Weis said that the decision should not be left entirely up to the commission. He further noted that at the proposed landfill, large layers of plastic would be placed on the ground and the debris placed on top of it, thereby preventing seepage into the Hookman Run.

One good week deserves another. The problem of sanitary disposal became acute when I was first on the Board of Directors. The only alternative for us then was to go up in the air, and our landfill is now 30-35 feet high. We face a garbage explosion, which is being increased by the population growth and increased by the 'P' capital of solid waste every family, and creating a real problem.

Sussag commented that implementation of his proposal will not solve maintenance and capital improvement problems but would help to "minimize sums that the Board of Education would have to request to be raised through taxes." He added that the board has been "hamstrung" in its ability to make improvements, noting that since he has been a board member, requests have been made for several hundred thousand dollars but only about $7,500 has been received.

DOT Confirms I-291 Rejection

BY DOUG BEVINS (Herald Reporter) Federal Department of Transportation (DOT) rejection of an Environmental Impact Statement concerning the proposed expressway interchange in Manchester was confirmed today by a spokesman for U.S. Rep. William Colter, D-Conn.

Under Sussag's proposal, an aggressive promotional campaign would be conducted to encourage profit-making organizations to use such facilities as the high school's Bailey Auditorium, Clarke Park, swimming pool, football and soccer fields, various tennis courts; Bennett-Charter Oak athletic area; and elementary and junior high school auditoriums and gyms.

According to Colter's spokesman, the DOT assistant secretary for Environmental and Urban Systems, to Ralph Bartelmeier, acting federal highway administrator.

Meskill Budget Couples Tax Cut, More Spending

Budget At Glance Here is an item-by-item breakdown of Gov. Thomas J. Meskill's budget proposals for fiscal 1974-75.

By DON MEIKLE, Associated Press Writer. HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—After two years of being "Tough Tom," the apostate of Gov. Thomas J. Meskill sounded a new note of optimism and progress as he coupled tax cuts and spending increases in his budget message.

Strike Cripples Ulster BELFAST (AP)—Northern Ireland was crippled today by a 24-hour general strike called by the Protestant Ulster Unionist Party to protest the strength to intimidate the British government.

Effects of Tax Changes —Sales tax revenues would drop by $2 million, dividends tax revenue by $23 million, insurance company tax revenue by $10 million.

Other Income —$183 million from Gaming Commission. —$51 million in revenue sharing. —$150 million in federal grants.

Expenditures —An increase of 7.7 per cent over current year's appropriated General Fund, but more than 9 per cent over actual spending.

On the whole, Democratic leaders criticized the proposed tax cuts as being mostly for the benefit of business and industry.

Commission on Tax Reform, accepting its proposals to repeal the dividends tax, phase out the local personal property tax, the highest in the nation state sales tax, a move that would reduce state revenues by an estimated $2 million.

But Meskill went further than the commission in proposing to raise the sales tax from 7 per cent to 6.5 per cent without removing any exemptions. He also rejected the commission's proposal to phase out the sales tax on purchases of industrial machinery.

Also rejected was the commission's recommendation to raise the capital gains tax so that it could be applied at a 6 per cent rate to 100 per cent of net long-term capital gains, instead of just to 50 per cent.

Accepted was the commission's proposed new system of property tax relief for the elderly, a system which would benefit renters, as well as homeowners, to the tune of up to $500 per household per year, and a total state commitment of $15 million.

In the midst of all the proposed tax cuts, however, Meskill recommended a 7 per cent increase in the state income tax. This would raise the present tax on real estate transactions from $1.10 per $1,000 of sale value to $1.80, a nine-fold increase, and bring that extra $8.90 per $1,000 of the state's coffers. The first $1.10 would continue to be paid to the municipalities where the property is located. The state government would benefit by $18 million annually.

Meskill also proposed to let municipalities charge the tax-exempt institutions in their midst—the private hospitals, universities, and non-profit organizations—for the municipal services provided to them. He would increase the state aid to municipalities for taxes which they can't collect on state buildings.

Mrs. Jackston Named Director

Mrs. Phyllis Jackston was elected unanimously to the Manchester Board of Directors last night. She was sworn in by Mayor David Barry and received a standing round of applause from the other eight directors.

It was the board's first item of business. Simultaneously with her election, the board accepted the resignation of her husband, Nicholas, from the Zoning Board of Appeals, effective immediately. He was named the ZBA's chairman last month, after having been appointed to the board in November.

Jackston thanked the Democratic Town Committee and the Democratic board members "for the opportunity to serve the town and to represent the town's residents." He wished all members of the Board of Directors continued success and good government for the progress of the Town of Manchester.

TV Censorship Denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — A White House official says the Nixon administration wants less government regulation of television — not the censorship he said critics accuse the administration of seeking.

Clay T. Whitehead, director of President Nixon's Office of Telecommunications Policy, elaborated on the administration's proposed television license-renewal legislation in a Jan. 26 letter to a National Association of Broadcasters task force.

Whitehead said the legislation in a Dec. 18 speech in Indianapolis, in which he said: "Station managers and network officials who fail to act to correct imbalance or consistent bias from the networks — or who acquiesce by silence — can only be considered willing participants to be held fully accountable by the broadcasters' community at license-renewal time."

TWA Seeks Reconsideration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Trans World Airlines has asked the Supreme Court to reconsider a $180-million damage judgment against the airline for a rehearing that the airline did not have an opportunity to argue points before the court that were involved in the ruling.

Lower courts had held that the Hughes Tool Co. then owned by Hughes, violated antitrust laws in the 1950s by failing to purchase jets to be used by TWA. Hughes Tool then owned more than 78 per cent of TWA stock.

The Supreme Court reversed the ruling earlier this term, saying the transaction could not be contested under antitrust laws because the Civil Aeronautics Board had authorized control of TWA by Hughes Tool.

Many POWs Will Have Substantial Back Pay Coming

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some American servicemen returning from war captivity in Southeast Asia will find as much as $100,000 waiting for them in back pay and allowances.

On top of that, they are in line to collect possibly thousands of dollars more by claiming a special payment of $5 for each day they spent in a POW camp.

Each of the 562 U.S. military men listed by the North Vietnamese as prisoners has money piling up in an account drawing 10 per cent interest.

The same is true for 58 men who died in captivity and 1,327 who still are missing. In the case of the dead, Pentagon officials said, the money likely will go to their estates.

Similar information was not available from the other services, but their POW accounts should parallel the Air Force's.

In general, officials said, the system works this way: After a married man is captured or becomes missing, his service automatically deducts 10 per cent from his monthly pay and allowances and sends the balance to his wife.

The 10 per cent is placed in his account under the Uniformed Services Savings Deposit system.

At least 10 per cent is taken off the top of a bachelor's monthly check, too, but it is possible for his entire pay and allowances to be put into a USSD account, unless he allotted part of his monthly income to his parents or other relatives.

Dempsey Urges Town Stay In Transit District

Richard Dempsey, one of Vernon's two representatives in the Greater Hartford Transit District, cautioned the Town Council Monday night.

Mayor McCoy said that Vernon was one of the original members of the Transit District which presently only has nine towns in it.

Dempsey said he envisions transit lines going over the Mile Hill area and also sees it as a means to tie into the Industrial Park.

Mayor Frank McCoy who is head of the transportation committee of the Capitol Region Council of Governments, called a meeting to discuss the transit problem.

A proposed formula of the state, the first year operations of the district would result in a projected deficit in excess of $1 million and, of this, the district's share would be about $668,500.

Vernon School Board Gets Data on Space

Figures establishing the working capacity of each of the schools in Vernon's public school system and the number of useable classrooms in each of these structures, were presented to the Board of Education Monday night by Dr. Raymond Ramsdell, superintendent of schools.

At its Jan. 25 meeting the board asked the superintendent to prepare the report to clarify the number of students per classroom in each school, together with the number of students currently housed in each school.

The request was prompted by a report issued by the Connecticut Public Expenditures Commission which pointed out a disagreement with the council's figures.

Looking at proposed units of housing approved as of Jan. 8, Dr. Ramsdell said the total number of children anticipated from the listed multi-bedroom units is 1,248.

At the Northeast School the instrumental music program has no area for instruction. Classes are held in the shower room. Dr. Ramsdell said the principal of the school said that the room for the perceptually handicapped students is very small to handle the volume of children in the program.

Each school has similar problems, many of them caused because of the many special programs mandated by a change in the pattern of future home building activity or the closing down of nearby private schools might serve to modify the projections.

In his report Dr. Ramsdell outlined the operating capacity for each of the schools along with the current enrollment at each. The following are the schools and their figures with the current enrollment in an annex to the over-crowded Middle School. It will house all of the Grade 6 students.

The space needs committee of the Board of Education will meet Feb. 15 to review the figures and future plans for housing.

The committee said the stickers will be available in less than two weeks and a further announcement will be made when they are.

Nicholas Norton, Connecticut's new welfare commissioner says the controversial flat-grant welfare system is here to stay. He calls the system, based on the average cash need of each size of welfare family, an efficient welfare system that provides adequate benefits to all welfare recipients. (AP Wirephoto)

New Welfare Head Says Flat Grant Here to Stay

By THOMAS KENT
Associated Press Writer
HARTFORD (AP) — The state welfare department will pay for legal, elective abortions for welfare recipients in Connecticut's anti-abortion statute is overturned, according to the state's new welfare commissioner.

"As long as it's legal, we'll pay the bill," Nicholas Norton said in his first wide-ranging interview since taking office in early January. The statute is threatened by a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision knocking down several states' restrictions on abortions in the first months of pregnancy.

Norton said that elective surgery has long been possible for welfare clients with the permission of the department's staff doctors. He said he considered abortions a legitimate use of welfare funds because "we expect our medical program to be pretty much all-inclusive."

On other topics, Norton, a former deputy commissioner, said the controversial flat-grant welfare system is likely to stay in effect and that Connecticut's welfare program faces little danger from President Nixon's proposed cuts in federal spending.

"The flat grant is constantly being studied, but we are well satisfied with it," Norton said. "I see no likelihood of its being changed in any way, particularly for a reversion to the former welfare system."

The flat-grant system gives welfare families a fixed amount of money based on the number of family members. It replaces the former system that provided a monthly allowance plus additional amounts for special family needs. The Welfare Department says 70 per cent of welfare families get more money under the flat grants while about 20 per cent get slightly less.

"We know when we set up the program that there had to be some people with less money," Norton said. "There's no other way you can have a flat grant."

Nonetheless, he said, he believes all of Connecticut's 140,000 welfare recipients now receive adequate benefits.

Norton predicted that Nixon's proposed cuts in federal spending will have less effect on Connecticut than on those states which have relied on federal funds to help pay day care, homemaker and other services to potential welfare recipients in a bid to keep them off the welfare rolls. Connecticut has few such programs, he said.

Norton said his administration will "very likely" see a decrease in welfare costs because of the department's staff doctors. He said he considered abortions a legitimate use of welfare funds because "we expect our medical program to be pretty much all-inclusive."

On other topics, Norton, a former deputy commissioner, said the controversial flat-grant welfare system is likely to stay in effect and that Connecticut's welfare program faces little danger from President Nixon's proposed cuts in federal spending.

"The flat grant is constantly being studied, but we are well satisfied with it," Norton said. "I see no likelihood of its being changed in any way, particularly for a reversion to the former welfare system."

The flat-grant system gives welfare families a fixed amount of money based on the number of family members. Vernon Environmental Curbs Seen Delaying I-86

Environmental requirements are responsible for causing some of the delays in widening of I-86, William Ginter of the State Department of Transportation told the Town Council Monday night.

The Vernon portion of the highway improvements was supposed to go into construction this year, but Ginter told the council it will probably be 1975. He said the original timetable setting construction time for 1973, while ideal, was also idealistic. He said all of the time tables were based on all conditions being ideal.

According to the environmental statement was supposed to be completed by July of 1971 but this was not completed until August.

The statement was then to be reviewed by federal authorities within a period of 45 days. Ginter said, but this took four months and the responses from the federal agencies created more problems than anticipated.

Councilman Donald Sadrinski explained that the prime concern is for people who have to make plans to either sell their homes or to move them to another location, and in some cases this has created a hardship. Ginter explained that if there is a hardship on a particular homeowner the state will give the case special consideration.

The proposed highway improvements call for extensive widening and realigning of exits and entrances especially in the Vernon Circle and Rt. 30 areas.

"If I want to find HEW's interpretation of a rule they made, and they think a court test of it is likely to be made, they'll clam up and not talk about it," he said. He added that for some rule interpretations, HEW requires written requests signed by the governor.

Norton said he was satisfied with the Welfare Department's budget last year and that he wants a budget increase this year only to cover an added case load.

The Welfare Department needs few changes in its operations, he said, particularly since White's institution of the flat grants and certain other programs. He listed only one future project he now has in mind: a reorganization of the department's handling of children under its care that would treat differently those likely to be adopted or returned to their families and those who will long remain the responsibility of the state.

"The things most important to be done have already been done," he said.

Vernon is not alone. "We have an immense program we are trying to complete and now with the introduction of environmental impacts it is a difficult undertaking."

He also cautioned the council that I-86 is used extensively on weekends and it has to be designed with an eye to future capacity. He added, "We also have some embryonic Mass Transit plans into the Vernon area."

The degrees were given to recognize the king's and queen's part in developing their country. They were presented by Francis H. Horn, president of the Roman Catholic college.

South Windsor Tax Collections At 96 Per Cent

BARBARA VARRICK
Correspondent
Tel. 644-8274

It was reported at the Town Council meeting Monday that, to date, approximately 96 per cent of the current tax levy of $6.56 million has been collected.

According to town officials, the collection rate shows an improvement over the percentage collected by the month of February in the last two years, and Mayor Abraham Glasman said he believed the pickup is due to an overall improved economy.

Town Manager Terry Sprenkel said that the town is currently undertaking a new method of collecting back taxes and some $38,000 has already been collected. The total of previously uncollected taxes is now under $100,000, based on figures available since 1968 when $148,390 was the outstanding amount.

Sprenkel and Atty. Thomas Dennis said they anticipate additional collections of back taxes through legal action. According to Dennis, liens placed against business properties have a ten-year longevity before no action can be taken against them. However, money received currently for taxes from delinquent firms is being applied to the previously unpaid balance of the firm, advancing the collection date and thereby assuring the town additional time to collect as much of the delinquent taxes as possible.

Tree Bills Rejected
Because a number of firms did not comply fully with all bid specifications for prices of trees for the tree planting program in South Windsor, Sprenkel said Monday that all bids received have been rejected and the town will re-advertise and consider all new bids.

According to Sprenkel, the time lapse will in no way interfere with the planned spring planting.

Atty. Thomas Dennis said that one bidder had met all required specifications of the bid and that the particular bid was considerably higher in price than all others received. He said it was decided that all bids be rejected and new bids be requested.

Also, the town is reviewing responses from firms willing to do aerial photographing to aid in the property reevaluation program currently under way. Bids received by the town range from $25,000 to $57,500.

January Permits
Building permits issued during the month of January by Building Inspector Donald McLaughlin totaled $123,400 with a reversion to the town of $961.

Permits included in the total were: new dwellings for $74,000; 12 additions and/or alterations, $46,980; one storage shed, $1,500; and two greenhouses for $1,900.

South Windsor Scouts Want To Keep 'Charlie's Place' Job

In most instances youngsters are asked to step back to the men do the job, but members of Boy Scout Troop 389 are "willing and able" to continue recycling center "Charlie's Place" in town if the Town Council will let them do it.

In a report to Councilman Robert Horish, Robert Herzog, troop committee chairman, said that once the troop assumed temporary responsibility for the Sullivan Ave. Center in September 1972, he and his members have recycled, which averages out to approximately three tons per week.

They have obtained a Dempsey Dumpster body truck that is being used to store a aluminum scrap and the dumpster and the so-called storage "jail" have received a primer coat of paint to cover the rust. Anticipating warmer weather soon, the troop is planning to complete the job with finishing coats of paint.

"The post has another credit to its efforts, it has succeeded in stopping residents from throwing glass, steel cans and other junk at the site, and the area is being kept in an orderly fashion."

Manson Sees Phase Out At Niantic

HARTFORD (AP) — A construction program underway by the state Department of Corrections will mean the eventual transfer of about two-thirds of the population at the women's prison in Niantic, Corrections Commissioner John R. Manson said Tuesday.

However, Manson said published reports that the 900-acre institution would be closed were premature.

"We are in the process of allowing a very gradually phasing out of the institution as we know it," Manson said in a telephone interview. "But there would still be about 50 inmates who may be left at Niantic."

Teachers Sue Against Curbs On Politics

NEW HAVEN (AP) — Three New London school teachers have filed a federal court suit challenging a city ordinance that prohibits teachers from engaging in a number of political activities.

New London's city charter prohibits city employees from becoming partisan political officers, workers in a political campaign, or poll workers.

The lawsuit says teachers participating in political activity are subject to dismissal, fines or imprisonment.

sewage disposal, water supply, classrooms, corridors and stairways, toilets, health room, food service, building and grounds, playground safety devices, ventilation, drinking fountains, boiler room, storage rooms and refuse.

The board undertook a preliminary review of existing health policies in an effort to update them according to recommendations made by Dr. Robert Brewer, school physician.

It did take immediate action in approving a measles and rubella clinic to be conducted by Dr. Brewer, with the date to be announced shortly.

Grant Dr. Cattanach reported that under a state grant provided for districts that employ under 35 teachers, the Andover board is receiving $5,666 during the phase-out period between the withdrawal of state supervisory services and the setting up of the new superintendent's office.

Andover's present share of the new superintendent's office is approximately $6,500 a year. Dr. Cattanach believes the $5,666 will be a continuing service.

Facility Dr. David Cattanach, superintendent of schools, reported to the board that the school has received an excellent report from the State Health Department following an inspection of school facilities.

According to a letter received from Paul Schur, principal sanitarian with the health department, with the exception of the lack of screens on the lavatory windows, everything is satisfactory. Principal Paul Libby informed the board that screening has been purchased and will be installed immediately.

Among the items checked by the health department were the

Bolton Review Dates Were in Error

JUDITH DONOHUE Correspondent Tel. 649-8409

The dates and times for Board of Tax Review hearings reported in last night's Herald, both in the legal ad and in the Bolton news column, were in error.

The correct dates are Feb. 16 from 9 to 10 p.m.; Feb. 17 from 9 a.m. to noon and Feb. 20 from 8 to 10 p.m. Persons who are unable to attend any of these may call chairman Alvin Hoffman for an appointment. Meetings will be held at Community Hall.

School Board A proposal from the board's personnel and finance committee to develop a volunteer training program is also scheduled to be considered at tomorrow's meeting.

Dr. Joseph Castagna, superintendent of schools, notes that an executive session has been requested after the regular meeting to review the negotiations between the school board and the Bolton Education Association.

Weather Buys In Arctic Barrow, Alaska—Four satellite-communicating, data-reporting buoys are adrift in the Arctic ice in an experiment that could play a big role in future weather forecasting.

Much of the world's weather develops around the polar regions, and a system of buoys regularly reporting meteorological data would importantly assist the nation's forecasters.

TBC Feels Lincoln Heat Unit Not as Bad as Citizens Told

BY JOHN A. JOHNSTON (Herald Reporter)
The Town Building Committee, first in its business session last night and later during a tour of Lincoln School, came away with something of the feeling that citizens were sold at least a partial bill of goods in recent years on the condition of the school's heating system.

considering removing comparable new kitchen equipment from Lincoln. If true, John FitzPatrick suggested the Board of Education should be reimbursed for it, rather than assuming the expense of its removal and later having to purchase and install new equipment for other office and agency personnel.

A brief discussion of unfinished work in the Nathan Hale School addition and renovated portion preceded that on Lincoln. The major problem is apparently replacement of the inadequate hood over the cafeteria kitchen space. Arrangements will be made to try to have the more "placoyne items" taken care of during the school vacation week of Feb. 19.

Also in that first year, said Sleith, the consultant would explore a commercial-center plan for Main St.; would study alternatives for improving or moving Bennett Junior High School to another location; would explore the possibility of constructing a new Municipal Building downtown; would determine downtown housing needs; would recommend whether development should be a public or private venture; and would suggest methods of financing.

Town Asked to Share Fee for Consultant

The Mayor's Downtown Action Committee is asking the town for a $10,000 contribution toward the $20,000 cost of a consultant's services for one year. William Sleith, chairman of the year-old committee, made the request to the Manchester Board of Directors last night. He said the $10,000 contribution would be contingent on pledges totaling another $10,000 by downtown businessmen.

Area Gas Tax Asked For Buses

HARTFORD (AP) — A regional penny-per-gallon gasoline tax to subsidize the financially ailing and idle Connecticut Co. has been proposed by the Greater Hartford Transit District (GHTD) to get buses running again in the Hartford area.

When the Board of Education began steps to phase Lincoln out of the school system, its buildings and grounds personnel placed the cost of reconditioning the heating system at $125,000 to $130,000.

It was reported that Freeman put the cost of a mini report on the entire building in the neighborhood of $350. Freeman governor's office had not been contacted about the proposal, according to George Ritter, one of the state representatives from Hartford who proposed the tax.

The gasoline tax, to be confined to the Hartford area, is expected to result in $1 million annually, spokesmen said. It would be dedicated solely to the financially ailing bus company which has not operated in 75 days.

Although limited to the Hartford area, proposed legislation to enact the one cent per gallon gas tax is expected to allow other areas to establish a similar regional tax, Ritter said.

San Diego To Try 'People Mover' Transit System

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — With luck and a little help from the federal government, the automobile could be a thing of the past in downtown San Diego within five years, a city planner says.

In its place could be electric-powered, one-car "people movers," rolling quietly above the city at 30 miles an hour on elevated concrete tracks, linking peripheral parking garages with any downtown street corner in five minutes. City streets, meanwhile, would be for pedestrians only.

The system, known as MAC for "Major Activity Center," is running in embryonic form at the University of West Virginia campus in Morgantown, and is now getting takes about 20 years to build. We just finished a study that says it will be impossible to bring any more autos into San Diego center city in another 10 years.

"The freeway is the weak link. Each freeway lane can carry 2,000 cars in an hour. There's no way to get any more in."

One of the most appealing aspects of the MAC system is that passengers might ride free, Schiaffini said.

"Because the streets would be closed to cars, maybe there would be enough advantage to developers to pay the local cost of the system," he said. "If not, it could be paid for out of the gasoline tax."

Right now, he said, San Diego, along with Denver, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Seattle and Atlanta are in various stages of submitting proposals to the U.S. Department of Transportation.

"The technology is there. Along with the rubber tires and concrete guideway that they use in Morgantown, W. Va., there are designs for cars that are levitated by magnets or ride on a cushion of air."

How much will it cost? The planners don't know yet, but Schiaffini said, "It will be much cheaper per mile than regional mass transit, and the rejuvenation of downtown as a business and cultural center would be starting to bloom."

Senators Promote Supertrain

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two U.S. senators have introduced a bill to establish two-hour passenger train service between Boston, New York and Washington.

Connecticut Republican Sen. Lowell Weicker and Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., would establish a high speed system with trains averaging 150 miles per hour by 1976.

"The time has come for an end to lip service to rail service," Weicker and Hartke said in a statement.

Weicker said the bill is the first step in a two part plan that would provide "superspeed" trains traveling the Boston-Washington route at up to 400 miles an hour by 1988.

Weicker also plans to introduce legislation making New London the one stop on the "superspeed" run between New York and Boston.

The New London terminal, located near the junction of Interstate 95 and Route 52, would serve as a feeder facility channeling passengers using the present high speed train to the new "superspeed" service, Weicker's statement said.

The Weicker-Hartke bill authorizes $400 million to the Army Corps of Engineers for track welding, construction, curve straightening and other design changes necessary for high speed trains. It also provides $225 million in extended loan guarantees to Amtrak, the national rail passenger agency that would be charged with operating the high speed service.

Weicker said the first-stage costs, through 1976, shouldn't exceed $80 million.

But, by the end of the second phase in 1988, he said the total cost would reach $5.5 billion.

Weicker and Hartke were critical of the U.S. Department of Transportation for not acting on the September 1971 recommendation that a Northeast Transportation Corridor be established. They said that report was "exhaustively supported by more than five and a half years of surveys and studies."

Weicker added he would recommend United Aircraft's Turbo-Train be used on the Boston-New York route.

Co-sponsoring the bill are Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., Hugh Scott, R-Pa., John O. Pastore, D-R.I., and Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn.

Tolland Okays Plans For Addition To Middle School

MIVIAN V. KENNESON, Correspondent. The Tolland Board of Education last night voted unanimously to approve final plans and specifications for the Tolland Middle School addition.

Witnesses in the residential area said they heard a "whining" noise just before the crash. Then there was an explosive that sent flames and smoke several hundred feet into the air, they said.

Penn Central Strike Hits State Commuters

Associated Press. Thousands of Connecticut railroad commuters had to rely on emergency transportation today as a nationwide strike by Penn Central conductors and brakemen brought the line's commuter service to a standstill.

boarded in Washington, William Flanagan, 41, of Baltimore, said neither Penn Central employees at the Washington depot nor crewmen on the train had mentioned to him that a strike was imminent.

Estimated construction costs for the $7.9 million, of which 50 per cent is reimbursable by the state by the time construction is completed. The addition was included in the original plans for the school, but was relegated to a second phase when the bond did not have sufficient bonding capacity to construct the entire project three years ago.

Local Gasoline Tax Proposed For Mass Transit Aid

By The Associated Press. A proposal to provide subsidies for mass transit in Connecticut through a local gasoline tax has picked up tentative approval from a at least one local official who has opposed other state offers.

Other bus companies have temporarily taken up some of the CR&D lines. Connecticut Railway and Lighting Co. suspended service in Bridgeport, New Britain and Waterbury in mid-October, and has since given up its bus franchises.
