"Things have got to change," said Cliff Jellison, manager of Bissonette's Mobile Service in Danielson. "What the hell, if it's going to help the area. . I would say general opinion is for it because of the jobs it would bring."

The 75,000-acre complex was proposed for the Connecticut-Rhode Island border Monday by the Port Authority Commis sion, which tried to anticipate ecological opposition by saying that "substantial environmental changes" the complex would bring to the area could be dealt with through planning.

The jetport would have no residents, but would consist of an industrial park, warehouses, a pollution-abatement system and a jetport with 30 passenger terminals, 10 air-cargo terminals and a runway structure that allows dual take-offs and landings, explained commission chairman William B. Stanley. Starsey first proposed the idea 12 years ago, and environ-mentalists and people who just like country life have been fighting him ever since. Peter Tripp, retired mer-chant seamen and a founder of the Connecticut Committees of Correspondence, said in a telephone interview that it's not just a question of jobs or envi-

thing," Tripp said. "You create jobs in that particular way and in the long run you're not giving anybody anything, because you're un-dermining the base of human life here.

Tripp said the jetport would "completely change the envi-ronment. This is the biggest Tripp said the commission's projections of demand for a jetport seem to be two years old.

"I think it's a very serious question whether a jetport is needed, because airlines are in trouble," he said.

Regardless of the environmental impact a number of smaller businessmen who also have direct contact with the would bring. But several of them said opinion was running about 50-50. "I think it's great, because it will create a lot of jobs and opportunity for people and help the area grow," said Dan Laseter, manager of Saveway Serv-ice Center. "Opinion is both pro and con, about half and half. People object to the noise, increased traffic, the pollu-tion. . .but I think people don's stop to realize it would help the tax situation and create jobs for the unem-ployed."

The commission sent copies of its report to the governors Island, since the project was project between the two states. Gov. Thomas J. Meskill reiterated his opposition to the jet-

Club members will have their work displayed in an arts and crafts exhibition and contest. Winning items will be entered in the Connecticut State Federations by members will also be presented, with the seamtow cloud-seeding experiment over Lake Eric say they were frustred when "nature chose not to cooperate."

The experiment was designed to reduce the impact on Western New York of snow storms which develop when cold winds blow along the length of the relatively warm lake.

No Moles Admitted

ORAND IBLAND, N.Y. (AP)

The idea was to seed clouds with silver iodide so the snow would be spread over a larger area, but the area had a mild winter and scientists said there was no major lake-effect snow-storm to fully test the theory.

Thus, a journey through Disney's creative world is an escape for both young and old from the tension, strife and turmoil of every day living.

Effective this month, 18-year-old Californians can sit on juries, teach people how to drive, obtain credit cards, be hired as policemen but they can't drink legally. While the California assembly passed the measure lowering the minimum age of majority from 21 to 18, a companion bill to lower the minimum drinking age from 21 to 18 is given little hope of passing.

Help wanted male and female classified advertisements are a key subject of discussion for newspapers across the land. Meanwhile Seattle, Wash., has adopted a new city ordinance which subjects the newspaper to a $500 fine if it accepts and publishes a help wanted advertisement expressing a preference as to sex, age, race, creed or national origin, knowing the preference is no justified by a bona fide occupational qualification. Here at The Herald we are giving some thought to dropping the male and female classifications.

Good news for politicians: Beginning this month, andidates for federal offices can be charged no more for their campaign advertising than the newspaper charges others for comparable use of its space. Here at The Herald we will make the same charge available to state and local candidates. In the past many newspapers have established a political rate for advertising. The new rate situation is part of the campaign expenditure legislation recently passed by Congress. However, the new law does not affect the right of publishers to reject any advertising

Mayor John Thompson's Downtown Committee viewed the Bay State West center of the Springfield, Mass., business district last week. A magnificent center but beyond that remains uppermost in our mind is that purchase of land to make way for the center came to $38 a square foot. Just as in Manchester, much of the property in downtown Springfield cleared to make way for the center, was held by absentee or out-of-state owernship.

You are going to get a little extra time this year in which to file your federal income tax return as it isn't due until April 17. The Internal Revenue Service also says that for some 30 million Americans who made less than $10,000 last year, Form 1040 is a painless tax return; may be easier than you think, and you can do it yourself. Of course the Internal Revenue Service is always more optimistic than the average taxpayer. It is a credit to this great nation though that the average taxpayer pays his debt to government when due. Howard Hughes Flies Obituary To Another Hideaway Mrs. Elizabeth Gifford Bar.

Somoza said he had invited Hughes to "visit with me in the near future." But he declined, as did Shekton, to say what had been discussed.

Other sources said the three might have discussed a possible business deal involving Hughes' airline, Hughes Airwest, and Somoza's Lanica airline.

Neither Somoza nor Shelton would confirm or deny Hughes had left by private plane nor would they speculate on Hughes' destination.

Somoza and Shelton's remarks were included in a communique from the president's office, which gave no hint of Hughes' appearance.

"Be careful," she said.
"I'm always careful," I replied.
She and I were talking about two different things. She meant I should be careful not to exert myself too much. I meant I shovel snow carefully—not haphazardiy and not hit-ormiss.

With me, every part of a sidewalk has to be clean of snownot just a path through it, but all of it. That's what I call careful shoveling. I do it like an engineer would.

So why am I so careless about the driveway? I don't know the answer, unless because there's so much more of it.

More times than not, I shovel just enough of the driveway so that when I back out of it my wheels either follow a path or they skid into a snowbank.

Usually, they skid into a snowbank.

once, when it had snowed hard and my son was home from college, I didn't even bother to shovel a path in the driveway. I left it for him to do. Even when a couple of teen agers rang my bell and offered to shovel the entire driveway for a ridiculously low price, I said, "Sorry. My son is home from college. He'll do it." Plaque Honors Sheekeys' Hospital Gift

Atty. Harold Garrity, left, executor of the estate of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jame Sheekey; and Edward M. Kenney, administrator of Manchester Memorial Hospital, discuss placement of this plaque in the intensive care floor of the new East Wing, which has been named in the Sheekeys' memory. Mr. Sheekey, who served as Manchester's town engineer, died in 1967. Before her death a year later, Mrs. Pearl Sheekey left the bulk of their estate, approximately $175,-000, to the hospital. Some 40 other plaques are presently being placed in the new East and Emergency Wings, commemorating other donors of substantial gifts for the additions which total more than $530,000. Cutting Pollution
ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) —
A low-emissions automobile may be closer than we think may be closer than we think—possibly only five years away—according to associate professor H, Searl Dunn of the University of Rochester College of Engineering and Applied Science, Dunn will work on research and development of a clean anotmobile propulsion system with the aid of a $31,500 system with the aid of a $31,500 grant from the National Science Foundation.

Dunn's way to cut anto pollution involves replacing the "dirty" high emission internal combustion engine with a much smaller engine plus a hydrostatic transmission capable of storing energy. A hydrostatic drive, he says, "is basically a hydraulic pump-motor combination that transmits power using fluid pressure." The pump is driven by some external power source, for external power source, for example, a "clean" gas turbine. He adds that the system is different from all other alternative systems under study by sutomobile manufacturers and members of the committee apparently resulted largely from dissatisfaction with the way Smith had been conducting hearings and meetings.

When the bills came up in the Benate for formal referral to the Human Rights Committee. Senate Majority Leader J. Edward Caldwell, D-Bridgeport, sent them instead to the Judiciary Committee.

Senate President Pro Tem Charies T. Alfano, D-Suffield, said after the session that the change was made because the Judiciary Committee usually considers gun-control bills.

Smith was absent from the Senate chamber at the time and said afterward he was not aware of the referral. He had scheduled another hearing on the bills for March 22 to permit persons to testify.

Bills are not usually opened to a public hearing until they are referred to committee.

Bartler Tuesday Rep. Leonard G. Frazier, another Hartford Democrat who is House chairman of the Human Rights Committee, threatened to split off the House Committee from the Senate faction and conduct all its business separately.

The Seam, It Seems, Making a Comeback

THE SEAM RETURNS — With all the nostalgia in the air now, it's no surprise to see the stockinged seam making a comeback. Seamed pantyhose were shown in Italy last fall and in Paris recently, and the word was that men loved it but women found the look was not adaptable to every fashion. Shown here, are two versions of the seamed look from Chadbourn Hosiery that do work. At left, a knee skimming skirt and pantyhose with contrasting seams go together; and at right, the same pantyhose go with a mini-skirt. One puts on the new seams just like regular pantyhose, but keeping the thumb and index finger on the seam while pulling it straight up the back of the leg.
