The British delegation reportedly also called the proposed devaluation into question for the same reason. The pound sterling is not presently too un-dervalued in terms of the dollar, but a 7 per cent dollar cut, the British fear, might leave British products overpriced. On the other hand, Germany on the other hand, Germany and Japan favor a sizable U.S. devaluation. The mark and the yen are considered the most undervalued of the important currencies, and they are earmarked for substantial upward revaluation as part of the settlement.

A substantial U.S. deval-uation would let the Japanese and German governments get by with smaller up-valuations of the yen and mark. The same adjustment would be achieved in relation to the dollar, but the

And American businessmen should not think there is a gold mine awaiting them in the form of a huge and untapped market in mainland China, some speak-ers said. The growth of trade relations is likely to be slow and laborious, several experts warned, and severely limited tion largely self sufficient.
"Four billion dollars a year in trade is what I hear in Washington is the potential with China," said luncheon speaker John C. Clark, director of the Export-Import Bank of the U.S. That figure, he added, "is no larger than the trade that now exists with Taiwan." Clark said, however, he felt more than that,

"There must be more potential," he said. "There must be something in all of that land and among all of those people for future development."
He noted that the Import-Export bank, a government corpo-ration created to foster trade and concentrating on expanding exports holds an outstanding loan to the mainland Chinese that is in default.

7:00 P.M. - Carilloneur, Mr. Henry Hilliard

DECEMBER 19, 1971

The public is cordially invited to attend.

Two men, one armed with gun and wearing a ski mask, held up the Cumberland Farms dairy store at $28 Green Rd. last night, making off with an undetermined amount of cash.

The store's night clerk, William J. Walsh Jr. of 183B Hilliard St., told police he was alone in the store at about 5:50 when the two men came into the store.

The masked man, Walsh said, stood at the door and drew a gun, while his companion checked the store for customers and then ordered Walsh to open the cash register.

After opening the register, which he did with some difficulty. Walsh was then ordered into the store's back room while the thief scooped money from the safe.

Moments later Welch with an undetermined amount of cash.

an act of the jungle.

United States moved up to the sidelines, might feel compelled to join in the fight, was conduct of the jungle.

What is there that stands between us and more of the same?

Nothing at all, except, perhaps, fear. And fear, while it may occasionally slow down the arrival of that breaking point at which war comes to seem both inevitable and necessary, can never make peace for anybody, anywhere.

What the world has allowed India and Pakistan to do to each other, then, which has been to allow them to go back into the jungle to try to settle a few things, is paralleled and overshadowed by what the world has done to itself, which has been to confess that it itself knows no way to stay out of the jungle.

It is still, for all the shining side accomplishments of our civilization, where where we all live.

We very frequently can be found congratulating ourselves on how far we have come, in terms of civilization. We might do better to admit that we are what we do, and that what we do has been illustrated, on its realistic instead of its wishful level, by these events. We have, almost from the beginning again, a long way to go.

Those Flecks Of Yellow

Don't look at your forsythia too closely, when you go out to cut your first winter forcings.

You may see occasional flecks of yellow which will discourage you from the ordinarily pleasurable business of outwitting the depth of winter.

The buds you would normally bring into bloom for your February mantle have, some of them, stready been forced part way open.

What your normal interior January heat can do, our abnormal outdoor mid-December has begun to do before you have even taken your clippers in hand. Down in Washington, the cherry trees are in blossom. And if, on your way to the forsythia, you happen to pass one of those illac bushes still standing after the recent soft snow storm, you will notice fat new branch buds pushing out of the old trunks - far too fat and exposed, it

But rest assured of one thing. We mere human beings may feel confused and helpless before some of the vagaries of our weather, but the world of bud and bloom will always somehow find its way through any kind of crisis, even if, in some years, it has to bloom twice.

The local Scrooge was having his usual hard time resolving the difficulties of the season when, the other day, he let out a whoop and a holler of discovery. When we looked over his shoulder, to see what was the matter, we found him reading an item in the Wall Street Journal which told of the appearance on the Christmas market of a gift item called the "Ego Builder."

"A person punches a button," the description said, "and he's regaled with raves and cheers." We never saw Scrooge as happy as he appeared to be, sitting there in that first moment of discovery of what promised to be, for him, an easy solution of all his shopping difficulties.

A moment later, however, he was back in his usual glum and disconsolate

"What the blitzen goes on?" we Gara-

"I have just thought over all the people I know," Scrooge said sadly, "and I can't think of a single person who needs an Ego Builder. Except, that is, me. I may have to buy myself one, to counteract the way people are always putting me down for acting and talking the way they themselves feel. Bah! Humbug!"

The Happy Way Of Doing Things

In Game's Magazine, dated May 3, 1762, David Douglas, manager of the Nassau Street Theater, New York City, announced to all and sundry: "A reward will be given to whoever can discover the person who was so very rude as to throw eggs from the gallery upon the stage last Monday, by which the clothes of some ladies and gentlemen were spotl-ed, and the performance in some mea-aure interrupted."

At the other end of the spectrum, came across a questionnaire given to the girls of the Catholic high school in which I taught religion in 1944. The fac-ulty was conducting a courtesy cam-paign, and the students were given 25 questions to answer, Among them were these: "Do I apologize whenever I dis-turb the class or amoy anyone? Do I rise whenever my teacher or a visitor en-ters the room and remain standing until she is seated? Is my hair neatly combed ast and current conduct, all shared she is seated? Is my hair neatly combed and my uniform spotless?" The other questions are in the same vein.

Hand out that questionnaire today and you'd be considered a square. Courtesy is one of the casualties of the times. This today's theme is: "Be yourselves. Good breeding is pretense. If irritability is your natural expression, or license in various directions — throwing eggs or rocks, or consistent self-will, be honest about it and don't worry about other people's feelings."

To be civilized is to have some quality of consideration for all who cross our path. An Englishwoman once said to the artist, James McNeill Whistler, that the artist, James McNeill Whistler, that the politeness of the French was "all on the surface," to which he replied: "And a very good place for it to be." Marshal Foch, French hero, pursued the same thought when an unmannerly American said to him that French politeness was nothing but wind. The marshal replied, "Neither is there anything but wind in a pneumatic tire, yet it eases wonderfuly the joits along life's highway." It is this sweet surface politeness (not oily or insincere), costing so little, counting for se much, which smooths some of the roughness out of life.

ness out of life. The reaction of Whistler and Foch conveys only part of the truth. Genuine courtesy is not a veneer to gloss over the real you. Courtesy is a way of acting that is founded on kindness, consider-ation and fundamental decency. It is the ability to see every person as an individ-ual. It is not often that we actually look at others. Most of us are generally too busy, too preoccupied with ourselves to options to take chances along the Suez Canal. Moreover, these global con-siderations of U.S. prestige and credibility are reinforced by In George Bernard Shaw's play "Pyg-malion" (from which the musical "My Fair Lady" was adapted), Professor Higgins takes a Cockney-talking little flower girl and, by teaching her manthe new deliveries to Egypt of Soviet TU-16 Badger bombers equipped with air-to-surface missiles. For the first time, ners, makes a lady of her. "The great secret , Elisa." Professor Higgins tells her, "is not having good manners, or any particular sort of manners, but having the same manner for all human souls." A French novelist somewhere speaks Egypt now possesses an air-craft capable of firing a one-ton warhead some 120 miles, a fact that Mrs. Meir made much of of a peasant he knew, who every morning used to go out into the fields and listen to the corn growing. So we ought to be able to listen to the seed that is growing in men's hearts, help it to sprout, break up the clod of earth which the seed is too feeble to penetrate; signify by the pressure of a hand, by a smile, a passing word, that we are at the service of another, ready to welcome him, to give him our attention, to help in a concrete way — in a word, to give of our-selves. Christian love demands this of us. Our Lord said, "This is my commandment, that you love one another as I have loved you." Here is the model for the kind of love we should know.

Good manners soften the hard edges of reality. "Manners," said Ralph Waldo Emerson, "are the happy ways of doing things." And he added that people are always watching our manners, awarding or denying us prizes accordingly. Courtesy is more than pleasure in a smooth-ed path. It is a warm and friendly voice coming to greet us in the dark. It is a hand stretching across the empty space that surrounds all of us. — BISHOP

Guy Lefleur Wins Spurs As Rookie

NEW YORK (AP)-The day after Montreal's smooth - skating center, Jean Beliveau, had announced his retirement from hockey, the Canadiens, seeking a new star, made Guy Lefleur the top pick in the National Hockey League draft.

It was very fitting because Beliveau long had been Lefleur's idol.
And Scotty Bowman, Mos treal's new coach, went even further. He assigned Lefteur to Beliveau's spot in the dressing room, and put him on the same line that Beliveau had skated with last season—Frank Mahovilch on left wing and Yvan Cournoyer on the right.

It put tremendous pressure on the 20-year-old rookie, who and amassed the amasing totals of 130 goals and 200 points with the Quebec City Ramparts of the Canadian Junior Hockey He was the most heralded NHL rookie since Bobby Orr.

After watching Lefleur in an exhibition game earlier this year, Orr said: "He's got good size and he can skate and pass the puck. But it may take him time to adjust to the pro style."

Orr was correct. Lefleur started slowly, scoring only nine goals in the Canadiens first 28 games. But Friday night, he broke loose, striking for three goals and leading Montreal to a 6-2 victory over Vancouver. Detroit and California battled to a 5-8 tie in the only other

NHL game.

Lefleur's 10th goal of the season pulled Montreal into a 1-1 deadlock with the Canucks at 18:21 of the first period. His Baltimore's defending Super Bowl champions, likewise can win their division, the AFC East, by turning back the Patriots. Miami trails the Colts by cone-half game.

MMH Patients Not Forgotten At Yule Season

J. Walsh and son, 88 Hilltop Dr

Patients at Manchester Me morial Hospital will not be forgotten as Christmas Week approaches. A number of church, school, club and civic groups have scheduled yuletide events beginning today and continuing through Friday, Christmas Eve. Children in pediatrics will be treated to gifts and a visit from Mather Chapter, Order of De Molay, and tonight at 7:15 a delegation from Parents Without Partners will stroll through the halls singing carols.

The Manchester High School Round Table Singers plan a carol sing tomorrow; a group from South United Methodist Church will sing Monday eve-ning at 7; and Tuesday at 6:30 p.m., Senior Girl Scouts from Rockville are scheduled. Wednesday afternoon, the traditional Christmas Party for children will be held in Pediatphysicians.

Thursday at 4 p.m. will be the Manchester Community College students' turn to carol, and sometime Friday employes of the X-ray Department will visit Pediatrics for a songfest. Another visit from Santa with gifts for the children will be sponsored by students of St. ames School either Monday or

Nixon Lifts Surcharge At Bermuda

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) President Nixon arrived here oday for two days of summit talks with Prime Minister Ed-ward Heath and announced he has just signed a proclamation lifting the 10 per cent sur-charge on foreign imports into the United States. The action, the President told newsmen assembled before the residence of Bermuda's Governor, Lord Martonmere, will clear the way for wider talks

Bea Clulow Will Retire As Herald Office Manager

"I want to make sure that you are planning to stay," the late Thomas Ferguson, publisher of The Herald, said, in effect, to an applicant for an office position in early June of 1937. Any doubts or fears that he may have harbored have long since been removed by the successful applicant's years of service. The lady was Miss Beatrice I. Clulow, who will retire at the end of the month after 34% years of Herald em-ployment. During that time, she of the Ferguson family—Thomas, Ronald H., Thomas F., Walter R .- and the present publisher, Burl L. Lyons of Hagadone Newspapers, a division of Scripps League Newspapers, ted, as office manager, with the fourth generation of the Ferguson family. The young lady is Laurie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Ferguson.

"The relationship has been a very happy one," Miss Clulow said, in looking back over the years, "I have always had the interest of The Herald at

The mutual respect and grat-itude for her loyalty is evident in statements of her most recent employers.
"Beatrice Cludlow is retiring at the end of the year," Thomas Ferguson said. "I knew that the time must come for this; it al-ways does. But looking back seems such a short way. How seems such a short way. How can all the years have gone by so rapidity? How can my brother and I properly thank a person who has done so much for our company and our family through the years? It hardly seems enough, but we both wish her God speed and happiness through the years to come, and offer her our right arms should she ever need them."

Lyons said, "Miss Clulow's service to the newly formed
