The Board of Education ha adopted an Individual Mathematics System (IMS) as presented by Joseph Markoff, Mrs. Deborah Campbell, Miss Joan Krush and Michael

Markoff, administrative assistant, teaches junior high math. Mrs. Campbell teaches Grade 3; Miss Krush, Grade 4, and Wallace, Junior high math According to Markoff, IMS is presents the elementar mathematics skills in a logical sequence of separate steps which can be mastered by the child, for the most part, on his With IMS, the teacher sheds his role of "instructor" and assumes the new role of diagnosing, prescribing and evaluating the individual needs of each student, he said. Individual success is a basic concept of the program, Markoff said. He added that IMS is neither a textbook nor a workbook but a sequence of separate laminated, reusable workpages which present the necessary elementary mathematics skills from a number of different angles. Included in the workpages are entertaining and interesting illustrations and stories, teacherdirected activities, student projects and the application of manipulative devices, Markoff said. The child is provided with his own answer keys and is responsible for correcting those pages he has worked on. Since constant evaluation is an integral part of the program, various IMS tests are provided. They include the initial screening device, placement tests, pre-tests, short skill check tests and post tests. The IMS program will be used in Grade 3 through 6 beginning in September. It is possible the program may include Grades 1 and 2 the following

The cost of the program is $7.50 per student which is $2,100 for students in Grades 3 through 6. The bulk of the material will be used for five years. Items that must be purchased yearly will be pre and post tests will cost about $280 for the grades

Markoff said he had gone to several schools around the state and said the IMS program is 'working at your (the student's) level and at your own

In the study, a basic 100 new workers was used with the following projections, as to what it means to a metropolitan area and to a town. The interesting thing is in where the impact difference comes rather than

For example, 100 new workers in a metro area means 245 more people as compared with 351 in a town, thus pointing up the desire for many people for the more open town living and this we can attest to in Manchester. The same applies to families with metro areas getting 69 and towns 97; however, the number of school children are about the same, 80 in the city and 79 in the town, so the "town"

In other categories, the town tops the metro area also. From each 100 new workers, the town will get more personal income ($1,036,000 vs. $872,000); more bank deposits ($490,-000 vs. $481,000); and more retail sales ($565,000 vs. $395,000).

environment preference isn't based on the premise it is a "better place to

The metro area will, according to the chamber study, have only one advantage over the town and that is it will get two new retail establishments to the town's one for every 100 new workers on the average. The town however stands to gain also from 68 new jobs in non-manufacturing for each 100 new factory workers. It should be noted the figures for

We would rather see 10 plants each employing 10 workers than one employing a 100 because just as the impact of 100 new workers in a community can be broad and beneficial, the loss of 100 workers could be the reverse. More employers, with smaller work forces engaged in diverse enterprises, would give the town the stability, both economic and social, that the comparison of the two chamber studies appear give towns

Recreational Trends Creating Basic New National Life Style

By JAMES BRANDON Ask any dedicated camper, fisherman, boating enthu-siast, hunter, how to make the most out of the pristine glories of the Great Outdoors and he will focus his reply somewhat as follows:

Once you know what you want to do and where you want to do it, it's all a matter of getting fitted out with the right gear. Following the experienced outdoorsman's advice promises the avoidance of any serious problems during the recious time one devotes to escaping from the tensions of daily living, assuring a return for all - refreshed and The advice is by no means new. But the emphasis is more significant than ever before because the cumulative growth in the vast number of people who have developed a burning appetite for periodic returns to nature is rapidly making participation in outdoor recreation a basic nation wide life-style involving all members of the family. The response to the emergence of this new basic life style from institutions serving the general public - state and federal, even many local governments, organizations of citizens dedicated to conservation and expansion of the

Boating Offers Wide Choice in Outdoor Fun

The lure of outboard boating has come a long way since the early advertisements of a half-century ago teased boaters with the question, "Why Row?" Today, with more than 50 million U.S. and Canadian participants, the attraction of boating is a lot like the call of the barker at the county fair. "Come one, come all," he says. "There's fun for the whole family." The attraction today isn't just the outboard, but what the outboard will let you do. member the breathtaking effect formed by a few rays of unlight filtering down between the leaves in a heavily vooded area? And the misty foggy stillness of the early morning? Capture these moods in pictures. I've found the most effective time for taking mood pic tures is during the hours from sunrise until 10 a.m. and from 3 p.m. to sunset. During these times shadows and contrast are more pronounced. Interesting effects can also be achieved by photographing the sun at right angles to the lens of the camera. Varied lighting will provide depth and interest.

CCIL Field Day

Tuesday, during the annual CCIL Field Day, more than 400 high school track performers displayed their skills, in what could be termed a "funday." The Manchester High Schools Athletic Boosters' Club, made out well selling grinders, hot dogs, hamburghers and cokes during the five-hour meet. Lloyd Odell and Clyde Miller were the men behind the success of the stand.

What's the Ruling?

The batter hits a hot shot to the pitcher's box which makes the pitcher jump and strikes the rubber. It rockets off the rubber and bounces into foul territory between
