

Testimonial May 17 Honors Bob Digan

Robert J. Digan, Manchester's coordinator of youth services, will be honored May 17 at a special dinner of appreciation for more than a dozen years of his concern for and assistance to the young people of the community.

The dinner will be at the Manchester Country Club, with Atty. Vincent L. Diana serving as toastmaster. Others involved in planning the tribute are: W. J. Godfrey Gourley, an organizer and member of the Drug Advisory Council; Town Clerk Edward J. Tomkiel; Police Chief James M. Reed; Paul Moss, president of the Drug Advisory Council; and assistant administrator at Manchester Memorial Hospital; and Dr. Robert Slanton.

Digan joined the Manchester school system in 1960 as supervisor of attendance and quickly won recognition for his support and warm concern for the youth of the town.

A graduate of St. Michael's College and with a master's degree from Notre Dame University, Digan serves as probation officer in South Bend, Ind., social worker for the State of Massachusetts, and director for the Connecticut Juvenile Court before coming to Manchester.

In 1967 he was named coordinator of youth services—the first position of its kind in Connecticut. Since then he has contributed his time, help and encouragement in many avenues of community service. He helped create and develop a Youth Commission, as part of Manchester's town government. He initiated "Smarteens," to combat

Fraternity Cites Rogers

Dr. John E. Rogers of Manchester (center), consultant in black history and culture at the University of Hartford, receives "Man of the Year" award from Carl R. Clay (left), president of Delta chapter of Omega Phi Epsilon fraternity, a black student organization. Presentation of the award was made last week at a testimonial dinner for Rogers. Guest speaker at the dinner was Donald M. Payne (right), founder of the fraternity. The plaque presented to Rogers cites him for his "unfading efforts to enrich" community life and educational institutions through "his extensive knowledge, particularly in the area of black history."

Sandwich Glass Speaker's topic

Sandwich glass is the subject of the April meeting of the Manchester Historical Society Sunday, April 15 at 2 p.m. Arrangements have been made through the Institute of Local History at Manchester Community College for the meeting to be held in the MCC auditorium on Bidwell St.

Raymond E. Barlow of Windham, N.H., a recognized authority on Sandwich glass, is bringing more than 300 pieces from his own collection which he will display and describe. He has collected Sandwich glass for some 20 years and has been lecturing and writing on the topic for over a decade. He is a member of the Sandwich Glass Museum and has done excavations at the site of the factory.

The public is invited to this last meeting of the season for the society, and also to bring antique glassware for authentication.

OEO Dismantling Halted By Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge says the Nixon administration is enjoining Howard Phillips, acting director, from proceeding further with the administration plan to phase out the antipoverty agency.

William B. Jones issued a broadly worded order Wednesday enjoining Phillips, acting director, from proceeding further with the administration plan to phase out the antipoverty agency.

Jones said the administration could not unilaterally terminate OEO programs established by Congress as long as funds are appropriated for them. His decision came on suits filed by a union local representing government workers and a Missouri rural redevelopment corporation.

He urged President Nixon to replace what he called "Howie Phillips and his wrecking crew" with managers who carry out the Economic Opportunity Act as he said, the union members want to violate the laws of the United States.

Hospital Cost Control Bill Clears Assembly

HARTFORD (AP) — A bill for a state commission to control hospital costs, with the power to set rates and cut budgets, cleared the Connecticut General Assembly Wednesday.

Gov. Thomas J. Meskill hailed the passage. "I believe the state can no longer sit idly by and watch hospital charges bring financial ruin to families," he said.

The bill received final legislative approval in the Senate 24-4, after a lengthy attempt by Democrats to reduce the power of the commission.

Many of those who voted for it expressed reluctance and concern that the commission might reduce the quality of health care. But they said the escalating cost of medicine had to be checked.

The 15-member cost commission will review the budgets of hospitals under the control of Connecticut's 36 private hospitals, nursing homes and other private health facilities beginning July 1, 1974.

Hospitals must receive approval for rate increases greater than 6 per cent of capital projects between $25,000 and $100,000. Lesser amounts do not need approval.

Nursing homes must receive approval for any rate increase over the 4 per cent a year.

The commission will conduct hearings prior to granting rate increases, or approving annual budgets and the commission's power to "approve, deny or modify" hospital budgets.

Sen. George Gunther, R-Stratford, said the bill took a "pragmatic" approach to the problem of high hospital costs and went beyond the concept of controlling costs.

Sen. Joseph Paulino, D-Hartford, said the commission could "punish" hospitals that voted for the final bill, however.

Retiring Republican Leaders Honored

SOL R. COHEN (Herald reporter)

About 250 friends, associates and family of M. Adler Dobkin and Mrs. Saundra Taylor, Manchester mayor and vice mayor, respectively, gathered for a testimonial dinner last night at the Sheraton Hotel.

"We who run for public office," said Agostinelli, "think we're pretty good, but we'd never be elected if not for people like Adler and Saundra working for us. If I have any success at all in public office, I owe it to the workers—the people behind every candidate."

Many Democrats and independents were present — and they weren't limited to Manchester people — there were many from out of town.

One who didn't make it was Republican State Chairman J. Brian Gaffney, who was to have been the featured speaker.

Agostinelli remarked, people never looked at Adler as a Republican or a Democrat. They looked upon him as a friend — and that's the way he wanted it.

Agostinelli presented Dobkin and Mrs. Taylor with framed letters of appreciation and well wishes from Gov. Thomas Meskill.

The invocation was by Carl Zinsner, former town director. Musical entertainment was by The Illusions, one of the top women barbershop quartettes in the East.

John F. Shea Jr., himself a former Manchester GOP chairman, served as master of ceremonies. After introducing the guests at the head table, he introduced some of the dignitaries at other tables.

They included Democratic Town Chairman Ted Cummings; State Sen. David Odagard; State Reps. Donald Genovesi and Francis Mahoney, former Judge of Probate John Wallcut, former Republican State Chairman and now PUC chairman Howard Hausman, State Gaming Commission Chairman Paul Silverfield and Deputy Agriculture Commissioner Fenton P. Futterer.

Shea read messages of congratulations for Dobkin and Mrs. Taylor from Mayor John Thompson, U.S. Sen. Lowell Weicker and U.S. Rep. Robert Steele.

Important Changes
WASHINGTON (AP) — An Environmental Protection Agency official says EPA's little-noticed change in position on 1975 nitrogen-oxide limits in automobile exhausts is far more significant than its delay in forcing abatement of two other pollutants.

If Congress accepts EPA's views, auto makers may have to provide little or no control of nitrogen oxide beyond what already applied to today's cars.

That would make it a lot easier for them to meet the tough carbon-monoxide and hydrocarbon limits which were imposed Wednesday from their original 1975 deadline to 1976.

Tolland Voters Okay Charter Revision Plan

VIVIAN V. KENNESON
Correspondent

Tolland voters approved the revised charter yesterday by 39 votes. Approximately 33 per cent of eligible voters participated in the referendum which created a position of town manager for Tolland.

Total votes cast in favor of the revision was 672, which was above the necessary minimum of 15 per cent of the town's electorate.

Folke Erickson, leader of a group opposed to the change, said "they fought a good hard fight — the people have spoken." Charter Revision Committee Chairman William Summers III said that last night was the end of a long work process for his committee.

Kevin Cavanaugh and Robert Dumont, co-chairmen of the Citizens for Charter Committee, gave credit for the approval to the Planning and Zoning Commission and the voters, for being "aware." Cavanaugh, an active Democrat and Dumont, former Republican selectman, attributed the effectiveness of their committee to the fact that it was completely bi-partisan.

They expressed the hope that the two parties working together would carry over into the new council.

Several changes will take place once the provisions of the charter go into effect this fall. The most obvious change is that the chief executive officer of the town will be the town manager "who shall serve at the pleasure of the selectmen." The board of selectmen will be expanded from three to seven members who will serve without pay.

The manager shall appoint, subject to approval of the selectmen, the treasurer, town clerk, tax collector, building in-

Beyond Watergate

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are indications that the Watergate grand jury is investigating allegations of Republican spying and undercover operations beyond the break-in and bugging of Democratic national headquarters.

Former White House aides Dwight Chapin and Gordon Strachan and a California attorney, Donald Segretti, were questioned Wednesday.

Both Chapin and Strachan have been linked in various published accounts to allegations of political spying and sabotage.

Town Plans Told Downtown Group

The Town of Manchester is proceeding with plans to upgrade the roadway, sidewalks, drainage of Purnell Pl., Town Manager Robert Weiss told the Mayor's downtown Action Committee this morning and hopefully the work will be done this spring.

Weiss, noting that the town is still doing engineering work for the project, said the work will probably include repaving of the street, restoration of sidewalks on the east side of the street, installation of drainage system, and reorganization of layout of the Purnell Parking Lot.

The street needs total reconstruction, Weiss said, but funds are not available for a complete job. The improvement project, to be funded by the town's highway maintenance account, will cost about $5,000, Weiss estimated.

Also included in the project will be radium improvements at the corner of Purnell Pl. Weiss said the sidewalk to be restored will be of bituminous construction, he noted, as construction of sidewalks would be too expensive.

Improvements to the roadway are considered a high priority, Weiss said, noting that the need for improvements was mentioned at last week's downtown committee meeting.

In other business this morning, Robert Weisberg told the committee that his finance subcommittee has received checks or pledges totaling $4,500 in the fund-raising effort to pay for a downtown planning consultant.

The committee chairman, a William Steinh asked Weisberg to come in with a financial picture next Thursday, when the committee is scheduled to meet with the planning consultant.

Democrat Leaders Huddle To Work Out Controls Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Facing almost certain defeat in their drive for a tough rollback bill, House Democratic leaders huddle today to seek a compromise or a temporary extension of the existing economic-control law.

Tentative agreement was reached Wednesday on a 60-day extension of the president's discretionary control powers which expire April 30.

That agreement was reached after a Banking Committee measure for stiff controls ran into heavy opposition in the House Rules Committee.

The Rules panel hearings were recessed until next week, leaving little time for final congressional action on the bill before the Easter recess starting April 19 and extending to April 30.

A 60-day extension of existing law could be passed by the House without Rules Committee clearance next Monday, but it could not be amended.

The extension was designed to give the Banking Committee time to draft a new bill to soften opposition from farmers, cattlemen and some business groups.

The original bill would roll back prices, interest rates and rents to Jan. 10, 1973 levels. It is opposed by the Nixon administration, which wants the existing law extended.

Chairman Wright proposed, D-Tex., of the Banking Committee balked at the 60-day extension, which would be considered under procedure carrying amendments.

Noting that his committee had approved the rollback measure by a 21-9 vote, Patman said all House members should be allowed to propose and debate amendments if they want to.

Without Rules Committee clearance, he complained, members "will be denied this right."

"Controls are never an easy solution," Patman said, citing rising living costs and "the averages of runaway inflation."

He blamed President Nixon for having "placed the nation in an economic condition where it must make such tough decisions."

Patman said "special conditions should not be allowed to rule congressional decisions. Congress must have the courage to rise above this."

Sheinwold on Bridge

GOOD TECHNIQUE PRESERVES ENTRIES By ALFRED SHEINWOLD Everybody knows how to take a finesse, but not everybody knows how to economize on entries. The two sometimes go together, and serious bridge players should familiarize themselves with the winning play in today's hand.

West opened the queen of hearts, and South won with the ace. He returned the king of diamonds, and West took the ace. West continued with the jack of hearts and East overtook with the king. East then led the ace of spades with a diamond and South won in dummy with the eight of diamonds.

Declarer needed the rest of the tricks and therefore had to hope that East held both black kings. The problem was to take two spade finesses and one club finesse without getting out of the dummy. Not an easy task.

Book Play Wins It was easy for this declarer, however, since he knew the "book" play. He led the queen of spades from dummy. East played low and South played the jack and dummy's queen!

Declarer continued with dummy's ten of spades. East didn't dare cover with the king, for South would take the ace of spades and get back to dummy with the nine. When East played a low spade, dummy's ten held the trick.

Now declarer could shift to clubs, finessing with the queen. This finesse worked also, and South could safely claim the rest of the tricks.

South would lose his game contract if he failed to drop the jack of spades under dummy's queen. He would then have to win the second spade trick with the jack and he would never get back to dummy for a club finesse.

West Germans Now Sure Bormann Died

By OTTO DOELLING Adolf Hitler's attorney General Hans Gaus said. He ordered that the 28-year search for Bormann be terminated and the warrant for his arrest lifted.

Gaus told a news conference that if anyone is arrested on suspicion that he is Bormann, "we will be dealing with an impostor."

Reports of Bormann being seen have come repeatedly from foreign countries since 1945, but none have been confirmed. West German embassies and missions abroad now will be directed to ignore any further reports.

War criminal hunter Simon Wiesenthal attended the news conference and told newsmen that he was 99 per cent satisfied that the skeleton unearthed in West Berlin last December was Bormann's. But he expressed one per cent continuing doubt, saying "there are still hairs in the soup."

Gaus and investigator Joachim Richter based their conclusion on:

- 1. A comparison of the skeleton's teeth with an old sketch from Bormann's dentist.
2. Skull and bone measurements.
3. The discovery of mended fractures in an arm and collarbone, fractures such as Bormann had suffered.
4. Reconstruction of Bormann's face on the basis of the skull of the skeleton.
5. Discovery of glass splinters from a capsule like those used by leading Nazis to commit suicide by cyanide poisoning.

Bormann and Stumpfegger were among seven top Nazis who broke out of the Fuehrer's bunker late on the night of May 1, 1945, a day after Hitler committed suicide.

After running into a Soviet patrol and fleeing, Bormann and Stumpfegger found themselves in a "hopeless situation," Richter said.

Richter said Bormann's family, including his eight children, was satisfied with the results of the investigation and would receive the skeleton for burial as soon as a court order released it.

Bormann, who would be 72 if still alive, was sentenced to death in absentia by the Allied war crimes tribunal in Nuremberg in 1946.

In 1954, a Berchtesgaden court officially declared Bormann dead, based primarily on testimony by former Hitler Youth leader Arthur Axmann.

Axmann, who was in the group that broke out of Hitler's bunker, said he saw the lifeless Bormann and Stumpfegger.

An arrest warrant charging Bormann with mass murder was issued and a $50,000 reward was placed on his head.

Last Dec. 7-8, workmen digging a trench along a commuter line in West Berlin came upon the two bodies subsequently identified as those of Bormann and Stumpfegger.

GREENWICH MAN Seta Record For Circling Globe

GREENWICH (AP) - Harry J. Cooper of Greenwich returned home Wednesday claiming the record for around-the-world travel by scheduled commercial flights.

Cooper, a New York executive, said he left Monday night from Chicago and made the 18,371-mile flight to London, Moscow, Tokyo and back to Chicago by Tuesday in 56 hours, 19 minutes and 33 seconds.

Scheduling improvements made it possible to break the previous record of 41 1/2 hours, set two years ago, he said. Cooper, executive director of the National Association of Greeting Card publishers, said he made the trip to mark the 100th anniversary of publication of the first greeting cards in the United States.

Goldberg Invention Needed

We miss Rube Goldberg.

We are sure the late genius for fabulous contraptions to solve America's problems would have come up with one for the high cost of eating that would work in Manchester or Mankato, Minn.

His cartoon, as we visualized would be named, "The automatic table setter."

The system would start with A, being you or I as we sit at the table; B, would be our body weight actuating a scale which is connected to; C, computer, which would calculate the number of calories we need (or don't) need.

With C's input, K for kitchen, would react accordingly, in that serving of potatoes, gravies, desserts, etc. would be apportioned accordingly.

Conveyor belts would take the thus calculated portions to each chair according to input.

Now Rube, being a student of human nature and knowing man's genius for triumphing over machines, would have some fail-safe systems built into his contraption, we are sure.

Since some of us would be able to eat our allotted portions in milliseconds, the automatic table setter would distribute according to computer C calculation, spoons with holes in them, two-tine forks, and 100 per cent handle butter knives. The person, and there are bound to be a few weak-willed individuals at any table laden with non-teevee dinners, who tries to get seconds would naturally get Goldberg's greatest invention, the boot, applied you know where.

The point of this bit of nostalgic nonsense is that despite all the ways and means being suggested these days for cutting the cost of food in our budgets one of the most fundamental, but perhaps the hardest, is for those of us who are eating too much of everything to eat what we want but only in the amounts we really need.

Of course this would help cut the cost of food for those of us who over-indulge our appetites. We believe that if we are to keep food prices from rising further a little belt tightening might be much more effective than periodic boycott gestures because we will be reducing demand without depriving ourselves of anything except our gluttony.

No Rube Goldberg isn't around anymore and the more we look at ourselves and the country in general, it appears his various and ingenious forms of giving us and our selfish vanities the boot, is more needed than ever before.

Congress Cries, Laughs At Postal System

By LEE RODERICK (Special to The Herald)

WASHINGTON — A diplomat just back from a year stint in Ceylon recently remarked that the pace of mail deliveries in the U.S. didn't bother him.

"After all," he explained, "in Ceylon it took about six months to receive a regular letter from the United States."

For many other Americans, however, the speed — or lack of it — of postal deliveries has become acutely aggravating. Even Postmaster General Elmer T. Klassen, in recent Congressional testimony, admitted his agency has been so "hell-bent" on cutting costs that "we perhaps lost track of services."

Members of Congress are being hard-pressed by their constituents to force corrective action upon the U.S. Postal Service, a quasi-federal corporation which replaced the old Post Office Department in August 1971 with the promise of better service. Instead, by most accounts, the service has deteriorated badly.

"If we assume the Post Service is doing the best it can, there must be something wrong with the system," said Senator Wallace F. Bennett, (R-Utah). The Utah, who has asked the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee to come up with solutions, chronicled some of the complaints from unhappy constituents. Several have said their airmail letters from the East Coast take as long as a week to arrive. A Salt Lake City businessman wrote that an airmail special delivery letter from the West Coast took eight days and that service from Chicago to Salt Lake "is taking six to twelve days if we receive our mail at all."

One writer complained to Senator Bennett that "a person using his own car could deliver his own mail faster than the postal service is doing." California Senator Alan Cranston (D-Calif.) in recent testimony before the Senate Committee, listed five "hasty and ill-advised policy decisions" by the Postal Service which he said has in many areas "slowed mail delivery to a crawl."

The decisions according to Cranston include: (1) a totally unrealistic hiring freeze; (2) a top-heavy administration; (3) good employees who "unwisely were urged to retire early"; (4) attempts to automate mail handling with "untested systems," and (5) reduction of mail service.

Cranston said more than 5,000 Californians have written him during the last year to complain about mail service. However, if the Senator appears pessimistic about the possibility of early improvement, at least he hasn't lost his sense of humor over the situation.

"Postal jobs have become a national pastime," he said in his committee testimony. "White

Today is Thursday, April 12, the 102nd day of 1973. There are 253 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1961, the Soviet Union became the first nation to put a man in space.

Cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin made the East Coast take as long as a week to arrive. A Salt Lake City businessman wrote that an airmail special delivery letter from the West Coast took eight days and that service from Chicago to Salt Lake "is taking six to twelve days if we receive our mail at all."

One writer complained to Senator Bennett that "a person using his own car could deliver his own mail faster than the

Something Good on the Hill

WASHINGTON — Something good has come down from Capitol Hill. It is the long overdue vote for the House Banking and Currency Committee for a rollback of all prices, interest rates and rents to the levels prevailing on Jan. 10, the day before President Nixon deserted the consumer by imposing his bloodless Phase III.

Phase III, if it escaped the notice of some casual reader, in effect permits the seller to charge whatever prices the traffic will bear. Predictably, it has produced a new inflationary surge which among other things begat a national boycott of meat.

Even members of Congress don't know what will happen to the rollback provision of the bill extending the President's authority to establish wage and price controls until April 30, 1974. But if Congress suddenly suffers an attack of sanity, the amendment will be voted with a minimum of footlooseness.

The rollback is needed because in the furor over high food prices everybody seems to have ignored the fact that prices of practically everything else have soared up into the stratosphere. As a result, the farmer has been unfairly cast as inflation's No. 1 villain.

Consider some agriculture Department figures: Prices for all items consumers buy increased 38 per cent from 1953 to 1972, but food prices went up only 47 per cent. Wages during that same 20-year period increased much faster than food prices and now are two and a half times higher than in 1952. Thus, the average family now spends only 15.7 per cent of its after-tax income for food, as against 22 per cent in 1952.

Such statistics of course do not dilute my sympathy for housewives like Mrs. Vincent Ramundo of North Haledon, N.J., and Mrs. Valeria Simonian, another New Jerseyan, who approached the meat boycott in their area. Their families have to eat to live, and they understandably directed their attack against food prices.

But the farmer has to live, too, and he must find it curious if not outrageous that so little attention has been paid to the

No Imports for Japan

Some candid Japanese officials express astonishment that U.S. Ambassador Robert Ingersoll, a hard-charging Chicago industrialist who has performed impressively since arriving here a year ago, should devote so much time to the Sunkist case considering its low dollar potential. They suggest, probably unfairly, that the effort is more to please President Nixon's California constituents than to affect overall trade.

In any event, Japan clearly will not permit a free flow of American farm products, the area where the U.S. can compete efficiently worldwide. Japanese farmers must be protected, an economic close to the government told us, "in order to keep Japan a little like the old Japan. Apart from such sentimentalism, the conservative rural base of the ruling Liberal Democratic party requires agricultural protection. Predictably, in an agriculture minister reported to Tanaka that trade liberalization simply is not feasible.

The American businessman, once 10 feet high in Japanese eyes, is now viewed here as a potential threat to the Japanese market here. The rate Japanese officials will talk frankly about it confide they have no intention of dropping quotas and let IBM control Japan's computer market, a nation's

But in truth, the Japanese seem to be going through the motions to humor the Americans and prevent retaliation against their exports by the U.S. Congress. Officials at the U.S. embassy here, deeply involved in the trade picture, are privately grim. "I would say the import situation is very, very dark," one diplomat told us.

Bay State To Probe Colonial Indian Funds

BOSTON (AP) — The attorney general of Massachusetts plans to appoint a special assistant to determine whether Harvard University has diverted to other use countries-old trust funds intended for the education of American Indians.

In an interview, Atty. Gen. Robert H. Quinn said he intends to appoint a Harvard Law School classmate, Atty. Daniel B. Bickford, to study what happened to funds appropriated in colonial days for the education of Indians.

Monday, an attorney for Harvard appeared before a legislative committee to oppose a bill that would require the university to set up at least 25 trusts to hold the funds. The attorney said the bill was unconstitutional.

Quinn said Bickford, who will serve without pay, would be asked to assess "the legal merits of the case" and determine what has happened to three trust funds—the oldest dating to 1654.

Harvard was founded in 1636. "Ultimately, the attorney general's office has to be involved if there's to be any suggestion of this," said Quinn. If the investigation suggests that Harvard trust funds car-

On-Road Training Cut From Driver Education

On-the-road driver education has been stopped at South Windsor High School because of lack of money. Continued on-the-road training would cost about $3,000 for the rest of the school year, according to Superintendent of Schools Charles Warner.

However, Warner said that classroom driver instruction is still being given.

The Board of Education asked for an additional appropriation of $5,000 from the Town Council last fall, Warner said. So far the council has not taken formal action on the request. Warner said the board cannot "commit more money than we're assured we will have."

Warner added that if the council doesn't give the school board a firm commitment, other educational programs will have to be frozen too.

Drains Cause Concern

An application for a 22-foot subdivision off Abby Rd. in Hermon Maske was a source of concern to area residents at a meeting of the South Windsor Planning and Zoning Commission.

The residents said they were concerned about a drainage problem which they said was already apparent in the area. The PZC asked Maske to get a soil conservation study of the area.

Also asked to get a soil conservation study were the Knights of Columbus who appeared before the PZC to discuss recreation facilities they want to build on property owned by them on Pierce Rd.

The PZC also heard requests from the Achabach Co. of Essex to redivide 14 lots off Simcka Dr. which they want to develop as an open space subdivision; and another request by Herman Maske to rezone 35 acres off Rt. 5 into commercial, industrial, and industrial part.

No action was taken on either request.

The month of April will be a busy one for members of the Coventry Beautification Committee and those townspeople who will be assisting with various BC projects. Two work days, April 14 and 21, will kick off the local school planting project to which many town residents have contributed.

Those wishing to assist in this program should meet at 9 a.m. on either or both of the Saturdays, at the Robertson School. Shrubs, trees and ground cover will be planted around that school. Capt. Nathan Hale School, and the high school.

Recent donations to this project include a gift in memory of Grant Toothaker Sr. from his Ripley Hill neighbors; another in memory of John F. Kennedy, Martin Luther King, Harry Truman and Lyndon Johnson from an anonymous donor; and two gifts from the Conservation Commission, in memory of Al Rosen and Harry McKusick. Other donations will be most welcome.

On April 28, Coventry will observe its annual Rid Litter Day, and the BC is lining up volunteers to clean up each roadside in town. Work that day will begin at 9 a.m. and continue until noon. Trash will be piled at the town dump and all participants will gather for a free lunch at the Plains Athletic Field.

Lunch for this occasion is being prepared by the Mothers Club. Free plastic bags for the clean-up effort will be available for workers at the Booth-Dimock Library and at the police station in the town hall.

As part of its continuing program, the BC recently honored several townspeople for improvements on and care with which they maintain their properties. Those cited were Mr. and Mrs. Peter Thomas, 24 Swamp Rd., Dr. and Mrs. Charles Strout, Broad and Milk St., Mrs. Frances Caruso, Rt. 31; Milda and Leonard Pakostka, Edgewater Dr.; and the Prince of Peace Lutheran Church, Rt. 31.

Finally, the committee reports that its planting program for Coventry village

Police Track Leads In Bolton Slaying

State Police continued today to investigate the Saturday night slaying of package store owner Harry T. "Pete" Miner of Bolton. State Police Sgt. William Buchert reported, "We're pursuing a number of leads," said Sgt. Buchert, who is in charge of criminal investigations at the Colchester Barracks. He declined to reveal any further information of the "leads."

"Our basic opinion, at this time, is that the case is an armed robbery," Buchert stated, although he didn't rule out other possibilities.

Miner was shot at about 8:15 p.m. Saturday as he returned to his Bolton Center Rd. home with the day's receipts from the nearby Six and Forty-Four Package Store, which he owned and operated.

Police have not estimated how much money Miner was carrying when he was shot and killed. However, area businessmen have estimated that Miner probably had about $300 in cash and a like amount in checks.

Sgt. Buchert said today that results of ballistics and fingerprint tests are expected within a few days. The gun used to shoot Miner was a small caliber weapon, he said.

The bullet went through Miner's left hand, chest, and into his right lung, according to Dr. Elliot Gross, state medical examiner. Miner, 47, was pronounced dead on arrival at Manchester Memorial Hospital.

About 15 to 20 state policemen have been working on the case.

As a result of a joint effort by the Conservation and Recreation Commissions, an agreement of cooperation with Donald Summers, Tolland County conservation agent, has been signed for assistance in surveying, establishing drain lines, soil tests and landscaping for a ball field, conservation areas and access road.

The commissions have developed a plan for a ball field and outdoor conservation study area in a section of a proposed "School Tract Plan," located behind the elementary school on town-owned property.

Both commissions feel that recreational and environmental study areas must be provided for the children of Andover and the "School Tract Plan" offers a unique opportunity for this purpose.

Upon completion of the survey and testing, bids will be taken so that a request can be submitted to the Finance Board for revenue sharing funds to make the project a reality.

Earlier this week, at the town's budget hearing it was the consensus of those in attendance that this would be a very worthwhile use of revenue sharing funds.

The First Congregational Church of Andover will present a special musical program featuring the Rham High School Chamber Singers under the direction of Bernard Harshorn, Sunday evening at 7:30 at the church. Following the performance there will be a coffee hour in the social room.

Correction

Last night's story in The Herald on the town's budget hearing should have read that the five department requested funds to purchase new 4-inch hoses (not 4 1/2-inch) as most of the department's hoses is older than the 10 (not 25) years recommended by the National Fire Protection Association.

MINER'S EYE

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP) — To detect perilous conditions and prevent mine disasters, West Virginia University has installed what is believed to be the world's first electronic monitor system for a coal mine.

The experimental system is designed to summon miners from their work places before dangerous conditions produce noticeable signs of crisis.

Technicians have installed sensors at strategic locations in a mine operated by Eastern Associated Coal Corp. near Morgantown. The sensors are connected through data relay stations to the university's engineering sciences building.

A computer analyzes the sensors' findings and signals any danger.

Library Plans Two Programs For Sunday

Two special programs will be held Sunday afternoon at 3 at Mary Cheney Library.

Eliza Taylor Stewart of 179 Boulder Rd., author of the recently published "Fire in Afghanistan" will speak in the Reading Room on her adventures in that Asian nation. All interested persons are invited.

Her book is the story of one of the great national leaders of the 20th century, Amir Amanullah, who took the throne of Afghanistan in 1919 and succeeded in breaking British control over Afghan foreign affairs.

Mrs. Stewart will tell of her experiences in that country, her meetings and interviews with important Afghans, being mistaken for a spy, and her fascination with the study of Afghanistan.

In the Junior Room, Mrs. Joanna Case of the Sunday staff will conduct a program of making egg carton flowers. Materials will be provided. The program is open to children and young people.

Reflections on Economy

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Reflections on the American economy, particularly as they affect the air you breathe, the car you drive and the job you hold.

—You aren't supposed to think very long or profoundly about it, because to do so might bring before you some unnering conclusions about the rationality of the human race. But the facts are that:

1. While the nation fights what is sometimes described as a life-and-death struggle against pollution and congestion from automobiles...
2. While industry and government officials work frantically in an effort to enlarge the producing and distribution facilities of the petroleum industry...
3. The automobile industry is selling gasoline-burning, pollutant-producing cars at a rate greater than ever before achieved, with sales of more than a million units in March bringing first-quarter totals to nearly three million.

But if the goals of more cars, less pollution and congestion, and adequate petroleum supplies appear to be in conflict, the situation isn't any more so than that produced by the lack of planning in a big city apartment house area, where:

1. The city issues a building permit for 150 apartments, with 40-house parking spaces for 40 cars...
2. The state licenses 100 or more automobiles to residents at the address...
3. The city assigns able-bodied policemen to systematically fine those who are forced to park illegally, but makes no attempt before or after construction to remove the problem by enlarging parking facilities.

A job in our industrial society was once something the typical worker tried to forget in his leisure hours. For many workers it still is, but the much maligned 5-day, 40-hour week is probably more important than most people realize.

It is, in fact, the institution around which much of life is being structured.

Dressings Of Pigskin Save Girl

WENATCHEE, Wash. (AP) — Pigskin dressings that have kept nine-year-old Sandra Kimble alive for nearly a month have done their job. Doctors have started making grafts of the youngster's own skin to get her back on her feet.

Sandra, whose nightgown caught fire from an electric heater on March 13, has been receiving daily applications of the skin of pigs under the supervision of Dr. Ben Knecht and physiotherapist Carmen Donsenbrock at Deaconess Hospital. The technique was developed by Dr. Knecht in 1965 at the University of Iowa and pioneered there.

Under the method, pigskin is laid on the burned areas daily after the old skin is washed away. Doctors say it reduces the chance of infection, prevents fluid loss, eases pain and improves the appetite.

Sandra's pigskin dressings, which cost more than $100 a day, came from clean hides of freshly killed swine flown from the Burn Treatment Skin Bank in Phoenix, Ariz.

The hides are treated so as to be sterile, shaved and cut into strips. Rolled over gauze, the pigskin is packaged, sealed and refrigerated.

Sandra needed about two and a half rolls of pigskin every other day. It had to be removed within one to four days or the child's body would have rejected it with violent reaction.

Dr. Knecht, who came to Wenatchee a year ago, says the first 48 hours are crucial in guarding against "burn shock," and that's when the pigskin serves as a savior.

Sandra began receiving grafts of her own skin on various parts of her body on Tuesday.

Goldwater Sees Damage In Bugging

BOSTON (AP) — Republican candidates will lose all over the country next year and the GOP will be out of the White House in 1976 unless President Nixon acts now to clear up the Watergate case, says Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Further, the Arizona Republican said in an interview published by the Christian Science Monitor, the damage done to Nixon's image by the case is drying up special contributions to the GOP.

Goldwater said that when he urged Nixon to speak out on the situation, he was told by the President, "I've already done something." The senator said he was later told Nixon's staff would testify before a grand jury, "which I don't think is enough."

"All of us who support Nixon are going to be on the line in the 1974 election," Goldwater said, adding that he might not support the President if he found out Nixon had known of the bugging of Democratic headquarters in Washington but remained silent.

Concerning contributions to the GOP, the senator said he has received "letters and calls from Republican friends of mine all around the country, and they are saying 'no more money to the Republican National Committee until this (Watergate) is cleared up.'"

Goldwater said now is the time for Nixon to speak out on Watergate.

"He has to," he said. "I don't want to see this man end his term with something hanging over him that will keep the Republicans from electing another president" because people felt they couldn't trust Nixon.

The senator said he believes Republicans can salvage their situation, "if the President was not involved," and if his top aides were not involved. Otherwise, he said, "there's no way."

DREDGING WILL BEGIN GALVESTON, TEX. (AP)

A contract for $64,004 to dredge 20 miles of the Matagorda Ship Channel has been awarded.

Col. Nolan C. Rhodes, district engineer of the Corps of Engineers, said work will restore the channel to authorized dimensions of 35 feet deep by 200 feet wide.

The project calls for dredging approximately 4.3 million cubic yards of material.

Waterbury High Rise Planned

WATERBURY (AP) — The skyline of this city would be altered drastically if the city fathers decide to adopt an urban renewal proposal by a New York City developer.

James Cazanusa offered the Waterbury Urban Renewal Agency a plan to construct four buildings in the downtown business district that would be taller than any presently existing in the city.

Cazanusa' plan calls for building two apartment towers of 25 and 21 stories respectively, each containing 200 units. In addition, he would build a 17-story office building, with an elevated shopping mall and a 10-story hotel.

The plan calls for the Urban Renewal Agency to seek $4 million in federal aid for land acquisition and site clearance. The developer would bear the costs of building the complex, which would then be recovered through leasing the property to tenants.

New London Votes Funds For Renewal

NEW LONDON (AP) — Voters approved a $4 million municipal contribution to the second phase of the city's redevelopment project by a 2-796 to 1,935 vote in a referendum.

The total price tag on the Shaw's Cove project is $27.5 million. The bulk of the money will be provided by the federal and state governments.

The proposal to move the redevelopment program into a second stage was supported by both political parties but was opposed by some citizens, who were concerned the federal government might require the construction of large numbers of additional housing units.

Federal authorities told city officials last week, however, that no additional units would have to be constructed as a condition for federal aid to the project.

Rep. Grasso Wants State Mail Study

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Congressional subcommittee planning to tour the country to study postal service should make a stop in Connecticut, U.S. Rep. Ella T. Grasso, D-Conn., has announced.

Mrs. Grasso said she would provide the Subcommittee on Postal Service with letters from her Connecticut constituents complaining of a deterioration in the performance of the postal system. She said she had received other letters from postal service employees who complain that management policies and a current hiring freeze had resulted in "unnecessary harassment of postal workers," leading to "a severe decline in employee morale."

"Throughout the public turmoil over postal service reform, postal service top management continues to counsel tolerance and patience," Mrs. Grasso said in remarks prepared for a committee hearing. "New programs and fancy machinery are touted and the suggestion is made that the American people are expecting too much of an organization just 20 months old."

"However, further deterioration of mail service was clearly not anticipated, nor is it acceptable," she said.

Waterbury Teachers Vote New Contract

WATERBURY (AP)— City school teachers have voted to approve a new contract that provides a 13.25 per cent salary increase plus increments over a three-year period.

A divided school board lent its approval to the contract less than two hours after the standing vote by 170 members of the Waterbury Teachers Association meeting at Kennedy High School. The teachers were reported to have supported the measure by a three-to-one margin.

Five Democratic members of the school board supported the contract, three Republicans opposed it and one Republican abstained. One member of the board was absent.

The Board of Aldermen was expected to act on the contract within two weeks.

Judges For Jaycee Pageant Are Named

Heading the list of judges for the Miss Manchester contest to be held Saturday night will be Mary Ellen Dority, who wore the Miss Maine Crown in 1964. Mrs. Dority has been active in pageant work since 1958 serving as judge of local and state pageants throughout New England.

Mary Ellen Dority going on to become Miss Connecticut, and, if she wins that title, can seek the Miss America crown.

Other judges include Joseph Zangary, state field director of the Miss Connecticut Pageant; James Lauber, business manager for Miss Cheshire; Richard Landino, business manager for Miss Connecticut; and Linda Marale, former director of the Miss Bristol Pageant.

French State Given Collection Of Valuable Art

PARIS (AP) — Pablo Picasso's family announced today that it is giving the artist's immensely valuable collection of paintings to the French state.

He added that the only condition attached to the donation was that the pictures should hang together on exhibit in the Louvre.

Picasso's legitimate son, Paulo, confirmed that his father left no will. In addition to his widow, Jacqueline, and Paulo, the artist is survived by two illegitimate daughters and an illegitimate son, and a legal heir may have to be fought through the French courts to determine the division of the estate.

Art dealers are fearful that the market value of Picasso's work will collapse if the family is forced to sell off a substantial number of these paintings to pay inheritance taxes on the rest of his large fortune.

The collection being given to the nation is in the villa at Mougins, on the French Riviera where Picasso died April 8 at the age of 91.

It includes paintings by Matisse, Modigliani, Dufy, Braque, Rousseau and others, and most have never been seen by the public.

"They are pictures which he had purchased since the beginning of the century and are works of the greatest painters of the modern period," Dumas said.

Westover Fate Still Unknown

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reps. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., and Edward P. Boland, D-Mass., said Defense Secretary Elliot L. Richardson told them Wednesday he will announce this weekend $4 separate base closings, cutbacks and mission realignments.

But the secretary refused to confirm or deny reports that Westover Air Force Base is scheduled for abandonment, the congressman said.

In a joint statement issued after the 15-minute discussion, Conte and Boland said: "We came away convinced that Westover is on the list. Although the secretary did not say outright that the base will be closed, he pointed out that the Air Force is phasing out its number of B52 aircraft."

Westover, he noted, has the older B52 series D aircraft. The congressman also said Richardson told them the various actions to be announced will be carried out gradually and that "severe effort will be made to soften the impact these actions will have on communities in economic distress."

Conte and Boland went to see Richardson to argue that closing Westover would have serious economic implications for the Chicopee-Holyoke-Springfield metropolitan area that already is burdened by a 7.7 per cent unemployment rate.

Police Foil Hartford Extortion Plot

HARTFORD (AP) — State police said Wednesday a Massachusetts man has been arrested in an alleged extortion and kidnaping plot involving a Hartford businessman and his family.

The plot reportedly involved a plan to take a radio-controlled bomb to the chest of the businessman's daughter.

Held on $50,000 bond at Seymour Street Jail on charges of conspiracy to commit larceny by receiving and conspiracy to commit kidnaping was a man identified by police as John H. Moan, 34, of East Otis, Mass. He was taken into custody last Friday after an investigation involving state police and police officers from Waterbury and Bloomfield, authorities said.

The object of the alleged plot, detectives said, was Harvey L. Lipman of Bloomfield, a vice president and the son of the owner of Lipman Motors of Hartford, a large automobile sales agency.

Waterbury authorities said the alleged plot came to light last week when an official of a local motorcycle club told police he had been contacted by a man using the code name "Argus" who offered the club a large sum of money to participate in the alleged kidnaping.

The plot, police said, involved Lipman, his wife, daughter and two elderly persons who reside with him.

The motorcycle club official said he was instructed by a woman telephone caller to go to a service station telephone booth in Waterbury and there received a second call telling him he would find further instructions taped beneath a toilet tank in a local restaurant room.

Police said the club officer found the letter and after reading its contents, turned it over to authorities.

The letter reportedly outlined a plot to hold the Bloomfield motorcycle club and accepted the offer to participate in the plot of the man's daughter.

Death Penalty Bill Passed By House

HARTFORD (AP) — The Connecticut House of Representatives has moved to establish capital punishment in the state despite questions of the bill's constitutionality and criticism that death was an ineffective way to reduce crime.

A bill that would make death mandatory, barring extenuating circumstances, for six specific crimes cleared the house Wednesday on a vote of 53-49 following more than three hours of debate. It now goes to the Senate.

Fewer than half of the members listened to all of the arguments for and against the bill, and the several proposed amendments that were struck down.

One of the amendments would have required the governor to throw the switch that activated the electric chair when an execution was committed.

The amendment was offered by Rep. Irving Stolberg, D-New Haven, who was the strongest opponent of reinstating capital punishment.

The amendment was ruled frivolous and out of order by House Speaker Francis J. Collins, R-Brookfield, whose ruling was upheld by a majority of the house.

The same fate befell another of Stolberg's amendments that would have opened all executions to the public and permitted them to be televised.

The closest vote on an amendment came on a Stolberg proposal to strike the proposed bill and instead eliminate capital punishments where it still exists in the statutes.

Several representatives said the amendment provided the day's only true chance to vote on whether Connecticut should have a death penalty.

The vote was 76-57 against the amendment with 18 members absent. Nineteen were absent when the final vote was taken.

Stolberg was one of several members who questioned whether the bill, as written, would be constitutional. He said most of the mitigating factors present in the bill, which would allow a person convicted of a capital crime to escape the death penalty, made the penalty discretionary.

A judge or jury at a post-trial hearing would have to decide if any of the mitigating factors was present.

If so, the death penalty could not be invoked.

Arbitrary application of the penalty had been the main reason the U.S. Supreme Court struck down the death penalty last year in a Georgia case that had the effect of abolishing the penalty in Connecticut and several other states.

Louis Pollak, former dean of the Yale University Law School, said in an opinion of the Connecticut Civil Liberties Union Wednesday that the bill, as drafted, would not fall within the Supreme Court's guidelines for arbitrariness.

Rep. James F. Bingham, R-Stamford, co-chairman of the Grants Given To Stay Crime

HARTFORD (AP) — The executive committee of the Connecticut Planning Committee on Criminal Administration has awarded a $75,000 grant to the state Department of Children and Youth Services to coordinate and operate group homes for youths.

The committee also awarded $10,000 for a statewide conference to discuss the Connecticut Junior Bar Association's recent study comparing the American Bar Association's criminal justice standards to those in Connecticut.

Another award of $500 went to the state police department to provide polygraph training for officers.

The committee further awarded $21,970 to the TRIRVC group home in New Haven for funding through July.

USDA Experts Use Protein Basis For Cost Analysis

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Let's say you have a choice between a sizzling porthouse or a serving of dry beans. Would your selection be influenced if you had to pay for it—and you knew the beans cost a 10th as much and had the same nutritional value?

Experts from the U.S. Department of Agriculture—wary of such ticklish items as food controls and meat boycotts—didn't pose the problem exactly that way today. But that's the way it came out.

What the USDA experts did was to put out some advice on how to stretch the food dollar for protein-rich, body-building foods necessary in family nutrition. They very carefully avoided any recommendations.

Measured in terms of February grocery prices, a six-cent serving of dry beans will provide the same amount of protein as 66 cents worth of porterhouse steak or 67 cents worth of lamb chops, the experts said.

Further, according to the USDA cost figures, when it comes strictly to meat and poultry, the best buys for protein-conscious shoppers are whole chicken and hamburger.

"One way to determine good buys among meats and meat alternates is to compare the costs of amounts . . . that provide equal protein," the Agricultural Research Service said in a report.

A judge or jury at a post-trial hearing would have to decide if any of the mitigating factors was present.

On a 20-gram basis, the protein-cost ratio, for example, is 63 cents; hot dogs 35 cents and bologna 47 cents.

Some other ratings on this 20-gram protein scale: peanut butter 12 cents; milk and eggs 18; beef liver; turkey and canned tomatoes 20; liverwurst 24 and veal cutlets 63.

Twenty grams of protein, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, cost 28 cents in February. Translated, that meant that 20 grams of bean protein cost 6 cents.

By comparison, porterhouse steak cost $1.97 a pound, or 66 cents for 20 grams of protein. The highest-priced meat on the scale was lamb chops at $2.18 per pound for a 20-gram protein cost of 67 cents.

Free Tuition For Veterans Advocated

HARTFORD (AP) — Connecticut Atty. Gen. Robert Killian Wednesday called on the General Assembly to approve a bill providing free tuition at any state institution of higher learning for Vietnam veterans.

Killian criticized Gov. Thomas J. Meskill for vetoing a similar proposal last year, saying the measure would create a special class of citizen.

"In my judgment, these are a special and most deserving class, and, like veterans of other wars, they have a right to be so treated," Killian said in an address to the Hartford County Medical Association.

Killian also called for legislative approval of a proposal to create a veterans affairs office to coordinate state employment and educational efforts for veterans.

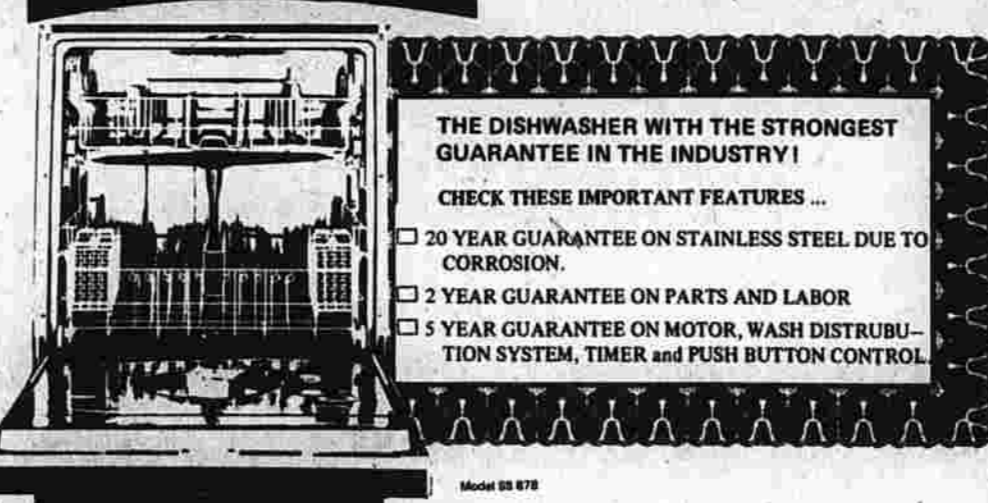

"As I see it, the General Assembly should act at this session to adopt these proposals on the basis of the best estimates available, with the understanding that this is a prudent investment in human resources that will enrich the life of our society by many times the cost," Killian said.

Killian told the physicians he suggested many of them wouldn't be at the meeting if they hadn't received financial assistance for their educations from the GI Bill.

"I know I wouldn't be a lawyer today without the help I got from the GI Bill," Killian said. "And I suspect that there are at least some in the audience who owe part or all of their professional schooling to that same GI Bill."

Automakers Get Delay, New Pollution Standards

WASHINGTON (AP) — Environmental Protection Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus has granted a one-year extension of the 1975 antipollution standards for automobiles, but established interim standards requiring some use of new antipollution devices.
Ruckelshaus set interim standards which, he said, would require the use of "catalytic converters" on all domestic automobiles sold in California in 1975.
A somewhat less strict standard was set for the rest of the nation and Ruckelshaus said it "will likely result in some catalytic converters used on some models nationwide by 1975."
In Detroit, General Motors said it was "disappointed and dismayed" by the ruling.
"While the 1975 standards, as originally established, have been delayed for a year, the interim standards will be most difficult to obtain and may well require the use of catalytic converters nationally," GM board chairman Richard Gerstenberg said in a statement. He said the company intended to study the decision and "determine the best course of action from the standpoint of the consumer and the environment."
There was no immediate comment on the ruling from the other major auto manufacturers, who last year asked for a one-year extension.
The United Auto Workers this week joined in the plea, saying the union feared for the health of the auto industry.
Ruckelshaus said he believed the "oxidation catalyst" — the antipollution device which the U.S. auto industry has been working — could do the job and must be used if the legal requirement for a per cent reduction of auto emissions is to be achieved.
He said the purpose of his interim standards was to "phase in" the use of catalysis.
The 90 per cent emission reduction, originally scheduled for 1975-model cars, now must be achieved by the 1978 models. The present law permits no further extension.
The original standards would have limited hydrocarbon emissions to 0.41 grams per mile compared with the 3.0 grams permitted in 1974.
Instead, Ruckelshaus has now set the 1975 standard at 1.74 grams, exactly half the 1974 level, and he set separate standards of 0.9 grams per mile for California in 1975.
The original standard for carbon monoxide would have been 3.4 grams per mile in 1975, compared with 29.0 grams in 1974.
The interim standard, instead, will be 15 grams in 1975 nationwide and 9.0 grams in California.
The interim standards are somewhat tougher than those proposed, in general, by auto companies who sought the one-year delay.
In making the announcement, Ruckelshaus said, "this is a terribly complex and important decision that involves the whole mix of our nation's struggle for a cleaner environment."

Rhode Island Governor To Be News Commentator

PROVIDENCE (AP) — Former Gov. Frank Licht has agreed to serve as a news commentator on a regular basis for a Rhode Island television station.
The two-term governor who returned to private law practice after leaving office last January will appear on WJAR-TV at least once a week, the station has announced. Licht, who decided not to seek re-election last November, will be paid for his services, a spokesman for the station said.
The commentary will focus on one subject a week that will be shown within the evening news program. Most of the presentations will run from two to three minutes, the spokesman said, and some topics may require a presentation that would be expanded beyond a single evening.
In addition to the commentary, the former governor also has agreed to take part in a public affairs special program at least once a month, according to Blake Byrne, general manager of the station.

New Militant Group Emerges in Ulster

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A new militant Protestant organization emerged in Northern Ireland Wednesday. Calling itself Tara — the name of the ancient seat of the high kings of Ireland — the group said it had been working secretly underground for several years and that its leaders commanded a widespread network.
A proclamation which the group circulated throughout Northern Ireland demanded that the Roman Catholic Church be declared an illegal organization in the province "because for generations this evil thing has blighted our land."
There was no identification of personalities connected with the organization. Nor was there any indication of the size of Tara's following.

The Civic Club of Assumption Junior High School will conduct a paper drive Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Residents are asked to tie newspapers and magazines and bring them to the church parking lot.

SLRB Nullifies Parity Clause

HARTFORD (AP)—A parity clause in the contract between new London's firemen and the city was nullified Wednesday by the state Board of Labor Relations.

The board, in a 16-page decision, said the parity clause infringed on the collective bargaining rights of the city's policemen.

The parity clause, which insured that firemen would get the same minimum benefits negotiated by the policemen in their contract bargaining with the city, had been the object of an appeal to the board by New London Police Local 724.

The board struck down the contract provision, ordered the city to remove it from the existing contract and forbid the city from entering into future parity agreements. It also noted that there were similar parity provisions in contracts with 13 other cities and their police and firemen.

The decision said the parity clause meant that police negotiators were carrying a "double load" in their bargaining with the city.

Police Report

MANCHESTER Robert Herberberger, 23, of 52 Wetherell St., Manchester, was charged Wednesday on a Circuit Court 12 arrest warrant with harassment in Greenburgh and in near-idents earlier this month, police said. Court date is April 30.

VERNON Vernon Police are investigating a one-car accident which occurred Wednesday on Grove St., Rockville, in which a car left the road and struck a fire hydrant and two utility poles.

The occupants of the car, Owen J. McDonough of 48 William Topping of 39 Gerald St., Manchester, both received minor injuries in the collision. Topping was taken to Rockville General Hospital where he received emergency treatment and was released.

COVENTRY John O. Pepsin, 29, of Hartford, was charged Wednesday on a Circuit Court 12 arrest warrant with non-support. He was to be presented in court today at Manchester.

Robbers Steal $10,000

HARTFORD (AP)—The credit manager of The Hartford Times was robbed at gunpoint today of $10,000 in cash and checks, police said.

Mark Abratis, 29, told police he was accosted by two masked men as he entered the newspaper's press room about 9:30 a.m.

Abratis said one of the men was armed with a rifle and the other with a handgun. They forced him into a storage room and fled with a cashbox containing $8,500 in cash and $1,500 in checks, police said.

Abratis said the bandits were hiding in a utility closet near the door to the press room apparently waiting for him to return from his regular weekly trip to a local bank where he had cashed checks for fellow employees. He was not injured.

Quiet Push On To Free POWs

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials are pressing quietly for the release of two Thai prisoners of war whom the North Vietnamese have refused to let go.

The two men, believed to be enlisted members of the Thai army, are the last known POWs of the Indochina war. One of them, Chai Charn Harnavee, is regarded by former American POWs as a hero and a key communications link in the POW complex known as the Hanoi Hilton.

Officials could report little about the second man, a Thai Army corporal named Napadom Wang Chom, captured in Laos in October 1972. Pentagon and State Department officials said they don't know why the North Vietnamese still hold the Thais, especially since two others from their country were let go along with nearly 600 Americans and a few other prisoners from the Indochina war.

Retiring How They Voted In Legislature

Republican Town Committee and the dinner guests presented miniature, stuffed-leopard figurines to the retiring members of the legislature. The town gained, as a result of their work.

Dobkin, in short remarks, said, "I'm overwhelmed by this honor. It's difficult to say anything, after all the wonderful things already said here tonight."

"It's a fantastic honor. I just want you to know I couldn't have done the job alone. You—all of you—actually did it for me."

Mrs. Taylor too said, "It's just been overwhelming. I couldn't have done it alone. The bill you gave us has been fantastic. Serving the town committee has been a rewarding experience, and I've enjoyed every minute of it."

And that the guests also enjoyed every minute of it was evident in the standing ovation they gave Dobkin and Mrs. Taylor.

Manchester Evening Herald Speaks to MHS Students

Responsibility Topic Of Commissioner Dunn

The responsibility of the 18-year-old under Connecticut's new "age of majority law" was the theme of a talk by Commissioner Barbara Dunn at Manchester High School this morning.

A large group of business, home economics, social studies, and English students attended the talk at MHS. Throughout her talk, Commissioner Dunn stressed that "along with the new status of being legally considered an adult, for every right there is a duty."

"Once you are 18, you'll be able to buy things on time, borrow money and sign contracts," she reminded the students. "and you'll be held legally responsible for anything you sign. It's very important to be aware of your new responsibilities as well as your new rights," she said.

At age 18, persons have the right to buy a car and register it in their name, the commissioner mentioned, "but this right carries with it total responsibility of compliance with all motor vehicle laws and the total responsibility to make up for any financial or personal damages," caused by negligence.

Commissioner Dunn also noted that 18-year-olds are no longer considered minors in criminal violations. "You can be held legally responsible for acts of assault, trespass, fraud or slander," she explained.

The commissioner's visit to MHS was arranged by Joseph Mazzotta, the school's vice principal.

State Couple Searching For Missing Son To Visit Amnesia Victim

SOUTH WINDHAM, Maine (AP)—A Connecticut couple searching for their missing son were to meet today with a young amnesia victim searching for his identity.

Similar meetings held Wednesday at the Men's Correctional Center were "moments of anxiety and disappointment" for both the visitors and the inmate, who picked the name Terry Ellis from a telephone directory 2½ years ago.

Officer Harold C. Leighton, who has been escorting the visitors to their meetings with Ellis, said the two who came Wednesday were a Belfast mother and a Connecticut man looking for his missing grandson.

"The minute she walked in the room, she knew it wasn't her son," Leighton said of the Belfast woman.

Two Meatless Days A Week Now Advocated

WASHINGTON (AP)—The newest national consumer group wants Americans not to eat or buy meat on Tuesdays and Thursdays, and to prepare for a national day of protest against food prices next month.

The boycott for continued meat boycotts was sounded Wednesday as 150 women, all boycott leaders, met on Capitol Hill as the National Consumers Congress.

"I really think the consumer movement started here today," said congress chairman Betty Furness, New York City's commissioner of consumer affairs.

The group immediately called for two meatless days each week and designated May 3 as a national day of protest against high food prices with demonstrations scheduled across the country.

The women also called for the resignation of Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz and urged the administration to affect a "major rollback of food prices." In addition, they passed a resolution demanding that the President reduce exports of scarce foods and take action to spur domestic food production and food imports.

In Chicago, the president of the American Meat Institute said that a rollback in food prices would produce one of the worst meat shortages in the nation's history.

Herrell DeGraff said a rollback to the Jan. 10 level would cost the livestock and meat industries $1.25 billion, and would produce only short-term benefits for consumers.

But, he said, the industry's ability to provide meat would be curtailed resulting "in the most serious meat shortage ever, with a return to meat rationing and black markets."

The boycott leaders beat down a proposal to endorse a congressional bill which would roll back food and all other prices to Jan. 10, 1973, level. One woman argued that the legislation does not go far enough to lower prices.

Ralph Nader, told the woman to rely on Safeway, A & P or the Agriculture Department to rely on a consistent practice of deception. Consumers have to rely on themselves. Consumer efforts are not 100-yard dashes; they are marathons.

Leon Schachter, vice president of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen, said his union is sympathetic with what boycott leaders are doing. But he said, "Ladies, please don't blame your butcher." Schachter said the fault lies with the government "which for too long has been

Region Study Proposed To Prevent 'Red Tide'

BOSTON (AP) — A regional organization has been proposed to deal in an organized way with any future outbreaks of the "red tide" along the New England coast. A special committee appointed by Massachusetts Public Health Commissioner William J. Bicknell said in a preliminary report that the Bay State take the lead in dealing with the problem. The committee was appointed after the red tide algae, which secretes toxins which contaminate shellfish, forced the closing of shellfish harvesting from Maine to Long Island Sound last September. The committee report recommended that an eight-member committee of scientists and public health experts to develop a coordinated program should the algae strike again. The committee would be headed by a full-time official paid $25,000 a year. The report also called for 25 monitoring stations throughout New England to check periodically the toxic level of shellfish, improved testing and research facilities and 24-hour poisoning of contaminated areas and tighter inspection of shellfish outlets.

Meskill Prefers East Haven As Site for College Campus

HARTFORD (AP) — Gov. Thomas J. Meskill said he prefers an East Haven site over a proposed New Haven location for a permanent campus for South Central Community College. The college has had temporary headquarters in Wilbur Cross High School in New Haven. Meskill said a permanent campus was preferable to the present leasing arrangement "since ours is a long-term commitment."

The East Haven location, he said, would provide room for expansion, quality building design, proper landscaping and parking. An alternative proposal had called for the state to lease facilities of the Seaman's Rubber Co. in New Haven. New Haven Mayor Bartholomew F. Guida said after learning of the governor's decision that "of the many errors in judgment the governor has made, this is perhaps the greatest. Placing the physical plant of the college in the most impractical location certainly shows a lack of understanding and regard for the people who are involved."

Meskill endorsed the governor's decision. "I have always had the hope of adding an additional element to East Haven, a cultural one," he said. He said he would support the establishment of a bus line between the college and downtown New Haven.

Electricians Wage Hike Approved

BRIDGEPORT (AP) — The U.S. Construction Industrial Stabilization Commission (CISC) has approved a wage increase for members of International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local 488, according to a CISC spokesman in Washington. The increase from $8.70 to $9.30 an hour, will affect about 450 union electricians in the Bridgeport Duxbury area. With fringe benefits included, the electricians will be making $9.58 per hour, according to the CISC spokesman. The terms of the contract will be retroactive to Feb. 28.

Capitol Corridor

State Sen. David O. Degeard
(Fourth Senatorial District)

I have often been asked "What is the toughest part of your job in the Senate?" There is only one answer and that is time. There simply is not enough time available in a day to do everything that should be done that day.

Besides the obvious Senate sessions (all of which require thought and research on the bills to be voted on) and committee meetings (which often require hours of attendance to do minutes of work), there are innumerable requests for information from groups or individuals and, of course, paperwork.

I thought it would be interesting to keep track of my incoming mail for a typical week, the last week in March.

I found 168 total communications, ranging from postcard saying "VOTE YES ON S.B. 714" to a 50-page report on state finances published by the Connecticut Public Expenditure Council.

The greatest volume by weight provided data on issues with 12 reports received from the legislative staff and 33 from various special interest groups. The largest number of separate items were 91 personal expressions of opinion from residents within my district, mostly cards and letters with a few telegrams mixed in.

I really don't understand why anyone would send me a telegram since a letter is more personal and readable, and a telephone call is quicker — and either is less expensive than a telegram. I guess some people think of a telegram as being more impressive — I don't.

Perhaps that is an idiosyncrasy of mine. If so, it is because two years ago I received a large number of telegrams asking me to vote for a particular bill. I really couldn't understand why I should in that particular case, so I called several of the names to get further information. The people I called had no idea of what I was talking about and it turned out that an organization had ordered the telegrams and signed the names of its members to it.

Labor Man in Cabinet Finds Old Friends Irked

WASHINGTON (AP) — In office less than three months, Labor Secretary Peter J. Brennan is finding it tough for a union man to serve in the Nixon Cabinet and keep his former labor associates happy.

Brennan ran into trouble Tuesday following his first appearance to discuss legislation at a congressional hearing, presenting the administration's proposals for increasing the minimum wage. Labor leaders accused him of selling out to the White House.

"We are not surprised at the administration's position," snapped AFL-CIO President George Meany. "We are astounded, however, that Brennan has so completely abandoned the trade-union principles he espoused for all of his life before coming to Washington."

President Nixon tapped Brennan, a Democrat and "hardhat" leader of New York building-trade unions for the past 15 years, to be his labor secretary last November. The union leader supported Nixon's re-election.

At the time, most labor leaders praised Nixon's choice of Brennan, the first trade-union official appointed to the labor post since President Eisenhower picked Martin Durkin, president of the Plumber's Union, in 1953. Meany hailed Brennan as "a very good choice. He'll make a very fine secretary of labor."

Meany's stinging criticism followed Brennan's testimony before the House Labor subcommittee in which he proposed that the minimum wage be increased from $1.90 an hour to $2.30 over a three-year period. Included was a request for a lower wage for teen-age workers, something Brennan opposed in his confirmation hearings.

"I don't consider this your proposal," said subcommittee Chairman John H. Dent, D-Pa., "but that of an administration that shows little concern for those who need it most." Brennan explained later at a meeting of the national meat cutters union that the proposal is a compromise effort by the administration to get a minimum-wage-increase bill passed this year.

Congressman Reinstates WWII-Style Victory Garden

SPRINGFIELD, Md. (AP) — Rep. Silvio O. Conte dug up part of his back yard in this Washington suburb today to plant a vegetable garden. He called it an "anti-inflation cultivation."

"If people across the country will do this, it can be very effective," he said. "It worked during World War II with the victory gardens. It can work again."

Conte said he put in lettuce, radishes and onions last weekend and was digging up more ground to sow string beans, garlic, pepper and tomato plants. He planted some zucchini in a compost heap next to the garden.

The 51-year-old Massachusetts Republican said he was protesting the government's $4 billion farm subsidy program that pays farmers not to plant crops. Conte also said he hopes his example will encourage others to do the same in an effort to bring down produce prices.

The garden patch is about 20 by 30 feet.

Senior Citizens Enjoy International Dinner

Frank Lattuca Jr., at left, coordinator of the Food Services Curriculum at Manchester Community College, oversees the "International Dinner" presented for senior citizens at the Senior Citizens Center Tuesday night. The Catering Management Course in the Food Service Management Program offers students an opportunity to experience several types of catering service: students plan, prepare, serve, and manage complete buffets for 100 of the senior citizens. Organization is the key factor in Off-The-Premises Catering, according to Lattuca. Menu included roast loin of pork with sauce, old fashioned corn pudding, molded spring salad, tossed green salad with French dressing, assorted relishes, homemade cornbread, pastries and beverages. This event concludes monthly dinners prepared by the students for this season. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Sen. Pell Proposes Plan For Federal School Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Claiborne Pell proposed a new federal aid plan for the nation's public schools as an alternative to President Nixon's special revenue sharing for education. The plan suggested by Pell, chairman of the Senate education subcommittee, includes extension of two major aid programs: per-pupil grants to school districts; property tax rebates, and incentives to states that equalize expenditures among districts. Pell said in a prepared Senate speech that the Nixon proposal "is simply a less attractive version of the education-revenue-sharing bill we found so unattractive in the last Congress."

that exceeded five per cent of his income. This would apply to a homeowner who paid the tax directly or to a renter who paid it indirectly. After the first year, states would have to contribute $2.7 billion next fiscal year compared to about $3 billion allotted for the separate programs in the current year.

It would make available $2.7 billion next fiscal year compared to about $3 billion allotted for the separate programs in the current year.

U.S. AIR FORCE "FAT BOY" DIET

Lose 5 Lbs. Per Week!
Miracle diet plans insult your intelligence. You didn't get fat overnight and you won't get slim overnight. Anybody that promises you otherwise is after your money. You want to lose weight not money, Right?
Thousands of men and women have lost weight with the "Fat Boy" diet. U.S. Air Force flight surgeons and dietitians recommend the "Fat Boy" diet. It is a no starvation diet an average person can easily follow at home, work, or while traveling. If fat diets were everything they claim (frankly they're not), the Air Force would use them and not the "Fat Boy" diet. Common sense tells you the U.S. Air Force research facilities are superior to those of a mere fad diet promoter. Take advantage of their research — after all, your taxes paid for it. "Fat Boy" diet money-back guarantees a loss of 5 lbs. per week. That is 20 lbs. in only 30 days — that's really a lot! Try lifting 20 lbs. sometime. If you are tired of carrying your extra weight, you owe it to yourself to try the "Fat Boy" diet. Send only $2.00 ($2.25 for Rush Services) — cash is O.K. — to Raven International, P.O. Box 3773, Dept. FB, Santa Barbara, California 93105.

British Reject Death Penalty
LONDON (AP) — British legislators firmly rejected today a bid to re-introduce capital punishment.

The death penalty for murder was abolished in 1969. In a vote for nonparty lines in the House of Commons members decided by 220-178 that there was no good case to bring back the hangman's noose or any alternative method.

Campaigners for the return of the hangman's noose claim that guerrillas in Northern Ireland can kill police officers and British soldiers fighting the insurrection there with little chance of being executed if they are captured.

Opponents of hanging claim the death penalty is barbaric and point to past hangings where "mistakes" have been made and innocent people executed.

Wage Increases Less
Washington — Wage-rate increases in major collective bargaining settlements approximated 6.4 per cent a year over the life of the contract, down from the average 8.1 per cent in 1971, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reports.

Bolton Homemakers
Bolton Homemakers, who are affiliated with the Tolland County Extension Service, will meet April 17, from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m., at Herrick Memorial Park.

Tolland Selectmen Argue Use Of Grants

VIVIAN V. KENNESON

Tel. 875-4704

Use of revenue sharing funds dominated the Board of Selectmen meeting Tuesday night.

Selectman Charles Thifault has continuously charged First Selectman Erwin Stoetzer with misleading townspeople by saying the revenue sharing funds cannot be used for capital improvements in specific areas.

Stoetzer disputes this, and cited a recent court decision in which a town was forced to pay a 100% penalty for improper use of funds. According to the first selectman, the funds must be used for capital improvements in specific areas.

Stoetzer added that $30,000 of the general budget falls into categories which can be covered by revenue sharing. He also said that the $200,000 in federal revenue funds to be spent next year will actually lower the mill rate by 4 mills, or at least prevent a 4 mill increase. This is based on $50,000 in federal revenue funds to be spent next year.

Projected commercial and industrial growth is $5 million dollars according to Stoetzer. He reported that this was learned in several recent meetings with the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Stoetzer could not say who would be building them, but there would be "five or six additions to existing plants."

He concluded that "there would be no problems with next year's budget because there will be added revenue."

Several residents of Old Kent Rd. appeared at the selectmen's meeting expecting to bid on an old payloader.

At the March 27 meeting First Selectman Erwin Stoetzer had released a list of town equipment that is obsolete, including two dump trucks, a grader, a payloader and a conveyor.

At that time Stoetzer stated items would be advertised through a legal ad and opened at the April 10 selectmen's meeting. He blamed the change on delay of legal advice as to whether a town meeting was necessary to approve the action.

Stoetzer told the delegation that the legal ad would appear this Friday and that the bid would be opened at the next selectmen's meeting on April 24.

About Town
Full Gospel Christian Fellowship, Interdenominational, will have a Bible study and open discussion tonight at 7:30 at Orange Hall.

Tolland
School Superintendent Dr. Kenneth MacKenzie reported to the Board of Education last night that only two out of five bus bids sent out were returned.

According to MacKenzie, specifications were for 16-passenger and 60-passenger buses, with delivery between July 1 and Aug. 15. E.P. Hayes bid $7,200.99 on a 16-seater and, as an alternate to a 60-seater, bid $9,975 on a 60-seater international. A bid of $8,347 for a 60-passenger Ford bus was forwarded by Brainerd Ford Truck Sales; however, it could not guarantee delivery date.

A report by transportation chairman Charles Mayer stated the vehicles used for special education will not be operable for the fall.

The board voted to allow the superintendent and Mayer to get quotes from Monroe Bus Co. on contracting services, and then to decide whether to purchase buses or to contract two mini buses, whichever would be the minimum cost.

Killian Critical Of 'Simplistic' Problem Solutions

HARTFORD (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert Killian says the bill to restore capital punishment in Connecticut and Gov. ...

Thomas J. Meskili's proposal to establish a hospital cost control commission ...

"The national mood makes it very tempting for government leaders to act the demagogue ...

"We see government frantically trying to curry popular favor by promising controls on the prices of selected products ...

Unless you control the cost of things that the hospital must buy in order to function, you can't control the cost," he said ...

Asked if his opposition to these administration-backed measures had political ramifications, Killian said he was on the unpopular side of both issues ...

"I'll continue to speak out on issues," Killian said. "I'm not running for anything else."

Rockville Hospital Notes

Admitted Wednesday: Louis Lavitt, Hillsdale Dr., Rockville; Robert Wojcikowski Jr., Overbrook Rd., Vernon; Shirley Roy, Stafford Springs; Phyllis Garvin, Vernon Ave., Rockville; Mae Johnson, Stafford Springs; William Johnson, Wilshire Rd., Vernon; Linda LaCourse, Terrace Dr., Rockville.

Discharged Wednesday: Mary Sobolewski, Franklin St., Rockville; Cheryl Ann Mantlik, Cassidy Hill, Tolland; Deborah Isleib, Madison St., Manchester; Robin Thomas, High St., South Windsor; Gregory Biancuzzi, Deerfield Dr., Vernon; Steven Mignault, Bailey Circle, Rockville.

Also: James Goetschus, Rt. 74, Tolland; Eleanor Rauchenbach, Wapping Wood Rd., Rockville; Sharon Sherman, Loch Rd., Rockville; Oscar Yarnicke Jr., Rt. 6, Vernon; Bertha Walker, Ellington Rd., South Windsor; Marie Dantus, Regan Rd., Rockville.

The Connecticut House voted Wednesday to reinstate the death sentence for six specified crimes, including the death of a drug user caused by heroin, cocaine or methadone sold by a non-addict. And the Senate approved Meskili's proposal to hold down rising hospital costs by creating a commission to oversee hospital budgets.

"There are no easy answers," Killian said in a telephone interview after his speech. "I'm not sure that we

$4,500 Sum Voted For School Alarms

The Board of Education has appropriated $4,500 from its current budget to install monitoring systems in six of the town's schools and to expand the receivers at the Vernon Police Station.

The schools readily converted already have speaker talk-back systems in each room. The others do not have speakers in the rooms but rather hang-up type handsets.

Fire Calls

The Town Fire Department is still investigating a Tuesday night fire that considerably damaged a two-car garage at the rear of 71 Chestnut St.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The 1972 hurricane season was the quietest in 42 years according to the National Hurricane Center. The low hurricane activity was attributed to three unusual conditions—lower sea temperatures in the Atlantic, a stationary inter-tropical convergence zone and widely varied wind currents.

Vernon Planners Okay Ramada Inn Bid

Valentino R. Fiano, Manchester developer, has been granted a special permit for construction of a Ramada Inn-Motel on Rt. 30 in Vernon but still has to be cleared with the Zoning Commission before work can start.

The Planning Commission had been holding up on its decision until the mayor's Zoning Task Force came forth with its report and recommendations. After granting approval for the restaurant-motel, the commission indicated it would send a letter to the Zoning Commission requesting that task force recommendations be considered.

If the Zoning Commission abides by this request it will mean that Fiano will have to go

Cow Manure Potential Pipeline Gas Fuel

By The Associated Press DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — There may be more in them than their cow chips. Chemists say cattle manure can be converted into pipeline gas by mixing the dried manure with hydrogen, which reacts to form methane and ethane, the major constituents of natural gas.

Herman Feldmann of the U.S. Bureau of Mines in Pittsburgh told delegates to the 16th national meeting of the American Chemical Society all about it. Only he calls it "hydrogasification of cattle manure to pipeline gas."

Which brings us back to cattle manure. "An attractive feed stock for a synthetic waste to clean energy processes. He contends that if an economic way of doing this can be found, the solid waste disposal problem could be solved and the clean energy shortage alleviated.

—Cattle manure is abundant, and the size and concentration of feed lots simplify its collection in the amounts required for reasonably sized gas plants.

—Experiments show that cattle manure is easily converted to a gas having a greater heating value than could be gotten by converting coal or naphtha, a volatile petroleum.

—The manure requires no preparation, apart from partial drying. The cow has taken care of the necessary shredding and grinding.

—About 40 per cent of the carbon in the manure is converted with the hydrogen. The remaining portion of the carbon is used for the production of hydrogen, so that the only residue remaining after converting the manure to pipeline gas is the sterile inorganic ash.

Book Prizes Awarded

NEW YORK (AP) — National Book Award judges have named dual winners in the fiction and history categories for the first time in the 24-year history of the literary prizes.

Sharing the fiction prize were "Chimera," by John Barth, and "Augustus," by John Williams.

The history prize was split between "The Children of Pride: A True Story of Georgia and the Civil War," by Robert Myers, and "Judenrat: The Jewish Councils in Eastern Europe Under Nazi Occupation," by Issac Trunk.

The National Book Committee announced the awards—considered the book world's equivalent of movie Oscars—in 10 categories at a news conference on Tuesday. Each award is worth $1,000.

Other winners chosen from 109 nominees were: Contemporary Affairs—"Fire in the Lake," by Frances Fitzgerald.

Arts and Letters—"Diderot," by Arthur M. Wilson.

Biography—"George Washington: English and Farewell (1793-1799)," by James Thomas Flexner.

Science—"The Serengeti Lion: A Study of Predator-Prey Relations," by George S. Schaller.

Poetry—"Collected Poems: 1951-1971," by A.R. Ammons.

Philosophy and Religion—"A Religious History of the American People," by Sidney E. Altmann.

Children's Books—"The Farthest Shore," by Ursula K. LeGuin.

Translation—"The Aeneid of Virgil," translated by Allen Mandelbaum.

Burt Bacharach says:

The world of song brings many millions of people great pleasure. But a deaf person is happy just to understand regular speech. Easter Seals help him to understand and communicate. They also serve people with many other disabilities. Please help Easter Seals to help them.

Carpet, School Issue Going to Arbitration

Problems with new carpet at Nathan Hale, Robertson, and Keeney St. Schools and the Town Building Committee's acceptance date for the Nathan Hale School addition will be subjects of arbitration between the Town of Manchester and Bartlett-Brainard & Eacott Inc. the general contractor for the school projects.

Members of the Town Building Committee (TBC) held a special meeting Tuesday night with representatives of the general contractor, and apparently no progress was made toward settlement of the carpet problem. "They wouldn't budge," TBC Chairman Paul Phillips explained, saying that the matter will be referred to Town Counsel David Barry for legal action.

"They (Bartlett-Brainard & Eacott) have been very uncooperative all the way through the school renovation and addition projects," Phillips said. Phillips said he could not recall any other school projects where there have been such disagreements with a contractor.

Paul Hawley, vice president of Bartlett-Brainard & Eacott, said the disagreement is over terminology, and his firm "is not trying to agitate the town."

The carpet problem at the three schools involves the lack of a static-control fiber which was called for in the contract specifications. The TBC is holding the general contractor responsible for installing the wrong carpet, which cost approximately $3,000 less than the specified carpet, according to architect Richard Manley.

The contractor claims he was relieved of the responsibility to provide static control by a letter from the architect.

Town Counsel Barry told the TBC that, in his opinion, the architect's letter didn't change the contract specifications.

TBC members have discussed several alternatives as solutions to the carpet problem,

Medex Aide Eyed Pianist Career

Jane B. Tompkins (Herald Reporter)

Were it not for the fact that an aspiring concert pianist discovered it took more money to pursue a musical career than he could afford, the field of medicine would have one less laboratory technician and one more doctor's assistant.

C. Jackson-White, whose bylined name is a combination of his mother's maiden name and his father's family name, began to show a talent for the piano at an early age in his home near El Paso, Tex. He remembers going through the rooms of his home with some sort of a make believe surgery and culminating his invented operation with a piano performance.

"One day, my mother says she recognized a definite tone which was that old song, 'Coming In on a Wing and a Prayer,'" Jackson-White reminisces.

From then until three years ago when a new career superseded his piano training, he studied with first the neighborhood piano teacher and then, much later, such teachers as Mrs. Adele Marcus of the Juilliard School of Music in New York City, Paul Badura-Skoda at Stanford University in Palo Alto, Calif., and Lilli Krause in San Francisco. He gave recitals and performed piano concerts with symphonies, worked at job after job in an effort to pay for his musical training.

A call from an old school friend may have been the turning point in his career. Coming at a moment when Jackson-White was discouraged with his job as a janitor in El Paso, he grabbed the new offer to work in a research laboratory at Stanford University. He was given a job of controlling a colony of 2,300 white mice.

From this point on, his interest and association with laboratory medical research grew to the extent that he enrolled at Northeastern University in Boston and graduated as a licensed laboratory technician. After his graduation, he acquired a research job in chemistry on the staff of Harvard Medical School. The job involved research in cancer.

He later applied for training under the Medex program at Dartmouth Medical School in Hanover, N.H., and for three months, underwent an extensive training program of demonstrations, lectures, and classes in terminology with heavy emphasis on medicine, psychiatry, and pediatrics. During the remainder of his training, he will work closely with Dr. Warren who will act as his preceptor. Together, they will periodically return to Dartmouth for reports and evaluation.

At the end of the total training period, Jackson-White will be in search of a more permanent position. Mild-mannered and soft spoken, he expresses a desire to eventually pursue research in cancer.

His wife, Colette, is presently a supervisor with Blue Cross and Blue Shield in the Medicare Department of the Boston office.

Democrats To Hear Talk on Elderly

ANNE EMT
Correspondent
Tel. 228-3971

The Rev. Herbert Kelsey, the town's municipal agent for the aging, will be the guest speaker at the Democratic Town Committee meeting Tuesday evening at 8 at the Town Office Building, Rev. Kelsey will speak on the duties involved in his position.

The committee would like to remind all members to turn in their ticket returns for the May 5 Dinner Dance.

Little League tryouts for those youngsters who were not able to attend last week's tryouts will be held Saturday at 1 p.m. at the Gilead Hill School.

Boys attending are requested to wear sneakers and bring a cap and glove.

Learning Festival
Due to unforeseen circumstances, the Learning Festival, sponsored by the PTO, will close at 2 p.m. Friday at both schools instead of 5 p.m. as planned.

Tax Assistance

Representatives of the Internal Revenue Service will be in Manchester tomorrow to assist residents in the preparation of their 1972 income tax returns. They will be in the Municipal Building Heating Room, from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Those who appear for assistance are requested to bring all records pertaining to their tax returns.

Tomorrow will be the last time this year the representatives will give assistance in Manchester. The deadline date for filing returns is April 16.

Wage-Price Control Showdown Next Week

WASHINGTON (AP)—With a showdown set next week on the issue of wage-price controls, the Nixon administration and labor unions have summoned representatives of key industries to find out why their prices have skyrocketed.

The Cost of Living Council will call in representatives from the textile, canning, paper, nonferrous-metal and other industries, among others, it was learned. "We want to try to find out more about these industries, take a harder look at the problem areas," a council source said.

The goal is to try to hold down these prices. The industry sessions will

School Aid-Impact Funds Released

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Nixon administration today confirmed it will release $67 million in impact aid to thousands of school districts located near federal installations.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare said a statement will be released later explaining how the money will be distributed.

The decision makes a sharp turnabout in thinking of the White House. Earlier, it had impounded a substantial portion of the funds.

The impact aid to be distributed to some 4,650 school districts by midyear includes $48 million in one-time assistance to areas hit by Tropical Storm Agnes last June.

Districts will receive 100 per cent of their entitlement if children of federal employees living and working on federal premises make up at least 25 per cent of total enrollment, 90 per cent if less than 25 per cent of enrollment, and 75 per cent in other categories.

The enrollment figures are based on what districts would have received had the program been funded at 100 per cent of authorization.

Most of the money in the 22-year-old program goes to school districts on the basis of two categories. Children in Category A are those who live in federal property and attend nearby public schools. Parents of Category B children live in private residential areas.

Letters announcing the decision to school districts will be prepared next week, Education officials said. A breakdown of allocations was not immediately available.

Mid-Air Crash Kills 16 Men

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP)—The flames rose 40 feet in the air and the wreckage was covered with black smoke. There was no way to get in there.

Fireman Ron Kimball was describing the scene after a National Aeronautics and Space Administration plane and a Navy aircraft collided in flight, plummeted onto a golf course in piggyback fashion, exploded and burned. Sixteen men aboard the planes died; one was critically injured.

The other five victims and the survivor were aboard a Navy P-3 Orion turboprop, described Thursday. None of the golfers or employees on the course was hurt.

P.O. C. Bruce M. Malibett, 22, of Mountain View, an anti-submarine warfare technician, was thrown clear of the Navy plane. He was taken to a hospital, where doctors said he was in critical condition with burns and fractures.

A golfer had covered Malibett with his parachute, believing him dead, when Kimball reached the crash scene.

"People threw a chute over the body, but I yanked it off and felt his pulse and he was alive," Kimball said.

It was nearly three hours after the crash before the first bodies could be removed.

Debris was scattered over a 100-yard radius of the golf course, which borders Interstate 101 about 45 miles south of San Francisco.

The crash was within 100 yards of the freeway, where which planes approaching Moffett usually cross at an altitude from 50 to 100 feet as they come in on a north by northwest course, a NASA official said.

The Navy has identified the pilot of the Navy P3 Orion turboprop as Lt. Stephen A. Schwarting, 28, of Storrs, Conn., and Santa Clara, Calif. He is survived by his widow and two children.

New Criminal Justice Bill Sent Governor

HARTFORD (AP)—A bill to join all prosecutors in Connecticut superior and circuit courts is on its way to the governor.

But a bill to reform the state's divorce statute has been left waiting in the lurch.

The state senate voted 22-12 Thursday to establish a criminal justice division in the Judiciary Department to coordinate crime fighting activities.

The House, meanwhile, voted 107-31 to reject a senate amendment to the divorce bill and thus send the measure to a joint conference committee.

The vote on the criminal justice bill split along party lines with Democrats calling it unnecessary.

The bill would create the office of chief state attorney and give him power to oversee all prosecution activities.

He and his deputy would be appointed by the chief justice of the Connecticut Supreme Court and would become the first state level officials with power to limit criminal cases.

State's attorneys and prosecuting attorneys would continue to be appointed by superior and circuit court judges respectively but no longer would be restricted to operating only in the counties or circuits from which they were appointed.

The senate amendment to the divorce bill would have canceled several previous house amendments and essentially returned the bill to its original form.

Reaction Of Officials Mixed To Proposed Danbury Project

HARTFORD (AP)—A racially integrated, multi-income community planned for the shores of Lake Candlewood north of Danbury has drawn mixed reaction from New Fairfield and Sherman officials.

The 28-acre project, which planners hope will accommodate 8,000 people, meets the approval of the two towns' zoning boards before it can go forward.

Kenneth McIvaine, chairman of the New Fairfield Zoning Board, said "I'm not opposed to it at all" but said the project would have an "astronomical" effect on the way of life of his community.

"I think it would take away some of the ruralness of New Fairfield," he said. He said the population increase resulting from the project "might be a little tough" to absorb.

But, he added, he will "have to look at it with an open mind" when the proposal is formally presented.

The first selection of Sherman, Kenneth F. Grant, said "I feel they are creating something that is against everything the town has worked for over the years. They have given no consideration whatsoever to the local people's opinions."

Grant said that if the project were approved, "You'd be seeing every piece of virgin land in this town open for this kind of thing." He claimed the proposed site for the project would be reached only by roads with "hairpin turns" that are difficult to clear of snow in the winter.

Selections Denis M. Leahy of New Fairfield said the project would, for the sake of a "money-making venture," ignore present laws limiting new land parcels to one or two acres.

"There's growing in leaps and bounds now and we're not ready for what we have," Leahy said. "It would turn New Fairfield from a suburban town into an urban town."

New Fairfield has 7,600 residents; Sherman's population is 1,500.

The $50 million project, called WatersEdge, is being planned by the Sherman Acting Institute (SAI) and by Steve Gold of New Fairfield, a businessman who owned the land. SAI has been active in opposing zoning laws in Fairfield County, Conn., New York and New Jersey that it considers discriminatory to low-income and minority families.

SAI director Paul Daviddoff said Thursday that 40 per cent of the residents would have family incomes of less than $13,000, Connecticut's median income.

Brents, a low-income family would be subsidized by an SAI subsidiary.

Another SAI director, Neil N. Gold, said there would be no quotas for blacks. "Rather than exclude them, we will try to include them," he said.

The development, to be built without federal or state funds, would include apartments and condominiums, a village center, a recreation center and a school, constructed over a 10-year period.

Rents, before developer subsidizing, would range from $160 a month for a one-bedroom apartment to $250 for a four-bedroom unit. Townhouses would sell for $22,000 to $23,000.
