for equipment.

The 58 jobs mentioned by Burns range from a $20,000-a-year clerk to three executive directors at $25,000 each. Burns, the first employee hired by the commission, makes $11,000 a year.

The chairman of the commission, Paul Silvergeld of Glastonbury, gets $15,000, and the other eight members get $10,000 each.

The largest chunk of the budget, about $1,430,000, will cover a variety of purposes, according to Burns. He said that $600,000 would go for advertising, miscellaneous printing and promotion; $400,000 for outside professional help and data processing; $270,000 for the printing of the lottery tickets.

Just as the gambling commission's budget is being parceled out of the state's general fund, so will its receipts be fed back into the same fund. Annual audits of receipts and expenditures will indicate the commission's lot of lottery profits to the state.

Green Cylinders Filter Paris Air

PARIS (AP) — Two little elderly women pressed their ears against the military-green cylinder, tapped on the side and asked, "what is it?"

The mystery machine is one of Paris' new giant air pollution filters which pumped into action Tuesday, so silently in fact that few people knew they were in operation.

A heavy smog hovered over the district and persisted despite the "aspirators' giant" giant vacuum cleaners."

The only sound audible was the electrical whirr in two small power boxes next to the cylinders. Most passers-by were skeptical of the effectiveness of the aspirators.

Officials aren't promising to turn Paris pollution into spring-like countryside air, but say government.

"It is wrong because it is using money taken from the general public, not freely given by

School Battered By Two Blasts

SCOTT CITY, Mo. (AP) — Two explosions at a school damaged a classroom and cafeteria addition being constructed at Illinois-Scott City High School today.

Bomb threats were reported at two other southern Missouri schools today and Tuesday night.

Sheriff John Dennis of Scott County said the explosions at Illinois-Scott City, coming about one minute apart, knocked down walls of the incomplete addition and shattered windows in the main school building and in houses several hundred feet away.

There was no explanation of who had done the bombings or for what reason.

Four custodial employees were in the main school building at the time of the blasts but they were not injured.

Dennis said he conservatively estimated the damage to the building at $40,000 to $50,000.

The Missouri Highway Patrol, the Federal Bureau of Investigation and agents of the treasury Alcohol, Tobacco Tax and Firearms Division were assisting in the investigation.

Cape Central High School in Cape Girardeau was evacuated because of a bomb threat. The Language Arts Building at Southwest Missouri State College in the same city was evacuated Tuesday night because of a similar threat.

Vandals Muddy New Fire Truck

ANSONIA (AP) — Fire Chief Thomas Davidson was surprised when he went to the Webster Hose Company station this morning and discovered a modern, $50,000 fire truck was missing.

He was angry when it was found a little later, buried in its sides in a mudbank along the Housatonic River about three miles from the station.

Among his private comments: "You can bet I'll find out who did this."

25% To Be Nuclear

SCNN — The current nuclear power capacity of West Germany is only 600 megawatts, but experts estimate it will reach 20,000 megawatts by 1980. By the end of this decade, one power station in four will be powered by nuclear fission.

Rocky Suffers Setback With Bond Issue Defeat

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York State voters have rejected the measure. Only in Manhattan and the Bronx was the pro-Rockefeller's $2.5 billion transportation bond issue, giving the governor his first major setback in state politics.

With 11,890 of the state's 12,700 election districts counted, the vote was 1,008,936 in favor of the massive borrowing for highways and mass transit facilities, and 2,261,708 opposed.

Will no statewide office was for decision, the bond issue was the major item on the ballot Tuesday. Rockefeller campaigned for it personally, warning that tax increases and cutbacks in state aid were the alternatives.

After an agreement was reached between the state and New York City linking passage of the issue to preservation of the 30-cent bus and subway fares, Mayor John V. Lindsay churches were way ahead of the Rockefeller in the campaign.

The bond issue was known to voters I've talked with in Albany. In fiscal year 1972, the church has had several updates, but a big New York City vote in favor would carry the day.

But when the returns were in you can't say it's behind the Tuesday, city voters had joined theirs.

Nuclear Plant in Brazil Due for Operation in 1976

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Brazil's first nuclear power plant, due for operation in 1976, already is generating controversy.

Gov. Raimundo Padilha is a strong supporter of the plant, but military leaders and some politicians oppose it. He says the project is a "nuclear power plant, besides impairing the landscape, will leave many people from visiting the entire region because they have an aversion to the beach."

As for critics' warning of pollution, he said he thought that in Brazil the greatest danger would be a long time coming from the dumping of sewer water into the sea, and from excess of industries and cars.

Critics claim the hot water pumped by the plant will pollute the bay, and help Brazil's development and otherwise disturb the ecology, based on explanations of the mixing of the plant's hot water-41 degrees centigrade—in the country, still used today with the sea's cold water—low as 16 centigrade—could foster a greater development of marine life in the region.

Today everybody is against polluting, but not a single industrial or country has helped Brazil's development and otherwise disturb the ecology, based on explanations of the mixing of the plant's hot water-41 degrees centigrade—in the country, still used today with the sea's cold water—low as 16 centigrade—could foster a greater development of marine life in the region.

Actors Guild Names Gavin

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — John Gavin has been elected president of the nationwide Screen Actors Guild.

The union announced Tuesday that the veteran actor received 4,407 votes to 3,217 for Bert Freed. Balloting was conducted by mail over the last three weeks.

Gavin's state of administration-backed candidates also won over Freed's 20-candidate group, which argued that Gavin and other high-paid actors showed inadequate concern for lesser-known actors. They received margins similar to Gavin's in winning election to one-year terms as officers and three-year terms as directors.

The Gavin slate included Victor Jory, Mercedes McCambridge, Walter Pidgeon and Dennis Weaver.

Business Mirror Bank Suggests Families Use 'Cash Flow' Accounting

By LINDA BUREY AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — First National City Bank suggests families who have trouble making ends meet use the "cash flow" accounting procedure practiced by America's biggest corporations.

Basically, the cash flow technique matches cash outgo against income, indicating how much money the family needs and how much spending it must postpone to keep expenditures under control and achieve long-term financial goals.

"The secret of cash flow is that it doesn't try just to match the cash you have today with the expenses you have today," the New York bank explains.

"Rather it tries to anticipate your expenses for the whole year and compare them with the money you'll have coming in for the whole year."

The bank suggests the use of five different work sheets.

The first is a list of the types of income a family has coming in. The second records a family's Maharashtra State, in which Bombay is located, typifies the hodgepodge of prohibition laws. Today is consumed in shops but can't be taken home. Arrack is banned. Beer and whisky are allowed only in permit rooms and in hotels.

In New Delhi, neither today's arrack is sold. The only public taverns are in the hotels, where Indians are forbidden to drink on "dry days" Tuesday and Friday.

Whisky and gin are distilled for medicinal purposes, but too much for the average worker or to pay. A bottle of beer costs over $1.

Thant Suffers Dizzy Spells

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.N. Secretary-General U Thant has been hospitalized because of a dizzy spell in his office.

Dr. Michael Irwin, head of the U.N. medical service, said of Thant's reported Tuesday afternoon attack after attending a luncheon that he felt extremely ill.

Irwin said he found Thant's pulse and blood pressure within normal limits but that the state of Thant's health is being carried out in only one of India's 17 states—Gujarat in the southwest. Over the years, as the prohibition laws clashed with public taste, a major business in the distillation and sale of illicit liquor blossomed in the country.

The state of Tamil Nadu of U Thant has been hospitalized because it needed money.

T.N. Selvaraj, commissioner of excise tax and liquor control, estimates that the state will realize $3 million in liquor taxes every day and arrack.

Toddy is made from the sap of coconut, palm or date trees in southern India. Arrack is distilled from toddy.

The 62-year-old Thant suffered a similar attack last June and had to cancel trips to the Soviet Union and Africa. He has been on duty full time since the earlier attack.

The first day the dry laws were lifted, police reported hundreds of drunks were arrested.

The publicity this brought prompted the All-India Prohibition Council to urge the state to "reintroduce prohibition, before more damage is done to the people."

A bartender at a tourist hotel commented: "Prohibition was vital, because people drank and got sick, but because people drank they got sick."

He says denaturation which has diverted their emphasis from spiritual mission to social fatal concoctions.

Sale of Liquor Stirs Controversy in India

MADRAS, India (AP) — The legal liquor business is booming here—the birthplace of prohibition in India.

The recent suspension of dry laws, however, has generated a national controversy over the public sale of alcoholic beverages. Reports of people dying after drinking illicit liquor in states where there is limited prohibition have enflamed the dispute.

The Indian constitution states that the government "shall endeavor to bring about prohibition of the consumption, except for medicinal purposes, of intoxicating drinks and of drugs which are injurious to health."

The directive, however, is being carried out in only one of India's 17 states—Gujarat in the southwest. Over the years, as the prohibition laws clashed with public taste, a major business in the distillation and sale of illicit liquor blossomed in the country.

Tolland County Superior Court Vernon Man Sentenced On Violation of Probation

A year ago in Tolland County Superior Court, Judge Leo J. Parkey, mandated by law, had to impose a sentence he thought too harsh. He said so as he suspended it and ordered that his remarks be included in the file of the young offender. He expressed the idea that the temptation might be great to violate the long probation the sentence carried with it. That violation came up on short hearing Owen Wright, 20, of 78 Park West, Vernon, was ordered to serve the suspended sentence of five to six years in prison on a charge of sale of marijuana.

At the time of the original sentencing Judge Parkey said, "It makes no sense to me at all," referring to the criminal statutes which call for a minimum five years in prison on such a charge. He contended it was not fair to have a man in prison for a crime which he had committed before he was 20 years old.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Used Car Skulduggery

From a friendly used car dealer, Jason bought a car that had been driven only 20,000 miles—according to the odometer. But a few days later, he found out from the original owner that the true figure was almost 50,000 miles.

Outraged, Jason filed suit against the used car dealer for fraud. But in court, the defendant showed no remorse. "It is true that I turned the speedometer back," he told the judge, "but only after putting the car in first class condition. As for fraud, I told this man no lies. He just didn't ask me any questions about mileage. All I did was to keep quiet."

One man discovered, soon after buying a used car, that the motor was faulty. Although the motor was covered by a warranty, the man procrastinated for almost a year before trying to resolve the problem.

Winter of Discontent Is Expected in Italy

By DAVID MAZZARELLA
ROME (AP) — Premier Emilio Colombo recently described Italy as a "miracle, a nation that wakes up each morning to the freest atmosphere of the most arguable threats, and nevertheless moves forward."

This view will be put to a test in the coming months. The country awakes an image of a career existence but it is beset by an unhappy confluence of economic, political and religious tensions. Italy is bracing for what many believe will be a winter of discontent brought on by unemployment, rising prices and industrial stagnation.

Marxist and conservative parties are building up to a confrontation—the election next month of a new president. Colombo's Cabinet must by law hand in its resignation to the Christian Democrat party. Foreign Minister Aldo Moro, the leftist Socialist, may back Francisco de Martino, deputy premier, who would look kindly on their respective views.

The battle over divorce complicates things. Conservative Catholics, having collected 13 million signatures, seek to force a referendum to repeal the law. Leftist and non-Catholic conservative parties warn that this will lead to religious warfare.

The prospects even frighten the Communists, who have been trying to improve ties later this year. The prospect of a referendum on the trial of the ninth week work out compromise amendments to the divorce law and caused of trying to conceal the My Lai massacre.

A recess was called to give the judge, Col. Peter S. Woodcock, time to attend a semi-annual in Atlanta. Henderson's military lawyer said Tuesday the judge had notified his office that he would not return at least one day late.

Two days have been set aside for defense motions before the defense opens its case.

Gold Ovens Largest
TOKYO — Japan's gold ovens are generally regarded as the world's largest gold ovens. Oval 10-ton pieces, these ovens were minted regularly from 1961 to 1966. They average 180 by 100 millimeters and are characterized by seals pressed into the metal and by legends applied in ink. There were only 400 in 1966.

Nader Target Now Congress
WASHINGTON (AP) — Ralph Nader, who gained prominence investigating the auto industry, is launching a probe of Congress.

Nader said Tuesday 80 students will help his assistants analyze electoral and campaign data. He said he will analyze electoral and campaign data, and will analyze the records of congressmen and how Congress responds to its constituents.

Britain now has more than 1,000 Chinese food shops. There were only 400 in 1966.

New Haven Airport

U.S. Judge Grants Claims For Air Traffic Damages

By TED CROWEN Associated Press Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Property owners on the approaches to New Haven's airport suffer damage because of air traffic, a federal judge ruled Tuesday, and he directed the city of New Haven to pay for the loss.

The judge, under a novel appraisal formula, ordered that a total of $18,400 be paid to the owners of seven properties in return for a permanent easement of airport flight.

Judge Edward C. McLean, in an opinion to be filed in New Haven, used a real estate appraiser's calculations to award from $2,100 to $3,300 to the property owners, who protested that jet flights over their part of the town of East Haven reduced the market value of their land and homes.

The weighted formula, which had been suggested in real estate appraisers' trade publications, took into account the flight altitudes, up to 500 feet; the distance of properties from a center line extension of the runway, up to 2,000 feet; and the distance from the end of the runway, up to 25,000 feet.

McLean noted that the defendants—including the city of New Haven and Eastern Airlines, called an expert witness who said that noise, soot, vibration and small bird not damaged those living or conducting business under the approaches and takeoffs.

"This conclusion defies common sense, and I decline to accept it," ruled McLean. "I have no doubt that plaintiffs have been damaged."

He said that the formula was "designed to determine the amount of the diminution in the market value of properties adjacent to airports due to airport operations."

"The use of this formula in an airport case, in the absence of any other pertinent data, seems to me to afford a reasonable basis for the experts' opinion," he added.

During the lengthy litigation over New Haven's acquiring 73 acres in the town of East Haven to stretch its north-south runway, jet flights were suspended, although eventually a federal court decision absolved Eastern, which flew jets and Allegheny Airlines, which operated turboprops, of negligence at Tweek-New Haven Airport.

Eventually, the U.S. Court of Appeals here handed down a decision that would permit resumption of jet flights.

Last July 26, McLean refused to ban jets or to close the airport, as asked by some property owners on the outskirts of town, in a contest between what he called "two warring municipalities."

At the time, McLean ordered the subsequent proceedings as to compensation, finding that the flights interfered with enjoyment of land ownership enough to "constitute a taking."

McLean said last July 30 that although some property had grown in market value, it might be worth more, but for the overflight.

Specifically, McLean's awards ordered New Haven to pay these amounts: —$3,300 to Leon Amendola, 2 Meadow Place, owner of a house in line with the end of a runway in whose front yard a private corporate plane fell a few years ago.

Holmes St., living north of the fled his household electrical runway, who said conversation system was disrupted and a was impossible when planes fly picture knocked off a wall by over, and who complained most jet vibrations.

—$2,200 to Aphrosie Goudeon made movies and sound means to rotate freely as you work.

When crocheting, stick a hat and showed slides depicting the upholstered chair and all the spool of thread over the pin. This will prevent stool from falling to the floor, yet permits it to rotate freely as you work.

Marines Leave, Protests End WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Two days of peaceful antiwar demonstrations at Worcester college ended Tuesday when demonstrators left Clark University.

About 25 students and faculty members sat in the hall outside the university placement office, and showed slides depicting the cruelties were made.

The demonstrators made no effort to block the office, and their posts at both schools until Tuesday. Seven of the 200 protesters planned, said, "About 15 of 3 p.m.

students picked their way through the booties to come in and be interviewed."

On Monday, about 200 students and faculty members staged a peaceful "stare-in" when the recruiters were at nearby Holy Cross.

Led by college chaplain, the Rev. Robert R. Manning, a Jesuit priest, the demonstrators surrounded the Marine display table on the steps of the campus center and stared silently at the recruiters.

There were no incidents. The demonstrators remained at a document of priesthood.

The synod's vote upheld this proposal: "The law of celibacy shall be maintained in its entirety in the Latin Church."

The vote came as a great boost for Pope Paul's stand that celibacy is an essential part of tradition in the Church.

The vote did not affect the different situation in the Eastern branch of Roman Catholicism, where priests are given an option between marriage and celibacy before ordination.

Cubs' Ferguson Jenkins Wins N.L. Cy Young Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Ferguson Jenkins, 31, of the Chicago Cubs, a 20-game winner in each of the past five seasons, today was named the National League's 1971 Cy Young Award winner.

Jenkins, a 25-year-old right hander from Chatham, Ont., received 17 first place votes and earned run average .28.

He was runner-up to Tom Seaver of the New York Mets with 13 first place votes and a .240 earned run average.

The award is given annually to the best pitcher in each of the two leagues. Jenkins compiled a 24-13 record for the Cubs, the most victories in the National League. He pitched 325 innings, led the league with 363 strikeouts and a 1.78 earned run average.

Jenkins was named to the 24-man committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America, which annually to the best pitcher in each of the two leagues. 'Bargaining Power' Gained by Jenkins

WINDSOR, Ont. (AP) — Winning the Cy Young Award as the National League's outstanding pitcher is like having "a big star up there beside my name" for Ferguson Jenkins.

The Chatham, Ont., native today became the first Canadian to win a major baseball award when he was named the Cy Young winner by a panel of baseball writers.

Jenkins said in an interview that he is feeling "a little bit of a buzz" about the award. He said he has been pitched for me his season and still could have won five or six more games with just one more run.

"It was my best season so far," he said. "I pitched and pitched and pitched. The big thing for a pitcher is to control and concentration and to have had this year."

Jenkins says conditioning and a potent bat helped him pitch so many innings.

"I never had a sore arm. Near the end of a season your arm becomes tired and you become tired mentally but my arm has never been sore. I stay in a lot of games because of my bat. I won eight games last year with my own bat."

Jenkins plans to spend the winter in Chatham, where he rents a cottage on Lake St. Clair and plans to do a great deal of hunting and fishing before spring training in 1972.

Jenkins says his personal goals for the future high.

"Warren Spahn won 20 games six years in a row on two occasions in his career. I want to do that," he said.

Doubletake Election Day Good For Brown Two Ways

WINNERS ON AND OFF COURT

NEW YORK (AP) — Election Day 1971 was a good day for Roger Brown of the Indiana Pacers.

First Brown, a 29-year-old graduate of Dayton, won the large city-county council seat in the municipal elections in Indianapolis.

Carolina rookie Jim McDaniels who scored 45 points, 30 of them in the first half, when the Cougars held a 67-45 lead. But Indiana outscored Carolina 35-22 in the third period, and Brown's outburst in the final quarter put the game out of reach.

Bob Netelczyk led the Pacers with 32 points and also pulled down 14 rebounds.

The Kentucky Colonels, paced by Dan Issel's 30 points, raced to a 77-21 first quarter lead over Memphis. The Pros built back to get the gap to 88-11, but never could catch up.

Weather Was Gloomy Yesterday But... Play Tie In Finale Of Year

Weather was gloomy yesterday, election day. It was raining hard during the early morning and it was drizzly and dreary this second day and first Monday in November. Yet, the sun was shining, so to speak, before fog broke.

The rays of brightness were a personal call at the desk from Nick Jackson, a local resident who was in the city to see East Hartford High. "I wanted to see you," Nick said, "to say thank you for all the nice things that you did for me in the paper (The Herald) in the past. I had a lot more runs scored for me this season but I still could have won five or six more games with just one more run."

Man Wins CCCAA Soccer Title

Darkness halted the final scheduled soccer game for Manchester's Community College aggregation in Bridgeport, Conn. Saturday.

No decision was reached on the field of play but the Cougars returned home champions of the Connecticut Community College Athletic Assn.

Although visiting Manchester and host Housatonic Community College battled tooth and nail Saturday afternoon, the Cougars were able to win the coveted crown.

This all came about following Middlesex Community College's upset loss to Western Connecticut Saturday night.

Gloomy conditions prevailed in the Park City yesterday with the field in deplorable condition due to the heavy rains.

After each side had tallied twice, officials, with 15 minutes remaining in regulation time, called a halt to the proceedings and a darkness veiled the field.

Despite the darkness a weedy but jubilant Manchester team secured the victory by scoring in the first period.

Bill Pomeroy, the Cougars' captain, completed the campaign with a gaudy 18-4 work in the first period and 2-0 in the second.

Steve Dean got the locals off to a fast start yesterday by scoring in the first period.

But 11 seconds later in the second period, the Cougars scored again.

The home club had an excellent opportunity in the first period to score, but it was a penalty kick that was the only goal.

Moving out front in the third period, '71 was Housatonic and the Cougars were 2-0.

Each day brings new excitement, new projects, and new challenges.
