TEST A BRIDGE EXPERT TODAY

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

You probably have a friend who considers himself a bridge expert, and perhaps he is. There's no harm in testing him with today's hand. Tell him you're having trouble with the last few tricks, and ask him to tell you each card he plays from the dummy and from his own hand. Be sure to keep a straight face.

North dealer
North-South vulnerable
Opening lead - Queen of Hearts

South East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♣ Pass 4 ♣ Pass
Pass Pass

Opening lead - ♠ Q

This dismal fate can be avoided if South refuses the first trick. A simple play, but one that very few players see at first glance.

Helpless

If they lead trumps, South keeps right on with the trumps. Dummy still stops the hearts with the ace, and South can draw trumps and run the diamonds.

If the defenders lead a second heart, dummy takes the ace and declarer gets to his hand with a diamond in order to ruff his last heart with dummy's singleton trump.

Either way, South can keep control of the hand and will surely make the game contract.

Daily Question

Partner opens with one diamond, and the next player passes. You hold: Spades 6-4-3; Hearts, K-9-8-3; Diamonds, 10-6-2; Clubs, A-8-7.

What do you say?
Answer: Bid one heart. Even this weak four-card suit is bid-

LaGace Directs Seniors' Show

Hector LaGace of 166 Bissell St., director of vaudeville revues in the Manchester-Rockville area for over 40 years, is directing the Senior Citizens Variety Show tonight at 8 at East Catholic High School auditorium.

LaGace's show career began with a Boy Scout fund-raising event in Danbury many years ago. His efforts led to organizing variety shows for theaters in Danbury, Rockville and Southbury. In 1940, he came to Manchester and put on kiddie revues for various charities including hospitals and convalescent homes. He has appeared as emcee in many of the shows he has directed as well as in night clubs in Connecticut and Rhode Island.

WINTER PLACE
GRAZ, Austria (AP) - When winter arrives, swans and ducks in the ponds of Graz's municipal park "migrate" to a heated pool inside the municipal hot houses. They are caught by employees of the Department of Parks and deposited in the pool. The great many wild mallards that inhabit the ponds, however, roost in the outdoors despite the cold weather and are fed regularly by the Parks Department people.

Chaminade Guest Artist

Grace Mary Belfiore, harpist, will be guest artist for the Chaminade Musical Club annual spring concert Monday at Trinity Covenant Church on Hackmatack St. Miss Belfiore has studied the harp for five years at Hartt School of Music, University of Hartford, and at St. Joseph's College. Her teachers are Dr. Aristid von Wurtzler and Barbara Prieuska, who is Mrs. von Wurtzler in private life. Miss Prieuska is a member of the New York Harp Ensemble and has toured with the group in Europe and the United States. Dr. von Wurtzler has appeared in solo concerts throughout the world. Miss Belfiore has appeared in concerts in Hartford and Manchester. Last spring, she presented a program in Carnegie Recital Hall, New York City. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Belfiore of 40 Forest St., she is an honors student in the sophomore class at East Catholic High School. She is also a member of the Student Council at ECHS, and the instructors of the Handicapped. For the Chaminade Musical Club concert, she will play "Soupir," by Tourniere; "Pattuglia Spagnuola" by Tedeschi; and "Lullaby" and "Memory of Salzedo," both by von Wurtzler, her teacher. Proceeds from a free-will offering taken at the concert will benefit Manchester High School students who will attend Laurel Music Camp.

Today's Thought
Power to be Changed
Thank God, the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, that in His great mercy we men have been again into a life full of hope, through Christ's rising again from the dead.
You can now hope for perfect inheritance beyond the reach of change and decay, "reserved" in Heaven for you. And in the meantime you are guarded by the power of God operating through your faith, until you enter fully into the salvation which is all ready for the dispossessed of the last.
This means tremendous joy to you, I know, even though at present you are temporarily harassed by all kinds of trials and temptations. This is no accident - it happens to prove your faith, which is infinitely more valuable than gold; and

He Puts Lesson to Work
Twelve-year-old Kenny Nadesu of 90C Rachel Rd., a sixth grader at Robertson School, bought a $110 bicycle at Farr's Camping Center, 2 Main St. The boy overpaid $8 because an employee had made an error while figuring the sales tax. The mistake was not realized until Tuesday when Kenny got a lesson in computing sales tax in Mrs. June Charlam's math class. When the error was discovered, Mrs. Charlam took Kenny to the store where they talked to Mr. Farr. "Mr. Farr immediately realized the mistake when he saw the sales slip," Mrs. Charlam said, "and he refunded the overcharged tax money." After the money had been refunded Mr. Farr gave Kenny the same lesson that he had been taught in math class. He showed him how to figure sales tax and cautioned him to check the sales slip on all purchases. But Kenny's riches didn't last too long; before he left the store he bought a customized kickstand for his new bicycle.

Scout Cleanup Day Saturday

Saturday will mark the finale to Manchester's Environmental Month with the 11th Annual Scout Cleanup Day. The environmental month is sponsored by the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce's City Beautiful Committee. Over 25 scout troops are joining in the effort to clean up various areas of Manchester. Trash bags have been provided for the various scouting units through the courtesy of Charles McCarthy of Burger King. Additionally, participating scouts will receive free passes for a Burger King. The filled trash bags will be exhibited in front of Manchester's Town Hall demonstrating the young leaders' efforts to preserve our Manchester Clean Environment.

Other activities completed over the month were anti-litter programs conducted at Manchester elementary schools by Dr. Stephen G. Romeo, committee chairman; and Richard G. Clark, Chamber's executive vice president. Also participating in anti-litter programs were Dr. Douglas H. Smith, former committee chairman, and Roy C.J. Normen, an active member.

Francis Sellers, Albert Hadjian and James Carey, originators of a petition regarding the purchase of landfill site which was ruled invalid by Town Council Robert Haggerty, will circulate a "proper petition," they said.

The original petition, termed by Haggerty as "extremely vague" in intent and wording, called for reconsideration of action taken at a special town meeting authorizing the purchase of a landfill site on Rt. 6 for $26,000.

The town clerk should have given prior approval to the petition, but Mrs. Rita Cloutier, town clerk, said she was not aware of the petition until it was submitted to her on April 16. According to Haggerty, the statute clearly states that any page of a petition which does not contain a circulator's affidavit is invalid. The original petition did not contain a circulator's affidavit. He added that he had every reason to believe there were numerous instances on the petitions presented where one person signed more than one name.

'Correct' Petition To Be Filed

He said he was disturbed by the language used by Haggerty in his letter to the town clerk and planned to demand a retraction from Haggerty. "That is pretty strong language," Carey said. "He is making a public conclusion of this type of fraud." Carey said he would attest that no one signed his petition more than once.

He said every effort was made to comply with the town charter and stated there was no intent to mislead and there was no fraud in the submission of signatures.

"If there were any discrepancies, it was not my knowledge, but not fraud," Carey said. He said he had never seen so much "red tape" to discourage a petition. When he was asked why he felt the reconsideration of the April 10 town meeting was important, he replied that it was because of the recent publicity concerning the state's agreement with General Electric for a waste disposal system. He said landfill specifications will become so strict that present operations may not meet their regulations and towns will be forced to abandon landfill areas.

Alaska Oil Raises Many Questions

Alaska's oil-rich North Slope is going to be tapped. The question is not so much when but how.

That is, should the oil be piped across Alaska to the southern port of Valdez, and thence by tanker to the West Coast, as the oil companies want, or should it be transported wholly through pipelines across Alaska and Canada to the Midwest?

The answer will be up to Congress, and the forces on both sides are gearing up their arguments.

Not surprisingly, a number of midwestern senators and representatives favor the Canada route. What is surprising is that numerous environmentalists do, too. It is almost as if Canada did not have an environment to be concerned about, or a sovereign government that might have a say in the matter.

Points in favor of the Canada line include the facts that: (1) It would avoid areas of high earthquake hazard, (2) would avoid a marine leg, (3) would interfere less with caribou migrations and (4) might be combined with a gas line in a single corridor.

Also, it's argued that the Midwest needs oil more than the West Coast and that much of the oil delivered to the West Coast would only end up being shipped overseas, probably to Japan.

The administration, however, through Secretary of the Interior Rogers C.B. Morton, has advised Congress that a trans-Alaska pipeline would best serve U.S. interests and that a Canadian route is "not desirable."

The Alaskan and Canadian routes are equal in terms of their effect on the land and on wildlife, says Morton, but any pipeline through Canada would involve more unavoidable environmental damage because it would be about four times as long.

"It would affect more wilderness, disrupt more wildlife habitat, cross almost twice as much permafrost and necessitate use of three or four times as much gravel that has to be dug from the earth and it would obviously use about four times as much land."

Moreover, says discussions that have been held with Canadian officials have made it clear that there are certain conditions the government of Canada would impose on any pipeline through Canada.

These are: (1) A majority of the equity interest in the line would have to be Canadian, (2) the management would have to be Canadian, (3) a major portion (at least 50 per cent) of the capacity of the line would have to be reserved for the transportation of Canadian-owned oil to Canadian markets and (4) at all times preference would be given to Canadian-owned and controlled groups during the construction of the project and in supplying materials.

These are the major arguments pro and con that will have to be considered by Congress.

Whatever the decision may be, it can be said now with certainty that it is not going to satisfy everyone.

Today in History

Today is Friday, April 27, the 117th day of 1973. There are 248 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1941, Athens fell to German invaders after 180 days of heroic Greek resistance in World War II.

On this date— In 1521, the Portuguese navigator, Ferdinand Magellan, was killed by natives in the Philippines.

In 1822, the 18th American president, Ulisses S. Grant, was born in Point Pleasant, Ohio.

In 1906, the United States Steel Corp. broke ground along Lake Michigan for construction of a new city—Gary, Ind.

Today's Thought

CROSS

Since it is necessary if we would follow Jesus to take up our cross, we must not be surprised and complaining when the cross comes. The trouble is that, while we expect a cross, we have figured out just what sort of cross it is going to be.

The cross that comes to us, however, is of quite a different kind. We must try to greet it when it comes, no matter how strange its shape.

Open Forum

Positively Angry

To the editor:

I have previously written in these columns concerning apathy as a major blight in our society. At the same time, I have suggested that perhaps this prevalent human condition is an evolving protective device against the effect of shocking events with which we are confronted daily. After all, how much can the human psyche take before catatonia sets in, or we all go to pot.

But can we really allow ourselves to be protected against the shock, the hurt, the awful realization of having been duped, caajoled, and manipulated into supporting corruption among our government leaders?

Can we allow ourselves to rationalize a landslide election of our present administration in spite of pre-election conjectures on the Watergate affair that are now exploding daily as facts to our almost unbelieving eyes and ears?

When do we come alive enough to call a halt, as a people who have been forced to continue a war until a long, drawn-out negotiation process enabled cessation with so-called "honors", who are being taxed inequitably in favor of loopholes; who are being maneuvered into sacrificing family life for work-for-pursuit-of-dollar life in an unprecedented, inflationary economy; and who are now being fed the bitter pill of knowing that those in whom we have overwhelmingly placed our faith are unfaithful?

Strain on our gentle psyche or not, the many faces of phony Madison Avenue fabrication have lulled us too long. We must now distinguish facts from fiction, truth from deception, and act to change the processes that have plagued us too long.

Some very nice people and made a lot of friends. We also had a wonderful time. I also would like to thank the stewardesses and all the flying crew for a beautiful flight and for being so kind to us, they were just great. Thank you all for making the trip a pleasant and a happy one. We mustn't forget the Overseas Travel Agency for making this possible.

Many, many thanks to all and God bless you all.

Bolton Needs Full Time Force

Dear editor:

April 7 one of Bolton's businessmen and most respected citizens was murdered in the driveway of his home. Less than two weeks before this tragedy, a town meeting was held and first selectman Richard Morra asked for additional police protection for our town. Many reasons were given why this was needed and letters from the Government, the embryonic Communist regime North Vietnam is trying to establish in South Vietnam.

What the Hungarian was indiscreet enough to admit suggests the foundation of the Paris agreement. U.S. officials here believe South Vietnam can survive the ceasefire negotiated for it by Dr. Henry A. Kissinger only if Moscow restrains Hanoi, but the two Communist members of the ICCS, Hungary and Poland, are under Soviet direction and have been energetically torpedoing peace-keeping with cold war fervor of the 1940s.

Accordingly, U.S. officials here fear what this implies about Soviet adherence to life-and-death international agreements, including arms limitations, negotiated under the grand design of President Nixon and Dr. Kissinger.

SAIGON — Some recent in discreet remarks by a Hungarian army officer assigned to peace-keeping in South Vietnam only confirm that the ceasefire force-fiasco challenges the rationale of both the Paris agreement and Nixon-Kissinger diplomacy generally.

It was a Hungarian national day celebration for members of an International Commission of Control and Supervision (ICCS) regional team, and the wine flowed freely. The colonel heading the region's Hungarian delegation, a bit tipsy, approached a South Vietnamese officer and loudly explained why Saigon's Communist members have become protective coloration to maintain the fiction of a ceasefire — the real reason many Canadians and other Indonesians want their nations to quit the commission.

Over three months ICCS's Communist members have excelled in the ridiculous. When Communist sappers destroyed a bridge, the Poles claimed the bridge had been weakened by transportation over it of South Vietnamese artillery shells. When sappers sank a South Vietnamese naval vessel, the Poles claimed it had sunk one of its own mines.

Those two reports were so ludicrous that the Hungarians did not concur. But usually the two Communist nations cooperate in scuttling the ICCS. Communist artillery shells, the Hungarian-Polish explanation is a provocation by South Vietnamese artillery. A South Vietnamese outpost is attacked; the Hungarian-Polish suggestion is handi at work.

Failure to be ridiculous is not permitted. When the ICCS investigated fighting over the important port of Sa Hanoi, the Hungarians signed a report stating it was under Saigon's control. He was forthwith relieved of his duties and seen no more in Vietnam. His blunder has not been repeated.

Moreover, the Poles and Hungarians are in intimate contact with Vietnamese Communist — and alerted to some violations before they occur. Communist ICCS members departed hastily from Hanoi near the Cambodian border just before North Vietnamese troops launched a major assault there.

Wolffman probably is totally unknown to older folks. But he's a legend to millions of teen-age listeners and to, say, anyone who still can recite the complete lyrics of "Blue Suede Shoes."

He's mild in person and wild on the air. His delivery is a rapid-fire growl, punctuated now and then by the loud, mournful "OOOOO" that has been his trademark since 1959.

That was the year the Brooklyn-born disc jockey hit it big with his show from station XERF in Del Rio, Tex., near the Mexican border. It sounds like an unlikely place to become a star.

But the station's transmitter, located across the border in Ciudad Acuna, pumped out 250,000 watts. You could hear Wolffman's howls late at night as far north as Las Vegas and then some.

Wolffman, a stocky man in his late 30s, has been going strong ever since. He was in town this week to discuss a record album, but took time to recount how he got in the howling business. "I'll stemmed, he said, from disc jockeys here and in Buffalo who howled or barked on occasion.

"I more or less got the whole thing from them, and that's where the Wolffman Jack name came from," said Wolffman, who has a greying goatee, hates wearing coats and goes about in cowboy boots.

"At midnight, I'd come on with the wolves howling and the down-home blues sound," he said, grinning and giving a quick sample. "This is Wolffman Jack down here with the donkeys." "They wanted somebody on the show who wasn't a straight announcer, someone who could do different things to give the show the kind of rock image they wanted," he said.

"So they came to me and asked me to do what I do on the radio show. So far, it's worked pretty good."

Wolffman, who is married and has two kids, lives quietly and conventionally, despite his howling success in radio. What music does he like when relaxing from work?

"I really don't listen to music when I'm not on the air," he said. "I listen to it, like, 10 hours a day and it's my trade, my profession. You know — a butcher doesn't go home and cut meat.

"I usually like to go home and hear silence. I like to meditate a little bit because I hear sounds all day long."

Wolfman Howls Way To Success

By JAY SHARBUTT, AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Most television announcers got where they are today with perfect diction and deep voices.

Wolffman Jack, on the other hand, did it with the taped howls of wolves.

The familiar howls don't usually accompany him in his chores as the regular announcer on the "Midnight Special" pop music show that commences each Saturday at 1 a.m. on NBC-TV.

Business Indicators Advance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's composite index of leading business indicators advanced 1.4 per cent in March although some indicators were down slightly, the Commerce Department reported Thursday.

With the March increase, the index stood at 101.1 per cent of the 1967 figure of 100 per cent, which is used as the index base.

Among the indicators, those increasing were new orders for durable goods, price-labor cost ratio and industrial materials prices.

Those decreasing were initial claims for unemployment insurance, contacts and orders for plant and equipment, stock prices and building permits.

Government economists said the fact that the overall index had increased is a "good sign" for future economic performance.

One indicator was unchanged from the previous month. That was average workweek, which remained steady at 40.9 hours.

BARBS

By PHIL PASTORET

Just about the time you know all the answers, the Old Man comes up with a new batch of questions.

Home-made jam is what you get into arguing with your spouse.

Spending a vacation is what you invariably wind up doing.

Being good at guessing a woman's age is a talent to be kept well hidden.

It was then that the King made his historic announcement. "My loyal subjects," he said, "I have made a momentous discovery. Something in the Loyal Royal Palace smells!"

"If you don't get rid of that smell," he warned the King anxiously, "it's going to cling to all of us."

The King was very, very angry. "I have ordered my Chief Smeller to smell as hard as he can," he said. "Furthermore, I have instructed the Federal Bureau of Smelling to smell every nook and cranny. I have complete confidence in my Chief Smeller and I can assure you that nobody, not even myself, smells."

But other leaders of the Loyal Royal Opposition took up the cry. "Something smells in the Loyal Royal Palace!" they shouted. And they were very noisy about it.

To set the matter to rest, the King issues a statement: "All my life," he said, "I have been, lightly or wrongly, against smells. And if there was a smell in the Loyal Royal Palace, I would be the very first to smell it!"

But the problem wouldn't go away. More and more people said they smelled something. At last, the Senators said they wanted to smell around themselves. The Opposition Senators wanted to prove there was a smell. And the Loyal Royal Senators wanted to prove there wasn't.

The King indignantly refused their request. "That would be a violation of the Doctrine of Royal Privileges," he said angrily. "I would destroy my Divine Right to Smell."

By now, however, every subject in the Kingdom smelled a smell in the Loyal Royal Palace. Expert sniffers from a score of different packs were on the scene. Even the Loyal Royal Senators were worried.

"If you don't get rid of that smell," he warned the King anxiously, "it's going to cling to all of us."

The King was very, very angry. "I have ordered my Chief Smeller to smell as hard as he can," he said. "Furthermore, I have instructed the Federal Bureau of Smelling to smell every nook and cranny. New Equipment For Police

Lola Fawcett, president of the Coventry Policemen's Wives Association, this week presented to the Coventry Police Department $200 worth of resuscitation equipment purchased by the women's group from money raised through a number of fund-raising efforts. Police Chief Robert Kjellquist, commenting on the gift, said, "I am sure that those unfortunate persons who might fall victim of heart attack, drowning, and other non-breathing situations will be confident and appreciative when their policemen respond with new and modern equipment." Also on hand for the presentation was Town Council Chairman Albert Bradley, left. (Herald photo by Ofiara)

Wallingford Man Wins Super 75 Lottery Prize

NEW BRITAIN (AP) — A Wallingford man, a corporate vice president and his wife from Brookfield Center, and a secretary from Niantic, were the top prize winners in the Connecticut Lottery today.

Frank J. Sadosni, 65, of Wallingford, a building caretaker at Pratt & Whitney aircraft in North Haven, took the $75,000 prize. He said he would buy a car for his married daughter and after his retirement in about three months he would take a trip to Hawaii.

Don and Nancy Beck of Brookfield Center plan to use their $15,000 prize money to purchase stock in the Benrus Corp. of Ridgefield, where Don, 37, is a vice president. Nancy, 29, also said some of the winnings would help pay household bills.

Mrs. Barbara A. Barron, 24, of Niantic, a secretary at an office and real estate office, also won $15,000. She said she and her husband Richard, the manager of a Niantic men's clothing store, would use their prize to replace their car which was stolen recently. She said the car was recovered, but unusable. The Barrons have one child.

The number drawn today was 44504.

Cable TV Potentials Told To Commission

HARTFORD (AP) — The greatest threat to the future development of cable television (CATV) in Connecticut is the public's failure to understand the potential of the system, the state Public Utilities Commission (PUC) was told Thursday.

Several communications specialists urged the PUC to establish citizen advisory boards in each CATV franchise area to advise the cable company, inform the public, raise money for original local programs and guide the development of cable systems.

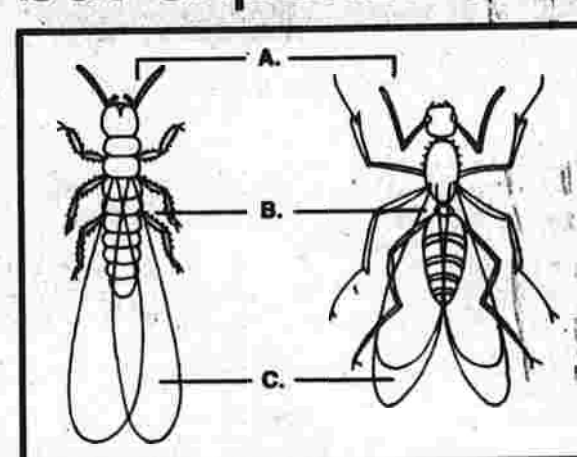

Fifteen franchises have been granted by the PUC, covering most of the metropolitan area and its surrounding areas. The 15 systems are "on the air."

Upon the urging of the Urban League's Government Affairs Council in New Haven, the PUC proposed to establish citizen advisory boards with representatives appointed by the cable operator and local mayors or selectmen.

With one exception, the cable TV industry opposed the proposed boards. Attorney Joseph Cooney, representing the Connecticut CATV Association, said the industry "threatens to be over-regulated."

The availability of sufficient funds is crucial during the initial development stages of local cable television programming, she said.

Aetna Life Awarded Contract

BOSTON (AP) — Aetna Life Insurance Co., Thursday won a new $36 million one-year contract on health insurance for Massachusetts state employees.

The State Group Insurance Commission awarded the disputed contract to Aetna on a 5-1 vote over objections of insurance Commissioner John G. Ryan.

There were only two bidders for the health coverage, and only Aetna bid on the particular program previously accepted by the commission.

Massachusetts Blue Cross-Blue Shield, which did not bid, has filed suit to invalidate any contract award. The suit is not expected to be settled for months.

Aetna's bid was $36.3 million. The other bid was received from Fidelity Bankers Life Insurance Co. of Virginia, but no direct comparison was possible because of its failure to bid on the coverage requirements adopted by the commission.

Total monthly premiums for both individual and family coverage under the program that covers the largest number of employees would increase by 11 per cent.

The insurance covers about 80,000 persons and is one of the largest contracts awarded each year by the state. Different groups of employees, however, are covered under separate programs.

HARTFORD (AP) — State and local police in four communities have arrested six persons on violations of the state's gambling laws in a crack down on pool selling.

A spokesman said the suspects were apprehended at their homes Wednesday on gambling warrants charging them with accepting bets on horse races and other sporting events.

Arraigned in Middlesex County Superior Court and released on $1,000 bond each were Bernard Beattie, 41, Pamela Beattie, 39, Alfred M. Cavuoti, 37, of Old Saybrook; Alexander J. Bogdanski, 54, of Norwich; Alfred M. Cavuoti, 37, of Hamden; and Kenneth S. Curtis, 42, of Old Lyme.

Authorities said the investigation was continuing.

Tangy Rhubarb Peps Up Spring Meals

STORIS—Wake up springtime meals with the fresh flavor of tart, tangy rhubarb. It can satisfy your taste for something different while contributing worthwhile amounts of several vitamins and minerals, according to Janina Czajkowski, Extension nutritionist at the University of Connecticut. You can supplement the food value of rhubarb by combining it with other vitamin-rich fruits, she adds. "Teaming rhubarb with other vitamins on fruits can help increase their popularity with children by toning down its tart flavor."

Wash fresh rhubarb thoroughly, removing leaves and coarse portions. Cut stalks into sticks and sprinkle lightly with sugar.

Make a batch of rhubarb sauce and keep it on hand in the refrigerator. Use it on top of cereal, ice cream, pound cake or pudding. Combine it with other fruits for a variety of easy to prepare desserts and molded salads.

Try Rhubarb-Strawberry Pudding for a change-of-pace dessert. Miss Czajkowski suggests this menu featuring "Steakburgers" and Strawberry Pudding for something different.

"Steakburgers"—Perk up an ordinary ground beef dinner by making a "Steakburger." Combine loaf pound lean, chopped beef (chuck or round), one tablespoon finely chopped onion, half teaspoon salt and a dash of

Indian Girl Visits Student Sponsors

BETTY RYDER, Women's Editor Through the efforts of the students and faculty at Bennet Junior High School, Manchester, a young Apache Indian girl, Erma Adley, who resides on the Fort Apache Indian Reservation in White River, Ariz., with her parents, seven sisters and a brother, has been the guest of Linda Maher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Maher of 87 Cooper St.

In cooperation with the school's Student Council and the Save The Children Federation, (SCF), Erma was "adopted" by the school nearly two years ago. The students, through a variety of fund-raising activities provide money necessary for her clothing and school needs.

The project began when Bill McLean who is now at the high school, was president of the Student Council, Linda said. She is vice president this year.

"Through contact with the Save The Children Federation, they were informed how they could adopt a child, and information about Erma, her family, and their needs was sent to the council."

"The project has continued and I began exchanging letters with her, and the kids decided it would be great if she could come and visit us," she added.

The petite, little visitor, 14-years-old, as Linda, with her luminous brown eyes sparkling, related in soft tones, how pleased she is with her friends here, her visit, and their generosity.

"We live in a four room board house on the reservation," she said, "and if it were not for the money provided by the students here, I could not afford to attend school."

"My father has a bad heart and is unable to work. My mother does bead work and makes cradle boards which she sells. No one else in the family has a job."

Commenting on the school she attends in Phoenix, Erma said, "The school has six 6 Courts...2 in one building, 4 in the other building...in banks of two with wide space all around. Guaranteed open time. Free hot beverages, free towels, whirlpool baths for men and women."

Auxiliary Hears Of Child Abuses

Barry Baker, a member of the State Welfare Department Protective Services Agency, discussed the protection of abused, abandoned and neglected children at a recent meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary at the Legion Home.

Baker defined the various categories of unfortunate children and told about the kind of cases which must be dealt with by the courts and those coming under the jurisdiction of the Protective Services Unit.

He said the agency's staff investigates suspected cases of child abuse and neglect, which have been brought to their attention. They also provide rehabilitation and family counseling where it is needed and accepted by those involved, he said.

Baker, who also teaches sociology at Manchester Community College, is connected with the agency's local office, which is located at the Parkade.

Guests at the meeting included Mrs. Elizabeth Ryhling of Coventry, department president, and members of her official staff. Representatives from neighboring American Legion Auxiliaries and members of local veterans organizations also attended the event.

The Auxiliary will donate $25 to the Manchester Interfaith Day Camp in memory of the Auxiliary's deceased members.

Bolton School To Show Family Life Film

DONNA HOLLAND, Correspondent Irma Merly has sent home permission slips for students in Grade 5 and 6 view instructional films.

Two films have been obtained: Boy to Man and Girl to Woman. The films discuss physical and emotional development. Following the films there will be discussion groups.

The 5th graders will have the program on Tuesday, May 8. The 6th grade program will be on Wednesday, May 9.

Parents are invited to preview the film on Monday, May 7 at 1:45 in the All Purpose Room at the Elementary School.

DONNA HOLLAND, Correspondent Robert Dixon, chairman of the Republican Town Committee, reminds residents that the campaign for the town elections is now nearing its end, with little more than one week to go before voters are asked to decide between the Morris-Dressly Republican slate and the Democrat ticket.

"The Republicans have presented to the town a platform of promises which are reasonable yet imaginative, challenging yet attainable," said Dixon.

"The Democrats have not offered one concrete proposal for townpeople to consider, though it is to be presumed in the remaining days we will be bombarded with all kinds of promises," he said.

Dixon said, "Thus far the Democrats have offered only criticism, which certainly can't be construed as constructive. Take for example the rentals and savings of Al Abgary, Democrat, which Bolton voters have rejected so many times in the past."

"Republicans stand on their record and remind voters of their discontent after two years of a Democrat controlled government," he said, "a discontent expressed by removing Democrats from control of every board and commission at the end of that two year."

"An open government which listens to people and acts without fear or favor was brought back to the town by Republican leadership," he said. "The Republican platform pledges to continue its policies of a controlled and sensible government," Dixon said.

Selectmen Urge Residents To Complete Phone Survey

ANNE EMT, Correspondent The Board of Selectmen urge residents with Columbia telephone exchanges to return their survey cards to the Southern New England Telephone Company (SNET Co.) before Monday's deadline.

Following several years of communications between the town and SNET Co. requesting toll-free service from Columbia to Manchester, the telephone company earlier this month mailed ballots to every Columbia exchange customer in an effort to determine favorability for the toll-free service.

Since 1969, Hebron residents in the Manchester exchange have had toll-free calling to Columbia, but residents with the Columbia exchange have had to continue paying a toll charge to Manchester.

In urging residents to return the ballots, the selectmen noted that toll-free service to Manchester would not only greatly reduce the town's telephone charges, but also that of the schools, including Rham High School.

Rid-Litter Day The selectmen request residents who don't wish to be actively involved in tomorrow's Rid-Litter Day to please make an effort to clean up in their general area.

Residents may bag litter and leave it along the side of the road for pick-up by those adults who will be driving.

Town Counsel At their meeting last night, the selectmen accepted the resignation of Sam Mastandrea as town counsel and appointed Daane Toten of Burrows Hill Rd. to fill the vacancy.

Biennial The selectmen agreed to a request from John Sibon to set up a steering committee for the town's biennial celebration.

The group at that time will elect a chairman, secretary and treasurer. The chairman of the commission will serve as the official liaison on the Chamber's Board of Directors. Additionally, the group will discuss future programming and goal identification.

Rev-Sharing Report Cards Under Study

HARTFORD (AP)—The new director of the U.S. Office of Management and Budget, Roy Ash, said Thursday he was concerned over possible misuse by local governments of federal revenue sharing funds.

Ash told a news conference that the federal government could place economic sanctions against cities and states that did not use revenue sharing funds properly as a way of exercising some control over the way local governments spend federal money, he said.

Ash said he would hesitate to recommend taking federal revenue sharing funds away from a local government that did not use the money in a proper manner. This would be too much like federal control over the way local governments spend federal money, he said.

Gardening

with FRANK ATWOOD

Summer temperatures brought daffodils into full bloom this week and gardeners have been rewarded for their labor of planting bulbs, weeding, fertilizing and cultivating with one of the finest displays of daffodil blossoms in years.

William E. Buckley and his sister, Miss Ellen Buckley, have been known among Manchester gardeners for the daffodil display at their home, at 560 E. Center St. Mr. Buckley, retired head of Hartford Public High School, grows the flowers. Miss Ellen, who says she doesn't "grow anything," uses the blooms in flower arrangements.

In a bed close to the entrance driveway this week there are clumps of predominantly white daffodils, long-stemmed and luxuriant. Mr. Hood, named for the snow-capped mountain in sight of the Oregon hills, is the best of the white daffodils, in Mr. Buckley's opinion. He also likes Boersbeke and the Duke of Windsor.

Most of us think of daffodils as yellow and, of course, many of them are. King Alfred, a strong, large yellow daffodil, is said to be the most popular variety in this country. There are also many varieties. The daffodil is easy to hybridize, but selecting a new variety and then building up a supply of bulbs large enough to meet market demand takes 25 to 30 years. The patient Dutch, who also have ideal climate conditions for spring bulbs, develop most of the new varieties although some come from England and a few from our Pacific Northwest.

Mass was the problem. Getting ready for spring bloom, Mr. Buckley's chief concern was to clear the bed of leaves that had been blown among the plants, some weeds that started in the fall and, particularly, moss. He said he had to scrape moss off the surface of the ground with a garden hoe. It had made a fine start with the wet weather last fall.

Mr. Buckley will dig dried cow manure into the soil around his daffodils when they have finished blooming. He may, or he says he may not, take the trouble to map off the seed beds. The books tell us to take off the seed pods so that there will be more growth in the bulbs, but Mr. Buckley says he has not observed much difference. There is only one location at the Buckley home where daffodils multiply reliably, he notes. This is under a grape vine, providing shade for the daffodils underneath. Elsewhere on the grounds, which are quite steeply sloped and where the soil is a gravelly or sandy loam, the drainage after a rain is just too good. In hot summer weather the plants become too dry. They will grow for a few years, but with fewer buds each spring, and there have to be replaced.

A few years ago the Buckleys had an area of naturalized daffodils nearly as large as a tennis court, on a flat terrace above the street. The flowers grew in what was otherwise a small hayfield and had fierce competition from the grass roots for moisture and nourishment. If the hay was cut at the time when other fields were mowed, the daffodil leaves were cut off with the grass, and one of the rules of daffodil culture is to leave the leaves uncut until they die down naturally after they have finished manufacturing food to be stored in the bulbs underground. Only a few daffodils have survived.

The same warm temperatures that brought the daffodils into bloom will shorten their blossoming season, and for this reason the annual state daffodil show scheduled for May 4 and 5 has been cancelled. It would have been the twelfth annual show and it is the first time that a cancellation has been necessary.

Growers had been watching their flowers, hoping that cooler temperatures would hold them back, but the early blooms have already faded and growers concluded reluctantly that they "just wouldn't have anything to show."

The show season for the American Daffodil Society starts in the south and moves up the coast. Hartford is next to the north, with only Boston at a later date.

Word was this week that the Boston show will be held as planned, counting on blossoms from cooler areas in New Hampshire and Maine to make up for a shortage of blossoms in Massachusetts.

Locally, the Connecticut Horticultural Society sponsors the daffodil show. Committees had been formed months ago, schedules printed and publicity notices sent. The show was to open Friday of next week and continue Saturday at the Pond House in Elizabeth Park.

Mulberry Trees Two mulberry trees given by the Buckleys for planting at the Cheney Homestead today were growing in a corner of the garden when we went to see the daffodils. Mr. Buckley is sure they grew from seed borne by a large mulberry tree that stood nearby and which occurred to the infirmities of age. Several other small seedlings are growing nearby.

The trees are associated with Manchester's history as a silk manufacturing town, since they were planted widely back in the 1830s in the hope of feeding the leaves to silkworms and producing raw silk. It seems to have been possible biologically but not feasible economically but, after a boom in mulberry trees sold at high speculative prices, the craze collapsed.

Best in Show Mrs. Wayne P. Kilpatrick of Bolton was awarded "best in show" recently in a competitive exhibit of the Windsor African Violet Society and brought home a silver Revere bowl as her prize. Her winning violet was Fibropopy Gisela, a semi-double pink flower.

Mrs. Kilpatrick also won the President's Challenge competition, in which each club member was given a small plant in September with the prize going to the plant that made the best appearance after six months. All plants were of the same variety, Bronx Cheer. The prize was a needlepoint door stop.

She had three second-place awards.

Mr. Earl H. Bissell of Manchester, who has grown African violets for some time but recently joined the club, had first place in a class for first-year exhibitors.

Mrs. Kilpatrick reported lively interest in the show. To raise money, the club had purchased 20 plants for sale. All the plants were sold the first day of the two-day show. The club bought another 100 plants and members brought in some of their own small plants to sell the second day.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The Interstate Highway System, begun in 1956, was designed to be the nation's key highway network, serving both civilian and defense needs. When completed it will form a 42,000-mile web of rural and urban superhighways spanning the "nation's" land connecting 93 per cent of all cities over 50,000 population. The World Almanac says. Routes with odd numbers run north and south, even-numbered routes run east and west.

The bird dropped.

O.C. said "I got her." Buddy said, "You got her? When did you shoot?" It was agreed if the right wing was broken it was Buddy's bird. If the left, O.C.'s. Both wings were broken. Buddy was shooting No. 8 shot. O.C.'s 7 1/2. That should settle it. When dressed the bird was hit on both sides with 8's on the right and O.C.'s 7 1/2's on the left. We ate it together.

The west side of Birch Mountain was thickly covered with gray birches in which the partridge were feasting on the seed cones. Tom (Cuckoo) Keating was hunting with O.C. when a partridge flushed.

O.C. took a quick shot because the growth was so thick. Although the bird disappeared, O.C. was sure it was hard hit because of all the feathers that came floating down in the air.

After plenty of "Cuckoo's" joshing about O.C.'s taking feathers out of his pocket to prove his claim to a hit, it was discovered that the dead bird was wedged into a crotch about ten feet above where he had searched the ground for it.

One time when O.C. was alone he saw a gray squirrel disappear over a ledge ahead of him. Just as O.C. cautiously peered over the top of the ledge for the squirrel, a partridge flushed. O.C. knocked it down because he was picking it up he heard a little commotion in the leaves and there was another partridge fluttering her last about a rod away. That's the only time O.C. ever got two birds with one shot and he didn't even know the second and farthest one had flushed. Lucky he hadn't got one before that because the legal limit was two a day.

Partridges fly so fast that, like the sixteen-year-old drivers, they fall to make the curves. O.C. has known several cases where they have broken houses and windows and broken their necks.

Fosters lived just north of Middle Lake at the foot of McLean Hill. One day Leon Foster and O.C. were hunting on the north side of Chapman's Hill just east of Clarence Wickham's (Wickham Park). A partridge flushed, but before either of us could fire she hit the trunk of a big maple tree and fell with a broken neck.

The OLD CODGER'S CODGICATIONS

Partridge or Ruffed Grouse are very interesting creatures, probably because they are so individualistic. It is the greatest sport to hunt them with a well trained bird dog. Half the fun is watching the dog work.

White a boy, O.C. only had a few chances each of three or four years to hunt with real good trained dogs. It is better to hunt birds without a dog than with a poorly trained one or one without any training on birds.

So most of O.C.'s partridge hunting was done alone or with one or more partners.

He has witnessed some beginners making wonderful kills that appeared to be impossible and some with a lot of experience, and known as good shots, making clean misses that anyone should have found easy.

That's partridge hunting. One day four of us were hunting without a dog out east of Colchester. We were traveling abreast about a hundred feet apart. A partridge already safe off the right of the line decided to take a flight. She went in the open straight across in front of the line.

After the four, one after the other had fired everything they had, she was still going away to the left with all her feathers intact. How to account for it? It didn't even know the second and farthest one had flushed. Lucky he hadn't got one before that because the legal limit was two a day.

Partridges fly so fast that, like the sixteen-year-old drivers, they fall to make the curves. O.C. has known several cases where they have broken houses and windows and broken their necks.

Fosters lived just north of Middle Lake at the foot of McLean Hill. One day Leon Foster and O.C. were hunting on the north side of Chapman's Hill just east of Clarence Wickham's (Wickham Park). A partridge flushed, but before either of us could fire she hit the trunk of a big maple tree and fell with a broken neck.

'MONSTROUS' RECORD
NEW YORK (AP)—It won't be named on the 1972 Best Seller List, but a volume designed to "help children learn what a book is" has just completed its first year of publication with more than two million copies sold, quite possibly an all-time one year sales record.
The "Book in This Book," featuring Sesame Street's famous Grover.

Manchester commemorative medallions, marking the town's Sesquicentennial celebration, aren't ready for sale and will not be sold until a date is announced, said Town Clerk Edward Tomkiel today. His announcement was made because of the many calls his office is getting requesting one of the medallions. Tomkiel is co-chairman of the celebration.

"There won't be any reservations," he said. "The limited edition of 500 silver medallions and 2,000 bronze will be sold on a first-come, first-serve basis. We will announce the date at least a week before we start selling them."

The silver coins will sell for $15 and the bronze for $4.

Watergate Scandal Impact Assessed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Watergate scandal, its impact rippling through vast reaches of the government, is cited by officials as one reason for the White House's inability to fill nearly 50 top-level federal jobs.

At the White House, some staffers have noted a sudden slowing in their usually hectic work pace. One Executive Office Building secretary said that for the first time in years she's been able to go home before dark because "nothing is coming in from the departments."

The President's own work pace has increased, however. He's been spending "a great deal of time" on the Watergate matter, Ziegler said, "getting in very early and staying late at night."

When asked Thursday about the large number of vacant positions, Ziegler said that the White House compilation shows that 12.7 per cent of the 205 positions it ranks as "sub cabinet" are currently vacant. But at some departments, more than one-fourth of these positions are empty.

Dollar Devaluations May Help To Repeal Gold Ownership Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — Since 1934, U.S. citizens have been forbidden by law to own or trade in gold as an investment. For all that time varying numbers of them have been trying to have the ban repealed.

Now, in the wake of two devaluations of the dollar, opponents of the gold-ownership ban may be closer than ever to achieving their goal. But the odds still appear to be against any permission in the near future for private individuals in this country to operate freely in the gold market.

Legislation to formalize the second dollar devaluation carried out during President Nixon's administration gave the gold-ownership ban a new lease on life. Before the Senate passed the devaluation bill, it succeeded in attaching an amendment repealing the gold-ownership ban as of Dec. 31, 1973.

The legislation is not as far advanced as the gold-ownership ban as of Dec. 31, 1973. The President's Council of Economic Advisors, who said "we are studying the possibility" of tax increases to slow down the economy.

Interviewed on the National Public Affairs Center for Television Thursday, Shultz said Stein's comments were "misleading."

"We are going to propose a program on Monday on behalf of the President... that will aim at greater equity in the tax system and greater simplicity for the taxpayer in trying to understand that system and fill out his or her tax return," Shultz said, adding:

Tax Hike Termed Misunderstanding

WASHINGTON (AP) — "But that's a very different thing from an... proposal for an increase in taxes. There will be no such proposal."

He declined to go into more detail on the upcoming proposals. Meanwhile, Sen. William Proxmire today said if Nixon proposes a tax increase, "I will do my best to kill it."

The Wisconsin Democrat, vice chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, noted some administration suggestions such as increasing might be in the works as an anti-inflation move.

"It would be a harsh and outrageous act at a time when the administration is wanting billions in unneeded subsidies, excessive military aid spending, foreign military aid to some 46 countries in the world, and for frivolous items like servants for the military brass and limousines for every minor bureaucrat in Washington."

Also Thursday, AFL-CIO President George Meany urged Congress to reject President Nixon's proposal for expanding trade with the Soviet Union by granting the Soviets a most-favored trade status.

"There is no reason to believe that such treatment will lead the U.S.R. to make earnest efforts for removing the causes of international tension and promoting equitable and lasting world peace," Meany said in a prepared New York speech at the Congressional Medal of Honor Society's annual Patriotic Award Dinner.

Senate Bill Would Give State Control Over Safety

HARTFORD (AP) — Connecticut would regain full power to enforce on-the-job health and safety standards under a bill passed Thursday by the Connecticut House and sent to the Senate.

The state's Departments of Health and Labor handled the task separately before 1971 when a federal act took effect. The federal Occupational Health and Safety Act provides for federal inspection working conditions but offers to pay half the cost of a state to conduct its own inspection under federal acceptable standards.

House Democrats opposed the measure but it passed 90-54. They argued that representative of business and industry, unhappy with stringent federal enforcement standards, had gone to Republican leaders with a request that the state resume its own inspections.

The Republicans, however, said the state Labor Department has 45 inspectors available to take over the inspections while the federal program in Connecticut is conducted by only eight inspectors.

Meanwhile, the state Senate passed and sent to the governor a bill that would strengthen control over alleged cases of child abuse.

The bill, which passed the Senate unanimously Thursday, provides a 24-hour state registry of child abuse cases. It also would require school guidance counselors, dentists and psychologists to report suspected abuse cases, and would levy a $500 fine for failure to report them.

Current law requires reports by doctors, nurses, medical examiners, school teachers, principals, social workers, policemen and clergymen to report suspected child abuse.

Under the new bill, anyone who has "reasonable cause" to suspect danger to a child under 18 years old and reports it to the state Welfare Commissioner would be immune from liability.

Institutional Tax Exemptions Retained

HARTFORD (AP) — Connecticut's tax-exempt institutions will remain that way because the legislature's Finance Committee has killed a bill that would have imposed a service charge on those institutions, according to a state senator on the committee.

"We were hung up," Sen. Lawrence DeNardis, R-Hartford, said Thursday.

The committee believed that the "proper vehicle" to carry out the intent of the proposals had not been drafted and also had some unanswered questions about constitutional aspects of the bill, DeNardis said.

Roman Catholic Archbishop John Sheehan of Hartford and Connecticut Episcopal Bishop Warren Hutchens strenuously opposed the levying of service charges on religious institutions.

One proposal would have allowed municipalities to impose a service charge on tax-exempt organizations for a variety of functions, including police protection. Another measure would have imposed the tax only on metered services like water, gas and electricity.

A third bill which died in committee would have imposed a service charge on all tax-exempt institutions, including state and federal operations.

Guard Posted Around Site Of Maine Petroleum Blast

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Mayor Sylvio Dupuis posted an around-the-clock guard after an explosion killed one person and injured four others at a petroleum storage facility here Thursday.

"We will have security around the clock until we find out the cause of the explosion," he said. "We don't know whether it was the gas or oil stored here."

The blast erupted early in the afternoon at a former World War II fuel storage complex in the industrial district of the city's northern end, near the city's municipal airport, destroying a pumping station at the site.

It killed Debra Carter, 19, Londonderry, a secretary at an all company office located in the brick pumping station building.

"There were two big explosions close together," said Jeanette Swan of Manchester, who was at work in a manufacturing plant next door to the station.

"We thought a plane had crashed," she said. "We looked out, and the building was gone. There was nothing there."

The tank farm, owned by the Manchester Airport Authority, was being converted from oil to city gasoline storage in anticipation of a gasoline shortage this summer, Dupuis said.

Several of the 14 underground tanks still held fuel oil belonging to the Londonderry Oil Co. Inc., the firm for which Miss Carter worked.

Police theorized the explosion occurred when pumps in the basement of the building, used to draw fresh air into the tanks, began sucking gasoline vapors into the building.

The explosion was spotted by observers in the Federal Aviation Agency control tower directly across the runway.

"Airport fire trucks came right across the strip," said Mrs. Swan.

They were joined by city fire trucks and ambulances.

Most seriously injured was Jay Dorval, 28, Manchester, who was hospitalized at Elliot Hospital in Manchester. Also hospitalized there was Ronald Boutin, 31, Londonderry, an oil company employee.

Admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital in Manchester was Capt. Robert Bissonette of Manchester Fire Department. Gerald Fontaine, 50, superintendent of the city's fire department, was treated for burns and lacerations and released.

Police said all the injured had been working on the conversion at the site. They said two other workers escaped without injury.

Democrat Reformers Considering Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic party reformers today consider recommendations that include shedding a delegate "quota system" that figured in Sen. George McGovern's presidential nomination.

Lumped together as the Commission on Delegate Selection and Party Structure, the reformers were told by the 1972 convention to study the McGovern rules and recommend changes or improvements. He initially chaired the group.

On the eve of the commission's first meeting, a group of middle-of-the-roaders called for major revision of the McGovern guidelines.

The Coalition for a Democratic Majority recommended a revision of the rule which resulted in the so-called "quotas" for women, minorities and youth in convention delegations.

In place of such a system, the CDM suggested the requirement of a good faith effort to balance delegations.

The object of the recommendations would be elimination of features which enabled McGovern to rise from distant dark horse status to the party's presidential nominee.

A tactic crucial to McGovern's victory — packing local delegate-selection caucuses — would be prevented by another rule revision.

Cicadas To Emerge This Year

CHICAGO (AP) — Millions of cicadas are about to emerge from 17 years of darkness for a short but useful existence before disappearing for another 17 years.

These Rip Van Winkles of the insect world, commonly lived of all insects. But all except a few weeks of that life is lived underground.

During those few weeks, the mating call of the male cicada reaches a crescendo in mid-afternoon and the rhythmic chorus can be heard a quarter-mile away.

Henry Dybas, curator of insects at the Field Museum of Natural History, said in an interview recently that "locust" is a misnomer for the cicada, but that the term is so widely used it's hopeless to try to change it.

Cicadas, unlike tree locusts — grasshoppers — do not devour plants. They feed on the sap of trees.

They do some damage when the female cuts slits in the bark to lay her eggs, but for mature trees this has only the effect of "natural pruning," Dybas said.

'The Haunting Of Hill House'

Experience In Fear

With a little hard work, "The Haunting of Hill House" will be one of the most successful MIS stage productions yet.

This is a supernatural play; one of the best in the genre. For those who didn't go for the Shakespearean comedy of "The Merry Wives of Windsor," or perhaps the light plot of "Dolly," the "Haunting of Hill House" will present an intense drama of strong emotion: Fear.

This play is far from a run-of-the-mill "ghost story." There are no bedsheet floating onstage, no plastic hands crawling out of the woodwork. It is a drama concerned with the most intense kind of fear: fear of the lurking evil. It is something that dwells on the edge of the senses, manifesting itself briefly and then disappearing, slowly working on the mind, fraying the edges. It is the hollow laughter from deep in a house that stops abruptly before its source can be found. It is the ephemeral feeling that something has just brushed by.

The actors are already hard at work, learning how to project fear to all the audience the sheer terror of the plot. The set crew will soon be appearing, slowly working on the mind, fraying the edges. It is the hollow laughter from deep in a house that stops abruptly before its source can be found. It is the ephemeral feeling that something has just brushed by.

Round Table Bids Aloha to Hawaii

On Saturday, April 14 at 7 a.m., 69 eager vocalists departed from the cool Manchester atmosphere to Boston's Logan International Airport for a three-hour tour of Honolulu, Hawaii.

Accompanying the now nationally-famous group were director Martha White, Miss Charlotte Whyte, Miss Daryl Ross, Mrs. Eleanor Robert, RN, Mrs. Georgiana Hildwell, Miss Patricia and George Emmerling and family.

Due to the one-and-a-half hour flight delay the singers had to wait until after one o'clock to board their plane—a United Airlines DC 10. To pass time, they gathered together and sang to very receptive bathroomb; mahalo, thank you, wiki wiki, quickly, mahi-mahi, dolphin; poi, pastry food; and mahani, girl, was the most popular song.

The weather was, in general, delightful. Though it rained nearly every day, the rain was not a nuisance for more than four minutes and showers were light. Contrary to New England expectations, the weather was not as bad as expected. A rain storm, sunshine broke out almost immediately, and stayed bright for the rest of the day. A few learned painfully just how much a little Hawaiian sun could do, but most played it safe and got used to the weather gradually. Temperatures ranged from 75-80 degrees. A balmy breeze constantly kept the atmosphere pleasant.

The Round Table Singers, when performing, were impressive. Principal George Emmerling, who traveled with the group, said that the group was "extremely impressive" and that the group was "extremely impressive" and that the group was "extremely impressive."

Deepsixers Make Waves

The Deepsixers ventured to Jamaica this year for its annual spring week of scuba diving and snorkeling. The group consisted of 10 adults and 36 students, some experienced divers and some pleasure seekers. They resided in two hotels in Montego Bay and were hospitably served by the hotel keepers and cab drivers, who offered almost anything the travelers might desire.

The divers made several dives the most exciting being on Friday evening. It was the first night dive for most participants. After arriving at the spot by boat, two car headlights were placed in the water to aid the divers in diving, and to attract billions of little fish. Many of the fish were asleep and were able to be caught with bare hands.

Mr. Gil Hunt, advisor of the group grabbed a porcupine fish and held it for several seconds until the fish realized the presence of its captor. Normally the fish would fill up with air, pushing the bubbles out perpendicular to the body and making it impossible for a hand to touch it.

Besides diving, the group took some scenic tours and enjoyed an exciting night life. They visited the Duke's River Falls, which they thought be absolutely spectacular. They experienced river rafting down a relatively calm river with few rapids.

The hot spot of the evening was a night club called the Banana Boat where they watched fire eaters and limbo dancers, amid a lot of noise and people. But the people were very generous and friendly, perhaps for the money but more likely because of their basic nature.

The whole trip including the kids who went and the place they went to, was expressed by Mr. Hunt as being "irresistible." An evening well scheduled for parents and other interested viewers to see the movies and slides taken by members of the club.

AFS Film Benefit Tonight

Entertainment beyond compare is waiting for everyone this Friday night. The American Field Service of Manchester High School will be showing two high class movies. All proceeds will be used to send a deserving MIS student abroad next summer.

Representatives visiting MHS during the week of April 30 through May 4 are as follows: Monday, April 30, Siena College, Loudonville, N.Y., period 2; Thursday, May 3, representatives of the Armed Services (Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines) for both men and women, period 3.

Applications are available in the Guidance Office for the following scholarship: Robert Scholastic — applicant must be a senior or graduate of Manchester High School. Preference is given to residents of the Eighth Utilities District. Eaton-Reed Scholarship — applicant must be a senior or graduate of Manchester High School who is pursuing further education.

When people don't clean up after themselves, someone else has to, and this means dollars which is going to come out of the pocket, so the price has to be jacked up.

The other result is an even steeper backward, to the old restricted-style lunch. What we have now is a privilege at the 25-minute-assigned-seat lunch, on the basis that kids don't have enough responsibility to clean up after themselves in the open study hall system. So far, kids have been proving the truth of this.

Good question. Who cares? — G. Sweetman

MHS Seniors Tour Washington

Charles Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis," a Project Apollo spacecraft, a rock from the moon's surface, and other exhibits pertaining to rocketry and space travel.

Some of the highlights of the National Museum of History and Technology were the original Star-Spangled Banner which inspired Francis Scott Key to write our national anthem, the Revolutionary War gunboat Philadelphia, and George Washington's field headquarters' tent.

Whoopie! The largest African bush elephant on record is mounted in the entrance of the National Museum of Natural History. He certainly is one of the handsomest creatures. Exhibits on the second floor of the building include a world-famous collection of minerals, jade, and gems such as the legendary Hope Diamond and the Star of Asia Sapphire.

The National Gallery of Art houses a collection of paintings including many pieces of Rembrandt, DeVincenti, and Picasso. One could talk for hours on and spend weeks at this place.

Although the Ford Theater where Lincoln was assassinated was closed, the house across the street where he was taken to after he was shot and the Lincoln Museum were open to the public. The clothes that President wore on the night Booth shot him and some of his personal handwritten letters were on display.

What impressed me most about the trip was the people always make the trip and in this case, there is no way the trip could have been better. Finally, I would also like to personally thank the Agora people for letting us have the run of their campus in the way they did. It is truly one of the quietest, cleanest, and prettiest campuses in the country.

COEP Sets Parents' Night

The Cooperative Occupational Education Program (COEP) at Manchester High School will sponsor its annual Parents' Night in the school cafeteria on Thursday, May 3, from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

The evening is designed to be informational for parents of students new to the program. A presentation by the COEP staff will provide parents with pertinent information about the work experience program.

Refreshments and a question and answer period with members of the COEP staff and the Educational Advisory Committee will follow.

Too Much Too Soon

Tomorrow night the Manchester Teen Center is proud to present, "Too Much Too Soon."

The band is composed of several Manchester students. The cost will be $1.

Refreshments and a question and answer period with members of the COEP staff and the Educational Advisory Committee will follow.

Too Much Too Soon. The musical comedy, Too Much Too Soon, will be at the Teen Center Saturday night beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

Vernon Rec Jobs Open For Summer

The Vernon Recreation Department is accepting applications for summer employment and will do so through May 1. Application forms may be picked up at the Lottie-Fisk Building, Henry Park or at the Police Station, West Hill.

Supervisory positions include pool director, supervisor of playgrounds and a program director. Those applying for these positions must have a college degree or its equivalent or be a person trained to work with young people.

Positions open to college students or high school students include those of swimming instructors, life guards, cashiers, locker room attendants, playground counselors and office secretary plus other positions.

For those interested in working on the various athletic fields there are also positions open in the maintenance department. Those who have worked previous years at the recreation department must also file applications if they are interested in working again this year.

Anyone wishing further information should contact the recreation office at 875-7775.

Bridge Blocking Amendment Expected To Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Rep. Stewart B. McKinney, R-Conn., said Thursday his amendment to block the construction of a bridge over the Long Island Sound is certain to be accepted by a House-Senate conference committee.

The amendment was sent into conference because of a working conflict with a similar amendment, introduced by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D Conn., which had already passed the Senate.

The Ribicoff amendment required approval by all states of the Country Club highway project in the nation.

McKinney predicted the conference would reach an agreement because Ribicoff had clearly established in his remarks in the Senate that the purpose of his amendment was to block the proposed bridge linking Rye, N.Y., in Westchester County and Oyster Bay on Long Island.

Check Cabinets For Medicines

The Public Safety Advisory Committee reminds Manchester residents that April is "Spring Clean Month."

The committee asks that the public check medicine cabinets and take the following safety precautions:

Discard old drugs — they don't last forever. They may lose potency or evaporate to concentrations which could be harmful.

Don't take chances — discard any preparation that has changed color, become cloudy or which has been saved longer than the label indicates it should.

Make a practice of — listing the date of purchase on the labels of all new drugs, closing bottles tightly and storing medicine in a cool dry place.

The committee also asks that resident check first aid kits and restock them as necessary.

Vernon Eagle Scout Honored

Randall Gifford, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wright Gifford, Jr., 70 Hubbard Dr., Vernon, who attained the rank of Eagle Scout, was honored at a ceremony held Thursday night at the First Congregational Church of Vernon.

Gifford is a member of Troop 86 which is sponsored by the church with Robert Thomas as scoutmaster. Lt. Herman Fritz of the Vernon Police Department was chairman of the program.

The session is for those town residents who wish to file suggestions or complaints on any subject in the board's jurisdiction. The public hearings, originated in 1967, are held on the first Tuesday and third Thursday of each month.

Comment Session

The Manchester Board of Directors will conduct a public comment session Tuesday from 9 to 11 a.m. in the Municipal Building.

The session is for those town residents who wish to file suggestions or complaints on any subject in the board's jurisdiction. The public hearings, originated in 1967, are held on the first Tuesday and third Thursday of each month.

Coventry Schools Hire Administrative Assistant

HOLLY GANTNER, Correspondent, Tel. 742-8795

The Board of Education has hired Dr. Donald Hardie as administrative assistant. Dr. Hardie is presently serving as a research and evaluation consultant in the Paramus school system, which has an enrollment of over 7,000 students.

Dr. Nicoletti will be replacing Dr. Robert Hopkins in the Coventry school system. Dr. Nicoletti is presently serving as a research and evaluation consultant in the Paramus school system, which has an enrollment of over 7,000 students.

Transportation Contract

The Board of Education last night agreed to take advantage of a clause in the current two-year bus contract with Flogy Moore, and renew the contract for one additional year. Basic transportation costs thus will remain the same for the 1973-74 school year, with the proposed budget figure of $133,270 for the new school year covering additional field and athletic trips.

The appropriation for the current year is $124,800.

Dr. Hardie reported to the board that the board's language arts (Grades 4-8) curriculum committee, which has been meeting now for several weeks, is still in the initial planning stage, and therefore a full report will not be presented at this time.

"However," he said, "I feel the work of this committee is extremely important, because the program that evolves will serve as the model for in-service material in the only language arts, but for the critical areas of reading and mathematics."

"Committee members have been meeting weekly on their own time for the purpose of examining materials from many companies. Another total stage of development which has not yet begun is the development of budgets, formation of policies, and personnel interviews."

The new administrative

Tolland Problem Postpones Town Plan Hearing

VIVIAN V. KENNESON, Correspondent, Tel. 875-4704

A public hearing for the proposed town plan will not be held Monday according to Planning and Zoning Commission chairman Douglas King.

Prior stated that Town Counsel Robert King has questioned parts of the plan and that a public hearing will not be held until after the PZC meets with King.

King has declined to discuss what areas he is concerned with, before meeting with PZC Monday night, but said, "there are some problems so I doubt about it."

A summary of the 1968 Comprehensive Plan of Development was presented at a PZC meeting last week. The summary represents over a year's work by the PZC, Advisory Committee and Northeast Development Group — a professional planning firm.

According to the plan, by 1985 Tolland's population will be 18,700 with the projected number of households up to 4,463, an increase of 118 per cent.

The summary states that if all buildable land were developed, Tolland's population could swell to 40,000 or 50,000 with up to 15,000 dwelling units.

The development concept includes eight or more centers designed to satisfy the needs of the ultimate population. Each neighborhood center would be the heart of the community, featuring a park, elementary school and recreational facilities.

Centralized shopping, recreation, entertainment and education center is proposed south of the Rt. 72 interchange with I-84. Commercial and industrial development goals are the heart of the community.

The summary report covered areas of residential development, the resignation of Mrs. Kathleen Koller, Hicks teacher. Dr. MacKenzie noted that Mrs. Koller has been an "extremely dedicated and effective teacher" during the past three years.

Other resignations effective June 30 that were recently accepted are Mrs. Sharon Hony, Mrs. Mary Lou and Mrs. Betty Ann Thoe. Mrs. Loretta Orzechowski's resignation, effective May 18, was also accepted.

Board of Education

The Board of Education approved the appointment of Mrs. Barbara Lasher to a teaching position at Hicks School beginning on September.

Mrs. Lasher is a graduate of the State University of New York where she majored in elementary education. She has substituted as a teacher since October 1970.

Mrs. Lasher lives on Hicksville Rd. with her husband, Lance, and two children, Todd and Nancy.

The board accepted with the resignation of Mrs. Kathleen Koller, Hicks teacher. Dr. MacKenzie noted that Mrs. Koller has been an "extremely dedicated and effective teacher" during the past three years.

Other resignations effective June 30 that were recently accepted are Mrs. Sharon Hony, Mrs. Mary Lou and Mrs. Betty Ann Thoe. Mrs. Loretta Orzechowski's resignation, effective May 18, was also accepted.

"Operation Egg Drop" A Smashing Good Time

David Ryder Gives The Count Down

Students of William Hankinson's physical science class at Timothy Edwards School in South Windsor, launched mock spacecrafts containing "raw egg" astronauts.

The launch was part of a project in which students had to design a craft which would enable their astronaut to make a "soft-landing" from the third floor of the school.

Directors Face Modest Agenda Tuesday Night

A comparatively modest agenda faces the Manchester Board of Directors for its Tuesday night meeting. Except for public hearings on five proposed appropriations, all to be financed by equal fees or grants, plus opening the meeting to directors and taxpayers who wish to speak on other subjects, the directors have only one item of unfinished business before them — consideration of a sanitary sewer swap with the Town of South Windsor.

The directors conduct meetings on the first and second Tuesday of each month. They have public hearings on agenda items on the first Tuesday and take action on the second.

The proposed sewer exchange is for about 400 acres of Hartford Tobacco land in both towns, the site of a proposed industrial-commercial-residential development.

The proposal was on a board's agenda April 10. By a unanimous vote, the board tabled action, pending more information on the estimated effluent flow and the effect it would have on the town's already overloaded Sewage Plant.

Town Manager Robert Weiss, who is recommending the sewer exchange with South Windsor, has submitted figures which predict a near-equal sewage flow by gravity in each town, should the development materialize.

In placing the item for reconsideration next Tuesday, Weiss, "it is our opinion that the sewer exchange between the two towns is equitable, the sewer plant can accommodate the area, that the area was planned to be included in the original design of the plant, that we have an obligation to service the area, and that it would be preferable to do so with a gravity flow."

The following agenda items appear under the heading of new business — to be discussed May 1 and acted upon May 8:

- ... Considering the abandonment of the eastern portion of Hannaway St., where it abuts the property of Multi-Circuits.
- ... Allocating $2,000 from the Capital Improvement Reserve Fund, for restoration of deteriorated engineering maps.
- ... Establishing a "Blue Ribbon" committee to study different forms of government.
- ... Appointing members to the Youth Commission.
- ... Appointing an alternate member to the Zoning Board of Appeals, to fill a vacancy.
- ... Discussing proposed new rules for Manchester cemeteries.
- ... Approving the transfer of a total of $44,150 from eight accounts and distributing the sum among 11 other accounts, as follows:

- From the contingency fund, $2,500; Social Security, $7,300; street lighting, $7,100; Major Medical Insurance, $3,000; police, $3,250; assessment, $5,000; temporary borrowing, $9,000; and S.A.M. (Summer Activities in Manchester), $7,000.
- To the collector of revenue, $2,500; park department, $7,300; C.M.S., $4,000; general services, $50; planning and zoning, $2,300; libraries, $3,600; and refund of taxes, $250.

Other cases disposed of or nolle prossed Thursday included: The cases of Daniel S. Francis, 32, and his wife, Theresa, 30, both of 28 Cottage St., both charged with disorderly conduct were nolle prossed. A charge of intoxication against the man was also nolle prossed.

Court Cases

CIRCUIT COURT 12
Manchester Session

A charge of third-degree burglary against Joseph Petrello, 18, of no certain address, was nolle prossed (not prosecuted) Thursday by Prosecutor William Collins Petrello, who was extradited from Arizona earlier this year on numerous charges of burglary, larceny and violation of probation stemming from an area burglary, being held at the Connecticut Correctional Center at Hartford. Other charges against Petrello are pending in Hartford County Superior Court.

The case of Wayne Wierzbicki, 18, of 103 Greenwood Dr., charged with third-degree assault, third-degree burglary and third-degree larceny, was continued to May 24 for a hearing in eligibility as a youthful offender.

Wierzbicki is charged in connection with recent area burglaries.

Other cases disposed of or nolle prossed Thursday included: The cases of Daniel S. Francis, 32, and his wife, Theresa, 30, both of 28 Cottage St., both charged with disorderly conduct were nolle prossed.

A charge of intoxication against the man was also nolle prossed. Markowski says he is eliminating the practice of "judgeshipping" by changing the federal court calendar from the current "general" format to an "individual" calendar.

Under the new procedure, he says, a single judge will handle a case from start to finish. Related cases will be assigned to the same judge, he says, rather than to whatever judge is free.

Markowski says he began the overhaul of the system shortly after his appointment by Chief U.S. District Court Judge M. Joseph Blumenfeld.

"He's wanted it for a couple of years," Markowski says. "I expect to make the courts more efficient, and to enable judges to give more 'personal attention' to cases."

Siebold Urges Enclosed Rink

EARL W. YOST
(Sports Editor)

"If a rink is built here," Siebold added, "and used as a school function on town property as a teaching station, 50 per cent of the costs would be refundable."

Currently there is a move under way to introduce hockey at Manchester High next fall, a project started by outside interests, namely Manchester High Booster Club members.

Siebold, in his report, said that a rink built in West Hartford in 1968 cost $380,000. Rick Lawrence, a local architect familiar with enclosed ice skating rinks developed and being developed in several Massachusetts communities which include town facilities, said costs run anywhere from $50,000 to $700,000. Siebold indicated that this would be the type fully enclosed building he would like to see erected in Manchester.

Neighboring Vernon, he said, estimated a facility a year ago would be built for $600,000. The private rink in Bolton, scheduled to open in the fall, will cost approximately $400,000, minus land and professional planning fees. The price noted is just for the building.

Rec committee members present, Chairman Ron Gates, Joe Sylvester, Bob Bieler and Joel Janenda, plus Ernie Curran, park superintendent, all favored an enclosed rink in Manchester's future.

Fuel Oil Dealers To Hear Killian

Robert K. Killian, state attorney general, will address the May 7 meeting of the Fuel Oil Institute, a division of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce.

Called Insight '73, it will be a breakfast meeting at 8:30 at the Steak Out on Rt. 85. Chambers of Commerce in the area have been invited, according to Richard G. Clark, executive vice president.

Killian will discuss his recently submitted fuel control bills. They would: 1. Beep up the Connecticut anti-trust act by adding a provision outlawing the use of price discrimination which major oil companies have been accused of employing to gain marketing advantage over the independent retailers they supply.

2. Guarantee service station operators of franchise periods no shorter than five years and forbid oil companies from canceling franchises without good cause, giving them clearer recourse to the courts.

3. Be patterned after a Massachusetts act which required the major oil companies to spell out lease agreements and prevent them from coercing dealers who join trade associations.

Two Hospitals Denied Rate Increases

HARTFORD (AP) — The Cost of Living Council in Washington, D.C., had rejected requests from two Hartford hospitals for special rate increases.

Mt. Sinai and St. Francis hospitals both had asked for special exceptions to the price control regulations in order to cover the debts incurred in building new wings.

However, the federal council said they had enough money coming in and enough put aside as endowments to meet the bond payments.

Officials at Mt. Sinai said they would appeal the ruling that rejected their request for a 15 per cent annual revenue increase. St. Francis was turned down on an appeal of a prior rejection for a 10 per cent hike.

TURN AHEAD

Gentle Reminder

SOL R. COHEN
(Herald Times Editor)

The time has come, as it does each year, to remind you, dear friend — Daylight Saving is here.

Whatever hour tonight you go to bed, remember — the clock goes one hour AHEAD.

Don't make a mistake and push it back, or you'll find in the morning — it's two hours you lack.

You may lose some sleep from the hour lost, but — the joy you'll gain is worth the cost.

You'll have more time to lift that bale, to tote that barge, to shop that sale.

To play some golf, to gab about, to try your hand at a swank cookout.

So, we remind you again, when you go to bed — make sure your clock is set one hour AHEAD.

Floodwaters Cover America's Heartland

By CRAIG AMMERMAN
Associated Press Writer

Ten million acres of America's heartland from Wisconsin to Mississippi remained covered by floodwaters today as the swollen rivers of the Mississippi basin forced hundreds more from their homes.

President Nixon designated four additional states as "disaster areas," paving the way for quick federal aid and cheap federal loans for the repair of damage to public and private facilities.

Agricultural and property damages mounted into the hundreds of millions of dollars.

In Arkansas and Mississippi, officials predicted that, if the large lakes standing where cotton should be sprouting dry in time, cotton farmers could plant a soybean crop in a month or so.

Upstream, the Mississippi River continued to swell, smashing a levee to bury a 500-acre island south of St. Louis. North of that city, sandbag levees were thrown up to keep the Missouri River from cutting a new channel and linking with the Mississippi 15 miles north of their present confluence.

The President flew over the southern reaches of the floodwaters on Friday, damage estimates climbed above $200 million; and Arkansas, Louisiana, Ohio and Wisconsin joined Missouri, Illinois and Mississippi as declared disaster areas.

"I can assure all the people who live in the stricken areas that full federal assistance will be provided as long as needed," Nixon said in an address at Meridian, Miss., where he merited dedicate a white training center named for Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss.

Stennis told Nixon "the time is about gone" when farmers in flood-inundated areas could plant cotton.

Throughout the Mississippi basin, the floodwaters had impact.

"Two million acres of flat delta land in Mississippi and Louisiana were under water, and some homes in those areas were reported smashed as strong winds from the Gulf of Mexico whipped waves against them."

Nixon Pondering Newest Watergate Revelations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nixon was alone in the seclusion of his mountain-top retreat today, apparently to chart a course through the grave problems the Watergate revelations are bringing his administration.

He made the short-notice flight to Camp David, Md., late Friday a few hours after naming a temporary successor to L. Patrick Gray III, who resigned under fire as head of the FBI.

His embattled aides, domestic adviser John Ehrlichman and chief of staff H.R. Haldean—frequent companions on such problem-solving trips—remained behind amidst reports they are fighting for their jobs.

In a freakish turn, the Watergate case threatened to disrupt the Pentagon Papers trial of Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo in Los Angeles, with the disclosure by the Justice Department that it had received a report that two Watergate conspirators burglarized the office of Ellsberg's psychiatrist for his files.

The appointment of William J. Ruckelshaus to serve as acting head of the FBI until a permanent successor can be found climaxed a day that saw these developments in the Watergate affair:

—Gray, the acting FBI director who had already withdrawn his nomination for permanent chief, left today less than two miles from where the government troops landed between Prek Long and Prek Bang Kang. The noise of the bombs and artillery shells rattled windows and doors in the capital, but caused little concern among the residents.

—Waves of U.S. B52 bombers hit targets Friday night and early today less than two miles from where the government troops landed between Prek Long and Prek Bang Kang. The noise of the bombs and artillery shells rattled windows and doors in the capital, but caused little concern among the residents.

—Ehrlichman admitted being present when the documents were handed to Gray, but denied he ordered their destruction.

—Ehrlichman also acknowledged that he met with representatives of financier Robert L. Vesco, who contributed $250,000 to the Nixon re-election campaign. But he said he took steps to keep Vesco's name out of the White House support for a Lebanese bank deal.

—The secretary of commerce accepted "with regret" the sudden resignation of John Stuart Magruder, former deputy director of the Nixon campaign, who has become a central character in the Watergate probe.

—Haldean and Ehrlichman were along on the President's publicized trip Friday with Sen. John C. Stennis over the flood area in west Mississippi. Reporters asked to meet with them but they refused.

—For the weekend, the President was without his advisors in the Catoctin Mountains, a favorite retreat in times of crisis. He canceled a scheduled Saturday meeting with his economic advisers.

—The New York Times reported today that White House counsel John Dean III has told federal prosecutors he will not testify on alleged government interest in Ehrlichman without being granted immunity from further prosecution.

Allies Attack Red Positions

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — American warplanes and Cambodian gunboats have pounded Communist positions on the east bank of the Mekong River across from Phnom Penh, providing cover for two battalions of government reinforcements set to rout the enemy.

Gray, the acting FBI director who had already withdrawn his nomination for permanent chief, left today less than two miles from where the government troops landed between Prek Long and Prek Bang Kang. The noise of the bombs and artillery shells rattled windows and doors in the capital, but caused little concern among the residents.

Quits Born

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Four of the five quintuplets born Thursday to a Brush Prairie, Wash., couple continued doing well today, but the fifth, a girl, was in serious condition with respiratory problems, hospital authorities said.

Doctors said the next 36 hours will be critical for the girl, Diane Katherine, the last of the five children born to Mr. and Mrs. Eric Anderson.

The three boys and two girls were born nearly two months prematurely on their mother's 28th birthday. She had taken a fertility drug.

Pediatricians say the infants will have to stay in the hospital at least 60 days until they weigh 4½ pounds. Each weighed less than three pounds at birth.

—The border in South Vietnam, Communist forces attacked a government infantry position near the frontier town of Hong Ngu. The Saigon command said the attack was repulsed, 25 enemy troops and four South Vietnamese soldiers were killed and 25 Saigon soldiers were wounded.

—Hong Ngu, 50 miles west of Saigon, has been the scene of sporadic fighting since last month. South Vietnamese forces have launched an operation there in efforts to clear the Mekong River for supply convoys headed along the Communist-controlled 60-mile corridor to Phnom Penh.

Elsewhere in South Vietnam, the Saigon command said Communist gunners continued attacks against the western defense line of the old imperial capital of Hue in the northern sector.

Recycling Plan Bill Advances

HARTFORD (AP) — A massive plan to recycle Connecticut's garbage has cleared a major legislative hurdle in substantially the form proposed by the state Department of Environmental Protection.

The Finance Committee voted 15-7 Friday to approve the bill, which would create an independent Solid Waste Authority that would spend $250 million on the new system.

The full program, results of a one-year study by the General Electric Co., is expected to take 15 years to implement.

The authority would be able to issue bonds, sign contracts and condemn land.

Richard Chase, deputy Environmental Protection Commissioner, told the committee that within three to five years the authority would construct the first of 25 waste processing plants, with the Bridgeport area getting the first one.

He said garbage would be picked up at individual homes and deposited at a receiving depot. It would then be transferred to one of the 25 processing plants where non-combustible waste would be separated.

The combustibles would go to five "energy" plants to be burned for fuel. Under the plan, 80 per cent of the 10,000 tons of garbage generated in the state every day would be recovered, either as fuel or recycled metal and glass.

The vote came after four hours of debate over giving a "blank check" to the authority.

The committee voted to limit bond expenditures to $100 million until 1977.

Another change made earlier in the bill would require the authority to obtain low participation from the state and would be directed by an appointed board. It would contract most of the work and operation of the massive system to private industry.

The Finance Committee reduced the aim of so-bid contracts the authority could sign from $50,000 to $25,000.

Missing Plane Search Effort Resumes

GROTON (AP) — Military units, police and Boy Scouts resumed a land and sea search today for a single-engine plane reported missing Friday night after it apparently tried to land at Trumbull Airport in Groton.

A helicopter flew to join Coast Guard ships searching Long Island Sound while the Air Force, National Guard, police and scouts prepared for a ground search in southeastern Connecticut and southern Rhode Island.

Officials said a tentative identification of the plane had been made but they declined to make it public. They did say, however, that the plane was believed to be red and white and large enough to accommodate four to six persons.
