Hutchins Dies; Served Grange, Odd Fellows

Erie H. Hutchins, 75, of Broad St., past master of Manchester Grange and former district deputy grand patriarch of District 1, Grand Encampment of Connecticut, IOOF, died Monday at Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Hutchins was born June 25, 1897 in Dover, N.H., and had lived in Manchester for 33 years. He and his wife, Mrs. Ruth Lawrence Hutchins, observed their 53rd wedding anniversary last Sept. 29.

He was employed as an electrician at Pratt & Whitney Division of United Aircraft Corp., East Hartford, for 15 years and by the Connecticut State Police for 19 years before his retirement in 1962.

He was a member and past noble grand of King David Lodge of Odd Fellows and had served as its financial secretary for many years. He also belonged to Sunset Rebeah Lodge and was a past patriarch of the G. Fred Barnes Encampment, IOOF, of East Hartford. He was a member of South United Methodist Church.

Survivors, besides his wife, are a daughter, Miss Charlotte M. Hutchins of Manchester, and three brothers, John A. Hutchins of Merrimack, Mass., Raymond P. Hutchins of East Templeton, Mass., and Louis A. Hutchins of Framingham, Mass.

Funeral services will be Thursday at 1 p.m. at the Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St. The Rev. Dr. George Webb, pastor of South United Methodist Church, will officiate. Burial will be in East Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m.

The family suggests that any memorial contributions may be made to South United Methodist Church or the Connecticut IOOF Eye Bank.

Gas Station Zoning

Denied a variance for a free-standing 60-square-foot sign at the Burr Corners Shopping Plaza off Tolland Pike. The variance, sought by Ichabod Inc., developer of the Twin Jerry Lewis Theaters under construction, would have allowed the sign to be placed 1,000 feet from the theater premises.

Milton Adams, 34 Cole St., president of the applicant corporation, said the sign was needed near the highway (I-86) because the theater could not be seen from there.

ZBA members voted 41 to 10 to deny the application, citing lack of proof of a legal, not-for-profit corporation, and that the variance request to allow erection of a sign at Frank's Supermarket, 725 E. Middle Type, was withdrawn without prejudice before Monday night's ZBA session.

Hearings on the other 11 items took nearly 2 1/2 hours, and ZBA deliberations took another hour Monday night. The Municipal Building Hearing Room was full to capacity when the hearings started — most of the people there, however, were applicants or attorneys.

The Times said increased export demand was the apparent link between food prices and the 10 per cent devaluation of the dollar.

Lawrence Krauss, a Brookings Institution economist interviewed by the Times, said the increases would probably show up in the wholesale price index for February and the outlook for consumers was for more "disappointing figures" ahead.

Krauss said, "We have a single market now." He said that export buyers were bidding for some of the same commodities as domestic buyers in a market with a limited supply.

Collins, a former president of the National Meat Processors Association, said that exports of meats can be expected to show up relatively soon at retail counters, the Times said.

Fire Calls

A bedroom fire at 236 Center St. was easily extinguished by town firemen this morning. Reported at 9 a.m., the fire caused minor damage to some curtains, firemen said.

WETHERSFIELD (AP)—The town of Wethersfield voted Monday night to withdraw from the Greater Hartford Transit District if the district approves any proposed bus service contracts at its Thursday meeting, according to a city representative to the transit district.

Richard Dobmeyer, one of Wethersfield's two voices on the district's board of directors, said the unanimous town council vote resulted from the desire of town officials to study the proposed contracts in depth.

Such a study could not be completed before the Thursday meeting, he said.

Mayor Welles Adams said there was no way at present to assess the town's precise financial responsibility to the district under the proposed contracts.

Councilman Edward F. Hennessey expressed concern about the contracts' provisions for paying pensions to bus company employees.

"We can't commit ourselves to paying a pension to bus drivers 40 years from now," he said.

A proposal to accept the contracts and finance the transit district's operations from a gasoline tax surcharge is expected to be voted on by district Thursday in Windsor. The surcharge would be a penny per gallon in district towns.

Another proposal under discussion would give towns where the penny tax is levied a penny reduction in the state gasoline tax, thereby keeping the total state and transit district tax on gasoline at 10 cents a gallon.

In Hartford, the city council tabled Monday night a proposal to withdraw from the transit district if its obligations to the Hartford gasoline tax level.

The proposal, introduced by majority leader Nicholas Carbone, was expected to be discussed at greater length later this week.

Wholesale Prices Rising

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times said today that wholesale prices of many food commodities increased sharply during the first full week following devaluation of the dollar.

In a Washington dispatch, the Times said Agriculture Department aides noted these increases between Feb. 15 and 23 following the devaluation announcement of Feb. 12.

Broilers, a standby for restaurant use with limited budgets, rose 10 per cent.

Pork bellies, from which bacon is cut, were up 8.5 per cent.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Acting FBI director L. Patrick Gray III today denied that he made political speeches for President Nixon during last fall's election campaign.

Gray told the Senate Judiciary Committee, which is considering his nomination to be permanent FBI director, that his many speeches last year were made in conjunction with department business.

"I submit, Mr. Chairman, that a fair reading of these speeches will indicate clearly that these were not political or campaign speeches. There was no intent that they be and they were not written to be political or campaign speeches," Gray told committee Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss.

Some have charged that Gray's speeches supported Nixon's re-election effort, and as such violated the nonpartisan principles of the FBI.

Gray told the committee that the first principle controlling his conduct during the past 20 months has been that the bureau "will remain completely and absolutely nonpolitical."

"This is one of the pillars of his historic cautious buying of food items is necessary."

She is also finding out that it is no small job to balance a menu and balance a budget at the same time, and still provide her family meals that offer maximum appeal and food value.

Shopping in the supermarkets has become a test of skill with only the smart and persistent shoppers getting the values.

A career Navy officer with extensive submarine experience, the 56-year-old Gray became a special assistant to the then Vice President Nixon upon retirement from the service in 1969 and helped him campaign against John F. Kennedy.

He said if he is appointed FBI director "At no time will political considerations or influence... in any shape or form... alter or guide my decisions or the activities."

As if anticipating questions that he'd be asked of him, Gray gave answers in his prepared testimony to much of the criticism that has been directed at him during the past 10 months.

He said he has been open-minded to the extent possible, "to furnish information to the news media... to answer questions... to allow them to have a first-hand look at some of our activities, in the hope that such a policy will enable and to remain free of politics."

In conversations with weekend shoppers at four of the major supermarkets in Manchester, most homemakers said they are working on holding the line on rising food costs, and others are continuing along with their usual buying habits.

In doing a little comparison shopping, the same four items of the same size and brand name purchased in the four major supermarkets varied in total price approximately 11 cents.

On individual items, the prices on a can of ravioli ranged from 75 to 79 cents, a can of tuna from 49 to 51 cents, soup powder from 83 to 87 cents, and T-bone steak from $1.86 to $1.89 cents a pound.

The boycott, announced by Barbara Shuttleworth, president of the Vernon Junior Women's Club and statewide coordinator of the plan, involves 46 clubs and more than 4,000 women.

Commenting on the plan which is in protest of the high meat prices, Mrs. Brines said, "the boycott means that no member will be purchasing any meat for the entire week. We are hoping other clubs and organizations will join us in this endeavor."

The boycott plan was formulated Saturday during a meeting of the State Federation of Junior Women's Clubs in Newington.

Opening lead—Ten of Clubs
West opened a club, and the dummy's last. East returned the six of clubs to dummy's ace, thus removing the side entry to the long diamonds. Undaunted, South led the king of diamonds from dummy.

No such luck, of course. East returned the trick, and West began a high-low with the nine of diamonds to show that he held a doubleton.

South might have gotten away with another diamond trick if he had led the queen of diamonds from dummy since East might have played his partner's nine of diamonds to be singleton. But West had thought before playing the nine of diamonds, and he wouldn't have thought if he had held a singleton. In theory, East should not be influenced by this slight hesitation, but this hand was being played in practice—not in theory.

Instead of continuing diamonds, South tried a spade finesse. When this worked, he had three spades, two hearts, one diamond and two clubs. He came close, but not close enough.

When dummy's ace of clubs is knocked out at the second trick, South should face the fact that the diamonds are dead. He needs four spades to make the contract and should therefore immediately try a finesse with the nine of spades.

This works, and South gets back to dummy with a diamond to take the other spade finesse. A good general sometimes needs a little luck.

Daily Question
Partner opens with one diamond, and the next player passes. You hold: Spades, Q-10-8-5; Hearts, J-8-5-2; Diamonds, A-K-6; Clubs, K-6. What do you say?
Answer: Bid one heart. With two four-card suits, respond in the cheaper suit first.

Course Seeks To Change Drunk Drivers' Behavior Attitudes

By MICHAEL MILLICAN
Associated Press Writer
HARTFORD (AP) — You're driving home late one Saturday night after a few drinks with the guys when in the rearview mirror you see the flashing blue lights of a state police patrol car.

If you're convicted of drunk driving you will lose your license and probably be fined $150, according to state officials.

But if you're lucky, you might be given the opportunity to enroll in a rehabilitation course that could cut the mandatory one-year license suspension in half.

They're also required to write an account of what happened to them straight, Strauss said, explaining that many people had been drinking for a reason, such as "marital problems, personal hangups, chronic illness, sexual repression or an unhappy job situation."

But, a spokeswoman for Alcoholics Anonymous in Hartford says the program has always been serious.

More Cars, More Drunks
"The more cars you have, the more people there are driving while drinking," she said. "It's the same as it always has been."

But, there's an increase in the number of people who are doing something about the problem," she added. "They used to have to be dragged in here. Most everybody considers it a sickness today, and if you have a sickness, you try to cure it."

Strauss said he hopes to see the program expanded to five centers in Connecticut.

Take Off Gloves
"In the fourth and final session, we take the gloves off," he said.

"We tell the guy who lost his wife, 'Look, stop this drinking, other people have lost their wives and made it.'"

"I prefer the technique where we convey the information to them straight," Strauss said, explaining that many people had been drinking for a reason, such as "marital problems, personal hangups, chronic illness, sexual repression or an unhappy job situation."

Point Out Effects
The course tries to point out to the driver the consequences of his conviction — he's no longer able to drive, meaning he may have to be chauffeured; he was fined; and he might lose his job, Strauss said.

Began In 1971
Since the state Department of Motor Vehicles began the program on Nov. 30, 1971, only three of the 800 graduates have not had their licenses returned within six months, says Carl E. Strauss, assistant director of the drivers license division.

Not everyone who is convicted is allowed to enroll, Strauss said. Anyone convicted of manslaughter or a hit-and-run charge, or who is a confirmed alcoholic cannot attend. The driver has to be a first-time offender and over 18, he said, which helps account for the high rate of success for those who complete the course.

Classes meet for 2 1/2 hours a week for four weeks in centers in Hartford, Hamden and Groton.

"The centers don't make a judgment as to whether a person should or shouldn't drink," Robert C. Leuba, state motor vehicles commissioner said in a recent telephone interview.

"They recognize society as it is and try to show why a person drank and then drove."

Physiological affects of alcohol are discussed with the students and they are given a series of personality inventory tests for research purposes, he said. In the third session, two more tests are administered one produced by Johns Hopkins Hospital and the other by the National Council on Alcoholism.

Drunk Drivers Course

General Assembly Litter, Drunken Drivers Discussed at Hearings

HARTFORD (AP) — Connecticut legislators com-mitted talk of litterbugs and drunken drivers Tuesday as supporters of the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution predicted majority support for their cause from the General Assembly.

Connecticut Citizen Action Group Director Toby Moffett told the legislature's Environment Committee that public campaigns against "litterbugs" are being used to short-circuit serious legislation that would ban non-returnable bottles.

Some groups, Moffett said, "are trying to dupe Connecticut people into concentrating on picking up litter so they won't realize that banning non-returnable containers will drastically eliminate litter."

Rodney Goehrs, executive secretary of the Connecticut Soft Drink Association, said in an interview Tuesday that litter is a "people problem." Banning returnable bottles, he said, would do little to eliminate litter.

The legislature's Judiciary Committee held a hearing on a bill to impose a mandatory three-day jail term the first time a person is convicted of drunken driving. Under the proposed law, the term could be served on weekends with court permission.

Another bill considered by the lawmakers would permit the Motor Vehicles Department to suspend for up to two years the license of a "habitual offender": a driver who has received a certain number of motor vehicle convictions within a five-year period.

The Connecticut Coalition for the Equal Rights Amendment said Tuesday that a majority of Connecticut's state legislators had given it unwritten commitments of support.

Coalition Coordinator Judith Pickering said nine more state legislators must ratify the amendment before it becomes part of the U.S. Constitution. The measure prohibits discrimination by governmental units on account of sex.

Elsewhere at the Capitol, Gov. Thomas J. Meskill received from the legislature a bill to return the celebration of V-E Day to its traditional date of Nov. 11. Meskill has said he will sign the measure, which would end the holiday's present role as the last day of a three-day weekend.

Republican legislative leaders turned down a Democratic-backed attempt to cut off the pay raises slated to begin March 1 for 44 top state officials. A bill offered by Senate Minority Leader Charles Alfano, D-Suffield, would have forbidden the use of state funds for such increases.

The General Assembly ordered a special legislative committee to investigate gas justification for approving continued marketing," the FDA said.

Most companies stopped manufacturing the 7-per-cent solution, the agency said, after an informal meeting in Chicago early last year. FDA and industry representatives and physicians concerned with kidney and peritoneal dialysis.

The FDA said Tuesday it has no knowledge of deaths linked to the solution and at the time of the meeting last year had "felt no need for immediate action."

Dr. Henry Tenckhoff, associate professor at the University of Washington School of Medicine in Seattle, said there have been "a number of reports of deaths clearly related to inappropriate administration of these solutions."

"Nobody knows how frequent these deaths are," he said in an interview, "because obviously these things are not being reported to any great extent and it's difficult to determine in many cases what caused the death of patients who were very sick."

State Employees Oppose Pay Plan

HARTFORD (AP) — A plan by the state personnel commissioner to recommend pay raises for a specific number of state employees has run into opposition from the Connecticut State Employees Association.

CSEA spokesmen said Tuesday night that they wanted across-the-board cost-of-living increases for all union members, not just the individual pay boosts proposed by the Commissioner Edward H. Simpson.

Earlier Tuesday, Republican legislative leaders turned down a bid from Senate Minority Leader Charles Alfano, D-Suffield, to block pay raises beginning March 1 for 44 top state officials.

The Republican move came as some 100 CSEA members braved chilly weather to demonstrate at the state Capitol in support of cost-of-living pay increases.

But, he insisted, "We need an approach that's on a selective, orderly basis." He said an across-the-board pay boost would be "a shotgun approach, while our approach would be a rifle approach."

Simpson said state salaries for lower job classifications are currently competitive with pay in the private sector and need not be adjusted. But CSEA Executive director Edward Gallant said all state employees need pay raises.

Although the program seems to be doing its job, Strauss said the number of drunks on the road is increasing.

Last year, about 3,800 people were convicted of drunken driving, the year before the figure was about 3,900. And, about twice as many are charged but not convicted, according to Strauss.

Get In There And Dig

As we in Connecticut are reading the various columns, pro and con, on the need for shield laws and what form such a law should take, we members of the Fourth Estate, might ponder these thoughts.

These were expressed recently on a morning newscast over CBS by John K. Jessup.

"Four reporters," Jessup said, "have indeed gone to jail recently to protect the confidentiality of their sources. And in the Caldwell case last summer, the Supreme Court declined to grant newsmen a testimonial privilege that other citizens do not enjoy." Hence, the push for a Federal (and state) shield law allowing reporters to refuse subpoenas.

"But the fact remains that the right to confidentiality sometimes does conflict with other basic rights, such as a defendant's right to a fair trial. If the reporter differs with the court, maybe he should go to jail. The protection of sources is an old press custom which can survive army judicial opinions. The press is strong enough to protect itself.

"Too many editors are worrying too much about the threat to their freedom," Jessup concludes, "whether from the White House or the courts. They are so busy looking over their shoulders they may be neglecting their jobs. The press's proper duty is not to be intimidated and to rely on the First Amendment. My advice to all media is: keep on doing what you're doing. Get in there and dig."

What Jessup is saying to the media is that the power of the press exercised responsibly and diligently needs no defense like shield laws. Conversely, if we allow our profession to become irresponsible and lazy, no law, shield or otherwise, can protect us.

In that context perhaps the Connecticut press ought get out of the legislating business and back to the job at hand of getting in there and digging, letting the chips fall where they may, and letting our readers and listeners decide the issues which in essence is the only justification for a free press anywhere or anytime.

Russia's Growing Might

Soviet Russia is steadily expanding air, land, sea and missile power and has no intention of slowing down the pace, despite beginning talks on lessening tensions in Western Europe.

A Russia General, Serge Sokolov, First Deputy Defense Minister, blamed Western "imperialism" that compels us to take steps for further raising the combat strength of the armed forces.

In a speech on Soviet Army-Navy Day, Sokolov naturally found fault with the West's policy of dealing with strength and said "the aggressive strategy of imperialism is spearheaded against the Socialist countries."

"We do not want to intimidate anyone," Sokolov added. The record does not support his statement, which followed on the heels of a new British assessment of Russia's aggressive buildup.

"There is no sign that the Soviet Union is anticipating the outcome of the negotiations by a slackening of its defense efforts," a British White Paper said. "The Soviet Union's defense expenditures continue to rise each year in real terms."

The British gave a grim view of Russia's present strength, including construction of 90 new silos for intercontinental ballistic missiles, six new missile firing submarines and 300 attack and cruise missile submarines. Soviet Naval forces, carrying "the most advanced weapons system," have been deployed around the world and some 11,600 war planes range from the Atlantic, Pacific and Indian Oceans, and Mediterranean and Caribbean seas.

The British document observed: "There are at present some 94 Russian and other Warsaw Pact divisions in Eastern Europe and another 129 divisions elsewhere in the Soviet Union."

The White Paper pointedly observed: "Only negotiation from strength is like to produce equitable agreement. There must, therefore, be no unilateral reduction in defense capabilities in the West."

Russia has taken a hardosed line, no doubt encouraged by concessions won in the SALT I talks and the fact that some members of Congress want unilateral U.S. troop cutbacks in Europe.

Senator James Buckley of New York urges that Congress go on record as opposing reduction of our forces in Europe until and unless current negotiations produce equitable concessions from the Soviet Union.

Solid backing from Congress would immensely strengthen President Nixon's hand for the hard bargaining ahead.

The Russians may not have done it before and will do it again when they confront weakness.

Workers Being Denied

To the editor:

Appearing on the front page of the Herald, Feb. 5, was a report that the Tolland County Superior Court dismissed the latest appeal by Manchester Memorial Hospital in a case regarding an order by the State Labor Relations Board for the hospital to negotiate with Local 1199, Drug and Hospital Union, which represents some 45 dietary workers.

The court ruling said the SLRB order violated in no way the Federal and State Constitutions. This appeal was filed by the hospital attorney in September 1971. Now, a year and a half later, the hospital has announced that they intend to file a further appeal, this time with the Connecticut State Supreme Court.

In an article appearing in the Hartford Times, Feb. 11, Edward M. Kenney, hospital administrator, discussed at length reasons why hospital costs have increased and why they probably will continue to increase. He stated that the negotiations with Local 1199 which the court ruling indicated would be forthcoming could have "financial ramifications" for the hospital.

This is misleading, considering the size of the hospital and the number of people employed there. The negotiated contract would cover only one small department. In itemizing other areas of cost increase (telephone, fuel oil, electricity, etc.), Mr. Kenney failed to note that these have also been areas of cost increase for the general public. And neither was it mentioned that the hospital has not given its employees a cost of living increase since July 1971. Yet increasing hospital rates is justified by this.

Naturally the hospital must retain an attorney. But to continue a two year court fight in which the hospital has already received three unfavorable decisions from the SLRB and Superior Court on the same issue does not seem to be one way to cut unnecessary spending. Just the opposite. It creates more lawyer fees and adds court costs to an already-high retainer fee.

It would seem that the public and the medical and professional staff of the hospital, and certainly the Board of Trustees, would question the advisability of a further appeal on the part of the hospital. Surely the money could be used to improve services to the public or conditions in the hospital, or for that matter, to pay the telephone bill.

With the obvious concern over skyrocketing health costs, it would seem that the hospital administration would begin to see and question some things that I and other employees question already. Mr. Kenney repeatedly blames labor, and specifically organized labor, for the problem. But why must all of the department heads have assistant department heads and secretaries instead of one or the other when both of them are doing the job alone with the help of the secretary?

What is the need of two assistant administrators dividing the hospital into areas of responsibility when perhaps the administration could do the job adequately with only one assistant? Why does the housekeeping department, comparatively the size of dietary, have at least eight Supervisors with most of them doing general maintenance work on the floors?

Why eliminate one or two minor jobs in dietary, tell a worker he must change jobs or quit, and then create a new supervisory job in the cafeteria with a higher rate of pay and when a dietitian is already doing the job? Why employ two dietitians when both work the same days and hours? Why employ a kitchen supervisor and then make a kitchen aide responsible for the loading of the food carts that go to the patients? Why is there such an abundance of management in the labor area? Mr. Kenney mentions that employe cutbacks may be necessary. In the interest of cutting spending, the higher wage areas should be the first examined.

The administration of Manchester Memorial Hospital is continuing to abuse the law for their own purposes, taking advantage of the delay our court system provides in its present condition. It is reasonable to assume that another appeal will take a year to settle. They continue to spend more money to postpone the inevitable, claiming that their constitutional rights have been violated. But it is the rights of these dietary workers that are being violated. They are being denied their right to union representation. And with repeated claims of low labor is pushing up hospital costs, we wonder where the hospital will go after the State Supreme Court, Washington D.C?

Hi Neighbor

Burl Lyons, Publisher

At long last, friends and neighbors, we are about ready for our open house. In fact we are blocking out the last week of March and early April for tours of our new facility. Our tentative date for the general public is Saturday, March 31, but you'll be reading more about that as the date approaches.

In the meantime, we have had numerous requests from scout groups and others for tours. We would rather you wait until after April 1 and then we will be happy to honor each request.

We feel that our first tours should be available to our advertisers, news sources, and this we are planning for the last week of March.

We received a letter taking us to task for not publishing the fact that Gov. Meskill gave substantial pay raises to some workers.

The letter stated that The Herald was scanned for three days, Friday, Saturday and Monday, and no story could be found. We carried a story Thursday, Feb. 15, in which Atty. Gen. Killian voiced personal outrage at the pay raises. There was a later version of the pay raise squabble which didn't move on our Associated Press wire.

We were unable to reply to the author of the letter because it was unsigned.

Reggie Pinto of our photography staff was somewhat dismayed when he attended the recent Springfield Camping and Outdoor Show.

There wasn't a single State of Connecticut booth or display. However, Pennsylvania was well represented with a booth manned by some eight persons in addition to displays by private dealers.

It points up something that we have been harping about for some time in that this state is missing the boat by not doing a better job in promoting tourism, camping and recreation.

When the state sponsored a tourism conference at Mystic Seaport last year, we felt it would perhaps be the kickoff of a solid tourism promotion but apparently that isn't the case.

It's been a pretty good winter for business, at least for construction or some phases of it. Talking to a sign company owner the other day he told us that he is enjoying the best winter business in years.

In view of high unemployment statistics, he also commented that he is having difficulty getting experienced men.

More sad news from the court: A district judge in Denver ruled that police could not have a bullet surgically removed from a man charged with the robbery of a bar and the murder of its owner in a shoot-out.

Since the defendant would be under anesthesia and the surgery would require "a substantial intrusion" into his body to remove the bullet for evidence would be a violation of his constitutional rights, the judge held. It would, in effect, be compelling him to testify against himself, which is prohibited by the Fifth Amendment.

We seriously wonder about the infringed Constitutional rights of the dead bar owner or the rights of the public at large to be secure in its persons and possessions. These matters apparently aren't the concern of the court.

Despite the broadcast ban on the advertising of cigarettes, the per capita consumption of cigarettes is up; tobacco sales of manufacturers are up and so is profit.

The Federal Trade Commission, official monitor of the tobacco business, reports that $47.2 billion cigarettes were sold during 1971, up 48 billion over the previous year. The figures aren't in for 1972 but they are expected to show an increase.

Bicycle sales for 1972 will be at an all-time high of about 13 million, according to Hardware Merchandiser.

The old image of a bike being mainly something for children is fast disappearing. Nationwide it is gaining stature with adults, including the over 65 set, believe it or not.

That's why it is refreshing to see the town pursue the establishment of bicycle paths.

We are also pleased to see the mayor's new Safety Committee adopt a program of bicycle safety in our schools.

A tip of the hat to the New England Regional Commission for providing the funds to produce an outstanding, attractive booklet on Bradley International Airport. We hope it has wide circulation because we feel it definitely will result in an increase in travel.

The booklet points out that upward of 2 million passengers are flying to and from Bradley annually. You can also board an airplane at Bradley and arrive at airports serving 80 major cities without having to change planes.

It is also pleasing to read that Commissioner A. Earl Wood will be delighted to conduct any persons in the Greater New York area on a tour of Bradley if they will notify him in advance of their arrival.

Connecticut is fortunate to have such a fine facility.

A reminder that our Readership Survey is under way and the questionnaire will be appearing in our newspaper from time to time. We would greatly appreciate your taking the time to fill out the form which can either be mailed to us or dropped off in person. We sincerely want to know your thoughts. Please only one response per reader because this will help us insure survey accuracy.

A California editor made a suggestion awhile back which would probably meet good response with some readers. He suggested that publishers, instead of reporters, go to jail for withholding court-demanded information and documents.

Since reporters are the agents of the publishers and since the ultimate responsibility for the content of the paper lies with the publisher, it is the publisher who should pay the penalty for violating court orders.

He perhaps has a point.

BOOK REVIEWS

THE SMALL HOUSE HALF-WAY UP IN THE NEXT BLOCK. Edited by Mary Frances Rhymer. McGraw-Hill, 301 Pages, $9.95.

There was a time — and it really wasn't all that long ago — when television was the province of a science-fiction writer's imagination.

People then were entertained by listening to the radio, not by looking at actors moving about on a screen. Which, perhaps, was one of the best things about radio, since it forced the serious listener to galvanize his imagination into creating those faces and settings which are so explicit on the TV screen.

Many of these created faces from the past still stand out vividly, but foremost among them are those of the durable people who populated the "Vic and Sade" show. The show, created by Paul Rhymer, first was aired in 1932 and it lasted through more than 3,500 scripts all the way to 1945 with some seven million persons reported tuning in just in time to hear the announcer say:

"Once again we present your friends Vic and Sade — at whose small house half-way up in the next block you are invited to spend a little while at this time."

What was the secret of the show's popularity? Ray Bradbury explains it best perhaps in his introduction to this book when he writes, "Paul Rhymer got us hooked on his sights but, good man that he was, didn't shoot us dead. Instead, he celebrated a well represented simplicity, our dull, long days that were made bearable through love. The show, created by Paul Rhymer, first was aired in 1932 and it lasted through more than 3,500 scripts all the way to 1945 with some seven million persons reported tuning in just in time to hear the announcer say:

But explaining "Vic and Sade" really isn't necessary. Read any or all of the 30 scripts gathered in this volume and you find out what it was all about for yourself.

ALBERT EINSTEIN. Creator and Rebel. By Banesh Hoffmann, with the assistance of Helen Dukas. The Viking Press, 272 Pages, $8.95.

Writing a biography of Albert Einstein appears never to have been an easy task. For one thing, Einstein himself, being a man always willing to discuss his ideas, was uncooperative to the point of impatience in disclosing what he considered personal trivia. Such details, in the hands of a judicious biographer, can be very revealing.

Philip Frank, who succeeded Einstein as professor of physics at the University of Prague, wrote a biography of the master which received considerable praise. Now Banesh Hoffmann, professor of mathematics at Queens College of the City University of New York and a former colleague of Einstein's at the Institute for Advanced Study in Princeton, has written a short but authoritative study of Einstein's life and great work. Fortunately, he has had the assistance of Helen Dukas, Einstein's secretary from 1928 until his death in 1955.

Despite its brevity, Hoffmann's book is not to be skimmed over lightly. He tries very hard to describe, within the grasp of us nonscientists, the meaning of such recalcitrant subjects as Einstein's special and general theories of relativity, Max Planck's great quantum theory — incidentally, he regards this as even more revolutionary than relativity — nuclear physics, and the brohaha at the end of Einstein's life over efforts by him and others to establish a unified field theory that would embrace gravitational, electromagnetic, and nuclear phenomena.

Paradoxically, when Einstein was the 1921 Nobel physics prize it was for his discovery of the photoelectric effect, in which he demonstrated that light strikes metal, leading directly to television, rather than for relativity, then still controversially hot.

And most horrendous of all, Hoffmann explains as far as he can within the ultimate of our nonspecialist grasp Einstein's postulate on the interchangeability of energy and mass — that energy equals mass times the speed of light squared — leading us along the somber path to atomic and nuclear bombs.

Hoffmann's impact could be enhanced by a more sophisticated attitude toward literary style. Some of the strictly biographical passages sound elementary. But a mathematician writing about a truly great scientist probably would consider this objection superficial.

Heads ZBA

Bernard R. Johnson of 92 Bedford Rd., was elected chairman of the Manchester Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) Monday night, in a short business meeting before the ZBA's monthly hearing session.

Johnson, Democrat, succeeds Nicholas Jackson of 405 Hackmatack St. Jackson resigned from the ZBA post Feb. 6 when his wife, Phyllis, was elected to fill a vacancy on the town's Board of Directors.

A native of Manchester, Johnson is a district representative of Lutheran Brotherhood of Minneapolis, Minn., a fraternal insurance society. He has been on the ZBA since November 1971, when appointed an alternate. Last summer he was appointed to fill a vacancy on the board created by the resignation of Martin Foley.

Johnson had served as ZBA secretary since last November. Johnson attended local schools and is a 1954 graduate of Manchester High School. He is active in church affairs, as lay chairman of the congregation and stewardship chairman at Helen Johnson of Arlington, Va. The couple has two children—Karen, 9, and Peter, 10.

In other action Monday night, Paul J. Rossetto of 88 Ralph Rd., was named ZBA secretary, succeeding Johnson.

Rossetto, a partner in the real estate firm of Blanchard and Rossetto of Manchester, is also a Manchester native. He is a 1957 graduate of Manchester High School and has attended the University of Connecticut.

Rossetto is a member of the Manchester Board of Realtors and the Connecticut and national Associations of Real Estate Brokers. He is on the board of directors of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce, and UNICO.

Rossetto and his wife, Claire, have three children.

Pension Board Asks $714,225 This Year

The Manchester Pension Board is requesting a $714,225 town contribution for 1973-74—up $64,225 over the $150,000 received in the current fiscal year.

In a separate request, it is recommending an $11,050 allocation for its administrative expenses.

Last spring, the Pension Board had asked for $541,027 in the 1972-73 budget. The Board of Directors cut it to $150,000. Both recommendations, the $541,027 for 1972-73 and the $714,225 for 1973-74, come from the Pension Board's actuary, the Martin E. Segal Co. of Hartford.

Monday afternoon at a short business meeting, the Pension Board agreed to make a concerted effort this year for the requested amount. Its representatives will explain the request to the Board of Directors.

It was the consensus of the Pension Board that the pension fund is in good shape and that no pensioner need have any worry whatever concerning his or her benefit payments.

As Pension Board secretary

Thomas Rollason explained it, "Our pension fund is in good shape at present. What our actuary recommends is a town contribution to keep the fund in balance into the future. We deplore the cuts the directors make because they are only postponing the inevitable. The time may come—in the near or far future—when the returns on our investments cease to be favorable. Town contributions now can prevent worries later."

Weiss Sees Funds Continuing For Emergency Jobs

Town Manager Robert Weiss says Manchester is assured sufficient state and federal funds to the end of the current fiscal year to pay the salaries of those town employees hired under the Unemployment Emergency Program.

He said, also, there are signs the program may be extended another year: (1) Because of the availability of leftover funds in the current program; (2) because of repeat legislation being introduced in Congress.

The grant to Manchester to the end of this month has totaled $22,500. Weiss said an additional $134,625 is anticipated soon—enough to keep the program funded locally to June 30, the end of the current fiscal year. A public hearing on the $134,625 grant will be held March 6.

The Board of Directors, in a routine action, is being asked to place it in the General Fund Budget and to designate it for emergency employment.

Commenting on the availability of leftover funds in the program, Weiss said the information comes from his former First District Congressman William Cotter. He said Cotter told him many communities across the country failed to take advantage of the grants accessible to them. As a consequence, explained Cotter, money may be available to keep the program going an additional year—but at a reduced level.

The formula for Emergency Employment grants is based on the proportion of unemployed in the state to unemployed in the nation.

Manchester has 38 temporary employees under the program. It has had as many as 42.

Weiss said he is preparing his 1973-74 tentative budget on the assumption that at least some of the temporary employees will have to be let go. He said he may recommend in his budget that some of them be retained in their jobs and paid with town funds.

He said he will have an announcement soon on his recommendations regarding those temporary employees.

Washington — With an increase in both passenger-car and truck registrations in every state, U.S. motor-vehicle registrations reached an estimated 117.6 million in 1972, an increase of 4.6 million in a year.

$132,856 Due On Tax List

Outstanding Manchester taxes for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1972 totaled $132,856 on Jan. 31, 1973, according to a report by Ernest Machell, collector of revenue. He said the total had been $271,517 when the current fiscal year began.

Machell reported also that taxes outstanding on Jan. 31 for the 1972-73 fiscal year were $74,106; that for the 1969-70 fiscal year, $25,532; and that for the 1968-69 fiscal year, $15,750.

Machell explained the situation is similar to previous years at this date. If the outstanding taxes are higher than in previous years, the amount is relative, since the total amount of taxes increases every year, he said.

He said his office is in the process of mailing statements to those property owners owing back taxes. The statements give them 10 days to pay or, if an explanation is in order, to present it to the collector.

The next step, said Machell, is to send tax warrants. "I expect a sizable total soon," he said.

Houley and McCoy Argue Over Makeup Of Vernon Boards

Action on six appointments to various boards and commissions blossomed into argument at Monday night's Town Council meeting when Councilman Robert Houley said he would vote "no" on the appointments "because of defiance of minority representation."

This was not the first time Houley objected to appointments for the same reason. At the Jan. 15 meeting, Houley, one of four Democrats on the 12-member Town Council, questioned the political makeup of several boards and commissions. At that time Mayor Frank McCoy, referring to several unaffiliated persons on these boards, said he felt by placing them in was fulfilling his duties as far as majority representation is concerned.

In casting his vote on last night's appointments, Houley said he was not basing his vote on any of the persons involved. He said he was not suggesting that an illegal act was being committed. "There is none" but I think the Town Council should discuss the matter, he added. "The Republicans don't have a monopoly on talent," Houley said.

Councilman Richard MacDonald, a Republican, said he had kept quiet the last time because he was in a spirit of compromise concerning appointments. Mayor McCoy told him that at that time the council was equally divided 6-6.

The minority representation bill was passed in 1969 by the Democratic controlled legislature. MacDonald explained in reply to Houley's remark that at that time the House was controlled by Republicans and the Senate by Democrats. MacDonald said today, he checked on this and found the Senate was made up of 20 Democrats and seven Republicans and the Senate, 140 Democrats and 139 Republicans.

The mayor explained that the state minority representation laws cover all appointed bodies, and a 4-1 balance is required. "We are adhering to the spirit of the statutes," he said.

The council then, with the exception of Houley, approved the following appointments: Donald Gindia to the Permanent Building Committee; Donald M. Leonard to the Recreation Commission; Franklin Sykes to the Permanent Building Committee; Edmund F. Dwyer, and Emilio Pellegrini to the Traffic and Parking Committee; and Anthony and Emanuel Gerber to the Housing Authority. It was noted that three of the six are Republicans and three are unaffiliated.

Long Island Sound Race Pollute vs. Purify

By DAN HALL
NEW HAVEN (AP) — The great Long Island Sound race is under way.

It's a contest between top-rate governmental planners and a society that pollutes and defaces its surroundings at an ever-increasing rate.

The planners are placing their hopes on a unique $3 million study of Long Island Sound which they hope will show, when it is finished in 1975, how to head off the ruinous trend.

Authorities say that trend threatens the sections of Connecticut and New York State on or near the Sound with the following:

- An increasing rate of harmful oil spills. The number increased from 66 in 1970 to 127 in 1972, due partly to improved reporting methods. Ninety per cent of Connecticut's home-heating oil is delivered by ships using the Sound.
- A demand for more electric power, resulting in estimates that the number of power plants on the Sound will increase fivefold in the next 50 years.
- Crowding of beaches on the Sound. According to Bureau of Outdoor Recreation Standards, Connecticut has a comfortable capacity for 50,000 saltwater swimmers but serves 60,000 on a typical Sunday and 100,000 on a peak holiday. These numbers are expected to triple in 40 years.
- Prospects that the 11 million population of the study area will double by the year 2020, with an increasing percentage living outside New York City.
- An increasing demand on water supplies. Planners estimate that the entirely subsurface supply in Nassau County, on Long Island, will be insufficient by 2020.
- Continuing development of shorelines that already leaves only a total of one mile of flat coastal land without structures or beach development.
- Destruction of wetlands at an average rate of 24 per cent in Suffolk and Nassau counties and 17 per cent in Connecticut, led by Fairfield County's 45 per cent rate.

What bearing will the study have on the trend?

"We are hopeful we will make the issues clear," said Henry "Hank" Sirlin, senior planner of the study, in a recent interview. "Do they (society) want to continue growth as it is or do they want to conserve?"

Fearing for the future of the 113-mile-long body of water, which legend says was called the Devil's Gut by sea captains because of turbulence at both ends, the two states won federal approval in 1971 for the 3 1/2-year study.

The study group, a unit of the New England River Basins Commission with headquarters in New Haven, hopes to complete the project by the prescribed January 1975 deadline. But delays in congressional financing and organizational hitches already have put work behind schedule.

Three separate groups with distinct but intermingling assignments are now gathering information for the first two parts of the five-phase study.

One group is composed of federal agencies and six regional agencies including the Army Corps of Engineers, Environmental Protection Agency, Department of the Interior, Transportation, and Housing and Urban Development and related state agencies. It will compile the reams of maps and information involving the areas draining into the Sound on which the study report will be based.

Another group is composed of public, commercial and conservation representatives chosen by state and federal officials. They will conduct hearings this spring and issue recommendations. The group already has spoken out against a New York proposal to bridge the Sound between Oyster Bay on Long Island and Rye, N.Y., near the Connecticut state line.

The third group will draw on the expertise of scientists and technicians in the two states. Among the Citizen and Scientific advisory committee members are Richard Pough of Pelham, N.Y., founder of the Nature Conservancy; Claire Stern of Great Neck, head of the Long Island Environmental Council; Gilbert Wagner of Gales Ferry, a vice president of Pfizer, Inc., who directs the company's environmental activities and Stamford lawyer Haynes Johnson, who won a recent court decision brought by the Sierra Club to delay dredging of New Haven Harbor to permit more study of the plane.

The entire effort is being coordinated by the study group's handful of professionals.

"We could have put together this plan using consultants for much less money," said David Barack, study manager. But he points out that one of the strengths of the study is that it draws heavily on the expertise and knowledge of the various agencies.

The agencies also should learn from the project and that is "a major virtue" of the study, Sirlin added.

The study group will have no power to order changes but, instead, will make recommendations, including changes in law and emphasis, to all levels of government.

The response of local communities will be crucial to the success of the project because so many decisions affecting the Sound are made at that level, Sirlin said.

"The biggest political issue that we will be dealing with will be recreation," he said. The reasons are that land is being sought for many other uses, and towns usually set aside recreational space only for their own residents.

Sirlin said federal funds could be used to encourage needed developments in that area.

John F. Merchant of Stamford, chairman of the 30-member Citizen Advisory Committee, is generally pleased with progress so far. He complained, however, that his committee got a delayed start because Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York was about three months behind other officials in making his eight appointments to the panel.

Freighter loads up with scrap metal in New Haven Harbor. A study of Long Island Sound and parts of Connecticut and New York State surrounding it will pay close attention to harbor areas because of their effects on commerce and environmental quality of the Sound.

Merchant predicted further problems resulting from the bistate nature of the study. Study manager Barack said some source of conflict already is apparent.

"Connecticut is taking responsible steps toward controlling the oil-spill problem but New York has not," he said. On the other hand, New York has legislation controlling the discharge of human waste from boats but Connecticut does not, he added.

Fishing laws of the two states also differ, causing a potential for problems in drafting proposals affecting commercial fishermen on the Sound.

The study process will gather these facts and thousands of others, analyze them under the supervision of experts and the scrutiny of those who could be affected by the outcome.

"In short," as the study statement puts it, "the Sound is part of the biosphere, and man must begin to plan for its future from both the narrow and broad point of view — from local, regional, national and global perspectives — if the Sound is to remain a valuable resource of all people for all time."

Funds Appropriated Need Voter Approval

The Bolton Board of Finance approved more than $25,000 in appropriations at its meeting Tuesday, including $18,000 for a dump truck, $5,000 for a used police cruiser, and $2,500 for preliminary plans for construction of a new town library.

All of the approved items must also be approved by the voters at a town meeting, which will probably be called in the near future.

The selectman has proposed that federal revenue sharing funds, which are expected to total $80,000 by the end of 1974, be used to construct the library. The other two items would probably come from the "capital and non-recurring" category in the town budget.

Cruiser Opposed
The police cruiser gave rise to the most controversy, and Aloysius Ahearn, Finance Board chairman, was adamantly opposed to the purchase. Selectman Joseph Licita also stated his opposition to the idea of a town-owned police car, saying it would be the first step in the establishment of a police department, a step which should not be taken without careful study, he said.

First Selectman Richard Morra supported the purchase and said the car is needed for patrol by constables.

In other action at Tuesday's meeting, the board tabled a suggestion by member Morris Silverstein that some kind of poll be taken at the time of the May town election to determine how townspeople feel that funds in the capital and non-recurring category should be spent. This fund is used for large one-shot items.

The board is continuing in its preparation of the budget which will be presented to townspeople at a public hearing in April. The final budget is scheduled to be presented to a town meeting for approval in May.

Maria Elvira Rocha, who has been an exchange student at Bolton High School since December, returned to her home in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, last week. The Student Council which sponsored her trip here recently feted Elvira to a farewell party attended by students and faculty.

Elvira's host family during her stay was the Philip Dooley family of Watrous Rd. Chris Dooley, their teenage daughter, was Elvira's hostess and classmate during the past three months.

Upon her return home, Elvira will complete a secretarial course. She has already graduated from high school and was on "summer vacation" during her stay here.

The cold weather and our "rather bland and mild" food are two of the things that stand out in Elvira's impressions of the United States. She also has acquired several slang expressions to take home with her, including "cool" and "far out."

Coventry Bill Called Threat To Zoning Autonomy

HOLLY GANTNER

Stephen Loyzin, former state legislator and current chairman of the Planning and Zoning Commission, warned last night that a proposed bill before the current session of the General Assembly will "emasculate and make impotent" local planning and zoning commissions, should it be enacted.

The bill, CB 8492, which contains the text of former House Bill 5973, calls for the formation of an urban development corporation with powers of eminent domain which could override local planning and zoning commission authority throughout the state. Stated purpose of the bill is to allow for the creation and expansion of balanced new communities.

South Windsor Public Health Reviews Policies

The South Windsor Public Health Nurses Association has made a status report to the Town Council and is currently conducting a study of the future of the agency.

The report contained information on a change in policy for members of the board of directors, time utilized by Mrs. Joanne Kilgore, public health nurse in South Windsor, which included overtime, and substitute nurse's assistance and clerk hours.

Rotation service schedules for the board of directors have been implemented and members may no longer work more than six years on the board. Previously there was an unlimited provision for service in the director capacity.

A time study showed Mrs. Kilgore utilized 73 per cent of her time on patient activities and care, and in reviewing the office situation, the association felt it was not possible to increase clerk hours and implement a 15-hour week. A 20-hour week flexible schedule position is also available for an increase in the nursing staff on a part-time basis.

Buckland Rd. Closing
Buckland Rd. from Denning St. to Oakland Rd. will be closed to through traffic for two weeks beginning Monday.

The closing is necessary to allow final testing of the sewer line recently installed there and to repair the pavement.

The road will be open to local, emergency and school bus traffic.

Shrove Tuesday Dinner
The annual Shrove Tuesday supper will be held at the St. Peter's Episcopal Church on Sand Hill Rd. March 6.

There will be two dinner seatings, at 5 p.m. and again at 6:30. Cost is 75 cents for a child portion and $1.50 per adult.

A special family rate of 1.50 per person is offered for six or more people in one family.

The menu includes spaghetti with meatballs, mixed green salad, Italian bread and a dessert with beverage.

The community is welcome to attend.

Mrs. Grasso Would Delay Grain Export

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. Rep. Ella T. Grasso, D-Conn., said Tuesday that she would introduce a Congressional resolution urging President Nixon to embargo for 120 days all overseas shipments of American grain.

The grain slated for export overseas is "desperately needed in our country, particularly where severe grain shortages have crippled farmers in Connecticut and elsewhere, thereby contributing to already exorbitant food prices for consumers," Mrs. Grasso said in a statement.

She said she would introduce the resolution Wednesday.

The congresswoman's office said the resolution was the "first sense of the Congress resolution of its kind to be introduced since the beginning of this winter's feed grain crisis."

Also Tuesday, Mrs. Grasso asked Nixon in a letter to appoint a task force to study railroad freight car shortages. Her office said the freight car shortage was "another contributing factor to the shortage of grain in the North-east."

Air Force Still Loved In Israel

TEL AVIV (AP)—Israel's love affair with its young air force heroes is hotter than ever despite the downing of the Libyan airliner last week.

"We still say and mean it—Haroni Law," said Tel Aviv stenographer, "That's Hebrew for 'The best for the air force.'"

She appeared to be speaking for most Israelis a week after two of the air force's Phantom pilots shot down an unarmed Libyan airliner over the Sinai Desert, killing 160 persons.

The Stringer woman reported minor injury, according to police, and the Douleau woman was released.

Police say that both vehicles were northbound on Rt. 5 at the time of the accident. No police action has been taken in the matter at this time.

Obituary Frisina To Undergo Psychiatric Exams

Mrs. C. Ivar Johnson, Mrs. Alice M. Johnson, 82, of 28 Bigelow St. died Tuesday at Manchester Memorial Hospital. She was the wife of C. Ivar Johnson.

Mrs. Johnson was born Nov. 24, 1890 in Vestnes, Norway, and had lived in Hartford for 30 years before coming to Manchester 18 years ago. She was a member of the Senior Citizens and a Hartford chapter of the Order of Eastern Star. She and her husband observed their 50th wedding anniversary last Dec. 24.

Survivors, besides her husband, are a son, Hilding Johnson of Manchester; a daughter, Mrs. Rudolph Arthur of Manchester; a sister, Mrs. W. W. Johnson of Manchester; and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be Thursday at 11 a.m. at the Helms Funeral Home, 400 Main St. The Rev. Ronald Fourmier of Emmanuel Lutheran Church will officiate. Burial will be in East Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home tonight from 7 to 9.

The family suggests that any memorial contributions may be made to Emmanuel Lutheran Church.

Irish Election Wide Open Race

DUBLIN (AP) — The Irish Republic voted today in a national election to decide its government for the next five years, and the race was completely open.

After 15 years in power, Prime Minister Jack Lynch's Fianna Fail party, the Soldiers of Destiny, has been thrown on the defensive by a 14-point program of social reform announced by a coalition of Fine Gael — the Irish Party — and the smaller Labor Party.

Most of the Dublin pundits were predicting that Lynch would be defeated. However, they made the same prediction in 1959 and were wrong.

Lynch's party was a clear favorite with the Dublin housewives, who quoted odds of 5-2 in its favor to put up a bid to win 52 of 106 seats in the Dail. The odds on the coalition were 7-4.

The counting of votes starts Thursday and may take 48 hours.

Fine Gael and Labor campaigned together for the first time since 1957. If their supporters use the proportional representation system to their fullest advantage, their chances of winning will be much enhanced.

The safe prediction was a heavy turnout. The election battle, fought over acres of newspaper and a torrent of radio spots, was a mix of domestic issues as taxation, grants and improved social benefits. It aroused public involvement to the full.

The troubles in Northern Ireland, where another child was killed Tuesday night during a gun battle between British troops and guerrillas, were largely ignored.

This may prove a negative factor for Lynch, who opened his campaign with a call for a strong mandate to speak for the

"If the American people are not informed or are misinformed, some of the blame must necessarily rest with us. We are making the effort and will continue to make the effort to work with, not against, the press," he said.

The only committee member who has announced he will vote against the 56-year-old Connecticut lawyer and close friend of President Nixon is Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va.

Byrd, assistant Senate Democratic leader, has called Gray openly partisan and said he has used the FBI for political purposes.

Gray is the first FBI director to be subject to Senate confirmation and his nomination provides an unusual opportunity for the American people to probe into the role and operations of the agency.

A few of the specific issues expected to be raised include the FBI's priorities in law enforcement, the extent of its wiretapping and its investigation into the burglary and wiretapping of Democratic national headquarters.

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., the committee chairman, said he had been advised the complete FBI file in the bugging case will be made available to panel members for inspection.

Indians Take Town, Hold Ten Hostages

MANCHESTER, S.D. (AP)—About 200 Indians were in control of this tiny town today, holding about 10 residents hostage and demanding that two U.S. senators come to their reservation to discuss Indian grievances.

Another demand was for the ouster of the current leaders of the Oglala Sioux Tribe, chairman Richard Wilson has feuded with AIM members in the past.

Some 11,500 Indians are on the reservation, according to the state Department of Indian Affairs. The land consists largely of barren prairie, and nearly half of the work force is unemployed.

Joseph H. Trimbach, special FBI agent in charge of the Minneapolis division, said earlier that the Indians were holding the hostages in the town's four or five buildings and that shots were fired at an approaching car.

Camp said shots had been fired, but said he thought they had come from Indians who were sighting in weapons taken from the Wounded Knee Trading Post.

"I don't think any shots have been fired at people," he said.

Camp said the Indians wanted state and local governments to "become more sensitized to Indian problems." He said his group supported the action, but that it had been initiated by members of the Oglala Sioux who were not AIM members.

India's first philatelic society was formed in 1897.

Kindergarten Registration

Wilson E. Deakin Jr., assistant superintendent of schools for personnel services, announced that registration for September 1973 kindergarten enrollment will take place at all Manchester elementary schools from 3 to 4 p.m. on Wednesday, March 14, and Thursday, March 15.

Parents who have children who will be five years old or before Jan. 1, 1974, are asked to contact the school nearest them for registration materials.

Takeover Of Rails Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six senators introduced legislation Tuesday for a federal takeover of the track of two Penn Central and seven smaller Northeast railroads.

The legislation also would require the Department of Transportation to come up with a plan in two years for government ownership and improvement of a national interstate system of track.

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., said the rail plan is similar to the federal approach toward interstate highways, waterways and airways.

Sponsoring the bill with Hartke were Sens. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., John O. Pastore, D-R.I., Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Harrison Williams, D-N.J.

Trophy Honors Bradley

The New England Drum Corps Federation has donated the Leon Bradley Memorial Trophy, which will be awarded to the musical unit judged to be the best in Manchester's Sesquicentennial parade June 23.

It honors a long-time town resident who, before his death, served as a federation judge of parades in statewide events, had been a drum major, and was a recognized authority on bands and parade protocol.

Bradley, a WWI veteran, was active in veterans' affairs, a member of the American Legion, and his past commander.

In addition, the NEDCF is donating three place awards. The trophies will be on exhibit at the entrance via existing doorway.

All emergency patients and outpatients are requested to use the new emergency room entrance at Army St. Access to the entrance via existing doorway.

Town Man Has Chance For $75,000 Prize

A 45-year-old Manchester native who has lived in Manchester since he was six months old, bought his winning ticket at Supreme Foods, on Hartford Rd. He said he buys about four tickets a week.

"This was the first time in my life I ever won anything," he said today. "It's a wonderful feeling. I have no definite plans at present, but there are plenty of places to spend the money."

A couple of those places could well be colleges for his two children — Audrey, 18, and Glen, 15 — said Maxwell, for 20 years an employee of Henshew's in Hartford. His wife, Mildred, works for the Kage Co. in Manchester.

Cost Conflict Cleared On Heat System Repair

JOHN A. JOHNSTON (Herald Reporter)

There is apparently a closer meeting of minds than may have formerly existed between the Board of Education and Town Building Committee on different figures put forth on the cost of renovating the heating system at Lincoln School.

Paul Greenberg, buildings and sites committee chairman, reported to board members last night that after his conference with Paul Phillips, TBC chairman, "There is no conflict in estimates of costs."

When phasing Lincoln out of the school system was in the discussion stage, board representatives put the heating renovation at $125,000 to $150,000.

At its February meeting, TBC members felt it could have been done for $50,000.

Greenberg called on Theodore Fairbanks, supervisor of building and grounds, to clarify the situation. Fairbanks agreed with the TBC finding that the boilers and burners are in good condition. However, he would be in the pneumatic system, and he gave several examples.

"Our estimate from the beginning to do the work," Fairbanks said, was $135,000. "He added that the consultant recommended that this figure be upped to $160,000 to cover fees and contingencies. After that, he added, plans are to turn Lincoln back to the building for office use."

The Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce contains within its membership many businesses which perform specialized services.

Coughlin Roofing Co. Inc. is located at 300 Woodland St. (telephone: 643-7707) and specializes in "built-up" type of composition roofing such as "tar and gravel" which is used on so-called flat roof areas, mainly on schools, commercial and professional buildings as well as some modern homes and home additions.

They have been in the roofing business in Manchester since 1946 and have roofers of long experience, one of whom has had 43 years in the trade.

Coughlin Roofing Co. uses such nationally known products as Bird, Carey, Johns-Manville and Ruberoid and are bonded by most major manufacturers of roofing materials.

According to E. V. Coughlin, the company's president and treasurer, they also provide high quality asphalt and composition shingle roofs and gutters as well as roof repairs.

Mr. Coughlin added that his company takes great pride in quality work, fair prices, prompt service and, most of all, customer good will.

Coughlin Roofing Co. is a member in good standing of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce.

Dog Track For Tolland?

VIVIAN V. KENNEDY

Correspondent T-1, 875-4704

Would Tolland be receptive to a greyhound dog racing track? First Selectman Erwin Stoetzer reported last night that an inquiry has been made to the Board of Selectmen, but identity of the source was not revealed.

According to Stoetzer, it would involve a $10 million building project. He pointed out that this figure represents approximately 20 per cent of Tolland's Grand List, with no children involved.

Both terms were due to expire on April 1 and now run to 1976.

Board of Selectmen
Other action taken at the Board of Selectmen meeting last night was the reappointment of William Holley and Conrad Dwire to the Board of Recreation.

Both terms were due to expire on April 1 and now run to 1976.

Bulldozer Contract
The selectmen opened bids for bulldozing work for the proposed town garage at Post Rd. High bidders were John Olander Corp. at $1,500 and William Aberle at $1,400.

The contract was awarded to the low bidder, Mill's Welding on Goss Lane at $1,395.

Price Tag Drops On RHS Expansion

BARBARA RICHMOND

(Herald Reporter)

The price tag on proposed plans for expansion of Rockville High School has dropped to the area of $15 million, but without major cuts in many areas.

The Board of Education last night reviewed two sets of plans presented by architects William McHugh and David Eveleth and settled on further pursuing the plan which would include a 36-room addition in the southeast corner of the existing high school and to be attached by a corridor of some sort. It would also include a science addition and a second story on part of the existing building and an industrial arts addition for a total of 49 additional teaching spaces.

Disheartened by having two other proposals defeated at referendums held in September and March of 1972, the board, a few weeks ago had indicated it would not initiate plans immediately for another proposal but rather that it might wait for the impetus to come from the public. This thought was discussed after the board voted to put the high school on double sessions next September.

The high school addition is not a new issue with the board. It has been working on plans off and on for about seven years. The necessity for double sessions came when the Middle School also was experiencing overcrowding problems.

The first referendum defeated plans for an $8.6 million addition including an indoor pool, carpeting and expansion in almost every area. The second time around the cost was reduced to $6.1 million but divided into three questions with a breakdown of cost offering the pool and the gymnasium as extras. While the first proposal was defeated by a wide margin, the second vote was much closer.

Last night, Eveleth explained the revised plan which will include the separate facility to contain 36 classrooms or 41,280 square feet of floor space. The cost of this portion would be about $1.2 million. An industrial arts building would add three shops and 9,670 square feet of space at a cost of $270,000.

When the first addition was put on the school several years ago, it was constructed to enable adding a second floor when it was needed.

The proposed plans allow for a second level expansion which would include four science labs and six classrooms or 15,700 square feet of space at a cost of $530,000.

Site development and equipment costs and architects fees would add another $550,000 for the total cost of $2,550,000. It would make an additional 36 classrooms, three additional industrial arts shops and 10 special education classrooms, which require more space per pupil. They added that in the administration area the largest deficiency will become apparent in the guidance department.

The board, after listening to the proposal, voted to go more to the public to attend a special meeting Monday night to ask questions and offer suggestions.

Over though the board held many public meetings to explain the two defeated plans, attendance at these meetings was very sparse. The board hopes more interest will be shown this time.

Board member Robert DuBeau said he feels the board will have to further discuss a master plan as to where it will go to provide the extra library and cafeteria needs. Eveleth added that he could not imagine the town will put up with the physical education facility the way it is with an additional 1,000 students.

Eveleth added that he felt, with a little more money, the original physical education expansion plans might be incorporated in the new proposal. He did not give a cost for this.

If proposed plans should go forward, the architect's target schedule calls for May 1 for approval of schematics and June 15 for the referendum; Aug. 1 for approval of preliminary plans if the referendum approves the appropriation; Dec. 15 for final plans; Feb. 1, 1974 for awarding of contract; and Feb. 1, 1975 for completion of construction.

McHugh and Eveleth noted that certain sacrifices were made to reduce the cost of the expansion. They explained that certain departments require special equipment and spaces which are not now being expanded.

They further explained that the quantity of pre-opening offerings in these departments — home economics, business education, art, music and physical education — will decrease as the population increases.

They added, however, that program offerings can be maintained or expanded in these departments to the extent that the program can be tailored to classroom space.

To a lesser degree, the language departments will be affected by not providing additional reading lab and language lab space, the architect's said.

They added to their concerns the fact that no expansion is planned immediately for the library or the cafeteria; no allowance is being made for

The Board of Finance appointed Urban Laginbuhl to replace Scott Warner at its meeting last night. Laginbuhl is a dairy farmer and was the Republican Town Committee's recommendation to fill the vacancy because of the charter setup that states positions must be filled by a person of the same political party.

A bill in the amount of $800 was received from Town Counsel Robert King for the Tolland Education Association lawsuit. The T.E.A. had challenged the town on procedures in adopting the 1972-73 budget, but was defeated in court last month in a ruling by Judge Anthony J. Armentano in Tolland County Superior Court.

Dump Status
Finance board chairman Stewart Joslin recanted steps already taken on the proposed purchase of land on Cook Rd. for a new dump site. The board would like additional information and has directed a letter to the Board of Selectmen. The board wants to know what federal or state agency applications are needed, what steps are necessary to obtain approval and clarification of the title.

The finance board also wants to know the cost of preparing a new dump site and operating costs versus present dump site. What other uses can be made for the land and the status of the current site is requested, as well as the recommendation of an independent appraisal of the property by a non-resident.

The proposed site is a 132-acre parcel of land owned by Raymond Roncari, running between Cook and Usher Rds. The exact location is not officially known as a survey done for adjoining property owner Elery Neff shows some land of Roncari's, as shown on the assessor's maps, overlapping. Town Counsel King has been asked to search the title and the $80,000 option has been extended to June 1.

Culinary Works of Art

Story by VIVIAN FERGUSON Photos by SYLVIA OFIARA

Earlier this week I heard the following question asked on a TV quiz program. "What is the oldest art?"

If you go to the Terrace Room at the Statler Hilton Hotel in Hartford today between 2 and 10 p.m., you will find the answer there.

It is cooking—cooking in its finest form by both masters and students. The 15th Annual Culinary Exhibit is now on display sponsored by the Connecticut Chefs Association.

You will see the earliest art far removed from its humble beginnings. Beautifully executed table pieces, entire buffet tables, carved tallow centerpieces are being shown.

This is "la grande cuisine," the classic French cookery. The great Carme, who was the founder of this cuisine, associated confectionery and decorative table pieces with architecture. It is easy to understand his feelings when you look upon Cicerelli's castle or a contemporary resort hotel complete with monorail, all executed in sugar icing, a perfect medium for fairyland-like centerpieces.

Prizes are awarded in various categories with the grade salon, or top prize, the most coveted. Arno Schmidt, executive chef of the Waldorf Astoria, with four colleagues of equal stature, were the critical judges. The Hotel Sonesta of Hartford was awarded first place with the Preston Hill Inn, Waverly Inn and Statler-Hilton following in that order.

The top prizes are given for full buffet tables. The judges take into consideration the theme, table arrangement, creativity, culinary quality and, above all, classical work. These tables must include foods representative of an entire meal plus centerpiece.

Individual pieces are submitted in various categories, such as best meat arrangement, best fish, best baked goods, etc.

Over a four-year period, I would say this is one of the best shows yet. I was delighted to find that the Manchester Community College had entered a table in the students category, for which they won a citation.

The E. C. Goodwin Technical School in New Britain had a most outstanding display of sugar work. The judges thought so, too, and awarded it prizes for the most original work by students and for outstanding achievement. Its "Cinderella's Castle" was further awarded the Chairman's Trophy. My favorite was Cinderella's Coach.

Gerald Catalone, executive chef of Glastonbury Hills Country Club, is a top winner for the fourth time running. For his classical arrangement of pork, he was awarded best of show in the meat category. He expertly did a loin of pork, a rolled and stuffed saddle, and individual chops, the whole garnished with hollowed small potatoes filled with peas and carrots and turned mushrooms in jelly molds. Gerry likes to display on a mirror, which greatly enhances his perfect artistry.

Joseph Gaudreau, chef-manager of Crestfield Convalescent Hospital, almost took the best in show award for his "Sculptured Nude" executed completely in sugar. His accurate table pieces with architecture. It is easy to understand his feelings when you look upon Cicerelli's castle or a contemporary resort hotel complete with monorail, all executed in sugar icing, a perfect medium for fairyland-like centerpieces.

A first-time entry for Flo Bombardier of Flo's Cake Decorating in Manchester is strictly a centerpiece. Created of royal icing, the white cake top represents a lily pond with swans and a bridge. Surrounding the pond is a collar of royal icing which extends beyond the edge of the cake.

Joseph Gaudreau, chef-manager of Crestfield Convalescent Hospital, shows his sculptured nude, the sweet lady who has occupied many hours of his time recently. Carried to the culinary exhibit on a mattress in the back of a van, the lady won a citation silver cup for her creator.

Best of show award in the meat category was taken by Gerald Catalone, executive chef of Glastonbury. A consistent winner at the Culinary Arts Exhibit, Gerry's display of pork featured a loin, a rolled and stuffed saddle, and individual chops.

Manchester Community College entered three exhibits in the show for the first time, and this exhibit won for MCC a citation. The elaborate arrangement featuring a crown roast of pork is the work of Gregory Germain of Manchester. He was assisted by Dan Iwanicki of Meriden. Mark Hilton, Manchester, presented a sample of his work at the same table.

LONDON (AP) - The world's press generally denounced the shooting down of a Libyan airliner by Israel last week after it unintentionally crossed into Israeli airspace. The crash killed 106 of 113 persons aboard.

Common fears and interests are great levelers of ideological walls, the Daily Telegraph said, "and old-fashioned diplomacy reasserting itself makes friends of those who have nothing in common."

The Hong Kong Communist newspaper Ta Kung Pao said the agreement will result in "normalization of China-U.S. relations" and will "contribute to the relaxing of Asian and world tensions."

The London Daily Express called for a full inquiry and said the guilty should be punished and the relatives of the victims compensated so as "to remove a terrible stain from Israel's honor."

The agreement between the United States and Communist China to establish liaison offices in their respective capitals was generally well received - except in the press of Nationalist China.

The development, said Asahi Shimbun, Japan's largest newspaper, "is an indication that both the United States and China have finally taken the step to normalize relations substantially by temporarily shelving the question of solving the Taiwan problem."

Tokyo's Mainichi Shimbun said the agreement shows that the United States, Communist China and North Vietnam "are determined to play a major role in postwar Indo-Chinese relations" and will minimize Japan's role in the area.

Taiwan newspapers strongly criticized the agreement. "The United States has

Primaries Opposed

HARTFORD (AP) - The political lessons of 1972 indicate that Connecticut should not rush into a presidential primary, Secretary of State Gloria Schaffer said Tuesday.

Mrs. Schaffer told the legislature's Elections Committee that Connecticut does not have a presidential primary, but picks its national convention delegates at the state conventions.

Mrs. Schaffer put in a good word for Connecticut's traditional convention system of picking candidates, a convention composed of delegates chosen in a free and open manner can be an excellent deliberative body and should have an important role to play.

Tourism Promotion Urged

HARTFORD (AP) - Connecticut could be making more money on tourists just by slowing them down on their way to the other New England states.

Feinberg said he understood that "some of our northern neighbors" in New England schedule their highway maintenance and construction projects with maximum effect during the summer tourist season so motorists will get discouraged and pull off the road to local restaurants and motels.

Feinberg said his goal is to increase tourist spending in Connecticut to $1 billion a year. However, he conceded that Connecticut could never compete with Vermont in skiing attractions.

THREE STRIKES DETROIT (AP) - A 48-year-old unemployed Detroit man made three arrests recently and found himself in jail. In the first place, he allowed himself to be observed while stealing a typewriter from an office at Wayne State University.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Prisoner at Large!
Security was so lax at a state penitentiary that prisoners could get whiskey, drugs, and even escape without too much trouble. One night a hardened criminal stole a gun and made good his escape. He was recaptured within a few hours, but not until he had invaded a nearby home and shot a housewife in the leg. In due course, she demanded damages from the state. "They run that jail too carelessly," she charged in court. "Escapes are common. Furthermore, they knew that this particular criminal was dangerous. Therefore, the government is to blame for my being shot."

The court agreed, and the woman won a substantial verdict. Injuries inflicted by escaped prisoners are leading to a growing number of damage claims against either prison officials or the state itself. The law says that prison officials must be run with fair regard for the safety of those outside the walls. Nevertheless, the authorities are not to blame if the escape could not reasonably have been prevented. Nor are they liable, even though negligent, if the injury to the outside citizen was not reasonably foreseeable. Thus: Another escaping prisoner, commanding a posse of auto-mobiles, caused the driver to suffer a fatal heart attack. But in this case the prisoner had a good record, with nothing to forewarn officials that he could be dangerous if he got loose. Accordingly, when the victim's family filed suit for damages, the court threw them down.

What if an escapee steals a car and then, driving recklessly, knocks down an innocent pedestrian? In such circumstances, courts have generally rejected the victim's claim for damages, even though prison officials were at fault. Reason: although officials should have foreseen that the prisoner might run away, they could scarcely have foreseen that he would also be a bad driver.

SNETCO Earnings Increase

NEW HAVEN (AP) - Southern New England Telephone Co. reported 1972 earnings Tuesday of $3.88 per common share, an increase from the $3.19 per share earned in 1971. Alfred W. Van Sinderen, SNET president, said the company reported a gain of 80,000 telephones in service during 1972, about the same increase recorded in 1971, but he said toll calling increased by 8.5 per cent compared to a 5.5 per cent increase in the previous year. The utility's increased earnings, Sinderen said, resulted in part from a rate increase approved by the Public Utilities Commission early in 1972 and from increased internal expenditure controls. Sinderen said revenues last year totaled $394,429,000, a 15.9 per cent increase from 1972, while expenses totaled $238,150,000, up 11.5 per cent from the previous year. Net income totaled $39,265,000, a 25.7 per cent increase over 1971.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Samuel J. Tilden received a majority popular vote in the 1876 presidential election, but wasn't chosen because he lacked one electoral vote due to a dispute over electoral votes from four states. Congress then appointed a special electoral commission comprised of eight Republicans and seven Democrats who elected Rutherford B. Hayes by a strict party vote. The World Almanac notes.

*ROAST FRESH HAM WITH SAUERKRAUT
1. Half fresh ham
2. tablespoons soy sauce salt and pepper
1. No 2 1/2" can or two pound bag Grand Union soup/rot
1/2 cup chopped onion
1. teaspoon caraway seeds
2. Preheat oven to 325° F.
2. Place fresh ham, fat side up, in roasting pan. With sharp knife score ham by cutting through fat down to the flesh. Make parallel cuts, about one inch apart, first lengthwise then crosswise.
3. Rub soy sauce onto top of scored fat and sprinkle with salt and pepper.
4. Roast approximately 40 to 45 minutes per pound until meat thermometer inserted into thickest part of meat reads 185 F.
5. When roast is done, heat sauerkraut, chopped onion, and caraway seed, together in a saucepan.
6. Skim fat from roasting pan, then add 1/2 cup water to drippings and stir.
7. Add 4-6 tablespoons of the liquid from roasting pan into the sauerkraut, stir and heat through.
8. Surround roast with sauerkraut and serve. Serves 1-2 people per pound fresh ham as purchased.

Social Security

Q. I retired in July 1972 and have been collecting Social Security benefits since that time...

A. Yes there is. You must complete an annual report of earnings for 1972...

Q. My mother is collecting Social Security benefits. Last year she earned $1,752...

A. You mother must complete an annual report of earnings which she can obtain by contacting our office...

Q. My mother-in-law was told by a friend that if a person collects only one Social Security check in a year...

A. It does not. You may file an income tax report but you still must file an annual report with Social Security...

Q. Can you tell me who must file an annual report of earnings?

A. Any person who (1) is entitled to one or more benefits for 1972 and (2) had total earnings of over $1,680 for the year...

Q. Is the $1,680 a person is allowed to earn counted from the date he or she retires?

A. No. Earnings for the entire year are counted regardless of when you retired.

Columbia Annual Town Meeting Set For Saturday

VIRGINIA CARLSON Correspondent T-1, 228-9224

The annual March town meeting will be held Saturday at 8 p.m. in Yeomans Hall. The agenda has been set and includes nine items.

Another item calls for authorizing the selectmen to name a five-member panel to study the feasibility of converting to a uniform fiscal year.

Newton Voters To Ballot On School Funds

NEWTON (AP) — The Newton Taxpayers' Group has secured the necessary petition signatures to force a community referendum on a Board of Education proposal...

The petitioners were filed Monday and the special Town Meeting scheduled for tonight to consider the school board's request will be asked to set a date and place for the referendum.

The school board seeks the additional funds to cover teacher salary increases and a $12,000 repair job to a septic system at the middle school.

Baseball Bad Man Now Highest Paid

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Just a year ago, Dick Allen was baseball's bad man. No team, it seemed, was willing to put up with his idiosyncrasies for very long.

The Chicago White Sox took their turn with the temperamental slugger last season, acquiring him from the Los Angeles Dodgers in exchange for pitcher Tommy John. Now the White Sox are not only willing to put up with Allen, they're paying him more money than any player in the history of the major leagues.

Allen, who changed the White Sox from an also-ran into a solid pennant contender, signed a three-year contract Tuesday for $675,000.

The previous top salary in baseball was negotiated by Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves, who is in the second year of a three-year contract for $600,000.

Allen's remark on the contract was: "I can't count that high."

The White Sox' first baseman wasn't the only slugger signed to a six-figure pact Tuesday. Frank Robinson of the California Angels, acquired from the Dodgers in an off-season deal, signed a two-year contract for a reported $300,000.

"We have recognized what he has done in the past and what he can do in the future for us," said Angels General Manager Harry Dalton.

Allen, who will be 31 next month, broke into the majors with the Philadelphia Phillies in 1964. He was traded to the St. Louis Cardinals where he played one year before being traded to the Dodgers for another one-year stint.

When he learned about his trade to the White Sox, Allen reportedly was reluctant to sign. He finally came to terms for $130,000 and turned out to be a bargain.

He led the American League with 37 home runs and 118 runs batted in and his .308 average was only 10 points shy of batting champion Rod Carew of the Minnesota Twins. He was voted the American League's Most Valuable Player and proved to be a boon for the White Sox.

"I'm excited about this ball club after the way we played last season," said Allen. "There's no doubt in my mind that we can win the pennant."

Sluggish Rusty Staub agreed to a three-year, $330,000 deal with the New York Mets—but General Manager Bob Scheffing said a fringe benefit clause was holding up the contact signing.

"There's something Rusty wants, but I don't want to give it to him," Scheffing said.

Cincinnati Reds' catcher Johnny Bench, who underwent surgery for a benign lesion in his right lung during the off-season, said he could not force any problems with his throwing arm.

"I've been throwing for two days and there's nothing but the normal stiffness you get after two days," Bench said.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said in Boston that the new three-year agreement between the players and club owners would provide "three years of peace."

Baseball Commissioner Speaks Up

Bowie Kuhn Opposes All Legalized Betting

BOSTON (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn says that legalizing widespread sports betting would undermine the integrity and popular acceptance of both professional and amateur sports in the United States.

Kuhn led some high-powered opposition Tuesday to proposed legislation that would legalize off-track and general sports betting in Massachusetts.

Both Kuhn and state Atty. Gen. Robert H. Quinn told a legislative hearing they doubted that state-operated legal betting would siphon off money that flows into the illegal gambling operations of organized crime.

Kuhn appeared in person before the joint Committee on Government Regulation. Quinn expressed his sentiments in a letter to the committee.

Sports officials, race track spokesmen and several state representatives expressed strong criticism of the proposal at a day-long hearing Tuesday.

Most of the outnumbered backers of legalized betting at the hearing were officials of the 11-month old Massachusetts State Lottery and several members of the committee, including both chairmen.

Rep. Robert B. Ambler, D-Weymouth, House chairman, told the baseball commissioner that, "The attitude of professional sports is parochial. Inadvertently you're joining hands with organized crime."

One of the five bills before the committee was based on a study it performed last year.

Kuhn told the committee legalization will create "untold numbers of new gamblers" whose new-found interest will fuel the business of illegal betting.

The illegal bookie, Kuhn said, "is going to take the new customers you've created and take them over to his side of the road."

State sanctioned betting, the commissioner argued, will be unable to compete successfully because of the services, like "loan-shark" credit, that illegal bookies will provide.

Basketball

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The proposed Russian basketball tour of the United States is "an ill-conceived television venture which is not in the best interest of the American athlete," says Walter Byers, executive secretary of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The tour, proposed by the Columbia Broadcasting System and the Amateur Athletic Union is "a disservice to the sport and is injurious to the USA's international sports reputation," he said Tuesday.

"It should not take place," Byers said.

The East Side Red will conduct a one-on-one basketball contest for boys 14-15 years of age starting Friday at 7 o'clock.

Gromam's pulled out a 29-18 triumph over Nassau last Saturday. Pete Curran (12), Ken Wojnoranski (8) and Rich Roy (7) propelled the winning attack. In the second half, Wyman Oluf stepped the community 7, 30-18. Craig Ostroff, Scott Roman and Scott Sheldon paced the victors' offense with 13, 7 and 6 points. Ralph Maccaroni and Todd Talaga led the losers in scoring with eight and five markers.

CHICAGO — Top-seeded Marty Riessen, Evanston, Ill., beat Denmark's Torban Ulrich, 6-7, 6-2, 6-3 in the opening round of the $50,000 Kemper Invitational Tennis Tournament.

HAMPTON, Va. — Top-seeded domestic player Jimmy Connors, Belleville, Ill., swept by Byron Bertram, South Africa, 63, 6-3, in the second round of the compulsory figures section over arch rival Janet Lynn, Rockford, Ill., in the World Figure Skating Championships.

BRATISLAVA, Czechoslovakia — Karen Magnusson, Canada, held a slight lead after the compulsory figures section over arch rival Janet Lynn, Rockford, Ill., in the World Figure Skating Championships.

PRIDE: Something Special For East Catholic Cagers

By Dean Yost

"PRIDE: It is a special thing we have here," commented Stan Ogrodnik, varsity basketball coach at East Catholic High School for the past five seasons.

Ogrodnik was an assistant to Burns for his five years, so all told, he has been with the system for 10 seasons.

"We have had outstanding character and personalities here," Ogrodnik added.

"I have coached a lot of 'great' players, but I would never get pined down by naming my best five choices. Guys like a Tim Kearns, or a Ray LaGace, are probably the best natural players to come to East."

"Take for example a player like Bill Gorra. From my earlier statement about pride and dedication, he is one boy who has worked hard and has become an outstanding individual. When he was a freshman he knew he had to work hard and long to reach the caliber of some of the departed players."

The All-State players to come out of East Catholic were Tom Malin; Ray LaGace, twice named to the selection; Jim Reynolds; Tim Kearns, also a duplicate performer, and Ed Fitzgerald.

Since first entering tournament play in 1963-64 with only juniors, the first senior graduation class was in 1965, the Eagles sport an impressive 29-5 tourney slate.

Knicks Super Over Celtics

NEW YORK (AP) — "Name anything you want to name about the game of basketball — they did it well," said Boston captain John Havlicek shortly after his Celtics were drubbed by the New York Knicks 123-91 Tuesday night.

"The Knicks were at the top of their game, constantly pressuring the Celtics on defense and hitting their outside shots on offense. They broke the contest open by scoring 18 straight points during the first half, then put it away with a 44-point fourth quarter."

By winning New York cut Boston's lead in the National Basketball Association's Atlantic Division race to three games.

"We played good, aggressive defense," declared the Knicks' Dave DeBusschere, who scored eight of those 18 points as New York jumped in front 40-19.

"They had a real frustrating evening," DeBusschere said. "They tried to fast break — and we were back on defense to stop 'em. Bill Bradley did a great job stopping Havlicek, one of Bill's better games."

Havlicek, who's playing despite a painful inflammation in his right knee, sank just four of 21 field goal attempts and was limited to 11 points by Bradley's constant hounding and the Knicks' alert team defense.

In other NBA games, Detroit defeated Golden State 114-100, Houston beat Buffalo 112-105, Baltimore edged Cleveland 99-85, Atlanta squeaked by Seattle 131-130, Chicago beat Portland 125-110 and Kansas City-Omaha upended Los Angeles 107-103.

In the night's only American Basketball Association clash, Utah beat Kentucky 103-97.

The Knicks had a balanced scoring attack, with Frazier and Phil Jackson being the top men with 20 apiece. Jackson scored 15 of his points in the final period, when both coaches emptied their benches. Bradley tallied 17, DeBusschere 16, Jerry Lucas 15, Earl Monroe 13 and Dean Meminger 10.

For Boston, Don Chaney was high man with 18 points. Dave Cowens added 15 points and hauled down a game-high 17 rebounds.

It was New York's third consecutive victory over Boston and fourth triumph in six meetings this season. Do the Knicks think they can catch the Celtics?

"They've got a lot of games to lose yet in order to make in the playoffs," observed Lucas, noting that Boston still holds a five-game lead in the loss column.

"I'd rather we didn't beat the top so badly," said Frazier. "They'll be all psyched up next time."

Little Chance Seen for Major Sports

If you are looking forward to the day major sports competition between teams representing Manchester High and East Catholic High, don't lose any sleep waiting for this to become a reality.

Perhaps tiddlywinks, checkers, chess or croquet contests may be staged between students of the two Manchester-based schools, but certainly not baseball, basketball and football.

According to a release, dated Feb. 8, which was addressed to "Dear Parents" of East students, which just happened to come across this desk, perhaps by mistake, the Rev. Robert Saunders, principal, stated his views.

Exception was taken to a story, and column, in The Herald that stated that athletic activities, such as club or school, "are not expected to take place on a major scale until the fall of 1974."

Letters to Parents
Father Saunders wrote in his letter to parents: "The meeting was exploratory in nature and as much or more discussion was devoted to the problems that accompany intramural athletic competition as to anything else."

The rivalry would be a disadvantage for both schools (and not mentioned in the newspaper.)

"The great obstacle to athletic competition, in addition to the danger of intra-city rivalry, is of course the disparate sizes of the two schools. For the purposes of fair competition, the Connecticut Interscholastic Conference (CIAC) classifies schools according to boy enrollment in three upper grades. Manchester High is in a high classification with 1,000 boys enrolled as compared to East's 387."

"Non-competitive class activities between East and Manchester High will be encouraged and while careful consideration will be given to athletic competition, as present, we see the disadvantages far outweigh any advantages. At present we do compete in wrestling and we may well enter into sports such as golf, tennis, cross country etc., where there are no problems of spectator control."

That's the picture from the man who pulls the strings at East Catholic.

Times Have Changed
How the times have changed. Not too many years ago, East wanted to schedule Manchester High in as many sports as possible. Manchester rejected the move. Now the show's on the other foot.

Father Saunders made one point, Manchester is more than twice the size of East in male enrollment. No argument there.

However, there isn't any question that East gets as many, if not more athletes, than Manchester draws from within the town limits. East's enrollment is open to several surrounding communities.

Manchester High coaches would like to have some of this fine home-grown talent that is sprinkled on the fine East major and minor sports teams each year.

The rivalry would be a disadvantage for both schools (and not mentioned in the newspaper.)

Rham Board To Review Overcrowding Solutions

ANNE EMT

Tel. 228-3971

The Regional District 8 Board of Education has scheduled an informational meeting for 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Rham High School auditorium to review possible courses of action to solve overcrowding in the school.

Among the possibilities presented to the board earlier this week by Dr. David Cattanaach, superintendent of schools, were four miscellaneous possibilities, the accommodation of 1,250 pupils in the present facilities, the retention of 7th grades in home schools or the use of the other facilities in communities.

Also, the provision of relocated classrooms, double sessions for 7th and 8th grade only with 7th through 12th following a full day schedule, and double sessions for grades 7 through 12 with 9th through 12th going in the morning and 7th and 8th going in the afternoon.

Offer Little
Included in the miscellaneous possibilities, which Dr. Cattanaach referred to as "offering very little if any possibilities for next year" were a four-day week, year-round school, night high school and an 8-period day.

As for the possibility of retaining the 7th grades in home schools or by using other facilities in three district towns, Dr. Cattanaach felt there could be no reasonable way to do it.

Also, this alternative would provide an inadequate educational program if it could be done with many special areas such as industrial arts and home economics having to be dropped from the curriculum. It would also require an amendment to the plan of regionalization.

In addition, the present high school staff members are not certified to teach 7th graders in a self-contained classroom.

And finally, community facilities aren't available to house 120 pupils.

Present Facilities
The third alternative to accommodate all pupils in the present facilities would necessitate dropping at least 23 courses in addition to reducing pupil program choices significantly in grades 9 through 12 affecting both pre-college and vocationally oriented students.

This alternative would also limit student use of the library, increase the number of study halls as well as the number of students in each study hall and could cause dangerous situations in the hallways and in any emergency condition.

There would also be no room to place additional teachers to handle the increased enrollment, the hot lunch program would have to be eliminated, and eating time for cold lunches would be reduced to 12 minutes.

The only positive advantages of this alternative, as mentioned by Dr. Cattanaach, would be that fewer additional teachers would be required, because of program reduction and lack of space for them to work, and it would avoid double sessions.

Relocation Classrooms
The last three alternative-relocated classrooms, double sessions for the 7th and 8th grades, and double sessions for the entire school—received the most consideration from the board.

However, the negatives on relocated classrooms far surpassed the positives, only one as mentioned by Dr. Cattanaach. This was to avoid double sessions.

Listed on the negative side was the cost for five relocatable classrooms of approximately $100,000. Seventy per cent of this, however, would be reimbursable the following year but the district would have to assure the state they would be used for 10 years, even if only for storage in the future.

The use of these classrooms would still require seven additional staff members and necessitate the reduction in course offerings in 12 subjects.

In addition, pupil program choices would be reduced significantly in grades 9 through 12; the use of the library would be limited; and as in the case of accommodating students in home facilities, study halls would increase, as would the possibility of dangerous situations in hallways, and the hot lunch program would be eliminated.

Double Sessions
Double sessions for 7th and 8th grades only would have the 9th through 12th grades attending from 7:45 a.m. to 1:40 p.m., the 7th grade from 7:45 a.m. to 12:10 p.m. and the 8th graders from 12:16 p.m. to 4:36 p.m.

With the entire school on double sessions, 9th through 12th grade would attend from 7:45 to 12:10 and the 7th and 8th grades from 12:16 to 4:36.

In both instances transportation costs would increase significantly—approximately $47,000 for just the 7th and 9th grade on double sessions and approximately $70,000 for the entire school on double sessions.

Also, in both cases, programs would have to be reduced. The 7th and 8th graders, if on double sessions, would lose out on industrial arts, art, music, physical education, health and language. Program choices for grades 9-12 would be affected if the entire school was on double sessions, in that there would be a necessity of tightening up scheduling to a six-period day.

Both alternatives for double sessions would require approximately nine more teachers and both would eliminate activities and after school assistance opportunities for 7th and 8th graders. They would also require increases in cleaning and maintenance of the building.

Prevent Development
Double sessions for 7th and 8th grades only would also prevent development of teaching responsibilities directed toward junior high age only. With the changes at midday it would add to confusion and the problem of overcrowding.

On the other hand, double sessions for the entire school would increase the pace of the day for grades 9 through 12 with less time for adjustment between academic subjects, and would reduce and complicate extra-curricular programs for grades 9 through 12.

Double sessions for the entire school would also necessitate dropping the lunch program entirely, except for cold lunch possibilities for 9 through 12 staying for activities.

On the positive side of double sessions for 7th and 8th grades only is that this course of action would affect fewer pupils than total double sessions; it would provide 10 additional rooms and increase the availability of special facilities; it would retain the ability to meet 9-12 course offerings presently being offered.

Also, lunch room overcrowding would be reduced and it would save the hot lunch program for grades 9-12; there would be less effect on 9-12 extra curricular activities, although some problems centered around gymnasium availability would still exist; and study halls for the 7th and 8th graders would be reduced.

Better Program?
Double sessions for the entire school would separate junior high from senior high students at the same time creating the possibility for better program design for middle school age youngsters and facilitating a move to a new middle school when and if constructed.

Double sessions would also allow and force teacher assignments which provide specialization for junior high students; would provide less crowded and safer school situations; would reduce aid cost compared to 7th and 8th double sessions only; and would reduce study hall assignments for all pupils.

Band Boosters
Next year's European Tour will be one of the main topics of discussion at the Rham Band Boosters meeting Monday evening at 8 in the cafeteria at the high school. A decision on the pending name change of the organization will also be made.

Parents and interested friends of both instrumentalists and vocalists are urged to attend and become active members of the group.

Andover PZC Doesn't Act On Kennels

ANNE EMT
Correspondent
Tel. 228-3971

Following a public hearing Monday evening, the Andover Planning and Zoning Commission voted not to take any action on a request from Michael Sherman of Simsbury for a proposed dog kennel, not to exceed 25 dogs, on Bailey Rd. The commission's action was based on the grounds that Sherman does not have enough land for a kennel.

Sherman's plans called for use of the existing building on property presently owned by Robert Leighton, who has an existing kennel permit.

The building would be moved back approximately 200 feet into the woods, and improvements would be made with respect to sanitation and ventilation.

Sherman stated he has an agreement to purchase land but could present no written agreement to the commission.

About ten persons attended the hearing opposing the proposed kennel which would be located within close enough proximity to the Hickory Hills subdivision that it could be affected by noise.

Anniversary Unit Meets Thursday In Hebron
