And the votes which do remain in the cities are more literate and sophisticated and wise in the knowledge of their own free power than they were in the days when the great political machines were in their full flower.

If there have been, in this summer's increasing amount of gypsy moth damage in this section of Connecticut, those fortunate enough to escape this year's hunger of the caterpillars, even the most immune of us have now had warning, in the past few days, that next year the tragedy may be for us, too, and for the This year's crop of moths, in blind, organization-type political muscle.

mindless search for a spot to lay the egg masses for next year's worms, has invaded areas where, this year, no foliage was eaten. Fluttering obscenities on the landscape, they mark out new trees for next year, hitchhike their way inside cars from one section of town to another, fly into your face as you emerge from door-

Watching them, one gets the same sensation one gets from watching larger and more important events of our time -the sensation of dreading a future and an ugliness without being able to do any-ing and staking out claims for next year's onslaught, quite helpless, and full of Job's questionings without much of his feeling of submission. But we do begin to see, here and there, the beginning of a second foliage which means that the trees which suffered the most this year are not giving up. We can't, and won't, either.

Tears For An Income Tax

Put it down, in your time capsule along with other significant facts of our time that ought to be referred to posterity, which may be able to explain them, that it was the Republican Majority Leader of the New Jersey Assembly who broke down into public tears after the state income tax he and a Republican Governor favored had gone down to ignominious defeat.

The attempted explanation has to go something like this: New Jersey has an antiquated state tax structure; its cities are in dire need of financial help; the burden on the property tax is getting to be so heavy it almost forbids ownership; in such a situation a special state tax commission recommended, as similar bodies have now been recommending here in Connecticut for the past two which follows Mr. Nixon around the years, the resort to an income dax, as the fairest and most practical source of

But when Republican leadership, backed by elements in the business community itself, comes out for the income tax, that causes the Democrats, who once supported the income tax almost as a matter of doctrine, to become suspicious. At the same time, some Republicans just can't bring themselves to any quick change in their own traditional doctrine of being against the tax. The result, in New Jersey, was that neither Democrats nor Republicans would help the Republican Governor accomplish what he felt

But perhaps we had better just put it into the time capsule that, on Monday, July 18, 1972, a Republican majority These are all reasons why a plausible leader in the New Jersey Legislature broke down and cried in public when a state income tax was defeated. By the time the capsule is opened, somebody may have figured it out, more clearly than we can, why who was for and who was against the income tax; in New Jersey, and in Connecticut, back in the days when tax policy was still something short of total confiscation.

Daley's Insurance Polic

It may not have occurred to all the na tion's sophisticated political commentators, but we have an idea that Chicago's Mayor Daley didn't have to have anybody tell him that there might be more peril for him than for Candidate Mc-Govern in any Daley tactic of sitting the

How much help Mayor Daley is going o render Candidate McGovern, now that he has openly pledged himself to work for the entire ticket, is problematical. What is certain, however, is that Mayor Daley has shrewdly taken out his own insurance policy against the possibility that Candidate McGovern may be about to do very well in Chicago on election day, with or without the help of

There is a "new politics" in existence which didn't need to be proclaimed by Senator McGovern or by any self-labeled political reformers. It is a new politics based on the elemental fact that the population of the big American cities has been changing in both size and in character. The votes themselves aren't there, inside the cities, in the numbers they

The point is that the big city vote is no longer quite as deliverable as it used to be. Here and there, an organization still packs power, and Mayor Daley seems to have the most powerful big city organization still surviving. But it might be true that Mayor Daley's vote-getting power these days depends just as much on the fact that he seems to run his city efficiently as it does on his possession of

Mayor Daley may detest Senator Mc-Govern, and wish for his defeat. But he has no desire to risk his own prestige needlessly by exposing himself to the possibility that Chicago might go big for McGovern, even if Daley sat the whole Whether Mayor Daley has really done anything for Candidate McGovern, or whether, indeed, Candidate McGovern might be better off if it were kept clear Mayor Daley does not love him, we may never know. But Mayor Daley has pro-ble and his feat of getting it from his motley army of "new" politicians is even more impressive than his surprise success in the primaries. We commend him for his remarkable achievements to date and we congratulate the American people on the prospect of having before them on election day a choice between reasonable alternatives. Mr. McGovern and his platform are to the left of Mr. Nixon and his policies, but the difference, so far as it can be perceived now, will be over speed and quantity of change - not over direction and goals. But having said that it should also be said that in all likelihood the American election of 1972 is going to turn not on what Mr. McGovern offers, but on what Mr. Nixon performs between now and election day. If Mr. Nixon performs a successful and honorable end to the Vietnam war (which seems daily more likely) and if the American economy continues to get stronger (as it is doing right now) tapering off of the inflation then there would expectably be a voter inclination to let him keep on running the country. If Mr. Nixon fails to deliver the end of the war and a buoyant economy then of course, the election will take place in a different framework. In that case a majority of the voters might well want to turn to the McGovern Democrats. The two-party system works only if there is at all times a plausible and available alternative to the party in pow er. It should be like that spare airplanworld when he travels, always ready if But whether the spare will be wanted in November is doubtful. The Democrats have been out of office only four years There is still a lively memory of the con dition of the country at the time of the andover. Mr. Nixon inherited a counry bogged down in its longest and most npopular war. The economy was in a shambles and the American people wer bitterly divided. Things were a lot worse four years ago than they are now. Men may differ honestly over how much of the credit for the improvement goes to Mr. Nixon. But the plain fact of the matter is that things are a lot better were four years ago. The McGovern people think that spite of the improvement there is an underlying dissatisfaction with things as they are now. Perhaps. We don't see it Mr. Nixon has a remarkable capacity for alienating people by campaign ravagances -as he did in 1970. And e does have an "image" problem alternative is desirable and why it's a good thing that Mr. McGovern emerges from the Democratic convention in commoth wage mand of an unexpectedly orderly Democratic Party with a respectable plat Our own guess is that the state of the war and the economy will be decisive; and that Mr. McGovern's true role is to e there, ready and able to take over should something go wrong. - CHRIS-P. F. Mietzner TIAN SCIENCE MONITOR

While out touring the other day we ran across scribbled sign on the highway: Pony Rides 35c, Pony For

Apparently business hasn't been too rushing. Hitting the highways on the weekend we often wondered just why we felt fenced in and then we read where Connecticut has 622 residents per square mile. We glanced at a map of the state of Montana, from whence we came, and discovered after a short math lesson that it has some 4 residents per square mile,

However, Connecticut has a lot of beauty to behold and we are happy we have been discovering it. We have been to Gillette Castle and visited a number of other state parks. More than 100,000 people visit the castle annually and also utilize its extensive grounds for hiking, picnicking and to view its breath-taking foliage. It might just be that tourism could be a larger in dustry in the Nutmeg State with a bit more promotion

A good idea? If Downtown Manchester's merchants are agreeable, and perhaps they should be, maybe part of Main Street could be closed on a trial basis for one day sometime this fall to determine the feasibility of a shopping mall. Such action would need permission from the state but it would certainly be a big step forward in ascertaining the likes and dislikes of shoppers for a mall. Perhaps the merchants can express their thoughts to the Main Street Guild.

A fellow asked a couple of questions the other day we couldn't answer but then perhaps there isn't a brief, concise, factual answer available. Why don't the stores in Downtown Manchester remain open more than one night per week? Aren't there possibly some shoppers using the new Manchester to Hartford Commuter Bus?

Some Posing As Officials In Coventry

Building Inspector John Willnauer and Deputy Sanitarian Lon Hultgren are issuing a warning to local residents not to admit into their homes individuals representing themselves as town officials, unless they are properly identified. Willnauer and Hultgren report that there is apparently a problem in that some person or persons are attempting to pass themselves off as town officials. The building and sanitary departments have also received calls from residents asking for positive identification of individuals performing inspections in these categories. OPERATION IDENTIFICATION protects your valuables . . . saves you 10% on your Homeowners Insurance

The State Police Department has launched an anti-theft program called "Operation Identification". It is designed to help protect your valuables against theft by having you:

1. engrave your motor vehicle operator's license number on your valuables:

2. keep a list of the items in a safe place: 3. place "Operation Identification" stickers on your home as a deterrent to burglars.

The Hartford thinks so highly of the program that it is granting a 10% reduction in its basic Homeowners Policy premiums to those who participate. You can secure the necessary engraving tool, inventory forms and stickers om either the State Police or our agency.

Coast Guard Seeks Recruits

The U.S. Coast Guard is fac ing a potentially serious prob-lem in maintaining its enlisted manpower level, according to Adm. Bender said that de-creased draft pressure asso-clated with transition to an allvolunteer armed force has resulted in recruiting shortfalls. In New York City, a Coast Guard spokesman said many Coast Guard units are functioning below their normal manpower level. He said that the Coast Guard units are still meeting their responsibilities but that the manpower shortage could, in the luture, effect its missions. Duties of the Coast Guard include search and rescue, maintaining aids to navigotion, en-forcing merchant marine safety aws, polar icebreaking, water pollution abatement, port securprotecting fisheries, and law enforcement, especially within recreational boating. Operating as an agency under the Department of Transportation the Coast Guard is the nation's smallest military service with some 35,000 enlisted men and 4,500 officers. Because of its unique position as a human-itarian, yet military service, the Coast Guard has traditionally

Stamps In the News

Art afficionados are quick to pay tribute to the famous French impressionist painters. Many of the works of Renoir. Cezanne, Manet and others of this popular school appear on postage stamps. But few are aware of the one German impressionist whose artistic endeavors are equal to his counterparts across the Rhine. The German impressionist is Max Liberman (1847-1935) and he is being singly honored by West Berlin with a new 40 pfennig stamp. This new adhesive, according to the World Wide Philatelic Agency, honors the 125th anniversary of his birth and bears a self-portrait on wood. Lieberman's popularity in his home country is attested by his becoming president of the Art Academy in Berlin and having received the decoration "Pour le merite" - famous in military parlance as "The Blue

When You Go Dancing Whenever business was good at suburban night club, the management would "stretch" their space by putting extra tables and chairs on the edge of the dance floor. One night, a dancing couple stumbled over a stray chair. The woman suffered painful injuries, and later sued the club for damages. She pointed out that the chair had been shoved several feet into the dancing area. "If it was," countered the man-

When you go dancing in a public place, you are entitled to conditions of reasonable safety. The dance floor, the lighting, and the furnishings should all be maintained in such a way as to minimize the chance of accidents. Nevertheless, merely by choosing this form of recreation, you are accepting those dangers that are "natural" to it. For example: Another woman, injured while ancing, claimed she lost her footng because the floor was slick. But the court found no reason to blame the management for this. As one judge put it: "Dance floors are intended to be slippery."

Furthermore, your own behavor might amount to negligence. That was the court's ruling in a case in which the claimant had ventured onto a ballroom floor in a state of advanced intoxication And in another case, the court declared it was negligence for a woman to try a particularly tricky step while wearing heels threeand-a-half inches high.

Stamps May Aid Olympics

BONN, Germany (AP) West Germans are counting or the willingness of dedicated colectors to shell out millions of dollars for stamps to help this country pay the costs of hosting the Olympics. The government issued this month more than 11 million copies of an interlocking fourstamp Olympics panorama series and within hours it was sold out at many post offices. Printed in a special block, the four adjoining "punch out" stamps are part of a 5%-by 4%inch panorania picture of the Munich site for the Olympic Games starting Aug. 28. In subdued gray, green and blue, each stamp shows one of the four main features of the sports hall, the cycle track, and a television tower. Each stamp costs the normal charge for its class of mail, plus a 35-pfennig surchargeabout 33 cents in all. hosting the games. Germans $616 million to build.

The total cost of the fourstamp block is 2,45 West German marks, about 76 cents. Of this total, 80 pfennigs—25 cents—is the surcharge which goes toward financing the West German team and the costs of One recent estimate is that the Munich site has cost the Five previous West German Olympic stamp issues, dating to 1968, have already contrib-uted about $2 million to the West German Olympic fund through special surcharge, the Postal Ministry says. The newest issue is expected to make a surcharge profit of roughly $2½ million. A final issue will go on sale Aug. 18. Total profit from sales of all the series is expected to reach around $6 million. Many of the stamps will never be used, since they are prized as collectors' items which could rise in value over the years,
