United Nations Day

To some it is a hoax. To others a disillusionment. And to others a propaganda springboard. But to many it is the last faint hope that man perhaps someday in some way can learn to live and work together.

The United Nations, it is true, has fallen short of the idealistic high, and perhaps unrealistic, goals its creators conceived for it in the waning days of

Perhaps it can be criticized for many acts of commission and omission over the years as men through this international organization have tried to promote the cause of peace.

And there is no doubt the UN has been abused and misused by its members when national interests and national prides came into conflict with UN solutions to international problems.

Today, the world is marking United Nations Day and pointing out once again the goals of the organization which are planet. We may not be any closer to achieving these goals today than we were a year ago or 20 years ago; but one thing must be recognized.

While the peoples and nations of the world may not be embracing the United Nations concept without qualification; there are few, if any, that would abandon the UN and return to a world

However fragile and remote the hope for world peace may seem, the continued existence of the United Nations indicates that hope is still nourished deep in the hearts of most men and given time, patience and understanding; mankind may yet mature enough to translate this nagging and gnawing desire in each man for peace into a just and lasting peace among nations and peoples. Tanner Wins Award As Top AL Manager

CHICAGO (AP) - Towards the end of the regular American League season, Billy Martin of the Detroit Tigers told Chuck Tanner of the Chicago White Sox: "It's got to be either you or me for Manager of the Year.'

That was disclosed today by Tanner, who was named Monday the AL Manager of the Year in an Associated Press poll of sports writers and broadcasters. The White Sox inished 51/2 games behind the Oakland A's, newly crowned World champions, in the AL West race.

"If you win, I'll send you a congratulatory wire, and if I win, you can send me one," is the way Martin was quoted by It turned out Tanner received 213 votes to capture the coveted honor, while Eddie Kasko of the Boston Red Sox collected 140 and Martin was third with 66. The poll, completed prior to the opening of the major league playoffs, ranked Dick Williams of the Oakland A's fifth with 24 votes, behind Ralph Houk of the New York

Yankees, fourth with 38. Tanner, in only his second full major league season, made a season-long run at the Oakland A's mainly with a threenan show-Dick Allen, Wilbur Wood and Carlos May. The charismatic Tanner, once a journeyman big league outfielder, accepted the Manager of The Year honor with complete surprise. "Is that right?" he kept repeating when informed of his selection. "What do you say? I'm very grateful and it's a big thrill to me. I have to credit the whole White Sox organization, from the scouts to the players who did the job. Tanner joined the White Sox late in 1970, a season in which the club finished with a horrible 56-106 record and major league low attendance of 495,355. In 1971, Tanner perked the Sox to a 79-83 finish and a urnstile count of 833,891. Then, last season, the Pale Hose became a red hot home attraction, playing before 1,186,018 as they won 55 of 78 games in White Sox Park.
