

"THE WAY I HEARD IT"
by John Gruber

A great many people have that it brings religion to many asked me what I thought of "Jesus Christ, Superstar," and a lesser number have asked the same of a thing about Leonard Bernstein's "Mass" which opened the Kennedy Center in Washington last September. There are similarities and dissimilarities between the two, but they both represent American music in our time, so I intend to comment on them in this article.

The questions about "Jesus Christ, Superstar" come from both adults and from young people. This is not surprising. "Superstar" has been out on recordings for some time and has been exploited fully by the company that recorded it. "Mass" has only had a couple of live performances, and the complete recording will not be available until early next year. There is a seven-inch disk of excerpts made the opening night, but unless you had the money, the time, and the inclination to travel elsewhere, "Mass" is still as unknown to you. I'm surprised it has made as much impact as it has, under the circumstances.

"Mass" was conceived for the theater; in fact it bears the subtitle, "A Theater Piece for Singers, Players and Dancers." The line of the program, early in the first place, and has now been turned into a production that fits the subtitle. The music evolved over many, many years. Lemie's text is good, but at least in my opinion, I voice the question, "Why has God been commercial?" I'm not what might be called a man of strong convictions, but both works annoy me on this point.

I seem to recall a statement, "Ye cannot serve God and Mammon," and it is as true in the arts as it is in religion. Young people try to sell me on "Superstar" with the argument, "It's a great musical."

As, in the case of "Superstar," we had a commercial success, even a relatively popular one. It even suited the Kennedy to judge by the published remarks, although Jackie didn't attend and so wasn't quoted. I suspect she may have known what was coming.

Popularizing the Mass is not new. It was common in the 18th century, when popular tunes formed the groundwork to sung Masses. One of the most popular was a French tune known as "L'homme armé," or "The Armed Man." Another was a ditty called, "He has a pale face." The tenor in the choir would sing these tunes which were well known to the communicants while the rest of the choir would simultaneously be praising God.

This didn't improve church attendance notably; everybody went to church anyway, most these days, for lack of anything else to do. But it did distress the hierarchy of the church who investigated and found that most of these secular tunes were in the major mode. The Pope John I forgot which one I just remember the name because it was the same as mine. Thereupon banned the major mode as the "modus vulgaris," and set music, as we know it, today back several centuries. He advocated a return to plainchant, and nearly succeeded in re-establishing that type of music which had reached its high point in the time of Gregorius the Great. It remained for Palestrina to demonstrate the possible beauties of the polyphonic Mass, and it remained for the Council of Trent to legitimize this form of writing for the church.

Bolton PTO Plans Book Fair This Week

The Parent-Teacher Organization will sponsor its annual book fair Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at the elementary and center schools. Students will have an opportunity to browse and view displays Wednesday and may purchase selections Thursday and Friday during school hours. The book fair will also be open Thursday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock. The elementary school library will be open until 4:30 p.m. Thursday. Parents and friends of the PTO are invited to attend.

Mrs. Maude Carpenter, chairman of the fair, says that classic, adventure stories, mysteries, and reference books will be available at popular prices. Heremakers will meet at Bolton Hemenway, an affiliate of Tolland County Extension Service will meet Tuesday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Community Hall.

I don't think it is a fitting memorial; it certainly isn't a good Mass, but it served to open the Center in theatrical fashion. What Mr. Bernstein failed to grasp, at least in my estimation, is the fact that what is Mass is dramatic, it is not theatrical. There is a distinction between the two terms. I think a memorial mass for the first Roman Catholic President of the United States was quite in order, but what we got was a flamboyant protest against Mass, done in exceedingly questionable taste.

Police Holding Too Many Bikes, Seek Owners

Stolen and lost bicycles which have been recovered by police are getting to be a problem. Chief James Reardon said this morning that he has more than 100 bicycles in his possession.

Manchester police receive hundreds of complaints of stolen bikes each year, they say, especially in the summer. Most are recovered, as the culprit usually borrow the bikes for a ride. Sgt. Raymond Mazzone said he urges all bike riders to install locks on their bicycles.

Reardon said about 30 bikes are sitting at headquarters and asks anyone who feels his bike may be among them, to come to headquarters.

Morman Leader Portrait Is Hung

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Portrait Gallery has accepted a copy of the portrait of Mormon religion founder Joseph Smith Jr. for display beginning today.

The presentation was made Monday by the president of the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints, W. Wallace Smith, the only living grandchild of Joseph Smith Jr.

Adrian Lamb, a New York City painter and copyist, copied the only known life portrait of Smith, which hangs at the quarters in Independence, Mo.

FAY HORRIBLE PRICE FOR HORRIBLE BIDS
BY ALFRED SHEINOW
Several thousand bridge experts will converge on Phoenix this Friday and will mull about there for more than a week for the national tournament. They will consume about 50,000 cups of coffee and 10,000 aspirin pills per day, but it won't be enough. Some of them will still make horrible bids and will pay a horrible price, as in the hand shown today.

South dealer. Both sides vulnerable. Opening lead — King of Spades. When today's hand was played in the Fall National Tournament in 1968, Dr. John Fisher, of Dallas, and Mrs. David B. Haven, of Fort Worth, winners of the Open Pair Championship, played a pre-emptive opening for an un-sound bid. South simply didn't have enough tricks to bid two hearts, as he soon discovered.

Dr. Fisher's double on the West cards was an offer rather than a command. If his partner had poor defensive values, she would light to pass the double. Mrs. Haven actually had fine defensive values she was delighted to pass the double.

Dr. Fisher opened the king of spades, and Mrs. Haven overtook with the ace. The ten of spades was allowed to win the next trick, and Mrs. Haven then shifted to the king of diamonds.

South stepped up with the ace of diamonds and desperately tried to lead the king of hearts in the hope of dropping a singleton queen. West won with the ace of hearts but the queen did not fall.

West led his other diamond to the queen and ruffed the third round of diamonds. He then cashed the top clubs, after which East eventually took a further trick with the queen of hearts. In all, the defenders usually borrow the bills for a penalty of 800 points. This was far more than the value of the game that they might have bid and made on the East-West cards.

South a bid of two hearts would not have been ridiculous against the West. If you must make unimproved bids, make them unimproved.

What do you say?
Answer: Pass if you are vulnerable against non-vulnerable opponents. In any other vulnerability you can afford to bid one heart. In fact, if you are not vulnerable against vulnerable opponents, you can even afford a jump to two hearts (provided that you and your partner use weak jump overcalls).

Party Disagrees On 'Compession'

HARTFORD (AP) — The chairman of the state's two major parties disagree over whether the administration of Gov. Thomas J. Meskill is competent.
Republican State Chairman J. Brian Gaffney says fellow Republicans Meskill and almost everyone agreed. Now, two months later, rifts of the months have been prodded and the reactions of Gaffney's Democratic counterpart, John M. Bailey, says he can't find the word "compession" in the Meskill administration.

The governor and others in his administration have shown no fitness in handling the problems of the people and, in more than a few instances, have caused outright disaster that interest in them," says Bailey. Gaffney cites the governor's orders to hold up Welfare Commissioner Henry C. White's proposed cuts in Medicaid as one more indication of the governor's cautious, reasoned approach to welfare problems.

White Meskill was cutting back funds for education, mental health, and other social services to towns and community programs. "The governor proposed to build his staff of social and political appointees at salaries higher than ever," said Bailey.

The two chairmen made their comments in statements on Saturday.

Nixon Losing Support After a Warm Freeze

NEW YORK (AP) — We must all make sacrifices for the good of the economy, we were told back in August, and what appeared to be a sense of comradeship in a crisis, almost everyone agreed. Now, two months later, rifts of the months have been prodded and the reactions of Gaffney's Democratic counterpart, John M. Bailey, says he can't find the word "compession" in the Meskill administration.

Looking back, it is possible to discern some of the motives that gave President Nixon his original support. Labor, for example, felt that inflation was doing it its fair financial share and felt that federal intervention might benefit it by correcting an imbalance. And business too felt it was being battered in the market place because of unregulated labor demands and now would stand justice.

But the result of the deliberations by the Pay Board and the Price Commission for Phase 2, look unexpectedly firm and restrictive to both labor and management, and both now seem to feel that they have been baited into a lobster trap and that they might be the sacrifice.

Children who were patients at Manchester Memorial Hospital Saturday received a special treat of birthday cake from the Manchester McDonald's at 46 W. Center St. on the occasion of its 10th anniversary. The cake was the idea of Robert Walsh, left, who wanted to remember children unable to attend the in-store celebration, where patrons received cupcakes and gifts. Here, Tony Sylvester, 7, of East Hartford is served a healthy slice of cake by Paul Rini, store manager, as Robert Buckler, food service manager at MMH, does the slicing. The youngsters reportedly left lary a crumb.

Almost Like At The Center

We thought when we read an editorial in the Meriden Record the other day, that our mid-state contemporary was, by some feat of empathy, writing about a situation right here in Manchester.

The Meriden editorial was describing traffic conditions at a certain Meriden intersection.

It was as if, as soon as there's a hill in one line, it and "one light changes somewhere else and the other line comes charging through. On top of it, there are three or four motorists in back of you honking and nudging and generally putting on the pressure.

"Your choice: wait till the cows come home or engage in a game of 'Chicken' with screaming drivers that may be fender-benders as the penalty for losing."

The Meriden editorial then went on to narrate that the state had finally gotten around to designing a traffic light system around the intersection.

"Happy ending?" asked the Meriden editorial. "Not so. Now it turns out that the signals may make more trouble than they cure."

What is the cure, for Meriden?

The best unofficial answer for long-suffering Meriden motorists says the Record editorial, "is to do what they've learned well to do at other trouble spots around the years — find another way around."

Well, going into the details of the particular Meriden intersection causing the trouble, we soon realized that it was not, after all, any faithful physical duplication of the traffic condition this town suffers up at the Center.

It is just that the conditions in Meriden, and the application of the state's traffic light system genuses to the problem, have somehow caught or reflected the same spirit of traffic obstruction, cross-direction conflict, and innocent complication which, in occasional celebrated instances, like that at our own Center, arrive in the place of the traffic acceleration and easement intended and supposedly being designed for.

But although the delay and confusion and the frustration may be the same, the actual physical circumstances are different.

Up at the Center one main problem results from the effect of those three separate and distinct directions of traffic coming from the north into a space which has room for only two and a half cars abreast, all without adequate sign or signal guidance to help the motorists try to line themselves up properly for their own particular destination. Then, just for kicks, we have our own game of "Chicken," in which traffic which wants to head down Main St. has its opportunity to try to out-jump traffic heading east from Center St.

There is one other difference between the situation at our prize intersection and that at Meriden's.

We would have a really tough time of it if we tried to "find another way around."

From Boom To Death?

To everybody's surprise, but with real explanation from nobody, this nation's birth rate dropped so low in July and August that, if it should continue at that rate, our future population growth would stand close to zero.

That is only one piece of evidence that the one-time baby boom is, for the moment at least, over and almost promising to turn into something of a baby death, confounding all those population experts who have been carrying us forward past the 300,000,000 mark by the year 2,000, and upsetting all those consumer curves which have been based on the assumption of continual rapid population growth.

It is interesting, of course, that there should be such a statistical development, just when everybody was beginning to make a regular business of worrying about the world's population explosion.

It is even more interesting to find that nobody really has a confident explanation of why the rate of population growth has suddenly turned downward.

There is, of course, the state of the economy, which doesn't encourage taking on the responsibility for feeding extra mouths. There is the fact that more women are working, and getting married later in life. There is the legislation of abortion, and the availability of the pill.

But, with all kinds of explanations available, what George H. Brown, director of the Census Bureau, says is that "what has happened here is that these rates have changed and are changing again — for reasons not well known to us."

"The changes," he continues, "have affected all income groups and education levels. There are deeper factors at work here than income and education."

And Paul Ehrlich, author of "The Population Bomb," says this: "It would be nice for me to be able to say that our propaganda is paying off, but that would be reckless. These reports are extremely encouraging. But what has come down quickly can go up quickly."

The really fascinating question is one to which there may not be any clear answer for years to come.

What if, in addition to showing itself here in the United States, this sudden drop in the rate of population growth has also been taking place in other societies in the world, some of them so primitive they know nothing of world economic conditions, or of world social trends, or of modern birth control methods?

What if, for reasons not well known to us, this same kind of population trend is now happening everywhere?

What if some secret, hitherto unsuspected psychological — physiological process of nature is trying to regulate balance for the human population as it has hitherto kept other kinds of life from over-crowding their own chances of survival?

What if, in compensation for our own blindness, ineptitude, and inability to take care of ourselves, we are nevertheless lucky?

Vernon
Zoning Group
To Hear Plan
On Apartments

Plans for a 60-unit apartment complex on Rt. 83 will be presented to the Zoning Commission at its meeting to be held Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Administration Building.

The proposed garden-and-townhouse-type apartments would be constructed on a 90-acre site adjacent to the Vernon Garden Apartments. The request is being made by Melvin Steinman of Rosewood Garden Park Inc., Great Neck, L.I., N.Y. The proposed name for the development is "Whitney Village."

Steinman reportedly is seeking a $9.9 million mortgage loan from the Department of Urban Development. The apartments would be considered in the semi-luxury class and would be built on a courtyard site, according to A. Richard Lombardi and Associates of Vernon, the engineering firm working on the project.

The commission will also discuss several requests for preliminary zone changes as follows: Michael Atwood, from residential to commercial property located on Reservoir Rd.; Bakke & Darcey from residential to commercial, proposed on Spruce St. and Nancy Ann O. Hutchinson from residential to industrial, property on Rt. 83.

The Zoning Commission will also discuss a request received from the Planning Commission concerning interpretation of a day care center; a request of Henry Abusa for a revision of the plan of development for Northgate Apartments now under construction on South St.; request of Dr. James D'Agata for a revision to a plan of development located on Rt. 63 at Merline Dr.

Atty. Sol Korowsky will discuss the depth of commercial property along Rt. 83 as it relates to Ashland and 70th. The commission will also study preliminary requests for approval of plans of development for James D'Agata for property located on Hegan Rd.

A request made by Edridge Yost for approval of a plan of development in a commercial district (Rt. 20 and Vermont Ave.) will also be discussed. The proposal is originally designed but Yost is coming in with changes in the plan.

Vernon
Town Officials
To Take Oaths

The newly elected mayor, councilmen and selectmen will take the oath of office tonight at 7:30 a.m. at an organizational meeting of the Town Council to be held at the Vernon Center Middle School.

Although the mayor and councilmen are elected every two years, all with the exception of two of the Council members, were re-elected. The two new members are Republican Richard MacDonald and Democrat Thomas Bennett. Mayor Frank McCoy was re-elected to his second term. New members on the Board of Selectmen are James Boetcher and Robert Wehrli, both Republicans. Minority selectman David Williams was re-elected.

Prior to the members being sworn in, the Rev. John J. White, pastor of St. Bernard's Church, will pronounce the invocation.

Following an address to the Council by Mayor McCoy, a mayor pro tempore will be elected. Stuart Neff has served in that capacity for the past two years. The appointment of a town attorney will also be made. Atty. Abbott Schwab has held this position since the election of McCoy two years ago. It is expected he will be reappointed.

Hearing Called
The informal public hearing on the proposed renovation and addition to the Rockville High School is scheduled for 8 p.m. The Council has called for the hearing to get the feeling of the townspeople on the $10.6 million project. It will then be up to the Council to set a date for a formal public hearing and after that set a date for a referendum on the appropriation. Or the Council could return the plans to the Board of Education to ask for changes. The figure was based on the plans going out to bid by April 1, 1972.

The director of administration, Richard Borden, will advise the Council as to what the impact on taxes will be if the plan is approved. Board of Education Chairman Joseph Powers told that board last week that he estimated it would mean a 3.5 to 4 mill increase.

The Council will also discuss the General Assembly reapportionment law as it affects Vernon and will be asked to approve the appointment of Joseph J. Pastic as town planner.

Adjourning as the Council, the group will reconvene in its capacity of Sewer Authority to discuss assessments for the Crest-Ridge-Valley View area where sewer lines have been installed.

Body Identified
STAMFORD (AP) — Police have identified the 10-year-old girl killed in a Friday afternoon traffic accident as Tracy Tymon, daughter of John W. Tymon.

His Was a Lucky Birthday

Todd Joseph Hunter, one day old, appears blissfully nonchalant about the fact that he picked a lucky day when he chose Thursday, Nov. 11, to make his entrance into the world. Todd and six other babies born that day at Manchester Memorial Hospital received $100 gift certificates from Butterfield's, which held its grand opening Thursday at the Manchester Parkade. Mothers also received a gift of flowers. Mrs. Iris Fields, center, wife of the owner, here presents Todd's certificate to his mother and dad, Mr. and Mrs. James Hunter of 148 Cooper Hill St. They have two other children. (Nasasif photo)

Hebron Selectmen Approve
Three-Town Hiring Project

The Board of Selectmen has approved the joint hiring with the towns of Andover and Marlborough of a recreational-cultural supervisor and is now accepting applications for the position.

Second Selectman Robert Dixon attended a meeting last week with the first selectmen of the other towns and representatives from the Community Development Action Program (CDAP) and the Capital Region Council of Governments to discuss this possibility along with others.

All agreed that the recreational-cultural supervisor presented the greatest need in the three towns, which under Section 6 of the Emergency Employment Act are eligible for a combined grant of $1,100 to hire such an employee.

According to Dixon, first preference will be given to residents of one of the three towns. Vietnam era veterans, persons under 21 or over 45 years of age or minority group members.

Basically, the duties of a recreational-cultural supervisor will be to develop and carry out a program of recreational and cultural activity in the three towns under the supervision of the chief administrative officers and recreation commissions.

These duties will include the scheduling of the use of facilities in the three towns, coordinating volunteers, maintaining supplies, materials and equipment and offering assistance in the preparation of a budget.

Minimum qualifications of any applicant must include the knowledge of the philosophy of community recreation, the ability to deal with the public, the ability to supervise others and experience in recreational and cultural programs.

Desirable qualifications include a college degree, considerable experience in the development of programs of a recreational and cultural nature in a rural setting.

Anyone interested in applying for the position may pick up an application form at the Town Office Building. These forms must be returned either to the first selectman or to Joseph Kane, CDAP, Marlborough, by this Friday.

Interviews will then be held Nov. 23 at 7:30 p.m. in Marlborough by the selectmen and representatives of the recreation commissions of the three towns. Hiring of a supervisor will be announced Nov. 23 with the employe starting work by December 1.

Diabetes Week
The Columbia-Hebron-Andover Public Health Nursing Agency reports that in connection with Diabetes Detection Week, Diabetic Drayspak will be available in local stores, the town office building and the post office.

The Drayspak is a simple test, furnished, free-of-charge. Residents need only pick up one, follow the directions on the Drayspak and mail the envelope. The agency, which is sponsoring Diabetes Detection Week in conjunction with the Connecticut State Board of Education to reply to the Regional Study Committee's report recommending that the Regional School District 8 be extended to include Grades K through 12 has expressed his interest but still there has been no reply.

Andover-Hebron-Marlborough
Regionalization Committee
Awaits Word from State

The 30-day deadline for the Connecticut State Board of Education to reply to the Regional Study Committee's report recommending that the Regional School District 8 be extended to include Grades K through 12 has expired but still there has been no reply.

A meeting had been scheduled for last week anticipating that this reply would have been received and that the committee could proceed with the next step—the distribution of a flyer to all residents of Hebron, Andover and Marlborough giving the committee's reasons for regionalization.

This meeting was postponed until tomorrow evening if the state has replied by then. Once the flyer has been distributed, public hearings will be set up at which both the advantages and disadvantages of regionalization will be aired.

The final step will be simultaneous referendums to be held in the three towns. All of this, of course, depends on the state making a recommendation that the three towns proceed with the regionalization. This recommendation is expected by the committee.

The committee's recommendation was not unanimous. Negotiations were cast by Mrs. Betty Kowalski of Andover and Jack Barble of Marlborough.

In an article printed in this paper last week, Mrs. Kowalski stated that she didn't think the three towns were ready for regionalization. "I think," she said "that they (the committee) tried to railroad it through."

Mrs. Kowalski further stated that in her opinion, regionalization would cost money, "especially to the taxpayers in Andover." The program of regionalization will save money in some areas, but immediately spend the money saved and more in other areas.

Marvin A. Ross, one of Hebron's representatives on the committee who voted for regionalization, "defies her" (Mrs. Kowalski) to prove her wrong. He stated that he has figures "which indicate that it would not cost anybody anything unless they get additional services in the schools."

Ross further stated that "Mrs. Kowalski went into that committee feeling how she was going to vote and everyone on the committee knew this from the very first meeting. She doesn't even listen to the good points and the bad points and nobody changes her mind," he said. Ross agreed that there are advantages to regionalization as well as disadvantages but in his opinion, the advantages were sufficient for him to cast a favorable vote.

Tolland Special Education Students Are Costing Town $49,153

Special education students are accounting for a larger proportion of the town's educational expenses, according to a report made last week to the Board of Education.

Present 22 pupils are costing the town $49,153. Two were placed by the State Welfare Department and costs have been billed to the town.

One of the students placed by the Welfare Department is enrolled at Mt. St. John on a 12-month basis at a cost of $2,550; the other is at Connecticut Junior College and costs Tolland $2,700.

Also receiving special education for the first time this year, is a 2½-year-old deaf child enrolled at the Gering Center in West Hartford at a cost of $1,800 covering transportation only. The child's educational expenses are picked up as a result of the town's membership in the Central Region Educational Council.

Hold over from previous years are 19 students with educational expenses in the amount of $42,500.

The town is obligated by state statutes to provide special education for its children where it has not provided such services, including pre-schoolers with speech and hearing problems, according to Dr. Mackenzie.

If a child is placed by the Welfare Department, as in the two cases facing the town this year, the town has no recourse other than to pay the bill.

In addition to the previous examples, the town is obligated for 18 special education students attending specialized classes in Rockville, including several at the "Talcoville" school.

An additional $10,000 is paid to Rockville Vo-Ag for 10 students.

The school board is left with a balance of $5,846 in the special education account, which according to Superintendent of Schools Dr. Kenneth Mackenzie could easily be wiped out by two students.

School Enrollment

Tolland's school population has increased by 235 students over the closing date last June. Present total enrollment is 2,700 pupils compared to 2,464 last June.

The statistics are included in the first grade by grade enrollment report issued since school opened.

Meadowbrook School houses 745 students including 225 in kindergarten; 270 in first grade and 247 in second grade.

Hicks has 486 students with 271 in third grade and 209 in fourth.

The Middle School is the largest with 882 students, of which 249 are in fifth grade; 227 in sixth; 214 in seventh, and 192 in eighth grade.

The high school has 888 students of which 168 are in ninth grade; 152 in 10th; 140 in 11th, and 101 in 12th grade.

In addition 10 students attend Vo-Ag, 23 Windham Tech, one each Franch, Howell Cheney and J. W. Wright technical schools and 22 special education classes.

A faculty-administrative council has been formed with systematic representation, according to Dr. Mackenzie.

The council will evaluate the needs of the growing school system particularly in the areas of curriculum, program and facility growth.

Year-Round Schools

The school board tabled a discussion of year-round schools during the meeting last week due to the lateness of the meeting.

A report on a year-round school meeting held in East Hartford and attended by Dr. Mackenzie and board members James Cornish, Robert Deane and Charles Mayer will be aired at a future meeting of the board along with other information regarding the subject.

School Lunches

Lunches are being sold at Meadowbrook School this week despite the half-day sessions. The school lunch program will not be in effect at Hicks School however.

Shell Collection

The unique collection of South Sea shells donated to the Meadowbrook School by former resident Ted Gardner, is creating high interest and the desire for further knowledge among the school's students, according to Meadowbrook School Principal Donald Parker.

Parker has written Gardner thanking him for the donation of the shells, and informing him that a permanent display facility is being sought to extend the usefulness of the collection as a resource item at the school.

Complete Course

Eight girls have successfully completed the Red Cross Mother's Aide course recently taught by members of the Tolland Junior Women's Club Home Life Committee.

Those receiving certificates marking the completion of the baby-sitting course are Cindy Elmer, Lynn Beatty, Judy Bentley, Doraine Boudie, Cynthia Fox, Candy Leffland, Shelly Kuehlich and Elizabeth Dowdy.

Planning and Zoning Commission will hold its organizational meeting tonight at 8 p.m.

Injuries Fatal

DANBURY (AP) — A 30-year-old man died Saturday at Danbury Hospital of injuries suffered in a fight Oct. 30 in a bar, officials said.

Police have charged Thomas St. Charles, 28, of Danbury with assault as a result of the fight.

The school board is left with a balance of $5,846 in the special education account, which according to Superintendent of Schools Dr. Kenneth Mackenzie could easily be wiped out by two students.

Key Moves Due This Week From Orange, Sugar Bowls

NEW YORK (AP)—This is the week that was far as the college football bowls are concerned . . . but they don't want it.

Record-Sitter Rebounding Bruins Dump Kings 52 Shots on Goal Made by Rangers

NEW YORK (AP) — New York's red-hot Rangers and Boston's rebounding Bruins put on a pair of spectacular shooting shows in the National Hockey League Sunday night.

The Rangers bombed 52 shots on goal to demolish the Kings at Vancouver goal George Gardiner and clubbed the Bruins 6-1 to increase their first place margin in the NHL's East Division to three points.

Don Luce and Mike Rodden had the Sabres' goal while Claude Larose also connected with the Canadiens. The Chicago tripped California three points back of New York in the East.

Chicago, leaders in the West, Sunday night, Chicago tripped California three points back of New York in the East.

In Saturday's games, New York bunched all its scoring in the second period to thump California 4-1. Montreal rallied for a comeback in the second period to drop Philadelphia 3-2.

Phil Martin, Stan Mikita, Cliff Brule and Bobby Hull all connected in the middle 20 minutes of the Black Hawks' win over Pittsburgh but Los Angeles 4-2.

The Rangers, who stretched their unbeaten streak to 14 fourth games, unloaded 40 shots in the first two periods when they scored all of their goals.

Bobby Rousseau had two of the goals while Eric Flett, Jean Helleu, Jack Eggers and Bruce MacGregor added one each.

The Flyers had taken the lead on a 40-foot goal by defenseman 84 Year Impeh-Impeh on the first goal in 17 games. Van Impeh had not scored since Feb. 8, 1969 when he got a pair of goals against Boston.

Phil Henderson had the other goal in the second period. But Johnson and Bob Kelly scored for the Flyers.

The Bruins had 28 shots and 122 points last year, also assisted on three goals and 47-0 beating at the hands of New York's Vic Hadfield.

FOILED—Steve Ciccolone's attempt for a new college consecutive field goal record was ended last Saturday when he missed against Washington & Lee in Coast Guard's 28-7 loss. The former Catholic High star had hit on 11 in a row. Referee signals a miss and the player returns to bench.

Nets Hand Pittsburgh ABA Loss

PITTSBURGH (AP) — High-scoring and highly-scoring upon, the Pittsburgh Condors are playing half-court basketball.

"Anytime we ran a set play, we got any shot we wanted. We played our worst defensive game of the season," declared Mark Sindelar, Condors' coach and general manager, after Pittsburgh's 100-125 loss to New York Nets in Sunday night's only American Basketball Association game.

"I just can't get five guys on the court at a time to concentrate on basketball," added Sindelar, who took over the coaching reigns recently from Jack McKeon.

Rick Barry and Bill Melchiorne paced the Nets with 41 and 34 points, respectively, as New York won its third in a row to move into third place in the ABA East.

The Condors, fifth in the East, out the Nets' 69-59 halftime lead to three points going into the final period.

However, Barry scored 12 points in the last quarter to lead New York to victory.

"The Nets are the toughest team in the league to play catch-up ball with," said Barry.

Top-ranked Ellington High advanced to the Class B semifinal round in the CIOAC Tournament Saturday morning by edging Nonnewaug High, 49-47.

Ellington, on a break tally by a Nonnewaug fullback, gave the Knights a 10 victory. Ellington broke down the Nonnewaug fullback, attempted to boot the ball to the end of the field and the ball sailed into the net and counted for Ellington.

Inside night Court Hilling was awarded the goal as he was the closest to the goal.

Bucks' Giant Dumps 76ers

NEW YORK (AP)—Although the name has changed from last season to this, the leading scorer in the National Basketball Association still is the same.

Bucks already have opened a five-game bulge in the Midwest Division.

Against Philadelphia, Jabbar Abdul Jabbar, the 7-foot, 6-inch center, scored 32 points in the first quarter to lead the Bucks to a 117-107 victory.

Other NBA games, Phoenix scored 128 points against Boston, 128-116, and Los Angeles beat Boston 128-116.

Milwaukee's victory was its eighth in a row and raised the Bucks' record to 18-1. Their only loss was to Boston on Oct. 29.

The Lakers' Gail Goodrich and Boston's Jo Jo White shared scoring honors with 36 points apiece.

Diak Van Arsdale's 21 points led the Cavaliers to a 117-107 victory over the Bulls.

When can I "DO something"?

There is no time like the present. Agencies all over Manchester are asked for help (many of them needing assistance immediately). Perhaps the organizations you are interested in adding don't need help at the moment. But for every one that does not, there are several others that do. Don't let yourself say, "Let someone else do it." That's what we've been saying for so many years. It is YOUR turn to "DO something."

Why should I "DO something"?

As you read this page, some of you might ask, "Why should I become involved in the DO something program? What should I DO something for?" Should I do it for my country? Certainly, the concerned citizen is the key to the welfare of our United States. But this can't be the only reason I should join the DO something program. For one or all of the above reasons you should take movement. Why should I do something? Of course! Any reason that stands up to a good reason to stand up. Because now is the time to stop talking about community problems. The time to take action is here at last. Use your talents—provide a service—help Manchester grow together as a community. DO something—an opportunity for every one of you, to combine with those of our friends and neighbors will enable us all to say with pride, "I am a part of the Manchester community. I helped make Manchester the finest town in Connecticut. I did something."

How can you "DO something"?

If you have a special skill, it may be small. Simply fill in and return the accompanying enrollment card or call 646-6031. An interest in a particular service you have contributed to the good of your neighbor, your community, and your own interests to the agency which can, and should, volunteer to "DO something."

The real question is, "How can you NOT DO something?"

Police Find Six Slain In South

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — A family of four and a prominent general practitioner and his wife were found dead in their homes today within a few blocks of each other in a fashionable neighborhood. Police Chief Lawrence Morris said Robert Eder, a federal employee, had apparently killed his wife and two children before taking his own life. Their bodies were discovered about 7 a.m. Discovered about the same time only a few blocks away were Dr. and Mrs. Charles Catrell Jr., both of whom were shot to death in the recreation room of their home, police said. They were found by their 15-year-old daughter Teresa. Morris said he did not believe the killings were linked. He (See Page Fourteen)

State Agency Officials Seek Less Money

HARTFORD (AP) — Gov. Thomas J. Meskill today said that state agency chiefs have asked for next fiscal year money for the next fiscal year less than the previous administration's officials had requested for the current year. However, the agency requests totaling $1,805,974,118 represent an increase of more than 5 percent over the present general fund budget of $1,690,000,000. Meskill declines to say whether he would be likely to make cuts in the agency requests before submitting the proposed budget to the legislature next year. "I have not yet had a chance to examine them," he said. The governor also said the $1.2 billion in proposed spending does not include any payment on the deficit, which is estimated at $264 million. Meskill noted that according to legislation passed this year the deficit is supposed to be paid off in the next two fiscal years which would mean adding $122 million to the $1.3 billion requested for the next year. The agency chiefs in the last year of Gov. John Dempsey's administration asked for more than $1.8 billion for the 1971-72 fiscal year, Meskill said.

Yorty To Bid For Nod For Presidency

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mayor Sam Yorty said today he will seek the Democratic party's nomination for president and will begin his campaign in New Hampshire, assistant campaign manager Richard J. Strickland said. "I am a Democrat," Yorty said. "I am a man of action. I am a man who will do anything to win." Yorty said his campaign is already well under way in New Hampshire. "The California primary, he added, "will climax our campaign" and "we will be selective" about races in other primary states.

On Bus Firm Withholding State Subsidies Defended by Gov. Meskill

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — An increasing share of the burden of the state bus subsidies from the Connecticut Co. until Mayor Bartholomew Guida of New Haven has opposed any local contributions to the cost of keeping the Connecticut Co. buses running. How quickly the refusal of help by one municipality would have, Meskill said: "It would feel up service in that one city pretty thoroughly." However, if several transit districts are created as a channel for government subsidies, service will be kept going in the districts where the cities are willing to pay, the governor said. Meskill noted that the Connecticut Railway & Lighting Co., which provides bus service in the Bridgeport and Waterbury areas, is also in financial trouble. "This is more than a one-company issue and more than a one-city issue," he said. The Connecticut Co., the state's largest bus firm, provides service in Hartford, New Haven and Stamford areas. Without a financial commitment, local officials will be tempted to keep services high and fares low with passing on (See Page Fourteen)

John Thompson Elected Mayor-Board Chairman

HARTFORD (AP) — Mayor John W. Thompson was elected mayor and chairman of the Board of Directors today at a meeting of the city's governing body. Thompson, a Democrat, defeated a Republican challenger, James F. Ferguson, in a runoff election. Thompson, who has served as mayor since 1967, was elected to a second term. Ferguson, who has served as deputy mayor since 1967, was elected to a second term. The meeting was held at the City Hall, where Thompson was sworn in as mayor and chairman of the Board of Directors. The Board of Directors also elected Thompson as chairman. The meeting was attended by Mayor Thompson, Mayor Pro Tem James F. Ferguson, and other members of the Board of Directors.

Ex-Master Spy, Rudolf Abel, Dies

MOSCOW (AP) — Rudolf Abel, one of the top spies in the United States, died of lung cancer at the age of 55 today. Abel was released from prison in 1955 after serving a 30-year term for espionage. He was born in Russia and came to the United States in 1945. He operated from 1945 until his arrest in 1951. He was probably the most important Soviet agent caught in the United States. He was sentenced to 30 years in prison, but in 1955 was exchanged for American U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers. Abel died Monday.

In U.N. Vote U.S. Edict on Chrome Opposed

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The United States in the roll call today opposed a resolution on chrome from Rhodesia. The U.S. vote was the only one to oppose the resolution. The resolution called for a 100 percent ban on chrome exports from Rhodesia. The U.S. delegation, led by Ambassador J. William Fulbright, argued that the resolution was not in the interests of peace and stability in Rhodesia. The resolution was adopted by a vote of 106 to 12 with 13 abstentions.

Rail Pact Seen First Big Test For Pay Unit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The railroad signalman's union announced today tentative agreement on a new 42-month contract that may prove to be the first big test of the Pay Board's post-freeze wage guidelines. Terms of the settlement were not immediately announced but it was thought likely it would follow the pattern set by many earlier settlements providing other rail unions with wage increases averaging 42 percent over 42 months. This is roughly twice the pay Board's general rule that new contracts may not contain increases of more than 5.5 percent a year.

House Ready For Vote On Viet Fund Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon told Republican congressional leaders today passage of a Vietnam fund cut-off amendment by the House will jeopardize our effort to get American prisoners back. The House is expected to vote on the amendment today. The measure, which is being supported by an organization of GI prisoners-of-war families, is not expected to win passage. Nixon met for two hours in the Cabinet room today with 25 House and Senate GOP leaders. House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, who reported Nixon's comments, said the President returned to the amendment by Rep. Edward P. Boland, D-Mass., to the House floor today.
