

Carpet, School Issue Going to Arbitration

Problems with new carpet at Nathan Hale, Robertson, and Keeney St. Schools and the Town Building Committee's acceptance date for the Nathan Hale School addition will be subjects of arbitration between the Town of Manchester and Bartlett-Brainard & Eacott Inc. the general contractor for the school projects.

Members of the Town Building Committee (TBC) held a special meeting Tuesday night with representatives of the general contractor, and apparently no progress was made toward settlement of the carpet problem. "They wouldn't budge," TBC Chairman Paul Phillips explained, saying that the matter will be referred to Town Counsel David Barry for legal action.

They (Bartlett-Brainard & Eacott) have been very uncooperative all the way through the school renovation and addition projects," Phillips said. Phillips said he could not recall any other school projects where there have been such disagreements with a contractor.

Paul Hawley, vice president of Bartlett-Brainard & Eacott, said the disagreement is over terminology, and his firm "is not trying to agitate the town."

The carpet problem at the three schools involves the lack of a static-control fiber which was called for in the contract specifications. The TBC is holding the general contractor responsible for installing the wrong carpet, which cost approximately $3,000 less than the specified carpet, according to architect Richard Manley.

The contractor claims he was relieved of the responsibility to provide static control by a letter from the architect. Town Counsel Barry told the TBC that, in his opinion, the architect's letter didn't change the contract specifications.

TBC members have discussed several alternatives as solutions to the carpet problem, including a requirement that the contractor replace the carpet; an adjustment of the contract price to reflect the lower-cost carpet installed; or installation of humidifiers at the three schools to control static electricity problems.

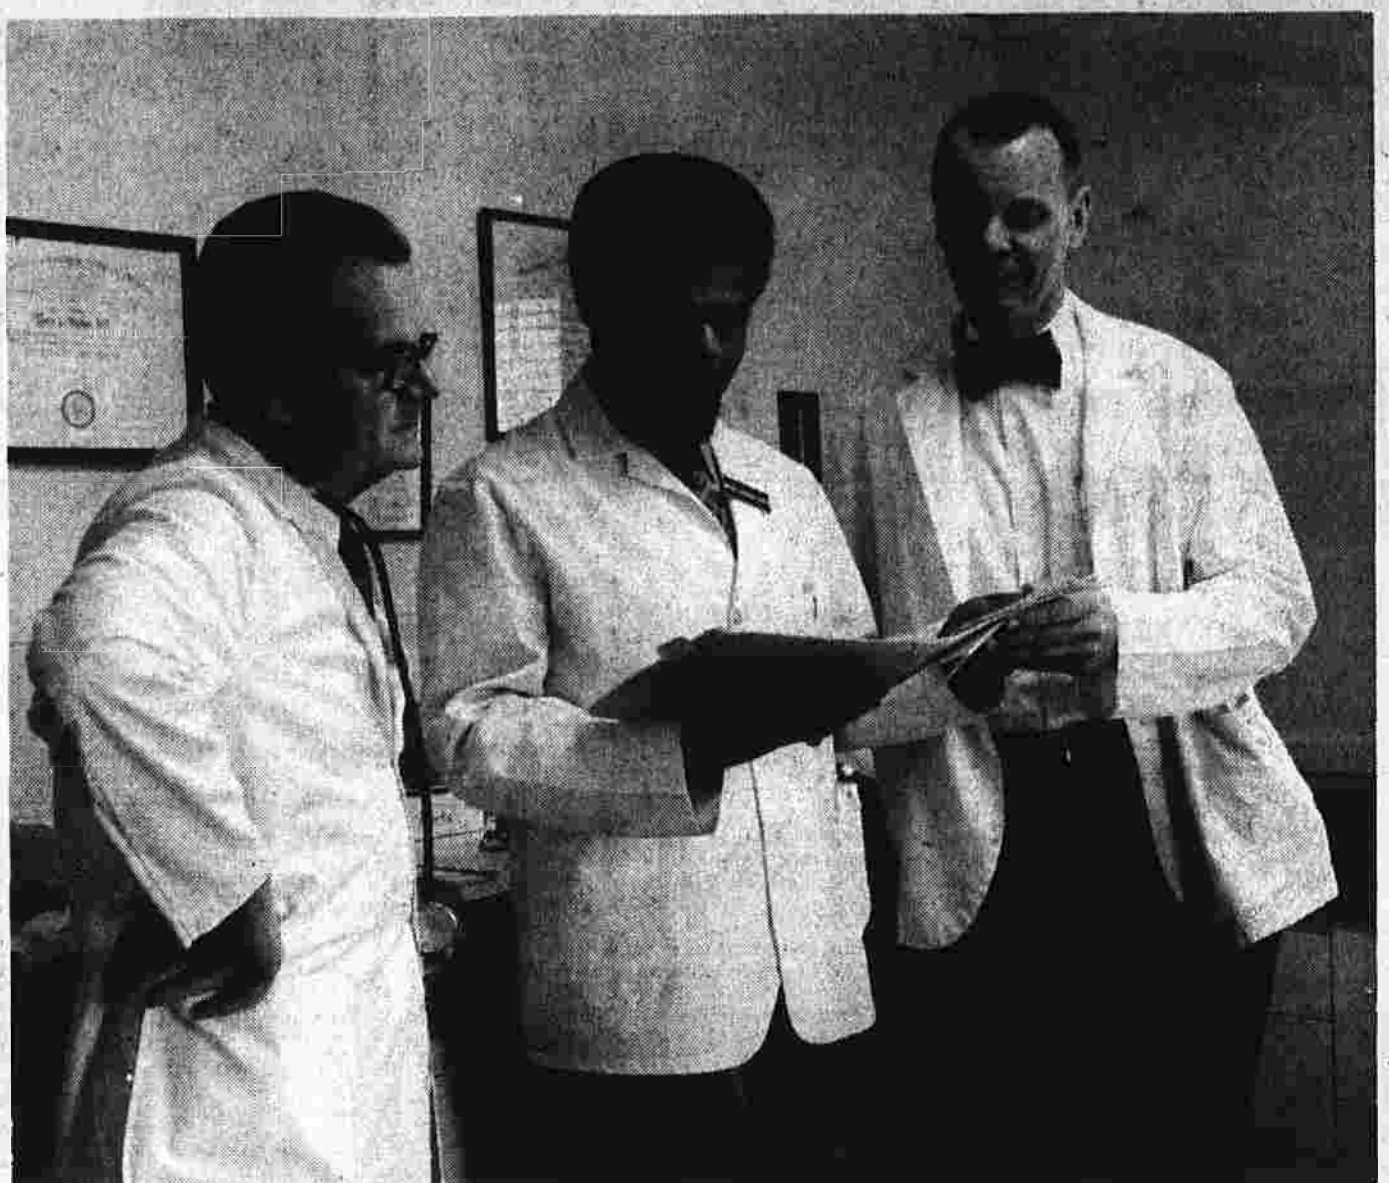

Manley told the TBC Tuesday night that installation of humidifiers at just Robertson School — where there have been complaints about electrical shocks received as a result of the carpet — would cost about $15,000.

After hearing the alternatives suggested by the TBC, Hawley indicated Tuesday night that his firm would not take any corrective action, according to Phillips.

The matter of the acceptance date for the addition to Nathan Hale School involves the date for the start of a one-year guarantee of the work. The TBC has set March 6, 1973 as the start-of-guarantee date for the addition, but Hawley said there is "no way" that date can be accepted by the contractor.

Hawley says the one-year guarantee should have started when the Nathan Hale addition was occupied, in September 1972. But the TBC wouldn't set that date, because there were several unfinished items in the school at that time.

Completion of several minor items in the Nathan Hale kitchen will not come until this summer, Hawley told TBC members. He said the work will take about two weeks.

Medex Aide Eyed Pianist Career

June B. Tompkins (Herald Reporter) Wrote it not for the fact that an aspiring concert pianist discovered it took more money to attend a research laboratory at Stanford University. He was given a job of controlling a colony of 2,500 white mice.

From this point on, his interest and association with laboratory medical research grew to the extent that he enrolled at Northeastern University in Boston and graduated as a licensed laboratory technician. After his graduation, he acquired a research job in chemistry on the staff of Harvard Medical School. The job involved research in cancer.

He later applied for training under the Medex program at Dartmouth Medical School in Hanover, N.H., and for three months, underwent an extensive training program of demonstrations, lectures, and classes in terminology with heavy emphasis on medicine, psychiatry, and pediatrics.

At the end of the total training period, Jackson-White will be in search of a more permanent position. Mild-mannered and soft spoken, he expresses a desire to eventually pursue research in cancer.

His wife, Colette, is presently a supervisor with Blue Cross and Blue Shield in the Medicare Department of the Boston office.

School Aid-Impact Funds Released

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration today confirmed it will release $67 million in impact aid to thousands of school districts located near federal installations.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare said a statement will be released later explaining how the money will be distributed. The decision makes a sharp turnaround in thinking of the White House. Earlier, it had impounded a substantial portion of the funds.

Reaction Of Officials Mixed To Proposed Danbury Project

HARTFORD (AP) — A racially integrated, multi-income community planned for the shores of Lake Candlewood north of Danbury has drawn mixed reaction from New Fairfield and Sherman officials.

The 28-acre project, which planners hope will accommodate 8,000 people, needs the approval of the state's zoning boards before it can go forward. Kenneth McIlvaine, chairman of the New Fairfield Zoning Board, said "I'm not opposed to it at all" but said the project would have an "astronomical" effect on the way of life of his community.

The house also passed and sent to the senate a bill that would give Connecticut banking institutions authority to make mortgage loans on property outside the state.

The senate passed a bill to require a spare air brake system on new school buses purchased after next year.

Sheinwold on Bridge
TOURNAMENT REVEALS MISSED OPPORTUNITIES BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD
One important difference between tournament bridge and ordinary rubber bridge is that in a tournament the many hands are played at many different tables. If the results are different, you can't complain that you had bad cards. They were just as bad for everybody else.
East-West vulnerable
Opening lead — Three of Hearts
In today's hand, most players ruffed the opening heart lead, returned a diamond to dummy, and led a trump back. West took the ace of diamonds to find out why East had played the nine on the first round of that suit.
It was then easy to lead another diamond and give East a ruff. Eventually South had to give up a club. Down one.
The successful players ruffed the first heart and immediately returned the king of trumps. There was no diamond ruff, and the J-10 of spades dropped. Result: four spades bid and made.
Not Guesswork
If East had A-x of spades, the other line of play would be better. The successful players just happened to guess a little better, you might say.
Not so. The first trick reveals that East has started with five hearts headed by A-J or possibly A-Q-J. Moreover, East almost surely has either the ace or king of clubs. (If West held both of the top clubs he would have led the king of clubs.) If East held both of the top clubs he would have doubled four spades. Hence West should hold the ace of spades.
Once you locate the ace of spades in the West hand, there is no advantage in leading spades from the dummy. Lead them from your own hand and avoid the risk of a diamond ruff.

RECORD LAND USE
TORONTO (AP) — The amount of new and used for industrial purposes in the Toronto area reached a record last year, John Hopkins, president of the Metropolitan Toronto Industrial Commission, said.
"Just over 1,700 acres were utilized by industrial developers for speculative building, new plants and expansion of growing local firms. This total represents a substantial increase over the 1971 figure of 627 acres," he said.

'Orpheus' At Hartt Smash Hit
John Gruber
"Orpheus in his Underwear." Oper! Let's start over. "Orpheus in the Underworld" is a smash hit at Hartt College where it will be on view through Sunday night. If you can get a ticket by fair means or foul, be sure to go. You'll have a fine time.
The 115-year-old spoof of opera in general and Gluck's opera "Orpheus" in particular is thoroughly enjoyable by any standards. The Offenbach music is sprightly, the text by Clematis and Haley is funny, the translation by Buck and Thomas Martin makes the whole thing intelligible, the staging by Oswald Ruffalo is good (even if a bit over busy) and the musical direction by guest Frank Brief is first rate.
If this production had opened last night on Broadway it would be settling in for a three-year run today, even though it is a long show by today's standards and not a few people left before the final curtain at the end. Yes, it's that cancan you always think of when you have occasion to think about a cancan.
Actually the dancing was the weakest part of the show but it was reasonably acceptable, while the rest of it was stunningly professional. Costuming was also somewhat on the stately side, but this can be forgiven in a student production.
The work was a "success de scandale" when first produced in Paris but its success at everything from opera to marriage by way of classical myth is strikingly modern today. There were some really excellent portrayals last evening, but since two casts will alternate, I shall follow my usual custom with these productions and name nobody.
Actually the work is in two acts with two scenes in each act. As presented at Hartt, the first two scenes become two separate acts, and since they require nearly an hour each, this is a logical change: Act III in the present production is really the original Act II with two scenes.
There was a lot of fun to be had and the cast seemed to be enjoying itself. The tempo was excellent and most of the principals played with a finish that belied their years. The music isn't too difficult so both orchestras and vocalists acquitted themselves well.
Incidentally, three Manchester students are in the cast, in roles ranging from small to minuscule. They are Duncan Bockus, Ilga Paups and Donald Embser.
Try to get to this one. It's certainly worth the effort.

Plan Anniversary Balls
The Sequentiennial Ball will be held on two consecutive nights, June 29 and 30.
The affairs, under the direction of Mrs. H. John Malone and Mrs. Jack Hunter, co-chairmen, will be held at the Manchester Armory, Main St.
The armory will be decorated with silver and gold motifs for the ball.
Due to the efforts of the ball committee the affair is a complete sellout on both nights.
The Sequentiennial Ball Committee is made up of the following members:
Mrs. Tom Ferguson, town director; Mrs. Fred Geyer and Mrs. John Mrosek, ticket chairmen; Mrs. Ronald Jacobs, correspondence; Mrs. John Tierney and Mrs. George Lawrence, decorations; Mrs. James McCarthy and Mrs. Leo Charendoff, arrangements; Mrs. Bernard Apter, reservations; and Mrs. Paul Witthide, publicity.

Hiking Easement Sought
Dr. Douglas Smith, a member of the Hockanum River Linear Park Coordinating Committee, has announced that the first easement of property on the Union Pond to allow a hiking trail is expected to be signed soon.
Owners of the property, Mae and Barney Wichman and the town council have worked out a lease arrangement, according to Dr. Smith.
The committee has requested an easement of a strip about 800 feet long along the east side of Union Pond, including a 100-foot-wide flat area.
This property is one of several along the pond which is part of the Hockanum River Concourse and the committee is endeavoring to preserve the banks of the river in their natural state and to provide hiking and bicycle trails and other recreation sites.
Within the next few weeks, committee members plan to meet with other property owners regarding further easements.
Mrs. Mary Roach, committee member, prepared a brief history of the development around Union Pond up to the present, which she presented to the committee.
The committee is planning a brochure of the history and a small map designating points of interest.
The next meeting of the committee is set for May 10 in the Municipal Building.

Real Test To Come

The score, at the time of this writing, is Nixon 2, Congress 0, in the battle of the vetoes.

Recently, the House failed to muster enough votes to override President Nixon's veto of a rural sewer and water grant bill.

Last week, the Senate failed in a similar effort to override his veto of the $2.6 billion vocational rehabilitation program.

Both bills had been vetoed by the President as a part of his pledge to veto any bill sent to him which he felt called for excessive public funds or programs which either duplicate others or do not have merit.

Thus the battle lines are becoming more defined as the executive and legislative branches assert their powers.

Neither bill, however, represents a true test since the programs involved were not truly national in scope.

Obviously, in the House voting for example, it was not too difficult for Republican leaders to hold city or urban-oriented congressmen in line.

Similarly, the Senate vote, while involving a huge sum, was on a vast collection of programs which involved expansion of them rather than complete elimination. The failure of the bill merely means at this stage that most of the programs will continue at present levels or through other means.

One implication cropping up frequently is that the proposed shift from categorical grants to block grants to the states, counties and towns, would enable local agencies to carry on the objectives of the vocational and rehabilitation programs more effectively and efficiently.

A better test, we feel, will come later in the session as the Congress gets more and more feedback from its committees on new legislation and the cost of such legislation. The two bills already vetoed and sustained were actually re-introduced bills vetoed by the President late in the last session.

As we see it, the real test may well be the categorical vs. block grant concept itself.

Congress in the past has favored the categorical grant because the congressman is a key element in it. He can say, "I voted for sewers, better schools, etc.," and cite specific dollars and cents spent from the federal treasury in his district and the communities in his district.

Block grants, on the other hand, would leave the decision of how and where the funds would be used to the states and other local governmental units involved.

The congressman can see himself be shoved aside as a hero and left exposed as a possible villain. The locally-decided project which succeeds will reflect glory on the administration which made it possible by cutting the federal apron-strings. However, should one go sour, it will be the congressman who is campaigning more frequently and who is more accessible to his constituents that will bear the brunt of the criticism.

He is then faced with the dilemma of trying to fix blame on the distant administration which is difficult at best or pledging some congressional controls which is re-tying the apron strings, and saying in effect, that because of his constituents' can't be trusted, all must be regulated.

It would be our hope that the block grant concept will be given a try. We can only suggest, as others have also, some transitory combination program might be necessary to minimize the detrimental effects of changes on many of the programs under categorical grants which are working well, yet permitting the shutting off of those which are obviously failing.

Analysis of the success and failures of the categorical grants as a whole should be tempered by individual successes and failures since such information could prove valuable in providing guidelines and experiences for the benefit of state and local officials when they set and administer programs under block grants.

Clearly, it is time for the administration to bend a little and for the Congress to take a more conciliatory attitude.

The fact remains, methods to the contrary, that both desire and want federal funds to achieve optimum results. And more important than this is what the people are demanding too.

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Friday, April 13, the 103rd day of 1973. There are 262 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1783, the third American president and author of the Declaration of Independence, Thomas Jefferson, was born in Albemarle County, Va.

On this date —

In 1365, King Richard II of England was born.

In 1568, King Henry IV of France signed the edict of Nantes, granting a large measure of religious liberty to the Protestant Huguenots.

In 1776, Gen. George Washington arrived in New York to prepare the city's defense in the Revolutionary War.
In 1943, President Franklin D. Roosevelt dedicated the Jefferson Memorial in Washington.

Easter Finery

WASHINGTON — It just occurred to me that no one I know, male or female, is buying a new outfit for Easter Sunday. This is sensible, I suppose, reflecting the rather grim rationality of the age, but I wonder if it does not take some of the zip out of the day. Easter was big when I was a boy in a small Massachusetts town. Everybody wore something new to church even if it was only a $1 necktie or a hat smothered in spring flowers. The hubbub display of fashion was seen at Notre Dame Church because in a day when the WASPS were declining in both numbers and wealth the French-Canadians had become the big spenders.

But the Irish and Italians at St. Mary's, most of whom lived in three story frame "tenements," did their best by custom. The Italian girls, shepherded down the aisle by their stern-faced mothers, seen in memory to have been particularly chic and comely, although there were always enough Mortarty, Duffy and Hogans to make a decent Irish showing.

Two weeks before Easter, a boy was marched downtown by his mother or father (or, in the case of one unfortunate friend, an only child, both). I was fastened into a new blue serge suit at the Edwards Co., the leading department store. My shoes were bought at Gregoire's, whose patriarch had served my Scottish maternal grandmother, and my shirt, tie, long black lisle stockings and cap at Goodwin Bros.

Cap came in handy when I inserted in the crown to give the cap body. The cap was "new" only while the tissue paper was in place. When the paper was discarded, or, more likely, snatched by some bigger boys and ripped to shreds, the cap became old.

One cap, worn proudly by a friend named Francis O'Shaughnessy, set a new world's record for aging. On an Easter Sunday automobile ride, the cap was snatched from his head by a girl named Betty, and the tissue paper thrown to the winds. It was never found.

One reason Easter Sunday was such a joyous occasion was that Lent was so austerely observed. A boy was expected to suffer during Lent, especially if he was a Catholic nurtured by an Episcopalian who knew her duty and did it. She was not going to let people say, "What can you expect from a Protestant mother?"

So there were church services every Wednesday and Friday evening and confession every Saturday afternoon. It was always winter during Lent, and after a mile-long walk the church was if anything colder than the icy outside. Father Mullins didn't waste money on electricity, either, so St. Mary's seemed as gloomy as Good Friday on Golgotha. But Father Mullins never scribbled on the devotions. They lasted for what seemed hours, while I suffered my bare, spintery kneeling rails.

Inside Report

Rowland Eans and Robert Novak

Japan's American Problem

TOKYO — When the senior bureaucrat in the Ministry of International Trade and Industry (MITI) personally delivered to Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka statistics indicating an easing of the economic threat to the U.S.-Japanese alliance, Tanaka's reaction was typically blunt: I don't believe it.

The MITI bureaucrats predicted that the present $4 billion Japanese surplus in trade between the two countries would drop to $2.5 billion over the next year. Tanaka, a politician-businessman with a distrust for bureaucrats, thinks that guess wildly over-optimistic. So does American businessman Robert Ingersoll, the U.S. ambassador to Japan. Tanaka and Ingersoll independently conclude a surplus of around $5 billion would be more realistic.

The continued huge surplus means deeper trouble yet ahead in U.S.-Japanese relations. Ingersoll will press ever harder to open Japan to U.S. imports, but (as we reported earlier) there seems little hope here for American products. The result: continued pressure on Japan to lessen exports to the U.S., renewing bitterness here that Japan must sacrifice to save non-competitive American business.

The deepening dispute over trade contributes to stresses between the two economic superpowers which have persisted since the "Nixon shocks" 18 months ago. U.S.-Japanese relations have never been the same. Scheduled reciprocal visits between Tanaka and President Nixon, Emperor Hirohito's proposed American tour and Dr. Henry A.

The Strongman

As for the end of an export-conscious mentality, U.S. officials privately feel Japanese businessmen are only giving it lip service. Agreeing, one industrialist asked us: "How do you tell an international sales manager not to sell?"

Thus, the prospect is for more U.S. muscle — possibly tariffs authorized by the forthcoming trade bill — to hold down exports, breeding still more resentment here. That resentment could get serious if serious economic dislocation results in Japan. So far, only the textiles industry has suffered. In that case, Japanese are bitter that the textile agreement forced on them by Washington has badly hurt the Japanese industry while not really helping the beleaguered, non-competitive American industries.

The undercurrents of irritation are played down by older, high-ranking officials who recognize Japan's debt for past U.S. generosity and reliance on the present U.S. nuclear shield for protection against Japan's two Communist neighbors: China and, more particularly, the Soviet Union.

But that very reliance angers a younger generation of Japanese nearing power, including Diet members from the ruling Conservative party who are markedly less pro-American than their elders. Because Washington knows Tokyo needs the Seventh Fleet, these Diet members say, the Americans feel free to coerce Japan economically.

Thus, the tiresome dispute over boring trade statistics cannot be separated from passionate political questions. In an interview with us, Foreign Minister Ohira described the huge Japanese trade surplus as "unsound"—an abnormal situation which must be rectified. But rectification may entail Japan bowing to U.S. pressure against exports, conflicting with the new nationalism rising among younger Japanese — a phenomenon worthy of a final column from Japan.

To the editor:
In your edition of the Manchester Evening Herald Saturday, April 7, you carried quite a report of the proceedings that took place at the Tolland Democratic Town Committee meeting the night before, Friday, April 6.

There was no by-time of who wrote the story, and there was no reporter present from the Manchester Herald at this meeting. I am most curious to know where you received this report as the Democratic Town Committee voted five years ago to support my views and that is, all press releases on behalf of the Democratic Town Committee were to be released by the chairman's secretary with the chairman's approval.

The writer of this article was quick to identify the Democratic town chairman of Tolland as the center of the controversy but fails to report the real "heart" of the meeting when a long time member of the Democratic party and town committee member openly accused and named the two people who have ruined the Democratic party and split the Democratic Town Committee in Tolland.

Why didn't the writer of the article of April 5, 1973, report this? There is no question the article was written with prejudice and bias.

HEW Rejects UConn Equal Job Plan

STORRS (AP) — The federal Health, Education and Welfare Department has criticized a government-mandated plan by the University of Connecticut to eliminate discrimination in the school's hiring policies.

HEW's Boston Office of Civil Rights informed UConn's Acting President Edward V. Gant in a letter made public Thursday that the university plan for equal employment is "essentially defective in nature" and fails to meet federal standards.

HEW rejected the plan to have Gant as university provost act as the school's equal employment opportunities officer. The federal agency said it was unlikely that Gant could properly handle the responsibilities of EEO officer because of his other commitments.

The plan was drafted several months ago after an HEW report that charged the university's hiring policies were in violation of federal guidelines prohibiting hiring discrimination because of sex or racial considerations.

UConn responded with a denial of the HEW allegations, but the federal agency said the university's plan failed to contain detailed procedures for development and implementation of programs that would eliminate hiring deficiencies.

HEW informed Gant that the university would have until May 1 to revise and resubmit its plan or face sanctions and penalties which could include cancellation of federal contracts and loss of federal funds.

Obscenity Bills Discussed

HARTFORD (AP) — A librarian and a member of the Connecticut Civil Liberties Union (CCLU) stated their opposition Thursday to bills before the Legislative Judiciary Committee to change the state's obscenity laws.

One of the bills defines obscenity, while the other restricts sale of pornographic material in places frequented by minors.

Bridgeport attorney Alvin Pudis said neither bill would be able to withstand a court test.

He said the bill sponsored by Reps. Bernard L. Avocelle, D-Naugatuck, and Michael R. Colucci, D-Waterbury, redefining obscenity was similar to one struck down recently by a New Jersey judge.

The other bill, he said, would make any distributor who sold "Playboy" magazine guilty of obscenity.

Avocelle said he didn't care what adults read, but he was concerned about exposure of children to obscene materials. He said Connecticut's present

Bermuda Banning Gun Ownership

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — The government is moving to ban the private ownership of guns on Bermuda — including toy guns that look like real ones — until the end of the year.

This British colony 600 miles east of the Carolinas has been the scene of five murders in the last seven months and six armed holdups so far this year.

The British governor, Sir Richard Sharples, and his aide, Capt. Hugh Bayley, were assassinated outside Government House in March and two men were killed last weekend while counting their supermarket receipts.

POWs Recall Religious Experiences

By The Associated Press

In the isolation of the Vietnam war prisons, minds and imaginations were stretched, and there, cut off from the ordinary distractions of life, the American captives made a discovery.

"For some reason I suddenly felt I wasn't alone," one of them recalls. "I don't know whether it was the power of prayer or an intervention by God. There is nothing physical you can document, but when you experience something like that, it is real."

Those recollections of Capt. James E. Ray, of Conroe, Tex., and similar accounts by many others of the returned prisoners of war regularly cited unexpected powers of faith and prayer that welled up to sustain them.

He and others say they believe that spiritual help, attained through prayer, was the basic element in bringing them through their ordeal. "I was able to sustain life and hope through the faith I have in God," Capt. Howard Rutledge told his home Baptist congregation at Clairmont, Calif.

Others told of improvising worship services, exchanging remembered verses of Scripture, and putting together key portions of the Bible through memory.

"Many of the men knew verses from the Bible and these were shared, so we were able to compile a good knowledge of much of the Bible," relates Maj. Norman McDaniel, of Greensboro, N.C.

He developed a daily routine, relates Lt. Cmdr. William M. Tschudy of Virginia Beach, Va., in remembering long stretches of solitary confinement in which he became aware of realities in himself he had never imagined.

"I shouldn't say I developed it; I developed itself. When I woke up each morning, the first segment of the day was spent saying my prayers."

A dramatic description of surprising strength found in faith came from Capt. Jeremiah A. Denton in Atlanta. He tells of receding torture to get him to betray communication methods used among prisoners. After five days in a "torture rig" he says, he wrote something useless for his captors "but they didn't buy it." He goes on:

"They put me back in the same rig for five more days and that was the time I simply told God He would just have to take over. I had reached the end. I knew that if I had to write the next time, I would write something harmful, so I just turned myself over to Him."

"I have never had a prayer answered so spectacularly in my life. As soon as I got that prayer out, this mantle of comfort came over me and I couldn't feel any more pain. Even when they beat the hell out of me and lightened up right to the maximum, I was just as comfortable as if I were sitting in a plush auto."

EPA Action On Autos Criticized

HARTFORD (AP) — Gov. Thomas J. Meskill Thursday criticized the federal government's decision to impose varying pollution standards on 1973 model cars sold in different states.

"Meskill said the decision by the Federal Environmental Protection Agency will allow the sale in Connecticut of cars which will cause more pollution than cars sold in California."

He said he would ask the co-chairmen of the General Assembly's Environmental Committee if it was possible through state legislation this year to give Connecticut residents the same pollution standards as the federal standards provide for Californians.

"It is ludicrous for the federal government, which has thousands of employees working toward equal treatment of all Americans, to arbitrarily decide that it will not merely allow but in fact codify varying vital health standards because of where lines fall on a map. The decision empties the words 'equal protection' of any meaning," he said.

"The people in Connecticut cannot hold their breath for a year while Detroit fences with Washington. If car manufacturers can meet the needs of the California market with cleaner, less pollution-causing cars, I think they should be required to meet the needs of the Connecticut market," he added.

"I am not satisfied with a plan which calls for different treatment of the problem in different areas of the country. It is up to Washington to determine whether they have to extend the time for compliance, but I will demand that Connecticut citizens get equal treatment from all federal agencies," he said.

The EPA gave the auto industry a one-year extension on its original 1970 deadline for installing anti-pollution equipment on all automobiles. The extension applies to cars sold in all states except California, where pollution is considered a greater problem than in other areas.

Columbia Voters Approve $26,000 For Landfill Purchase

VIRGINIA CARLSON, Correspondent
Tel. 228-9224
About 50 persons attending a special town meeting Tuesday night voted to appropriate $26,000 to buy 20.4 acres of land on Rt. 6 for a sanitary landfill. The money will be taken from the revenue sharing funds.
They also rescinded the action of a special town meeting in May 1972 which had authorized the purchase of the land for $37,100.
First Selectman Howard Bates had negotiated with the state to bring down the price after a private appraiser said the state's first price was too high.
James Carey of Lake Rd. opposed rescinding the action of the May 1972 meeting because he said Tuesday's meeting was called "on a very poor night" on a controversial matter and a major expenditure for the town.
He said there are two different organizations in town (PTA and Planning and Zoning Commission) which had meetings scheduled a year in advance and it was for this reason he was opposed. He added, "The attendance at this town meeting speaks for itself."
Moderator Donald Tuttle said the meeting was properly called, advertised, warned and legal.
Bates said the purchase of the land has been going on about a year and it was necessary to call the meeting as rapidly as possible in order to begin operations.

Canoe Club
A "Paddle-A-Thon" will be held during the next several weeks at the Columbia Cooperative Nursery School.
The aim of the program is to introduce the children to different persons in the community representing various professions, skills and hobbies. Anyone wishing to participate in the program is asked to call Mrs. Dee Scott.

Completes Course
Sam Pescatello, building official, has completed a four-day course on heating at the American Standard Training Center, Princeton, N.J.
The course was recommended as part of the building official's training, but the town did not sponsor the $250 course, Pescatello said.
Pescatello said knowledge of heating systems would avert possible problems which could occur after installation.

World Almanac Facts
Americans spent about $4.9 billion in 1972 to buy more than 148,000,000 replacement tires according to a recent U.S. government report. The survey estimated that consumers wasted about $250,000,000 because of improperly inflated tires. The World Almanac notes. Motorists were urged to check their tires regularly with an inexpensive hand pressure gauge to get better wear.

Desegregation Progress Noted

WASHINGTON (AP) — School desegregation made "continuing but lesser gains" throughout the nation last fall, according to a new government survey.
The Department of Health, Education and Welfare said 38.8 per cent of 2.4 million black children were enrolled in predominantly white schools in the fall of 1972. This compares with 33.1 per cent in 1970 and 23.4 per cent in 1968.
Meanwhile, black enrollment in all-black schools dropped to 10.9 per cent or 711,757 children, compared with 14 per cent in 1970 and 39.7 per cent in 1968.
The third national survey covers districts with more than 3,000 pupils, districts desegregating voluntarily or under court orders, and a sampling of smaller districts.
An HEW spokesman said it does not reflect mid-year changes in Prince Georges County, Md. and in Nashville, and Memphis, Tenn.
A breakdown of statistics for individual states and cities will not be available until June, the spokesman said.
The survey shows that desegregation in the 11 Southern states, with nearly half the nation's 6.6 million black children of school age, continued to outstrip gains in states and the six Border and the 23 Northern and Western states.

Gardening

FRANK ATWOOD

The first tulips and the last snow, one hopes, came together on Sunday, April 8. These early tulips on short stems are Cesar Franck. The petals are alternately red and yellow on the outside and entirely yellow on the inside. It is an old variety of the Kaufmanniana class and seems to be completely hardy, blossoming reliably year after year. (Photo by Atwood)

We were having an early spring until the start of this week. Sunday's little snow shower, followed in midweek by cold rain and Arctic air, have put on the brakes, but plant development is still ahead of the usual spring calendar.

Forsythia bushes are starting to open into yellow bloom. The first daffodils and tulips have been blossoming for a week and at our house there is one yellow dandelion in the warm sunshine close to the kitchen steps.

Keep that dandelion in a row of Thalia narcissus. It is undeniably a weed, but as the first of its kind to blossom every spring, it's welcome.

At the start of this week, John Zapadka of Woodland Gardens was saying in his positive fashion, "Everything is two weeks early." There has been a temporary delay because of lower temperatures, but Mr. Zapadka still thinks his estimate is accurate. "The found in full of moisture," he pointed out. "As soon as we have a few warm days everything will pop up."

John Whitman, landscape nurseryman in Bolton, was somewhat more cautious. "The buds are breaking a little earlier," he observed, "but nature is a funny thing." He rather expected things to be a normal schedule before long.

"Poor Man's Fertilizer" Last Sunday's fertilizer, melted in a few hours, did no harm to vegetation of any kind, and if you were smart enough to spread fertilizer and ground limestone on your lawn before the little storm, these nutrient materials were dissolved and carried down to the roots thoroughly and gently.

A late snowstorm is often called "poor man's fertilizer" and this gentle soaking as the snow melts is beneficial to the turf and the atmosphere. Certainly the air was washed clean and delightfully clear by the little storm.

Grass "Greening Lip" The grass in Manchester's parks and playgrounds is "greening up nicely" in the words of Ernest Turcek, superintendent of parks. The men in his department have started their spring chores of spreading fertilizer and ground limestone on your lawn before the little storm, these nutrient materials were dissolved and carried down to the roots thoroughly and gently.

It has also been supposed that there was some nutrient material in the snow itself as it brings down the smoke and other pollutants from the atmosphere. Certainly the air was washed clean and delightfully clear by the little storm.

During the month of April, the church will have several missionary speakers and films at its services.

The film will show the place of Christ's crucifixion, the tomb where he was laid, as well as other historical scenes. It will portray the return of the Jews to their homeland, and show how modern Israel is fulfilling the Bible prophecy.

Sacred Concert Set

A Sacred Concert will be presented Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at Concordia Lutheran Church by the Concordia Choir and Chamber Orchestra under the direction of David L. Almond.

This special Holy Week concert is open to the public. The program will include the first performance of "Oratorio and Toccata for Strings" by Almond. Other selections are "The Seven Words of Christ on the Cross" by Heinrich Schuetz and Cantata No. 4: "Christ lag in Todesbanden" ("Christ lay by Death Enshrouded") by Johann Sebastian Bach.

Soloists are Mrs. Hilda Slade of Manchester, soprano; Miss Karen Ware of Manchester, mezzo-soprano; Miss Nancy Gutreich of Manchester, alto; the Rev. Kenneth T. Michay of Stafford Springs, tenor; and Woodward Waeche of Glastonbury, bass.

Mrs. Slade is soloist at St. James Episcopal Church in Glastonbury and also sings at Temple Beth Shalom, where her husband is organist. She has sung on numerous occasions with the Concordia Choir including its three television appearances on Channels 3 and 5.

Miss Ware and Miss Gutreich are graduates of Manchester High School, where they were members of the Round Table Singers. They are also regular members of Concordia Choir.

The Rev. Mr. Michay has been pastor of Holy Trinity Lutheran Church in Stafford Springs for the past seven years. He is a member of the Stafford Community Chorus and has served with the Concordia Choir on several occasions including its television performances of the "St. John Passion" by Schuetz.

Waeche has appeared as soloist at several concerts in the Hartford and New Britain areas and is soloist at Congregation Beth Israel and at the Asylum Hill Congregational Church, Hartford.

Middletown Woman Wins Super 75

MIDDLETOWN (AP) - Cheered on by fellow employees from the local automotive parts company where she works, Miss Antoinette L. Mastergeorge, 54, of Middletown yesterday won the $75,000 top prize in the Connecticut state lottery.

Miss Mastergeorge, an inspector at The Elex Automotive Corp., where she has worked for 18 years, said she would take her winnings and "spend some, save some and contribute some amount to the cancer society. It's a terrible disease and I'd like to see it licked."

There were two $15,000 winners in the lottery, held at the Middletown Armory. William H. Torro, 85, of Westport said he would use his second prize winnings to pay for some household expenses.

Torro, retired president of his own lumber company, said his wife, Jeanette, teaches at Burr Farms School in Westport.

The second $15,000 winner was Jose Cruz, 41, of Wallingford. He too said he would use the money to pay household expenses.

Cruz married and the father of two children, works as a printer with the Stanley Co. in Wallingford.

The weekly number picked today in the Connecticut lottery was 65246.

State's Paid Selective Service Staff To Be Cut

HARTFORD (AP) - Connecticut's 92 paid Selective Service civilian and military workers will be reduced to 56 by Dec. 15, state Selective Service Director Frederick Palomba said Thursday.

He attributed the cutback to the three-phase staff reduction which will begin July 1 when the staff will be reduced to 9, he said. Then by Sept. 30, another cut will reduce the staff to 60, with the final slash completed by mid-December.

WHY DO PEOPLE KICK TIRES? AKRON, Ohio (AP) - It's almost a tradition to kick the tires of the car you're thinking of buying. But why?

Experts at Goodyear think it all began back in the early 1900s when the "clicker" tire was used on cars. This tire was held tight against the rim by clamps, and you kicked it to see if it was properly fastened and inflated.

Tires in those good old days lasted about 50 miles on average, Goodyear notes. By contrast, the company's newest tires are guaranteed for 40,000 miles, so kicking them doesn't really make much sense... unless you're superstitious or frustrated, the experts say.

It is said that makes have very poor eyesight and sense of hearing. O.C.'s experience would seem to confirm that.

Once O.C. and a partner were making wildlife areas in a state forest. The partner was loaded with a spray tank and pump so he called to O.C. to come and dispatch a rattler.

On the way, O.C. picked up a club that looked okay for the job. However, at the first swing the rattled club broke into pieces doing nothing more than to make the rattler excited. In a frenzy it began to strike out into the empty air in all directions. We were only five or six feet away but it didn't seem to see us moving or hear us talking.

After failing to connect with anything it quitted down on O.C. could administer the coup-de-grace.

If you disturb a venomous snake he is going to try to hit you. That's in self defense when he feels he's endangered. If he doesn't go looking for trouble and will avoid it if allowed a good chance. Men working among snakes develop the habit of caution about where they put their hands and feet, and accidents are very rare.

O.C. did a very foolish and careless thing once and luckily got away with it. While intent on his work, he suddenly discovered a copperhead ready to strike within a foot of his hand. The only way to explain his failure to strike was that he had no desire to and up to that point he didn't feel endangered. O.C. did not try to kill that one.

Snakes don't need eyes and ears when they hunt at night. They are continually flicking their tongues out tasting the air-borne scents and flavors and sensing the heat rays emanating from warm-blooded bodies.

We caught a copperhead and put him in an empty glass aquarium. We caught small frogs and toads and put them in for him. He paid no attention even when they hopped and crawled all over him. We put our hands and all different colored objects near the glass but he never noticed them.

But when a poker heated in the stove approached the heat enough to radiate some glass through it, that snake struck dead on the spot. It was not due to the color of the red hot rod. After it had cooled back to a black color it and another cold rod were alternately pressed against the glass. The cold one never got any response. The warm one seldom failed to induce a strike.

One night we fought a fire up a steep, rocky mountain side and at the top. When it was dead out we returned to camp intending to come back by daylight to pick up the hose. There in the path we were using half the night lay a copperhead, dead and slightly burned.

Digging and hoeing USED to be the best way to break up hard-pan soil. Now there's GRAND PRIZE Lawn & Garden Gypsum to do most of the hard work for you. Just spread it on your lawn or spade it into your garden. With adequate water, the clean, little white particles work their way down into the soil like little hoes, so soil can breathe, seeds can germinate with deeper roots and fertilizers can work better!

Jerry Baker says: "Gypsum should be applied to all lawns, flowers, trees and shrubs if the soil is the least bit hard or compacted. It will break up clay to render it useful and improve drainage."

Get GRAND PRIZE at your garden center or hardware store. It's the best way to hoe!

CRPA and CROCG Merger Doomed

SOL R. COHEN
(Herald Reporter)

The planned merger of the Capitol Region Council of Governments (CROCG) and the Capitol Region Planning Agency (CRPA) appears doomed, CROCG chairman Richard Blackstone confirmed yesterday.

Blackstone, who is mayor of East Hartford, said the merger and selection of the 26-town CROCG object to HUD (federal department of Housing and Urban Development) guidelines governing grants to planning agencies.

The objectionable guideline, said Blackstone, calls for citizen membership on the policy board of any organization receiving $100,000 or more in planning money.

Hebron Added $7,000 Approved For School Budget

ANNE EMT
Correspondent
Tel. 238-3971
The Board of Finance voted last night to approve a $7,000 request from the Board of Education for an additional appropriation to cover expenditures in the present operating budget and to bring the request to the annual budget meeting to be acted upon.

The deficit had been anticipated earlier in the year to be $11,000. However, latest figures now indicate that deficit items amounting to $12,817 will be partially offset by surplus items totaling $6,823.

The largest deficit the board has had to cope with this year is an additional $6,000 for special education tuition, an item over which it has no control.

Other surplus items are $2,600 for substitute teachers salaries, $1,200 for testing, $10,000 for special education transportation, $700 for heat, $700 for utilities, $700 for contracted services, $400 for equipment, $168 for contracted teachers, $124 for retroactive pay, and $25 for replacement of typewriter.

The board is realizing its largest surplus through a $2,800 savings on gasoline tax and $1,650 in savings on the salaries of 150 under custodians salaries due to change in staff.

Andover $8,000 Cut Asked In School Cost

ANNE EMT
Correspondent
Tel. 238-3971
The board of Education has requested by the Board of Finance to cut $8,000 from the requested budget for 1973-74 of $350,515, according to Mrs. Beatrice Kowalski, chairman.

Although no questions were raised at the budget hearing last Tuesday by residents, Mrs. Kowalski said yesterday that she was approached privately following the hearing by the finance board and presented with a list of items suggesting areas where the cut could be made.

The largest item was $4,500 for the elimination of a part-time resource teacher. Two years ago the school had a resource teacher, but as a result of cuts made in the budget last year this position was eliminated.

The board had been approached by parents prior to its budget considerations this year to reinstate the resource teacher for next year.

Other suggested items were lawn care and various contracted services. Mrs. Kowalski reported that she met yesterday with Dr. David Caltanach, superintendent of schools, and Donald H. Libby, principal, to discuss possible areas to cut, and that a special board meeting will be held prior to the finance board's Tuesday evening executive session.

Yernon Nutmeg Denied More Apartments

In a closed session Tuesday night the zoning commission approved a parking facility plan for Nutmeg Village apartment complex on Rt. 83, but denied a proposal for an additional 307 units in the same complex.

In addition to the Nutmeg denial the commission also denied a request to construct a Jack August Restaurant on Rt. 83 near McDonalds.

Public hearings had been held two months ago on all three requests, but due to its heavy workload the commission had not taken action on them. Tuesday's meeting was a special one.

Developer for Nutmeg Village, Melvin Steinman of New York, has 210 luxury apartment units already under construction near the Yernon Gardens apartment complex. The commission denied the request for the additional units without prejudice, which means Steinman may submit plans again.

The request was denied with potential traffic and noise problems as the reason. The commission indicated the developer may return with the plans after the state widens Rt. 83 and a new sewage treatment plant is completed. Plans are now being formed for the treatment facility which the town hopes will be in operation in 1974.

The developer was, however, granted a special permit to build a parking lot in the flood plain of the Hockanum River which runs to the rear of the complex site.

A request to build a Jack August Restaurant was denied. The commission cited potential traffic problems as the prime reason. The state plans to make major changes in the highway at Yernon Circle. One of the changes will involve construction of an exit ramp from I-86 and the proposed ramp would cut across from the restaurant site on a rededicated Rt. 83.

In a recent revision of zoning laws, restaurants were eliminated as a permitted use in several areas including Rt. 83 and Rt. 30. The Jack August firm had applied for permission to build prior to the change.

Coventry DevCo Says It Will Work To Satisfy Aims of DEP

HOLLY GANTNER
 Correspondent
 Tel. 742-8795

DevCo, the development arm of Greater Hartford Process, Inc., the group that has proposed the planned new community in Coventry's northwest sector, expects to work diligently with the State Department of Environmental Protection and the Office of State Planning in connection with the proposed new community.

DevCo's intentions were spelled out in a letter from DevCo President Patrick Cusick to DEP Commissioner Dan Lufkin late last week. Cusick's letter, being in response to one from Lufkin, indicated that the proposed new community might be in conflict with the state's proposed plan of conservation and development.

Lufkin said in his letter to Cusick, "From an initial indication, it seems that the new community will have urban characteristics which will not be in accord with those of the limited development area noted on the state plan."

He added that DEP's immediate concern was the issue of sewers and that the "lack of data or commitment on this subject could jeopardize DevCo's eventual participation in the regional sewer plant."

Lufkin's letter to Cusick followed a March 19 meeting between DEP and DevCo.

In his letter to Lufkin, Cusick said, "We came away feeling that our purpose in coming to your office that day to set up a mutually constructive relationship had been substantially rebuffed."

The attitude of DEP representatives was, in our view, very obviously based on the assumption that DevCo's intention is to rape the environment."

Cusick, in his letter to Lufkin, asked that the DEP complete its list of "areas of primary concern" mentioned by Lufkin, and prepare objective standards and criteria which the DEP will use to "measure the acceptability" of DevCo's proposals.

The areas of primary concern referred to by Cusick had been originally outlined by Lufkin as follows: "The areas of primary concern to supply acquisition and its effect upon stream flows, as well as surface water runoff and ground water intrusion. Also, data concerning air quality in respect to new source effect on regional air quality and the attainment and maintenance of future regional standards is being sought, as well as data on solid waste volume reduction and recycling."

Other issues of concern to DEP are wetland and watercourse preservation, transportation systems, noise abatement, natural resource and wildlife management, and flood plain and stream encroachment.

DEP has regulatory control over these activities and will need to review DevCo's plans "to insure complete analysis of the environmental impact of so large a community," according to Lufkin.

Jack Gorr, a council member suggested that the questionnaire include some "myth or truth" type questions or statements. It would include such things as "The population will stabilize or fall off and the addition will not be needed," "A second floor addition could be built cheaper than a separate addition," "The state will pay for the entire project in the future so why pay now?"

Garr said some of the township do not have the projected school population figures and others say they are unhappy with the education program offered the "average" student.

He added that many retired persons feel they cannot afford

Vernon PTO Asked To Expedite High School Space Survey

Herbst said, downgraded Sykes School for use as a high school. The evaluation team looked at the program and space needs from an educational point of view.

Dr. Raymond Ramsdell, superintendent of schools, backed up his projected population figures, which he said do not allow for any growth, but just use the figures of the students now in school plus the registered kindergartners for next fall.

The high school freshman class has been housed at the Sykes School. Next year all four classes will be at the high school and it will go on double sessions to accommodate 2,002 students.

Joseph Powers, chairman of the school board said, "I think the survey will serve as a useful tool but don't think it will be a deciding factor."

The PTO Council will be assisted in the survey by the Vernon Junior Women's Club and the Vernon League of Women Voters.

McNally in Usual April Rut, Misses No-Hitter, But Wins

NEW YORK (AP) — Dave McNally is in his April rut again. Baltimore's veteran lefthander barely missed a nine-inning no-hitter against Detroit Thursday, finally getting a 10-inning, three-hit, 1-0 victory over the Tigers thanks to a throwing error by Detroit pitcher Mickey Lolich.

It was McNally's second start of the young baseball season and his second three-hit shutout. He started off last season with a pair of shutouts, a one-run game and two more shutouts before falling off to a 13-17 record. That snapped a string of 30-victory seasons for the 30-year-old pitcher.

In other American League games, the Chicago White Sox came from behind to beat Oakland 6-3, the New York Yankees stopped Cleveland 5-4 and Boston's game at Milwaukee was postponed due to snow and cold weather.

Orioles-Tigers
The unbeaten Orioles got their fourth victory of the season when Mark Belanger led off the 10th with a single and stole second. After Merv Rettenmund walked, Bobby Grich bunted Lolich fielded the ball and tried for a force-out at third, but his throw was wild and Belanger came around to score.

White Sox-A's
Ken Henderson hit a grand slam home run in the eighth inning to lift the White Sox over Oakland, 6-3. Henderson had taken a 3-2 lead in the eighth when Chicago relief pitcher Terry Forster walked Sal Bando with the bases loaded.

Rangers-Royals
Dick Bosman limited the Royals to one hit over seven innings and finished with a three-hitter as Texas snapped Kansas City's four-game winning streak. Amos Ota singled in the fourth inning for the only Royals hit until Paul Schaal and Fred Pate struck through with eighth-inning singles.

Bolton School Scores Well In Business Courses

DONNA HOLLAND

The report of the evaluation of the high school program has been received from Joseph Corcoran, consultant, business and office education, State Department of Education.

Based on a scale of 1-5, with 1 poor and 5 excellent, the forty-nine items rated, Bolton scored 24 excellent, 14 very good, 5 good, 5 fair and 1 poor.

The poor rating was based on the inability of business teachers to share responsibility in career orientation for pre-high school grades.

Improvements are needed in the advisory committee membership and career awareness involvement with the prehigh school grades.

The town was advised to replace the extension cords for the typewriters. Dr. Joseph Castagna, superintendent of schools, says funds have been budgeted for this.

Further, says the school was commended for its staff, program and course description.

Grant Approved
Dr. Ralph Goodrich, Administrator, Title II, ESSEA, informed Dr. Castagna that the town's special reading grant application for $5,000 was approved.

Of 15 grants approved, Bolton's proposal had a number 1 rating, one of four with that score.

Funds will be expended for both hardware and software including a Systems 80 program which the board couldn't fund last year.

Activities will concentrate on the K-8 levels.

The preparation and submission of the successful proposal was done by Mrs. MaryJane Fazio and Mr. Robert Haman, reading teachers.

The board will send a letter of commendation to them for a job well done.

State Extends Tax Deadline
HARTFORD (AP) — The General Assembly passed emergency legislation Thursday giving Connecticut taxpayers an extra day—until April 17—to pay state dividend and capital gains taxes.

Gov. Thomas J. Meskill indicated the date be extended from the 15th, which falls on a Sunday.

The federal deadline was delayed until the 17th because the 16th is Patriot's Day.

Bus Firm Workers File Suit

BRIDGEPORT (AP) — The union representing former employees of the now defunct Connecticut Railway and Lighting Co. has filed a civil suit in U.S. District Court seeking severance pay for the company's 200 bus drivers and mechanics.

CR&L formally abandoned its bus routes in Bridgeport, N.J., last week.

The suit, filed on behalf of members of Amalgamated Transit Union Locals 659, 1465, 1193 and 570 in the three cities, contends that a contract between the union and the company contains a clause which entitles the workers to severance pay if the firm is shut down or abandons a division within the term of the contract.

The group said that while the U.S. doesn't believe the Lebanese government is strong enough to put the guerrillas out of business, it could be keeping them on a tighter leash.

RECALL TRUCKS
DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. is recalling 854 Dodge trucks for inspection and possible replacement of front wheel hubs that could crack and permit the front wheel to fall off.

Chrysler said 30 per cent of the 1973 model light-duty trucks being recalled are suspected of having the defect. The company said it had no records of hub failures, accidents or injuries due to the bad hubs.

PONDERS LIST
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is pondering a mystery list of several individuals as he moves toward choosing a second nominee for FBI director.

White House Press Secretary Ronald H. Ziegler told newsmen Friday a "number of individuals are under consideration."

The group said current programs, such as child day care, legal services that are funded through the Federal Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) should be maintained until an alternate funding source is found.

The Nixon administration has cut off the OEO budget beginning July 1.

Quality of life courses should be established at Connecticut high schools providing programs in health education, parent-child relationships, marriage and family problems, sex and drug education, parents' responsibilities to their children and the children's responsibilities to their parents.

A Connecticut conference should be held bringing together lawyers, doctors, social workers and educators to discuss the problems outlined in Boston.

Mrs. Leighton said the regional conference discussed the problems of youth in five broad areas — economic education, health, justice and social opportunity.

SGT. SARTOR TO ATTEND NATIONAL FBI ACADEMY
Manchester Police Sgt. Richard Sartor will be attending the 94th session of the FBI National Academy for 12 weeks this summer.

Police Chief James Reardon, making the announcement Friday, noted that Sgt. Sartor will be the only third Manchester policeman to attend the academy.

Lt. Robert Laman graduated from the academy last December, and the first local graduate of the FBI school was Joseph Prentice, no longer a member of the force, who attended in 1940.

Sgt. Sartor was selected from among several local policemen whose names Chief Reardon submitted to the FBI for consideration. Official notification of Sartor's appointment came Friday via letter from L. Patrick Gray III, acting FBI director.

Sartor, a native of Manchester, joined the Manchester Police Department in April 1969, and he was promoted to sergeant in January 1972. He is in charge of the department's records division, and is also responsible for department planning and communications.

A graduate of local schools, Sartor received his BS degree in industrial administration from the University of Connecticut in 1970. He attended a police instructor's course at UConn in 1971, and he is now working on his master's degree in public administration at the University of Hartford.

Sartor graduated from Connecticut Police Academy in 1967, when he was employed as a security department officer at UConn. At the state academy, he was first in his class and also was the class speaker.

Before entering UConn, Sartor served with the U.S. Air Force for four years. He attended the University of Nebraska at Lincoln while stationed there with the Air Force.

Sartor, who is 30 years old, lives at 24 Deerfield Dr. in Manchester. He and his wife, Diana, have one son, Richard.

Sartor's father, Joseph Sartor, is detective captain with the Manchester Police Department.

Sgt. Sartor said he is "extremely pleased" to have been selected to attend the FBI National Academy, which is "the best law enforcement school in the country."

Chief Reardon also noted his pleasure with the selection of Manchester's first officer to attend the academy, which will be in session from June 25 through Sept. 14.

Arabs Planning U.N. Offensive Against Israel

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Egyptian Foreign Minister Mohamed Hassan el-Zayyat was organizing a stepped-up U.N. offensive against Israel and the United States today over the Israeli raid into Lebanon.

The Security Council had scheduled another session on the Middle East today but postponed it until Monday, apparently to allow him time to confer with Lebanese and other delegates. Zayyat arrived Friday night.

In Lebanon, saboteurs blew up two big seaside storage tanks at an American-owned refinery early today. A leftist Lebanese group claimed responsibility and vowed it would strike at "imperialist and reactionary bases in the Arab world."

At Friday's Security Council meeting, the Soviet Union joined Arab speakers in denouncing Israel and its U.S. backing.

"The Soviet Union is prepared to support effective sanctions, up to and including Israel's expulsion from the United Nations," said Ambassador Jacob Malik.

Informed sources said the United States had not altered its stance from last year, when it vetoed a proposed council resolution that condemned Israel without mentioning Palestinian terrorism.

No resolutions have been introduced in this session, which began Thursday.

Malik said the synchronized Israeli raids at Beirut and Sidon early Tuesday were carried out "in the style of thieves, using the same methods once used by Hitlerite cutthroats—the SS men."

He accused Israel of resorting to "law of the jungle" and of attempting to "elevate terrorism to state policy."

Israel's ambassador, Yosef Tekoa, replied: "For the Soviet Union to speak about international morality, about respect for the rights of groups or of individuals, is a sham."

"Our history is replete with demands that Jews passively hold their throats out to the butcher's knife," he said. "This will not happen..."

Stockmen's advisories were issued for Wyoming, parts of Montana, Nevada, Idaho, Utah and South Dakota.

The National Weather Service issued a heavy snow watch for eastern Wyoming on Sunday and a spring storm watch tonight and Sunday for western Nebraska.

Frost warnings were in effect for eastern Washington as a mass of arctic air pouring south into the storm center sent temperatures into the 20s.

Thunderstorms drenched north of Texas, and hail pelted White Deer, about 30 miles northeast of Amarillo.

The eastern half of the nation enjoyed fair weather.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 15 at Houlton, Maine, to 72 at Key West, Fla.

Early this morning police were still trying to determine what touched off the battle Friday afternoon at the corner of Clinton Avenue and State Street. Officers said many of the fighters were students who had just been released from nearby Basic High School.

None of the injured were hospitalized, police said, but one officer suffered a spinal and neck injury when he was hit across the back with a length of pipe. Another had to get a leg shot for a bite he received on his hand. Three other policemen and five of the 12 arrested were treated for cuts and bruises, police said.

All 12 were released on $200 bonds and are scheduled to appear in court Monday on charges of assault, breach of peace and interfering with a public officer.

PRICE ROLLBACK ASKED
WASHINGTON (AP) — More meat boycotts are in the wind. The National Consumer Congress promised in Washington Friday that it will stage a two-week boycott, May unless Congress rolls back food prices to the Jan. 10 level.

In Los Angeles, Fight Inflation Together, which organized the earlier boycott, said there would be another one April 30 — May 6 regardless of what Congress does.

The Los Angeles group has voted itself out of the Consumer Congress, which includes about

Senate Watergate Investigator Quits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harold K. Lipset, the chief investigator for senators probing the Watergate bugging case, has resigned after learning of imminent disclosures that he once pleaded guilty to a bugging conspiracy case in New York.

Lipset, 51, is based in San Francisco and has been a private detective 27 years, often in sensational cases. He did detective work for the defense in the recent Angela Davis and Soledad Brothers murder cases.

Lipset said his bugging conviction arose out of a 1966 marital case in which a tape recorder microphone was placed under the door of a room at the Plaza Hotel. He said he pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor and was given a suspended sentence.

Details of that case were first published last year after Lipset

Terrorists Attack U.S. Owned Refinery

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Two huge oil tanks were blown up and set ablaze at a U.S.-owned refinery early today, and a Marxist Lebanese group claimed responsibility and vowed to keep up the attacks.

Officials said the two tanks were not full when the fire broke out and contained a total of 30,000 barrels. Their capacity was 100,000 barrels each.

The Lebanese government said 18 of the 28 tanks at the refinery had been wired but army demolition teams were able to disarm the other 16.

An unconfirmed report by Palestinians said one Lebanese oilman was found dead at the scene, 24 miles south of Beirut, and four men were found handcuffed.

The attackers, the Lebanese Revolutionary Guard, pledged to strike at "all imperialist and reactionary bases in the Arab world."

The group said the attack on the refinery was "intended as a blow to the untidy alliance between the United States, Saudi Arabia and Lebanon" and that the oil "feeds imperialism and goes into planes and other destructive weapons with which the United States is generally supplying the Israeli enemy."

The Lebanese government said "armed elements" were responsible for the attack, a phrase in official communications that usually means Palestinian guerrillas.

But spokesmen for the school, recommended the medical screening for children. Rivers was unable to read or write because of a visual disorder that wasn't detected and diagnosed until she was a high school junior, she said. This disability almost caused him to drop out of school, Mrs. Leighton said.

Mrs. Leighton, a Hartford social worker representing the state Department of Children and Youth Services, said George Rivera, a senior at Bridgeport's Basic High school, recommended the staff of the state health department to provide personnel to do the screening, she said.

Mrs. Leighton said three other recommendations were approved by the Connecticut representatives at the Friday night meeting.

The group said current programs, such as child day care, legal services that are funded through the Federal Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) should be maintained until an alternate funding source is found.

The Nixon administration has cut off the OEO budget beginning July 1.
