Nurse Aides Recognized. Proudly displaying their achievements as nurse aides are Mrs. Janine Rizza, left, 119 Cedar St., who has just received her cap as a Level II nurse aide, and Mrs. Angela Sanden, 56 Weaver Rd., who is having a stripe attached to her cap as a Level III aide by Mrs. Mary Sterud, director of nursing service at Manchester Memorial Hospital. The event occurred at the Nurse Aide Level Recognition Night held Thursday in the dining room at the hospital. Aides who have given more than one year of service are promoted to Level II, and those who have served more than three years are promoted to Level III.

SAIGON (AP) — The Saigon government indicated today it is prepared to sign a joint appeal calling for a cessation of hostilities in Vietnam. But of more importance than the appeal itself is the written understanding behind it that stipulates the details of measures to be taken by the four parties in application of the joint appeal, one source said. In Paris, Henry A. Kissinger and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho scheduled another negotiating session this afternoon. The third in as many days. They hoped to work out a plan to implement the original Vietnam cease-fire agreement signed Jan. 27 by the United States, North Vietnam, South Vietnam and the Viet Cong.

Area Police Agencies Given Federal Funds

DOUG BEVINS (Herald Reporter) Manchester, Vernon and South Windsor police departments will receive federal grants, totaling nearly $600,000, for various crime prevention programs, the Connecticut Planning Committee on Criminal Administration (CPCCA) has announced. The grants for the 1973-74 year were approved by the CPCCA's executive committee last week. Grants to the Manchester Police Department are $154,500 for "community relations-service capability," $73,750 for "sub-professional personnel," and $6,000 for an additional police dispatcher.

Jersey Political Figure Murdered

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP) — Major B. Coxson, a flamboyant ex-convict defeated recently in Camden's mayoral race, was slain "gangland style" today in the bedroom of his mansion here. Police said Coxson last month lost a bid to become Camden's first black mayor. Coxson's wife, Lois, 35, and two children, Lita, 15, and Torio, 12, were wounded in the pre-dawn shooting. The Cherry Hill Medical Center said the mother and daughter were in serious condition. The son's condition was listed as fair.

Marijuana Farm Found By Police
NEW MILFORD (AP)—Two brothers face court appearances June 14 on charges stemming from the discovery of what police described as 2,500 marijuana plants.
Police said Carl DiPietro, 1, and Mark DiPietro, 18, both of New Milford, were charged with cultivation of marijuana. Police said the brothers were arrested Tuesday in a wooded area off Barker Road near 2,500 plants arranged in several plots on a quarter acre of land.

Haldeman Version Reported

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House conducted only "mini-investigations" of the Watergate affair last year, former chief of staff H. R. Haldeman has testified.
And he said he may have been told long before the Watergate wiretapping raid that G. Gordon Liddy was proposing "incredible" means of gathering intelligence. But Haldeman said he can't now recall for sure. Liddy was later convicted as a ringleader of the Watergate operation.

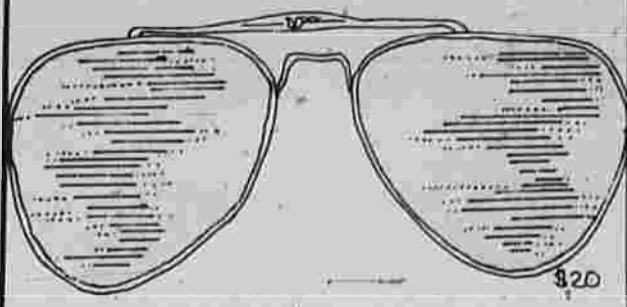

Haldeman said that until this year presidential Counsel John W. Dean III was not asked to undertake a formal, full-scale investigation and never spoke directly to the President about the matter. And Dean never, at any time, gave a written report, Haldeman said.
For months, Nixon maintained that Dean had conducted an investigation that had cleared all administration employees of involvement in the wiretapping of Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate office building.

Haldeman's testimony was given last month in the Democratic party's $8.4 million lawsuit seeking damages as a result of the Watergate raid. A transcript was released Thursday.

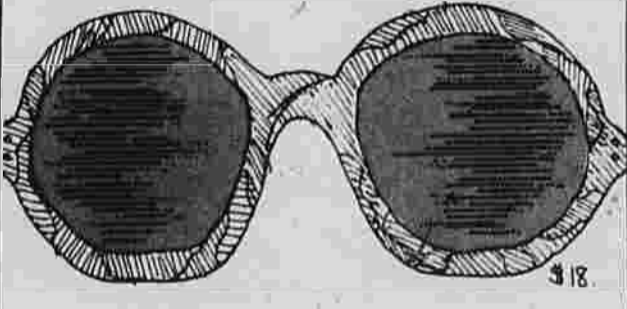

He said Dean made periodic, oral reports to him last year in response to specific questions about the case. He said the President's principal sources of information were answers to questions Nixon put to Haldeman or to John D. Ehrlichman, the chief Presidential domestic adviser.
"I would relay the question to John (Dean) and relay the answer back to the President," Haldeman said. "But I was not, in what you would call these mini-investigations or inquiries on specific subject... I was not given an assignment... in a formal sense to conduct a sort of sweeping inquiry as to what the situation was then."

No such formal inquiry was undertaken until Nixon became suspicious of Dean's own involvement this year and assigned Ehrlichman to investigate, Haldeman said. That assignment was made March 30, exactly one month before the scandal forced Haldeman, Ehrlichman and Dean off the White House staff.
Haldeman said Dean now says he told Haldeman last year, long before the break-in, about meetings in the office of Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell at which Liddy reportedly first proposed wiretapping as part of the re-election campaign.
"Dean told me that after the second of these two meetings he reported to me that he had attended these two meetings... that at the second meeting there had been a plan discussed by Mr. Liddy which he found to be totally unacceptable and I believe his word was incredible; that it was a plan to go out of the question that he says he told me at the time that he had said it should not even be discussed in the attorney general's office and he made very strongly at the meeting the point that there should be no further such discussion of such kinds of things," Haldeman said.

Directors Consider Political Futures

The Democratic Club of Manchester has invited the six Democratic members of the Board of Directors to its meeting Wednesday, to learn of their plans for the Nov. 6 election. The meeting will be at 8 p.m. at the Knight of Columbus Home on Main St.
The club plans to become actively involved in the election—with campaign workers and financial assistance.
Democratic Town Chairman Ted Cummings predicted this week that all six Democratic directors will run for re-election.
An informal poll by The Herald, also this week, produced the following results: Only John Tani and Phyllis Jackson said they definitely will run for re-election. Mayor John Thompson, Deputy Mayor Pascale Prignano, Board Secretary Anthony Pietroniro and Jon Norris all said they are undecided. None gave a definite "no."
Party endorsement of candidates will take place in August.

Electric Boat Faces Possible Strike

GROTON (AP)—The Marine Draftmen's Association has warned the General Dynamics Electric Boat Division of a possible strike June 30.
The association said Thursday that the 1,800 workers it represents could go on strike June 30 if management refuses to allow a retroactivity clause in their new contract.
The union is seeking an across-the-board increase of about 30 per cent, retroactive to July 15, 1972. Twenty per cent of the boost would be in salaries and 10 per cent in such fringe benefits as insurance and pension plans.
The division and the union have negotiated for 30 years without a strike.

Saia Found Guilty Of Murder

BRIDGEPORT (AP)—Anthony Saia, 28, of Bridgeport was convicted Thursday of first-degree murder in the 1970 shooting death of a 34-year-old male nurse.
The nurse, Francisco Martinez, 34, of Bridgeport, was shot Dec. 9, 1970 in an isolated area off Morehouse Road in Fairfield.
The trial panel deliberated slightly more than three hours before handing up the guilty verdict to Superior Court Judge Arthur H. Healey. The trial had lasted six weeks.
Asst. Public Defender Herbert J. Bundock said he would file a motion to set aside the verdict on the grounds that it did not conform to the evidence and was illegal.
Saia is currently serving a 10-20 year term at the Somers state prison on an arson charge imposed last year.

Gas Crisis Is More Than What Meets The Eye

Suppose they cried "Wolf!" and nobody came? It happened in the fable and it could happen for real if environmentalists and others whose business it is to alert us to the future don't learn to temper their alarms with common sense. For instance, says Stewart L. Udall, the current shortage of gasoline is a national "nightmare."

"Rationing has already begun," says the former secretary of the Interior, who now runs his own environmental consulting firm in Bethesda, Md. "The whole catrue segment of the gasoline industry is being forced out of business. It may become a thing of the past before this year is out."

While there have been and are gasoline and other fuel pinches in parts of the country and may be worse ones to come, the latter statement will be news to thousands of independent stations who have been pumping the same volume throughout the "crisis" and at the same prices, despite irresponsible predictions by some people that gasoline will soon cost a dollar a gallon.

August is the month when the real gasoline crunch will be felt, says Udall, who then proceeds to give the very kind of advice that could precipitate that crunch and other kinds as well:

"My advice is for people to take their vacations before August and plan to stay closer to home."

Having had that last fling, Americans, he suggests, are going to have to change their life-style drastically from here on out, particularly with respect to automobiles. It may well be that America's honeymoon with the internal combustion engine is nearing its end. Petroleum simply has too many valuable uses for so much of it to be burned up just in moving people around. Neither do we want to go completely into hock with the Arabs, who seem to be sitting on most of the world's oil.

But it is interesting that those who are most alarmed about the gasoline shortage in the 1970s are the same ones who worried in the 1960s that we were about to be asphyxiated by automobile exhausts—with one result that today's low-pollution but gas-guzzling cars have contributed no little bit to Udall's present "nightmare."

Scare talk is a good way to get people's attention; it is the worst possible way to encourage them to make rational decisions.

Another danger is that when they discover that the situation is not really as bad as they were led to believe, they may conclude that there is nothing to be concerned about at all.

Inside Report

Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

Presidential Business as Usual

WASHINGTON — Twice during his closed-door meeting with Republican congressional leaders President Nixon performed in a way that raised fresh doubts about his understanding of the real impact of Watergate. When the discussion turned to the best pipeline route to carry the new North Slope oil from Alaska, Mr. Nixon first heard Sen. John Tower of Texas and Sen. Ted Stevens of Alaska, strongly backed by Secretary of Interior Rogers Morton, argue that the Alaskan route was the only one possible.

But a powerful disclaimer came from Rep. John Anderson of Illinois, chairman of the House Republican Conference. Speaking for the Midwest, Anderson argued in favor of the Canadian route, with the precious fuel shipped to terminal points in the Midwest. Otherwise, said Anderson, the middle West would continue utterly dependent on the East Coast for its fuel.

Mr. Nixon listened, then tautly — and somewhat tartly — proclaimed his decision: the route would have to be via Alaska, not Canada. The reason, he said, was embedded in foreign policy and national security.

Mr. Nixon next lectured his Republican leaders: you will just have to take that on faith. He could not, he added, go into the secret rationale of his decision.

For Mr. Nixon to cloak so prosaic a decision in terms of super-secret foreign policy and national security, following his highly criticized May 22 statement blaming part of the Watergate coverage on national security, rubbed some Republican leaders present the wrong way.

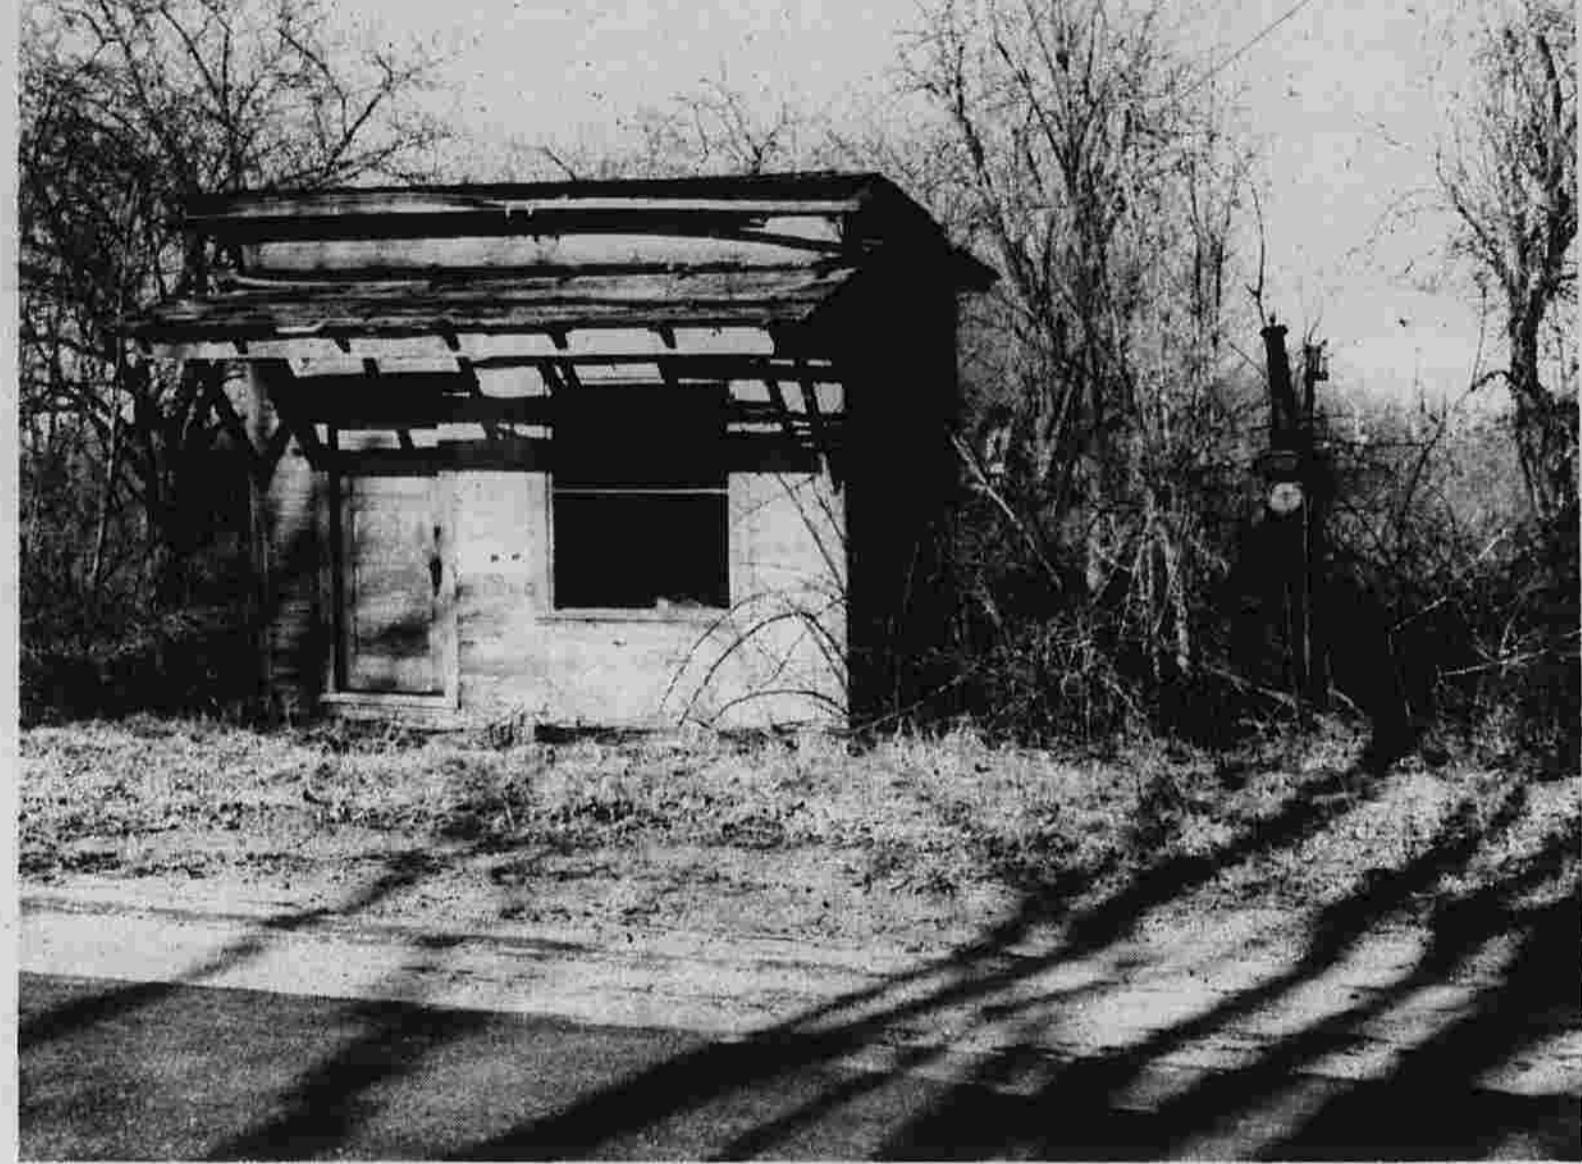

The impression that the deeper implications of Watergate have not yet penetrated the presidential psyche, moreover, was strengthened when Mr. Nixon made a frankly political pitch just before the end of the White House session.

In a rare but oblique reference to Watergate, the President reminded his high-level Republican audience that when he took office, thousands of Americans were getting killed in Vietnam. Not only that, he went on, there had been no sign of any break in the long U.S.-China cold war, and detente with Moscow was a remote dream.

Mr. Nixon's message was clear: get out and tell the voters not to forget what I have done for them in the past; don't let this Watergate thing block their view of the real Nixon administration.

There are many such presidential signals that Watergate is perceived in the White House as a far less traumatic national disaster than most politicians consider it. Even if Mr. Nixon is merely trying to give this impression to his congressional leaders as part of his political strategy, the overall effect of presidential business-as-usual is the same. Whether the no-balance is spontaneous or cultivated, Mr. Nixon's earlier pretense of trying to achieve a clean break with past presidential habits seems now forgotten.

This, the President is seeing far more of his former White House aides, fairly or unfairly mentioned in Watergate, than even some of his new White House aides know about. Charles E. Colson, the

The Greatest Indianapolis 500

May 28, 1968 — Today's Indianapolis 500-Mile Auto Race & Destruction Derby was described by spectators and officials alike as "the very most exciting ever."

Seventeen drivers and 12 spectators were killed in the first 10 laps alone. "Golly gee!" said wide-eyed, 10-year-old Fred Friebel Jr., whose parents had brought him all the way from Kenosha to witness this greatest of American sports classics. "I guess I never did see so much explosions and flames and blood. It sure does beat ve-

Little Freddie could have been speaking for any of the more than 500,000 sports fans who waited four hours this morning for rain to slicken the track. Their roars of approval and happy shrieks of horror at every spectacular crash proved once again that auto racing is far from dead in this country as a popular spectator sport.

The 500's new promoter, Homer T. Pettibone, attributed the success of this year's race to an innovative rule change. For the first time, the 152 high-speed entries were divided into two groups — with the even-numbered cars circling the track clockwise and the odd-numbered cars counter-clockwise.

New York Limits Powers Of Agency

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has signed a bill that strips the state's Urban Development Corp. of its powers to operate freely in the suburbs, his office announced today.

Rockefeller had resisted legislative attempts to limit UDC's powers, but the bill includes something the governor did want—an increase from $1 billion to $1.5 billion in the corporation's bonding authority.

The UDC, created in 1966 with power to override local zoning ordinances in building residential, commercial and industrial projects, had stirred up intense controversy with its plans for 800 residential units in nine Westchester County towns. Some 180 of the units would have been for low-income families.

Westchester County Republican legislators threatened to hold up a bill increasing the UDC's bonding power unless its suburban operations were curtailed in some way, and Rockefeller agreed to do so.

The bill simply allows any town to block any residential project planned by UDC within its territory. The bill does not apply to commercial or residential projects and towns could even block projects which conform with local zoning ordinances. The UDC's powers in cities are unaffected.

Opponents of the bill had called it a racist measure designed to keep blacks out of the suburbs, but Rockefeller said it would simply "channel UDC's residential activities into the cities."

The bill exempts the "new community" projects at Lyander in Orangeburg County and at Amberst in Erie County from the limitations on UDC's powers.

Child Baptized On Court Order

PROVIDENCE (AP) — A controversial adoption case in Family Court was concluded Wednesday after an adoption agency said it had complied with the judge's demand that the child be baptized.

"Such a requirement," an ACLU statement said, "not only places serious limitations on the adoptability of the child, but also clearly violates the constitutional prohibitions against establishment of religion and voids First Amendment guarantees of separations of church and state."

In court, the adoption agency's attorney presented a baptismal certificate showing that the infant had been baptized on Monday.

The child's mother, an unwed Roman Catholic, testified she is unable to care for the baby and said that her parents agree with her decision to relinquish her rights to the child.

Morton Pours Salt In Expos Wounds

NEW YORK (AP) — Carl Morton returned to Montreal Thursday night and poured salt in the Expos' wounds.
"I wanted to come back here and show these people I'm a big league pitcher. I think a lot of people didn't believe it last year," the Atlanta righthander said after limiting his former teammates to three singles in six innings and picking up the victory when the Braves rallied for two runs in the seventh and won 2-0.
Coming off a 7-13 season after winning 28 games in two years and Rookie of the Year honors in 1970, Morton was traded to the Braves for pitcher Pat Jarvis during spring training. He was asked if he bore any animosity toward the Expos.
"I'd rather not answer that," he said, in effect answering it. In the only other National League game, the Los Angeles Dodgers blanked the Chicago Cubs 4-0 and the San Diego Padres edged the St. Louis Cardinals 4-3.
There were only three games in the American League, too. The California Angels beat the Detroit Tigers 3-0, the Chicago White Sox topped the Baltimore Orioles 3-2 and the Texas Rangers shaded the New York Yankees 7-5.
Despite the setback, the Tigers remained in first place in the American League East, one-half game ahead of the Yankees.
Dodgers-Cubs
Andy Messersmith pitched his eighth home run to lead the Dodgers over the Cubs.
"Considering all the factors—the wind blowing out in Wrigley Field and the Cubs a hot team—this was my best game of the season," Messersmith said.
Padres-Cards
Ivan Murrell's leadoff home run in the ninth inning off reliever Wayne Granger, his second of the season, lifted the Padres to a come-from-behind victory that ended the Cardinals' five-game winning streak.
White Sox-Orioles
The White Sox scored two runs on only one hit in the fifth inning and went on to beat the Orioles as reliever Terry Forster halted two threats. The victory ended a five-game Chicago losing streak and stopped Baltimore's winning skid at four.
Angels-Tigers
Nolan Ryan tamed Detroit on five hits and Jeff Torborg drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single to lead the Angels over the Tigers.

Yanks Blow 5-0 Lead Stanhouse Stars In Relief Effort

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Rich Billings knew Don Stanhouse wasn't going to pitch like the Don Stanhouse the Texas Rangers have seen lately.
"He came into the game in the first inning. Five runs had already scored and there was only one out, but Stanhouse seemed very relaxed and very confident, which was a lot better than I felt at that particular moment," said Billings, the Texas catcher, after the Rangers' come-from-behind 7-5 victory over the New York Yankees Thursday night.
"He stayed relaxed and confident all night, too. He got tired in the ninth and Whitey (Texas Manager Whitey Herzog) pulled him just in time. His pitches were getting dangerously high."
It was the first time this season that Billings had caught Stanhouse for any length of time.
"He's easily the toughest pitcher on our staff to catch because his ball moves so much," Billings explained. "So Herzog has been using Ken (Stargell) with him. I understand the reason why Stargell is a more polished receiver than I am. I caught Stanhouse a lot last year and maybe he felt more comfortable with me in there."
"Whatever it was, he threw great. If he throws that hard and with that kind of control on his fast ball, he can win big in the majors."
Herzog has tried to make a starter out of Stanhouse, who broke a personal 12-game losing streak and a four-game Ranger skid with his first victory in six decisions.
"He's been super out of the bullpen, but he just has not learned to cope with the pressure of being a starting pitcher in the major leagues yet," Herzog said. "He worries too much when he has three or four days to think about his next start."
"When I bring him in out of

'Doctor' Effects Rescue

SAN LEANDRO, Calif. (AP) — Benjamin Brown, 20, was riding a rapid transit car to his job as a cook at a restaurant here when a man rushed up shouting, "Doctor, doctor, come quick!"

Brown, who was wearing a white coat, proceeded to examine the patient. "Wait a minute, I'm no doctor, I'm a... "No time for explanations," the man interrupted. "A little more, it's the next case."

What could I do? Brown said Wednesday, recalling Tuesday's incident. "I just followed him and saw a girl about 5 years old on the floor of the car and her mother leaning over her crying for help."

Over Brown knelt and began mouth-to-mouth resuscitation he had learned in a high school first aid course.

The little girl revived and smugly into the arms of her mother, who barely had time to thank Brown before he left the train to go to work.

ECHS Echo Award Winner

East Catholic High School's student newspaper, The Echo, has received a first place award in the annual Columbia University Scholastic Press Association national competition.

The Echo was judged perfect in the competition's three major categories — content, writing & editing, and makeup. Nearly 3,000 high school newspapers were involved in the contest.

To attain a perfect score, a definitive balance and perspective must appear consistently in each edition of the school newspaper. Feature stories must display unique and high levels of creativity; news material must be thoroughly prepared with extensive research and logical development.

In the makeup category, judges looked at appearance of the newspaper, style, layout, and typography. The Echo is published quarterly under direction of Mrs. Marjorie Kobanski, advisor. This is the first time in each edition of the school newspaper has won a first place award as such a competition.
