Cycling tricks are an important element in Chinese acrobatics. The famous Shenyang Acrobatic Troupe, People's Republic of China include in their program several graceful and intricate bicycle feats.

Acrobats Perform Tonight

BY JAY SHARBUTT
 They put two hoops, one atop the other, on a stand. The acrobat is to leap through the hoop without knocking it over. They do it time and again, even with a second set of hoops. Don't ask me how.
 Although some may find the show too long — and I'm among them — the pace is strikingly close to that of the old vaudeville shows, with the spots carefully positioned to let the audience catch its breath.
 The troupe, whose art form is more than 2,000 years old, starts off with "plate spinning," involving long sticks on which the performers each spin up to eight dinner plates while doing somersaults, handstands and getting their heads together the hard way.

Cutbacks Have A Price

Nobody has shed many tears about the United States finally getting its troops out of South Vietnam. And there are those who want us to get them out of Southeast Asia entirely.

As periodic as the seasons are the trial balloons sent up in Washington, about cutting back our troop commitments in Europe.

Foreign aid especially military forms, is getting an ever-increasing scrutiny by budget planners in the administration and the Congress.

We, as a nation, want peace. We don't like the idea of being the world's policeman nor its Santa Claus. There are too many things being left undone at home to which we should address ourselves and our limited wealth.

Since this is a fat, fat budget as everyone knows and has decided for years, is cutting back on bases which presumably are no longer vital to the national defense and cost money to man and operate.

But there's the rub. It seems that when the cuts come close to home like in neighboring Massachusetts, peace and world stability, aren't so wonderful. For the closure of military bases means loss of jobs, loss of payrolls, and other disruptions of the economy and as a result the so-called fat in the Pentagon budget becomes muscle vital to our defense but only on a district by district basis. To put it bluntly, Bay State military installations are vital, but perhaps those in Mississippi or Nevada or Georgia, are not.

The fact remains the concern over military installations and their need is not a military question but a political one.

If our congressmen had their druthers, every congressional district would probably be an armed camp, whether it was in the national defense interest or not.

The problem has been that after so many decades of involvement as the world's policeman, cutting back the role, cannot end at the ocean's edge anymore than our commitments to world peace can end there.

The transition from a quasi war-time military establishment to a more peace-time one must be accompanied by cutbacks at home as well as abroad.

We do not say the cutbacks being planned are the wisest ones nor necessarily the ones which should be given top priority. But if we sincerely believe that if the United States can and must relinquish some of its international burdens, it will and must be accompanied by domestic changes in the military as well. If not, then it is a hoax on the taxpayer.

Instead of casting about for means to rescind or forestall military cutbacks congressmen concerned might do well to seek ways and means to establish, as a part of the defense policy, programs which would keep the human and economic dislocations of such decisions at a minimum.

It seems to us the Defense Dept. has lots of manpower and money to spend on preparing for wars, which may never come, but sadly neglects devoting any man power or funds to preparing for peace, which may never come, but which we all hope will someday.

Communities and states too should realize by now that there are no "permanent" military installations and military goods manufactured by state industries aren't guaranteed forever.

We always make the mistake of counting too heavily on these things in our economy and the quick withdrawal is painful when world conditions change military needs.

We can talk about all the economizing in the military we want but when the budget ax falls close to home, we should not, if we are honest, cry foul.

The true strength of America's defense establishment is not men, bases, their location, annual purchases and expenditures, but rather its overall effectiveness.

The extent that manpower, facilities and money make our defense force militarily effective is the criteria; not the economic impact, good or bad, it may have on any one particular area.

If it is on this basis that the closures of bases, wherever they are, must be evaluated. The sad thing is that what might be good politics doesn't always make for a good national defense.

Inside Report

Rowland Evans and Robert Novak
Silent U.S. Warning

WASHINGTON — The extraordinary Israeli government disclosure that an American diplomat played a leading role in the defeat of Defense Minister Moshe Dayan's brazen plan for Israel's continuing absorption of Arab lands dramatized the rising concern both here and in Israel that Dayan and the Israeli hawk are going too far.

Once Prime Minister Golda Meir and the controlling moderates in the Israeli Labor cabinet decided not to allow Dayan's plan to be put to a cabinet test, where it would have been beaten, the matter could have been laid to rest.

But instead, the quiet, low-key intervention of Assistant Secretary of State Joseph J. Sisco, President Nixon's top Middle East troubleshooter, was intentionally leaked in Jerusalem by government officials. In short, the controlling moderates chose to publicize American resistance to Dayan's disturbing plan for unlimited Israeli or Jewish purchase of Arab-owned lands in the Israeli-occupied west bank of Jordan.

The two reasons for this highly unusual conduct: to buttress the anti-Dayan decision with the political backing of the U.S., Israel's powerful ally; and to put the Dayanites, both in and out of the Labor party, on notice that Dayan's presumptuous plans for territorial expansion could bring an unwelcome reaction from President Nixon.

Moreover, Sisco's intervention, which took the form of a simple telephone call to the Israeli embassy here asking what Israel's territorial policy really is, is not the only signal that Israel's dynamic and aggressive policy toward both its Arab neighbors and the occupied Arab territories is under intense scrutiny here.

That a high U.S. official is responsible for the fact that the full text of a remarkable speech by Foreign Minister Abba Eban last month is now making the rounds here, is remarkable because it directly contradicted, without naming Dayan, the aggressive foreign policy positions the defense minister has been taking in a "Greater Israel" political position for the battle over control of the Labor party when Prime Minister Meir eventually retires.

Eban's speech, which went unmentioned by the U.S. embassy in Tel Aviv, was a daring plea against the continuing "dispossession of Arabs" in the lands captured by Israel in the 1967 war.

"An article is published (in the Israeli press) stating that the dispossession of Arabs is an indispensable condition of the realization of Zionism," Eban said. "This is pure libel."

By contrast, Dayan on March 29 said it was intolerable that "the government of sovereign Israel should restrict Jewish land purchases in Judea and Samaria — the Biblical lands which include much of the Israeli-occupied west bank of Jordan."

Without ever naming Dayan, Eban also attacked hawkish plans for the future of the occupied territories "which are characterized by maximalism at the expense of the rights of others, and of the prospects of peace."

"The question that is now asked everywhere," Eban said, "is not about Israel's courage and resourcefulness, which are everywhere taken for granted, but about its human qualities."

Eban has thus made himself the spokesman for the anti-hawks and is trying to stake out a moderate position of his own in the coming battle over control of the Labor party.

The Nixon administration is watching this developing battle, and its implications for future U.S. policy toward Israel and such pro-U.S. Arab states as Jordan, Lebanon and Saudi Arabia, with special attention.

On Israel's daring, far-flung military attacks across international borders against Palestinian guerrilla bases, officials here are maintaining a placid calm. But on demands by the Labor party's leading hawk, when a long time member of the Democratic party and town committee member openly accused and named the two people who have ruined the Democratic Party and split the Democratic Town Committee in Tolland.

Why didn't the writer of the article of April 8, 1973, report this? There is no question the article was written with prejudice and immorality.

Charles E. Thilfaunt, Democratic town chairman of Tolland

Tribute was paid to Robert Weiss, our town manager, in the Somersworth, Berwick, Maine Free Press. The occasion was the move of South Berwick's town manager to another community. The newspaper had this to say:

"As we think of Art Bailey's (present town manager) approaching departure it takes us back with nostalgia to the years when Bob Weiss was here. How we hated to see him go. Bob was South Berwick's first town manager and he was truly a gifted and popular leader. His expertise set the town on the right course."

Most apparel stores have been expressing thanks for a late Easter.

While they report spring business as pretty fair the seemingly ever-changing weather does have its affect on sales. The late Easter, of course, will also delay mark down and generally prolong the spring buying apparel season.

In a speech the other day, Gov. Tom Meskill called attention to some points which received little or no coverage in the press.

The governor pointed out that about one-third of the total U.S. population today lies within 500 miles of Connecticut; people who receive nearly 36 per cent of the nation's income payments and have the same percentage of effective voting income.

The same 500 miles contains 38 per cent of our country's manufacturing firms; 35 per cent of its manufacturing employment and 37 per cent of all U.S. value added by manufacture.

We hope there is active participation by the citizenry during Manchester Environmental Action Month as designated by the City Beautification Committee of the Manchester Chamber and proclaimed by Mayor John Thompson.

If we could just get all the sidewalks in the business areas of Manchester swept daily for the rest of the month that would be a notable accomplishment. A little fix-up, paint-up, spruce-up effort individually would go a long way toward a better looking Manchester.

Youth Not Forgotten In Sesquicentennial

Manchester's youth won't be left out of the town-wide sesquicentennial celebration June 23 to 30.

The Manchester High School Student Assembly, the two junior high schools' student councils, and the town's Youth Commission are planning several youth-oriented events for the estimated 17,000 young people in Manchester.

Their plans include:
• Olympic Day — sports events to include track and field, softball, a bicycle marathon, road race running, volleyball, badminton, and boating contests.

• Box Lunch Social — a traditional meal, prepared for two persons, to include lunch, dessert, and beverage. The lunches will be auctioned, and the person who buys the lunch will eat with the person who made it.

All proceeds from the lunch auction will be used to support other sesquicentennial activities.

• Outdoor Concert — with a recording band as the major attraction. The band has not yet been selected, but possibilities include Bloodrock, Brewer & Shipley, Cactus, and the Double Brothers.

The concert will be limited to Manchester residents, due to space limitations. This rule will be strictly enforced, according to the planners.

• Bicycle Trail Route — of various historical sites in Manchester identified by the historical society.

• Country Fair — with old-time events such as talent shows, kite-flying contests, pie and watermelon-eating contests, sale of homemade goods, and a square dance.

The fair will probably be at Mt. Nebo.

• Melodrama — to be presented by students in town schools. A melodrama that was performed in the early years of the town will be re-enacted.

Information on tryouts for the production is expected soon.

• Hike — an outdoor recreation event at Case Mt. A ditch trench lunch is to be included. Hikers will be encouraged to wear old-fashioned costumes in this as at other sesquicentennial events.

The sesquicentennial committee is encouraging youth participation in all events. Victor Moses, publicity chairman, said.

Suggestions or questions can be directed to Rick Grown at the Youth Service Center, 14 Park St., Moses said.

McKenzie Art On Exhibit

Mariane Grayce McKenzie, 177 Gardner St., will have an exhibition of her paintings at the Conference Gallery of Watkin's Bros. furniture store, 955 Main St. The exhibit will be open to the public from April 24 through April 28 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

This is the artist's first show and she is giving it as partial fulfillment of the requirements for a master's degree in art education from the University of Hartford Art School, which she expects to receive in June.

Mrs. McKenzie, formerly of Floral Park (L.I.), N.Y., is a graduate of Skidmore College, Saratoga Springs, N.Y., where she received her B.S. degree in art. She is an elementary art teacher in Manchester and has been for seven years. She and her husband, Charles, a member of the Town Board of Directors, have lived in Manchester for 15 years and have two children, Charles and Stephen.

Mrs. McKenzie says she has titled her show, "Dimensions in Art," since she is interested in working with line, shape, color, texture and three dimensions. Most of her work is in the abstract, and she uses various media including oil, acrylic, linoleum, sand, modeling paste, cardboard and foil. Included in the show will be paintings and graphics.

Council Votes to Sell Industrial Park Land

The Town Council Monday sanctioned the sale of four acres of land in the Vernon Industrial Park but deferred action on the sale of another parcel until it is given further study by the town's Planning and Economic Development Commissions.

The council agreed to sell four acres of land to developer David Webster. Webster is now building a small industrial plant in the park and plans another building adjacent to it.

He said he will build a 40,000 square foot building, with construction to start within one year after delivery of the deed.

The Planning Commission and the Economic Development Commission (EDC) have approved the transaction.

A request of Mal Tool Company, which was one of the first industries to go into the industrial park, was referred to the Planning Commission and the EDC for further study.

Emission Changes Requested

WASHINGTON (AP) — Environmental Protection Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus asked Congress Tuesday to ease its 1976 requirement for control of nitrogen oxide emissions from automobiles.

Ruckelshaus also said his agency will reclassify all but two air quality regions previously believed to require general controls on nitrogen oxides.

The two exceptions are Los Angeles and Chicago where nitrogen oxides, a constituent of smog, are still considered a serious problem.

Testifying before a Senate pollution subcommittee headed by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, Ruckelshaus said scientific measurements of nitrogen oxide, on which both the auto standards and the general air quality standards had been based, turned out to be wrong.

In most areas, Ruckelshaus said, "it is clear that major cutbacks in nitrogen oxides emissions clearly are not necessary at this time and will not be necessary during the next several years."

Krowka Quits Force, Charges Dismissed

Vernon Police Officer Robert Krowka has resigned from the force, and charges against him in connection with an incident at the home of Police Chief Edmund Dwyer, were dismissed Tuesday in Circuit Court 12, Rockville.

His resignation "for personal reasons" is effective immediately. Krowka was arrested March 18 on charges of breach of peace and disorderly conduct and was suspended from the force. Police said the alleged disturbance was over a disagreement about a change in shifts for Krowka.

Krowka's attorney, Richard Wright of Hartford, moved for dismissal rather than a nolle because a nolle allows a case to be reopened within a year. He told the court there was no evidence of criminal conduct in the matter.

After his arrest Krowka filed grievance charges against Chief Dwyer, saying he was suspended from the force without just cause and without a hearing. Chief Dwyer denied the charges and stood by his order of suspension for the officer.

From Dwyer, the grievance was passed along to Mayor Frank McCoy who was requested, by the police union representing Krowka, to hold a hearing on the grievance. The hearing was to be held Thursday. Krowka had been free under a $100 bond.

MCC Open House Events Rapidly Taking Shape

Plans for the open house at Manchester Community College on Saturday, May 5, from noon until 5 p.m., are rapidly taking shape. The open house is one of the major events that will mark a weekend of celebration of the college's 10th year of operation. Staff and students are preparing displays and demonstrations for the information and enjoyment of the public at both campuses of the college.

The focal point of interest at the 146 Hartford Rd. campus will be the exhibit of student art in the Starrwell Gallery. Visitors who enter the front doors will find themselves in the gallery where art will be placed along the walls at either side of the main stairway, and on the four walls facing the second floor landing.

The cafeteria downstairs will be the locus of more art in the form of student films, demonstrations of ceramics and crafts, and environmental sculpture.

The Poetry Center of the college will offer a room of poetry readings will be given by student and faculty poets. Two of the students, Shelly Strohm this year and Sarah Meisler last year, were members of a group called the Several departments of the college will have presentations about selected aspects of their areas of concern. Slide shows, some with narrations and music, will cover a broad range of subjects, including the history of immigration in America, the Connecticut tobacco industry, college geography, evolution of man, and the psychological roots of sensation and perception. These will be found in the classroom buildings in the center of the campus.

Experiments and demonstrations of equipment have been planned for the science laboratories which are located in the classroom buildings. Staff members in the chemistry, physics, physical science, astronomy, biology and allied health departments will conduct the experiments and demonstrations.

The Environmental Studies Center will sponsor guided nature walks along trails that are being established in wooded areas near the campus. ECC members will offer suggestions on ways to preserve the ecology.

A special slide show about the educational opportunities available at the community colleges in Connecticut will be shown in the auditorium. The show, set to tape-recorded voice and music, was conceived and produced by a member of the English department at Manchester Community College. It will be of particular interest to anyone thinking of attending a state community college.

Polish Air Force Record Set Straight By Historian

STORRS (AP) - If you believe the Polish Air Force was destroyed on the ground by Germany in 1939, you're living in the never-never land of myth, says a University of Connecticut Health Center psychiatrist.

Peszke said in a telephone interview that he based his conclusions, appearing in the March issue of the Journal of the American Aviation Historical Society, on official documents of the German Luftwaffe and British ministry reports.

accepted. While trade advocates claim that $1 billion of exports produces $1,000 jobs, protectionist forces claim that imports might be destroying as many jobs - and industries too. Flanigan, assistant to the President for international economic affairs, believes that free trade promotes the most efficient utilization of resources, including workers, and thus produces the lowest prices. Plastic Throw-Away Bottles May Be Toxic When Burned

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Plastic throw-away bottles now being best marketed by several large soft drink firms give off poisonous fumes when burned, according to a University of Dayton research report. The company manufacturing the bottles denies the claim. Don Duvall, a research chemist at Dayton, said, "The main conclusion to be drawn from our investigation is that significant quantities of highly-toxic substances can be produced when these plastic materials are burned or heated." Duvall made his comments at the Combustion Institute meeting in Tempe, Ariz. "Since people will find the bottles burn readily, it will be a

Natural Body Chemical May Be Hangover Cure

By BRIAN SULLIVAN AP Science Writer ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — A natural body chemical injected into experimental animals has dramatically reversed the effects of over-doses of such depressants as barbiturates and alcohol, scientists from the University of Pittsburgh have reported. It could lead to treatment for a hangover, one of the scientist said. The scientists raised the possibility that synthetic preparations of this chemical, called cyclic AMP, might someday be used in man to counter the effects of barbiturate abuse and of alcohol misuse. It can be shown that this use of the chemical would be safe. The scientists also said their work has shown the cyclic AMP is the key to the way the central nervous system depressants work in the body. If this is true, times the amount the body normally produces in a given period. The researcher also said his laboratory has shown, on the other hand, that the effects of some narcotics are worsened by cyclic AMP. But, he added, that a chemical that would inhibit the production of cyclic AMP might lessen the effects of narcotics.

their work could lead to many other discoveries in this field. The report came from Dr. Major L. Cohn, director of research in the Department of Anesthesiology at the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine, who said an interview that it is possible that this work could even lead to a treatment for a hangover. Cohn said that squirrel monkeys given what normally would be lethal doses of barbiturates survived after being given injections of a derivative of cyclic AMP. "The animal is up and the animal is normal," after the treatment, Cohn said. Other animals, he said, similarly recovered from overdoses of ethanol, or alcohol. The animals, he said, awoke from a deep sleep within 15 to 20 minutes after injection of the cyclic AMP. "The chemical functions as a messenger for hormone signals in the body, has a role in genetics and acts in the transmission of electrical impulses in nerve and muscle tissues. Cohn said the work by his group could produce the first clinical application of the Sutherland discovery. He presented his report to the 37th annual meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology. Cohn said he would like to begin working with human subjects and is talking now with U.S. Army officials about these plans. Cohn said his group has used cyclic AMP in a variety of experiments. "I probably would have just kept it up and thrown it away except that a neighbor noticed cyclic AMP substance. The synthetic chemical is injected into the brain or spine at about three

Quiet Meriden Crusader Says He's Son of God

By CHARLES MONAGAN The Meriden Journal MERIDEN (AP) — A bearded, 40-year-old man who claims he is the son of God has gathered a following of 200 in Meriden. And new disciples have been coming every week to the office where he is based. "I am the real thing, I don't have to prove anything to you. You must prove yourself to me." His followers mostly are young people in their teens and early 20s. They say they have come from as far as California—sometimes after unsatisfying religious experiences elsewhere—and believe that at last they have found the Lord. Many of them work in Julius's five-room headquarters, the office of Tampoco, a religious music company that has already put out one record, "God is Alive." "The office is filled with typists, artists and others who spend most of their day working on the publication of sheet music. But every day at 9 p.m. all work stops and the staff, barefoot, joins Julius for his daily service. One observer described the scene this way: "The service begins with prayer for Meriden city officials, as a gesture of friendship to the city where Julius has based his movement. Then, after a pause, Julius's body is wracked by a spasm, followed by similar trembling and shudders from the others around the circle. It is said to be the daily ritual for the faithful. One of the faithful is Ted Rankin, 20, from St. Paul, Minn. He said he and his girlfriend began to travel around the country last year after getting a "supernatural message that I was to be used by God." After driving to Houston and Colorado, he picked up a hitchhiker who was on his way to see Julius. "We asked him about Julius and he told us about the second coming," Rankin recalled. "As soon as he told us, something hit us and we believed it. And when we saw Julius we knew it was true. He is the Lord." Julius was born Julius Schacknow, born in Brooklyn to poor parents. He quit school after the 11th grade to join the wartime Navy. "I was on Guam in October 1946 when I consciously stepped out of my body, felt the full sensation of being in two bodies, one physical and the other spiritual," he said. "Within a few moments my spiritual body was introduced into God's presence." Three more times, he said,

God appeared before him. "I felt His gut moving under the pressure of my hand, I felt His ribcage," he said. By January 1970, Julius said, he learned he was the son of God. He traveled among religious groups across the country but got fed up with "phoniness and racketeering hypocrites," he recalled, and finally came to Meriden. "The area within a seven-mile radius of Meriden has the greatest potential for good in the world," he said. "God has allowed something special here. The founding fathers were very dedicated and the basic intent today is to do right." Julius has expressed respect for Meriden in another way. In a letter to the Court of Common Council, he pledged his group would adhere to the laws of Meriden on the grounds that local officials had been put in their posts by the will of God. Yet Julius is not universally accepted in the city. The Board of Directors of the Meriden Chamber of Commerce, which welcomed Tampoco as a member when it

HRC Told How Schools Work With Maladjusted

ALICE EVANS (Herald Reporter) — The maladjusted child in the Manchester school system was the subject discussed by Mrs. Jean Campbell, senior school social worker last night at a meeting of the Human Relations Commission.

For the past 17 years, Mrs. Campbell said, school social workers in Manchester have been working with a variety of exceptional children with a special focus on helping educate the socially and emotionally maladjusted youngster.

To prevent education and learning problems, a diagnostic kindergarten program was formed. Manchester is the first area town to have two special kindergartens. The first, she said, is for children with language difficulties; the other is a developmental kindergarten for the child, who is not quite ready for kindergarten.

There are nine pre-primary special classes between kindergarten and Grade 1. These classes are highly individualized, she said, to handle whatever the child's need might be. The junior high schools now have learning centers, and next year there will be a learning center at Manchester High School.

More learning centers are being planned in the elementary schools, where a child can be assigned to a learning center to meet his needs.

By 1974, there will be only state certified special education teachers and not specialized teachers of the mentally retarded, physically or emotionally handicapped or reading and language disabilities. This is to away with labeling, which leads to brain drain for the child, Mrs. Campbell said, and all needs will be met in one particular place.

This year, a model vocational program was developed for a youngster returning from a state institution. Next year, if funding is available, she said, a sheltered workshop without walls may be formed in the school system.

Each school will have planning and placement teams next year, she said. A team will be composed of the school principal, two teachers, the school social worker and, if needed, the school psychologist.

Working together, this team would decide what a child's

DUCKS PROTECTED FROM LEAD — Migrating ducks will soon have the satisfaction of being slain with iron rather than with lead shot, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service announces. It is moving as fast as possible to eliminate lead shot from ammunition.

The idea is to guard against lead poisoning, which has been known for half a century to affect waterfowl. Studies have shown that soft iron shot is about as effective as lead in killing birds.

Mrs. Grasso Asks Ban On Nitrates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Ella Grasso, D-Conn., said Tuesday she has asked the federal Food and Drug Administration and the Department of Agriculture to ban the use of nitrates and nitrites "until such a time as these substances have been proven safe."

Nitrates and nitrites are common food additives to bacon, ham, hot dogs, corned beef and other processed meats as well as some smoked fish.

Mrs. Grasso said Tuesday that recent research shows that these substances can become cancer-producing agents called nitrosamines. This transition occurs, she said, when the nitrates and nitrites come in contact with chemicals known as amines which may be present in the same food or in other food eaten at the same time.

Mrs. Grasso cited several findings to support her request for a halt of the use of nitrates and nitrites:

—Data of FDA scientists presented at 1971 House Intergovernmental Relations Subcommittee hearings revealed that nitrosamines were found in ham and other cured meats tested.

—In the same subcommittee hearings, a paper submitted by five FDA scientists stated that some smoked fish tested contained nitrosamines.

—A press release dated December 14, 1971, the USDA announced that several frankfurters purchased at retail stores contained nitrosamines.

—A joint press release, dated February 5, 1972, from the USDA and FDA reported that findings of new studies indicated that nitrosamine was more prevalent than previously recognized.

"Despite the findings of our own scientists, as well as others, FDA and USDA officials have failed to minimize the risk for the consumer who purchases certain processed meats and fish," Mrs. Grasso said.

Mrs. Grasso said National Health Center statistics, from a March 1972 provisional report, show the U.S. Cancer death rate increased at the fastest pace in 22 years in 1972.

"After reviewing available evidence, I think that so long as there is a shadow of a doubt it would be grossly negligent not to ban the use of nitrates and nitrites until such a time as these substances have been proven safe," she said.

Mrs. Grasso said she has requested that the FDA and USDA invest up a scientific panel to evaluate scientific findings concerning nitrosamines and "establish policy that will protect the health of our citizens."

Compromise Freeze Faces Fight in House

WASHINGTON (AP) — House and Senate conferees agreed on a compromise bill extending presidential authority to impose wage-price controls but Republican opposition in the House and the impending Easter recess leave the bill's future in doubt.

President Nixon's current authority to impose economic controls expires at midnight April 30 and Congress is due to get today for his Easter recess, returning the morning of the 30th.

Meanwhile, House Republicans forecast a floor defeat for the compromise bill agreed upon Tuesday. Of the Republicans in the Senate-House conference committee, only one, Sen. Bob Packwood of Oregon, signed the version finally approved.

In the Senate, maneuvering over a water-registration bill dominates the floor calendar with the bill's manager, Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., threatening to hold up all other legislation until he has agreement to vote on his bill first. Opponents have organized a filibuster against the bill, which would provide a postcard registration system.

Democratic Whip Sen. Robert Byrd said the wage-

U.S. Reinforcements Circle Wounded Knee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government reinforcements circled Wounded Knee today following a heavy exchange of gunfire that wounded at least two and possibly six of the militant Indians who have held the village 51 days.

A border patrolman from Montana said he and about 25 colleagues had been brought in to aid the 300 U.S. marines and FBI agents around the village after the 90-minute gunfire exchange Tuesday morning and sporadic shooting the rest of the day.

The major control item left—and knocked out by the conferees—was a return to Phase 2 mandatory rent controls in most major metropolitan areas.

House Republicans refuse to sign the compromise, citing one provision that gives the President authority to allocate petroleum products. This is seen as working in favor of independent distributors against the big oil companies.

"This makes the president a czar over the oil industry," said Rep. Gary Brown, R-Mich., "the House will never accept this."

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D.

An unidentified member of the estimated 150 Indians occupying Wounded Knee was listed in very critical condition this morning after undergoing brain surgery in a Rapid City hospital. A supervisor at the hospital said the man had suffered a gunshot wound in the head.

A government spokesman said at least one other Indian had been wounded during the exchange and no federal lawman had been hit. Sources on the Pine Ridge Reservation said four other militants were wounded but the five had been treated in the village.

Film at MCC Thursday

The film "Barren Lives" (Vidas Secas) will be shown Thursday at 8:45 p.m. in classroom 9 on the Bidwell Street main campus of Manchester Community College.

The story is that of a poor family caught in a drought in northeastern Brazil in the 1940's. The sparse dialogue and black and white images create a sense of desperation and defeat as the people move through the country, seeking fertile land on which to live and sustain themselves. The film, directed by Nelson Pereira dos Santos, is based on the novel by Graciliano Ramos, one of Brazil's leading writers.

Film critic Vincent Canby, in his review of "Barren Lives" for the New York Times, calls it "the work of an enormously gifted director who knows how to communicate the feelings of poverty, especially poverty's small subsidiary horrors."

Running time for the film is 115 minutes. The dialogue is in Portuguese, with English subtitles.

Senators Seek To Debate Bill On Transport

HARTFORD (AP) — Three state senators have collected enough signatures to force the Transportation Committee to release for Senate debate a bill to set up a new Connecticut Transportation Authority (CTA).

The measure had been bottled up in the committee until the petition effort by Sens. George C. Gaidner, R-Weston, Samuel B. Heller, R-Mystic, and

Weather Hardest On Fruit Crops

By The Associated Press
Fruit crops, especially peaches, seemed to suffer the most from spring weather that numbed many areas with record cold spells or drenched them with record rainfalls.

Extensive flooding, especially in Mississippi, also took its toll on agricultural crops as farmland was too saturated for planting.

The cooperative extension service at Mississippi State University said Monday, "As of right now every acre in the state is too wet to plant."

Nearly a half million acres of Mississippi farmland are under water. Ray Converse, agriculture statistician for the state Department of Agriculture and Commerce, said one million acres were covered at one point.

Converse said it would be impossible to determine just how much of a financial loss is involved in state agriculture due to the flooding.

He said between $6 million and $8 million in soybean and cotton from last year still hasn't been harvested and "it's pretty much gone."

The state university extension service estimated 100,000 acres of potential cotton land are under water and noted that cotton planting should have begun April 15 and ended by May 15.

Temperatures plunged into the teens in some areas during the cold snap the second week in April, nipping peach and apple blossoms in the bud.

Officials in Chilton County, Ala., say record low temperatures virtually destroyed the county's $3 million peach crop. Sen. John Sparkman asked Agriculture

Red Trawlers Violate Law, Says Sargent

BOSTON (AP) — Soviet fishing trawlers are illegally violating areas off the Massachusetts coast in "flagrant violation" of international agreements, Gov. Francis W. Sargent charged Tuesday.

The governor protested to the federal government that "15 large Soviet stern trawlers were located one to ten miles inside the areas" on March 10, according to airplanes patrolling the area.

Until a couple of years ago, these young people were left to pick up the pieces by themselves.

Now that's being changed. The Ivy League schools, along with their affiliated women's colleges and Massachusetts Institute of Technology, are setting out to help the rejected.

They've set up an after-rejection placement service that aims at getting these rejected students into other colleges.

David Evans, assistant director of admissions at Harvard, set up the program in 1971.

He sent letters to 450 rejected applicants (out of more than 6,000 turned down by Harvard that year) and offered to help place them somewhere else.

Ninety-two accepted the offer, and he got every one of them at least one college offer.

The average was four offers for every rejected student.

This year, the program has been adopted by the rest of the Ivy League and MIT, and Evans expects 1,200 of the rejected applicants will accept his group's offer for help.

"These are very strong students—median College Board scores in the high 500s—who have been badly advised, if at all, in high school," Evans said.

"These are highly visible kids to our alumni recruiters and to recruiters from other colleges like us," he said. "We ask them to apply here. We give them handsome books. We may even waive their application fee. "They think we've committed ourselves to them when of course we haven't. They may not apply anywhere else, or they may apply just to a local community college."

Ivy League Colleges Help Rejected Students

"After this big buildup, have we no responsibility to these kids? Don't they deserve something more than, 'We're sorry!'"

Evans' group doesn't offer to help every student turned down by MIT or the Ivy League. This year there will be close to 60,000 rejected out of approximately 80,000 applicants.

The group sticks to what are judged to be highly qualified minority group persons.

"We do not get in touch with another college unless we judge that there is a high probability that the college will be interested in our candidates," Evans said.

He estimated that 80 per cent of the applicants his group will contact this year will be blacks, Indians or Spanish-Americans.

Mrs. Schaffer would Destroy Old Records

HARTFORD (AP) — The wording of the state law to the contrary, old election petitions aren't worth keeping "for eternity," says Secretary of the State Gloria Schaffer.

Mrs. Schaffer has asked the General Assembly to pass a new law permitting her to discard the petitions and certain other documents that now are to be preserved for all time.

She noted that laws now on the books permit her to throw out campaign finance records after the term of the candidate involved has expired.

The Clash of Armor

Backyard Jousts Revive Chivalry

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The clang of sword-smitten armor is wafting across suburban California backyards.

Knights in homemade armor with wooden swords and shields are part of the monthly revels of the Society for Creative Anachronism, devoted to things medieval.

Each member of the group has a title and a coat of arms. And, said Lady Cheryl of Castlwhyte, "everyone brings a medieval-style sack lunch—like meat, cheeses, bread. And everybody brings their own wine. We stress meat."

She explained that meat is a fermented drink which includes honey, and is much favored by slayers of dragons.

Lady Cheryl spends most of her time as Cheryl White, wife of 20th century plumber David White. The couple hosted the latest revel for about 35 persons last weekend in their backyard.

White is the local chapter's "senneschal," or head of the shire. And the Sacramento area is known as the Shire of the Golden Rivers of the West Kingdom.

"A revel starts about one in the afternoon and may go until three in the morning," Mrs. White said during an interview Tuesday.

"If someone joins just for the socializing, they usually don't stay with it. You have to get involved or you just get lost."

Members say the society began in Berkeley, Calif., about seven years ago with a gathering of medievalists in a backyard. The group claims 3,500 members nationwide with a $4 annual membership fee.

"One has to be proficient in certain areas and have a general knowledge of the historical period. And we have a line of royalty. A new king is elected three times a year at tournaments," Mrs. White said.

"Some people are in for the broadsword, while others really get down to the meat of it," she said.

Members' interests include needlecraft, egg decorating, chess, dance, music and period research projects.

Union Aides Acquitted, Prosecution Chided

HARTFORD (AP)—Chief U.S. District Court Judge M. Joseph Blumenthal has acquitted three Teamsters Union officers and a now-retired fourth officer of charges that they conspired to embezzle more than $25,000 in union funds.

In announcing the acquittal on Tuesday, Blumenthal called the case, brought by Special U.S. Attorney Paul E. Coffey and U.S. Labor Department investigators, "about as thin and unjust a case about embezzlement that you would expect a reliable agency to present in court."

Investigators said Fred J. Roberto, 57, of Bridgeport, Edward Rice, 61, of Uncasville, John A. Pisano, 34, of Hamden, and Henry C. Daughinis, 63, of Windsor had used union funds to buy expensive watches and rings in 1960 for 30 members of the Teamsters Independent Council 64 of New Haven.

Daughinis has since retired. Blumenthal said he was convinced that the funds had been appropriated properly and that the items purchased were used as legitimate "bonuses" for outstanding union work.

"Everything that was here was done openly," Blumenthal said. Blumenthal cut off the trial before Coffey could summarize his case. The judge said "a thin case" had been presented in the two-day trial, which was a "court trial" without a jury.

House Votes Road Projects
HARTFORD (AP)—Despite opposition from a number of Democrats, the Connecticut House of Representatives voted final approval Tuesday of legislation which will assign top priority to 37 road-building projects throughout most of the state.

The vote was 84-35. Most of the dissenting votes were cast by Democrats.

The list was drawn up by the state Department of Transportation with the approval of Gov. Thomas J. Meskill. He is expected to sign the $270 million bill.

The projects are among 187 programs which had been approved during past legislative sessions.

Democrats claimed that the grouping of the projects in one bill was an example of the executive branch of state government taking responsibility from the legislature.

House Majority Leader Gerald F. Stevens, R-Milford, replied that there are so many uncompleted highway projects in the state because past legislatures have approved individual projects to please voters in certain communities.

Manchester Getting New Traffic Signs

Manchester is having new traffic signs installed. The installation of the new signs which are in compliance with the new federal regulations on traffic control devices, will be completed on all town roads by the first week in May.

The town has received a $4,800 federal grant for the signs, according to Police Chief James Heardon. The grant will cover approximately half of the cost.

The new signs are being installed because there have been changes in the federal regulations which govern traffic control signals. The signs presently in use in Manchester utilize symbols as opposed to the written word.

According to a pamphlet printed by the U.S. Department of Transportation, the use of symbols has many advantages over the use of word messages. They provide instant communication, as they can be understood at a glance without having to read; they overcome language barriers, which is becoming more important as international travel becomes more commonplace.

In the sign shop in the police station's basement, John Baldyga, chief mechanic, and the police mechanics make the signs which are being put up around town.

According to Baldyga, the sign making represents a great savings to the town. When the town buys the metal sign plates and decals and bonds them together through the use of the sign shop in the police station, it saves approximately 50 per cent of the cost of a finished sign. When old signs are taken down, the old decals are stripped from the plate, or slug, using a chemical solvent. When slugs are reused in this manner, the signs cost less than 35 per cent of the price of the finished sign, even when the cost of the chemical solvent and labor is figured into the price.

Baldyga also said that one man can strip 800 signs in the course of a working day.

The town does not pay federal

Town To Profit By Supplying Gas For Trash Pickup

Manchester Purchasing Agent Maurice Pass has announced a potential saving for the town of up to $10,000, as the result of an agreement he has worked out with Trash-Away of East Hartford, the town's refuse and garbage contractor.

The agreement follows a ruling by the state tax department which permits municipalities to furnish gasoline to their refuse contractors. The agreement will be in force the balance of the current fiscal year and through the 1973-74 fiscal year. Trash-Away's three-year contract runs to June 30, 1974.

The town will furnish Trash-Away with gasoline purchased at 14.5 cents per gallon. Trash-Away will pay the town at the rate of 31 cents per gallon—the price specified in the three-year contract. The town, will, in effect, realize a profit of 16.5 per cent on all gasoline Trash-Away uses in Manchester.

The two offices are expected to open next month.

Red Chinese Mission En Route To Washington

TOKYO (AP)—Ten Chinese Communist officials left Tokyo Tuesday for Washington to prepare for the opening of Peking's first mission in the U.S. capital.

A similar group of U.S. officials arrived in Peking April 5 to set up the U.S. liaison office there.

Fewer Grads Continue Education

HARTFORD (AP)—Fewer Connecticut high school pupils are continuing their education after their four high school years have ended, says the state Department of Education.

From the class that graduated last June, 61.7 per cent went on to some form of college education, compared to a high of 69.6 per cent in 1970, the department said.

Last year's percentage was almost as low as the rate in 1964, the last year before the department started climbing. The department reported as it released a survey of the 1972 class.

The decline was due in part to higher tuition costs, more jobs, an end to the draft and changing attitudes toward higher education, according to Willis H. Umberger, associate commissioner of administrative services.

Of the 37,871 pupils who graduated from high school last June, the department said 5,915 went to public four-year colleges in the state and 1,717 went to private four-year colleges in Connecticut.

A total of 6,650 went to out-of-state public and private colleges.

On the two-year college level, 3,638 of the June high school graduates entered public colleges and 468 enrolled at private schools, the state Education Department reported.

Above—John Baldyga, chief mechanic of the police department, demonstrates the making of one of the new signs. The police department, which makes its own signs, buys the metal sign plates and decals, which are sensitive to heat and pressure, and uses the above machine to bond them together. "This represents a great savings to the town," Baldyga said. The entire bonding process takes approximately four minutes. (Herald photos by Pinto)

At left—Baldyga holds the old style school crossing sign contrasting its new international counterpart. The pictorial signs are in compliance with the new federal traffic control regulations.

Cape Canaveral Nee Cape Kennedy

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Tired of waiting for Congress to act, the Florida Senate has voted unanimously to replace the name Cape Kennedy with Cape Canaveral original name on all state road maps and highway signs.

The area had been called Cape Canaveral from the 16th Century until President Lyndon Johnson changed it by proclamation in 1962, shortly after the death of President John F. Kennedy.

State Sen. Lori Wilson said she felt it was never Johnson's intention for the entire Cape to bear the Kennedy name, only the space center area. She said the bill now awaiting action by the Florida House was not an attempt to "show any disrespect toward President John Kennedy, who was a great president."

Florida first asked Congress

Response Poor For Rubella Clinic

There has been a "very poor response" to a rubella (German measles) clinic scheduled in Manchester schools next Tuesday, Dr. Robert Galvin, school health officer, has reported.

Most permission slips sent home with public school students last week have not been returned, Dr. Galvin said. Dr. Galvin reminded parents that state law requires that all children be immunized against rubella, or a written note must be included in their health records stating why a physician or parent doesn't want the children immunized.

All parents are reminded that students who received permission slips must have either written proof of immunization, submit to immunization next Tuesday, or file a written refusal. The permission slips have a space for explaining a refusal.

Dr. Galvin mentioned that the poor response to the clinic may be due to confusion over

Nominees Announced For Emmys

LOS ANGELES (AP) — CBS Evening News has received nine Emmy nominations in the news and current events categories, including three for its coverage of the shooting of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace.

The CBS news show was nominated for its coverage of the shooting last May 15 at Laurel, Md., and individual nominations went to correspondents David Dickerson, Roger Mudd and Walter Cronkite and to Lauren Petre for cinematography.

ABC had commentator Jim McKay were nominated for coverage of the Munich Olympic tragedy when Arab commandos killed 11 Israeli athletes last Sept. 5.

The nominations were announced by the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences. Presentations of awards to the winners will be made on a special telecast on CBS May 22 at the New York Hilton Hotel. The winners will be selected by a panel of television critics from across the country.

Aquarium Hearing Set For April 23

MYSTIC (AP) — The U.S. Department of Commerce will conduct a public hearing April 23 on the application of the Mystic Aquarium for a license to go fishing.

The $5 million aquarium, scheduled to open July 1, is seeking federal approval to capture 3,000 pounds of fish and mammals, including five Atlantic harbor seal, seven bottlenose dolphins and three Pacific pilot whales.

John J. Coakley Jr., aquarium curator, said the seals and fish will be housed in a 350,000 gallon salt-water tank and will be part of the daily performances to be staged for visitors.

Maine Sets Oil Projects Moratorium

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP) — The Maine State Tuesday approved a moratorium on coastal oil development.

Passage came on a 29-12 roll call vote, accepting a Natural Resources committee report recommending a moratorium effective until next Jan. 15.

The report was one of three which came out of the committee. One recommended an 18-month moratorium and another recommended no restrictions at all.

Among the backers of the shorter moratorium was Senate Majority Leader Richard N. Berry. R-Cape Elizabeth, who had sponsored the 18-month proposal.

Proponents argued that despite numerous environmental laws already on the books, many of the protective measures are currently under court challenge.

The moratorium, they said, would give the state time to await court decisions and draft new legislation.

Pittsford Co. is expected to apply shortly for a permit to build an oil refinery at Eastport.

Killian had argued that under state law his jurisdiction allows him to intervene wherever the public interest is involved such as in the case of a public park.

Killian's argument was rejected by Court of Common Pleas Judge John J. McGuinness who ordered the New Britain Board of Public Works to issue a permit for construction of the sewer line.

The Supreme Court ruling has set aside Judge McGuinness' decision and upholds Killian's right to argue that the sewer line is illegal.

Salter's Cleanup Plan Announced

Raymond Ames, subcommittee chairman, City Beautiful Committee of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce, announced cleanup activities scheduled for Salter's Pond in the Chamber's efforts to encourage the use of the pond as a neighborhood park and nature area.

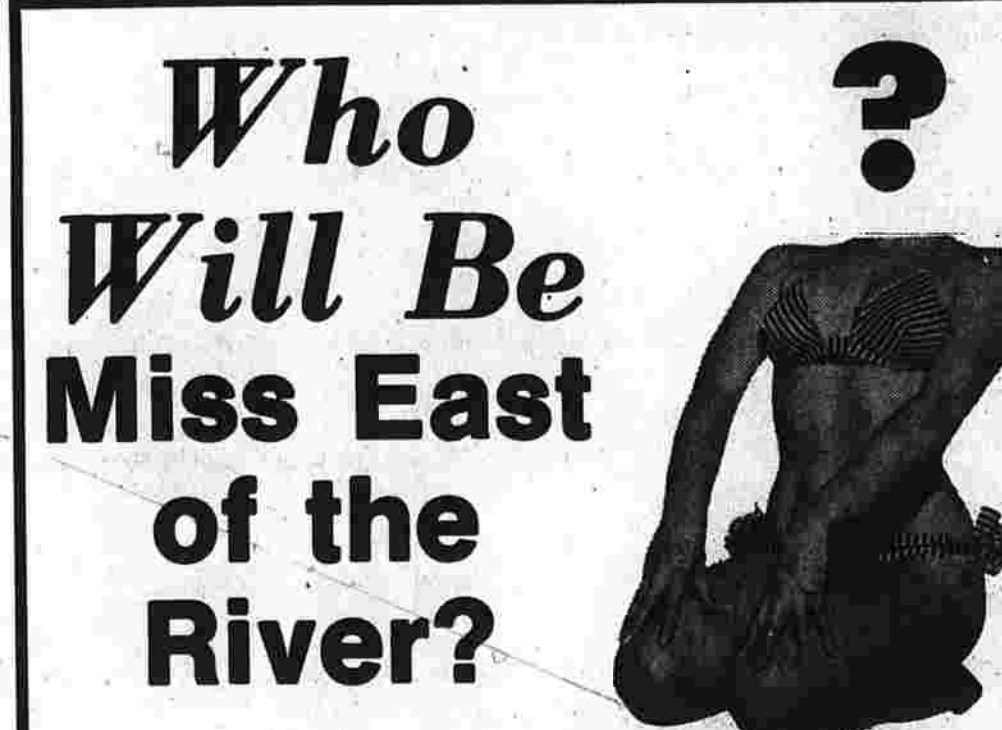

According to Ames, Scout Explorer Post 112 and Boy Scout Troop 98 have accepted the responsibility of removing litter and brush from the north side of the pond area.

The Town of Manchester has made arrangements to pick up the debris and remove the old fence to enable the extension of the trail around the pond.

Official sources of the Chamber have announced the acceptance of the Manchester Joyces to design and build a foot-bridge connecting the trail around the lake at the Lydall Brook area.

The rustic bridge will be designed by two of the Joyce member architects, Richard Lawrence and Allan Lamson.

Boy Scout Troop 382 is also continuing its efforts to complete trail improvements on the south side of the pond to extend the trail to the new footbridge.

THE ELIZABETHAN RENAISSANCE. The Cultural Achievement. By A.L. Rowse. Scribner's, 412 Pages, $12.50. That most enthusiastic and readable of living Elizabethan scholars, A.L. Rowse of All Souls College at Oxford and the Huntington Library in California, now has completed his brilliant picture of the Elizabethan Age — or has he?

A decade ago Rowse wrote an absorbing but controversial biography of Shakespeare in which he said flatly that sound historical considerations proved the Earl of Southampton, the poet's patron, was the young man of the sonnets. In the current book, last of the projected four on the Elizabethan Age that first appeared in 1952, the historian says we are "hardly likely to know" the identity of the famous Dark Lady of the sonnets. Then, only a few weeks ago, Rowse announced in London he had found entries in an astrologer's notebook showing that the Dark Lady was Emilia Bassano, a young woman of more than easy virtue and member of a family of Italian musicians attached to the court.

So who can say when such an enterprising scholar admits as Rowse has said his last word? Canny and learned as he is, he makes sure that any of his hypotheses which he cannot prove to be unquestionably true are certainly not demonstrably wrong. The last volume on the Elizabethan Renaissance — so much cooler and more disciplined than his earlier relative, the Italian Renaissance — should be the favorite with most of us who delight in Tudor culture. Not only are the writers, great and less, set in perspective. Rowse also describes at length Elizabethan music, painting, architecture and sculpture, science, even the domestic arts.

THE ART CROWD. By Sophy Burnham. David McKay, 306 Pages, $8.95. One of the characteristics of the "inside story" of any activity is that it has a viewpoint. In the present case the viewpoint quite clearly is "anti-establishment." The book's jacket labels it "The Inside Story of How a Few Rich and/or Powerful Figures Control the World's Art Market." That is a bit too broad, but you get the idea.

The Establishment that gets its footing in the pages includes several powerful institutions — particularly the Metropolitan Museum, the Museum of Modern Art, the Smithsonian — museum trustees in general, and quite a few in particular; some of the best-known art dealers and auction houses; some of the prominent collectors of the present, along with some critics and writers.

As for the artists, the emphasis is not on the heralded ones who become affluent, but on those who feel they have been given a raw deal by the Establishment, including the Art Workers Coalition.

There are some very juicy stories about power plays among museum trustees; infighting among museum members; a case of wire-tapping; lawsuits over the way some dealers allegedly handle their artists' works; the business, social and family links among some of the well-known figures in the art world; and a good many anecdotes covering the whole field.

Some of the incidents recounted here have documentary backing. In other cases the stories are so detailed that the reader must conclude that so much smoke must be accompanying a considerable fire. For anyone even mildly interested in the subject, this is a hot book.

LAW AND ORDER. By Dorothy Uhnak. Simon & Schuster, 512 Pages, $9.95. Contemporary literature, like other popular arts, has its vogue, and one of the big trends these days seems to be the cop book — either fiction or factual.

Joseph Wambaugh may have touched off this relatively recent interest in things policemanish with his very popular "The New Centurions," or maybe it's just a reaction against the spate of Mafia-type books. Regardless of the cause, the early tricks of cop books now near food stage.

Former policeman Dorothy Uhnak's novel "Law and Order" is among the latest to enter the lists and it's a good entry. A long, solidly written volume, it details the chronicle of the house of O'Malley, an Irish-American family in which joining the New York City Police Force is almost as natural as breathing.

The first was Sgt. Brian O'Malley, a nasty brute of a man who died as violently as he lived. And it is his death that provides the seed from which this entire story grows. Second is his son, also Brian, who rises to high rank in the police force and is almost brought down in a tangle of corruption in which the circumstances of his father's death figure prominently. Finally, there is the sec-

BOOK REVIEWS

THE GREAT DELIGHT OF MISS UHNAK'S book is the people and events surrounding the lives of the O'Malleys. There are fascinating stories of how it was in Ireland in the old days; deft, colorful sketches of odd types who inhabit the streets of New York, and numerous other captivating asides.

The book has its weak spots, most notably Brian Jr.'s romance with a hard-as-nails type lady television announcer, but overall it's a well-made piece of fiction and well worth the reading.

GEORGE C. MARSHALL: ORGANIZER OF VICTORY, 1943-1945. By Forrest C. Pogue. Viking, 693 Pages, $15. The panorama of the ordeal, superhuman labor and ultimate triumph of the Allies in World War II, as seen by one of the chief architects, Gen. George C. Marshall, U.S. Army chief of staff, continues to unfold slowly but very informatively from the Marshall records now in Lexington, Va.

The slowness with which this complex viewpoint is emerging is inevitable in the circumstances of its preparation, and allowing for the personalities involved, unlike so many previous parts of the story, Marshall secretly rejected lucrative offers for his own memoirs, a major reason probably being that he did not want to hurt the feelings of wartime associates. But, in the interest of history, he agreed to allow access to his papers, now gathered in the Marshall Library in Lexington, the site of his alma mater, Virginia Military Institute. And in his last years he gave much time to long interviews and tape recordings by Forrest C. Pogue, a former Army historian with front-line combat experience in the war, now director of the George C. Marshall Research Foundation and executive director of the library.

Pogue has been publishing this official biography of Marshall for over a decade. Three volumes have appeared, and at least one more dealing with the general's services as secretary of state and of defense should come out in four or five years. Pogue is a most thorough researcher, and while this tends to magnify a naturally pedestrian style — there is little of the exciting flamboyance of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's — we learn a great deal, some things for the first time.

For instance, we hear in Marshall's own words how he thought the unconditional-surrender formula with which President Franklin D. Roose-well surprised his associates and allies at the Casablanca Conference in 1943 actually delayed for a bit the German and Japanese surrenders, although invaluable as propaganda. Pogue also scotches whatever is left of the myth that the military twisted FDR's arm into making us grant great concessions to Stalin at Yalta to get the Soviet Union into the war with Japan.

In fact, Marshall believed everyone who dealt with Stalin should realize the dictator was a "rough SOB" who robbed banks and trains for the Bolshevik cause. And we learn that he thought the unconditional-surrender formula with which President Franklin D. Roose-

Some of our allies' top generals, such as MacArthur, did not consider Marshall a brilliant strategist. But in the end most would have agreed with Churchill's tribute: "He is the true organizer of victory."

Court Retains UConn Food Case Appeal

HARTFORD (AP) - The state Supreme Court has decided to keep on its docket an appeal involving an outside food contractor at the University of Connecticut.

UConn trustees had prepared a contract under which the Segal Administrative Corp. would have assumed control of feeding students at UConn's Storrs campus at the University of Connecticut.

The state appealed Parskey's injunction against the contract and the Connecticut State Employees Association, which has sought the injunction, attempted to have the appeal dismissed.

National Key 73 Officer Is Easter Sunrise Speaker

Salvation Army Col. John Waldron, secretary of the National Key 73 Committee, will be the main speaker at the Key 73 United Easter Sunrise Service Sunday at 7 a.m. at Manchester High School athletic field. His topic: "The Church for which Christ Prayed."

In the event of rain, the service will be in Bailey Auditorium of the high school. Members of the Manchester clergy will also participate in the service, as will the Salvation Army Citadel Band and a United Church Choir.

He was commissioned as a Salvation Army officer in 1958 and was appointed to the finance department at Philadelphia (Pa.) Headquarters. Assigned as secretary for field training at the School for Officers Training in New York City, he met and married Lt. Helen Cressley. In 1941, they took charge of the Ashbury Park, N.J., Corps, and during the next five years, inaugurated the now popular outdoor meetings on the boardwalk and beach. He was appointed divisional young people's secretary at Buffalo, N.Y., in 1951 and was named territorial young people's secretary in 1958. He returned to Buffalo in 1961, when he was appointed divisional commander for the Western New York Division.

Bolton Contract Goes To Arbitration

The Board of Education and the Bolton Educational Association have been negotiating the teachers' master agreement since December. Negotiations resulted in an impasse on March 18 and were referred to mediation on April 11.

This four-hour session failed to result in an agreement and the state mediator declared that the parties were in a deadlock. The mediator's decision was passed, and in compliance with Section 10-158f placed them in arbitration.

Each group must select an arbitrator and the two of them must then select a third arbitrator and set a hearing date.

Areas of disagreement to be submitted to arbitration are limited to the basic salary schedule, the no strike clause, binding arbitration and the provisions for CMS Center premiums.

The opinion of the arbitration panel is advisory only and is not binding on either party. If an agreement is reached following arbitration, the agreement must be submitted to the town clerk and within 30 days the legislative body of the town can vote to reject it. If no action is taken by the town within the period, then the agreement becomes binding upon the town.

Minesweeping Halted

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Navy has halted minesweeping operations in North Vietnam because of the danger of Communist attacks in Cambodia and delivery of troop reinforcements and supplies to the Viet Cong in South Vietnam.

North Vietnam reported today that the Navy stopped its sweep operations two days ago without explanation and withdrew its ships and planes from the coastal areas where they had been working. Hanoi charged the violation of Vietnam cease-fire agreement.

After the Hanoi announcement, Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedman said in a statement that the mine clearing activity was suspended because of the failure of the other side to abide by the agreements and assurances of Paris. "He spoke of 'the other side's failure to respect the cease-fire declared by the government of Cambodia, and... the continued flow of enemy supplies into South Vietnam.'"

The United States suspended the minesweeping operation once before, on Feb. 28, when there was a release of 100 U.S. prisoners of war held by North Vietnam. The POWs were released four days later, and U.S. Navy planes went back to sweeping the waters at the entrance to Haiphong.

The North Vietnamese Foreign Ministry said the minesweeping stopped again Tuesday and the U.S. task force pulled out of the area.

It also claimed that in some two months of clearance operations, the Americans had exploded only three of the "tens of thousands" of mines U.S. planes planted in North Vietnamese waters last year.

The statement accused the U.S. government of deliberately retarding the work and said the suspension of operations was evidence of a "premeditated plan to prolong, in effect, the maritime blockade of North Vietnam."

Elsewhere in Indochina: Radio Phnom Penh announced that Brig. Gen. Lon Nol, Cambodian President Lon Nol's controversial younger brother and chief adviser, is going to the United States for a visit.

South Vietnamese government sources said President Nguyen Van Thien is planning visits to six Asian nations in June looking for aid and a chance to improve his regime's image.

The broadcast from Phnom Penh said Lon Nol was going on a "special mission for the government" but gave no dates or details.

Figures Dampened By Soaring Of Inflation Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government today reported the economy advanced at a rapid rate of 14.3 per cent during the first quarter of the year, with inflation soaring at a rate of 6 per cent.

The Commerce Department said the country's gross national product rose $4.6 billion from January through March to reach a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $125.2 billion.

The increase compares with a GNP advance in the fourth quarter of last year of $3.9 billion or 11 per cent at an annual rate.

The gross national product is the value of the nation's output of goods and services and is the broadest indicator of the economy's performance.

Without the rate of inflation of 6 per cent, the real output during the first quarter was 7.9 per cent, compared with real growth of 8 per cent in the fourth quarter of 1972.

But the rate of inflation of 6 per cent during the period was the highest quarterly jump since the fourth quarter of 1970 when it was 6.3 per cent.

The 14.3 per cent increase in the GNP equaled the increase in the first quarter of 1971 when the economy grew 14.3 per cent from a General Motors strike and from a recession.

The government's economic goals for 1973 are for an increase of 10 per cent in the GNP, including 2 1/2 per cent inflation, but the quarterly figures showed the rate of inflation was more than double the administration's goal.

Under Nixon's proposal, funds would be allocated directly to local governments to permit development in accordance with local objectives and priorities without first getting approval from Washington.

By allocating funds according to formula on the basis of need, the proposal would allow communities not reached under the present grant program would receive funds.

Secretary James T. Lynn of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, said in sending the administration proposal to Congress, "the time has come to reduce federal control, red tape and bureaucracy in community development programs."

"This aid will have no strings attached as long as it is used for community development," Nixon said last month in announcing his special revenue sharing proposal.

"Your local leaders can go on spending it the way Washington would like to see it spent. But they would also be free to work out better plans without having to get Washington's approval," he continued.

Nixon first proposed the community development legislation in 1971 but failed to garner enough support in either the House or the Senate.

Rev-Share Program Requested

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today proposed a $2.3-billion program of shared revenues to state and local governments and the states finance community aid programs.

The proposal, if approved by Congress, would allow the government's present system of grants to assist community development.

Consultant Outlines Role To DAC

By September, Brown said a report on development opportunities, which will be prepared by the William B. Martin Corp., will be submitted. The report, to contain information on physical development plans and economic potential, will be a "very practical guide" for the coming years, Brown said.

Submission of a preliminary report on actual development proposals would come about October 1, Brown said. This report will be prepared with assistance of the downtown committee, and by July 1 the committee should be able to select three physical projects which could be accomplished while more complex studies are under way.

The projects, which could be less or more than three, should have "high bang for the buck" capability, Brown said, to let people know that something is being done. Downtown people have expressed a desire for fast action in the district.

PUC Criticizes Use Of 'Statistics'

HARTFORD (AP) — The state Public Utilities Commission has criticized the Southern New England Telephone Co. and Hartford city councilman for supposedly extracting "selective statistics" from the company's financial reports in separate efforts "to prove a point."

The commission, which normally limits its public relations to the decisions it releases on utility cases, issued a special release to protest SNET's publication of certain figures that it said "make management look good to stockholders" but do nothing "to enlighten the public."

The release, issued by Commissioners Howard E. Huxman, Raymond S. Thatchler and William L. Hadden Jr., also asked Hartford Councilman Nicholas Carbone for figures to be used in asking the PUC to consider a rollback on SNET rates.

The PUC said that SNET in its most recent quarterly financial report "selected for press release emphasis a comparison of first quarter 1973 profits with those of first quarter 1972, which was before a rate increase went into effect."

In a better comparison, the PUC said, would be between quarters after the increase took effect last April. The PUC said the following possible wording for a profit statement based on such a comparison: "SNET earnings in the first quarter of 1973 continued the downward trend which started in the fourth quarter of 1972. Fourth quarter 1972 earnings of $1.08 per share dipped 3.6 per cent from third quarter 1972 results of $1.12 per share and first quarter 1973 earnings of $1.06 per share declined another 1.8 per cent from fourth quarter earnings of $1.08 per share. The PUC said SNET's comparison made "earnings look very much improved" but thwarted the public's "legitimate interest in financial results of regulated utilities."

The PUC also had criticism for Nicholas Carbone, majority leader of the Hartford City Council, who has asked the PUC to review the SNET rate increase with a view toward possibly ordering a price rollback. Carbone said the increase had resulted in revenues in excess of the $38 million figure anticipated by the PUC at the time the increase was awarded.

"He did not bother to mention that SNET operating expenses also went up by $4.5 million above PUC estimates and interest expense by $7.5 million above PUC estimates," the PUC said. "Carbone's comments."

Kleindienst Drops Out Of Watergate Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst today withdrew from the Watergate investigation because it involves people with whom "I have had personal and professional relationships."

Kleindienst did not elaborate. Magruder was absent from the White House staff, and the administration's Watergate probe, reporting only to President Nixon.

Magruder was absent from the White House staff, and the administration's Watergate probe, reporting only to President Nixon.

The postulated sources in the executive branch are saying the Dean might soon resign from the White House staff, and that presidential chief of staff H. R. Haldeman might follow suit. The newspaper quoted sources as saying there is "no known evidence" linking Haldeman to criminal involvement in the Watergate affair.

The Post said it gained its account of Magruder's statements from three sources in the White House and in the Committee for the Re-Election of the President. Magruder had been second to Mitchell in the campaign hierarchy, and retained the No. 2 spot after Mitchell resigned in the wake of the Watergate raid last year.

DeVan L. Shumway, spokesman for the Committee for the Re-Election of the President, said he had no knowledge of the matter.
